THE LIFE OF MUHAMMAD

A TRANSLATION OF ISHĀQ’S
SIRAT RASŪL ALLĀH

WITH INTRODUCTION AND NOTES BY A. GUILLAUME

Karachi
Oxford University Press
Oxford New York Delhi
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a pleasure to acknowledge the debt that I owe to the friends whom I have consulted in the many and various difficulties which beset a translator of such a long text as the Sira on which there is no commentary worthy of the name. My thanks are especially due to my old friend Professor A. A. Afi‘i of Alexandria, Professor A. Kh. Kioani of Damascus, Dr. Abdullah al-Tayib of Khartoum, Dr. M. A. Azzam of Cairo, and Professor A. K. S. Lambton of London. Particularly I would thank Dr. W. Arafat for his self-sacrificing labour in reading the whole of my translation in manuscript, and for bringing its shortcomings to my notice. If, with reference to this book of mine, I am ever able to solace myself with the words kafa‘l-mar‘a fašlan an tu‘adda ma‘ayibih, it will be in great measure due to his ready help and eagle eye.

Last, but not least, I gratefully acknowledge the generosity of the School of Oriental and African Studies in meeting the cost of production. Without this help it would have been impossible to publish the book. I hope that in the years to come it will stand as a modest tribute to the School’s great interest in Oriental studies and also help to further co-operation and friendliness between my country and the Islamic world.
CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS
INTRODUCTION

The Author
The Sira
The Editor Ibn Hishām
A Fragment of the Lost Book of Mūsā b. 'Uqba

PART I

THE GENEALOGY OF MUHAMMAD; TRADITIONS FROM THE PRE-ISLAMIC ERA; MUHAMMAD'S CHILDHOOD AND EARLY MANHOOD

Genealogy
The soothsayers Shiqq and Sālih
Abū Karib's expedition to Yathrib
His sons Ḥassān and Ṭarm
Lakhnā Dhu Shāmṣīr
Dhū Nuwās
Christianity in Najrān
'Abdullāh b. al-Thāmir and the Christian martyrs
Abyssinian domination of the Yaman
Abraha's abortive attack on Mecca
Persian domination of the Yaman
The descendants of Nizār b. Ma'add
Origin of idolatry among the Arabs
Arab taboos
The descendants of Muḍar
The digging of Zamzam
Kināna and Khuzā' expel Jurhum and occupy the Ka'ba
The ḥajj in the Jahlīlya
Quraysh predominate in Mecca Internal dissensions
The wells of Mecca
'Abdullāh-Muṭṭalib vows to sacrifice his son
'Abdullāh father of the prophet
Āmina mother of the prophet
His birth and fostermother
His mother's death
Death of 'Abdullāh-Muṭṭalib and elegies thereon
Abū Ṭalib becomes Muhammad's guardian
The monk Baldīra

v xi xiii xli xliii 3 4 6 12 13 14 14 16 18 21 30 34 35 40 45 46 49 52 56 65 66 68 69 73 73 79
Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The sacrilegious war</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muhammad marries Khadija</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rebuilding of the Ka'ba</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Ka'bah</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jews, Christians, and Arabs predict Muhammad's mission</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Salman the Persian</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early monotheists</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Gospel prophecy of the sending of 'the Comforter'</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PART I</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MUHAMMAD'S CALL AND PREACHING IN MECCA</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His call and the beginning of the Quran</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Khadija accepts Islam</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prayer prescribed</td>
<td>112</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Alī the first male Muslim, then Abū Bakr and his converts</td>
<td>114</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muhammad preaches and Quraysh reject him</td>
<td>117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abū Ta'īlīb protects him from Quraysh</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Persecution of Muhammad</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ḥamza accepts Islam</td>
<td>131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Utba attempts a compromise</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conference with Quraysh leaders. The chapter of The Cave</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Abdullah b. Mas'ud recites the Quran publicly</td>
<td>142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meccans persecute Muhammad's followers</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The first emigrants to Abyssinia</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Quraysh try to get them sent back</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>How the Negus gained his throne</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Umar accepts Islam</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The document proclaiming a boycott</td>
<td>159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Active opposition to Muhammad</td>
<td>161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His temporary concession to polytheism</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The return of the first emigrants</td>
<td>167</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Uthmān b. Maqūm and Abū Bakr renounce their protectors</td>
<td>169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Annulling of the boycott</td>
<td>172</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ṭufayl b. 'Amr accepts Islam</td>
<td>175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abū Jahl's dishonesty</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rukāna wrestles with Muhammad</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Some Christians accept Islam</td>
<td>179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sūras 108 and 6</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The night journey and the ascent to heaven</td>
<td>181</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allah punishes the mockers</td>
<td>187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The story of Abū Umayr</td>
<td>187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Death of Abū Ta'īlīb and Khadija</td>
<td>191</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muhammad preaches in al-Ṭā'īf</td>
<td>192</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PART III

MUHAMMAD'S MIGRATION TO MEDINA, HIS WARS, TRIUMPH, AND DEATH

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Muhammad preaches to the Beduins</td>
<td>194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Iyās accepts Islam</td>
<td>197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beginning of Islam among the Helpers</td>
<td>197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The first pledge at al-'Aqaba</td>
<td>198</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Institution of Friday prayers in Medina</td>
<td>199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The second pledge at al-'Aqaba</td>
<td>201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Names of the twelve leaders</td>
<td>204</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Amr's idol</td>
<td>207</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conditions of the pledge and names of those present</td>
<td>208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allah orders Muhammad to fight</td>
<td>212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Emigrants to Medina</td>
<td>213</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Those with whom they lodged</td>
<td>218</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

IX
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Contents</th>
<th>xi</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Names of the Emigrants who fought at Badr</td>
<td>327</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Names of the Helpers who fought at Badr</td>
<td>330</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Names of the Quraysh prisoners</td>
<td>338</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Verses on the battle</td>
<td>340</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid on B. Sulaym</td>
<td>360</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid called al-Sawiq</td>
<td>361</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid on Dhû Amarr</td>
<td>362</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid on al-Furu</td>
<td>362</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attack on B. Qaynuqâ'</td>
<td>363</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid on al-Qarada</td>
<td>364</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Killing of Ka'b b. al-Ashraf</td>
<td>364</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muẖayyiça and Huwayyiṣa</td>
<td>369</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Battle of Uhud</td>
<td>370</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Quran on Uhud</td>
<td>397</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Names of the Muslims slain at Uhud</td>
<td>401</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Names of the polytheists slain at Uhud</td>
<td>403</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Verses on Uhud</td>
<td>404</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The day of al-Rajî'</td>
<td>426</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poems thereon</td>
<td>429</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Treachery at Bi‘r Ma‘ūna</td>
<td>433</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. al-Naṣîr exiled</td>
<td>437</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poetry thereon</td>
<td>439</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid of Dhâtu‘l-Riqâ’</td>
<td>445</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Last expedition to Badr</td>
<td>447</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raid on Dûmatu‘l-Jandâl</td>
<td>449</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Battle of the Ditch</td>
<td>456</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attack on B. Qurayyâ’</td>
<td>461</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poetry thereon</td>
<td>470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Killing of Sallâm</td>
<td>482</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'Amîr b. al-‘Aṣ and Khâlid b. al-Walid accept Islam</td>
<td>484</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attack on B. Liḥyân</td>
<td>485</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attack on Dhû Qarad</td>
<td>486</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attack on B. al-Muṣṭâliq</td>
<td>490</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scandal about ʿAbîaḥa</td>
<td>493</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The affair of al-Hudaybiya</td>
<td>499</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The willing homage</td>
<td>503</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The armistice</td>
<td>504</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Those left helpless</td>
<td>507</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women who migrated after the armistice</td>
<td>509</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Expedition to Khaybar</td>
<td>510</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>al-Aswad the shepherd</td>
<td>519</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Division of the spoils of Khaybar</td>
<td>521</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Affair of Fadak</td>
<td>523</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Names of the Dârîyun</td>
<td>524</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Return of the second batch of emigrants</td>
<td>526</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Contents
---------
- The fulfilled pilgrimage
- Raid on Mu‘ta
- The occupation of Mecca
- Khâlid followed by ‘Ali go forth as missionaries
- Khâlid destroys al-‘Uzzâ
- Battle of Ḥunayn
- Verses thereon
- Capture of al-Tâ‘îf
- Division of the spoils of Hawâzîn
- Ka'b b. Zuhayr
- His ode
- Raid on Tabûk
- The opposition mosque
- Those who hung back from the raid on Tabûk
- Destruction of al-Lâr
- Abû Bakr leads the pilgrimage
- Ḥassân’s odes on the campaigns
- The Year of the Deputations
- The B. Tamîm
- ‘Amîr b. al-‘Usfayl and Arbad b. Qays
- Deputation from B. Sa‘d
- Deputation from ‘Abdu‘l-Qays
- Deputation from B. Ḥanîfa
- Deputation from ‘Aṣyî‘i
- ‘Adîy b. Ḥâtîm
- Deputation of Farwa
- Deputation from B. Zubayd
- Deputation from Kinda
- Deputation from al-Azd
- Deputation from Ḥimyâr
- Farwa b. ‘Amr accepts Islam
- B. Ḥârîth accept Islam
- The false prophets Musaylima and al-Aswad
- The farewell pilgrimage
- Usâma’s expedition to Palestine
- Muhammad’s missions to foreign rulers
- A summary of Muhammad’s raids and expeditions
- Ghâlib’s raid on B. al-Mulawwâl
- Zayd’s raid on Judhâm
- Zayd’s raid on B. Faţâra
- ‘Abdullah b. Rawâba’s raid to kill al-Yusayr
- ‘Abdullah b. Unays’s raid to kill Khâlid b. Sufyân
- ‘Uyayna’s raid on B. al-‘Anbar
- Ghâlib’s raid on B. Murra
- ‘Amîr b. al-‘Aṣ’s raid on Dhâtu‘l-Salâsîl
INTRODUCTION

THE AUTHOR

MUHAMMAD, son of Ishaq, son of Yasar, was born in Medina about A.H. 85 and died in Baghdad in 151.1 His grandfather Yasar fell into the hands of Khalid b. al-Walid when he captured Aynu'l-Tamr in A.H. 12, having been held there as a prisoner by the Persian king. Khalid sent him with a number of prisoners to Abu Bakr at Medina. There he was handed over to Qays b. Makhrama b. al-Mu'talib b. 'Abdu Manaf as a slave, and was manumitted when he accepted Islam. His family adopted the family name of their patrons. His son Ishaq was born about the year 50, his mother being the daughter of another freedman. He and his brother Musa were well-known traditionists, so that our author's path in life was prepared before he reached manhood.2

He associated with the second generation of traditionists, notably al-Zuhri, 'Asim b. Umar b. Qatada, and 'Abdullah b. Abu Bakr. He must have devoted himself to the study of apostolic tradition from his youth, for at the age of thirty he went to Egypt to attend the lectures of Yazid b. Abu Habib.3 There he was regarded as an authority, for this same Yazid afterwards related traditions on Ishaq's authority.4 On his return to Medina he went on with the collection and arrangement of the material he had collected. Al-Zuhri, who was in Medina in 123, is reported to have said that Medina would never lack 'ilm as long as Ishaq was there, and he eagerly gathered from him the details of the prophet's wars. Unfortunately Ishaq excited the enmity of Malik b. Anas, for whose work he showed his contempt, and it was not long before his own writings and his orthodoxy were called in question. Probably it was our author's lost book of Sunan5 which excited Malik's ire, for it would have been in the field of law based on the practice of the prophet that differences would be most keenly felt. He was accused of being a Qadari and a Shi'i. Another man attacked his veracity: he often quoted Fatima, the wife of Hisham b. Urwa, as the authority for some of his traditions. The husband was annoyed and denied that he had ever met his wife; but as she was nearly forty years Ishaq's senior it is easily credible that they often met without occasioning gossip. It is not known whether Ishaq was compelled to leave Medina or whether he went away voluntarily. Obviously he could not have the same standing in a place that housed his chief

1 I.S. VII. ii. p. 67.
2 On Musa and Ishaq see J. Fück, Muhammad Ibn Ishaq, Frankfurt a. M. 1925, p. 28.
3 See Biographien von Gewahrsmännern des Ibn Ishaq . . . , ed. Fischer, Leiden, 1890. With all those whose death-rates ranged from A.H. 27 to 152 he was in contact personally or at second hand.
4 Wüstenfeld, ii. vii, from I. al-Najjar and Fück, 30.
5 Hajji Khalifa, ii. 1008.
informants as he would hold elsewhere, and so he left for the east, stopping in Kufa, al-Jazira on the Tigris, and Ray, finally settling in Baghdad. While Mansur was at Hashimiyah he attached himself to his following and presented him with a copy of his work doubtless in the hope of a grant from the caliph. Thence he moved to Ray and then to the new capital of the empire. He died in 150 (or perhaps 151) and was buried in the cemetery of Hayzuran.

THE SIRA

Its Precursors

It is certain that Ibn Ishaq’s biography of the prophet had no serious rival; but it was preceded by several maghāzī books. We do not know when they were first written, though we have the names of several first-century worthies who had written notes and passed on their knowledge to the rising generation. The first of these was Aban the son of the caliph ‘Uthman. He was born in c. 20 and took part in the campaign of Talha and Zubayr against his father’s slayers. He died about 100. The language used by al-Waqidi in reference to Ibn al-Mughira, ‘he had nothing written down about hadith except the prophet’s maghāzī which he had acquired from Aban,’ certainly implies, though it does not demand, that Ibn al-Mughira wrote down what Aban told him. It is strange that neither Ibn Ishaq nor al-Waqidi should have cited this man who must have had inside knowledge of many matters that were not known to the public; possibly as a follower of Ali he preferred to ignore the son of the man the Alids regarded as a usurper. However, his name often appears in the isnāds of the canonical collections of hadith. (The man named in Tab. 2340 and I.S. iv. 29 is Aban b. ‘Uthman al-Bajali who seems to have written a book on maghāzī.)

A man of much greater importance was ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr b. al-Awwām (23–94), a cousin of the prophet. ‘Urwa’s mother was Aba Bakr’s daughter Asma’. He and his brother Abdullah were in close contact with the prophet’s widow ‘A’isha. He was a recognized authority on the early history of Islam, and the Umayyad caliph ‘Abdu’l-Malik applied to him when he needed information on that subject. Again, it is uncertain whether he wrote a book, but the many traditions that are handed down in his name by I.I. and other writers justify the assertion that he was the founder of Islamic history. Though he is the earliest writer whose notes have come down to us, I have not translated the passages from Tab. which reproduce them because they do not seem to add anything of importance to the Sira. They form part of a letter which ‘Urwa wrote to ‘Abdu l-Malik who wanted to have accurate knowledge about the prophet’s career. Much of his material rests on the statements of his aunt ‘A’isha.

---

1 E. Sachau, I.S. iii. xxiii. f. 2 Fück, S. n. 27; and see J. Horovitz in Islamic Culture, 1927, 538. 3 I.S. Tab., and Bu. are heavily indebted to him. 4 See T. i. 1180, 1234, 1234, 1284, 1634, 1654, 1670, 1770; iii. 2458. Cf. I.H. 754.
Muhammad b. Muslim ... b. Shihāb al-Zuhri (51–124) was a member of a distinguished Meccan family. He attached himself to 'Abdu'l-Malik, Hishām, and Yazid, and wrote down some traditions for his princely pupils. He was the forerunner of the later traditionists in that he took extraordinary pains to interrogate people, young and old of both sexes, who might possess knowledge of the past. He left a history of his own family and a book of maghāsī. Most of his traditional lore survived in the notes of his lectures that his pupils wrote down quoting his authority for the traditions they record. He spent some years in Medina as a young man. I.I. met him when he came south on pilgrimage and he is often named as an authority in the Sīra. He was the most important traditionist of his generation, and his influence is to be seen in all collections of canonical hadith. (See further J. Horovitz, Islamic Culture, ii. 33 ff.)

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amr b. Hāzm (d. 130 or 135) was one of I.I.'s most important informants. His father had been ordered by 'Umar b. 'Abdu'l-'Azīz to write a collection of prophetic hadith, especially what 'Amra d. 'Abdu'l-Raḥmān said. This latter was a friend of ʿAbd al-Qa'īsa and she was the aunt of this Abū Bakr. Already in the time of his son 'Abdulrahman, these writings had been lost. Though we have no record of a book by 'Abdulrahman, its substance probably once existed in the maghāsī of his nephew 'Abdu'l-Malik. As one would expect, the isnad is a matter of indifference to 'Abdullah: he stood too near the events among many who knew of them to need to cite his authorities. Tab. (i. 1837) contains an interesting note on how I.I. got his information. 'Abdullah told his wife Fātima to tell him what he knew on 'Amra's authority.

Abūl-Aswad Muhammad b. 'Abdu'l-Raḥmān b. Naufal (d. 131 or 137) left a maghāsī book which sticks closely to 'Urwa's tradition.1

Contemporary with our author in the third generation was Mūsā b. 'Uqba (c. 55–141), a freedman of the family of al-Zubayr. A fragment of his work has survived and was published by Sachau in 1904.2 As it once rivaled I.I.'s work and is one of our earliest witnesses to the Sīra I have given a translation of the extant traditions.3 Although Mālik b. Anas, al-Shā'ī, and Abūmad b. Ḥanbal—an impressive trio—asserted that his book was the most important and trustworthy of all, posterity evidently did not share their opinion or more of his work would have survived.4 I.I. never mentions him. One cannot escape the conviction that petty professional jealousy was as rife in those days as now, and that scholars deliberately refrained from giving their predecessors credit for their achievements. Mūsā leaned heavily on al-Zuhri. He seems to have carried farther the process of idealizing the prophet.5 He is freely quoted by al-Wāqidi, I. Sa'd, al-Baladhuri, Tabari, and I. Sayyidul-Nās. He gave

1 See Fück, 12.
2 B.B.A. xi.
3 E.g. where some doubts about the authenticity of some of them are raised.
4 Goldziher, M.S. ii. 207, shows that it was in circulation as late as the end of the 9th century A.H.
5 Fück, 12.

\[\text{lists of those who went to Abyssinia and fought at Badr. The latter Mālik regarded as authoritative. He generally gives an isnad, though it is not always clear whether he is relying on a written or an oral source. Once at least he refers to a mass of records left by Ibn 'Abbās (I.S. v. 216). Occasionally he quotes poems.}\]

Apart from the fragment of Wahb b. Munabbih's maghāsī the Berlin MS. if it is authentic, is the oldest piece of historical literature in Arabic in existence, and it only for that reason deserves more than a passing notice here. It is of importance also because it carries back some of the traditions in Bukhari (d. 256) more than a century.

Other maghāsī works were produced in Iraq, Syria, and the Yaman during the second century, but none of them is likely to have influenced I.I. and they can safely be disregarded.6 What is of significance is the great interest in the life of the prophet that was shown everywhere during this century. But no book known to the Arabs or to us can compare in comprehensiveness, arrangement, or systematic treatment, with I.I.'s work which will now be discussed.

The Sīra

The titles The Book of Campaigns or The Book of Campaigns and (the prophet's) Biography or The Book of the Biography and the Beginning and the Campaigns² are all to be met with in the citations of Arabic authors. Al-Bakrā, a pupil of I.I., made two copies of the whole book, one of which must have reached I.H. (d. 218) whose text, abbreviated, annotated, and sometimes altered, is the main source of our knowledge of the original work. A good deal more of it can be recovered from other sources.³ The principles underlying I.H.'s revision are set out in his Introduction. Sachau⁴ suggests that the copy used by T. was made when I.I. was in Ray by Salama b. Faḍl b. 'Abd al-Shāb b. al-Ansārī, because T. quotes I.I. according to I. Faḍl's riwayā. A third copy was made by Yūnis b. Bukayr in Ray. This was used by I. al-Atīrī in his Usdul-Ghāba. A copy part of this recension exists in the Qarawīyin mosque at Fez. The text, which contains some important additions to the received text, I hope to publish shortly. A fourth copy was that of the Syrian Hārin b. Abū'Isa. These last two copies were used by I. Sa'd.⁵ Lastly the Fihrist mentions the edition of al-Nufaylī (d. 234).

It must not be supposed that the book ever existed in three separate parts: ancient legends, Muhammad's early life and mission, and his wars. These are simply sections of the book which contained I.I.'s lectures.

For the Mubtada (Mabda) we must go to T's Tafsīr and History. The first quotation from it in the latter⁶ runs thus: 'I. Hamid said, Salama b. al-Faḍl told us that I.I. said: The first thing that God created was light.

---

1 See Fück, 12.
2 Nöldeke, Gesch. Qur. 129, 221.
3 I.S. iii. xxv.
4 I.I. iii. 51, lines 17–19.
and darkness. Then He separated them and made the darkness night, black exceeding dark; and He made the light day, bright and luminous.
From this it is clear that 'Genesis' is the meaning of the title of the first section of the book. I.H. skipped all the intervening pages and began with Abraham, the presumed ancestor of Muhammad. Al-Azraqi quotes some passages from the missing section in his Akhbar Mecca and a few extracts are given by al-Mujahhahr b. Tahrir.
The Mubtada' in so far as it lies outside I.H.'s recension is not our concern, though it is to be hoped that one day a scholar will collect and publish a text of it from the sources that survive so that I.I.'s work can be read in its entirety as its importance warrants. In this section I.I. relied on Jewish and Christian informants and on the book of Abū 'Abdullah Wahb
b. Munabbih (34-110 or 114) known as K. al-Mubtada' and also al-Isra' ibiyat of which the original title was Qisas'l-Anbiya'. To him he owed the history of the past from Adam to Jesus and also the South Arabian legends, some of which I.H. has retained. This man also wrote a maghāsī book, and a fragment of it has survived. I.I. cites him by name only once.
It is natural that a book about Muhammad, 'the seal of the prophets', should give an account of the history of the early prophets, but the history, or legends, of South Arabia demand another explanation. As Goldziher showed long ago, it was in the second half of the first century that the antagonism of north and south, i.e. Quraysh and the Anṣār of Medina, first showed itself in literature. The Anṣār, proud of their southern origin and of their support of the prophet when the Quraysh rejected him, smarted under the injustice of their rulers and the northerner's claim to superiority. One of the ways in which their resentment manifested itself was in the glorification of Himyar's great past. I.I. as a loyal son of Medina shared the feelings of his patrons and recounted the achievements of their forefathers, and I.H., himself of southern descent, retained in the Sīra as much of the original work as he thought desirable. To this accident that I.H. was a Himyar we owe the extracts from stories of the old South Arabian kings. I.H. devoted a separate book to the subject, the K. al-Tijān li-ma'rifati mulāki l-zamān (fi akhbāri Qahtan).
The second section of the book which is often called al-Mab'ath begins with the birth of the prophet and ends when the first fighting from his base in Medina takes place. The impression one gets from this section is of hazy memories; the stories have lost their freshness and have nothing of that vivid and sometimes dramatic detail which make the maghāsī stories—especially in al-Wāqidi—so full of interest and excitement. Thus while the Medinan period is well documented, and events there are chronologically arranged, no such accuracy, indeed no such attempt at it, can be claimed for the Meccan period. We do not know Muhammad's age when he first came forth publicly as a religious reformer; some say he was forty, others say forty-five; we do not know his precise relation to the Banū Najjar; the poverty of his childhood ill fits the assertion that he belonged to the principal family in Mecca. The story of those years is filled out with legends and stories of miraculous events which inevitably undermine the modern reader's confidence in the history of this period as a whole. In this section particularly, though not exclusively, I.I. writes historical introductions to his paragraphs. A good example is his foreword to the account of the persecution the prophet endured at the hands of the Meccans: 'When the Quraysh became distressed by the trouble caused by the enmity between them and the apostle and those of their people who accepted his teaching, they stirred up against him foolish fellows who called him a liar, insulted him, and accused him of being a poet, a sorcerer, a diviner, and of being possessed. However the apostle continued to proclaim what God had ordered him to proclaim, concealing nothing, and exciting their dislike by condemning their religion, forsaking their idols, and leaving them to their unbelief.' This is not a statement resting on tradition, but a concise summary of the circumstances that are plainly indicated by certain passages of the Quran which deal with this period.
Of the Maghāsī history little need be said. For the most part the stories rest on the account of eyewitnesses and have every right to be regarded as trustworthy.

Characteristics

The opinions of Muslim critics on I.I.'s trustworthiness deserve a special paragraph; but here something may be said of the author's caution and his fairness. A word that very frequently precedes a statement is za'a'ma or za'amī, 'he (they) alleged'. It carries with it more than a hint that the statement may not be true, though on the other hand it may be sound.
Thus there are fourteen or more occurrences of the caveat from p. 87 to 148 alone, besides a frequent note that only God knows whether a particular statement is true or not. Another indication of reserve if not scepticism underlies the expression fi mā dhikra li, as in the story of the jinn who listened to Muhammad as he prayed; Muhammad's order to 'Umar to kill Suwayd; one of Gabriel's visits to Muhammad; the reward of two martyrs to the man killed by a woman. An expression of similar import is fi mā balaghani.

Very seldom does I.I. make any comment of his own on the traditions he records apart from the mental reservation implied in these terms.
Therefore when he does express an opinion it is the more significant.
In his account of the night journey to Jerusalem and the ascent into heaven

1 ed. and tr. Cl. Huart, Publ. de l'école des lang. or. civ., s. iv, vol. xvi, i-vi, Paris, 1899-1919.
2 A summary of the contents is given in T. i.
3 See E.I.
4 p. 20.
5 M.S. i. 89-98.
6 Haydarabad, 1342.

1 p. 183; see also 187, 230 et passim.
2 pp. 281, 356, 357, 308.
3 pp. 232, 235 et passim. Extreme caution introduces the legends of the light at the prophet's birth, 102.
he allows us to see the working of his mind. The story is everywhere hedged with reservations and terms suggesting caution to the reader. He begins with a tale which he says has reached him (balaghani) from several narrators and he has pieced them together from the stories these people heard (dhukira). The whole subject is a searching test of men's faith in which those endowed with intelligence are specially concerned. It was certainly an act of God, but exactly what happened we do not know. This opinion of his is most delicately and skillfully expressed in the words hayfa sha'a, 'how God wished to show him'. I. Mas'ud's words are prefaced by fi Ṧa ma balaghani 'anhu. There is nothing in the story to indicate that it is a vision. Al-Hasan's version is much more definite, for he asserts that when Muhammad returned to Mecca he told the Quraysh that he had been to Jerusalem and back during the night and that this so strained the credulity of some of the Muslims that they gave up their faith in his revelations although he was able to give an accurate description of Jerusalem.
It is therefore most surprising that al-Hasan should end his story by quoting Sūra 13. 62 'We made the vision which we showed thee only for a test to men' in this context. The whole point of al-Hasan's story is thereby undermined, for if the experience was visionary, then there was nothing at all incredible about it. Then follows 'A'isha's statement, reported by one of her father's family, that it was only the apostle's spirit that was transported; his body remained where it was in Mecca. Another tradition by Mu'awiya b. ʿAbd Sufyān bears the same meaning. The fact that he had been asked whether it was a physical or a dream journey shows that the subject was debated before I.I.'s day. Here I.I. makes a profound observation which in effect means that it was immaterial whether the experience was real or visionary because it came from God; and just as Abraham made every preparation to slay his son Isaac in consequence of what he had seen in a dream because he recognized no difference between a divine command given at night during sleep and an order given by day when he was awake, so the apostle's vision was just as real as if it had been an actual physical experience. Only God knows what happened, but the apostle did see what he said he saw and whether he was awake or asleep the result is the same.
The description of Abraham, Moses, and Jesus which purports to quote Muhammad's words is prefaced by za'amāl-Zuhrī, not, as often, by the ordinary term hadadhānī. Now as al-Zuhrī and I.I. knew each other well and must have met quite often, we must undoubtedly infer from the fact that I.I. deliberately substituted the word of suspicion for the ordinary term used in traditional matters that he means us to take this tradition with a grain of salt.
It is a pity that the excellent impression that one gets of the author's intelligence and religious perception should be marred by the concluding paragraph on this subject of the ascent into heaven which incidentally has had far-reaching results on European literature through the Divine

1 See M. Asin, La escatologia musulmana.
2 Can it be that I.H. has tampered with the text here?
3 p. 267.
4 pp. 340 and 344.
5 pp. 224-9.
6 T. 1. 1162. 8-1163. 2.
man is introduced as the authority for conflicting traditions such as are to be found in the later collections of hadith.

The first tradition is suspect because it requires us to believe that from the earliest days of his ministry before he had any following apart from a wife and a young nephew Muhammad prophesied the Arab conquest of the Byzantine and Persian empires in the Near East. Nothing in his life gives the slightest support to this claim, though it was to be made good soon after his death.

The second contains no reference to later conquests and may be trustworthy. It definitely fixes the scene at Minā, which is about three miles distant from Mecca. The first account suggests, though it does not assert, that the prophet was in Mecca, as he turned to face the Ka’ba when he prayed. Would he have done this had he been in Minā? Would he be not rather have turned in the direction of Jerusalem, his first qibla? I.I. expressly affirms elsewhere1 that while he was in Mecca Muhammad when praying turned his face towards Syria. The second account says nothing about the direction of his prayer. On the whole, then, the second tradition as transmitted by Salama must be given the preference.

It is quite easy to see why I.H. a century later omitted both traditions; they were offensive to the ruling house of ‘Abbās as they drew attention to an unhappy past which the rulers, now champions of orthodoxy, would fain have forgotten. But why did I.I. report them both, if in fact he did? On the whole it seems most reasonable to suppose that he first dictated the tradition which Yūnus heard in Kūfah, notorious for its attachment to the Alid party, and that he afterwards dropped it and substituted the second version which Salama heard in Rayy some years later before he went on to Baghdad. T. with his usual thoroughness reported both traditions. The only alternative is to suppose that the reference to the conquests is an interpolation.

There is a subtle difference between these two variants which ought not to be overlooked. At first sight it would seem to be a mere detail that in the first tradition ‘Affī wished that he had been the third to pray the Muslim prayer. Now there were already three—Muhammad, Khadija, and Ali. In the second tradition he wished that he had been the fourth. If this latter is the original form of the tradition it means simply that he wished that he had been the first man outside the prophet’s family circle to accept Islam. But the first tradition means more than this: by eliminating, as it were, Muhammad himself from the trio it means that Ali was the second human being and the first male to accept Islam and to stand with Khadija at the head of all Muslims in the order of priority. This has always been the claim of the Shi’a and to this day the priority of Ali in this respect is hotly disputed.2

1 p. 190.
in heaven at Sa'd's arrival; others claimed that the angelic bearers of the throne were meant. But Suha‘yli will have none of this. The throne is a created object and so it can move. Therefore none has the right to depart from the plain meaning of the words. Moreover, the tradition is authentic while traditions like that of al-Barrā‘ to the effect that it was Sa'd's bed that shook are rightly ignored by the learned. He goes on to point out that al-Bukhārī accepted the tradition not only on the authority of Jābīr but also on the report of a number of other companions of the prophet—a further indication of the snowball growth of the legend. S. finds it most surprising that Mālik rejected the hadith and he adds naively from the point of view of later generations that Mālik would not have it mentioned despite the soundness of its transmission and the multitude of narrators, and he adds that it may be that Mālik did not regard the tradition as sound! The passage is instructive in that it shows how far I. I. could go in the face of one of the most learned of his contemporaries in Medina. Posterity has sided with I. I. on this matter, but Mālik clearly had many on his side at the time, men who would not take at its face value a story which they could not reject out of hand, as he did, with the weight of contemporary opinion behind it.

Another feature that stands out clearly from time to time is the insertion of popular stories on the Goldilocks model. For the sake of the reader I have rendered these stories in accord with modern usage, as the repetition of the same words and the same answer again and again is intolerable to the modern adult. Such stories are the stock-in-trade of the Arabian qāṣṣ and the storyteller all the world over and invariably lead up to the climax which it is the speaker's intention to withhold until he has his audience on tiptoe. A good example of such stories is the narrative of Muhammad's arrival in Medina and the invitation of one clan after another, always declined with the same words.1

After giving due weight to the pressure of hagiology on the writer and his leaning towards the Shi‘a one must, I think, affirm that the life of Muhammad is recorded with honesty and truthfulness and, too, an impartiality which is rare in such writings. Who can read the story of al-Zabīr,2 who was given his life, family, and belongings but did not want to live when the best men of his people had been slain, without admitting that here we have a true account of what actually happened? Similarly who but an impartial historian would have included verses in which the noble generous character of the Jews of the Hijaz was lauded and lamented? The scepticism of earlier writers seems to me excessive and unjustified. We have only to compare later Lives of Muhammad to see the difference between the historical and the ideal Muhammad.3

---

1 335 f.
2 p. 691.
3 Nöldeke, Islam, v. 1914, has drawn attention to many incidents and characteristics of the Sīra which could not have been invented and which show intimate knowledge of the facts.

---

The Poetry

Doubts and misgivings about the authenticity of the poems in the Sīra are expressed so often by I. I. that no reference to them need be given here. Nevertheless, one should be on one's guard against the tendency to condemn all the poetry out of hand. What I. I. says about the poetry of those who took part in the battle of Badr, whether or not it includes the verses of Hassan b. Thābit, namely 'These verses (of Abū Usāma) are the most authentic of those (attributed to) the men of Badr' (p. 534), casts grave doubt on the authenticity of a large section of the poetry of the Sīra. Nevertheless I. I. is not to be blamed for the inclusion of much that is undoubtedly spurious without a thorough investigation which has not yet been undertaken. The poems he cites on pp. 728 and 729 he got from 'Aṣim b. Qatāda, while those on pp. 590, 789, and 793 come from 'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr.1 We know, too, that Mūsā b. 'Uqba cited verses.2

An early critic of poetry, al-Jumāhī3 (d. 231), though perhaps rather one-sided and ill balanced in his judgement on I. I., makes some observations which cannot fail to carry conviction. He says: 'Muhammad b. Iṣḥāq was one of those who did harm to poetry and corrupted it and passed on all sorts of rubbish. He was one of those learned in the biography of the prophet and people quoted poems on his authority. He used to excuse himself by saying that he knew nothing about poetry and that he merely passed on what was communicated to him. But that was no excuse, for he wrote down in the Sīra poems ascribed to men who had never uttered a line of verse and of women too. He even went to the length of including poems of 'Ād and Thāmūd! Could he not have asked himself who had made the poetry?5' Also pp. 950-1. Cf. the corresponding passages in T. 1735, 1736.

1 Also pp. 590-1. Cf. the corresponding passages in T. 1735.
2 Cf. I. S. iii. 241.
3 al-Nadim' goes farther by suggesting that I. I. was party to the fraud: the verses were composed for him, and when he was asked to include them in his book he did so and brought himself into ill repute with the rhapsodists. Occasionally I. I. says who the authority for the poetry was.9

Obviously at this date criticism of the poetry of the Sīra can be based only on historical and perhaps in a lesser degree on literary and stylistic grounds. Some of the poetry dealing with raids and skirmishes, tribal boasting, and elegies seems to come from contemporary sources, and no reasonable person would deny that poetic contests between Meccan and Medinan poets really took place: everything we know of ancient Arab society would require us to look for such effusions. As Horovitz pointed out, in pre-Islamic poetry these poetical contests are frequent, and it might be added that in early Hebrew history verses are frequently inserted in the narratives and often put into the mouths of the heroes of the hour. Thus, apart from those poems which undoubtedly were called forth by the events they commemorated, poetry was an integral part of a racial convention which no writer of history could afford to ignore. Probably if all the poetry which I.I. included in the Sīra had reached that standard of excellence which his readers were accustomed to expect, none of these charges would have been levelled against him. But when he included verses which were palpably banal, and were at the same time untrue to circumstance, uninspired and trivial, as many undoubtedly are, the developed aesthetic sense of the Arabs which is most delicate where poetry is concerned rejected what he wrote. As al-Jumāḥi said, he brought poetry itself into disrepute long before had been partners with the half-brother of b. Rawiyla 'āṭifīn to prominence in Islam not only as men of I:Iassan is to be believed. b. does), "Arymir he lumps together a Saba‘ chain uma!,>! Hashim similes, and metaphors needs investigation by a interesting J were 'Abdu'l-Mu;­march against Mecca and his great respect for its sanctity stands propaganda: 'The one in this bombarded it. if b. Thabit. A brief summary of at the conquest of Mecca, because the have been levelled against him. But when he included verses which were palpsably banal, and were at the same time untrue to circumstance, uninspired and trivial, as many undoubtedly are, the developed aesthetic sense of the Arabs which is most delicate where poetry is concerned rejected what he wrote. As al-Jumāḥi said, he brought poetry itself into disrepute by the balderdash he admitted into his otherwise excellent work. And it did not improve matters that much that was good was mingled with more that was bad. It is more than likely that I.I. himself was conscious that all was not well with this poetry, for the general practice of writers is to put the verse into the narrative at the crucial moment (as I.I. at times does), whereas after the prose account of Badr and Uhud he lumps together a whole collection of verse by various ‘poets’. It is as though he were silently saying ‘This is what has been handed on to me. I know nothing about poetry and you must make your own anthology.’ Even so, whatever his shortcomings were, it is only fair to bear in mind that I.H. often inserts a note to the effect that the text before him contains lines or words which have not I.I.’s authority.

The subject is one that calls for detailed and careful literary criticism. The history of the clichés, similes, and metaphors needs investigation by a scholar thoroughly grounded in the poetry of the pre-Islamic and Umayyad eras. Until this preliminary work has been successfully accomplished it would be premature to pass judgement on the poetry of the Sīra as a whole. Ancient poetry has suffered greatly at the hands of forgers, plagiarists, and philologists, and the diwans of later poets have not escaped the dishonest ʾešār. Ḥassān b. Thābit, the prophet’s own poet, has many poems to his name which he would be astounded to hear, and there are comparatively few poets of whom it could be said that the diwans bearing their names contained nothing for which they were not responsible.²

Introduction

Since these words were written two theses have been written in the University of London: the first by Dr. M. A. ’Azzam deals with the style, language, and authenticity of the poetry contained in the Sīra; the second by Dr. W. ’Arafat with the Dirāsān of Ḥassān b. Thābit. A brief summary of their findings will not be out of place here.

Between the period covered by the Sīra and the editing of the book itself loom the two tragedies of Karbala’, when al-Ḥusayn and his followers were slain in 61, and the sack of Medina in a.h. 63 when some ten thousand of the Ḥāṣār including no less than eighty of the prophet’s companions are said to have been put to death. Much of the poetry of the Sīra was meant to be read against the background of those tragedies. Its aim is to set forth the claims of the Ḥāṣār to prominence in Islam not only as men who supported the prophet when the Quraysh opposed him, but as men descended from kings. The prophet was the grandson of ’Abdul-l-Muf­talib, who was the son of Ḥāshim and a woman of the B. al-Najjār, and so of Ṣamāni stock. ‘Your mother was of the pure stock of Ḥūzā‘a... To the heroes of Šab‘ her line goes back’, says the poet in his elegy on ’Abdul-l-Mu­ftalib.¹

Apart from their great service to the prophet in giving him a home when Quraysh cast him out, the Ḥāṣār long before had been partners with Quraysh, for was it not Rizāḥ, the half-brother of Ḵusayy, who came to the aid of the ancestors of Quraysh from the Yaman? Had it not been for the Ḥāṣār there would have been no Islam: had it not been for their ancestors, the poet implies, Quraysh would not have been established in Mecca.

On p. 18 there is thinly disguised Ḥāṣāri-Shi‘a propaganda: ‘The one you killed was the best of us. The one who lived is lord over us and all of you are lords’ would be recognized by many as a reference to the killing of al-Ḥusayn and the ‘lords’ would be the Umayyads. The account of the Tubba’s march against Mecca and his great respect for its sanctity stands in clear contrast with the treatment it received from the Umayyads when al-Hajījī bombarded it.

Wealth, when even kinmen refuse their help: the man who entertains when the camels’ udders are dry; the cauldron full of the hump and fat of the camel; those who devote the game of ʾaynat to hospitality, distributing the charge among themselves as the arrows dic·tate; the milk of war; war a milch camel; war drawing blood like buckets from a well; a morning draught of the same; the sword blade polished by the armourer; journeys in noon­day heat even the locust rests; the horse that can outrun the wild ass; the flash of the sun on the helmets of the warriors; the chain armour shining like a rippling pool. However interesting this comparison might prove to be, the presence of these clichés and themes in other poets makes it hazardous to assert that ’Amr had a predominating influence. More­over, what we seek is a pseudo-poet of Umayyad times; and here a hint thrown out by a former colleague, Dr. Abdullah al-Tayyib, to the effect that the poetry of the Sīra and that in Ṣirāt Sīfinn is very similar, if followed up would probably lead to some interesting discoveries. I.H.’s notes would be found interesting in this connexion. On p. 790 he points out that the words ‘We have fought you about its interpretation as we fought you about its divine origin’ were spoken by ’Ammayr b. Yāhir in reference to another battle [Sīfinn] and could not have been uttered by ’Abdullah b. Rawāḥa at the conquest of Mecca, because the Meccans, being pagans, did not believe in the Quran, so that there was no question of a rival interpretation.

² And this was precisely his attitude if al-Jumāḥi is to be believed.

¹ I should hardly care to go so far as to assert that the fifth-century poet ’Amr b. Qamī’s has exercised a direct influence on the poetry of the Sīra; but the fact remains that there is a great similarity. It is inevitable that the themes of Arab verse should recur constantly. Beduin life varied little from generation to generation. Their horizon was bounded by the same; the sword blade polished by the srmourer; journeys in noon­day heat even the locust rests; the horse that can outrun the wild ass; the flash of the sun on the helmets of the warriors; the chain armour shining like a rippling pool. However interesting this comparison might prove to be, the presence of these clichés and themes in other poets makes it hazardous to assert that ’Amr had a predominating influence. More­over, what we seek is a pseudo-poet of Umayyad times; and here a hint thrown out by a former colleague, Dr. Abdullah al-Tayyib, to the effect that the poetry of the Sīra and that in Ṣirāt Sīfinn is very similar, if followed up would probably lead to some interesting discoveries. I.H.’s notes would be found interesting in this connexion. On p. 790 he points out that the words ‘We have fought you about its interpretation as we fought you about its divine origin’ were spoken by ‘Ammayr b. Yāhir in reference to another battle [Sīfinn] and could not have been uttered by ’Abdullah b. Rawāḥa at the conquest of Mecca, because the Meccans, being pagans, did not believe in the Quran, so that there was no question of a rival interpretation.

³ p. 113.
After a careful study of the language and style of this verse Dr. 'Azzam comes to the conclusion that comparatively little of it dates from the time of the prophet.

Dr. 'Arafat comes to much the same conclusion with regard to the verse attributed to Ḥassān. A few of the outstanding arguments will be given here. He finds that the eulogy on the Anṣār (p. 893) which is attributed to Ka'b b. Zuhayr is in the same rhyme and metre as the poem of al-Akhḍāl which was written at the instigation of Yazīd. There we find the words 'Baseness is under the turbans of the Anṣār.' A careful comparison of the relevant passages in the two poems shows that the one in the Sīra is the answer to the one in the Aghānī.

Abdullah b. Ābu Bakr is reported to have said: 'The Anṣār were respected and feared until the battle of Ḥarra; afterwards people were emboldened to attack them and they occupied a lowly place.' It is in these circumstances, not those of the prophet's companions daily increasing in power and prestige, that we must look for the background of 'You will find that none ill uses or abuses us but a base fellow who has gone astray' (p. 626).

On p. 474 a poem which I.H. attributes to Ḥassān's son, 'Abdullāh b. Rahmān, obviously dates from a later generation: 'My people are those who sheltered the prophet and believed in him when the people of the land were unbelievers except for choice souls who were forerunners of righteous men and who were helpers with the helpers.' What can this mean but that someone is speaking of the past services of his people to the prophet? Further, it is strange language to impute to Ḥassān. It was he who called the newcomers vagrants jalābīb and regarded them as an unmitigated nuisance. He did not house any of them. A still clearer reference to a former generation is to be found on p. 927 (again I.H. attributed it to Abdu'l-Rahmān) which says: 'Those people were the prophet's helpers and they are my people; to them I came when I relate my descent.'

Dr. 'Arafat notes that in the Sīra there are seventy-eight poems attributed to Ḥassān; the authenticity of fifteen of them is questioned or denied outright. The text of the poem on p. 738 in its rival forms illustrates the way in which verses attributed to Ḥassān were interpolated and additional verses fabricated. Here Ṭ. gives only the first five verses; the Diwān interpolates two verses after the first line and adds two at the end. On the other hand, the last three verses in the Sīra are not to be found in either of the other authorities. In the Aghānī the poem is still longer and according to the riwaya of Muṣ'ab but without al-Zuhri's authority. The facts which emerge from a study of the circumstances which surround this poem are:

1. Ḥassān resented the growing numbers and influence of the Muslim refugees.

With the further ramifications of the story we are not concerned; sufficient has been said to show that the poem so far as verse 5 is genuine and is directed solely against the Muslim refugees whose presence had become a nuisance to Ḥassān. In this poem he says nothing at all about Ṣafwān. The last three lines have doubtless been added to whitewash Ḥassān. As poetry they will not bear comparison with the genuine verses and Ṭ. was thoroughly justified in discarding them.

Another specimen of the spurious poetry fathered on Ḥassān is to be found on p. 936 which belongs to a later generation. Here it is not the prophet who is praised but his house: 'How noble are the people (qaum) whose party (shī'ā) is the prophet! ... They are the best of all living creatures.' When we remember the resentment with which the Anṣār in general and Ḥassān in particular felt when they got no share in the booty of Hunayn, the line 'Take from them what comes when they are angry and set not your hearts on what they withhold' is singularly inept.

Another point which militates against the authenticity of poems attributed to Ḥassān is the prominence which is often given to the Aus. It cannot be supposed that a Khazrajite would ignore the achievements of his own tribe or put them in the second place as on p. 455 when we remember that the hostility between the two tribes persisted long after Islam was established. A plain example of a later Anṣārī's work is given on p. 711, where the poem begins: 'O my people there is there any defence against fate and can the good old days return? an impossible attitude for a Muslim to take during the prophet's lifetime.

Again, when Hassän is reported to have said 'The best of the believers have followed one another to death' (p. 799), it is sufficient to remember that practically all the prophet's principal companions survived Uhud. But when this careless forger wrote all the best Muslims had long been dead. However, we have not got to his main point which is to glorify the house of Hashim: 'They are God's near ones. He sent down His wisdom upon them and among them is the purified bringer of the book.' Here the Alids are the 'friends' or 'saints' of God and Muhammad is little more than a member of their family. Divine wisdom is given to them.

These two studies lay bare the wretched language in which many of these poems are written and incidentally bring out the difficulties which a translator has to cope with when the rules of Arabic syntax and the morphology of the language are treated with scant respect. In fine it may be said that their well-documented conclusions made it abundantly clear that the judgement of the ancient critics—particularly al-Jumaḥi—is justified up to the hilt.¹

The partial restoration of the lost original

Once the original text of I.I. existed in at least fifteen riwayas:²

1. Ibrāhīm b. Sa'd, 110–84 Medina
2. Ziyād b. 'Abdullah al-Bakka'I, d. 183 Kūfa
3. 'Abdullah b. Idrīs al-AudI, 115–92
4. Yūnus b. Bukayr, d. 199
5. 'Abda b. Sulaymān, d. 187/8
6. 'Abdullāh b. Numayr, 115–99
7. Yaḥyā b. Sa'd al-Umāwī, 114–94 Baghdad
8. Jarīr b. Ḥāzim, 85–170 Basra
9. Ḥārūn b. Abū'Isā Basra?
10. Salama b. al-Fadl al-Abrash, d. 191 Ray
11. Ali b. Mujāhid, d. c. 180
12. Ibrāhīm b. al-Mukhtar
13. Sa'id b. Bāzī'
14. 'Uthmān b. Sāj
15. Muhammad b. Salama al-Harrānī, d. 191

It has been my aim to restore so far as is now possible the text of I.I. as it left his pen or as he dictated it to his hearers, from excerpts in later texts, disregarding the Marada' section as I.I. did and for at least one of his reasons. At first I was tempted to think that a great deal of the original had been lost—and it may well be that it has been lost—for it is clear that the scurrilous attacks on the prophet which I.I. mentions in his Introduction are not to be found anywhere. But on the whole I think it is likely that we have the greater part of what I.I. wrote. Doubtless more was said for Ali and against 'Abbās, but it is unlikely that such material would add much to our knowledge of the history of the period. Possibly to us the most interesting excisions would be paragraphs containing information which I.I. gathered from Jews and Christians; but in all probability the Marada' contained most of such passages. Still, it is unlikely that those passages which have been allowed to remain would have excited the annoyance that some of his early critics express on this score. Ibn'll-Kalbī's K. al-Asmā adds a warning against exaggerated hopes. Yaḥyā had made copious extracts from it in his Geographical Dictionary, so interesting and so important for our knowledge of the old Arabian heathenism that the great Noldeke expressed the hope that he would live to see the text of the lost original discovered. He did; but a collation of the original work with the excerpts made by Yaḥyā shows that practically everything of value had been used and nothing of real significance was to be learned from the discovery of the mother text. However, in a text of the nature of the Sīra it is just possible that a twist may be given to the narrative by an editor such as I.I.

The writers from whom some of the original can be recovered are:

1. Muhammad b. 'Umar al-Wāqidi, d. 207
2. 'Abūl-Walīd Muhammad b. 'Abdullāh al-Azraqī from his grandfather (d. c. 220)
3. Muhammad b. Sa'd, d. 230
4. Abū 'Abdullāh Muhammad b. Muslim b. Qutayba, d. 270 or 276
5. 'Abdullāh b. Yaḥyā al-Baladhurī, d. 279
6. Abū Ja'far Muhammad b. Jārīr al-Ṭabarī, d. 310
8. 'Abūl-Hasan 'Ali b. Muhammad b. Ḥabīb al-Māwūdī, d. 450
9. 'Abūl-Hasan 'Ali b. al-Āthīr, d. 630
10. Yūsuf b. Yaḥyā al-Tādālī known as I. al-Zayyāt, d. 627
11. Ismā'īl b. 'Umar b. Kathīr, d. 774

For our purpose none of these has the importance of Ṣ whose text rests on the riwaya of Salama and Yūnus b. Bukayr. Besides the important textual variants which will be found in the translation from time to time, he is the only one from I.I. who reports from I.I. the prophet's temporary concession to polytheism at Mecca (1190 f.) and the capture of 'Abbās at Badr (1441).

¹. al-Wāqidi. Only the Maghāzī has survived from the very large number of his writings. A third of it was published by von Kremer in 1856 from a poor manuscript, and until the work has been edited its value cannot be accurately assessed. The abridged translation by Wellhausen gives the reader all the salient facts, but his method of epitomizing enabled him to avoid difficulties in the text which call for explanation. Wāqidi makes no mention of I.I. among his authorities. The reason for this doubtless is that he did not want to refer to a man who already enjoyed a great reputation as an authority on maghāzī and so let it seem that his own book was a mere amplification of his predecessor's. It is by no means certain that he made use of I.I.'s book, or traditional lore, for he quoted his authorities, e.g. al-Zuhri, Ma'mar, and others, directly. On the other hand, he did not belittle I.I. of whom he spoke warmly as a chronicler, genealogist, and traditionist, who transmitted poetry and was an indefatigable searcher of tradition, a man to be trusted.

². See further A. Guillaume, 'The Biography of the Prophet in Recent Research', Islamic Quarterly Review, 1954.

It follows that strictly Wāqidi is not a writer from whom in the present state of our knowledge we can reconstruct the original of the Sīra; but as his narrative often runs parallel with I.I.'s work, sometimes abridging, sometimes expanding, his stories it is a valuable if uncontrolled supporter thereof. Not until his Maghāzī has been published and studied as it deserves to be can a satisfactory comparison of the two books be made. One thing is abundantly clear, namely that Wāqidi often includes stories which obviously come from eyewitnesses and often throw valuable light on events which are obscure in I.I. Indeed it ought to be said that the Sīra is incomplete without Wāqidi.

2. Al-Azraqi's Akhbiir Makka is of great value in matters archaeological. His authority is 'Uthmān b. Saj.

3. I. Sa'd's Akhbiir Dates to is more or less as he communicated it to his pupils. This was afterwards combined with his Tabaqāt in 300 by I. Ma'rif. Volumes 1a, b and IIa, b in the Berlin edition deal with the former prophets, Muhammad's childhood, his mission, the hijra, and his campaigns, ending with his death, burial, and elegies thereon. I.S. has much more to say on some matters than I.I., e.g. letters and embassies, and the prophet's last illness, while he shows no interest in pre-Islamic Arabia. For the Maghāzī Wāqidi is his main authority. The Tabaqāt deals with the prophet's companions and the transmitters of tradition, including the tābi'in.

4. I. Qutayba's K. al-Ma'arif contain a few short and inexact citations.

5. Al-Baladhuri's Futūbul-Buldān adds very little to our knowledge. De Goeje's index gives twelve references. The first two which de Goeje, followed by Nöldeke, notes as not being in the Sīra would never have found a place there as they obviously belong to I.I.'s lost book on figh. They deal with the question of how much water a man may retain on his land before he lets it flow down to his neighbour's ground. The last five citations belong to the age of the caliphs and need not concern us. The remainder have a slight value for textual criticism. Sometimes they lend support to T.'s version, and once a citation proves that the tradition was not preserved orally because the variant readings could only have come about through a transfer of a dot from the first to the second letter with the consequent misreading of the third. The citations are brief and concise: they tell all the truth that the writer needed for his purpose but not the whole truth, which would have been irrelevant.

6. Tabari. A list of the additions to I.I.'s recension has been given by Nöldeke and enough has been said about his value as a witness to the original text of the Sīra. No attempt has been made to recover the lost part of the Mabda' from his Tafsīr. Where his variants are merely stylistic and do not affect the sense of the passage I have ignored them. Practically all of them will be found in the footnotes to the Leyden edition. He was familiar with four of the recensions, numbers 4, 7, 9, and 10 on the list given above, much the most frequently cited being Yūnus b. Bukayr. On one occasion (1074, 12) he remarks that I.I.'s account is 'more satisfactory than that of Hishâm b. Muhammad' [al-Kalbi d. 204 or 206]. I.H. ignores altogether and he omits a good deal of the poetry now in the Sīra. Whether his selection was governed by taste, whether he thought some of it irrelevant, or whether he regarded it as spurious I cannot find any indication. He often gives the isnād which is lacking in I.I. (cf. 1794, 12). On one occasion at least (cf. W. 422 with T. 1271) it looks as if the narrative has been deliberately recast. T. frequently omits the tāliyya and tāriyya as ancient writers did. I.H. omits Ka'b's poem and the mention of its provoking a killing, cf. 651 with T. 1445.

7. Al-Strāfi contributes an interesting addition to W. 882.

8. Al-Mawardi has nothing of importance to add.

9. I. al-Athir in his Kāmil is prone to throw his authorities together and produce a smooth running account from the sum of what they all said, dropping all subordinate details. However, he quotes I.I.'s ten times.

10. I. al-Zayyāt, see on p. 640 (W.).

11. I. Kathir sometimes agrees with I.H. verbatim. Sometimes he quotes Ibn Bukayr where he offers what is in effect the same stories in different words. I propose to devote a special study to this riyā'ya.

Unfortunately for our purpose which is to record the opinion of our author's co-religionists on his trustworthiness as a historian, their judgement is affected by his other writings, one of which called Sunan is mentioned by Ḥājji Khalifa. This was freely quoted by Abū Yūf (d. 182), but failed to hold its own and went out of circulation comparatively early. If we knew more about the contents of this book, which by reason of its early date presumably would have had a considerable influence on the daily life of Muslims had it been allowed to continue to challenge other reporters of the apostle's deeds and words, we should be the better able to assess the value and relevance of early Muslim criticism on I. I. when it was most definitely hostile. It is not always his book the Sira which is attacked but the man himself, and if his sunna work ran counter to the schools of law that were in process of development the author could not hope to escape strong condemnation. It is most important that this fact should not be overlooked. In the passage Wustenfeld quoted from Abūl-Fath M. b. M. b. Sayyidu'l-Nās al-Ya'mārī al-Andalusī (d. 734/1334) the distinction between traditions of a general nature and traditions about the prophet's sunna is clear and unmistakable. Abūmād b. Hanbal's son stated that his father included I. I.'s hadith in his Musnad, but refused to regard him as an authority on sunan. While it is true that there are a few stories in the Sira which report the prophet's practice in certain matters and so provide an authoritative guide for the future behaviour of the faithful in similar circumstances, and while it is also true that in one or two instances the principle underlying these actions is in conflict with the findings of later lawyers, they form an insignificant part of the Sira, and it may safely be concluded that I. Hanbal's objection to I. I.'s authority applies almost exclusively to his lost work, the Sunan.

Apostolic tradition in Islam, as Goldziher showed long ago, is the battlefield of warring sects striving for the mastery of men's minds and the control of their behaviour with all the weight that Muhammad's presumed or fabricated example could bring to bear. The earlier the tradition, or collection of traditions, the less this tendency is in evidence; but we have already seen that I. I. occasionally succumbed to the temptation to glorify Ali at the expense of 'Abbās. This would seem to be supremely unnecessary when one can read exactly what 'Abbās's position was: at first hostile; secondly neutral; and lastly, when the issue was no longer in doubt, a confessed Muslim. Obviously since no attempt is made to conceal or diminish the affectionate loyalty of Abū Bakr or the staunch championship of 'Umar, our author was no unbalanced fanatical supporter of the claims of Ali. Ali appears as the great warrior when rival champions fought between the opposing ranks, but the inestimable services of his two senior contemporaries are never thrust into the background.

In the history of tradition in the technical sense, that is to say in the corpus of hadith venerated by Sunnis everywhere, I. I. takes a minor position in spite of his great and obvious merits as an honest, straightforward collector of all the information that was known about Muhammad. There are several reasons for this: the principal reason is that he had no information to give on all the everyday matters which fill the canonical books of tradition, or when he had he put them in his Sunan. If he reported Muhammad's words it was in reference to a particular event in the narrative he recorded; they were evoked naturally by the circumstances. Thus al-Bukhārī, though he often mentions I. I. in the headings of his chapters, hardly ever cites him for the matter of a tradition, unless that tradition is supported by another isnād. Muslim, who classifies traditions as genuine, good, and weak, puts I. I. in the second category. To anyone with an historical sense this was a monstrous injustice, but it must be remembered that by the middle of the third century the form of a hadith mattered more than its substance, and provided that the chain of guarantors was unexceptionable anything could be included.

The best and most comprehensive summary of Muslim opinion of I. I. is that of I. Sayyidu'l-Nās in his 'Uyūn al-Athār fi funūnī-l-magḥāṣi wa'l-shamā'idī wa'l-isiyar. He collected all the references to our author that he could find, both favourable and unfavourable, and then answered the attacks that had been made on him. The relevant passage will be found in W. with a translation in German. The following is a short summary of this account:

(a) Those favourable to I. I. were: 'The best informed man about the magḥāṣi is I. I. al-Zuhri: Knowledge will remain in Medina as long as I. I. lives.'

Shu'ba, 85-160: 'Truthful in tradition, the amir of traditionists because of his memory.

Su'a b. 'Uyayna, 107-98: I sat with him some seventy years and none of the Medinans suspected him or spoke disparagingly of him.

Abū Zur'a, d. 281: Older scholars drew from him and professional traditionists tested him and found him truthful. When he reminded Duḥaym of Malik's distrust of I. I. he denied that it referred to his veracity as a traditionist, but to his qadarite heresy.

Abū Ḥātim: His traditions are copied down (by others).

I. al-Madīnī: Apostolic tradition originally lay with 6 men; then it became the property of 12, of whom I. I. is one.

al-Shāfi'i: He who wants to study the magḥāṣi deeply must consult I. I. 'Aṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda: Knowledge will remain among men as long as I. I. lives.

have not been able to collate the passages with the text of the Sira. See also what has been said about excerpts in Suhaïl's al-Rauḍa'l-Umaw under I. I. 1. Istanbul, 1945, ii. 1008.

2. See Flick, 15.

3. ii. xviii.

1. As I. I. died in 150 this was impossible.
Abū Mu‘āwiya: A great memory: others confided their traditions to his memory for safe keeping.

al-Bukhārī: Al-Zuhri used to get his knowledge of the maghāsi from I.I. 'Abdullah b. Idrīs al-Audī: was amazed at his learning and often cited him.

Muṣʿab: He was attacked for reasons which had nothing to do with tradition.

Yazid b. Hārūn: Were there a supreme relator of tradition it would be I.I. Ali b. al-Madīnī: His hadith are sound. He had a great reputation in Medina. Hishām b. 'Urwa's objection to him is no argument against him. He may indeed have talked to the latter's wife when he was a young man. His veracity in hadith is self-evident. I know only of two that are rejected as unsupported which no other writer reported.

al-'Ijīl: Trustworthy.

Aḥmad b. Ḥanbal: Excellent in tradition.

(b) The writer then goes on to state all that has been said against I.I. Omitting details of little significance we are left with the following charges which I. Sayyid ‘Iṣlām b. Nāṣr goes on to discuss and refute. Muhammad b. 'Abdullah b. Numayr said that when I.I. reported what he had heard from well-known persons his traditions were good and true, but he sometimes reported worthless sayings from unknown people. Yaḥyā b. al-Qaṭṭān would never quote him. Aḥmad b. Ḥanbal quoted him with approval, and when it was remarked how excellent the stories (qīsāt) were he smiled in surprise. His son admitted that Aḥmad incorporated many of I.I.'s traditions in his Ṣunna, but he never paid heed to them. When he was asked if his father regarded him as an authority on what a Muslim must or must not do he replied that he did not. He himself would not accept a tradition which only I.I. reported. He used to relate a tradition which he gathered from a number of people without indicating who had contributed its separate parts. I. al-Madīnī said that at times he was 'fairly good'. Al-Maymūnī reported that I. Ma‘īn 156–233 said he was 'weak', but others denied that he said so. Al-Dūrī said he was trustworthy but not to be used as an authority on ṣiḥaḥ, like Mālik and others. Al-Nāṣir said that he was not strong. Al-Dāraqūṭnī said that a tradition from I.I. on the authority of his father was no legal proof: it could be used only to confirm what was already held to be binding. Yaḥyā b. Sa‘īd said that though he knew I.I. in Kūfah he abandoned him intentionally and never wrote down traditions on his authority. Abū Dā‘ūd al-Tayyibī (131–203) reported that Ḥammād b. Salīma said that unless necessity demanded it he would not hand on a tradition from I.I. When Mālik b. Anas mentioned him he said, 'he is one of the antichrist'. When Hishām b. ‘Urwa was told that I.I. reported something from Fāṭimah he said, 'the rascal lies; when did he see my wife?'

1 These probably belong to the Sunan.

When Abdullah b. Ḥanbal related his father of this he said that this was not to be held against I.I.; he thought that he might well have received permission to interview her, but he did not know. He added that Mālik was a liar. I. Idrīs said that he talked to Mālik about the Maghāsi and how I.I. had said that he was their surgeon and he said, 'We drove him from Medina'. Makkī b. Ḥibrāhīm said that he attended lectures of his; he used to dye his hair. When he mentioned traditions about the divine attributes he left them and never went back. On another occasion he said that when he left him he had attended twelve lectures of his in Rayy.

Al-Muḍḥadbal b. Qādībīn said that he was present when Yazid b. Hārūn was relating traditions in al-Baqī’ when a number of Medinans were listening. When he mentioned I.I. they withdrew saying: 'Don't tell us anything that he said. We know better than he.' Yazid went among them, but they would not listen and so he withdrew.

Abū Dā‘ūd said that he heard Ahmad b. Ḥanbal say that I.I. was a man with a love of tradition, so that he took other men's writings and incorporated them in his own. Abū ‘Abdullāh said that he preferred I.I. to Mūsā b. ‘Ubaydāl-Rabādī. Ahmad said that he used to relate traditions as though from a companion without intermediaries, while in Ḥibrāhīm b. Sa‘īd's book when there is a tradition he said 'A told me' and when that was not so he said 'A said'.

Abū ‘Abdullāh said that I.I. came to Baghdad and paid no attention to those who related hadith from al-Kabīr and others saying that he was not an authority. Al-Fallāḥ (d. 249) said that after being with Wahb b. Jarīf reading before him the Maghāsi book which his father1 had got from I.I. we met Yaḥyā b. Qaṭṭān who said that we had brought a pack of lies from him.

Aḥmad b. Ḥanbal said that in maghāsi and such matters what I.I. said could be written down; but in legal matters further confirmation was necessary. In spite of the large number of traditions without a proper iṣnad he thought highly of him as long as he said 'A told us', 'B informed me', and 'I heard'. I. Ma‘īn did not like to use him as an authority in legal matters. Abū Hātim said that he was weak in tradition yet preferable to a‘lāh b. Sa‘īd and his traditions could be written down. Sulaymān al-Taymī called him a liar and Yaḥyā al-Qaṭṭān said that he could only abandon his hadith to God; he was a liar. When Yaḥyā asked Wuhayb b. Khalīl what made him think that I.I. was a liar he said that Mālik swore that he was and he gave as his reason Hishām b. ‘Urwa's oath to that effect. The latter's reason was that he reported traditions from his wife Fāṭimah.

Abū Bakr al-Khaṭīb b. al-Madīnī said that some authorities accepted his traditions as providing proof for legal precedent while others did not. Among the reasons for rejecting his authority was that he was a Shi‘ī, that he was said to hold the view that man had free will, and that his iṣnāds were defective. As for his truthfulness, it could not be denied.

1 See No. 8.
Al-Bukhārī quoted him as an authority and Muslim cited him often. Abū'1-Hasan b. al-Qaṭṭān relegated him to the class 'good' (ḥasan) because people disputed about him. As to the tradition from Fāṭima, al-Khaṭīb gave us an isnād running back through I. I. and Fāṭima to Asmā' d. Abū Bakr: 'I heard a woman questioning the prophet and saying, 'I have a rival wife and I pretend to be satisfied with what my husband has not in fact given me in order to anger her'.' He answered, 'He who affects to be satisfied with what he has not been given is like one who dons two false garments'.' Abū'1-Hasan said that this was the tradition from Fāṭima which injured I. I.'s reputation, so that her husband Hishām called him a liar. Mālik followed him and others imitated him. However, there are other traditions on her authority.

One cannot but admire the way in which I. Sayyidūl-Nāṣ discusses these attacks on the credibility of our author. He goes at once to the root of the matter and shows what little substance there is in them. Though, like the speakers he criticizes, he tacitly assumes that early writers ought to have furnished their traditions with isnāds which would have met the rigorous demands of later generations who were familiar with a whole sea of spurious traditions fathered on the prophet and his companions, his common sense and fairness would not let him acquiesce in the charge of tadiris which, by omitting a link in the chain or by citing the original narrator without further ado, automatically invalidated a hadith in later days. Thus he said in effect that though I. I.'s traditions at times lack complete documentation there is no question of his truthfulness in the subject-matter he reports; and as to the charge of shī'ism and qadāneson his authority does not amount to much because he does not tell us why, and so we can resort only to conjecture; and we have no right to impugn a true tradition because of what we think is a defect. We have already explained why Yahyā b. al-Qaṭṭān would have none of him and called him liar on the authority of Wuhayb from Mālik, and it is not improbable that he was the cause of the Madinans' attitude in the foregoing account. Ahmad b. Ḥanbal and I. al-Madini have adequately replied to Hishām's accusation.

As to Numayr's accusation that he related false hadith on the authority of unknown persons, even if his trustworthiness and honesty were not a matter of tradition, suspicion would be divided between him and his informants; but as we know that he is trustworthy the charge lies against the persons unknown, not against him. Similar attacks have been made upon Sufyān al-Thauri and others whose hadith differ greatly in this way and what they base on unknown informants is to be rejected while that coming from known people is accepted. Sufyān b. 'Uyyāna gave up Jarir al-Ju'fī after he had heard more than a thousand traditions from him, and yet he narrated traditions on his authority. Shu'ba related many traditions from him and others who were stigmatized as 'weak'.

As to Ahmad's complaint that he recorded composite traditions without assigning the matter of them to the several contributors, their words agreed however many they were; and even if they did not yet the meaning was identical. There is a tradition that Wāthila b. al-Asqa' said: 'If I give you the meaning of a tradition (not in the precise words that were used) that is sufficient for you.' Moreover, Muhammad b. Sirīn said that he used to hear traditions from ten different people in ten different words with the same meaning. Ahmad's complaint that I. I. took other men's writings and incorporated them in his own account cannot be regarded as serious until it can be proved that he had no licence to repeat them. One must look at the method of transmission: if the words do not plainly necessitate an oral communication, then the accusation of tadiris lies. But we ought not to accept such a charge unless the words plainly imply that. If he expressly says that he heard people say something when in fact he did not, that is a downright lie and pure invention. It is quite wrong to say such a thing of I. I. unless the words leave no other choice. When Ahmad's son quoted his father as saying that I. I. was not to be regarded as an authority in legal matters though he saw how tolerant he was to non-legal matters which make up the greater part of the Maghāsi and the prophetic biography, he applied this adverse judgement on sunan to other matters. Such an extension is excluded by his truthful reputation.

As to Yahyā's saying that he was trustworthy but not authoritative in legal matters, it is sufficient for us that he is pronounced trustworthy. If only men like al-'Umari and Mālik were acceptable there would be precious few acceptable authorities! Yahyā b. Sa'id probably blindly followed Mālik because he heard from him what Hishām had said about I. I. His refusal to accept him as an authority in legal matters though he saw how tolerant he was to non-legal matters which has already been dealt with under Ahmad. Yahyā made no distinction between them and other traditions in the way of complete acceptance or downright rejection.

Other attacks on his reputation rest on points that are not explained and for the most part the agents are unfair. Even in legal matters Abū 'Isā al-Tirmidhi and Abū Hātim b. Hibbān (d. 354) accepted him as an authority. The refutation of his opponents would not have been undertaken were it not for the favourable verdict and praise that the learned gave him. But for that a few of the charges would have sufficed to undermine his

---

1 This again has nothing to do with the Sunan.

2 The meaning of this technical term is clear from the context. W.'s falsche Namen unterschrieben is not strictly correct.

3 The discussion of I. I.'s dislike of al-Kāshī's traditions is unimportant and is therefore omitted here.
stories, since but a few attacks on a man's good faith, explicit or not, are enough to destroy the reputation of one whose former circumstances are not known when an impartial critic has not done him justice.

In his book about trustworthy narrators Abū Ḥātim said that the two men who attacked I.I. were Hishām and Malik. The former denied that he had heard traditions from Fāṭima. But what he said does not impugn men's veracity in hadith, for 'followers' like al-Aswad and 'Alqama heard
'A'isha's voice without seeing her. Similarly I.I. used to hear Fāṭima when the curtain was let down between them. As for Malik, what he said was momentary and afterwards he did him justice. Nobody in the Hijaz knew more about genealogies and wars than I.I., and he used to say that Mālik was a freed slave of Dhu Āshāh while Mālik alleged that he was a full member of the tribe so that there was bad feeling between them; and when Malik compiled the Muwatta' I.I. said, 'Bring it to me for I am its veterinary surgeon.' Hearing of this Malik said: 'He is an antichrist; he reports traditions on the authority of the Jews.' The quarrel lasted until I.I. decided to go to Iraq. Then they were reconciled and Malik gave him 50 dinars and half his date crop as a parting gift. Malik did not intend to bring him into ill favour as a traditionist: all that he disliked was his following the Jews who had become Muslims and learning the story of Khaybar and Qurayṣa and al-Naḍīr and similar (otherwise) unattested happenings from their fathers. In his Maghāṣt I.I. used to learn from them but without necessarily asserting that their report was the truth.
Mālik himself only relied on trustworthy truthful men.

The author ends by remarking that I.I. was not the originator of the challenge to Malik's Arab ancestry because al-Zuhri and others had said the same thing.¹

The Translation

I have endeavoured to follow the text as closely as possible without sacrificing English idiom. In rendering poetry I have tried to give the sense without making any attempt at versifying, the only exceptions being doggerel and saj'. In these cases it seemed that it was fair to reproduce doggerel by doggerel and to try to put poor rhymes into rhymes that could not be worse. Inevitably some exactness is lost, but the general sense and tone are more faithfully reproduced in that way.

The book is very long and I have made a few cuts where no loss can result; e.g. I.H.'s recurring formula 'This verse occurs in an ode of his'
I have excluded because it is obvious that the line, which is generally one of his shawāhid, cannot have stood by itself. Again I have shortened dialogues in oratio recta into indirect speech in accordance with English practice unless the ipsissima verba of the speaker seemed called for naturally, or are in themselves important. Lastly I have omitted genealogical formulae after the first mention of the people concerned.

My predecessors in translating the Sīra have made many mistakes and I cannot hope to have escaped all the pitfalls. Of Weil's translation, now nearly a century old it will be remembered, Nöeldeke wrote¹: 'Die Übersetzung von G. Weil, Stuttgart, 1864 ist steif und unbeholfen, and auch philologisch nich mehr genügend. Die grosse Wichtigkeit des Werkes würde eine neue Übertragung rechtfertigen'; while Wellhausen's translation of al-Waqqādīs evades the difficulties of the text by silence. The poetry of the Sīra, as Nöeldeke said long ago of the poetry on Badr, 'is not easy to translate because of its many synonyms; the superficial commentary of Abū Dharr is no help at all'.²

The Text

I have followed the pagination of the excellent textus receptus of Wüstenfeld's edition 1858–60; but the text I have actually used is the Cairo edition of 1355/1937 produced in four parts by Muṣṭafā al-Saqqa', Ibrāhim al-Abyari, and 'Abdul-'Ḥāfiẓ Shalabi which prints at the bottom of the page most of the notes from Abū Dharr and Suhayli that W. relegated to the second volume of his altogether admirable edition. For this reason it is much easier to use and its fine bold type is kind to one's eyes. When I have had occasion to refer to differences between the texts they are marked C.
and W.

THE EDITOR IBN HISHĀM

'Abdu'l-Malik b. Hishām was born in Baṣra and died at Fustāṭ in Egypt in 218 or 213. Krenkow, however, thinks that he must have died some years later.² Besides editing the present work he made use of I.I.'s learning in his K. al-Ṭayān which derives from Wahb b. Munabbih. The principles which guided him in his impertinent meddling with his predecessor's work he has outlined in his Introduction, and they need not be repeated here. He was a philologist of some repute, and he was able to air his knowledge in the shawāhid he produces to illustrate the meaning of unusual words. These lines, divorced as they are from their context, form some of the most difficult of all the difficulties of the Sīra and are of course for the most part unnecessary now that the Arabs have produced lexicons of their language.
Occasionally he is helpful with his genealogical notes; more rarely he has something useful to say about the interpretation of a line in I.I.'s work.

Suhaylī gives some traditions which I.H. omitted or knew nothing of, e.g. W. 193 = Suhaylī 183; W. 327 = S. ii. 2 f. He also (ii. 278 = W.
824) draws attention to a mistake in one of I.H.'s notes saying that the fault is either his or al-Bakrā'ī's because Yūnus has the right reading.

¹ G. Q. 130.
² Z.A. xxvii. 161.
³ Is. Cult. ii. 231.
¹ For further discussion and exhaustive references to these and later writers see Fück, ch. a.
probably the fault lay with I.H., for he was in touch with Yūnus as he says fit mā akhbarani Yūnus on p. 387.

Another error of his is the statement that I.I. said nothing about the mission of 'Amr b. Umayya whom the prophet sent to kill Abū Sufyān b. Harb and how he took down the corpse of Khubayb from the cross to which he was tied (p. 993). T. records I.I.'s version of this story which is far superior to the garbled version of I.H., who is obviously composing a story from more than one source, passing clumsily from the first to the third person. According to him 'Amr threw the cross (presumably with the body on it) into a ravine. The cross (khashaba, a sturdy trunk of a tree capable of bearing a man's body) could hardly have been moved by one man more than a few yards with guards standing by, and I.I.'s own account is much more convincing. 'Amr released the body from the tree, carried it some forty paces—now the guards coming after him, dropped the body with a thud, and made off as fast as he could.

There is an interesting note in S. ii. 363 which shows that I.H.'s error was perceived in early days. He adds that there is a pleasing addition to the story in the Munad of I. Abū Shayba to the effect that when they untied him from the cross the earth swallowed him up. One might well suppose that I.H.'s story lies midway between the actual facts and this incredible fiction. The unfortunate man's body which 'Amr had made a gallant but unavailing attempt to retrieve was dumped unceremoniously on the ground; the next step was to give it the semblance of burial in a natural hole in the wall of the wadi; the last step was to provide for proper burial by a miracle.²

What remains to be explained is why I.H. should assert that I.I. had said nothing about the abortive attempt to assassinate Abū Sufyān and the equally unsuccessful effort to recover Khubayb's body. If I.I. said nothing at all about either matter, how came it that I.H. dealt with them? Since we know that I.I. reported what had happened from traditions that were transmitted by 'Amr's own family and that they existed in oral and written form for centuries afterwards, we cannot but suspect that I.H. has tampered with the evidence.

Perhaps his greatest service is his critical observations on the authenticity of the poetry of the Sīra, not only when he records that all, or some, authorities reject certain poems altogether but also when he corrects I.I., and assigns verses to their true author.³ Suyūfī thought highly of him. He reported that Abū Dharr had said that I.H. produced one of the four compendia which were better than their sources.³

Suhaylī² states that I.H. wrote a book explaining the difficult words in G.A.L. about this work.

¹ However, it is possible that the words ghayyaba'ūlāhū 'anhum imply, though they do not demand, a supernatural act.
² e.g. 613, where he is right in saying that Hubayra was not the author of one verse but Jārūb; cf. D. d. Hudhailiten, 243.
³ al-Muzāhir, Cairo (n.d. recent), p. 87.
¹ i. 5. He is followed by Ḥājjī Khalīfa 1012 and I. Khalīkīn. There is nothing said in A FRAGMENT OF THE LOST BOOK OF MŪṢĀ B. 'UQBA

This fragment consists of twenty extracts complete with their ismāḍ, some being the sayings of the prophet on a given occasion, others being stories from his life. The collector expressly asserts that the original work existed in ten parts, so that the inference that the book once contained a complete account of the Sīra seems fairly safe. The last item is spurious.⁴ There is an ijāsa reaching from Mūsā (141) to the epitomizer Abū Hurayra b. Muhammad b. al-Naqdāš (782).

1. I. Shihāb from Sālim b. 'Abdullah from 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar: I heard the apostle say, 'While I was asleep I dreamt that I was going round the Ka'ba when I saw a man with lank hair between the two men, his head dripping with water. When I asked who it was they said 'Īsā b. Maryam. Then I turned away when I saw a red man, heavy, with curly hair, one eye; it seemed as though his eye was a grape swimming (in water). When I asked who it was they said The Antichrist. The man most like him is Ibn Qaṭān al-Khuza'ī.'

This tradition is similarly reported in Bukhārī ii. 368. 19-369. 4. It should be compared with I.I. 269, also from al-Zuhri, where the prophet is said to have seen 'Īsā during his mi'rāj, with moles or freckles on his face appearing like drops of water. The reference here to the 'two men' presumably refers to the two thieves on the cross.

2. Ibn Shihāb: The first to hold Friday prayers for the Muslims in Medina before the apostle was Musāb b. Umayr. I. Shihāb told us another tradition from Surāqa contradicting this.

The first statement agrees with I.S. iii. i. 83. 25; the second apparently with I.I. 290. 5 and I.S. iii. 11. i. 84.

3. 'Abdul-Raḥmān b. Mālik b. Ju'shum al-Mudlijī from his father Mālik from his brother Surāqa b. Ju'shum: When the apostle went out from Mecca migrating to Medina Quraysh offered a reward of 100 camels to anyone who would bring him back, &c., down to 'my alms to the apostle'.

This passage is in all essential respects the same as I.I. 331-2, though there are many verbal differences. Obviously the version in I.I. has been touched up and Mūsā gives the tradition in its simplest form. Cf. Bukhārī iii. 39. 41 and Wāqīḍī (Wellh. 374).

⁴ See Sachau, 461 f.
4. I. Shihāb alleged that 'Urwā b. al-Zubayr said that al-Zubayr met the apostle with a caravan of Muslims who were returning to Mecca from a trading journey to Syria. They bartered some goods with the apostle and al-Zubayr gave him and Abū Bakr some white garments.

5. Nāfi' from 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar: Some of the apostle's companions said to him, 'Are you speaking to dead men?' He answered, 'You cannot hear what I say better than they.'

So Bukh. iii. 70. 17, 18, and cf. I.I., pp. 453 f., where the words of 'Ā'isha are quoted to refute the statement that the dead hear: they know but they do not hear.

6. I. Shihāb from Anas b. Mālik: Some Anṣār asked the apostle's permission to remit to their sister's son 'Abbas's ransom, and he replied, 'No, by Allah, you shall not let him off a single farthing!'

So Bukh. iii. 69. 1, 2 and cf. T. 1341. I. Qut. Ma'dīrf, 77. Sachau in finding strange the claim to relationship between 'Abbas and the Anṣār seems to have forgotten that the grandmother of 'Abbas was Salma d. 'Amr al-Khāzraji. Cfu. Bukh. ii. 388. 18 f. for the same claim.

7. I. Shihāb from 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Ka'b b. Mālik al-Sulami and other traditionists: 'Amr b. Mālik b. Ja'far, who was called 'the player with the spears', came to the apostle when he was a polytheist and the apostle explained Islam to him and he refused to accept it. He gave the apostle a present, but he refused it saying that he would not accept a present from a polytheist. 'Amr said: 'O apostle, send with me those of your messengers you wish and I will be surety for them.' So the apostle sent a number among whom were al-Mundhir b. 'Amr al-Sa'īdī, of whom it was said 'he hastened to his death', as a spy among the Najd folk. When 'Amr b. Ṭufayl heard about them he tried to call out B. 'Amr against them, but they refused to obey him in violating the promise of security given by 'Amr b. Mālik. Then he appealed to B. Sulaym and they joined him and killed them in Bi'r Ma'ūna except 'Amr b. Umayya al-Dāmri whom 'Amr b. al-Ṭufayl captured and afterwards released. When he came to the apostle the latter said to him, 'Are you the sole survivor?'

This is a much briefer account than that given in I.H. 648 f. Cf. T. 1443 f.; Waq. (Well) 337 f.

8. Ismā'il b. Ibrāhim b. 'Uqba from Sālim b. 'Abdullāh from 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar: Some men contested the leadership of Usāma, and the apostle rose and said: 'If you contest the leadership of Usāma you used to contest the leadership of his father before him. By Allah he was worthy to be leader. He was one of the dearest of all men to me, and this man (his son)

1 As I.I. has al-Mu'niq liyamāt I think that Sachau's a'maq liyamāt, following the MS., must be read a'maqa liyamāt. Cf. I. al-Athir's Nihāya (quoted by Sachau).

is one of the dearest of men to me after him; so treat him well when I am no more, for he is one of the best of you.'

Cf. Bukh. ii. 440, iii. 133, 192, and I.H. 999. 14; 1006. 20 f.

9. Sālim b. 'Abdullāh from 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar: The apostle used not to make an exception for Fāṭima.

Sachau explains this from Bukh. ii. 441 and iii. 145 where Muhammad says that if Fāṭima were to steal he would cut her hand off.

10. 'Abdullāh b. Fadl from Anas b. Mālik: I grieved over my people who were killed in the hara. Then Zayd b. Ḥarqam (d. 68) wrote to me when he heard of my great grief to say that he had heard the apostle say 'O God forgive the Anṣār and their sons and we implore Thy grace on their grandsons'.

Similarly I.H. 886. 12 and Waq. (Well) 308.

11. 'Abdullāh b. al-Fadl: Some men who were with him (Anas) asked him about Zayd b. Ḥarqam and he said, 'It is he of whom the apostle said, "This is he on whom Allah has bestowed much through his ear".'

He had been an informer, cf. I.H. 726. In place of 'a'far'llāhu lahu bi-udhnihi I.H. 727. 17 has 'a'far nillāhi bi-udhnihi. It seems much more likely that the variant is due to misreading than to oral tradition. Waq. (B.M. MS. 1617, f. 95a) has wa'fat udhnuha ... wa'saddaqa li'luhu hadithkā.

12. I. Shihāb from Sa'id b. al-Musayyib from 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik: The apostle said that day to Bilāl, 'Get up and announce that only a believer will enter paradise, and that God will not support His religion by an evil man.' This happened when the man whom the apostle said was one of the inhabitants of hell was mentioned.

13. From Nāfi' b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar: After the conquest of Khaybar the Jews asked the apostle to let them stay there on condition that they worked the land for half the date crop. He said: 'We will allow you to do so on that condition so long as we wish, and they remained there thus until 'Umar expelled them. [Here six or seven words are missing] saying 'The apostle laid down three things in his last disposition, viz. that the Rahwāniyūn, Dārtyūn, Sabā'tiyūn, and Ashā'artiyūn should have land which produced a hundred loads; that the mission of Usāma b. Zayd should be carried through; and that two different religions should not be allowed to remain in the peninsula of the Arabs.'

Practically the same words are used in I.H. 776 except that the Sabā'tiyūn are not mentioned.

14. Ismā'il as above: 'Umar used not to let Jews, Christians, and Magians remain more than three days in Medina to do their business, and he used to say 'Two religions cannot subsist together' and he exiled Jews and Christians from the peninsula of the Arabs.

15. I. Shihāb from 'Urwā b. al-Zubayr from Marwān b. al-Hakam and al-Miswar b. Makhrama: When the apostle gave men permission to free the Hawāzin captives he said, 'I do not know who has or has not given you permission, so go back until your leaders bring us a report of your affairs.' So the men returned and their leaders instructed them and they returned to the apostle and told him that the men (Muhammad's companions) had treated them kindly and given them permission (to recover their captive people).

For the context see I.H. 877.

16. 1. Shīhāb from Sa'īd b. al-Musayyib and 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr: The captives of Hawāzin whom the apostle returned were 6,000 men, women, and children. He gave some women who had fallen to some men of Quraysh—among whom were 'Abdul-Rahmān b. 'Auf and Șafwān b. Umayya who had appropriated two women as concubines—the choice (of returning or remaining) and they elected to go back to their own people.

Cf. Wāq. (W.) 375.

17. Ismā'īl b. Ibrāhīm b. ʿUqba from his uncle Mūsā b. ʿUqba from I. Shīhāb: The apostle made the pilgrimage of completion in A.H. 10. He showed the men the rites and addressed them in 'Arafa sitting on his camel al-Jad'a'.

Cf. I.H. 968 and Wāq. 430.

18. I. Shīhāb from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from al-Miswar b. Makhrama from 'Amr b. 'Auf, an ally of B. ʿAmir b. Luʿayy who had been at Badr with the apostle: The apostle sent Abū Uqayla b. al-Jarrāh to bring the poll tax. He had made peace with the people of al-Balārayn and set over them al-'Āla' b. al-Ḥadrānī. When Abū Uqayla came from al-Balārayn with the money the ʿAnṣār heard of his coming which coincided with the apostle's morning prayer. When they saw him they stood in his way. Seeing them he smiled and said: 'I think you have heard of the coming of Abū Uqayla and that he has brought something.' When they agreed he added: 'Rejoice and hope for what will gladden you. By Allah it is not poverty that I fear on your account. I fear that you will become too comfortable and will be led astray like those before you.'

So Bukh. iii. 68. 18 f.

19. Saʿd b. Ibrāhīm from Ibrāhīm b. ʿAbdul-Rahmān b. 'Auf; 'Abdu ʿl-Rahmān b. 'Auf was with 'Umar one day and he (the former) broke al-Zubayr's sword. But God knows best who broke it. Then Abū Bakr got up and addressed the people excusing himself and saying, 'Never for a moment was I eager for authority (imāra) nor did I want it or pray to God for it secretly or publicly. But I was afraid of disorder. I take no pleasure in authority. I have been invested with a grave matter for which I have not the strength and can only cope with it if God gives me the strength. I would that he who has the most strength for it were in my place.' The emigrants accepted his excuse and ʿAlī and al-Zubayr b.

al-'Awwām said: 'We were angry only because we were not admitted to the council and we think that Abū Bakr is the most worthy of supreme authority now that the apostle is dead. He was the one with the apostle in the cave and we recognize his dignity and seniority; and the apostle put him in charge of the prayers while he was still with us.'

A few comments on this brief anthology will not be out of place here. No. 12 clearly deals with the vexed question of the future state of the wicked Muslim, while No. 18 is a post eventum prophecy. Inevitably they arouse doubt in the mind of the reader.

From this selection as a whole we can see where the sympathies of the collector lay. Thus, al-Zubayr's generosity to Muhammad and Abū Bakr are recorded in No. 4. The claims of the Alids to special consideration are brushed aside in No. 9; while No. 19 states that ʿAlī explicitly accepted Abū Bakr as Muhammad's successor. No. 6 shows that al-ʿAbbās had to pay his ransom in full even when the ʿAnṣār pleaded for his exemption. No. 10 mourns the victims of the Umayyads at al-Harra and records that the prophet implored God's blessing on them and their grandchildren.

Clearly Mūsā's sympathies lay with the family of al-Zubayr and the ʿAnṣār. They alone emerge with credit. The Alids, on the other hand, are no better than anyone else; the Umayyads are implicitly condemned for the slaughter at al-Harra; and al-ʿAbbās is shown to have been a rebel against the prophet who was forced to pay for his opposition to him to the uttermost farthing.

Mūsā b. ʿUqba has said pretty much the same on the subject of the ʿAnṣār and al-ʿAbbās as I.I. said before his editor I.H. pruned his work, though he took a different view of the Alids.
PART I
THE GENEALOGY OF MUHAMMAD
TRADITIONS FROM THE PRE-ISLAMIC ERA MUHAMMAD'S CHILDHOOD AND EARLY MANHOOD
IN THE NAME OF GOD, THE COMPASSIONATE
THE MERCIFUL
PRAISE BELONGS TO GOD THE LORD OF THE WORLDS AND MAY HIS BLESSING BE UPON OUR LORD MUHAMMAD AND HIS FAMILY, ALL OF THEM

MUHAMMAD’S PURE DESCENT FROM ADAM

Abū Muhammad 'Abdu'l-Malik ibn Hishām the Grammarian said:

This is the book of the biography of the apostle of God.

Muhammad was the son of 'Abdullah, b. 'Abdu'l-Muttalib (whose name was Shayba), b. Hāshim (whose name was 'Amr), b. 'Abdu Manāf (whose name was al-Mughira), b. Quṣayy (whose name was Zayd), b. Kīlāb, b. Murra, b. Ka'b, b. Lu'ayy, b. Ghālib, b. Fihr, b. Mālik, b. al-Nadr, b. Khuṣayna, b. Mudriqa (whose name was 'Amir), b. Ilyās, b. Mūdar, b. Nīzar, b. Ma'add, b. 'Adnān, b. 'Ud (or 'Udā), b. Muqawwam, b. Nājur, b. Tayraḥ, b. Ya'rūb, b. Yāshjūb, b. Nābit, b. Ismā'il, b. Ibrāhīm, the friend of the Compassionate, b. Tārih (who is Āzar), b. Nājur, b. Sārūgh, b. Rā'ū, b. Fālikh, b. 'Ayyār, b. Shālikh, b. Arfakhshad, b. Sām, b. Nūḥ, b. Lamk, b. Mattūshālakh, b. Akmāk, who is the prophet Idrīs according to what they allege, but God knows best (he was the first of the sons of Adam to whom prophecy and writing with a pen were given), b. Yard, b. Mahīl, b. Qaynan, b. Yānish, b. Shīth, b. Adam (10).

THE LINE OF ISMĀ‘IL

Ismā‘il b. Ibrāhīm begat twelve sons: Nābit the eldest, Qaydhar, Adhbul, Mabshī, Misma', Māshī, Dimmā, Adhrī, Tāyynā, Yaṭūr, Nabīsh, Qaydhumā. Their mother was Ra‘lā d. Muṣād b. 'Amr al-Jurhumā (11). Jurhum was the son of Yaqtan b. 'Ayyar b. Shālikh, and [Yaqtan was] Qaṭīf b. 'Ayyar b. Shālikh. According to report Ismā‘il lived 130 years,

1 The formula of blessing which follows every mention of the prophet is omitted hereafter. Capital B. stands for 'Sons of'; b. for 'son of'; d. for 'daughter of'.
2 The phrase employed indicates that the writer doubts the statement. There is a saying in Arabic: "There is a euphemism for everything and the polite way of saying 'It is a lie' is "they allege" (za 'amay).
3 These words are added by C. as the context demands.
4 T.H.'s additions to the text are numbered 10 and onwards.
The Life of Muhammad

and when he died he was buried in the sacred precincts of the Ka'ba beside his mother Hagar (12).

Muhammad b. Muslim b. 'Ubaydullah b. Shihāb al-Zuhri told me that 'Abdu'l-Raḥmān b. 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik al-Anṣārī, also called al-Sulāmi, told him that the apostle of God said: 'When you conquer Egypt treat its people well, for they can claim our protection and kinship.' I asked al-Zuhri what the apostle meant by making them our kin and he replied that Hagar, the mother of Isma'il, was of their stock (13).

From 'Adnān the tribes descended from Isma'il were of their stock (13).

From 'Adnān the tribes descended from Isma'il were of their stock (13).

6, 7 two sons, Ma'add and 'Akk (14). Ma'add had four sons: Nizār, Qudā'a (he being his first born he was called Abū Qudā'a), Qunūs, and Iyād. Qudā'a went to the Yemen to Himyar b. Saba' whose name was 'Abdu Shams; the reason why he was called Saba' was that he was the first among the Arabs to take captives. He was the son of Yashjub b. Ya'rūb b. Qaḥṭān (15). Of Qunūs b. Ma'add according to the genealogists of Ma'add, none has survived. Al-Nu'mān b. al-Mundhir king of al-Ḥira belonged to their tribe. Al-Zuhri told me that this Nu'mān belonged to the Qunaysh and indeed of all the Arabs and claimed to have been the only man who knows its meaning is he who knows about the vision without my telling him. Thereupon one of them recommended him to send for Shīqq and Saṭīḥ, for they knew more than others and would be able to answer his questions. Saṭīḥ's name was Rabī' b. Rabī' b. Ma'sūd b. Māzin, b. Dhi'b b. 'Ady b. Māzin Ghassān. Shīqq was the son of Sa'b, b. Yashkur b. Ruhm b. Affāk, b. Qasr b. 'Abqār b. Anmār b. Nizār, and Anmār was the father of Bājila and Khaṭh 'am (18).

So he sent for them and Saṭīḥ arrived first. The king then repeated his words, ending, 'If you know the vision you will know what it means.' Saṭīḥ replied [in sa'j]:

A fire you did see
Come forth from the sea.
It fell on the low country
And devoured all that be.

The king agreed that this was exactly what he had seen, and what was the meaning of it all? He answered:

By the serpent of the lava plains I swear
The Ethiopians on your land shall bear
Ruling from Abyan to Jurash everywhere.

The king exclaimed that this was distressing news, but when would these things come to pass—in his time or after him? He replied: [again in rhyme] that more than sixty or seventy years must first pass. Would the new-comers' kingdom last? No, an end would be put to it after seventy years or more; then they would be slain or driven out as fugitives. Who would do this? Iram b. Dhu Yazan, who would come against them from Aden and not leave one of them in the Yemen. Further questions drew the information that their kingdom would not last, but a pure prophet to whom revelation came from on high would bring it to an end; he would be a man of the sons of Ghālib b. Fihr b. Mālik, b. al-Naḍīr. His dominion would last to the end of time. Has time an end? asked the king. Yes, replied Saṭīḥ, the day on which the first and the last shall be assembled, the righteous for happiness, the evil doers for misery. Are you telling me the truth? the king asked.

Yes, by the dark and the twilight
And the dawn that follows the night
Verily what I have told you is right.

Later Shīqq arrived and the king acquainted him with the facts but did not tell him what Saṭīḥ had said, so that he might see whether they agreed or differed. His words were:

A fire you did see
Come forth from the sea.
It fell between rock and tree
Devouring all that did breathe.
It was Tībān As'ad Abū Karīb who went to Medina and took away to the Yaman two Jewish rabbis from thence. He adorned the sacred temple and covered it with cloth. His reign was before that of Rabī’ā b. Naṣr (23).

When he came from the east he had passed by Medina without harming its people; but he left behind there one of his sons who was treacherously slain. Thereupon he returned with the intention of destroying the town and exterminating its people and cutting down its palms. So this tribe of the Anṣār gathered together under the leadership of ‘Amr b. Ṭalla the brother of B. al-Najjār and one of B. ‘Amr b. Mabdūhūl. Mabdūhūl’s name was ‘Amir b. Mālik b. al-Najjār; and al-Najjār’s name was Taym Allah b. Tha’laba b. ‘Amr b. al-Kharrison b. Ḥāritha b. Tha’laba b. ‘Amr b. ‘Amir (24).

Now a man of B. ‘Adiy b. al-Najjār called Aḥmar had fallen upon one of the followers of Tubba’ when he brought them to Medina and killed him,2 because he caught him among his palms cutting the date clusters; he struck him with his sickle and killed him, saying ‘The fruit belongs to the man who captivates it.’ This enraged the Tubba’ against them and fighting broke out. Indeed the Anṣār asserted that they used to fight them by day and treat them as guests by night. Tubba’ was amazed at this and used to say: ‘By God our people are generous!’

While Tubba’ was occupied in this fighting there came two Jewish rabbis from B. Qurayṣa—Qurayṣa, and al-Naḍīr and al-Najjār and ‘Amr intention to destroy the town and its people and they said to him: ‘O King, do not do it, for if you persist in your intention something will happen to prevent your carrying it out and we fear that you will incur speedy retribution.’ When the king asked the reason for this they told him that Yathrib was the place to which a prophet of the Quraysh would migrate in time to come, and it would be his home and resting-place. Seeing that these men had hidden knowledge the king took their words in good part and gave up their design, departed from Medina and embraced the rabbi’s religion.4

Has he given up youthful folly or ceased to remember it?
Or has he had his fill of pleasure?

1 ‘ammara perhaps means ‘restored’. Tab. omits this sentence.
2 ‘Amr: adds: ‘and threw him into a well called Dḥār Tūmnān’.
3 Variant Qāḥrāt.
4 Tab. traces back this story through Ibn Ḫayq—Yazīd b. ‘Amr—Abūn b. Abū ‘Ayāsh—Anās b. Mālik to certain shaykhs of Medina who lived in pre-Islamic times.
The Life of Muhammad

Or have you remembered youth?
And what a memory of youth and its times you have!
It was a young man’s war
Such as gives him experience.
So ask 'Imrān or Asad,
When headlong’ with the morning star came
Abū Karib with his great squadrons
Clad in long mail, of pungent smell.
They said, Whom shall we make for,
The Banū Auf or the Najjar?
Surely the Banū-l-Najjar,
For we seek revenge for our dead.
Then our swordsmen² went to meet them,
Their number as the drops of widely falling rain,
Among them Ṭārā b. Talla
(God prolong his life for the welfare of his people).
A chief who is on a level with kings but whose
Would vie with him does not know his eminence.

This tribe of the Anṣār claim that the Tubba’ was enraged only against this tribe of the Jews who were living among them and that it was only his intention to destroy them, but they protected them until he went his way. Therefore in his verse he said:

In rage against two Jewish tribes who live in Yathrib
Who richly deserve the punishment of a fateful day (25).³

Now the Tubba’ and his people were idolaters. He set out for Mecca which was on his way to the Yaman, and when he was between Ḥudayl and

Ma‘add came to him saying, ‘O King, may we not lead you to an ancient treasury which former kings have overlooked? It contains pearls, topaz, rubies, gold, and silver.’ Certainly, said he, and they added that it was a temple in Mecca which its people worshipped and where they prayed. But the real intention of the Hudhaylis was to encompass his destruction, for they knew that any king that treated it with disrespect was sure to die.
Having agreed to their proposal he sent to the two rabbis and asked the,r opinion. They told him that the sole object of the tribe was to destroy him and his army. ‘We know of no other temple in the land which God has chosen for Himself, said they, and if you do what they suggest you and all your men will perish.’ The king asked them what he should do when he got there, and they told him to do what the people of Mecca did: to circumambulate the temple, to venerate and honour it, to shave his head, and to behave with all humility until he had left its precincts.

The king asked why they too should not do likewise. They replied that it was indeed the temple of their father Abraham, but the idols which the inhabitants had set up round it, and the blood which they shed there, presented an insuperable obstacle. They are unclean polytheists, said they —or words to that effect.

Recognizing the soundness and truth of their words the king summoned the men from the Hudhayl and cut off their hands and feet, and continued his journey to Mecca. He went round the Ka’ba, sacrificed, and shaved his head, staying there six days (so they say) sacrificing animals which he distributed to the people and giving them honey to drink.

It was revealed to him in a dream that he should cover the temple, so he covered it with woven palm branches; a later vision showed him that he must do better so he covered it with Yamani cloth; a third vision induced him to clothe it with fine striped Yamani cloth. People say that the Tubba’ was the first man to cover the temple in this way. He ordered its Jurhum guardians to keep it clean and not to allow blood, dead bodies, or men­ struous cloths to come near it, and he made a door and a key for it.

was the wife of ’Abdu Manāf b. Ka’b b. Sa’d b. Ṭaym b. Murra b. Ka’b b. son called Khālid; and in impressing on him the sanctity of Mecca and forbidding him to commit grievous sin there, she reminded him of Tubba’ and his humility towards it and his work there, in the following lines:

O my son, oppress neither the mean nor the great in Mecca.
 Preserve its sanctity and be not led away.¹
He who does evil in Mecca will meet the worst misfortune.
His face will be smitten and his cheeks will burn with fire.
I know from certain knowledge that the evildoer there will perish.
God has made it inviolate though no castles are built in its court.
God has made its birds inviolate and the wild goats on Thabir² are safe.
Tubba’ came against it, but covered its building with embroidered cloth.

God humbled his sovereignty there so he fulfilled his vows,
Walking barefoot to it with two thousand camels in its courtyard.
Its people he fed with the flesh of Mahri camels.
Gave them to drink strained honey and pure barley-water.
(God) destroyed the army of the elephant,
They were pelted with great stones.²

¹ A reminiscence of Sūra 31.33 and 35.5.
² A mountain above Mecca. ‘Umm could mean ‘wild birds’.
³ Either the poem has suffered interpolation or it is the product of a later age because the story of the Elephant belongs to the expedition of Abraham the Abyssinian mentioned on

---

¹ Variant ghadwan ‘at early dawn’.³ Reading musbiyyatun.
² W.‘s text is preceded by another verse. Tab. has preserved the full text which I have inserted at the end of this section in the context assigned to it by Tab.
⁴ Authorizes differ as to the size of the Ḥarrā. Amāj is the name of a town within reach of Medina and also of a wadi running from the Ḥarrā of the Banū Sulaym to the sea.
17 Afterwards he set forth for the Yaman with his army and the two rabbis, and when he reached his own country he invited his people to adopt his new religion, but they refused until the matter could be tested by the ordeal of fire which was there.

Abū Mālik b. Ṭalḥa b. Abū Mālik al-Quraṣi told me that he heard 'Ubaydallāh b. Ibrāhīm b. Muhammad b. Ṭalḥa unrelated by 'Ubaydallāh narrate that when Tūbbā' drew near to the Yaman the Ḥimyarītes blocked his path, refusing to let him pass because he had abandoned their religion. When he invited them to accept his religion on the ground that it was better than theirs, they proposed that the matter should be subject to the ordeal by fire. The Yamanītes say that a fire used to settle matters in dispute among them by consuming the guilty and letting the innocent go scathless.1 So his people went forth with their idols and sacred objects, and the two rabbis went forth with their sacred books2 hanging like necklaces from their necks until they halted at the place whence the fire used to blaze out. On this occasion when it came out the Yamanītes withdrew in terror, but their followers encouraged them and urged them to stand fast, so they held their ground until the fire covered them and consumed their idols and sacred objects and the men who bore them. But the two rabbis came out with their sacred books, sweating profusely but otherwise unharmed. Thereupon the Ḥimyarītes accepted the king's religion. Such was the origin of Judaism in the Yaman.

Another informant told me that the two parties only went up to the fire to drive it back, for it was held that the one who succeeded in driving it back was most worthy of credence. When the Ḥimyarītes with their idols came near to drive the fire back, the fire came out against them and they withdrew unable to withstand it. Afterwards, when the two rabbis came reciting the Torah, the fire receded so that they drove it back to the place from which it had emerged. Thereupon the Ḥimyarītes accepted the king's religion. But God knows which report is correct.

18 Now Rīḍām was one of the temples which they venerated and where they offered sacrifices and received oracles when they were polytheists. The two rabbis told Tūbbā' that it was merely a shaṭān which deceived them in this way and they asked to be allowed to deal with it. When the king agreed they commanded a black dog to come out of it and killed it—

\[\text{pp. 29 f. W.'s reading 'They shot great stones into it' probably refers to the siege when al-Hajjāj bombarded Mecca. The contrast between his violence and the humility of Tūbbā' is hinted at in the last line.} \]

1 For an account of a modern ordeal of a similar though simpler character among the Arabs of Sinai see Austin Kennett, Bedouin Justice, Cambridge, 1925, pp. 107-14.

2 Perhaps 'phylacteries' are meant.
The Life of Muhammad

And left those men an example to the discerning.
Dhu'l-Qarnayn before me was a Muslim
Conquered kings thronged his court,
East and west he ruled, yet he sought
Knowledge true from a learned sage.
He saw where the sun sinks from view
In a pool of mud and fetid slime.
Before him Bilqis my mother's sister
Ruled them until the hoopoe came to her. 1.

The reign of his son Hassân ibn Tîbân and how Amr killed his brother

When his son Hassân b. Tîbân As'ad Abu Karib came to the throne he set out with the Yamanites to subdue the land of the Arabs and Persians. However, when they reached a place in Iraq (27) the Himyarite and Yamanite tribes were unwilling to go farther and wanted to return to their families, so they approached one of his brothers called 'Amr who was with him in the army and said that if he would kill his brother they would make him king so that he might lead them home again. He said that he would do so, and they all agreed to join in the plot except Dhu Ru'ayn the Himyarite. He forbade him to do this, but he would not heed, so Dhu Ru'ayn wrote the following verses:

Oh who would buy sleeplessness for sleep?
Happy is he who passes the night in peace;
Though Himyar have been treacherous,
God will hold Dhu Ru'ayn blameless.

He sealed the document and brought it to 'Amr, saying: 'Keep this with you for me,' and he did so. Then 'Amr killed his brother Hassân and returned to the Yaman with his men. 2 One of the Himyarites was moved to say:

In former generations
What eyes have seen
The like of Hassân who has been slain!
The princes slew him lest they should be kept at war.
On the morrow they said 'It is naught!'
Your dead was the best of us and your living one
Is lord over us while all of you are lords.

1 The poem is spurious; it is not difficult to see how T. Ishâq persuaded himself to incorporate such an obvious forgery in a serious historical work. At this point Tab. introduces a long passage from L. I. A much longer story via 'Uthmân b. Skâ is given by Azr. i. 79.
2 T. 915. Hassan vainly appeals to his brother thus:
Do not hasten my death, 0 'Amr.
Take the kingdom without using force.

The Life of Muhammad

The words 'labâbi labâbi' mean 'no matter' in the Himyarite language (28).
When Amr b. Tîbân returned to the Yaman he could not sleep and insomnia took a firm hold of him. Being much concerned at this, he asked the physicians and those of the soothsayers and diviners who were seers about his trouble. One of them said: 'No man has ever killed his brother or kinsman treacherously as you killed your brother without losing his sleep and becoming a prey to insomnia.' At this he began to kill all the nobles who had urged him to murder his brother Hassân, till finally he came to Dhu Ru'ayn who claimed that 'Amr held the proof of his innocence, namely the paper which he had given him. He had it brought to him and when he had read the two verses he let him go, recognizing that he had given him good counsel. 3 When 'Amr died the Himyarite kingdom fell into disorder and the people split up into parties.

How Lakhni'a Dhu Shanâtir Seized the Throne of the Yaman

A Himyar who had no connexion with the royal house called Lakhni'a Yanûf Dhu Shanâtir arose and killed off their leading men and put the royal family to open shame. Of this man a certain Himyar recited:

Himyar was slaying its sons and exiling its princes,
Working its shame with its own hands,
Destroying its worldly prosperity with frivolous thoughts.
Even greater was the loss of their religion.
So did earlier generations bring their doom
By acts of injustice and profligacy.

Lakhni'a was a most evil man—a sodomite. He used to summon a young man of the royal family and assault him in a room which he had constructed for this very purpose, so that he could not reign after him. Then he used to go from this upper chamber of his to his guards and soldiers, (who were below) having put a toothpick in his mouth to let them know that he had accomplished his purpose. (T. Then he would release him and he would appear before the guards and the people utterly disgraced.) One day he sent for Zur'a Dhu Nuwas son of Tîbân As'ad brother of Hassân. He was a little boy when Hassân was murdered and had become a fine handsome young man of character and intelligence. When the messenger came he perceived what was intended and took a fine sharp knife and hid it under the sole of his foot and went to Lakhni'a. As soon as they were alone he attacked him and Dhu Nuwas rushed upon him and stabbed him to death. He then cut off his head and put it in the window

1 Tab. 916 f. contains a long poem ascribed to 'Amr.
2 Nohl, Gesch. d. Perser u. Araber, 173, notes that the name Lakhni'atha occurs in inscriptions and that Shanâtir means 'fingers'.
3 T. 915.
which overlooked the men below. He stuck the toothpick in his mouth and went out to the guards, who in coarse language inquired what had happened. 'Ask that head,' he replied. They looked at the window and there was Lakhn'a's head cut off. So they went in pursuit of Dhu Nuwäs and said: 'You must be our king and no one else, seeing that you have rid us of this disgusting fellow.' (29).

THE REIGN OF DHU NUWÄS

They made him king and all the tribes of Ḥimyar joined him. He was the last of the Yamani kings and the man who had the ditch made. He was called Joseph and reigned for some considerable time.

In Najran there were some people who held the religion of 'Īsā b. Maryam, a virtuous and upright people who followed the Gospel. Their head was named 'Abdullah b. al-Thāmir. The place where that religion took root was in Najran, at that time the centre of the Arabs' country; its people, and indeed the rest of the Arabs, were idolaters. A Christian by the name of Faymiuyun had settled there and converted the people to his religion.

THE BEGINNING OF CHRISTIANITY IN NAJRÄN

Al-Mughira b. Abū Labid, a freedman of al-Akhnas, on the authority of Wahb b. Munabbih the Yamani told me that the origin of Christianity in Najran was due to a man named Faymiyun who was a righteous, earnest, ascetic man whose prayers were answered. He used to wander between towns: as soon as he became known in one town he moved to another, eating only what he earned, for he was a builder by trade using mud bricks. He used to keep Sunday as a day of rest and would do no work then. He used to go into a desert place and pray there until the evening. While he was following his trade in a Syrian village withdrawing himself from men, one of the people there called Sālih perceived what manner of man he was and felt a violent affection for him, so that unperceived by Faymiyun he used to follow him from place to place, until one Sunday he went as his wont was out into the desert followed by Sālih. Sālih chose a hiding-place and sat down where he could see him, not wanting him to know where he was. As Faymiyun stood to pray a tinnin, a seven-horned snake, came towards him and when Faymiyun saw it he cursed it and it died. Seeing the snake but not knowing what had happened to it and fearing for Faymiyun's safety, Sālih could not contain himself and cried out: 'Faymiyun, a tinnin is upon you!' He took no notice and went on with his prayers until he had ended them. Night had come and he departed. He knew that he had been recognized and Sālih knew that he had seen him. So he said to him: 'Faymiyun, you know that I have never loved anything as I love you; I want to be always with you and go wherever you go.' He replied: 'As you will. You know how I live and if you feel that you can bear the life well and good.' So Sālih remained with him, and the people of the village were on the point of discovering his secret. For when a man suffering from a disease came in his way by chance he prayed for him and he was cured; but if he was summoned to a sick man he would not go. Now one of the villagers had a son who was blind and he asked about Faymiyun and was told that he never came when he was sent for, but that he was a man who built houses for people for a wage. Thereupon the man took his son and put him in his room and threw a garment over him and went to Faymiyun saying that he wanted him to do some work for him in his house and would he come and look at it, and they would agree on a price. Arrived at the house Faymiyun asked what he wanted done, and after giving details the man suddenly whisked off the covering from the boy and said: 'Of Faymiyun, one of God's creatures is in the state you see. So pray for him.' Faymiyun did so and the boy got entirely healed.

Knowing that he had been recognized he left the village followed by Sālih, and while they were walking through Syria they passed by a great tree and a man called from it saying, 'I've been expecting you and saying, "When is he coming?" until I heard your voice and knew it was you. Don't go until you have prayed over my grave for I am about to die.' He did die and he prayed over him until they buried him. Then he left followed by Sālih until they reached the land of the Arabs who attacked them, and a caravan carried them off and sold them in Najran. At this time the people of Najran followed the religion of the Arabs worshipping a great palm-tree there. Every year they had a festival when they hung on the tree any fine garment they could find and women's jewels. Then they sallied out and devoted the day to it. Faymiyun was sold to one noble and Sālih to another. Now it happened that when Faymiyun was praying earnestly at night in a house which his master had assigned to him the whole house was filled with light so that it shone as it were without a lamp. His master was amazed at the sight, and asked him about his religion. Faymiyun told him and said that they were in error; as for the palm-tree he could neither help nor hurt; and if he were to curse the tree in the name of his servant to ruin it. Restore him to health and protect him from him.'

1 The Arabic text is in some disorder here, but the citation from al-Aghānī given in the Cairo edition makes it possible to restore the true reading. A literal translation has been avoided for obvious reasons.
2 Or 'sick'.
3 'T.' gives the words of Faymiyun's prayer: 'O God, thy enemy has attacked the health of one of thy servants to ruin it. Restore him to health and protect him from him.'
The Life of Muhammad

of God, He would destroy it, for He was God Alone without companion. 'Then do so,' said his master, 'for if you do that we shall embrace your religion, and abandon our present faith.' After purifying himself and performing two rak'as, he invoked God against the tree and God sent a wind against it which tore it from its roots and cast it on the ground. Then the people of Najrān adopted his religion and he instructed them in the law of 'Isa b. Maryam. Afterwards they suffered the misfortunes which befell their co-religionists in every land. This was the origin of Christianity in Najrān in the land of the Arabs. Such is the report of Wāhīb b. Mūnabbih on the authority of the people of Najrān.

'ABBUDULLAH IBN AL-THAMIR AND THOSE WHO PERISHED IN THE TRENCH

Yazīd b. Ziyād told me on the authority of Muhammad b. Ka'b al-Qurāṭi, and a man of Najrān also told me, that according to his people they used to worship idols. Najrān is the largest town in which the people of the neighbouring district congregated, and in a village hard by there was a sorcerer who used to instruct the young men of Najrān in his art. When Faymīyūn came there—they did not call him by the name that Wāhīb b. Mūnabbih gives him but simply said a man came there—he put up a tent between Najrān and the place where the sorcerer was. Now the people of Najrān used to send their young men to that sorcerer to be taught sorcery and al-Thāmir sent his son 'Abdullāh along with them. When he passed by the man in the tent he was immensely struck by his prayers and devotion and began to sit with him and listen to him until he became a Muslim and acknowledged the unity of God and worshipped Him. He asked questions about the laws of Islam until when he became fully instructed therein he asked the man what was the Great Name of God. Although he knew it he kept it from him, saying: 'My dear young man, you will not be able to bear it; I fear that you are not strong enough.' Now al-Thāmir had no idea that his son 'Abdullāh was not visiting the sorcerer along with the other young men. 'Abdullāh seeing that his master had kept the knowledge from him and was afraid of his weakness, collected a number of sticks and whenever he taught him a name of God he wrote it on a stick. When he had got them all he lit a fire and began to throw them in one by one until when he reached the stick with the Great Name inscribed on it he threw it in, and it immediately sprang out untouched by the fire. Thereupon he took it and went and told his master that he knew the Great Name which he had concealed from him. The latter questioned him and when he learned how he had found out the secret he said, 'O my young friend, you have got it, but keep it to yourself, though I do not think you will.'

Thereafter whenever 'Abdullāh b. al-Thāmir entered Najrān and met any sick person he would say to him, 'O servant of God, will you acknowledge the unity of God and adopt my religion so that I may pray to God that he may heal you of your affliction?' The man would agree, acknowledge the unity of God, and become a Muslim, and he would pray for him and he would be healed, until in the end there was not a single sick person in Najrān but had adopted his religion and become whole from his sickness. When the news reached the king he sent for him and said: 'You have corrupted the people of my town so that they are against me and have opposed my religion and the religion of my fathers. I will make a terrible example of you!' He replied: 'You have not the power to do that.' The king had him taken to a high mountain and thrown down headlong, but he reached the ground unhurt. Then he had him thrown into deep water in Najrān from which no one had ever emerged alive, but he came out safely. Having thus got the better of him 'Abdullāh told him that he would not be able to kill him until he acknowledged the unity of God and believed in his religion; but that if he did that he would be given power to kill him. The king then acknowledged the unity of God and pronounced the creed of 'Abdullāh, and hitting him a moderate blow with a stick which he had in his hand he killed him and died himself on the spot. The people of Najrān accepted the religion of 'Abdullāh b. al-Thāmir according to the Gospel and the law which 'Isa b. Maryam brought. Afterwards they were overtaken by the misfortunes which befell their co-religionists. Such is the origin of Christianity in Najrān. But God knows best (what the facts are).

Such is the report of Muhammad b. Ka'b al-Qurāṭi and one of the men of Najrān about 'Abdullāh b. al-Thāmir, but God knows best what happened. Dhū Nuwās came against them with his armies and invited them to accept Judaism, giving them the choice between that or death: they chose death. So he dug trenches for them; burnt some in fire, slew some with the sword, and mutilated them until he had killed nearly twenty thousand of them. Concerning Dhū Nuwās and that army of his God revealed to his apostle

On the trenchmakers be eternal ire
For their fuel-fed fire
Watching as the flames grew higher
The sufferings of the faithful, dire!
They only tormented them because they believed in God the Mighty, the Worthy to be Praised (30).

1 Or 'innovations' (abdāts), so Nolde, op. cit., 182, v.s.
2 The Quran teaches that pure Christianity was Islam, cf. Sūra 3: 45 et passim.
3 Lit. 'Son of my brother.'
The Life of Muhammad

It is said that among those put to death by Dhū Nuwās was 'Abdullah b. al-Thāmir, their leader and imām.1

I was told by 'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amr b. Ḥazm that he was told that in the days of 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb a man of Najrān dug up one of the ruins of Najrān intending to make use of the land, when they came upon 'Abdullah b. al-Thāmir under a grave; he was in a sitting posture with his hand covering a wound in his head and holding firmly to it. When his hand was removed the blood began to flow; when they let go of his hand it returned to its place and the flow of blood ceased. On his finger was a ring inscribed 'Allah is my Lord'. A report was sent to 'Umar and he replied: 'Leave him alone and cover in the grave' and his orders were duly carried out.

A man of Saba' called Daus Dhū Tha‘labān escaped on a horse, and taking to the desert eluded them.2 He pressed on until he reached the Byzantine court, when he asked the emperor to aid him against Dhū Nuwās and his troops, telling him what had happened. The latter replied that his country was too distant for him to be able to help by sending troops, but that he would write to the Abyssinian king who was a Christian and whose territory was near the Yaman. Accordingly he did write ordering him to help Daus and seek revenge.

Daus went to the Negus with the emperor's letter, and he sent with him seventy thousand Abyssinians, putting over them a man called Ayyāt. (T. He ordered him to kill a third of the men, lay waste a third of the country, and seize a third of the women and children if he conquered.) With the army there was a man called Abraha 'Split-face'. Ayyāt crossed the sea with Daus Dhū Tha‘labān and landed in the Yaman. Dhū Nuwās with the Himyarites and such of the Yamani tribes as were under his command came out against him, and after an engagement Dhū Nuwās and his force was put to flight.3 Seeing that his cause was lost Dhū Nuwās turned his horse seawards beating it until it entered the waves and carried him through the shallows out into the deep water. This was the last that was seen of him. Ayyāt entered the Yaman and took possession of it. (T. He

1 Another tradition in T. says that 'Abdullah was killed by an earlier king. Aaz. i. 81 gives a somewhat different version from the ṭālīuyát of Ibn Sājī. For an account of these martyrs from Christian sources see The Book of the Himyarites, ed. Axel Moberg, Lund, 1924.
2 Tab. 925. 9 says that there was a Yamani report that a man of Najrān called Jabbār b. Fuyād also escaped.
3 Tab. 927. 15 contains an account of the disordered state of the Yamani army and their feeble opposition.

Peace, confound you! You can't turn me from my purpose
Thy scolding dries my spittle!
To the music of singers in times past 'twas fine
When we drank our fill of purest noblest wine.
Drinking freely of wine brings me no shame
If my behaviour no boon-companion would blame.
For death no man can hold back
Though he drink the perfumed potions of the quack.
Nor monk in his secluded cell on high
Where the vulture round his nest doth fly.
You have heard of Ghamdān's towers:
From the mountain top it lowers
Well carpentered, with stones for stay,
Plastered with clean, damp, slippery clay;
Oil lamps within it show
At even like the lightning's glow.
Beside its wall the palm-trees fine
With ripening fruit in clusters shine.
This once-new castle is ashes today,
The flames have eaten its beauty away.
Dhū Nuwās humbled gave up his castle great
And warned his people of their coming fate.

With reference to that, Ibn al-Dhi‘ba al-Thaqafi said (31):

By thy life there's no escape for a man when death and old age seize him.

By thy life a man has nowhere to flee—no asylum.
The Life of Muhammad

Could there be after Ḥimyar's tribes were destroyed one morn by calamity's stroke,
A thousand thousand with spearmen (glittering) like the sky before rain.
Their cry deafened the chargers and they put to flight the warriors with their pungent smell.
Witches as the sand in number the very sap of trees dried at their approach.

'Amr b. Ma'di Karib al-Zubaydī said concerning a dispute which he had with Qays b. Makshūh al-Murādī when he heard that he had threatened him, and bringing to memory the lost glory of Ḥimyar:

Do you threaten me as though you were Dhū Ru'ayn
Or Dhū Nuwās in the days of their prime?
Many a man before you was prosperous
With a kingdom firmly rooted among men.
Ancient as the days of Ṭūd
Exceeding fierce, overcoming tyrants,
Yet his people perished
And he became a wanderer among men (1).
would make one of the holy months profane, and make one of the profane months holy to balance the calendar. It was about this that God sent down: 'Postponement (of a sacred month) is but added infidelity by which those who disbelieve are misled. They make it (the month) profane one year and make it sacred the next year, that they may make up the number of the months which God has made sacred (33).'

The first to impose this system of intercalation on the Arabs was al-Qalammas who was Ḥudhayfah b. 'Abd b. Fuqaym b. 'Adiy b. 'Amir b. Tha'labah b. al-Ḥārith b. Mālik b. Kīnāna b. Khuzayma; his son 'Abbād followed him; then his descendants Qala', Umayya, 'Auf, and Abū Thumāma Junāda b. 'Auf who was the last of them, for he was overtaken by Islam. When the Arabs had finished pilgrimage, it used to be their practice to gather round him and he would declare the four sacred months Rajab, Dhū'l-Qa'da, Dhū'l-Hijja, and al-Muharram. If he wanted to free a period he would free al-Muharram and they would declare it free and ban Sāfar in its place so as to make up the number of the four sacred months. When they wanted to return from Mecca, he got up and said: 'O God, I have made one of the Sāfars free for them, the first Sāfar, and I have postponed the other till next year.'

About this 'Umayr b. Qays Jadhlu'l-Tīān, one of the B. Fīrās b. Ghamm b. Tha'labah b. Mālik b. Kīnāna, boasting of this determining of the months, improvised:

Ma'ād arrān knows that my people are the most honourable of men and have noble ancestors. Who has escaped us when we seek vengeance and whom have we not made to champ the bit? Are we not Ma'ād's calendar-makers, making profane months sacred?

The Kīnānite went forth until he came to the cathedral and defiled it (35). Then he returned to his own country. Hearing of the matter Abraha made inquiries and learned that the outrage had been committed by an Arab who came from the temple in Mecca where the Arabs went on pilgrimage, and that he had done this in anger at his threat to divert the Arabs' pilgrimage to the cathedral, showing thereby that it was unworthy of reverence.

Abraha was enraged and swore that he would go to this temple and destroy it. (T. With Abraha there were some Arabs who had come to seek his bounty, among them Muhammad b. Khuzayma b. Khuzayma b. al-Dhakhwānī, b. Sulamī, with a number of his tribesmen including a brother of his called Qays. While they were with him a feast of Abraha occurred and he sent to invite them to the feast. Now he used to eat an animal's testicles, so when the invitation was brought they said, 'By God, if we eat this the Arabs will hold it against us as long as we live.' Thereupon Abraha got up and went to Abraha and said, 'O King, this is a festival of ours in which we eat only the loins and shoulders.' Abraha replied that he would send them what they liked, because his sole purpose in inviting them was to show that he honoured them. Then he crowned Muhammad and made him amir of Muḍar and ordered him to go among the people to invite them to pilgrimage at his cathedral which he had built. When Muhammad got as far as the land of Kīnāna the people of the lowland knowing what he had come for sent a man of Hudhayfah called 'Urwa b. Hayyād al-Milāsī who shot him with an arrow, killing him. His brother Qays who was with him fled to Abraha and told him the news, which increased his rage and fury and he swore to raid the B. Kīnāna and destroy the temple.) So he commanded the Abyssinians to prepare and make ready, and sallied forth with the elephant. News of this plunged the Arabs into alarm and anxiety and they decided that it was incumbent on them to fight against him when they heard that he meant to destroy the Ka'ba, God's holy house.

A member of one of the ruling families in the Yaman, Dūḥ Nafr by name, summoned his people and such of the Arabs as would follow him to fight Abraha and stop him from attacking and destroying God's holy house. A certain number supported him, but after a battle Dūḥ Nafr and his followers were put to flight and he himself was taken prisoner and brought to Abraha. When he was about to put him to death Dūḥ Nafr pleaded for his life on the ground that he would be more useful to him alive than dead. Abraha then gave him his life but kept him in fetters. He was a merciful man.

Abraha continued on his road to Mecca until in the country of Khath'am he was opposed by Nufayl b. Ḥabīb al-Khath'ānī with his two tribes Shahrān and Nāhis and such of the Arab tribes as followed him. After an engagement he was defeated and taken prisoner. When Abraha thought of killing him, Nufayl said: 'Don't kill me, O King, for I will be your guide in the Arab country. Here are my two hands as surety that the two tribes of Khath'am, Shahrān and Nāhis, will obey you.' So Abraha let him go.

My people are Iyād, would that they were near Or would that they had stayed (here) though their camels might be thin.'

1 The camels are thin because they are always overmilked to supply the wants of guests.
The Life of Muhammad

When on the march Irāq's wide plain
Is theirs—moreover they read and write (36).

He also said:

If you ask me who I am, Lubayna, and of my line
I will tell you the certain truth.
We belong to al-Nabit the father of Qasy
To Maqrūr son of YaqūdB (our) forefathers (37).

They said to him: O King, we are thy servants attentive and obedient to you. We have no quarrel with you and our temple—meaning that of al-Lat—is not the one you seek. You want only the temple in Mecca, and we will send with you a man to guide you there. He therefore passed on leaving them unmolested.

As to al-Lat it was a temple of theirs in al-Tā'if which they used to venerate as the Ka'ba is venerated (38). So they sent with him Abū Righāl to guide him on the way to Mecca, and when he had brought him as far as al-Mughammās Abū Righāl died there and the Arabs stoned his grave. This is the grave which people in al-Mughammās still stone.1

Arrived here, Abraha sent an Abyssinian called al-Aswād b. Mafṣūd2 with some cavalry as far as Mecca and the latter sent off to him the plunder of the people of Tihāma, the Quraysh and others, among it two hundred camels belonging to 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib b. Ḥāshim, who at that time was the leading shaykh of Quraysh. At first Quraysh, Kāināna, and Hudhayl and others who were in the holy place meditated battle, but seeing that they had not the power to offer resistance they gave up the idea.

Abraha sent Ḥunātā the Himyarite to Mecca instructing him to inquire who was the chief notable of the country and to tell him that the king's message was that he had not come to fight them, but only to destroy the temple. If they offered no resistance there was no cause for bloodshed, and if he wished to avoid war he should return with him. On reaching Mecca Ḥunātā was told that 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib b. Ḥāshim b. 'Abd Manāf b. Qaṣāy was the leading notable, so he went to him and delivered Abraha's message. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib replied: 'God knows that we do not wish to fight him for we have not the power to do so. This is Allah's sanctuary and the temple of His friend Abraham—or words to that effect—If he defends it against him it is His temple and His sanctuary; and if he lets him have it by God we cannot defend it!' Ḥunātā replied that he must come with him to Abraha, for he was ordered to bring him back with him.

So accompanied by one of his sons 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib came to the camp and inquired for Dhu Nafr, for he was a friend of his. He went in to see him as he was in confinement and asked him if he could do anything to help them in their trouble. Dhu Nafr replied: 'What use is a man held a prisoner in the hands of a king, expecting to be killed at any moment? I can do nothing to help you except that Unays the keeper of the elephant will send to him and commend your case to him as strongly as possible asking him to try to get you permission to see the king. So speak as you think fit, and he will intercede for you with the king if he is able to do so.' So Dhu Nafr sent to Unays saying, 'The king has taken two hundred camels belonging to 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib, lord of Quraysh and master of the Meccan' well who feeds men in the plain and wild creatures on the top of the mountains, and is now here. So ask permission for him to see the king and help him as far as you can.' He said he would do so and repeated these words to the king, adding that 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib wished to see him and talk to him about a pressing matter. Abraha agreed to see him. Now 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib was a most impressive, handsome, and dignified man, and when Abraha saw him he treated him with the greatest respect so that he would not let him sit beneath him. He could not let the Abyssinians see him sitting beside him on his royal throne, so he got off his throne and sat upon his carpet and made 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib sit beside him there. Then he told his interpreter to inquire what he wanted, and the reply was that he wanted the king to return two hundred camels of his which he had taken. Abraha replied through the interpreter, 'You pleased me much when I saw you; then I was much displeased with you when I heard what you said. Do you wish to talk to me about two hundred camels of yours which I have taken, and say nothing about your religion and the religion of your forefathers which I have come to destroy?' 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib replied, 'I am the owner of the camels and the temple has an owner who will defend it.' When the king replied that he could not defend it against him he said, 'That remains to be seen.' ('Give me back my camels."

Some learned people allege that when 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib went to Abraha when he sent Ḥunātā to him, there accompanied him Ya'mur b. Nufiitha b. 'Adiy b. al-Du'il b. Bakr b. 'Abd Manāf b. Kāināna, at that time chief of B. Bakr, and Ḥuwayyid b. Wāthila, then chief of Hudhayl. They offered to give Abraha a third of the cattle of the lowland on condition that he would withdraw from them and not destroy the temple, but he refused their request; but God knows whether this was so or not. At any rate Abraha restored to 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib the camels which he had taken.

When they left him, 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib went back to Quraysh and having given them the news ordered them to withdraw from Mecca and take up defensive positions on the peaks and in the passes of the mountains for fear of the excesses of the soldiers. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib took hold of the metal knocker of the Ka'ba, and a number of Quraysh stood with him praying

1 Also written al-Mughammās, a place 'two thirds of a parasang' (roughly two miles) from Mecca.
2 The practice survives to this day.
3 Other authorities write Maqrūr. Mafṣūd means 'slash-faced'.
The Life of Muhammad

to God and imploiring his help against Abraha and his army. As he was holding the knocker of the temple door, 'Abdu'I-Muṭṭalib said:

O God, a man protects his dwelling so protect Thy dwellings.1

Let not their cros and their craft tomorrow overcome Thy craft.2

'Ikrima b. 'Amir b. Hāshim b. 'Abdu Manāf b. 'Abd al-Dār b. Qusayy said:

O God, humiliate al-Aswad b. Mafṣūd
Who took a hundred camels wearing their collars;
Between Hira' and 'Thabīr and the deserts,
He shut them in when they should be pasturing freely,
And delivered them to the black barbarians,
Withdraw from him thine aid, O Lord, for Thou art worthy to be praised.3

'Abdu'I-Muṭṭalib then let go the knocker of the door of the Ka'ba and went off with his Quraysh companions to the mountain tops where they took up defensive positions waiting to see what Abraha would do when he occupied Mecca. In the morning Abraha prepared to enter the town and made his elephant ready for battle and drew up his troops. His intention was to destroy the temple and then return to the Yaman. When they made the elephant (its name was Mahmūd) face Mecca, Nufayl b. Ḥabīb came up to its flank and taking hold of its ear said: 'Kneel, Mahmūd, or go straight back whence you came, for you are in God's holy land!' He let go of its ear and the elephant knelt, and Nufayl made off at top speed for the top of the mountain. The troops beat the elephant to make it get up but it would not; they beat its head with iron bars; they stuck hooks into its underbelly and scarified it; but it would not get up. Then they made it face the Yaman and immediately it got up and started off. When they set it towards the north and the east it did likewise, but as soon as they directed it towards Mecca it knelt down.

Then God sent upon them birds from the sea like swallows and starlings; each bird carried three stones, like peas and lentils, one in its beak and two between its claws. Everyone who was hit died but not all were hit. They withdrew in flight by the way they came, crying out for Nufayl b. Ḥabīb to guide them on the way to the Yaman. When he saw the punishment which God had brought down on them Nufayl said:

Where can one flee when God pursueth?

Al-Ashram is the conquered not the conqueror.4

---

Nufayl also said:

Our greetings, Rudayna!
You rejoice our eyes this morning!
[Your fuel-seeker came to us last night,
But we had naught to give him.]
If you had seen, but you will not see, Rudayna,
What we saw on al-Muḥaṣṣab's side!
You would have forgiven me and praised my action
And not have been vexed at what has passed and gone.5
I praised God when I saw the birds,
And I feared the stones that might fall upon us.
Everyone was asking for Nufayl
As though I owed the Abyssinians a debt.

As they withdrew they were continually falling by the wayside dying miserably by every waterhole. Abraha was smitten in his body, and as they took him away his fingers fell off one by one. Where the finger had been, there arose an evil sore exuding pus and blood, so that when they brought him to San'ā' he was like a young fledgeling. They allege that as he died his heart burst from his body. (A. Deserters from the army, labourers, and campfollowers remained in Mecca and became workers and shepherds for the population.)

Ya'qūb b. 'Utba told me that he was informed that that year was the first time that measles and smallpox had been seen in Arabia; and, too, that it was the first time that bitter herbs like rue, colocynth, and Asclepias gigantea were seen.

When God sent Muhammad he specially recounted to the Quraysh his goodness and favour in turning back the Abyssinians in order to preserve their state and permanence. 'Did you not see how your Lord dealt with the owners of the elephant? Did He not reduce their guile to sheer terror? And sent upon them flocks of birds, throwing hard clay stones upon them, making them as blades of corn that have been devoured?' And again: 'For the uniting of Quraysh, their uniting the caravans to ply summer and winter. Then let them worship the Lord of this temple, who has fed them so that they hunger not, and made them safe from fear,'6

---

1 Ḥilling, the plural of ḥill, means a collection of houses and also the people who live therein. For ḥillahu al-Shahrastānī, Mi'llal, has ḥillahu 'his neighbour', and for ḥaddan 'to-morrow' 'adown, which would be rendered 'hostile' here. For ḥillah we have Ka'batan1.

2 Ḥillah here is said by C. and Abd Dhar to mean strength and power; but it really means 'guile', 'strategy accompanied by force'. 'Craft', cf. Kraft, appears to be the best rendering. The passage is a reminiscence of Sūra 13. 14, and the idea may be found in the Quranic saying of God: Khayru l-muḥsinīn, 3. 47. '7 has preserved four lines of no poetic merit which L.H. preferred to excise.

4 Sūra 106. A good discussion of this difficult passage will be found in Lane's Lexicon, p. 79b and c. There are three rival readings: ṭalaf (adopted by our author), ṭald, and ṭalif. According to all three the meaning is said to be 'for their keeping to the journey etc.' Other authorities say that the first reading means 'for the preparing and fitting out'. Others say that according to the third reading the meaning is 'the protecting'. According to Ibn al-'Asbī the point of this is that the four sons of 'Abdu Manāf were given freedom to travel by the Byzantines, Persian, Abyssinians, and Himyaris respectively and so were able to go and bring corn from neighbouring territories. There may be a sound historical kernel to
The Life of Muhammad

i.e. so that their status should remain unaltered because of God's good purpose towards them if they would receive it (42).

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr via 'Amra daughter of 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Sa'd b. Zurara told me that 'A'isha said: 'I saw the leader of the elephant and its groom walking about Mecca blind and crippled begging for food.'

REFERENCES IN POETRY TO THE STORY OF THE ELEPHANT

When God turned back the Abyssinians from Mecca and executed His vengeance upon them, the Arabs held the Quraysh in great honour, saying, 'They are the people of God: God fought for them and thwarted the attack of their enemies.' On this theme they composed many poems. Thus 'Abdullah b. al-Zibra'ri b. 'Adiy b. Qays b. 'Adiy b. Sahm b. 'Amr b. Huṣays b. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy b. Ghiilib b. Fihr said:

Withdraw from the vale of Mecca for
From of old its sanctuary has not been violated.
When it was sanctified, Sirius had not been created.
No mighty man has ever attacked it.
Ask the commander of the Abyssinians what he saw.
He who knows what happened will tell the ignorant.
Sixty thousand men returned not home,
Nor did their sick recover after their return.
'Ad and Jurhum were (in Mecca) before them.
God has set it above all creatures.

The words 'nor did their sick recover after their return' refer to Abraha whom they carried with them when he was smitten, until he died in Sa'n'a'.

Abū Qays b. al-Aslat al-Anṣārī al-Khaṭṭārī, Šaybī by name (43) said:

His work it was on the day of the Abyssinian elephant.
Whenever they urged it forward it held its ground,
(They drove) their hooks beneath its flanks,
They split its nose and it was torn.
They used a knife as a whip.
When they applied it to its back it made a wound.
It turned and faced the way it had come.
Those there bore the burden of their injustice.

The signs of our Lord are illuminating.
None but infidels doubt them.
Night and Day were created and all
Is abundantly plain, its reckoning is fixed.
Then the merciful Lord revealed the day
By the sun whose rays are seen everywhere.
He held the elephant fast in al-Mughammas until
It sank to the ground as though it were hamstrung.

With some hesitation I read this line: falaṣṣūḫum . . . al-qārum. W. reads yuṣṣūḫum; C. inserts no vowels to the form I have read as indicated. Both W. and C. read al-qārum which means 'small bodies'. Abū Dharr (Brönnle, 21) read al-qārum, which he explained by sigārū'l-ghanam. The line that follows seems to require a reference to sheep here.

The term akhāṣāhū refers to the mountains of Mecca.
4 i.e. the angels.
5 Or, 'from the Abyssinians'. See n. 2, p. 28. These lines occur again in W., p. 180.
6 Dāḥis is the name of a horse. Foul play during a race led to a long and bloody feud between the tribes of 'Abs and Dhūbyān. See Nicholson, L.H.A. 61-62.
7 Or, 'property'.
8 Reading thiqātūn with C.
9 lāsman, Jālib, Ḫayāwān, Cairo, 1945/1364, vii, 198, reads tidātān, but the received text is better. I owe this explanation of hāq to my colleague Dr. el-Ṭayeb. Commentators and translators have missed the point.
The Life of Muhammad

Its trunk curled ring-wise; it lay motionless as;
A boulder flung down from Kabkab's rocks.
Round it Kinda's kings, warriors,
Mighty hawks in war.
They abandoned it and departed headlong
All of them; the shank of each one of them was broken.
In God's sight at the Resurrection every religion
But that of the hanif is doomed to perdition (48).

When Abraha died his son Yaksûm became king of the Abyssinians.

(T. Himyar and the tribes of Yaman were humiliated under the heel of the Abyssinians. They took their women and killed their men and seized their young men to act as interpreters.) When Yaksûm b. Abraha died his brother Masruq b. Abraha reigned over the Abyssinians in the Yaman.

THE JOURNEY OF SAYF b. DHÛ YAZAN AND THE RULE OF WAHRIZ IN THE YAMAN

When the people of the Yaman had long endured oppression, Sayf b. Dhû Yazan the Himyarite, who was known as Abû Murra, went to the Byzantine emperor and complained to him of his troubles, asking him to drive out the Abyssinians and take over the country. He asked him to send what forces he pleased and promised him the kingdom of the Yaman.

The emperor paid no attention to his request, so he went to al-Nu'mân b. al-Mundhir, who was Chosroes' governor at al-Hira and the surrounding country of Iraq. When he complained of the Abyssinians, al-Nu'mân b. al-Mundhir told him that he paid a formal visit every year to Chosroes and he asked him to stay with him until then. Accordingly he took him with him and introduced him to Chosroes. Now he used to sit in his audience chamber which contained his crown. According to reports, his crown was like a huge grain-measure with rubies, pearls, and topazes set in gold and silver, suspended by a golden chain from the top of the dome in his hall of audience. Such was the weight of the crown that his neck could not bear it. He was hidden behind a robe until he sat on his throne; then his head was inserted into the crown, and when he was settled comfortably on his throne the robes were taken from him. Everyone who saw him for the first time fell to his knees in awe. When Sayf b. Dhû Yazan entered his presence he fell to his knees (49).

He said: 'O King, ravens' have taken possession of our country,' Chosroes asked, 'What ravens, Abyssinians or Sindians? Abyssinians,' he replied, 'and I have come to you for help and that you may assume the kingship of my country.' He answered, 'Your country is far distant and has little to attract me; I cannot endanger a Persian army in Arabia and there is no reason why I should do so.' Then he made him a present of 10,000 drachmacs sterling and invested him in a fine robe. Sayf went out with the silver and began to scatter it among the people; (T. Boys and T. 947 slaves of both sexes scrambled for the coins). When the king was told of this he thought it very extraordinary and sent for him and said, 'You mean to throw away a royal gift!' He answered: 'What use is silver to me? The mountains of my country from which I come are nothing but gold and silver.' This he said to excite his cupidity. Chosroes thereupon gathered his advisers together and asked their opinion about the man and his project. One of them reminded the king that in his prisons there were men who were condemned to death. If he were to send them with him and they were killed, that would merely be the fate that he had determined for them; on the other hand, if they conquered the country he would have added to his empire. Thereupon Chosroes sent those who were confined in his prisons to the number of eight hundred men.

He put in command of them a man called Wahriz who was of mature age and of excellent family and lineage. They set out in eight ships, two of which foundered, so that only six reached the shores of Aden. Sayf brought all the people that he could to Wahriz saying, 'My foot is with your foot, we die or conquer together.' Right,' said Wahriz. Masruq b. Abraha the king of Yaman came out against him with his army, and Wahriz sent one of his sons to fight them so as to get experience in their way of fighting. His son was killed and he was filled with rage against them. When the men were drawn up in their ranks Wahriz said, 'Show me their king.' They said, 'Do you see a man on an elephant with a crown on his head and a red ruby on his forehead? That is their king.' 'Let him be,' he said, and they waited a long time and then he said, 'What is he riding now?' They said: 'He is now bestride a horse'; again they waited. He asked the same question and they said he was bestride a mule. Said Wahriz: 'An ass's filly! A weak creature, and so is his kingdom. I will shoot him. If you see that his followers have not moved, then stand fast until I give you permission to advance, for I shall have missed the fellow. But if you see the people flocking round him I shall have hit him, so fall upon them.' He then bent his bow (the story goes that it was so tough that no one but he could bend it) and ordered that his eyebrows be fastened back, then he shot Masruq and split the ruby in his forehead and the arrow pierced his head and came out at the back of his neck. He fell off his mount and the Abyssinians gathered round him. When the Persians fell upon them, they fled and were killed as they bolted in all directions. Wahriz advanced to enter into San'â', and when he reached its gate he said that his standard should never be lowered and he ordered them to destroy the gate and went in with his flag flying.

1 i.e. 'blacks'.

1 His eyes were half closed from age.
Sayf b. Dhū Yazan al-Ḥimyari said:

Men thought the two kings had made peace
And those who heard of their reconciliation found the matter was very grave.
We slew the prince Masrūq and reddened the sands with blood.
The new prince, the people's prince,
Wahriz swore an oath that
He would drink no wine until he had captured prisoners and spoil (50).

Abū al-Ṣalt b. Abī Rabi'a al-Thaqafi (51) said:
Let those seek vengeance who are like Ibn Dhū Yazan
Who spent long years at sea because of his enemies,
When the time for his journey came he went to Caesar
But did not attain what he sought.
Then he turned to Chosroes after ten years,
Counting his life and money cheap,
Until he came bringing the Persians with him.
By my life you were swift in action,
What a noble band came out:
Never were their like seen among men!
Nobles, princes, mighty men, archers,
Lions who train their cubs in the jungle!
From curved bows they shot arrows
Stout as the poles of the howdah
Bringing the victim a speedy death.
You sent lions against black dogs,
Their fugitives are scattered all over the earth.
So drink your fill, wearing your crown,
On Ghumdān's top reclining in a house you have chosen.
Drink your fill, for they are dead.
And walk proudly today in your flowing robes.
Such are noble deeds! not two pails of milk mingled with water
Which afterwards become urine (53).

'Adiy b. Zayd al-Ḥiri, one of B. Tamim, said:
What is there after Sanā‘ in which once lived
Rulers of a kingdom whose gifts were lavish?
Its builder raised it to the flying clouds,
Its lofty chambers gave forth musk.
Protected by mountains against the attacks of enemies,4
Its lofty heights unscalable.

Pleasant was the voice of the night owl there,
Answered at even by a flute player.
Fate brought to it the Persian army
With their knights in their train;
They travelled on mules laden with death,
While the asses' foals ran beside them
Until the princes saw from the top of the fortress
Their squadrons shining with steel,
The day that they called to the barbarians and al-Yaksum
'Cursed be he who runs away!'
'Twas a day of which the story remains,
But a people of long established dignity came to an end.
Persians replaced the native born,
The days were dark2 and mysterious.
After noble sons of Tubbā',
Persian generals were firmly settled there (54).

(Ṭ. When Wahriz had conquered the Yaman and driven out the Abyssinians he wrote to Chosroes telling him of what had been done and sending him captured treasure. In his reply the king told him to appoint Sayf king of the Yaman. He also gave Sayf instructions to collect taxes every year and to remit them to him. He summoned Wahriz to his presence and Sayf became king, he being the son of Dhū Yazan of the Kings of the Yaman. This is what Ibn Ḥumayd told me from Salama on the authority of Ibn Ishāq.4)

(When Wahriz had gone to Chosroes and made Sayf king of the Yaman, T. 957 the latter began to attack the Abyssinians, killing them and slaying the women with child until he exterminated all but an insignificant number of miserable creatures whom he employed as slaves and runners to go before him with their lances. Before very long he was out with these armed slaves when suddenly they surrounded him and stabbed him to death. One of them established himself as leader and they went through the Yaman slaying and laying waste the country. When the Persian king heard of this he sent Wahriz with 4,000 Persians and ordered him to kill every Abyssinian or child of an Abyssinian and an Arab woman, great or small, and not leave alive a single man with crisp curly hair. Wahriz arrived and in due course carried out these instructions and wrote to tell the king that he had done so. The king then gave him viceregal authority and he ruled under Chosroes until his death.)

1 Reading umma for C.'s imma.
2 Fayj, the reading of C. (against W.'s ṣayj) is a Persian word for a crowd of men. I.K. has ṣayj.
3 A variant is khūn, 'treacherous'.
4 In this chapter T.'s version is much more vivid and detailed and reads much more like the lively style of Ibn Ḥishāq. No doubt Ibn Ḥishām cut down this to him unimportant chapter as much as he could.

1 Kā'īd here I take to mean a resourceful foe. The Cairo editors prefer to find a reference to God.
46  THE END OF THE PERSIAN AUTHORITY IN THE YAMAN

Wahriz and the Persians dwelt in the Yaman, and the Abnā’ who are in the Yaman today are descended from the survivors of that Persian army. The period of Abyssinian domination from the entry of Arwaṭ to the death of Masrūq ibn Abraha at the hands of the Persians and the expulsion of the Abyssinians was seventy-two years. The successive princes were four, Arwaṭ, Abraha, Yaksūm, and Masrūq (53).

It is said that on a rock in the Yaman there was an inscription dating from olden times:

To whom belongs the kingdom of Dhīmar?
To Himyar the righteous.
To whom belongs the kingdom of Dhīmar?
To the evil Abyssinians.
To whom belongs the kingdom of Dhīmar?
To the free Persians.
To whom belongs the kingdom of Dhīmar?
To Quraysh the merchants (56).

Dhīmar means the Yaman or Ṣan’a’.
Al-ʾAshā’ of B. Qays b. Ṭhul’labā said when the words of Ṣāliḥ and his companion were fulfilled:

‘No woman has ever seen, as she saw, the truth like the truth of al-Dhi’bī when he prophesied.’1 The Arabs called him al-Dhi’bī because he was the son of Rabi’a b. Mas’ūd b. ʾAzāz b. Dhi’b (57).

47  THE DESCENDANTS OF NIZĀR B. MA’ADD

Nizār b. Ma’add begat three sons: Muḍar, Rabi’a, and Anmār (58).

Anmār was the father of Khath’am and Bajila. Jarir b. ʾAbdullāh al-Bajali who was chief of the Bajila (of whom someone said: ‘But for Jarir, Bajila would have perished. A fine man and a poor tribe’) said when he was appealing against al-Furāʾīs to his father: ‘I am dragging my intestines in hell, and when I asked him about those who had lived between his time and mine he said that they had perished.’

Muḥammad b. ʾIbrāḥīm b. al-Ḥarith al-Ṭamīmī told me that ʾAbū ʾSāliḥ al-Sammān told him that he heard ʾAbū Hurayra (62 say): I heard the apostle of God saying to Aktham b. ʾAqra’ b. al-Khuza’ī, ‘O Aktham I saw ʾAmr b. Luḥayy dragging his intestines in hell, and when I asked him about those who had lived between his time and mine he said that they had perished.’

As to Qam’a the genealogists of Muḍar assert that Khuzā’ā was one of the sons of ʾAmr b. Luḥayy b. Qam’a b. ʾIyās.

48  THE STORY OF ‘AMR B. LUḤAYY AND AN ACCOUNT OF THE IDOLS OF THE ARABS

‘ʿAbdullāh b. Abū Bakr b. Muḥammad b. ʾAmr b. Ḥazm on the authority of his father told me as follows: I was told that the apostle of God said: ‘I saw ʾAmr b. Luḥayy dragging his intestines in hell, and when I asked him ‘You are Mudrika the cook’ (the one who overtakes), and to ʾAmr he said ‘You are ʾṬābihka’ (the cook). When their mother heard the news she came hurriedly from her tent and he said: ‘You are trotting!’ (khandaqā)2 and so she was called Khindīf.

As to Qam’a the genealogists of Muḍar assert that Khuzā’ā was one of the sons of ʾAmr b. Luḥayy b. Qam’a b. ʾIyās.

They say that the beginning of stone worship among the sons of Ishmael was when Mecca became too small for them and they wanted more room in the country. Everyone who left the town took with him a stone from the sacred area to do honour to it. Wherever they settled they set it up and walked round it as they went round the Ka’ba. This led them to worship what stones they pleased and those which made an impression on them. Thus as generations passed they forgot their primitive faith and adopted

1  Legend says that the woman in question was able to see people a three days’ journey distant.
2  This word is explained in the Musadqal’iyāt, 763, by harṣaḥa, a quick, ambling, half-running gait. The story there is told at greater length.
3  A story similar to these two will be found in Ibn al-Kalbi’s K. al-ʿAynūn, ed. Ahmad Zakiy Pasha, Cairo, 1924, p. 98. These terms are explained in the next chapter.
another religion for that of Abraham and Ishmael. They worshipped idols and adopted the same errors as the peoples before them. Yet they retained and held fast practices going back to the time of Abraham, such as honouring the temple and going round it, the great and little pilgrimage, and the standing on 'Arafat and Muzdalifah, sacrificing the victims, and the pilgrim cry at the great and little pilgrimage, while introducing elements which had no place in the religion of Abraham. Thus, Kinânah and Quraysh used the pilgrim cry: 'At Thy service, O God, at Thy service! At Thy service, Thou without an associate but the associate Thou hast. Thou ownest him and what he owns.' They used to acknowledge his unity in their cry and then include their idols with God, putting the ownership of them in His hand. God said to Muhammad: "Most of them do not believe in God without associating others with Him," i.e. they do not acknowledge My oneness with knowledge of My reality, but they associate with Me one of My creatures. Among those who had chosen those idols and used their names as compounds when they forsook the religion of Isma'il—both Ismaelites and others—was Hudhayl b. Mudrika b. Ilyas b. Muḍar. They adopted Suwâ' and they had him in Ruhâṣ; and Kalb b. Wabra of Qud'a who adopted Wudd in Dâmatâl-Jandal. Ka'b b. Mâlik al-Ansârî said:

We forsook al-Lât and al-'Uzzâ and Wudd. We stripped off their necklaces and earrings (64). An'um of Ṭayyi' and the people of Jurash of Madhâji adopted Yaghuth in Jurfâsh. Khaywan', a clan of Hamdân, adopted Ya'ūq in the land of Hamdân in the Yaman (66). Dhûl-Kalâ' of Himyar adopted Nasr in the Himyar country. Khulân had an idol called 'Ammanas' in the Khulân country. Accord-

3 Sūra 12. 106. 4 While the whole of this section is worth comparing with I. al-Kalbî's K. al-Aṣâ'im, this passage is important for the light it throws on I.1.'s sources. Where he writes yasu'llumân I.K. says 'I was told by my father and others'. It seems clear that I.1. has borrowed from I.K.'s statements. Where I.K. writes 'their gods' I.1. says 'their idols', and his language tends to follow that of the Quran. 5 Sūra 71. 23. 6 A place near Yanbu'. 7 Khaywan was a town two nights' journey from Sa'îl on the way to Mecca. I.K. goes out of his way to say that he has never heard of any Arab using the name of Ya'ūq or any poetry about him. He thinks the reason is the influence of Judaism on Hamdân. I.H.'s citation should not be taken at its face value. 8 C. 'Ammanas. 'Ammon is a divine name met with all over Arabia. G. Rychmanns, Les Religions arabes primitives, Louvain, 1951, p. 42, writes: 'Le dieu lumine qatabanie of 'Amra d. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Sa'd b. Zurārah that she said, 'I heard 'A'isha say, "We always heard that Isāf and Nā'a were a man and a woman of Jurham who copulated in the Ka'ba so God transformed them into two stones." But God alone knows if this is the truth.'

Abū 'Ṭālib said:

> Where the pilgrims make their camels kneel
> Where the waters flow from Isāf and Nā'ilā.¹

Every household had an idol in their house which they used to worship. When a man was about to set out on a journey he would rub himself against it as he was about to ride off; indeed that was the last thing he used to do before his journey; and when he returned from his journey the first thing he did was to rub himself against it before he went in to his family. When God sent Muhammad with the message of monotheism Quraysh said: 'Would he make the gods into one God? That is indeed a strange proceeding!'

Now along with the Ka'ba the Arabs had adopted Tawāghīt, which were temples which they venerated as they venerated the Ka'ba. They had their guardians and overseers and they used to make offerings to them as they did to the Ka'ba and to circumambulate them and sacrifice at them. Yet they recognized the superiority of the Ka'ba because it was the temple and mosque of Abraham the friend (of God).

Quraysh and the B. Kināna had al-'Uzza in Nakhl, its guardians and overseers were the B. Shaybān of Sulaym, allies of the B. Ḥāshim (70).

An Arab poet said:

> Asma' was given as a dowry the head of a little red cow
> Which a man of the Banū Ḥamām had sacrificed.
> He saw a blemish in her eye when he led her away
> To al-'Uzza's slaughter-place² and divided her into goodly portions.

Their practice when they sacrificed was to divide the victim among the worshippers present. Ghabghab was the slaughter-place where the blood was poured out (71).

[AZR. I. 74: 'Amr b. Lu'ayy put al-'Uzza in Nakhl, and when they had finished their hajj and the circumambulation of the Ka'ba they continued to be under taboo until they came to al-'Uzza and had gone round it; there they abandoned the pilgrimage taboo and stayed a day beside it. It belonged to Khuza'a. All Quraysh and B. Kināna used to venerate al-'Uzza along with Khuza'a, and all Muḍār. Her sādivas who used to guard (hajj) her were B. Shaybān of B. Sulaym, allies of B. Ḥāshim. Cf. I.H. 839.]

Al-Lāt belonged to Thaqīf in Ṭa'if, its overseers and guardians being B. Mu'attib³ of Thaqīf.

Manāt was worshipped by al-Aus and al-Khazraj and such of the people of Yathrib as followed their religion by the sea-shore in the direction of al-Mushallāl in Qudayd (72).²

[AZR. I. 73: 'Amr b. Lu'ayy set up Manāt on the sea-shore near Qudayd. Azd and Ghassān went on pilgrimage to it and revered it. When they had made the compass of the Ka'ba and hastened from 'Arafa' and completed the rites at Minā they did not shave their hair until they got to Manāt, to whom they would cry Labbayki. Those who did so did not go round between al-Safā and al-Marwa to the place of the two idols Nahīk Mujašīd al-Riḥ and Muṭ'im al-Ṭayr. This clan of the Anṣūr used to begin the ceremony by hailing Manāt, and when they went on the great or little pilgrimage they would not go under the shelter of a roof until they had completed it. When a man was under taboo as a pilgrim (ahram) he would not enter his house; if he needed something in it he would climb the wall behind his house so that the door should not cover his head. When God brought Islam and destroyed the doings of paganism He sent down concerning that: 'Piety does not consist in entering your houses from the rear but in fearing God' (2. 185). Manāt belonged to al-Aus and al-Khazraj and Ghassān of al-Azd and such of the population of Yathrib and Syria who followed their religion. Manāt was on the sea-shore in the neighbourhood of al-Mushallāl in Qudayd.]

Dhūl-Khalasa belonged to Daus, Khaṭḥ'am, and Bajila and the Arabs in their area in Taḥāla (73).² [AZR. I. 73: 'Amr b. Lu'ayy set up al-Khalasa in the lower part of Mecca. They used to put necklaces on it, and bring gifts of barley and wheat. They poured milk on it, sacrificed to it, and hung ostrich eggs on it. 'Amr set up an image on al-Safā called Nahīk Mujašīd al-Riḥ, and one on al-Marwa called Muṭ'im al-Ṭayr.]

Fals belonged to Ṭayyi' and those hard by in the two mountains of Ṭayyi', Salmā and Aja' (74).

Ḥimyar and the Yamānites had a temple in Ṣan'ā called Ri'am (75). Ruḍā was a temple of B. Ṣaffa b. Ka'b b. Sa'd b. Zayd Manāt b. Tamīm. Al-Mustaughir b. Ṣaffa b. Ka'b b. Sa'd when he destroyed it in the time of Islam said:

> I smashed Ruḍā so completely that
> I left it a black ruin in a hollow (76).

Dhūl-Ka'abāt belonged to Bakr and Ṭaghīb the two sons of Wā'il and Ṣiddiq in Sindād.³ Of it A'shā of B. Qays b. Ṭha'labā said:

> Between al-Khawwaraq⁴ and al-Sadīr and Bāriq
> And the temple Dhūl-Ka'abāt⁵ of Sindād (77).

¹ Qudayd is on the Red Sea between Yanbu' and Rābi'ā on the pilgrim route from Medina to Mecca, and Mushallāl is a mountain overlooking it.
² About seven nights' journey from Mecca.
³ The lower district of the sawdād of Kufa north of Najrān.
⁴ A famous palace which al-Nu'mān of Ḥira is said to have built for Sūbār.
⁵ Or 'the four-square temple'.

---

1 The poem in which this line occurs is to be found in W. 175 v.d.
2 Ghabghab.
3 Al-Kalbi says the B. Ḥāshim.
4 The Life of Muhammad 38
5 The Life of Muhammad 39
THE BAHIRA, SA'IBA, WASILA, AND HAMI

The Bahira is the filly of the Siba; the Siba is the she-camel which gives birth to ten fillies without an intervening colt. She is set free, is never ridden, her hair is not shorn, and only a guest is allowed to drink her milk. If she gives birth to a filly after that its ear is split and it is allowed to go its way with its mother, not ridden, hair unshorn, and only a guest may drink her milk as in the case of her mother. Such is the Bahira, the filly of the Siba. The Wasila is an ewe which has ten twin ewes in successive births without a male lamb intervening. She is made a Wasila. They use the expression wasalat. Any ewes which she gives birth to after that belong to the males, except that if one of them dies all share in eating it, both males and females (79).

The Hami is a stallion who is the sire of ten successive fillies without an intervening colt. His back is taboo and he is not ridden; his hair is not shorn and he is left to run among the camels to mount them. Beyond that no use is made of him (79).

58 When God sent his apostle Muhammad he revealed to him: 'God has not made Bahira or Siba or Wasila or Hami, but those who disbelieve invent a lie against God, though most of them do not know it.' And again: 'They say, What is in the wombs of these sheep is reserved for our males and prohibited to our wives; but if it is (born) dead they share in it. He will repay them for such division, verily He is knowing and wise.' Again: 'Say, have you considered what provision God has sent down to you and you have made some of it taboo and some of it permitted? Say, has God given you permission or do you invent lies against God?' And again: 'Of the sheep two and of the goats two. Say, has He prohibited the two males or the two females, or what the wombs of the two females contain? Inform me with knowledge if you speak the truth. And of the camels two and of the cattle two. Say, has He prohibited to you the two males or the two females, or that which the wombs of the two females contain, or were you witnesses when God enjoined this upon you? Who is more sinful than those who invent a lie against God to make men err without knowledge? Verily God will not guide the wrong-doing people' (80).

59 CONTINUATION OF THE GENEALOGIES

Kinana say: We are the sons of 'Amr b. 'Amir from the Yaman (81). Muddrika b. al-Ya's had two sons, Khuzayma and Hudhayl, their mother being a woman of Quadda. Khuzayma had four sons: Kinana, Asad, Asada, and al-Han. Kinana's mother was 'Uwana d. Sa'd b. Qays b. 'Ayylan b. Mudar (82).

1 Sura 5. 102. 2 Sura 6. 140. 3 Sura 10. 60. 4 Sura 6. 144. 5. 6 Carrying on from p. 50 of W.'s text.

THE STORY OF SAMA

Sama b. Lu'ayy went forth to 'Uman and remained there. It is said that 'Amir b. Lu'ayy drove him out because there was a quarrel between them and Sama knocked out 'Amir's eye. In fear of 'Amir he went to 'Uman. The story goes that while Sama was riding on his she-camel she lowered her head to graze and he lowered his head to graze and she kicked him with her heels and knocked out his eye. The text is at fault somewhere, I.I.'s comment follows naturally on what has gone before, but has nothing to do with what he is last reported as having written. The significant words are 'al-Nadr is Quarysh'; but these are attributed to I.I. and neither W. nor C. make any mention of a variant reading gilda lbm Ihabq. We can at least be certain that what I.I. had to tell us about the origin of 'Quarysh' is not to be found in the Sira as it stands, though Tab. makes another attempt in his quotation from the lost passages of I.I. They were named after Quarysh b. Badr b. Yakhlud b. al-Harith b. Khuzayma b. al-Nadr b. Kinda, who was called Quarysh because he put to shame the B. al-Nadr. Whenever they appeared the Arabs said, 'The shame of Quarysh has come.' T. goes on (1194) to give the right explanation that the name means 'shark'. Doubtless it is a totem name like so many of the old tribal names in Arabia.
The Life of Muhammad

her head to graze and a snake seized her by the lip and forced her downward until she fell on her side. Then the snake bit Sama so that he died. The story goes that when Sama felt death upon him he said:

Fye, weep for Sama b. Lu'yay.
The clinging snake has clung to Sama's leg.
Never have I seen such a victim of a camel
As Sama b. Lu'yay when they came upon him.
Send word to 'Amir and Ka'b.
That my soul yearneth for them.

Though my home be in 'Umân
I am a Ghâlibi, I came forth not driven by poverty.
Many a cup hast thou spilt, O b. Lu'yay,
For fear of death, which otherwise would not have spilt.
Thou didst wish to avoid death, O b. Lu'yay,
But none has power to avoid death.
Many a camel silent on night journeys didst thou leave prostrate
After its prodigious exertion (89).

THE MIGRATION OF 'AUF B. LU'AYY

It is alleged that 'Auf b. Lu'yay went out with a caravan of Quraysh as far as the district of Ghaṭafân b. Sa'd b. Qays b. 'Aylân when he was left behind and his tribesmen went on without him. Tha'labâ b. Sa'd (he being his brother according to the kindred reckoning of B. Dhubyân, Tha'labâ b. Sa'd b. Dhubyân b. Baghid b. Rayth b. Ghaṭafân and 'Auf b. Sa'd b. Dhubyân b. Baghid b. Rayth b. Ghaṭafân) came to him, bound him to himself, gave him a wife, and took him into his tribe as a blood-brother. His relationship became well known among B. Dhubyân. It was Tha'labâ, they say, who said to 'Auf when he lagged behind and his tribe abandoned him:

Tether your camel by me, O Ibn Lu'yay.
Your tribe has left you and you have no home.

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubây, or it may have been Muhammad b. 'Abd al-Rahmân b. 'Abdullah b. Husayn, told me that 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭâb said: 'If I were to claim to belong to any tribe of the Arabs or to want to attach them to us I would claim to belong to B. Murra b. 'Auf. We know that among them there are men like ourselves. We know, too, where that man went,' meaning 'Auf b. Lu'yay. In the genealogy of Ghaṭafân he is

1 So C following al-Aghâni.
2 The dour, plodding beast that treads on through the night without uttering a sound.
3 Reading mansil with Tab. and MS. D in W.'s numeration. This is the best MS. used by W., and it is strange that he should have abandoned it for the reading matâh 'ought not to be left' of the majority of inferior texts. However, the latter is supported by Mufaddâl, p. 101.

The Life of Muhammad

Nurra b. 'Auf b. Sa'd b. Dhubyân b. Baghid b. Rayth b. Ghaṭafân. If this genealogy is mentioned to them they themselves say, 'We do not deny or contest it; it is our most prized genealogy.'

Al-Ḥârîth b. Zâlim b. Jadhîma b. Yârib—one of B. Murra b. 'Auf—when he fled from al-Nu'mân b. al-Mundhir and clave to Quraysh said:

My tribe is not Tha'labâ b. Sa'd
Nor Fazârâ the long-haired.
My tribe if you must ask is the Banû Lu'yay.
In Mecca they taught Mudar to fight.
We were foolish in following the Banû Baghid
And leaving our next-of-kin and family.
'Twas the folly of the water-seeker who, his fill drunk, Threws away the water and goes after a mirage.
'Od's life if I had my way I should be with them
And not be found seeking pasture from place to place.
Rawâhâ the Qurayshite mounted me on his camel
And sought no reward for it (90).

Al-Ḥusayn b. al-Ḥumâm al-Murrî, one of B. Sahm b. Murra, said, 65 refuting al-Ḥârîth b. Zâlim and claiming to belong to Ghaṭafân:

Lo, you are not of us and we have nought to do with you.
We repudiate relationship with Lu'yay b. Ghâlib.
We dwell on the proud heights of al-Ḥijâz while you
Are in the verdant plain between the two mountains, meaning Quraysh. Afterwards al-Ḥusayn repented of what he had said and recognized the truth of the words of al-Ḥârîth b. Zâlim. He claimed to belong to Quraysh and, accusing himself of falsehood, he said:

I repent of what I said before:
I realize that it was the speech of a liar.
Would that my tongue were in two,
Half of it dumb and the other half singing your praise.
Our father a Kinânî, in Mecca is his grave, In the verdant plain of al-Ḥîthâ between the mountains.
We own a fourth of the sanctuary as an inheritance
And a fourth of the plains by the house of Ibn Ḥâlib, meaning that the B. Lu'yay were four: Ka'b, 'Amir, Sama, and 'Auf.
A person whom I cannot suspect told me that 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭâb said to men of B. Murra: 'If you wish to return to your kindred do so.'

The tribe were nobles among Ghaṭafân; they were their chiefs and

1 Or 'contested'.
2 Lit. 'in the course of the stars'.
3 The importance of the genealogical tables is bound up with the control of pay and pensions. It was 'Umar who ordered that registers should be compiled. See Sprenger, Das Leben d. Mohammad, III, cxx ff.
leaders. Of them were Harim b. Sitân b. Abû Hâritha b. Murra b. Nushba; Khârîja b. Sitân b. Abû Hâritha; al-Hârith b. 'Auf; al-Huṣayn b. al­ Hâmân; and Hâshim b. Hârmâla of whom someone has said:
Hâshim b. Hârmâla revived his father¹
On the day of al-Haabî'ât and the day of al-Ya'mala²
You could see the kings slain beside him
As he slew the guilty and the innocent (91).³

They were a people of a lively reputation among Ghaṭafân and Qays, and they retained their relationship with them. Among them the practice of Basl obtained.⁴

According to reports Basl is the name given to eight months of the year which the Arabs unreservedly regard as sacred. During those months they may go wherever they like without fear of violence. Zûhây r b. Abû Sulmâ said with reference to B. Murra (92):

Think! If they are not in al-Marurât in their dwellings
Then they will be in Nakhl,⁵
A place where I have enjoyed their fellowship.
If they are in neither then they will be at large during the Basl.

He means that they will be travelling during the holy period.
al-A'shâ of B. Qays b. Thâla'ba said:⁶
Is your woman guest to be taboo to us
While our woman guest and her husband are open to you?

Murra b. Lu'ayy had three sons: Kilâb, Taym, and Yaqaza. Kilâb's mother was Hind d. Surây b. Thâla'ba b. al-Hârith b. Fihr b. Mâlik b. al-Nadr b. Kinâna b. Khuzayma; Yaqaza's mother was al-Bâriqâ, a woman of Bâriq of the Asd of Yaman. Some say she was the mother of Taym; others say Taym's mother was Hind d. Surây the mother of Kilâb (93).

Of Sa'd b. Sayyâl the poet says:

Never among men whom we know have we seen
A man like Sa'd b. Sayyâl.

¹ He brought him to life as it were by taking revenge on his slayers.
² Two famous battles.
³ i.e. he was not afraid of incurring a blood feud.
⁴ I have removed the chapter heading 'The Basl' because it is a mere paragraph interpolated in the genealogy which has no heading to indicate where it is resumed.
⁵ Either a place in Nejd, belonging to Ghatafan, or a place two nights' journey from Medina. Sharh Dihdân Zûhây r, Cairo, 1944, 100.

THE DIGGING OF THE WELL ZAMZAM

While 'Abdu'l-Mu'âth b. 'Abdu'l-Dâr, 'Abdu'l- 'Uzza, and 'Abdu Qusayy; and Takhmur and Barra. Their mother was Hubbâ d. Ḥulayl b. Ḥabashiya b. Sa'd b. Ka'b b. 'Amr, 'Abdu'l- Khuzâ' (95). 'Abdu Manâf whose name was al-Mughira b. Qusayy had four sons:

JURHUM AND THE FILLING IN OF THE WELL ZAMZAM

The story of Jurhum, of their filling in Zamzam, of their leaving Mecca, and of those who ruled Mecca after them until 'Abdu'l-Mu'âthîb dug Zamza, according to what Ziyâd b. 'Abdullâh al-Bâkka'i told me on the authority of Muhammed b. Ishaq al-Mu'tâfibî, is that when Ishmael the son of Abraham died, his son Nâbit was in charge of the temple as long as God willed, then it was in charge of Mu'dâd b. 'Amr al-Jurhumi (98). The sons of Ishmael and the sons of Nâbit were with their grandfather Mu'dâd b. 'Amr and their maternal uncles of Jurhum—Jurhum and Qâṭura' who were cousins being at that time the people of Mecca. They had come forth from the Yaman and travelled together and Mu'dâd was over Jurhum and
The Life of Muhammad

Samayda', one of their men, over Qatūrā'. When they left the Yaman, they refused to go unless they had a king to order their affairs. When they came to Mecca they saw a town blessed with water and trees and, delighted with it, they settled there. Muđād b. 'Amr with the men of Jurhum settled in the upper part of Mecca in Qu'ayqi'an and went no farther. Samayda' with Qatūrā' settled in the lower part of Mecca in Ajyād the lower part of Mecca, and went no farther. Muđād used to take a tithe from those who entered Mecca from above, while Samayda' did the same to those who entered from below. Each kept to his own people, neither entering the other's territory.

Then Jurhum and Qatūrā' quarreled and contended for the supremacy in Mecca; at that time Muđād had with him the sons of Ishmael and Nābit, and he had the oversight of the temple as against Samayda'. They went out to fight each other, Muđād from Qu'ayqi'an with his horsemen making for Samayda' equipped with spears, leather shields, swords and quivers, rattling as they charged. It is said that Qu'ayqi'an was so named for that reason. Samayda' went out from Ajyād with horse and foot, and it is said Ajyād got its name from the fine horses (jiyād) that formed Samayda's cavalry. The two parties met in Fādīh, and after a severe battle Samayda' was killed and Qatūrā' humiliated. It is said that the name Fādīh was given for this reason. Then the people clamoured for peace and went on until they reached al-Matābihk, a ravine above Mecca; there they made peace and surrendered authority to Muđād. When he was in power and held sovereignty he slaughtered beasts for the people and gave them as food. The people cooked and ate, and that is why the place is called Matābihk. Some learned people allege that the name was given because Tubbah had slaughtered there and given the food away and it was his base. The dispute between Muđād and Samayda' was the first open wrong committed in Mecca, at least so some allege.

Then God multiplied the offspring of Ishmael in Mecca and their uncles from Jurhum were rulers of the temple and judges in Mecca. The sons of Ishmael did not dispute their authority because of their ties of kindred and their respect for the sanctuary lest there should be quarrelling or fighting therein. When Mecca became too confined for the tribe they treated badly and they appropriated gifts which had been made to the Ka'ba so that their authority weakened. When B. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāf b. Kināna and Ghubshān of Khuzā'a perceived that, they came together to do battle and drive them out of Mecca. War was declared and in the fighting B. Bakr and Ghubshān got the upper hand and expelled them from Mecca. Now in the time of paganism Mecca did not tolerate injustice and wrong within its borders and if anyone did wrong therein it expelled him; therefore it was called 'the Scorcher', and any king who came to profane its sanctity died on the spot. It is said that it was called Bakkā because it was used to break the necks of tyrants when they introduced innovations therein.

'Amr b. al-Ḥārīch b. Muđād al-Jurhamī brought out the two gazelles of the Ka'ba and the corner-stone and buried them in the well Zakhra, a ravine above Mecca; there they made peace. Where they reached Qānri' and al-Illāth they treated badly and they appropriated gifts which had been made for this reason. Then the people clamoured for peace and went on until they reached Al-Mawārik to the east of Mecca. It is said that it was called Mawārik to the east, as Malākūn went out to the west. Many a man disputes the etymology because Malākūn is said to mean 'the Scourger'.

Then Jurhum and Qatūrā' quarreled and contended for the supremacy in Mecca; at that time Muđād had with him the sons of Ishmael and Nābit, and he had the oversight of the temple as against Samayda'. They went out to fight each other, Muđād from Qu'ayqi'an with his horsemen making for Samayda' equipped with spears, leather shields, swords and quivers, rattling as they charged. It is said that Qu'ayqi'an was so named for that reason. Samayda' went out from Ajyād with horse and foot, and it is said Ajyād got its name from the fine horses (jiyād) that formed Samayda's cavalry. The two parties met in Fādīh, and after a severe battle Samayda' was killed and Qatūrā' humiliated. It is said that the name Fādīh was given for this reason. Then the people clamoured for peace and went on until they reached al-Matābihk, a ravine above Mecca; there they made peace and surrendered authority to Muđād. When he was in power and held sovereignty he slaughtered beasts for the people and gave them as food. The people cooked and ate, and that is why the place is called Matābihk. Some learned people allege that the name was given because Tubbah had slaughtered there and given the food away and it was his base. The dispute between Muđād and Samayda' was the first open wrong committed in Mecca, at least so some allege.

Then God multiplied the offspring of Ishmael in Mecca and their uncles from Jurhum were rulers of the temple and judges in Mecca. The sons of Ishmael did not dispute their authority because of their ties of kindred and their respect for the sanctuary lest there should be quarrelling or fighting therein. When Mecca became too confined for the tribe they treated badly and they appropriated gifts which had been made to the Ka'ba so that their authority weakened. When B. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāf b. Kināna and Ghubshān of Khuzā'a perceived that, they came together to do battle and drive them out of Mecca. War was declared and in the fighting B. Bakr and Ghubshān got the upper hand and expelled them from Mecca. Now in the time of paganism Mecca did not tolerate injustice and wrong within its borders and if anyone did wrong therein it expelled him; therefore it was called 'the Scorcher', and any king who came to profane its sanctity died on the spot. It is said that it was called Bakkā because it was used to break the necks of tyrants when they introduced innovations therein.

'Amr b. al-Ḥārīch b. Muđād al-Jurhamī brought out the two gazelles of the Ka'ba and the corner-stone and buried them in the well Zakhra, a ravine above Mecca; there they made peace. Where they reached Qānri' and al-Illāth they treated badly and they appropriated gifts which had been made for this reason. Then the people clamoured for peace and went on until they reached Al-Mawārik to the east of Mecca. It is said that it was called Mawārik to the east, as Malākūn went out to the west. Many a man disputes the etymology because Malākūn is said to mean 'the Scourger'.

3 A mountain above Mecca.
The Life of Muhammad

The tears flow, weeping for a town
Wherein is a sure sanctuary and the sacred places.
Weeping for a temple whose doves unharmed,
Dwell safely there, with flocks of sparrows.
Wild creatures there are tame, unharried,
But leaving its sanctuary are hunted freely (100).

'Amr b. al-Hārith, remembering Bakr and Ghubshān and the townsfolk of Mecca whom they had left behind there, said also:

Journey forth, O men; the time will come
When one day you will not be able to leave.
Hasten your beasts and loosen their reins,
Before death comes; and do what you must do.
We were men like you; fate changed us
And you will be as we once were (101).

The Despotism of Khuzā'ī in Their Custody of the Temple

Then Ghubshān of Khuzā'ī controlled the temple instead of B. Bakr b. 'Abd Manāt, the man who was controlling it being 'Amr b. al-'Irāsh al-Ghubshānī. Quraysh at that time were in scattered settlements, and tents dispersed among their people, B. Kināna. So Khuzā'ī possessed the temple, passing it on from son to son until the last of them, Ḥulayl b. Ḥabashiya b. Sālāb b. Ka'b b. 'Amr b. Khuzā'ī (102).

The Marriage of Qūsāyy b. Kilāb with Ḥubbā, Daughter of Ḥulayl

Qūsāyy b. Kilāb asked Ḥulayl b. Ḥabashiya for his daughter Ḥubbā. Ḥulayl agreed and gave her to him and she bore him 'Abd al-Dār, 'Abd Manāt, Abdu'll-'Uzza, and 'Abd. By the time that the children of Qūsāyy had spread abroad and increased in wealth and reputation Ḥulayl died. Now Qūsāyy thought that he had a better claim than Khuzā'ī and B. Bakr to control the Ka'ba and Mecca, and that Quraysh were the noblest offspring of Ishaq b. Abraham and the purest descendants of his sons. He spoke to Quraysh and B. Kināna asking them to drive out Khuzā'ī and B. Bakr from Mecca and they agreed to do so.

Now Ṣa'b b. Ḥarām of Ḥudayr b. Sa'd b. Zayd had come to Mecca after the death of Kilāb and had married Fāṭima d. Sa'd b. Sayyāl. (Zuhra

1 Or 'houses'.

Al-Ghauth's Authority over Men on Pilgrimage

Al-Ghauth b. Mūrr b. Udd b. al-Ya's b. Mudar used to give permission to men on pilgrimage to leave 'Arafa, and this function descended to his children after him. He and his sons used to be called Ṣūfā. Al-Ghauth used to exercise this function because his mother was a woman of Jurhum who had been barren and vowed to Allah that if she bore a son she would give him to the Ka'ba as a slave to serve it and to look after it. In course of time she gave birth to al-Ghauth and he used to look after the Ka'ba in early times with his Jurhum uncles and presided over the order of departure from 'Arafa because of the office which he held in the Ka'ba. His sons carried on the practice until they were cut off.

1 T. 1095, 12–15. The narrative goes on with the words: 'Ṣūfā used to send the people away'—W. 76. 17.

2 It seems possible that the ḫaḍa or 'permission', i.e. the word of command that terminates the ṭawāf, was originally the permission to fall upon the slaughtered victims. In the Meccan pilgrimage the ḫaḍa which terminated the ṭawāf at 'Arafa was the signal for a hot race from the temple sanctuary of Mozdalifa, where the sacred fire of the god Cozab burned; it was, in fact, not so much the permission to leave 'Arafa as to draw near to Cozab. The race itself is called ṣa'ī, which may mean 'dispersion' or 'distribution'. It cannot well mean the former, for 'Arafa is not holy ground, but merely the point of departure from 'Arafa because of the office which he held in the Ka'ba. His sons carried on the practice until they were cut off.

3 Cf. Wellh. 82; Gaudfroy-Demombynes, 260.

4 The meaning of this name is obscure.
Murr b. Udd, referring to the fulfilment of the mother's oath, said:

O Lord, I have made one of my sons
A devotee in Mecca the exalted,
So bless me for the vow fulfilled,
And make him the best of creatures to my credit.

Al-Ghath, so they allege, used to say when he sent the people away:

O God I am following the example of others.
If that is wrong the fault is Quḍṭa's.

Yahyā b. 'Abbād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from his father 'Abbād said:
Ṣūfā used to send the people away from 'Arafa and give them permission to depart when they left Mina. When the day of departure arrived they used to come to throw pebbles, and a man of Ṣūfā used to throw for the men, none throwing until he had thrown. Those who had urgent business used to come and say to him: 'Get up and throw so that we may throw with you,' and he would say, 'No, by God, not until the sun goes down'; and those who wanted to leave quickly used to throw stones at him to hurry him, saying, 'Confound you, get up and throw.' But he refused until the sun went down and then he would get up and throw while the men threw stones with him.

When they had finished the stoning and wanted to leave Mina, Ṣūfā held both sides of the hill and kept the men back. They said: 'Give the order to depart, Ṣūfā.' No one left until they had gone first. When Ṣūfā left and had passed on, men were left to go their own way and followed them. This was the practice until they were cut off. After them the next of kin inherited. They were of B. Sa'd in the family of Ṣafwān b. al-Harith b. Shijna (103). It was Ṣafwān who gave permission to the pilgrims to depart from 'Arafa, and this right was maintained by them up to Islam, the last being Karib b. Ṣafwān.

Aus b. Tamīm b. Maghra' al-Sa'dī said:

The pilgrims do not quit their halting-place at 'Arafa
Until it is said, 'Give permission O family of Ṣafwān.'

'ADWĀN AND THE DEPARTURE CEREMONY AT MUZDALIFA

Hurtān b. 'Amr the 'Adwānīte who was called Dhūl-Isha' because he had a finger missing said:

Bring an excuse for the tribe of 'Adwān.'
They were the serpents of the earth.

1 i.e. 'for what they have done the one to the other'. They were rent by civil war. See Cauuin de Perceval, Essai sur l'histoire des Arabes, ii. 26a.
2 i.e. 'cunning and treacherous'.

Since the permission to depart from Muzdalifa was with 'Adwān, as Ziyād b. 'Abdullāh al-Bakkā'i told me on the authority of Muhammad b. Iṣḥāq, they used to pass it on from father to son until the last of them when Islam came, Abū Sayyāra 'Umayla b. al-A'zal, about whom a certain poet said:

We have defended Abū Sayyāra
And his clients the Banū Fazāra
Until he made his ass pass through safely
As he faced Mecca praying to its Guardian.

Abū Sayyāra used to send away the people while sitting upon a she ass of his; that is why he says 'making his ass pass safely'.

'AMR B. ZARĪB B. 'AMR B. IYYĀDH B. YASHKUR B. 'ADWĀN

His words 'a judge who gave decisions' refers to the above-named. The Arabs used to refer every serious and difficult case to him for decision and would accept his verdict. Once it happened that a case in dispute in reference to a hermaphrodite was brought to him. They said, 'Are we to treat it as a man or a woman?' They had never brought him such a difficult matter before, so he said, 'Wait awhile until I have looked into the matter, for by Allah you have never brought me a question like this before.' So they agreed to wait, and he passed a sleepless night turning the matter over and looking at it from all sides without any result. Now he had a slave-girl Sukhayla who used to pasture his flock. It was his habit to tease her when she went out in the morning by saying sarcastically, 'You're early this morning, Sukhayla'; and when she returned at night he would say, 'You're late to-night, Sukhayla,' because she had gone out late in the morning and come back late in the evening after the others. Now when this girl saw that he could not sleep and tossed about on his bed she asked what his trouble was. 'Get out and leave me alone, for it is none of your business,' he retorted. However, she was so persistent that he said to himself that it might be that she would provide him with some solution of his problem, so he said: 'Well then, I was asked to adjudicate on the inheritance of a
The Life of Muhammad

79 hermaphrodite. Am I to make him a man or a woman? By God I do not know what to do and I can see no way out.' She said, 'Good God, merely follow the course of the urinary process.' 'Be as late as you please henceforth, Sukhyla; you have solved my problem,' said he. Then in the morning he went out to the people and gave his decision in the way she had indicated.

HOW QUSAAYY B. KILĀB GAINED POWER IN MECCA;
HOW HE UNITED QURAYSH AND THE HELP WHICH QUḌĀ'A GAVE HIM

In that year Ṣufa behaved as they were accustomed. The Arabs had borne them patiently since they felt it a duty in the time of Jurhum and Khuzā'ata when they were in authority. Qusaayy came to them with his tribesmen from Quraysh and Kināna and Quḍā'ata at al-Aqaba saying, 'We have a better right to this authority than you.' (T. They disputed one with another and they tried to kill him.) Severe fighting followed resulting in the defeat of Ṣufa, and Qusaayy assumed their authority.

Thereupon Khuzā'ata and B. Bakr withdrew from Qusaayy knowing that he would impose the same restrictions on them as Ṣufa had done and that he would come between them and the Ka'ba and the rule of Mecca. When they had withdrawn, Qusaayy showed his hostility and gathered his forces to fight them. (T. His brother Rizāh b. Rabi'ata with his men from Khuzā'ata stood with him.) Khuzā'ata and B. Bakr came out against him and a severe battle took place in the valley of Mecca and both parties suffered heavily. Thereupon they agreed to make peace and that one of the Arabs should arbitrate between them. They appointed as umpire Ya'mar b. 'Auf b. Ka'b b. 'Amr b. Layth b. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kināna. His verdict was that Qusaayy had a better claim to the Ka'ba and to rule Mecca than Khuzā'ata and that all blood shed by Qusaayy was to be cancelled and compensation disregarded, but Khuzā'ata and B. Bakr must pay bloodwit for the men of Quraysh, Kināna, and Quḍā'ata whom they had killed and that Qusaayy should be given a free hand with the Ka'ba and Mecca. Ya'mar b. 'Auf was immediately called al-Shaddakh because he had cancelled the claim to bloodwit and remitted it (104).

Thus Qusaayy gained authority over the temple and Mecca and brought in his people from their dwellings to Mecca. He behaved as a king over his tribe and the people of Mecca, and so they made him king; but he had guaranteed to the Arabs their customary rights because he felt that it was a duty upon himself which he had not the right to alter. Thus he confirmed the family of Ṣafwān and 'Adwān and the intercalators and Murra b. 'Auf in their customary rights which obtained until the coming of Islam when God put an end thereby to them all. Qusaayy was the first of B. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy to assume kingship and to be obeyed by his people as king. He held the keys of the temple, the right to water the pilgrims from the well of Zamzam, to feed the pilgrims, to preside at assemblies, and to hand out the war banners. In his hands lay all the dignities of Mecca; he divided the town into quarters among his people and he settled all the Quraysh into their houses in Mecca which they held.

People assert that the Quraysh were afraid to cut down the trees of the sanctuary in their quarters, but Qusaayy cut them down with his own hand or through his assistants. Quraysh called him the 'uniter' because he had brought them together and they drew a happy omen from his rule. So far as Quraysh were concerned no woman was given in marriage, no man married, no discussion about public affairs was held, and no banner of war was entrusted to anyone except in his house, where one of his sons would hand it over. When a girl reached marriageable age she had to come to his house to put on her shift. The shift was split over her head in his house, then she put it on and was taken away to her people. His authority among the Quraysh during his life and after his death was like a religious law which could not be infringed. He chose for himself the house of meeting and made a door which led to the mosque of the Ka'ba; in it the Quraysh used to settle their affairs (105).

'Abdu'l-Malik b. Ṛashid told me that his father said that he heard al-Sāʾib b. Ḥabbāś, author of al-Maṣūrā, reporting that he heard a man telling 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb when he was caliph the story of Qusaayy, how he united Quraysh and expelled Khuzā'ata and B. Bakr from Mecca, and how he gained control of the temple and the affairs of Mecca. Umar made no attempt to gainsay him. (T. Qusaayy's authority in Mecca, where he enjoyed great esteem, remained uncontested. He left the pilgrimage unchanged because he deemed it a religious taboo. The Ṣufa continued, until they were cut off, in the family of Ṣafwān b. al-Hārith b. Shijna by right of inheritance. 'Adwān, the Nas'a of B. Mālik b. Kināna, and Murra b. 'Auf continued as before until Islam came and God destroyed all these offices.)

When Qusaayy's war was over his brother Rizāh b. Rabi'ata went away to his own land with his countrymen. Concerning his response to Qusaayy he composed the following poem:

When a messenger came from Qusaayy
And said 'Respond to your friend's request,'
We sprang to his aid leading our horses,
Casting from us the half-hearted and slow-moving.
We rode all night until the dawn
Hiding ourselves by day lest we should be attacked.
Our steeds were swift as grouse hurrying to water
Bringing our answer to the call of Qusaayy.

1 The dir' was a large piece of cloth. Normally a woman cuts an opening through which she can put her head. She then adds sleeves and sews up the two sides.
We collected tribesmen from Sirr and the two Ashmadhs. From every tribe a clan. What a fine force of cavalry that night, more than a thousand, swift, smooth-paced! When they passed by al-'Asjad and took the easy road from Mustanākh and passed by the edge of Wariqān and passed by al-'Arj, a tribe encamped there, they passed by the thornbushes without cropping them, running hard the livelong night from Marr. We brought the colts near their mothers that their neighing might be gentle, and when we came to Mecca we subdued the men tribe by tribe. We smote them there with the edge of the sword and with every stroke we deprived them of their wits. We trod them down with our horses' hooves as the strong tread down the weak and helpless. We killed Khuzā'ā in their homeland and Bakr we killed group by group. We drove them from God's land, we would not let them possess a fertile country. We kept them bound in iron fetters.

On every tribe we quenched our vengeance.

82 Th'ālabā b. 'Abdullah b. Dhubyān b. al-Ḥārith b. Sa'd Hudhaym al-Quḍā'ā said concerning Quṣayy's invitation and their response:

We urged on our slender high-stepping horses from the sandhills, the sandhills of al-Jināb to the lowlands of Tihāma, and we met our foe in a barren depression of a desert. As for Su'fā the effeminate, they forsook their dwellings in fear of the sword. But the sons of 'Alī when they saw us leaped to their swords like camels that yearn for home.

Quṣayy b. Kīlāb said:

I am the son of the protectors, the B. Lu'āyy, in Mecca is my home where I grew up.

When Quṣayy grew old and feeble, he spoke to 'Abdu'll-Dār. He was his first born but ('T. they say he was weak) 'Abdu Manāf had become famous during his father's lifetime and done all that had to be done along with 'Abdu'll-Uzza and 'Abd. He said: 'By God, my son I will put you on a par with the others; though they have a greater reputation than yours; none of them shall enter the Ka'ba until you open it for them; none shall give the Quraysh the war banner but you with your own hand; none shall drink in Mecca except you allow it; and no pilgrim shall eat food unless you provide it; and Quraysh shall not decide any matter except in your house.' He gave him his house, it being the only place where Quraysh could settle their affairs, and he gave him the formal rights mentioned above.

The Rīfāda was a tax which Quraysh used to pay from their property to Quṣayy at every festival. With it he used to provide food for the pilgrims who were unable to afford their own provisions. Quṣayy had laid this as a duty upon Quraysh, saying: 'You are God's neighbours, the people of his temple and sanctuary. The pilgrims are God's guests and the visitors to His temple and have the highest claim on your generosity; so provide food and drink for them during the pilgrimage until they depart out of your territory.' Accordingly they used to pay him every year a tax on their flocks and he used to provide food for the people therefrom, while they were at Minā, and his people carried out this order of his during the time of ignorance until Islam came. To this very day it is the food which the sultan provides every year in Minā until the pilgrimage is over.

al-Ḥasan said: ‘Quṣayy gave him all the authority that he had over his people. Quṣayy was never contradicted nor was any measure of his overthrown.’

THE RIPT IN QURAYSH AFTER QUṢAYY AND THE CONFEDERACY OF THE SCENTED ONES

After the death of Quṣayy his sons assumed his authority over the people and marked out Mecca in quarters, after he had allotted space there for his own tribe. They allotted quarters among their people and among other allies, and sold them. Quraysh took part in this with them without any discord or dispute. Then the sons of ‘Abdu Manāf—‘Abdu Shams and Ḥāshim and al-Muṭṭalib and Naufal—agreed to seize the rights that the sons of ‘Abdu’l-Dār possessed which Quṣayy had given to ‘Abdu’l-Dār himself, namely those mentioned above. They considered that they had a better right to them because of their superiority and their position among their people. This caused disension among Qurayah, one section siding with B. ‘Abdu Manāf, and the other with B. ‘Abdu’l-Dār. The former held that the new claimants had a better right; the latter that rights which Quṣayy had given to one branch should not be taken away from them.

The leader of B. ‘Abdu Manāf was ‘Abdu Shams, because he was the eldest son of his father; and the leader of B. ‘Abdu’l-Dār was ʿĀmir b. Ḥāshim b. ‘Abdu Manāf b. ‘Abdu’l-Dār. The B. Asad b. ‘Abdu’l-Uzza b. Quṣayy and B. Zuhra b. Kilāb and B. Ṭaym b. Murra b. Kaʾb b. B. al-Ḥāfīthī b. Fīhr b. Mālik b. al-Nadr were with B. ‘Abdu Manāf, while with B. ‘Abdu’l-Dār were B. Makhzūm b. Yaḥṣa b. al-Hadathī b. Fīhr b. Mālik b. al-Nadr with B. ‘Abdu Manāf, while with B. ‘Abdu’l-Dār were Makhzūm b. Yaḥṣa b. al-Hadathī b. Fīhr b. Mālik b. al-Nadr. They bound themselves by a solemn agreement that if they found that anyone, either a native of Mecca or an outsider, had been wrongly they would take his part against the aggressor and see that the stolen property was restored to him. Quraysh called that confederacy ‘The Confederacy of the Fuḍūl’.

Muhammad b. Zayd b. al-Muḥājir b. Qunfudh b. al-Ṭaymi told me that he heard Ṭaḥlī b. ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Aṣf b. al-Zuḥrī say: ‘The apostle of God said, ‘If I witnessed in the house of ‘Abdullāh b. Judān a covenant which I would not exchange for any number of fine camels: if I were invited to take part in it during Islam I should do so.’

Yazīd b. ‘Abdullāh b. Usāma b. al-Ḥadīd b. Laythī told me that Muhammad b. Ibrāhīm b. al-Ḥāfīthī b. al-Ṭaymi told him that there was a dispute between al-Ḥusayn b. ‘Āli b. Abū Ṭalīb and al-Walīd b. ‘Utb b. Abū Sufyān about some property they held in Dhūʾl-Marwa. At that time al-Walīd was governor of Medina, his uncle, Muʾawiya b. Abū Sufyān having given him the appointment. Al-Walīd had defrauded al-Ḥusayn of his rights, for as governor he had the power to do so. Ḥusayn said to him: 'By God you shall do me justice or I will take my sword and stand in the apostle's mosque and invoke the confederacy of the Fudūl'9 'Abdullah b. al-Zubayr who was with al-Walīd at the time said: 'And I swear by God that if he invokes it I will take my sword and stand with him until he gets justice, or we will die together.' When the news reached al-Miswar b. Makhrama b. Naufal al-Zuhri and 'Abdūl-Raḥmān b. 'Uthmān b. 'Ubaydullāh al-Taymi they said the same. As soon as he realized what was happening al-Walīd gave al-Ḥusayn satisfaction.

1 Fuḍūl is explained as meaning that the confederates did not allow wrongdoers to retain any stolen property. Fuḍūl sometimes means ‘remains of spoil’. Another and somewhat far-fetched explanation is that this covenant was modelled on an older covenant of the same character in which three men each with the name of Fuḍī took part.

This same Ḥazīz, on the same authority, told me that Muhammad b. Jubayr b. Muṯʿīm b. 'Adiyā b. Naufal b. 'Abdūl Manāf, who was the most learned of the Quraysh, met 'Abdūl-Malik b. Marwān b. al-Ḥakam when he had killed Ibn al-Zubayr and the people had gathered against 'Abdūl-Malik. When he went in to see him he said: 'O Abū Saʿīd, were not we and you—meaning B. 'Abdu Shams - Hashim b. 'Abdu Shams b. 'Abdu'l-Malik and B. Naufal b. 'Abdūl Manāf—partners in the confederacy of the Fudūl? 'You should know best,' he replied. 'Abdūl-Malik said, 'No, you tell me, Abū Saʿīd, the truth of the matter.' He answered: 'No, by God, you and we kept out of that!' 'You're right,' said 'Abdūl-Malik.

Hāshim b. 'Abdūl Manāf superintended the feeding1 and watering of the pilgrims because 'Abdūl Shams was a great traveller who was seldom to be found in Mecca; moreover he was a poor man with a large family, while Hāshim was a well-to-do man. It is alleged that when the pilgrims were there he got up and addressed Quraysh thus: 'You are God's neighbours and the people of His temple. At this feast there come to you God's visitors and pilgrims to His temple. They are God's guests, and His guests have the best claim on your generosity; so get together what food they will need for the time they have to stay here. If my own means were sufficient I would not lay this burden upon you.' Thereupon they taxed themselves each man according to his capacity and used to provide food for the pilgrims until they left Mecca.

It is alleged that Hāshim was the first to institute the two caravan journeys of Quraysh, summer and winter, and the first to provide ṭhārid (broth in which bread is broken up) in Mecca. Actually his name was 'Amr, but he was called Hāshim because he broke up bread in this way for his people in Mecca. A Quraysh poet, or one of the Arabs, composed this poem:

'Amr who made bread-and-broth for his people,
A people in Mecca who suffered lean years.
He it was who started the two journeys,
The winter's caravan and the summer's train (107).

Hāshim b. 'Abdūl Manāf died in Ghazza in the land of Syria while travelling with his merchandise, and al-Muṭṭalib b. 'Abdūl Manāf assumed the right of feeding and watering the pilgrims. He was younger than 'Abdūl Shams and Hāshim. He was held in high esteem among his people, who called him al-Faṭyān on account of his liberality and high character.

Hāshim had gone to Medina and married Salmā d. 'Amr, one of B. 'Adiyā b. al-Najjār. Before that she had been married to Uḥayba b. al-Juḍāḥ b. al-Ḥarīsh b. Ḥajjāb b. Kufa b. 'Aṭf b. 'Amr b. Aḥvāl b. Salmā d. 'Amr b. 'Abdu'l-Malik b. al-Aus and bore him a son called 'Amr. On account of the high position she held among her people she would only marry on condition that she should retain control of her own affairs. If she disliked a man she left him.

To Hāshim she bore 'Abdūl-Muṭṭalib and called his name Shayba. Hāshim left him with her while he was a little boy. Then his uncle al-Muṭṭalib came to take him away and bring him up among his people in his town. But Salmā declined to let him go with him. His uncle argued that his nephew was now old enough to travel and was as an exile away from his own tribe who were the people of the temple, of great local reputation, holding much of the government in their hands. Therefore it was better for the boy that he should be among his own family, and therefore he refused to go without him. It is popularly asserted that Shayba refused to leave his mother without her consent; and this she ultimately gave. So his uncle took him away to Mecca, riding behind him on his camel, and the people cried: 'It's al-Muṭṭalib's slave whom he has bought' and that is how he got the name of 'Abdūl-Muṭṭalib. His uncle called out: 'Rubbah! This is my nephew whom I have brought from Medina.'

Subsequently al-Muṭṭalib died in Rādān in the Yaman, and an Arab mourned him in the following lines:

Thirsty are the pilgrims now al-Muṭṭalib is gone.
No more bowls with overflowing brims.
Now that he is gone would that Quraysh were in torment!

Maṭrūd b. Kaʿb al-Khuzaʾi wrote this elegy over al-Muṭṭalib and all the sons of 'Abdūl Manāf when the news came that Naufal the last of them was dead:

O night! most miserable night,
Disturbing all other nights,
With thoughts of what I suffer
From sorrow and the blows of fate.
When I remember my brother Naufal,
He reminds me of days gone by,
He reminds me of the red waist-sashes,
The fine new yellow robes.
There were four of them, everyone a prince,
Sons and grandsons of princes.
One dead in Rādān, one in Salmān,
A third lies near Ghazza,

1 The rifāḍa, feeding by means of a levy on Quraysh, has been explained above (p. 55) and there the author of the system is said to be Quraysh. Probably for this reason Ibn Isbāq discredits their tradition here by the words 'it is alleged'.
The Life of Muhammad

A fourth lies in a grave by the Ka'ba
To the east of the sacred buildings.
'Abdu Manaf brought them up virtuously
Safe from the reproof of all men.
Yea there are none like Mughira's children
Among the living or the dead.

'Abdu Mānāf's name was al-Mughira. Hāshim was the first of his sons to die at Ghazza in Syria, followed by 'Abdu Shams in Mecca, then al-Muṭṭalib in Radman in the Yaman, and lastly Naufal in Salman in Iraq.

It was said to Maṭrūd—at least they assert so—'Your lines are very good, but if you had done more justice to the theme they would have been still better.' 'Give me a night or two,' he replied, and after a few days he produced the following:

O eye, weep copiously, pour down thy tears,
Weep over Mughira's sons, that noble breed of Ka'b,
O eye, cease not to weep thy gathering tears,
Bewail my heartfelt sorrow in life's misfortunes.
Weep over all those generous trustworthy men,
Lavish in gifts, munificent, bounteous,
Pure in soul, of high intent,
Firm in disposition, resolute in grave affairs,
Strong in emergency, no churls, not relying on others,
Quick to decide, lavish in generosity.
If Ka'b's line is reckoned, a hawk,
The very heart and summit of their glory,
Weep for generosity and Muṭṭalib the generous,
Release the fountain of thy tears,
Gone from us in Radmān today as a foreigner,
My heart grieves for him among the dead.
Woe to you, weep if you can weep,
For 'Abdu Shams on the east of the Ka'b,
For Hāshim in the grave in the midst of the desert
Where the wind of Ghazza blows o'er his bones.
Above all for my friend Naufal
Who found in Salman a desert grave.
Never have I known their like, Arab or foreigner,
When their white camels bore them along.
Now their camps know them no more
Who used to be the glory of our troops.
Has time annihilated them or were their swords blunt,
Or is every living thing food for the Fates?
Since their death I have come to be satisfied
With mere smiles and friendly greetings.
Weep for the father of the women with dishevelled hair

Who weep for him with faces unveiled as camels doomed to die.'
They mourn the noblest man who ever walked,
Bewailing him with floods of tears.
They mourn a man generous and liberal,
Rejecting injustice, who settled the greatest matters.
They weep for 'Amr al-'Ulā when his time came,
Benign was his nature as he smiled at the night's guests.
They weep prostrated by sorrow,
How long was the lamentation and woe!
They mourned him when time exiled them from him,
Their faces pale like camels denied water.
With their loins girded because of fate's hard blows.
I passed the night in pain watching the stars
I wept and my little daughters wept to share my grief.
No prince is their equal or peer,
Among those left behind none are like their offspring.
Their sons are the best of sons,
And they are the best of men in the face of disaster.
How many a smooth running fast horse have they given,
How many a captive mare have they bestowed,
How many a fine mettled Indian sword,
How many a lance as long as a well rope,
How many slaves did they give for the asking,
Lavishing their gifts far and wide.
Were I to count and others count with me
I could not exhaust their generous acts;
They are the foremost in pure descent
Wherever men boast of their forbears,
The ornament of the houses which they left
So that they have become solitary and forsaken,
I say while my eye ceases not to weep,
May God spare the unfortunate (family)! (108)

By the 'father of the women with dishevelled hair' the poet means Hāshim b. 'Abdu Manāf.

Following his uncle al-Muṭṭalib, 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib b. Hāshim took over the duties of watering and feeding the pilgrims and carried on the practices of his forefathers with his people. He attained such eminence as none of his forefathers enjoyed; his people loved him and his reputation was great among them.

1 The words 'camels doomed to die' refer to the she-camel which used to be tethered by the grave of her dead master until she died of hunger and thirst. The heathen Arabs believed he would ride her in the next world.
2 'The lofty one.'
While Abdu'l-Mu'talib was sleeping in the hi'jir,1 he was ordered in a vision to dig Zamzam. Yazid b. Abü Habbāb al-Miṣrī from Marthad b. 'Abdulāh al-Yazanī from 'Abdulāh b. Zurrār al-Ghafiqī told me that he heard 'Ali b. Abū Ṭalīb telling the story of Zamzam. He said that 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib said: 'I was sleeping in the hi'jir when a supernatural visitor came and said, 'Dig Tība'". I said "And what is Tība?"; then he left me. I went to bed again the next day and slept, and he came to me and said "Dig Barra"; when I asked what Barra was he left me. The next day he came and said "Dig al-Madnānā"; when I asked what that was he went away again. The next day he came while I was sleeping and said "Dig Zamzam". I said, "What is Zamzam?"; he said:

'Twill never fail or ever run dry,
'Twill water the pilgrim company.

It lies 'twixt the dung and the flesh bloody,2
By the nest where the white-winged ravens fly,
By the nest where the ants to and fro do ply.'

When the exact spot had been indicated to him and he knew that it corresponded with the facts, he took a pick-axe and went with his son al-I;Hirith to the diviner of B. Sa'd Hudhaym, who dwelt in the uplands of Syria. So 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib, accompanied by some of his relations and a representative from all the tribes of Quraysh, rode away. They went on through desolate country between the Hijaz and Syria until 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib's company ran out of water and they feared that they would die of thirst. They asked the Quraysh tribes to give them water, but they refused, on the ground that if they gave them their water they too would die of thirst. In his desperation 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib consulted his companions as to what should be done, but all they could do was to say that they would follow his instructions: so he said, 'I think that every man should dig a hole for himself with the strength that he has left so that whenever a man dies his companions can thrust him into the hole and bury him until the last man, for it is better that one man should lie unburied than a whole company.' They accepted his advice and every man began to dig a hole for himself. Then they sat down until they should die of thirst. After a time 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib said to his companions, 'By God, to abandon ourselves to death in this way and not to scour the country in search of water is sheer incompetence; perhaps God will give us water somewhere. To your saddles!' So they got their beasts ready while the Quraysh watched them at work. 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib went to his beast and mounted her and when she got up from her knees a flow of fresh water broke out from beneath her feet. 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib and his companions, crying 'Allah akbar!', dismounted and drank and filled their water-skins. Then they invited the Quraysh to come to the water which God had given them and to drink freely. After they had done so and filled their water-skins they said: 'By God, the judgement has been given in your favour 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib. We will never dispute your claim to Zamzam. He who has given you water in this wilderness is He who has given you Zamzam. Return to your office of watering the pilgrims in peace.' So they all went back without going to the diviner.

This is the story which I heard as from 'Ali b. Abū Ṭalīb about Zamzam and I have heard one report on 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib's authority that when he was ordered to dig Zamzam it was said to him:

'Abdu'l-Mu'talib, accompanied by some of his relations and a representative from all the tribes of Quraysh, rode away. They went on through desolate country between the Hijaz and Syria until 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib's company ran out of water and they feared that they would die of thirst. They asked the Quraysh tribes to give them water, but they refused, on the ground that if they gave them their water they too would die of thirst. In his desperation 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib consulted his companions as to what should be done, but all they could do was to say that they would follow his instructions: so he said, 'I think that every man should dig a hole for himself with the strength that he has left so that whenever a man dies his companions can thrust him into the hole and bury him until the last man, for it is better that one man should lie unburied than a whole company.' They accepted his advice and every man began to dig a hole for himself. Then they sat down until they should die of thirst. After a time 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib said to his companions, 'By God, to abandon ourselves to death in this way and not to scour the country in search of water is sheer incompetence; perhaps God will give us water somewhere. To your saddles!' So they got their beasts ready while the Quraysh watched them at work. "Abdu'l-Mu'talib went to his beast and mounted her and when she got up from her knees a flow of fresh water broke out from beneath her feet. "Abdu'l-Mu'talib and his companions, crying 'Allah akbar!', dismounted and drank and filled their water-skins. Then they invited the Quraysh to come to the water which God had given them and to drink freely. After they had done so and filled their water-skins they said: 'By God, the judgement has been given in your favour 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib. We will never dispute your claim to Zamzam. He who has given you water in this wilderness is He who has given you Zamzam. Return to your office of watering the pilgrims in peace.' So they all went back without going to the diviner.

'Twill never fail or ever run dry,
'Twill water the pilgrim company.

It lies 'twixt the dung and the flesh bloody,
By the nest where the white-winged ravens fly,
By the nest where the ants to and fro do ply.'
Mulla al-Jafr says who at that time was his only sao, went and began to pray to God, and when the priest threw the dug Suqayya which belongs to them. The B. part of Mecca near Kilab al-Hashim did not dig it. Um~Yra 'Amr b. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shams Jumal; Abu b. Allah b. al-Hashim Mana\[Mana\[Mana\] uncovered and people had no further al-Bakka al-Murim bought it from Asad b. Ishaq. The B. Naufal allege that when he had dug it he said: 'I will make it a means of subsistence for the people' (110).

He dug Saqala which is a well belonging to al-Mu'tim b. 'Adiy b. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manaf which is still used today. The B. Naufal allege that al-Mu'tim bought it from Asad b. Hashim, while B. Hashim allege that he gave it to him when Zamzam was uncovered and people had no further use for the other wells.

Umaya b. 'Abdu Shams dug al-Hafir for himself. The B. Asad b. 'Abdu'l-Uzza dug Suqayya which belongs to them. The B. 'Abdu'l-Dar dug Umm Ahad. The B. Jumah dug al-Sunbula which belongs to Khalaf b. Wahab. The B. Sahn dug al-Gharn which belongs to them.

There were some old wells outside Mecca dating from the time of Murra b. Ka'b and Kilab b. Murra from which the first princes of Quraysh used to draw water, namely Rumm and Khumm. Rumm was dug by Murra b. Ka'b and Khumm by B. Kilab b. Murra, and so was al-Hafir. There is an old poem of Hudhayfa b. Ghainim, brother of B. 'Adiy b. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy (111), which runs:

In the good old days we were long satisfied
To get our water from Khunn or al-Hafir.

Zamzam utterly eclipsed the other wells from which the pilgrims used to get their water, and people went to it because it was in the sacred enclosure and because its water was superior to any other; and, too, because it was the well of Isma'il b. Ibrahim. Because of it B. 'Abdu Manaf behaved boastfully towards Quraysh and all other Arabs.

Here are some lines of Musa'ib b. Abu Amr b. Umaya b. 'Abdu Shams b. 'Abdu Manaf boasting over Quraysh that they held the right of watering and feeding the pilgrims, and that they discovered Zamzam, and that B.

---

1 It is alleged that when this was said to him and he inquired where Zamzam was, he was told that it was by the ants' nest where the raven will peck tomorrow, but God knows how true this is. The next day 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib with his son al-Harith, who at that time was his only son, went and found the ants' nest and the raven pecking beside it between the two idols Iaaf and Nala at which Quraysh used to slaughter their sacrifices. He brought a pick-axe and began to dig where he had been commanded. Quraysh seeing him at work came up and refused to allow him to dig between their two idols where they sacrificed. 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib then told his son to stand by and protect him while he dug, for he was determined to carry out what he had been commanded to do. When they saw that he was not going to stop work they left him severely alone. He had not dug deeply before the stone top of the well appeared and he gave thanks to God knowing that he had been rightly informed. As digging went further, he found the two gazelles of gold which Jurhum had buried there when they left Mecca. He also found some swords and coats of mail from Qal'a. Quraysh claimed that they had a right to share in this find. 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib denied this, but was willing to submit the matter to the sacred lot. He said that he would make two arrows for the Ka'ba, two for them, and two for himself. The two arrows which came out from the quiver would determine to whom the property belonged. This was agreed, and accordingly he made two yellow arrows for the Ka'ba, two black ones for himself, and two white ones for Quraysh. They were then given to the priest in charge of the divinatory arrows, which were thrown beside Hubal. (Hubal was an image in the middle of the Ka'ba, indeed the greatest of their images. It is that referred to by Abu Sufyan ibn Harb at the battle of Uhud when he cried 'Arise Hubal', i.e. Make your religion victorious!) 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib began to pray to God, and when the priest threw the arrows the two yellow ones for the gazelles came out in favour of the Ka'ba. The two black ones allotted the swords and coats of mail to 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib, and the two arrows of Quraysh remained behind. 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib made the swords into a door for the Ka'ba and overlaid the door with the gold of the gazelles. This was the first golden ornament of the Ka'ba, at any rate so they allege. Then 'Abdu'l-Mu'ttalib took charge of the supply of Zamzam water to the pilgrims.

2 As these lines are in part identical with those mentioned above, clearly this is a rival account of the vision.

3 A mountain in Syria, though other sites have been suggested. See Yaqut.
"Abdu Manāf were one family in which the honour and merit of one belonged to all:

Glory came to us from our fathers.
We have carried it to greater heights.
Do not we give the pilgrims water
And sacrifice the fat milch camels?
When death is at hand we are found
Brave and generous.
Though we perish (for none can live for ever)
A stranger shall not rule our kin.
Zamzam belongs to our tribe.
We will pluck out the eyes of those who look enviously at us.

Hudhayfah b. Ghānim [mentioned above] said:

(Weep for him) who watered the pilgrims, son of him who broke bread

And 'Abdu Manāf that Fihri lord.
He laid bare Zamzam by the Maqām,
His control of the water was a prouder boast than any man's (112).

T. 1076

'Abdul-Mutṭalib's Vow to Sacrifice His Son

It is alleged, and God only knows the truth, that when 'Abdu'l-Mutṭalib encountered the opposition of Quraysh when he was digging Zamzam, he vowed that if he should have ten sons to grow up and protect him, he would sacrifice one of them to God at the Ka'ba. Afterwards when he had ten sons who could protect him he gathered them together and told them about his vow and called on them to keep faith with God. They agreed to obey him and asked what they were to do. He said that each one of them must get an arrow, write his name on it, and bring it to him: this they did, and he took them before Hubal in the middle of the Ka'ba. (The statue of) Hubal stood by a well there. It was that well in which gifts made to the Ka'ba were stored.

Now beside Hubal there were seven arrows, each of them containing some words. One was marked 'bloodwit'. When they disputed about whom should pay the bloodwit they cast lots with the seven arrows and he on whom the lot fell had to pay the money. Another was marked 'yes', and another 'no', and they acted accordingly on the matter on which the oracle had been invoked. Another was marked 'of you'; another mulsaq, another 'not of you'; and the last was marked 'water'. If they wanted to dig for water, they cast lots containing this arrow and wherever it came forth they set to work. If they wanted to circumcise a boy, or make a marriage, or bury a body, or doubted someone's genealogy, they took him to Hubal with a hundred dirhams and a slaughter camel and gave them to the man who cast the lots; then they brought near the man with whom they were concerned saying, 'O our god this is A the son of B with whom we intend to do so and so; show the right course concerning him.' Then they would say to the man who cast the arrows 'Cast!' and if there came out 'of you' then he was a true member of their tribe; and if there came out 'not of you' he was an ally; and if there came out mulsaq he had no blood relation to them and was not an ally. Where 'yes' came out in other matters, they acted accordingly; and if the answer was 'no' they deferred the matter for a year until they could bring it up again. They used to conduct their affairs according to the decision of the arrows.

1 I read khubus with most MSS.
2 Cf. p. 103. 'T adds 'Hubal being the greatest (or, most revered) of the idols of Quraysh in Mecca'.
3 Not a member of the tribe.

'Abdu'l-Mutṭalib said to the man with the arrows, 'Cast the lots for my sons with these arrows', and he told him of the vow which he had made. Each man gave him the arrow on which his name was written. Now 'Abdullāh was his father's youngest son, he and al-Zubayr and Abū Talīb were born to Fāṭima d. 'Amr b. 'A'īdh b. 'Abd b. Imrān b. Makhzūm b. Yaqūza b. Murra b. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy b. Ghālib b. Fihr (113). It is alleged that 'Abdullāh was 'Abdu'l-Mutṭalib's favourite son, and his father thought that if the arrow missed him he would be spared. (He was the father of the Apostle of God.) When the man took the arrows to cast lots with them, 'Abdu'l-Mutṭalib stood by Hubal praying to Allah. Then the man cast lots and 'Abdullāh's arrow came out. His father led him by the hand and took a large knife; then he brought him up to Isāf and Na'ila (T. two idols of Quraysh at which they slaughtered their sacrifices) to sacrifice him; but Quraysh came out of their assemblies and asked what he was intending to do. When he said that he was going to sacrifice him, they and his sons said 'By God! you shall never sacrifice him until you offer the greatest expiatory sacrifice for him. If you do a thing like this there will be no stopping men from coming to sacrifice their sons, and what will become of the people then?' Then said al-Mughira b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr b. Makhzūm b. Yaqūza, 'Abdullāh's mother being from his tribe, 'By God, you shall never sacrifice him until you offer the greatest expiatory sacrifice for him. Though his ransom be all our property we will redeem him.' Quraysh and his sons said that he must not do it, but take him to the Hijāz for there was a sorceress who had a familiar spirit, and he must consult her. Then he would have liberty of action. If she told him to sacrifice him, he would be no worse off; and if she gave him a favourable response, he could accept it. So they went off as far as Medina and found that she was in Khaybar, so they allege. So they rode on until they got to her, and when 'Abdu'l-Mutṭalib acquainted her with the facts she told them to go away until her familiar spirit visited her and she could ask him. When they had left her 'Abdu'l-Mutṭalib prayed to Allah, and when they visited her the next day she said, 'Word has come to me. How much is the blood money among you?' They told her that it was ten camels, as indeed it was. She told them to go back to their country and take the young man and ten camels. Then cast lots for them and for him; if the lot falls against your man, add more camels, until your lord is satisfied. If the lot falls against the camels then sacrifice them in his stead, for your lord will be satisfied and your client escape death. So they returned to Mecca, and when they had agreed to carry out their instructions, 'Abdu'l-Mu‘tašlib was praying to Allah. Then they brought near Abdullah and ten camels while 'Abdu'l-Mu‘tašlib stood by Hubal praying to Allah. Then they cast lots and the arrow fell against Abdullah. They added ten more camels and the lot fell against Abdullah, and so they went on adding ten at a time, until there were one hundred camels, when finally the lot fell against them. Quraysh and those who were present said, 'At last your lord is satisfied 'Abdu'l-Mu‘tašlib.' 'No, by God,' he answered (so they say), 'not until I cast lots three times.' This they did and each time the arrow fell against the camels. They were duly slaughtered and left there and no man was kept back or hindered (from eating them) (114).

1 The region of Medina was the centre. See Lammens, L'Arabie Occidentale, 300 ff.

OF THE WOMAN WHO OFFERED HERSELF IN MARRIAGE TO 'ABDULLAH B. 'ABDU’L-MU‘TALIB

Taking Abdullah by the hand 'Abdu'l-Mu‘tašlib went away and they passed —so it is alleged—a woman of B. Asad b. 'Abdu'l-Uzza b. Quasyay b. Kilab b. Murra b. Ka‘b b. Lu‘ayy b. Ghailib b. Fihr who was the sister of Waraqa b. Naufal b. Asad b. 'Abdu'l-Uzza, who was at the Ka‘ba. When she looked at him she asked, 'Where are you going Abdullah?' He replied, 'With my father.' She said, 'If you will take me you can have as many camels as were sacrificed in your stead.' 'I am with my father and I cannot act against his wishes and leave him,' he replied.

It is alleged that Abdullah consummated his marriage immediately and his wife conceived the apostle of God. Then he left her presence and met the woman who had proposed to him. He asked her why she did not make the proposal that she made to him the day before; to which she replied that the light that was with him the day before had left him, and she no longer had need of him. She had heard from her brother Waraqa b. Naufal, who had been a Christian and studied the scriptures, that a prophet would arise among this people.

My father Ishāq b. Yāsār told me that he was told that 'Abdullah went to a woman that he had beside Amina d. Wahb when he had been working in clay and the marks of the clay were on him. She put him off when he made a suggestion to her because of the dirt that was on him. He then left her and washed and bathed himself, and as he made his way to Amina he passed her and she invited him to come to her. He refused and went to Amina who conceived Muhammad. When he passed the woman again he asked her if she wanted anything and she said 'No! When you passed me there was a white blaze between your eyes and when I invited you you refused me and went in to Amina, and she has taken it away.'

It is alleged that that woman of his used to say that when he passed by her between his eyes there was a blaze like the blaze of a horse. She said: 'I invited him hoping that that would be in me, but he refused me and went to Amina and she conceived the apostle of God.' So the apostle of God was the noblest of his people in birth and the greatest in honour both on his father’s and his mother’s side. God bless and preserve him!

WHAT WAS SAID TO ĀMINA WHEN SHE HAD CONCEIVED THE APOSTLE

It is alleged in popular stories (and only God knows the truth) that Amina d. Wahb, the mother of God’s apostle, used to say when she was pregnant with God’s apostle that a voice said to her, 'You are pregnant with the lord of this people and when he is born say, "I put him in the care of the One from the evil of every envier; then call him Muhammad."' As she was pregnant with him she saw a light come forth from her by which she could see the castles of Buṣrah in Syria. Shortly afterwards 'Abdullah the apostle’s father died while his mother was still pregnant.

THE BIRTH OF THE APOSTLE AND HIS SUCKLING

The apostle was born on Monday, 12th Rabi’u'l-sawwal, in the year of the elephant. Al-Mu‘tašlib b. 'Abdullah who had it from his grandfather Qays b. Makhrama said, 'I and the apostle were born at the same time in the year of the elephant.' (T. It is said that he was born in the house known as T. 998 I. Yūsuf’s; and it is said that the apostle gave it to Aqīl b. Abū Ṭalib who kept it until he died. His son sold it to Muhammad b. Yūsuf, the brother of al-Hajjāj, and he incorporated it in the house he built. Later Khayzurān separated it therefrom and made it into a mosque.)

Sha'il b. İbrahim b. 'Abdul'l-Rahmān b. 'Auf b. Yahyā b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdul'l-Rahmān b. Sa'd b. Zurrār al- Ansārī said that his tribesmen said that Ḥassān b. Thābit said: 'I was a well-grown boy of seven or eight, understanding all that I heard, when I heard a Jew calling out at the top of his voice from the top of a fort in Yathrib "O company of Jews" until they all came together and called out "Confound you, what is the matter?"' He answered: 'Tonight has risen a star under which Āhidād is to be born.'"

I asked Sa'id b. 'Abdul'l-Rahmān b. Ḥassān b. Thābit how old Ḥassān was when the apostle came to Medina and he said he was 60 when the apostle came, he being 53. So Ḥassān heard this when he was seven years old.

After his birth his mother sent to tell his grandfather 'Abdul'l-Muṭṭalib that she had given birth to a boy and asked him to come and look at him. When he came she told him what she had seen when she conceived him and what was said to her and what she was ordered to call him. It is alleged that 'Abdul'l-Muṭṭalib took him (T. before Hubal) in the (T. middle of the) Ka'ba, where he stood and prayed to Allāh thanking him for this gift. Then he brought him out and delivered him to his mother, and he tried to find foster-mothers for him (115).

Ḫalima d. Abū Dhu'ayb of B. Sa'd b. Bakr was asked to suckle him. Abū Dhu'ayb was 'Abdullāh b. al-Ḫārit b. Ṣhijna b. Jābir b. Ṣuqayya b. Naṣr b. Sa'd b. Bakr b. Hawāzīn b. Maš'ūr b. Īkrīma b. Ḥasāf b. Qays b. Ayān. The prophet's foster-father was al-Ḫārit b. 'Abdul'l-Uzza b. Rifa'a b. Mallān b. Naṣira b. Quṣayya b. Naṣr b. Sa'd b. Bakr b. Hawāzīn (116). His foster-brother was 'Abdullāh b. al-Ḫārit; Unayṣa and Hūdāfā were his foster-sisters. The latter was called al-Shayma', her people not using her proper name. These were the children of Ḥalima d. 'Abdullāh b. al-Ḫārit. It is reported that al-Shayma' used to carry him in her arms to help her mother.

Ḫahm b. Abū Jahl the client of al-Ḫārit b. Ḥahīb al-Jumāhī on the authority of 'Abdullāh b. Ja'far b. Abū Ţalīb or from one who told him it as from him, informed me that Ḥalima the apostle's foster-mother used to say that she went forth from her country with her husband and little son whom she was nursing, among the women of her tribe, in search of other babies to nurse. This was a year of famine when they were destitute. She was riding a dusky she-donkey of hers with an old she-camel which did not yield a drop of milk. They could not sleep the whole night because of the weeping of her hungry child. She had no milk to give him, nor could their 1 Khayzurān was the wife of the caliph al-Mahdī (538–69), and as she did not give her freedom until after his accession and I.I. died a few years before in the reign of Mansūr, it would seem unlikely that I.I. should have recorded this tradition.

2 In W. Judhāmā. I have followed C. which has the authority of I. Ḥajar. The name is uncertain.

she-camel provide a morning draught, but we were hoping for rain and relief. 'I rode upon my donkey which had kept back the other riders through its weakness and emaciation so that it was a nuisance to them. When we reached Mecca, we looked out for foster children, and the apostle of God was offered to everyone of us, and each woman refused him when she was told he was an orphan, because we hoped to get payment from the child's father. We said, "An orphan! and what will his mother and grandfather do?"; and so we spurned him because of that. Every woman who came with me got a suckling except me, and when we decided to depart I said to my husband: "By God, I do not like the idea of returning with my friends without a suckling; I will go and take that orphan." Her reply, "Do as you please; perhaps God will bless us on his account." So I went and took him for the sole reason that I could not find anyone else. I took him back to my baggage, and as soon as I put him in my bosom, my breasts overflowed with milk which he drank until he was satisfied, as also did his foster-brother. Then both of them slept, whereas before this we could not sleep with him. My husband got up and went to the old she-camel and lo, her udders were full; he milked it and he and I drank of her milk until we were completely satisfied, and we passed a happy night. In the morning my husband said: "Do you know, Ḥalima, you have taken a blessed creature?" I said, "By God, I hope so." Then we set out and I was riding my she-ass and carrying him with me, and she went at such a pace that the other donkeys could not keep up so that my companions said to me, "Confound you! stop and wait for us. Isn't this the donkey on which you started?" 'Certainly it is," I said. They replied, "By God, something extraordinary has happened." Then we came to our dwellings in the Banū Sa'd country and we do not know a country more barren than that.

When we had him with us my flock used to yield milk in abundance. We milked them and drank while other people had not a drop, nor could they find anything in their animals' udders, so that our people were saying to their shepherds, "Woe to you! send your flock to graze where the daughter of Abū Dhuyūb's shepherd goes." Even so, their flocks came back hungry not yielding a drop of milk, while mine had milk in abundance. We ceased not to recognize this bounty as coming from God for a period of two years, when I weaned him. He was growing up as none of the other children grew and by the time he was two he was a well-made child. We brought him to his mother, though we were most anxious to keep him with us because of the blessing which he brought us. I said to her: "I should like you to leave my little boy with me until he becomes a big boy, for I am afraid on his account of the pest in Mecca." We persisted until she sent him back with us.

Some months after our return he and his brother were with our lambs behind the tents when his brother came running and said to us, "Two men" clothed in white have seized that Qurayshi brother of mine and thrown him down and opened up his belly, and are stirring it up." We ran towards him and found him standing up with a livid face. We took hold of him and asked him what was the matter. He said, "Two men in white raiment came and threw me down and opened up my belly and searched therein for I know not what." So we took him back to our tent.

His father said to me, "I am afraid that this child has had a stroke, so take him back to his family before the result appears." So we picked him up and took him to his mother who asked why we had brought him when I had been anxious for his welfare and desirous of keeping him with me. I said to her, "God has let my son live so far and I have done my duty. I am afraid that ill will befall him, so I have brought him back to you as you wished." She asked me what happened and gave me no peace until I told her. When she asked if I feared a demon possessed him, I replied that I did. She answered that no demon had any power over her son who had a great future before him, and then she told how when she was pregnant with him a light went out from her which illumined the castles of Buṣārā in Syria, and that she had borne him with the least difficulty imaginable. When she bore him he put his hands on the ground lifting his head towards the heavens. "Leave him then and go in peace," she said.

Thaur b. Yazīd from a learned person who I think was Khālid b. Ma'dān al-Kalātī told me that some of the apostle's companions asked him to tell them about himself. He said: "I am what Abraham my father prayed for and the good news of (T. my brother) Jesus. When my mother was carrying me she saw a light proceeding from her which showed her the castles of Syria. I was suckled among the B. Sa'd b. Bakr, and while I was with a brother of mine behind our tents shepherding the lambs, two men in white raiment came to me with a golden basin full of snow. Then they seized me and opened up my belly, extracted my heart and split it; then they extracted a black drop from it and threw it away; then they washed my heart and my belly with that snow until they had thoroughly cleaned them. Then one said to the other, weigh him against ten of his people; they did so and I outweighed them. Then they weighed me against a hundred and then a thousand, and I outweighed them. He said, "Leave him alone, for by God, if you weighed him against all his people he would outweigh them."

The apostle of God used to say, "There is no prophet but has shepherded a flock. When they said, 'You, too, apostle of God?', he said 'Yes.'"

The apostle of God used to say to his companions, "I am the most Arab of you all. I am of Quraysh, and I was suckled among the B. Sa'd b. Bakr. It is alleged by some, but God knows the truth, that when his foster-mother brought him to Mecca he escaped her among the crowd while she was taking him to his people. She sought him and could not find him, so she went to 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib and said: 'I brought Muhammad tonight and when I was in the upper part of Mecca he escaped me and I don't know where he is.' So 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib went to the Ka'ba praying to God to restore him. They assert that Waraqa b. Naufal b. Asad and another man of Quraysh found him and brought him to 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib saying, "We have found this son of yours in the upper part of Mecca." 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib took him and put him on his shoulder as he went round the Ka'ba confiding him to God's protection and praying for him; then he sent him to his mother Amina.

A learned person told me that what urged his foster-mother to return him to his mother, apart from what she told his mother, was that a number of Abyssinian Christians saw him with her when she brought him back after he had been weaned. They looked at him, asked questions about him, and studied him carefully, then they said to her, 'Let us take this boy, and bring him to our king and our country; for he will have a great future. We know all about him.' The person who told me this alleged that she could hardly get him away from them.

Amina dies and the apostle lives with his grandfather

The apostle lived with his mother Amina d. Wahb and his grandfather 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib in God's care and keeping like a fine plant, God wishing to honour him. When he was six years old his mother Amina died.

'Abdullāh b. Abī Bakr b. Muḥammad b. 'Amr b. Ḥāzm told me that the apostle's mother died in Abwā' between Mecca and Medina on her return from a visit with him to his maternal uncles of B. 'Adī b. al-Najjar when he was six years old (117). Thus the apostle was left to his grandfather for whom they made a bed in the shade of the Ka'ba. His sons used to sit round the bed until he came out to it, but none of them sat upon it out of respect for him. The apostle, still a little boy, used to come and sit on it and his uncles would drive him away. When 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib saw this he said: 'Let my son alone, for by Allah he has a great future.' Then he would make him sit beside him on his bed and would stroke his back with his hand. It used to please him to see what he did.

THE DEATH OF 'ABDU'L-MUṬṬALIB AND THE ELEGIES THEREON

When the apostle was eight years of age, eight years after the 'year of the elephant', his grandfather died. This date was given me by al-'Abbās b. 'Abdullāh b. Ma'bad b. al-'Abbās from one of his family.

Muḥammad b. Sa'id b. al-Musayyib told me that when 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib knew that death was at hand he summoned his six daughters Safīya, Barra, 'Āṭika, Umm Ḥākim al-Bayḍā', Umayma, and Arwā, and said to them, "Compose elegies over me so that I may hear what you are going to say before I die." (118)

Šafiya d. 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib said in mourning her father:

I could not sleep for the voices of the keening women,
Bewailing a man on the crown of life's road,
It caused the tears to flow
Down my cheeks like falling pearls
For a noble man, no wretched weakling,
Whose virtue was plain to all.
The generous Shayba, full of merits,
Thy good father inheritor of all virtue,
Truthful at home, no weakling,
Standing firm and self-reliant.
Powerful, fear-inspiring, massive,
Praised and obeyed by his people,
Of lofty lineage, smiling, virtuous,
A very rain when camels had no milk.
Noble was his grandfather without spot of shame,
Surpassing all men, bond or free,
Exceeding mild, of noble stock,
Who were generous, strong as lions,
Could men be immortal through ancient glory,
(Alas immortality is unobtainable!)
He would make his last night endure for ever
Through his surpassing glory and long descent.

His daughter Barra said:

Be generous, O eyes, with your pearly tears,
For the generous nature who never repelled a beggar.
Of glorious race, successful in undertaking,
Of handsome face, of great nobility.
Shayba, the laudable, the noble,
The glorious, the mighty, the renowned,
The clement, decisive in misfortunes,
Full of generosity, lavish in gifts,
Excelling his people in glory,
A light shining like the moon in its splendour.
Death came to him and spared him not,
Change and fortune and fate overtook him.

His daughter 'Atika said:

Be generous, O eyes, and not niggardly
With your tears when others sleep,
Weep copiously, O eyes, with your tears,
While you beat your faces in weeping.

His daughter Umm Ḥakim al-Baydā' said:

Weep, O eye, generously, hide not thy tears,
Weep for the liberal and generous one,
Fie upon thee O eye, help me
With fast falling tears!
Weep for the best man who ever rode a beast,
Thy good father, a fountain of sweet water.
Shayba the generous, the virtuous,
Lavish to his family, handsome,
Welcome as rain in years of drought.
A lion when the spears engage,
His womenfolk look on him proudly.
Chief of Kinana on whom their hopes rest,
When evil days brought calamity,
Their refuge when war broke out,
In trouble and dire distress.
Weep for him, refrain not from grief,
Make women weep for him as long as you live.

His daughter Umayma said:

Alas, has the shepherd of his people, the generous one, perished,
Who gave the pilgrims their water, the defender of our fame,
Who used to gather the wandering guest into his tents,
When evil days brought calamity,
Their refuge when war broke out,
In trouble and dire distress.
Weep for him, refrain not from grief,
Make women weep for him as long as you live.

The Life of Muhammad

Weep, O eyes, long and freely
For one, no dotard weakling,
The strong, generous in time of need,
Noble in purpose, faithful to his word.
Shayba the laudable, successful in undertaking,
The reliable and the steady,
A sharp sword in war
Destroying his enemies in battle,
Easy natured, open handed,
Loyal, stout, pure, good.
His house proudly rooted in high honour
Mounted to glory unobtainable by others.

His daughter Umm Ḥakim al-Baydā' said:

Weep, O eye, generously, hide not thy tears,
Weep for the liberal and generous one,
Fie upon thee O eye, help me
With fast falling tears!
Weep for the best man who ever rode a beast,
Thy good father, a fountain of sweet water.
Shayba the generous, the virtuous,
Lavish to his family, handsome,
Welcome as rain in years of drought.
A lion when the spears engage,
His womenfolk look on him proudly.
Chief of Kinana on whom their hopes rest,
When evil days brought calamity,
Their refuge when war broke out,
In trouble and dire distress.
Weep for him, refrain not from grief,
Make women weep for him as long as you live.

His daughter Umayma said:

Alas, has the shepherd of his people, the generous one, perished,
Who gave the pilgrims their water, the defender of our fame,
Who used to gather the wandering guest into his tents,
When evil days brought calamity,
Their refuge when war broke out,
In trouble and dire distress.
Weep for him, refrain not from grief,
Make women weep for him as long as you live.

His memory deserves that I suffer.
May the Lord of men water thy grave with rain!
The Life of Muhammad

I shall weep for him though he lies in the grave.
He was the pride of all his people,
And was praised wherever praise was due.

His daughter Arwa said:

My eye wept and well it did
For the generous modest father,
The pleasant natured man of Mecca's vale,
Noble in mind, lofty in aim,
The bountiful Shayba full of virtues,
Thy good father who has no peer,
Long armed, elegant, tall,
'Twas as though his forehead shone with light,
Lean waisted, handsome, full of virtues,
Glory, rank, and dignity were his,
Resenting wrong, smiling, able,
His ancestral fame could not be hid,
The refuge of Malik, the spring of Fihr,
When judgement was sought he spoke the last word.
He was a hero, generous, liberal,
And bold when blood was to be shed,
When armed men were afraid of death
So that the hearts of most of them were as air,
Forward he went with gleaming sword,
The cynosure of all eyes.

Muhammad b. Sa'id b. al-Musayyib told me that 'Abdu'l-Mu'talib made a sign to the effect that he was satisfied with the elegies, for he could not speak (119).

Hudhayfa b. Ghani'm, brother of B. 'Adiy b. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy, mentioned his superiority and that of Qusayy and his sons over the Quraysh, because he had been seized for a debt of 4,000 dirhams in Mecca and Abū Lahab Abdu'l-Mu'talib passed by and redeemed him:

O eyes, let the generous tears flow down the breast,
Weary not, may you be washed with falling rain,
Be generous with your tears, every morn
Weeping for a man whom fate did not spare.
Weep floods of tears while life does last,
Over Quraysh's modest hero who concealed his good deeds,
A powerful zealous defender of his dignity,
Handsome of face, no weakling, and no braggart,
The famous prince, generous and liberal,
Spring rain of Lu'ayy in drought and dearth,
Best of all the sons of Ma'add.

1 Cf Sura 14. 44 'and their hearts were air'.

Noble in action, in nature and in race,
Their best in root and branch and ancestry.
Most famous in nobility and reputation,
First in glory, kindness and sagacity,
And in virtue when the lean years exact their toll.
Weep over Shayba the praiseworthy, whose face
Illumined the darkest night, like the moon at the full,
Who watered the pilgrims, son of him who broke bread,
And 'Abdu Manäf that Fihr lord,
Who uncovered Zamzam by the Sanctuary,
Whose control of the water was a prouder boast than any man's.
Let every captive in his misery weep for him
And the family of Quṣayy, poor and rich alike.
Noble are his sons, both young and old,
They have sprung from the eggs of a hawk,
Quṣayy who opposed Kinäa all of them,
And guarded the temple in weal and woe.
Though fate and its changes bore him away,
He lived happy in successful achievement,
He left behind well armed men
Bold in attack, like very spears.
Abū 'Utba who gave me his gift,
White blood camels of the purest white.
Hamza like the moon at the full rejoicing to give,
Chaste and free from treachery,
And 'Abdu Manāf the glorious, defender of his honour,
Kind to his kindred, gentle to his relatives.
Their men are the best of men,
Their young men like the offspring of kings who neither perish nor diminish.
Whenever you meet one of their scions
You will find him going in the path of his forefathers.
They filled the vale with fame and glory
When rivalry and good works had long been practised,
Among them are great builders and buildings,
'Abdu Manāf their grandfather being the repairer of their fortunes,
When he married 'Auf to his daughter to give us protection
From our enemies when the Banī Fihr betrayed us,
We went through the land high and low under his protection,
Until our camels could plunge into the sea.

2 Cf. Sura 2. 143 'Vie with one another in good works', and cf. 5. 53 for this use of the verb istabqa.

1 Cf. p. 66. Or, 'then for the good Hāshim (lilkhayr for likhubz).

2 Za'uma li.
None but the sheikhs of Banū 'Amr were there,
They built many houses and dug wells
Whose waters flowed as though from the great sea
That pilgrims and others might drink of them,
When they hastened to them on the morrow of the sacrifice,
Three days their camels lay
Quietly between the mountains and the hijr.
Of old we had lived in plenty,
Drawing our water from Khumm or al-Ḩaf.
They forgot wrongs normally avenged,
And overlooked foolish slander,
They collected all the allied tribesmen,
And turned from us the evil of the Banū Bakr.
O Khārija, 1 when I die cease not to thank them
Until you are laid in the grave,
And forget not Ibn Lubnā's kindness,
A kindness that merits thy gratitude.
And thou Ibn Lubnā art from Quṣayy when genealogies are sought
Where man's highest hope is attained,
Thyself has gained the height of glory
And joined it to its root in valour.
Surpassing and exceeding thy people in generosity
As a boy thou wast superior to every liberal chief.
Thy mother will be a pure pearl of Khuzai'a,
When experienced genealogists one day compile a roll,
To the heroes of Sheba she can be traced and belongs.
How noble her ancestry in the summit of splendour!
Abū Shamir is of them and 'Amr b. Mālik
And Dhū Jādan and Abū 'l-Jabir are of her people, and As'ad who led the people for twenty years
Assuring victory in those lands (120).
Maṭrūd b. Ka'b the Khuzai'iite bewailing 'Abdūl-Muṭṭalib and the sons of ʿAbdū Manāf said:
O wanderer ever changing thy direction,
Why hast thou not asked of the family of 'Abdū Manāf?
Good God, if you had lived in their homeland
They would have saved you from injury and unworthy marriages;
Their rich mingle with their poor
So that their poor are as their wealthy.
Munificent when times were bad,
Who travel with the caravans of Quraysh
Who feed men when the winds are stormy
Until the sun sinks into the sea.

---

1 The sons of Ḥashim are meant: his name was 'Amr. So Cairo editors.
2 i.e. Khārija b. Hudhāfa.

---

The Life of Muhammad

Since you have perished, O man of great deeds,
Never has the necklace of a woman drooped over your like Save your father alone, that generous man, and
The bountiful Muṭṭalib, father of his guests.

When 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib died his son al-'Abbās took charge of Zamzam and the watering of the pilgrims, although he was the youngest of his father's sons. When Islam came it was still in his hands and the apostle confirmed his right to it and so it remains with the family of al-'Abbās to this day.

ABŪ TĀLĪB BECOMES GUARDIAN OF THE APOSTLE

After the death of 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib the apostle lived with his uncle Abū Tālīb, for (so they allege) the former had confided him to his care because he and 'Abdullah, the apostle's father, were brothers by the same mother, Faṭima d. 'Amr b. ʿAḍiḥ b. ʿAbd b. ʿIrāq b. Makkūm (121). It was Abū Tālīb who used to look after the apostle after the death of his grandfather and he became one of his family.

Yahyā b. 'Abbād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr told me that his father told him that there was a man of Lihb (122) who was a seer. Whenever he came to Mecca the Quraysh used to bring their boys to him so that he could look at them and tell their fortunes. So Abū Tālīb brought him along with the others while he was still a boy. The seer looked at him and then something claimed his attention. 'That disposed of he cried, 'Bring me that boy.'
When Abū Tālīb saw his eagerness he hid him and the seer began to say,
'Woe to you, bring me that boy I saw just now, for by Allah he has a great future.' But Abū Tālīb went away.

THE STORY OF BAḤĪRA

Abū Tālīb had planned to go in a merchant caravan to Syria, and when all preparations had been made for the journey, the apostle of God, so they allege, attached himself closely to him so that he took pity on him and said that he would take him with him, and that the two of them should never part; or words to that effect. When the caravan reached Buṣrā in Syria, there was a monk there in his cell by the name of Bahīra, who was well versed in the knowledge of Christians. A monk had always occupied that cell. There he gained his knowledge from a book that was in the cell, so they allege, handed on from generation to generation. They had often

1 i.e. 'never has your equal been born'. The figure is that of a woman nursing a baby while her necklace falls over the child at her breast. The correct reading would seem to be 'qad not ṣaqd; ḍhāt mīṣrī means 'possessor of pendant earrings', i.e. a woman. Dr. Arafat suggests that 'ṣaqd' 'girdle' should be read and the line would then run: 'Never has the knot of a woman's girdle run over your like'. The general sense would be the same, but the particular reference would be to a pregnant woman.
passed by him in the past and he never spoke to them or took any notice of them until this year, and when they stopped near his cell he made a great feast for them. It is alleged that that was because of something he saw while in his cell. They allege that while he was in his cell he saw the apostle of God in the caravan when they approached, with a cloud overshadowing him among the people. Then they came and stopped in the shadow of a tree near the monk. He looked at the cloud when it overshadowed the tree, and its branches were bending and drooping over the apostle of God until he was in the shadow beneath it. When Bahira saw that, he came out of his cell and sent word to them, I have prepared food for you, O men of Quraysh, and I should like you all to come both great and small, bond and free. One of them said to him, By God, Bahira! something extraordinary has happened today, you used not to treat us so, and we have often passed by you. What has befallen you today? He answered, You are right in what you say, but you are guests and I wish to honour you and give you food so that you may eat. So they gathered together with him, leaving the apostle of God behind with the baggage under the tree, on account of his extreme youth. When Bahira looked at the people he did not see the mark which he knew and found in his books, so he said, 'Do not let one of you remain behind and not come to my feast.' They told him that no one who ought to come had remained behind except a boy who was the youngest of them and had stayed with their baggage. Thereupon he told them to invite him to come to the meal with them. One of the men of Quraysh said, By al-Lat and al-'Uzza, we are to blame for leaving behind the son of Abu-l-Mutjalib. Then he got up and embraced him and made him sit with the people. *When Bahira saw him he stared at him closely, looking at his body and finding traces of his description (in the Christian books). When the people had finished eating and gone away, Bahira got up and said to him, Boy, I ask you by al-Lat and al-'Uzza to answer my question. Now Bahira said this only because he had heard his people swearing by these gods. They allege that the apostle of God said to him, Do not ask me by al-Lat and al-'Uzza, for by Allah nothing is more hateful to me than these two. Bahira answered, Then by Allah, tell me what I ask, he replied, Ask me what you like; so he began to ask him about what happened in his child­hood, the best neighbour, the most kind, truthful, reliable, the furthest away, the trustworthy which God had implanted in him. *The apostle of God grew up, God protecting him and keeping him from the vileness of heathenism because he wished to honour him with apostleship, until he grew up to be the finest of his people in manliness, the best in character, most noble in lineage, the best neighbour, the most kind, truthful, reliable, the furthest removed from filthiness and corrupt morals, through loftiness and nobility, so that he was known among his people as The trustworthy because of the good qualities which God had implanted in him. The apostle, so I was told, used to tell how God protected him in his childhood during the period of heathenism, saying, *I found myself among the boys of Quraysh carrying stones such as boys play with; we had all uncovered ourselves, each taking his shirt and putting it round his neck as he carried the stones. I was going to and fro in the same way, when an unseen figure slapped me most painfully saying, Put your shirt on, so I took it and fastened it on me and then began to carry the stones upon my neck wearing my shirt alone among my fellows.*

16 The Life of Muhammad

80

The Life of Muhammad

said, and when he asked what had become of his father he told him that he had died before the child was born. You have told the truth, said Bahira. Take your nephew back to his country and guard him carefully against the Jews, for by Allah! if they see him and know about him what I know, they will do him evil; a great future lies before this nephew of yours, so take him home quickly.

So his uncle took him off quickly and brought him back to Mecca when he had finished his trading in Syria. People allege that Zurayr and Tamam and Daris, who were people of the scriptures, had noticed in the apostle of God what Bahira had seen during that journey which he took with his uncle, and they tried to get at him, but Bahira kept them away and reminded them of God and the mention of the description of him which they would find in the sacred books, and that if they tried to get at him they would not succeed. He gave them no peace until they recognized the truth of what he said and left him and went away. The apostle of God grew up, God protecting him and keeping him from the vileness of heathenism because he wished to honour him with apostleship, until he grew up to be the finest of his people in manliness, the best in character, most noble in lineage, the best neighbour, the most kind, truthful, reliable, the furthest removed from filthiness and corrupt morals, through loftiness and nobility, so that he was known among his people as The trustworthy because of the good qualities which God had implanted in him. The apostle, so I was told, used to tell how God protected him in his childhood during the period of heathenism, saying, *I found myself among the boys of Quraysh carrying stones such as boys play with; we had all uncovered ourselves, each taking his shirt and putting it round his neck as he carried the stones. I was going to and fro in the same way, when an unseen figure slapped me most painfully saying, Put your shirt on, so I took it and fastened it on me and then began to carry the stones upon my neck wearing my shirt alone among my fellows.*

2 Properly a wrapper which covered the lower part of the body.

3 Suhayl, 120, after pointing out that a somewhat similar story is told of the prophet's modesty and its preservation by supernatural means, at the time that the rebuilding of the Ka'ba was undertaken when Muhammad was a grown man, says significantly that if the account here is correct divine intervention must have occurred twice. It may well be that he was led to make this comment by the fact that T. omits the story altogether and in its place (T. 1126. 10) writes: *I Hamid said that Salama told him that I L related from Muhammad b. 'Abdullah b. Qays b. Bahlama from al-Hasan b. Muhammad b. Ali b. Abul Tasil from his father Muhammad b. Ali from his grandfather Ali b. Abul Tasib: I heard the apostle say, *I never gave a thought to what the people of the pagan era used to do but twice, because God came between me and my desires. Afterwards I never thought of evil when God honoured me with apostleship. Once I said to a young Quraysh who was shepherding with me on the high ground of Mecca, I should like you to look after my beasts for me while I go and spend the night in Mecca as young men do. He agreed and I went off with that intent, and when I came to the first house in Mecca I heard the sound of tambourines and flutes and was told that a marriage had just taken place. I sat down to look at them when God smote my ear and I fell asleep until I was woken by the sun. I came to my friend and in reply to his questions told him what had happened. Exactly the same thing occurred on another occasion. Afterwards I never thought of evil until God honoured me with his apostleship.*"
THE SACRILEGIOUS WAR (124)

This war broke out when the apostle was twenty years of age. It was so called because these two tribes, Kināna and Qays 'Ayān, fought in the sacred month. The chief of Quraysh and Kināna was Ḥarb b. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shams. At the beginning of the day Qays got the upper hand but by midday victory went to Kināna (125).

THE APOSTLE OF GOD MARRIES KHADIJA (126)

Khadija was a merchant woman of dignity and wealth. She used to hire men to carry merchandise outside the country on a profit-sharing basis, for Quraysh were a people given to commerce. Now when she heard about the prophet’s truthfulness, trustworthiness, and honourable character, she sent for him and proposed that he should take her goods to Syria and trade with them, while she would pay him more than she paid others. He was to take a lad of hers called Maysara. The apostle of God accepted the proposal, and the two set forth until they came to Syria.

The apostle stopped in the shade of a tree near a monk’s cell, when the monk came up to Maysara and asked who the man was who was resting beneath the tree. He told him that he was of Quraysh, the people who held the sanctuary; and the monk exclaimed: ‘None but a prophet ever sat beneath this tree.’

Then the prophet sold the goods he had brought and bought what he wanted to buy and began the return journey to Mecca. The story goes that at the height of noon when the heat was intense as he rode his beast Maysara saw two angels shading the apostle from the sun’s rays. When he brought Khadija her property she sold it and it amounted to double or thereabouts. Maysara for his part told her about the two angels who shaded him and of the monk’s words. Now Khadija was a determined, noble, and intelligent woman possessing the properties with which God willed to honour her. So when Maysara told her these things she sent to the apostle of God and—so the story goes—said: ‘O son of my uncle I like you because of our relationship and your high reputation among your people, your trustworthiness and good character and truthfulness.’ Then she proposed marriage. Now Khadija at that time was the best born woman in Quraysh, of the greatest dignity and good, too, the richest. All her people were eager to get possession of her wealth if it were possible.

I persevered and was persistent in remembering Anxiety which often evoked tears. And Confirmatory evidence kept coming from Khadija.
Long have I had to wait, O Khadija,
In the vale of Mecca in spite of my hope
That I might see the outcome of thy words.
I could not bear that the words of the monk
You told me of should prove false:
That Muhammad should rule over us
Overcoming those who would oppose him.
And that a glorious light should appear in the land
To preserve men from disorders.
His enemies shall meet disaster
And his friends shall be victorious.
Would that I might be there then to see,
For I should be the first of his supporters,
Joining in that which Quraysh hate
However loud they shout in that Mecca of theirs.
I hope to ascend through him whom they all dislike
To the Lord of the Throne though they are cast down.
Is it folly not to believe in Him
Who chose him Who raised the starry heights?
If they and I live, things will be done
Which will throw the unbelievers into confusion.
And if I die, ‘tis but the fate of mortals
To suffer death and dissolution.

1 Commentators point out that these are not names but epithets (The Pure, The Good) applied to the one son ‘Abdullah.
Quraysh decided to rebuild the Ka’ba when the apostle was thirty-five years of age (T. fifteen years after the sacrilegious war). They were planning to roof it and feared to demolish it, for it was made of loose stones above a man’s height, and they wanted to raise it and roof it because it men had stolen part of the treasure of the Ka’ba which used to be in a well in the middle of it. The treasure was found with Duwayk a freedman of B. Mulayh b. ‘Amr of Khuzā’ī (130). Quraysh cut his hand off; they say that the people who stole the treasure deposited it with Duwayk.

The Life of Muhammad

Abū Wahb was the maternal uncle of the apostle’s father. He was a noble of whom an Arab poet said:

- If I made my camel kneel at Abū Wahb’s door,
  - It would start the morrow’s journey with well filled saddle-bags;
  - He was the noblest of the two branches of Lu’ayb b. Ghālib,
  - When noble lineage is reckoned.
  - Refusing to accept injustice, delighting in giving,
  - His ancestors were of the noblest stock.

A great pile of ashes lies beneath his cooking-pot,
He fills his dishes with bread topped by luscious meat.

Then Quraysh divided the work among them; the section near the door was assigned to B. ‘Abdu Manāf and Zuhra. The space between the black stone and the southern corner, to B. Makhzūm and the Qurayshite tribes which were attached to them. The back of the Ka’ba to B. Jumāh and Sāhm, the two sons of ‘Amr b. Huṣays b. Ka’b b. Lu’ayb. The side of the hijr to B. ‘AbdAllāh b. Qusayy and to B. Asad b. al-Uzāz b. Qusayy, and to B. ‘Ady b. Ka’b b. Lu’ayb which is the Ḥajīm.

The people were afraid to demolish the temple, and withdrew in awe from it. Al-Wālf b. al-Mughira said, ‘I will begin the demolition.’ So he took a pick-axe, went up to it saying the while, ‘O God, do not be afraid’ (132), O God, we intend only what is best.’ Then he demolished the part at the two corners. That night the people watched, saying, ‘We will look out; if he is smitten we won’t destroy any more of it and will restore it as it was; but if nothing happens to him then God is pleased with what we are doing and we will demolish it.’ In the morning al-Wālf returned to the work of demolition and the people worked with him, until they got down to the foundation of Abraham. They came on green stones like camel’s humps joined one to another.

A certain traditionist told me that a man of Quraysh inserted a crowbar between two stones in order to get one of them out, and when he moved the stone the whole of Mecca shuddered so they left the foundation alone. (T. so they had reached the foundation.)

I was told that Quraysh found in the corner a writing in Syriac. They could not understand it until a Jew read it for them. It was as follows: ‘I am Allah the Lord of Bakka, I created it on the day that I created heaven and earth, and I filled it with good. It was an object of terror to whoever set eyes on it, but if nothing happens to him they will leave it alone. The builders of what we propose to do. We have a friendly craftsman, we have got the wood and God has rid us of the snake.’ When they had decided to pull it down and rebuild it Abū Wahb b. ‘Amr b. ‘Aḍīd b. ‘Abd b. ‘Umr b. Makhzūm (131) got up and took a stone from the Ka’ba and it leapt out of his hand so that it returned to its place. He said, ‘O Quraysh, do not bring into this building ill-gotten gains, the hire of a harlot, nor money taken in usury, nor anything resulting from wrong and violence.’ People ascribe this saying to al-Walīd b. al-Mughīra b. ‘AbdAllāh b. ‘Umr b. Makhzūm.

‘AbdAllāh b. Abū Najīb al-Makkī told me that he was told on the authority of ‘AbdAllāh b. Šafwān b. Umayyā b. Khalaf b. Wahb b. Hudhāfa b. Jumāh b. ‘Amr b. Husays b. Ka’b b. Lu’ayb that he saw a son of Ja’da b. Hubayra b. Abū Wahb b. ‘Amr circumambulating the temple, and when he inquired about him he was told who he was. ‘AbdAllāh b. Šafwān said, ‘It was the grandfather of this man (meaning Abū Wahb), who took the stone from the Ka’ba when Quraysh decided to demolish it and it sprang from his hand and returned to its place, and it was he who said the words which have just been quoted.’

The Life of Muhammad

1 Professor Affīt reminds me that the second half of this verse is reminiscent of Imru’ul-Qays (1.42) where the fine fat flesh of the camel is compared with white silk finely woven.
2 The feminine form indicates that the Ka’ba itself is addressed.
3 Or ‘two sacred stones’.

... * Not in T.
and earth and formed the sun and moon, and I surrounded it with seven pious angels. It will stand while its two mountains stand, a blessing to its people with milk and water,' and I was told that they found that in the maqām a writing, 'Mecca is God's holy house, its sustenance comes to it from three directions; let its people not be the first to profane it.'

125 Layth b. Abū Sulaym alleged that they found a stone in the Ka'ba forty years before the prophet's mission, if what they say is true, containing the inscription 'He that soweth good shall reap joy; he that soweth evil shall reap sorrow; can you do evil and be rewarded with good? Nay, as grapes cannot be gathered from thorns.'

The tribes of Quraysh gathered stones for the building, each tribe collecting them and building by itself until the building was finished up to the black stone, where controversy arose, each tribe wanting to lift it to its place, until they went their several ways, formed alliances, and got ready for battle. The B. 'Abdul-l-Vlust b. Makhzum who was at that time the oldest man of Quraysh, urged them to make the first man to enter the gate of the mosque umpire in the matter in dispute. They did so and the first to come in was the apostle of God. When they saw him they said, 'This is the trustworthy one. We are satisfied. This is Muhammad.' When he came to them and they informed him of the matter he said, 'Give me a cloak,' and when it was brought to him he took the black stone and put it inside it and said that each tribe should take hold of an end of the cloak and they should lift it together. They did this so that when they got it into position he placed it with his own hand, and then building went on above it.

Quraysh used to call the apostle of God before revelation came to him, 'the trustworthy one'; and when they had finished the building, according to their desire, al-Zubayr the son of 'Abdullāh-Mu'tālib said about the snake which made the Quraysh dread rebuilding the Ka'ba:

I was amazed that the eagle went straight
To the snake when it was excited.
It used to rustle ominously
And sometimes it would dart forth.
When we planned to rebuild the Ka'ba
It terrified us for it was fearsome.
When we feared its attack, down came the eagle,
Deadly straight in its swoop,

A traditionist alleged that Abū Umayya b. al-Mughira b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar b. Makhzūm who was at that time the oldest man of Quraysh, urged them to make the first man to enter the gate of the mosque umpire in the matter in dispute. They did so and the first to come in was the apostle of God. When they saw him they said, 'This is the trustworthy one. We are satisfied. This is Muhammad.' When he came to them and they informed him of the matter he said, 'Give me a cloak,' and when it was brought to him he took the black stone and put it inside it and said that each tribe should take hold of an end of the cloak and they should lift it together. They did this so that when they got it into position he placed it with his own hand, and then building went on above it.

Quraysh used to call the apostle of God before revelation came to him, 'the trustworthy one'; and when they had finished the building, according to their desire, al-Zubayr the son of 'Abdullāh-Mu'tālib said about the snake which made the Quraysh dread rebuilding the Ka'ba:

I was amazed that the eagle went straight
To the snake when it was excited.
It used to rustle ominously
And sometimes it would dart forth.
When we planned to rebuild the Ka'ba
It terrified us for it was fearsome.
When we feared its attack, down came the eagle,
Deadly straight in its swoop,

1 A strange place in which to find a quotation from the Gospel; cf. Mt. 7. 16.

126 When we planned to rebuild the Ka'ba
It terrified us for it was fearsome.
When we feared its attack, down came the eagle,
Deadly straight in its swoop,

The Hums

I do not know whether it was before or after the year of the elephant that Quraysh invented the idea of Hums and put it into practice. They said, 'We are the sons of Abraham, the people of the holy territory, the guardians of the temple and the citizens of Mecca. No other Arabs have rights like ours or a position like ours. The Arabs recognize none as they recognize us, so do not attach the same importance to the outside country as you do to the sanctuary, for if you do the Arabs will despise your taboo and will say, 'They have given the same importance to the outside land as to the sacred territory.' ' So they gave up the halt at 'Arafā and the departure from it, while they recognized that these were institutions of the pilgrimage and the religion of Abraham. They considered that other Arabs should halt there and depart from the place; but they said, 'We are the people of the sanctuary, so it is not fitting that we should go out from the sacred territory and honour other places as we, the Hums, honour that; for the Hums are the people of the sanctuary.' They then proceeded to deal in the same way with Arabs who were born within and without the sacred territory. Kināna and Khuzā'a joined with them in this (134).

The Hums went on to introduce innovations for which they had no warrant. They thought it wrong that they should eat cheese made of sour milk or clarify butter while they were in a state of taboo. They would not enter tents of camel-hair or seek shelter from the sun except in leather tents while they were in this state. They went further and refused to allow those outside the haram to bring food in with them when they came on the great or little pilgrimage. Nor could they circumambulate the house except in the garments of the Hums. If they had no such garments they had to go round naked. If any man or woman felt scruples when they had no Hums garments, then they could go round in their ordinary clothes; but they had
The Arabs called these clothes 'the cast-off'. They imposed all these restrictions on the Arabs, who accepted them and halted at 'Arafāt, hastened from it, and circumambulated the house naked. The men at least went naked while the women laid aside all their clothes except a shift wide open back or front. An Arab woman who was going round the house thus said:

Today some or all of it can be seen,
But what can be seen I do not make common property!

Those who went round in the clothes in which they came from outside threw them away so that neither they nor anyone else could make use of them. An Arab mentioning some clothes which he had discarded and could not get again and yet wanted, said:

It's grief enough that I should return to her
As though she were a tabooed cast-off in front of the pilgrims.

i.e. she could not be touched.

This state of affairs lasted until God sent Muhammad and revealed to him when He gave him the laws of His religion and the customs of the pilgrimage: 'Then hasten onward from the place whence men hasten onwards, and ask pardon of God, for God is forgiving, merciful.' The words are addressed to Quraysh and 'men' refer to the Arabs. So in the rule of the ḥaṭṭā' he hastened them up to 'Arafāt and ordered them to halt there and to hasten thence.

In reference to their prohibition of food and clothes at the temple such as had been brought from outside the sacred territory God revealed to him: 'O Sons of Adam, wear your clothes at every mosque and eat and drink and be not prodigal, for He loves not the prodigal. Say, Who has forbidden the clothes which God has brought forth for His servants and the good things which He has provided? Say, They on the day of resurrection will be only for those who in this life believed. Thus do we explain the signs for people who have knowledge.' Thus God set aside the restrictions of the Huns and the innovations of Quraysh against men's interests when He sent His apostle with Islam.

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amr b. Ḥazm from 'Uthmān b. Abū Sulaymān b. Jubayr b. Muṭ'im from his uncle Nāfi' b. Jubayr from his father Jubayr b. Muṭ'im said: 'I saw God's apostle before revelation came to him and lo he was halting on his beast in 'Arafāt with men in the midst of his tribe until he quitted it with them—a special grace from God to him.'

The survival of the idea of contagious 'holiness' which on the one hand prohibited the introduction of profane food into the sanctuary, and when it could not prevent the introduction of profane clothes, forbade their use for common purposes after they had come in contact with taboo, would seem to indicate an antiquity far greater than that ascribed to these practices here.

1 The survival of the idea of contagious 'holiness' which on the one hand prohibited the introduction of profane food into the sanctuary, and when it could not prevent the introduction of profane clothes, forbade their use for common purposes after they had come in contact with taboo, would seem to indicate an antiquity far greater than that ascribed to these practices here.

2 Sūra 2. 195.
REPORTS OF ARAB SOOTHSAYERS, JEWISH RABBIS, AND CHRISTIAN MONKS

Jewish rabbis, Christian monks, and Arab soothsayers had spoken about the apostle of God before his mission when his time drew near. As to the rabbis and monks, it was about his description and the description of his time which they found in their scriptures and what their prophets had enjoined upon them. As to the Arab soothsayers they had been visited by satans from the jinn with reports which they had secretly overheard before they were prevented from hearing by being pelted with stars. Male and female soothsayers continued to let fall mention of some of these matters to which the Arabs paid no attention until God sent him and these things which had been mentioned happened and they recognized them. When the prophet's mission came the satans were prevented from listening and they could not occupy the seats in which they used to sit and steal the heavenly tidings for they were pelted with stars, and the jinn knew that that was due to an order which God had commanded concerning mankind.

God said to His prophet Muhammad when He sent him as he was telling him about the jinn when they were prevented from listening and knew what they knew and did not deny what they saw; 'Say, It has been revealed to me that a number of the jinn listened and said 'We have heard a wonderful Quran which guides to the right path, and we believe in it and we will not associate anyone with our Lord and that He (exalted be the glory of our Lord) hath not chosen a wife or a son. A foolish one among us used to speak lies against God, and we had thought men and jinn would not speak a lie against God and that when men took refuge with the jinn, they increased them in revolt,' ending with the words: 'We used to sit on places therein to listen; he who listens now finds a flame waiting for him. We do not know whether evil is intended against those that are on earth or whether their Lord wishes to guide them in the right path', 971 When the jinn heard the Quran they knew that they had been prevented from listening before that so that revelation should not be mingled with news from heaven so that men would be confused with the tidings which came from God about it when the proof came and doubt was removed; so they believed and acknowledged the truth. Then 'They returned to their people warning them, saying, O our people we have heard a book which was revealed after Moses confirming what went before it, guiding to the truth and to the upright path.' 12

In reference to the saying of the jinn, 'that men took refuge with them and they increased them in revolt', Arabs of the Quraysh and others when they were journeying and stopped at the bottom of a vale to pass a night therein used to say, 'I take refuge in the lord of this valley of the jinn tonight from the evil that is therein' (135).

1 Sūra 72, 1 ff. 2 Sūra 46, 28.
When the Quraysh heard of this they asked what he meant. The spirit came to her another night and chirped beneath her saying,

Deafth, what is death?
In it bones are thrown here and there.\(^1\)

When Quraysh heard of this they could not understand it and decided to wait until the future should reveal its meaning. When the battle of Badr and Uhud took place in a glen, they knew that this was the meaning of the spirit's message (136).

'Ali b. Nafi' al-Jurashi told me that Janb, a tribe from the Yaman, had a soothsayer in the time of ignorance, and when the news of the apostle of God was blazed abroad among the Arabs, they said to him, 'Look into the matter of this man for us', and they gathered at the bottom of the mountain where he lived. He came down to them when the sun rose and stood leaning on his bow. He raised his head toward heaven for a long time and began to leap about and say:

O men, God has honoured and chosen Muhammad,
Purified his heart and bowels.
His stay among you, O men, will be short.

Then he turned and climbed up the mountain whence he had come.

A person beyond suspicion told me on the authority of 'Abdullah b. Ka'b, a freedman of 'Uthman b. Affan that he was told that when 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb was sitting with the people in the apostle's mosque, an Arab came in to visit him. When 'Umar saw him he said, 'This fellow is still a polytheist, he has not given up his old religion yet, (or, he said), he was a soothsayer in the time of ignorance.' The man greeted him and sat down and 'Umar asked him if he was a Muslim; he said that he was. He said, 'But were you a soothsayer in the time of ignorance?' The man replied, 'Good God, commander of the faithful, you have thought of me and have given me the message of your prophet.' 'Asim b. 'Umar b. Qatada told me that some of his tribesmen said: 'What did we do, God? We worshipped idols and images until God honoured us with his apostle and with Islam.' The man replied, 'Yes, by God, I was a soothsayer.' 'Umar said, 'Then tell me what you (T. was the most amazing thing) your familiar spirit communicated to you.' He said, 'He came to me a month or so before Islam and said:

Have you considered the jinn and their confusion,
Their religion a despair and a delusion,
Clinging to their camels' saddle cloths in profusion?\(^2\) (137).

'Abdullah b. Ka'b said, 'If you are to accept Islam, apart from God's mercy and guidance, we were polytheists worshipping idols, while they were people of the scriptures with knowledge which we did not possess. There was continual enmity between us, and when we got the better of them and excited their hate, they said, 'The time of a prophet who is to be sent has now come. We will kill you with his aid as 'Ad and Iran perished.' We often used to hear them say this. When God sent His apostle we accepted him when he called us to God and we realized that the verse in the chapter of the Cow: "And when a book from God came to them confirming what they already had (and they were formerly asking for victory over the unbelievers), when what they knew came to them, they disbelieved it. The curse of God is on the unbelievers."' (139).\(^3\)

The Jewish warning about the Apostle of God

'Sāliḥ b. Ibrahim b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. 'Auf from Mahmūd b. Labid, brother of B. 'Abdu'l-Asghal, from Salāma b. Salāma b. Waqqās (Salāma was present at Badr) said: 'We had a Jewish neighbour among B. 'Abdu'l-Asghal, who came out to us one day from his house. (At that time I was the

\(^{1}\) This ominous oracle can vie with any oracle from Delphi in obscurity. We can render 'Glens what are glens?', and this, as the sequel shows, is the way the Isābq understood the enigma when the battles of Badr and Uhud took place in glens. But such a translation ignores the fact that the antecedent fiḥl (not fiḥa) must be a singular, and no form shu'ab is known in the singular. This translation carries with it the necessity of rendering the following line thus, 'Wherein Ka'b is lying prostrate', and commentators are unanimous that 'Ka'b' refers to the tribe of Ka'b b. Lu'ayy, who provided most of the slain in the battles of Badr and Uhud and so were found 'thrown on their sides'. (I can find no authority for translating ka'b by 'heels'-Fersen—as do Weil and G. Holzinger, Die Propheten, Leipzig, 1914, p. 88. 'Ankle' in the singular is the meaning, and this can hardly be right.) In view of the proof text cited by Lane, shu'ab, where shu'a (people) and Ka'b (the tribe) and ka'b (bones used as dice like our knuckle bones) are all found in a single couplet, I am inclined to think that the oracle is still further complicated and that a possible translation is that given above. This, at any rate, has the merit of correct syntax since it requires us to read shu'ab. The selection of a word susceptible of so many meanings which contains the name of a well-known tribe provides an excellent example of oracular prophecy.

\(^{2}\) A much longer account is given by S. 113-140.

\(^{3}\) If this report is true it indicates that the Messianic hope was still alive among the Arabian Jews.
youngest person in my house, wearing a small robe and lying in the courtyard.) He spoke of the resurrection, the reckoning, the scales, paradise, and hell. When he spoke of these things to the polytheists who thought that there could be no rising after death, they said to him, “Good gracious man! Do you think that such things could be that men can be raised from the dead to a place where there is a garden and a fire in which they will be recompensed for their deeds?” “Yes,” he said, “and by Him whom men swear by, he would wish that he might be in the largest oven in his house rather than in that fire: that they would heat it and thrust him into it and plaster it over if he could get out from that fire on the following day.” When they asked for a sign that this would be, he said, pointing with his hand to Mecca and the Yaman, “A prophet will be sent from the direction of this land.” When they asked when he would appear, he looked at me, the youngest person, and said: “This boy, if he lives his natural term, will see him,” and by God, a night and a day did not pass before God sent Muhammad his apostle and he was living among us. We believed in him, but he denied him in his wickedness and envy. When we asked, “Aren’t you the man who said these things?” he said, “Certainly, but this is not the man.”

‘Aṣīm b. ‘Umar b. Qatāda on the authority of a shaykh of the B. Qurayza said to me, ‘Do you know how Tha‘labah b. Sāyya and Asad b. Sāyya and Asad b. ‘Ubayd of B. Hadl, brothers of B. Qurayza, became Muslims? They were with them during the days of ignorance; then they became their masters in Islam.’ When I said that I did not know, he told me that a Jew from Syria, Ibnul-Hayyabān, came to us some years before Islam and dwelt among us. ‘I have never seen a better man than he who was not a Muslim. When we were living in the time of drought we asked him to come with us and pray for rain. He declined to do so unless we paid him something, and when we asked how much he wanted, he said, “A bushel of dates or two bushels of barley.” When we had duly paid up we went outside our harra and prayed for rain for us; and by God, hardly had he left his place when clouds passed over us and it rained. Not once nor twice did he do this. Later when he knew that he was about to die he said, “O Jews, what do you think made me leave a land of bread and wine to come to a land of hardship and hunger?” When we said that we could not think why, he said that he had come to this country expecting to see the emergence of a prophet whose time was at hand. This was the town where he would migrate and he was hoping that he would be sent so that he could follow him. “His time has come,” he said, “and don’t let anyone get to him before you, O Jews; for he will be sent to shed blood and to take captive the women and children of those who oppose him. Let not that keep you back from him.”

When the apostle of God was sent and besieged B. Qurayza, those young men who were growing youths said, ‘This is the prophet of whom Ibnul-Hayyabān testified to you.’ They said that he was not; but the others asserted that he had been accurately described, so they went and became Muslims and saved their lives, their property, and their families. Such is what I have been told about the Jewish reports.1

HOW SALMĀN BECAME A MUSLIM

‘Aṣīm b. ‘Umar b. Qatāda al-Anṣārī told me on the authority of Mahmūd b. Labīd from ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Abbās as follows: Salmān said while I listened to his words: ‘I am a Persian from Japhān from a village called Jayy. My father was the principal landowner in his village and I was dearer to him than the whole world. His love for me went to such lengths that he shut me in his house as though I were a slave girl. I was such a zealous Magian that I became keeper of the sacred fire, replenishing it and not letting it go out for a moment. Now my father owned a large farm, and one day when he could not attend to his farm he told me to go to it and learn about it, giving me certain instructions. ‘Do not let yourself be detained,’” he said, “because you are more important to me than my farm and worrying about you will prevent me going about my business.” So I started out for the farm, and when I passed by a Christian church I heard the voices of the men praying. I knew nothing about them because my father kept me shut up in his house. When I heard their voices I went to see what they were doing; their prayers pleased me and I felt drawn to their worship and thought that it was better than our religion, and I decided that I would not leave them until sunset. So I did not go to the farm. When I asked them where their religion originated, they said “Syria”. I returned to my father who had sent after me because anxiety on my account had interrupted all his work. He asked me where I had been and reproached me for not obeying his instructions. I told him that I had passed by some men who were praying in their church and was so pleased with what I saw of their religion that I stayed with them until sunset. He said, “My son, there is no good in that religion; the religion of your fathers is better than that.” “No,” I said, “It is better than our religion.” My father was afraid of what I would do, so he bound me in fetters and imprisoned me in his house.

‘I sent to the Christians and asked them if they would tell me when a caravan of Christian merchants came from Syria. They told me, and I said to them: “When they have finished their business and want to go back to their own country, ask them if they will take me.” They did so and I cast off the fetters from my feet and went with them to Syria. Arrived there I asked for the most learned person in their religion and they directed me to the bishop. I went to him and told him that I liked his religion and should like to be with him and serve him in his church, to learn from him and to pray with him. He invited me to come in and I did so. Now he was a bad man who used to command people to give alms and induced them to...

1 So C., but the beginning of the story suggests that we should read alḥār 'from the Jewish rabbis'.
do so and when they brought him money he put it in his own coffers and did not give it to the poor, until he had collected seven jars of gold and silver. I conceived a violent hatred for the man when I saw what he was doing. Sometime later when he died and the Christians came together to bury him I told them that he was a bad man who exhorted them and persuaded them to give alms, and when they brought money put it in his coffers and gave nothing to the poor. They asked how I could possibly know this, so I led them to his treasure and when I showed them the place they brought out seven jars full of gold and silver. As soon as they saw them they said, "By God, we will never bury the fellow," so they crucified him and stoned him and appointed another in his place.

'I have never seen any non-Muslim whom I consider more virtuous, more ascetic, more devoted to the next life, and more consistent night and day than he. I loved him as I had never loved anyone before. I stayed with him a long time until when he was about to die I told him how I loved him and asked him to whom he would confide me and what orders he would give me now that he was about to die. He said, "My dear son, I do not know anyone who is as I am. Men have died and have either altered or abandoned most of their true religion, except a man in Ma'ṣūl; he follows my faith, so join yourself to him. So when he died and was buried, I attached myself to the bishop of Ma'ṣūl telling him that so-and-so had confided me to him when he died and told me that he followed the same path. I stayed with him and found him just as he had been described, but it was not long before he died and I asked him to give me what his predecessor had done. He replied that he knew of only one man, in Naṣībīn, who followed the same path and he recommended me to go to him.

'I stayed with this good man in Naṣībīn for some time and when he died he recommended me to go to a colleague in Ammuriya. I stayed with him for some time and laboured until I possessed some cows and a small flock of sheep; then when he was about to die I asked him to recommend me to someone else. He told me that he knew of no one who followed his way of life, but that a prophet was about to arise who would be sent with the religion of Abraham; he would come forth in Arabia and would migrate to a country between two lava belts, between which were palms. He has unmistakable marks. He will eat what is given to him but not things given as alms. Between his shoulders is the seal of prophecy. "If you are able to go to that country, do so." Then he died and was buried and I stayed in Ammuriya as long as God willed. Then a party of Kalbite merchants passed by and I asked them to take me to Arabia and I would give them those cows and sheep of mine. They accepted the offer and took me with them until we reached Wādīl-Qurā, when they sold me to a Jew as a slave.

I saw the palm-trees and I hoped that this would be the town which my master had described to me, for I was not certain. Then a cousin of his from B. Qurayya of Medina came and bought me and carried me away to Medina, and, by God, as soon as I saw it I recognized it from my master's description. I dwelt there and the apostle of God was sent and lived in Mecca; but I did not hear him mentioned because I was fully occupied as a slave. Then he migrated to Medina and as I was in the top of a palm-tree belonging to my master, carrying out my work while my master sat below, suddenly a cousin of his came up to him and said: "God smite the B. Qurayya! They are gathering at this moment in Qubā' a round man who has come to them from Mecca today asserting that he is a prophet."

'When I heard this I was seized with trembling (141), so that I thought I should fall on my master; so I came down from the palm and began to say to his cousin, "What did you say? What did you say?" My master was angered and gave me a smart blow, saying, "What do you mean by this? Get back to your work." I said, "Never mind, I only wanted to find out the truth of his report." Now I had a little food which I had gathered, and I took it that evening to the apostle of God who was in Qubā' and said, "I have heard that you are an honest man and that your companions are strangers in want; here is something for alms, for I think that you have more right to it than others." So I gave it to him. The apostle said to his companions, "Eat!" but he did not hold out his own hand and did not eat. I said to myself, "That is one;" then I left him and collected some food and the apostle went to Medina. Then I brought it to him and said, "I see that you do not eat food given as alms, here is a present which I freely give you." The apostle ate it and gave his companions some. I said, "That's two;" then I came to the apostle when he was in Ba'qi'u-l-Gharqad where he had followed the bier of one of his companions. Now I had two cloaks, and as he was sitting with his companions, I saluted him and went round to look at his back so that I could see whether the seal which my master had described to me was there. When the apostle saw me looking at his back he knew that I was trying to find out the truth of what had been described to me, so he threw off his cloak laying bare his back and I looked at the seal and recognized it. Then I bent over him kissing him and weeping. The apostle said, "Come here;" so I came and sat before him and told him my story as I have told you, O b. Abās. The apostle wanted his companions to hear my story.' Then servitude occupied Salmān so that he could not be at Badr and Uhud with the apostle.

Salman continued: "Then the apostle said to me, "Write an agreement;" so I wrote to my master agreeing to plant three hundred palm-trees for him, digging out the base, and to pay forty okes of gold. The apostle called on his companions to help me, which they did; one with thirty little palms, another with twenty, another with fifteen, and another with ten, each helping as much as he could until the three hundred were complete. The apostle told me to go and dig the holes for them, saying that when I had done so he would put them in with his own hand. Helped by my companions I dug the holes and came and told him; so we all went out together, and as we brought him the palm shoots he planted them with his own hand; and by God, not one of them died. Thus I had delivered the palm-trees, but the money was still owing. Now the apostle had been given a piece of gold as large as a hen’s egg from one of the mines1 and he summoned me and told me to take it and pay my debt with it. “How far will this relieve me of my debt, O Apostle of God?” I said. “Take it,” he replied, “for God will pay your debt with it.” So I took it and weighed it out to them, and by God, it weighed forty okes, and so I paid my debt with it and Salān was free. I took part in the Apostle in the battle of the Ditch as a free man and thereafter I was at every other battle.’
The Life of Muhammad

Yazid b. Abū Ḥabīb from a man of ‘Abdul-qays from Salān told me that the latter said: ‘When I said, “How far will this relieve me of my debt?” the apostle took it and turned it over upon his tongue, then he said, “Take it and pay them in full”; so I paid them in full, forty okes.2

‘Aṣım b. ‘Umar b. Qatāda on the authority of a trustworthy informant from ‘Umar b. ‘Abdul-‘Aziz b. Marwān said that he was told that Salān the Persian told the apostle that his master in ‘Ammuriyā told him to go to a certain place in Syria where there was a man who lived between two thickets. Every year as he used to go from one to the other, the sick used to stand in his way and everyone he prayed for was healed. He said, ‘Ask him about this religion which you seek, for he can tell you of it.’ So I went on until I came to the place I had been told of, and I found that people had gathered there with their sick until he came out to them that night passing from one thicket to the other. The people came to him with their sick and everyone he prayed for was healed. They prevented me from getting to him so that I could not approach him until he entered the thicket he was making for, but I took hold of his shoulder. He asked me who I was and he turned to me and I said, ‘God have mercy on you, tell me about the Ḥanīfiya, the religion of Abraham.’ He replied, ‘You are asking about something men do not inquire of today; the time has come near when a prophet will be sent with this religion from the people of the father Abraham, and that the stone they went round was of no account; it could neither hear, nor see, nor hurt, nor help. ‘Find for yourselves a religion,’ they said; ‘for by God you have none.’ So they went their several ways in the lands, seeking the Ḥanīfiya, the religion of Abraham.’

Waraqa attached himself to Christianity and studied its scriptures until he had thoroughly mastered them. ‘Ubaydullāh went on searching until Islam came; then he migrated with the Muslims to Abyssinia taking with him his wife who was a Muslim, Umm Ḥabība, d. Abū Sufyān. When he arrived there he adopted Christianity, parted from Islam, and died a Christian in Abyssinia.

Muhammad b. Jafar b. al-Zubayr told me that when he had become a Christian ‘Ubaydullāh as he passed the prophet’s companions who were there used to say: ‘We see clearly, but your eyes are only half open,’ i.e. ‘We see, but you are only trying to see and cannot see yet.’ He used the word ʿaṣa‘a because when a puppy tries to open its eyes to see, it only half sees. The other word faqada means to open the eyes. After his death the apostle married his widow Umm Ḥabība. Muhammad b. ‘Ali b. Husayn told me that the apostle sent ‘Amr b. Umayyā al-Damri to the Negus to ask for her and he married him to her. He gave her as a dowry, on the apostle’s behalf, four hundred dinars. Muhammad b. ‘Ali said, ‘We think that ‘Abdul-Malik b. Marwān fixed the maximum dowry of women at four hundred dinars because of this precedent.’ The man who handed her over to the prophet was Khālid b. Sa‘īd b. al-‘Ās.

‘Uthmān b. al-Huwayrith went to the Byzantine emperor and became a Christian. He was given high office there (142).

Zayd b. ‘Amr stayed as he was: he accepted neither Judaism nor Christianity. He abandoned the religion of his people and abstained from idols, animals that had died, blood, and things offered to idols.4 He forbade the killing of infant daughters, saying that he worshipped the God of Abraham, and he publicly rebuked his people for their practices.

Hishām b. ‘Urwa from his father on the authority of his mother Asma’ d. Abū Bakr said that she saw Zayd as a very old man leaning his back on the Ka‘ba and saying, ‘O Quraysh, By Him in whose hand is the soul of

FOUR MEN WHO BROKE WITH POLYTHEISM

One day when the Quraysh had assembled on a feast day to venerate and circumambulate the idol to which they offered sacrifices, this being a feast

1 For an interesting account of the reopening of an ancient mine in the Wajh-Yanbu’ area of the Hijaz see K. S. Twitchell, Saudi Arabia, Princeton, 1947, pp. 159 f. Kufic inscriptions, said to date from A.D. 750, were found there, and this may well have been one of ‘King Solomon’s mines’.

2 The oke being roughly an ounce, a miracle is implied.

3 So C.

4 The influence of the Jewish formula, taken over by early Christianity (Acts 15. 29) is clear.

which they held annually, four men drew apart secretly and agreed to keep their counsel in the bonds of friendship. They were (i) Waraqa b. Naufal b. Asad b. ‘Abdull-l-Uzza b. Quasay b. Kilaβ b. Murra b. Ka‘b b. Lu‘ayy; (ii) ‘Ubaydullāh b. Jaḥsh b. Ri‘āb b. Ya‘mar b. Ṣafra b. Murra b. Ka‘b b. Gham b. Dūdān b. Asad b. Khuzayma, whose mother was Urayma d. ‘Abdul-Muqtalib; (iii) ‘Uthmān b. al-Huwayrith b. Asad b. ‘Abdull-l-Uzza b. Quasy; and (iv) Zayd b. ‘Amr b. Nufayl b. ‘Abdull-l-Uzza b. ‘Abdullāh b. Qurṣ b. Riyāḥ b. Razāh b. Adiyīyy b. Ka‘b b. Lu‘ayy. They were of the opinion that their people had corrupted the religion of their father Abraham, and that the stone they went round was of no account; it could neither hear, nor see, nor hurt, nor help. ‘Find for yourselves a religion,’ they said; ‘for by God you have none.’ So they went their several ways in the lands, seeking the Ḥanīfiya, the religion of Abraham.”
Zayd, not one of you follows the religion of Abraham but I.' Then he said: 'O God, if I knew how you wished to be worshipped I would so worship you; but I do not know.' Then he prostrated himself on the palms of his hands.

I was told that his son, Sa'îd b. Zayd, and 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb, who was his nephew, said to the apostle, 'Ought we to ask God's pardon for Zayd b. 'Amr?' He replied, 'Yes, for he will be raised from the dead as the sole representative of a whole people.'

Zayd b. 'Amr b. Nufayl composed the following poem about leaving his people and the treatment he received from them:

Am I to worship one lord or a thousand?
If there are as many as you claim,
I renounce al-Lāt and al-'Uzzā both of them
As any strong-minded person would.
I will not worship al-'Uzzā and her two daughters,
Nor will I visit the two images of the Banū 'Amr.
I will not worship Hubal' though he was our lord
In the days when I had little sense.
I wondered (for in the night much is strange
Which in daylight is plain to the discerning),
That God had annihilated many men
Whose deeds were thoroughly evil
And spared others through the piety of a people
So that a little child could grow to manhood.
A man may languish for a time and then recover
As the branch of a tree revives after rain.
I serve my Lord the compassionate
That the forgiving Lord may pardon my sin,
So keep to the fear of God your Lord;
While you hold to that you will not perish.
You will see the pious living in gardens,
While for the infidels hell fire is burning.
Shamed in life, when they die
Their breasts will contract in anguish.

Zayd also said: (143)

To God I give my praise and thanksgiving,
A sure word that will not fail as long as time lasts,
To the heavenly King—there is no God beyond Him
And no lord can draw near to Him.
Beware, O men, of what follows death!
You can hide nothing from God.

Beware of putting another beside God,
For the upright way has become clear.
Mercy I implore, others trust in the jinn,
But thou, my God, art our Lord and our hope.
I am satisfied with thee, 0 God, as a Lord,
And will not worship another God beside thee.
Thou of thy goodness and mercy
Didst send a messenger to Moses as a herald.
Thou saidst to him, Go thou and Aaron,
And summon Pharaoh the tyrant to turn to God
And say to him, 'Did you spread out this (earth) without a support, Until it stood fast as it does?'
Say to him 'Did you raise this (heaven) without support?
What a fine builder then you were!'
Say to him, 'Did you set the moon in the middle thereof
As a light to guide when night covered it?'
Say to him, 'Who sent forth the sun by day
So that the earth it touched reflected its splendour?'
Say to him, 'Who planted seeds in the dust
That herbage might grow and wax great?
And brought forth its seeds in the head of the plant?'
Therein are signs for the understanding.
Thou in thy kindness did deliver Jonah
Who spent nights in the belly of the fish.
Though I glorify thy name, I often repeat
'O Lord forgive my sins.'
O Lord of creatures, bestow thy gifts and mercy upon me
And bless my sons and property.

Zayd b. 'Amr in reproaching his wife Ṣaḥīya, d. al-Hadrāmī (144) said: 2

Now Zayd had determined to leave Mecca to travel about in search of the Hanifiyya, the religion of Abraham, and whenever Ṣaḥīya saw that he had got ready to travel she told al-Khaṭṭāb b. Nufayl, who was his uncle and his brother by the same mother. 3 He used to reproach him for forsaking the religion of his people. He had instructed Ṣaḥīya to tell him if she saw him getting ready to depart; and then Zayd said:

Don't keep me back in humiliation,
O Ṣaḥīya. It is not my way at all.

1 Or 'I should add to my sins unless thou forgavest me'.
2 What he said is reserved till the circumstances which gave rise to the poem have been described.
3 This was because his mother was first married to Nufayl and gave birth to al-Khaṭṭāb; then she married her stepson 'Amr and gave birth to Zayd: thus the double relationship came into being.
When I fear humiliation
I am a brave man whose steed is submissive.
A man who persistently frequents the gates of kings
Whose camel crosses the desert;
One who severs ties with others
Whose difficulties can be overcome without (the aid of) friends.
A donkey only accepts humiliation
When its coat is worn out.
It says, 'I will never give in
Because the load chafes my sides.'
My brother, (my mother's son and then my uncle),
Uses words which do not please me.
When he reproaches me I say, 'I have no answer for him.'
Yet if I wished I could say things
Of which I hold the keys and door.

I was told by one of the family of Zayd b. 'Amr b. Nufayl that when Zayd faced the Ka'ba inside the mosque he used to say, 'Labbayka in truth, in worship and in service.'

I take refuge in what Abraham took refuge
When he stood and faced the qibla.'

Then he said:
A humble prisoner, O God, my face in the dust,
Whatever thy commandment do I must.
Pride I seek not, but piety's boon.
The traveller at midday is not as he who sleeps at noon.

And Zayd said:
I submit myself to him to whom
The earth which bears mighty rocks is subject.
He spread it out and when He saw it was settled
Upon the waters, He fixed the mountains on it.
I submit myself to Him to whom clouds which bear
Sweet water are subject.
When they are borne along to a land
They obediently pour copious rain upon it.

Now al-Khaṭṭāb had so harassed Zayd that he forced him to withdraw to the upper part of Mecca, and he stopped in the mountain of Hira' facing the town. Al-Khaṭṭāb gave instructions to the young irresponsible men of Quraysh that they should not let him enter Mecca and he was able to do so in secret only. When they got to know of that they told al-Khaṭṭāb and drove him out and harassed him because of their fear that he would show their religion in its true colours and that some would join him in seceding from it. He said, making much of its sanctity against those of his people who treated it as ordinary:

O God, I am of the holy land, no outsider,
My house is in the centre of the place
Hard by al-Safā.
It is no home of error.

Then he went forth seeking the religion of Abraham, questioning monks and Rabbis until he had traversed al-Maṣūf and the whole of Mesopota-tia; then he went through the whole of Syria until he came to a monk in the high ground of Balqāʾ. This man, it is alleged, was well instructed in Christianity. He asked him about the Ḥanifiya, the religion of Abraham, and the monk replied, 'You are seeking a religion to which no one today can guide you, but the time of a prophet who will come forth from your own country which you have just left has drawn near. He will be sent with the Ḥanifiya, the religion of Abraham, so stick to it, for he is about to be sent now and this is his time.' Now Zayd had sampled Judaism and Christianity and was not satisfied with either of them; so at these words he went away at once making for Mecca; but when he was well inside the country of Lakhm he was attacked and killed.

Warāqa b. Naufal b. Asad composed this elegy over him:

You were altogether on the right path, Ibn 'Amr,
You have escaped hell's burning oven
By serving the one and only God
And abandoning vain idols.
And by attaining the religion which you sought
Not being unmindful of the unity of your Lord
You have reached a noble dwelling
Wherein you will rejoice in your generous treatment.
You will meet there the friend of God,
Since you were not a tyrant ripe for hell,
For the mercy of God reaches men,
Though they be seventy valleys deep below the earth.

THE WORD APPLIED TO THE APOSTLE OF GOD IN THE GOSPEL

Among the things which have reached me about what Jesus the Son of Mary stated in the Gospel which he received from God for the followers of the Gospel, in applying a term to describe the apostle of God, is the

1 One would expect mitqala for majalla in view of what has been said about the Huma.
2 The district of which 'Amman was the capital.
3 i.e. Abraham.
The Life of Muhammad

Following. It is extracted from what John the Apostle set down for them when he wrote the Gospel for them from the Testament of Jesus Son of Mary: 'He that hateth me hath hated the Lord. And if I had not done in their presence works which none other before me did, they had not had sin: but from now they are puffed up with pride and think that they will overcome me and also the Lord. But the word that is in the law must be fulfilled, "They hated me without a cause" (i.e. without reason). But when the Comforter has come whom God will send to you from the Lord's presence, and the spirit of truth which will have gone forth from the Lord's presence he (shall bear) witness of me and ye also, because ye have been with me from the beginning. I have spoken unto you about this that ye should not be in doubt:1

The Munahhemana (God bless and preserve him!) in Syriac is Muhammad; in Greek he is the paraclete.

THE PROPHET'S MISSION

When Muhammad the apostle of God reached the age of forty God sent him in compassion to mankind, 'as an evangelist to all men: 2 Now God had made a covenant with every prophet whom he had sent before him that he should believe in him, testify to his truth and help him against his adversaries, and he required of them that they should transmit that to everyone who believed in them, and they carried out their obligations in that respect. God said to Muhammad, 'When God made a covenant with the prophets (He said) this is the scripture and wisdom which I have given you, afterwards an apostle will come confirming what you know that you may believe in him and help him.' He said, 'Do you accept this and take up my burden?' i.e. the burden of my agreement which I have laid upon you. They said, 'We accept it.' He answered, 'Then bear witness and I am a witness with you.' Thus God made a covenant with all the prophets that they should testify to his truth and help him against his adversaries and 1 The passage quoted is John 15. 23 ff. It is interesting to note that the citation comes from the Palestinian Syriac Lectionary and not from the ordinary Bible of the Syriac-speaking Churches. The text is corrupt in one or two places; e.g. the phrase 'puffed up with pride and think that they will overcome me'. Bajirah is an obvious corruption of nasabur, which agrees with the Syriac and underlying Greek. Wusammit seems to be another attempt to make sense of the passage. The next word I am unable to explain. The most interesting word is that rendered 'Comforter' which we find in the Palestinian Lectionary, but all other Syriac versions render 'paraclete', following the Greek. This word was well established in the Hebrew- and Aramaic-speaking world. The munahhemana in Syriac means the life-giver and especially one who raises from the dead. Obviously such a meaning is out of place here and what is meant is one who consoles and comforts people for the loss of one dear to them. This is the meaning in the Talmud and Targum. It ought to be pointed out that by the omission of the words 'that is written' before 'in the law' quite another meaning is given to the prophecy. The natural rendering would be 'the word that concerns the Nāmess must be fulfilled'. To Muslims the Nāmess was the angel Gabriel. Furthermore, the last words are translated as the ordinary Arab reader would understand tashukku; but in Syrian Arabic it could bear the meaning of the Greek text 'stumble'. See further my article in Al-Andalus, 21, fasc. 3 (1930), 289-96.

2 Sūra 5. 42.

3 Sūra 3. 75.

they transmitted that obligation to those who believed in them among the two monotheistic religions.

(T. One whom I do not suspect told me from Sa'īd b. Abū 'Arūba from T. 1142 Qatādā b. Dī'āma al-Sadūsī from Abū'ī-Jald: 'The Furqān came down on the 14th night of Ramadān. Others say, No, but on the 17th; and in support of this they appeal to God's word: 'And what we sent down to our servant on the day of al-Furqān, the day the two companies met' which was the meeting of the apostle and the polytheists at Badr, and that took place on the morning of Ramadān 17th.)

Al-Zuhri related from 'Urwa b. Zubayr: that 'Aīsha told him that when Allah desired to honour Muhammad and have mercy on His servants by means of him, the first sign of prophethood vouchsafed to the apostle was true visions, resembling the brightness of daybreak, which were shown to him in his sleep. And Allah, she said, made him love solitude so that he liked nothing better than to be alone.

'Abdū l-Malik b. 'Ubaydullāh b. Abū Sufyān b. al-'Alā' b. Jāriya the Thaqafite who had a retentive memory related to me from a certain scholar that the apostle at the time when Allah willed to bestow His grace upon him and endow him with prophethood would go forth for his affair and journey far afield until he reached the glens of Mecca and the beds of its valleys where no house was in sight; and not a stone or tree that he passed by but would say, 'Peace unto thee, O apostle of Allah.' And the apostle would turn to his right and left and look behind him and he would see naught but trees and stones. Thus he stayed seeing and hearing so long as it pleased Allah that he should stay. Then Gabriel came to him with the gift of God's grace whilst he was on Hira' in the month of Ramadān.

Wahb b. Kaisān a client of the family of al-Zubayr told me: I heard 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr say to 'Ubayd b. Umayr b. Qatādā the Laythite, 'O 'Ubayd tell us how began the prophethood which was first bestowed on the apostle when Gabriel came to him.' And 'Ubayd in my presence related to 'Abdullāh and those with him as follows: The apostle would pray in seclusion on Hira' every year for a month to practise tahannuth as was the custom of Quraysh in heathen days. Tahannuth is religious devotion. Abū 'Tālib said:

By Thaur and him who made Thabir firm in its place
And by those going up to ascend Hira' and coming down (147)."3

Wahb b. Kaisān told me that 'Ubayd said to him: Every year during that month the apostle would pray in seclusion and give food to the poor that came to him. And when he completed the month and returned from his seclusion, first of all before entering his house he would go to the Ka'ba and walk round it seven times or as often as it pleased God; then he would go back to his house until in the year when God sent him, in the month of

1 Sūra 3. 75.
2 Thaur and Thabir are mountains near Mecca. The poem is given on p. 173; cf. Yaq. i. 938.
in which God willed concerning him what He willed of His grace, the apostle set forth to Hira as was his wont, and his family with him. When it was the night on which God honoured him with his mission and showed mercy on His servants thereby, Gabriel brought him the command of God. 'He came to me,' said the apostle of God, 'while I was asleep, with a coverlet of brocade whereon was some writing, and said, "Read!" I said, "What shall I read?" He pressed me with it so tightly that I thought it was death; then he let me go and said, "Read!" I said, "What shall I read?" He pressed me with it again so that I thought it was death; then he let me go and said "Read!" I said, "What shall I read?" He pressed me with it the third time so that I thought it was death and said "Read!" I said, "What then shall I read?"—and this I said only to deliver myself from him, lest he should do the same to me again. He said:

"Read in the name of thy Lord who created, Who created man of blood coagulated. Read! Thy Lord is the most beneficent, Taught that which they knew not unto men."

T. 1150 So I read it, and he departed from me. And I awoke from my sleep, and it was as though these words were written on my heart. (T. Now none of God's creatures was more hateful to me than an (ecstatic) poet or a man possessed: I could not even look at them. I thought, Woe is me poet or possessed—Never shall Quraysh say this of me! I will go to the top of the mountain and throw myself down that I may kill myself and gain rest. So I went forth to do so and then) when I was midway on the mountain, I heard a voice from heaven saying, "O Muhammad! thou art the apostle of God and I am Gabriel." I raised my head towards heaven to see (who was speaking), and lo, Gabriel in the form of a man with feet astride the horizon, saying, "O Muhammad! thou art the apostle of God and I am Gabriel." I stood gazing at him, (T. and that turned me from my purpose) moving neither forward nor backward; then I began to turn my face away from him, but towards whatever region of the sky I looked, I saw him as before. And I continued standing there, neither advancing nor turning back, until Khadija sent her messengers in search of me and they gained the high ground above Mecca and returned to her while I was standing in the same place; then he parted from me and I from him, returning to my family. And I came to Khadija and sat by her thigh and drew close to her. She said, "O Abu'l-Qasim, where hast thou been? By God, I sent my messengers in search of thee, and they reached the high ground above Mecca and returned to me." (T. I said to her, "Woe is me poet or possessed." She said, "I take refuge in God from that O Abu'l-Qasim. God would not treat you thus since he knows your truthfulness, your great trustworthiness, your fine character, and your kindness. This cannot be, my dear. Perhaps

1 Sura 96. 1-5.
2 The kunya or 'name of honour' of Muhammad.
PART II

MUHAMMAD’S CALL AND
PREACHING IN MECCA
THE BEGINNING OF THE SENDING DOWN OF THE QURÅN

The apostle began to receive revelations in the month of Ramaḍān. In the words of God, "The month of Ramaḍān in which the Qurān was brought down as a guidance to men, and proofs of guidance and a decisive criterion." And again, "Verily we have sent it down on the night of destiny, and what has shown you what the night of destiny is? The night of destiny is better than a thousand months. In it the angels and the spirit descend by their Lord's permission with every matter. It is peace until the rise of dawn." Again, "H.M. by the perspicuous book, verily we have sent it down in a blessed night. Verily, we were warning. In it every wise matter is decided as a command from us. Verily we sent it down." And again, "Had you believed in God and what we sent down to Our servant on the day of decision, the day on which the two parties met," i.e. the meeting of the apostle with the polytheists in Badr. Abū Ja'far Muhammad b. 'Ali b. al-Husayn told me that the apostle of God met the polytheists in Badr on the morning of Friday, the 17th of Ramaḍān.

Then revelation came fully to the apostle while he was believing in Him and in the truth of His message. He received it willingly, and took upon himself what it entailed whether of man's goodwill or anger. Prophecy is a troublesome burden—only strong, resolute messengers can bear it by God's help and grace, because of the opposition which they meet from men in conveying God's message. The apostle carried out God's orders in spite of the opposition and ill treatment which he met with.

KHADIJA, DAUGHTER OF KHUWAYLID, ACCEPTS ISLAM

Khadija believed in him and accepted as true what he brought from God, and helped him in his work. She was the first to believe in God and His apostle, and in the truth of his message. By her God lightened the burden of His prophet. He never met with contradiction and charges of falsehood, which saddened him, but God comforted him by her when he went home. She strengthened him, lightened his burden, proclaimed his truth, and belittled men's opposition. May God Almighty have mercy upon her! Hishām b. 'Urwa told me on the authority of his father 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from 'Abdullah b. Ja'far b. Abū Ṭalib that the apostle said, 'I was commanded to give Khadija the good news of a house of qatāb wherein would be no clamour and no toil' (148).

Then revelations stopped for a time so that the apostle of God was distressed and grieved. Then Gabriel brought him the Sūra of the Morning, in which His Lord, who had so honoured him, swore that He had not forsaken him, and did not hate him. God said, 'By the morning and the night when it is still, thy Lord hath not forsaken nor hated thee,' meaning that He has not left you and forsaken you, nor hated you after having loved you. 'And verily, the latter end is better for you than the beginning,' i.e. What I have for you when you return to Me is better than the honour which I have given you in the world. 'And your Lord will give you and will satisfy you,' i.e. of victory in this world and reward in the next. 'Did he not find you an orphan and give you refuge, going astray and guided you, found you poor and made you rich?' God thus told him of how He had begun to honour him in his earthly life, and of His kindness to him as an orphan poor and wandering astray, and of His delivering him from all that by His compassion (149).

'Do not oppress the orphan and do not repel the beggar.' That is, do not be a tyrant or proud or harsh or mean towards the weakest of God's creatures.

'Speak of the kindness of thy Lord,' i.e. tell about the kindness of God in giving you prophecy, mention it and call men to it.

So the apostle began to mention secretly God's kindness to him and to his servants in the matter of prophecy to everyone among his people whom he could trust.

THE PRESCRIPTION OF PRAYER

The apostle was ordered to pray and so he prayed. Sālih b. Kaisān from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from 'A'isha told me that she said, 'When prayer was first laid on the apostle it was with two prostrations for every prayer: then God raised it to four prostrations at home while on a journey the former ordinance of two prostrations held.'

A learned person told me that when prayer was laid upon the apostle Gabriel came to him while he was on the heights of Mecca and dug a hole for him with his heel in the side of the valley from which a fountain gushed forth, and Gabriel performed the ritual ablution as the apostle watched him. This was in order to show him how to purify himself before prayer. Then the apostle performed the ritual ablution as he had seen Gabriel do it. Then Gabriel said a prayer with him while the apostle prayed with his prayer. Then Gabriel left him. The apostle came to Khadija and performed the ritual for her as Gabriel had done for him, and she copied him. Then he prayed with her as Gabriel had prayed with him, and she prayed his prayer.

'Utba b. Muslim freedman of B. Taym from Nāfi' b. Jubayr b. Mut'ā'im (who was prolific in relating tradition) from J. 'Abbās told me: 'When prayer was laid upon the apostle Gabriel came to him and prayed the noon prayer when the sun declined. Then he prayed the evening prayer when his shadow equalled his own length. Then he prayed the sunset prayer when the sun set. Then he prayed the last night prayer when the twilight had disappeared. Then he prayed with him the morning prayer when the dawn rose. Then he came to him and prayed the noon prayer on the morrow when his shadow equalled his height. Then he prayed the evening prayer when his shadow equalled the height of both of them. Then he prayed the sunset prayer when the sun set at the time it had the day before. Then he prayed with him the last night prayer when the first third of the night had passed. Then he prayed the dawn prayer when it was clear but the sun was not shining. Then he said, "O Muhammad, prayer is in what is between your prayer today and your prayer yesterday."' (T. T. 1161) Yūnūs b. Bukayr said that Muhammad b. Iṣaḥāq told him that Yahyā b. 'Abbās'ūr ath'ār al-Kindi of the people of Kūfah said that Ismā'īl b. Īyāb b. 'Affīf from his father from his grandfather said, 'When I was a merchant I came to al-'Abbās during the days of pilgrimage; and while we were together a man came out to pray and stood facing the Ka'bah; then a woman came out and stood praying with him; then a young man came out and stood praying with him. I said to 'Abbās, "What is their religion? It is something new to me." He said, "This is Muhammad b. Abdullah who alleges that God has sent him with it and that the treasures of Chosroes and Caesar will be opened to him. The woman is his wife Khadija who believes in him, and this young man is his nephew 'Alī who believes in him." ' 'Affīf said, "Would that I could have believed that day and been a third!" (T. Ibn Ḥamīd) said that Salama b. al-Ŷaḍāl and 'Alī b. Mujahīd told him. Salama said, Muhammad b. Iṣaḥāq told me from Yahyā b. 'Abbās'ūr ath'ār—Tabārī said, 'It is in another place in my book from Yahyā b. al-Šāfī'ī ath'ār from Ismā'īl b. Īyāb b. Īfīf al-Kindi, 'Affīf being the brother of al-Šāfī'ī b. Qays al-Kindi by the same mother and the son of his uncle—from his father, from his grandfather 'Affīf; 'Al-'Abbās b. 'Abdul-Mut'ājilīfī was a friend of mine who used to go often to the Yaman to buy aromatics and sell them during the fairs. While I was with him in Minā there came a man in the prime of life and performed the full rites of ablution and then stood up and prayed. Then a woman came out and did her ablutions and stood up and prayed. Then came out a youth just approaching manhood, did his ablutions, then stood up and prayed by his side. When I asked al-'Abbās what was going on, he said that it was his nephew Muhammad b. 'Abdul-Mut'ājilīfī who alleges that Allah has sent him as an apostle; the other is my brother's son 'Alī b. Ābī Tālīb who has followed him in his religion; the third is his wife Khadija d.

1 Suḥaylī takes the author to task for saying what he should not. Traditionists are agreed that this story belongs to the morrow of the prophet's night journey (c.f.) some five years later. Opinions differ as to whether this occurred eighteen months or a year before the hijrah, but that would have been long after the beginning of revelation.
2 This may be one of the traditions which I.I. was accused of producing or recording in support of the 'Ālids. It is certainly open to criticism. See Introduction, pp. xxii f.
3 A hit at al-'Abbās.

B 4680

The Life of Muhammad

Khawwaylid who also follows him in his religion. 'Afif said after he had become a Muslim and Islam was firmly established in his heart, "Would that I had been a fourth!"

'Ali b. Abu Talib the First Male to Accept Islam

'Ali was the first male to believe in the apostle of God, to pray with him and to believe in his divine message, when he was a boy of ten. God favoured him in that he was brought up in the care of the apostle before Islam began.

Abdullah b. Abu Najih on the authority of Muhajid b. Jabr Abu'l-Hajāj told me that God showed His favour and goodwill towards him when a grievous famine overtook Quraysh. Now Abu Talib had a large family, and the prophet approached his uncle, Al-'Abbās, who was one of the richest of B. Ḥāshim, suggesting that in view of his large family and the famine which affected everyone, they should go together and offer to relieve him of the burden of some of his family. Al-'Abbās agreed, and so they went to Abu Talib offering to relieve him from his responsibility of two boys until conditions improved. Abu Talib said, 'Do what you like so long as you leave me 'Aqil' (150). So the apostle took 'Ali and kept him with him and Al-'Abbās took Ja'far. 'Ali continued to be with the apostle until God sent him forth as a prophet. 'Ali followed him, believed him, and declared his truth, while Ja'far remained with Al-'Abbās until he became a Muslim and was independent of him.

A traditionist mentioned that when the time of prayer came the apostle used to go out to the glens of Mecca accompanied by 'Ali, who went unbeknown to his father, and his uncles and the rest of his people. There they used to pray the ritual prayers, and return at nightfall. This went on as long as God intended that it should, until one day Abu Talib came upon them while they were praying, and said to the apostle, 'O nephew, what is this religion which I see you practising?' He replied, 'It is God's religion which He has chosen for Himself and sent His apostles with it. I call you to God, the One without an associate, to worship Him and to disavow al-Lat and al-'Uzzā.' 'Ali said, 'This is something that I have never heard of before today. I cannot decide a matter until I have talked about it with Abu Talib.' Now the apostle did not want his secret to be divulged before he applied himself to the publication of his message, so he said, 'If you do not accept Islam, then conceal the matter.' 'Ali tarried that night until God put Islam into his heart. Early next morning he went to the apostle and asked him what his orders were. He said, 'Bear witness that there is no god but Allah alone without associate, and disavow al-Lat and al-'Uzzā, and renounce rivals.' 'Ali did so and became a Muslim. He refrained from coming to him out of fear of Abu Talib and concealed his Islam and did not let it be seen.

Zayd b. Hāritha became a Muslim and the two of them tarried nearly a month. (Then) 'Ali kept coming to the apostle. It was a special favour to 'Ali from God that he was in the closest association with the apostle before Islam.

The companions who accepted Islam at the invitation of Abu Bakr

Those who accepted Islam at his invitation according to what I heard were:

1 I have omitted the intervening names in genealogies which have been given already.
He brought them to the apostle when they had accepted his invitation and they accepted Islam and prayed. I have heard that the apostle of God used to say: 'I have never invited anyone to accept Islam but he has shown signs of reluctance, suspicion, and hesitation, except Abū Bakr. When I told him of it he did not hold back or hesitate' (153).

These were the first eight men to accept Islam and prayed and believed in the divine inspiration of the apostle.

After them came:

Abū 'Ubayda b. al-Jarrāḥ whose name was 'Āmir b. 'Abdollah b. al-Jarrāḥ b. Hīlāl b. Uhayb b. Dabba b. al-Ḥārith b. Fihr. Abū Salama whose name was 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdullāh. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdullāh. (The latter's name was 'Abdullāh Manāf b. Asad—and Asad bore the honorific of Abū Jundub—b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr ... b. Lu'ayy.)

1 See C.
2 See A.
3 Not in T.
the cup and they drank until they were all satisfied, and as sure as I live if there had been only one man he could have drunk that amount. When the apostle wanted to address them Abū Lahab got in first and said, 'Your host has bewitched you'; so they dispersed before the apostle could address them. On the morrow he said to me, 'This man spoke before I could, and the people dispersed before I could address them, so do exactly as you did yesterday.' Everything went as before and then the apostle said, 'O Sons of 'Abdu'l-Muttaalib, I know of no Arab who has come to his people with a nobler message than mine. I have brought you the best of this world and the next. God has ordered me to call you to Him. So which of you will co-operate with me in this matter, my brother, my executor, and my successor being among you?' The men remained silent and I, though the youngest, most rheumy-eyed, fattest in body and thinnest in legs, said: 'O prophet of God, I will be your helper in this matter.' He laid his hand on the back of my neck and said, 'This is my brother, my executor, and my successor among you. Hearken to him and obey him.' The men got up laughing and saying to Abū Ṭālib, 'He has ordered you to listen to your son and obey him!')

(T. 1173. Ibn Hamūd from Salama from Ibn Ishaq from 'Amr b. 'Ubayd from al-Hasan b. Abū'l-Hasan said: When this verse came down to the apostle, he stood in the vale and said, 'O Sons of 'Abdu'l-Muttaalib; O Sons of 'Abdu Manāf; O Sons of Quṣayy.'—Then he named Quraysh tribe by tribe until he came to the end of them—'I call you to God and I warn you of his punishment.')

When the apostle's companions prayed they went to the glens so that their people could not see them praying, and while Sa'ād b. Abū Waqqāṣ was with a number of the prophet's companions in one of the glens of Mecca, a band of polytheists came upon them while they were praying and rudely interrupted them. They blamed them for what they were doing until they came to blows, and it was on that occasion that Sa'ād smote a polytheist with the jawbone of a camel and wounded him. This was the first blood to be shed in Islam.

When the apostle openly displayed Islam as God ordered him his people did not withdraw or turn against him, so far as I have heard, until he spoke disparagingly of their gods. When he did that they took great offence and resolved unanimously to treat him as an enemy, except those whom God had protected by Islam from such evil, but they were a despised minority. Abū Ṭālib his uncle treated the apostle kindly and protected him, the latter continuing to obey God's commands, nothing turning him back. When Quraysh saw that he would not yield to them and withdrew from them and insulted their gods and that his uncle treated him kindly and stood up in his defence and would not give him up to them, some of their leading men went to Abū Ṭālib, namely 'Utbā and Shayba, both sons of Rabi'a b. 'Abd Shams ... and Abū Saifīyān (165) b. Harb ... and Abūl-Bakhtarī whose name was al-'Āṣ b. Hishām b. al-Hārith b. Asad ... and al-Aswad b. al-Muttaalib b. Asad ... and Abū Jahl (whose name was 'Amr, his title being Abūl-Hakam) b. Hishām b. al-Mughīra ... and al-Walīd b. al-Mughīra ... and Nubayh and Munabbih two sons of al-Hājīj b. 'Amir b. Ḥudhayfah ... and al-'Āṣ b. Wā'il (166). They said, 'O Abū Ṭālib, your nephew has cursed our gods, insulted our religion, mocked our way of life and accused our forefathers of error; either you must stop him or you must let us get at him, for you yourself are in the same position as we are in opposition to him and we will rid you of him.' He gave them a conciliatory reply and a soft answer and they went away.

The apostle continued on his way, publishing God's religion and calling men thereto. In consequence his relations with Quraysh deteriorated and men withdrew from him in enmity. They were always talking about him and inciting one another against him. Then they went to Abū Ṭālib a second time and said, 'You have a high and lofty position among us, and we have asked you to put a stop to your nephew's activities but you have not done so. By God, we cannot endure that our fathers should be reviled, our customs mocked and our gods insulted. Until you rid us of him we will fight the pair of you until one side perishes,' or words to that effect. Thus saying, they went off. Abū Ṭālib was deeply distressed at the breach with his people and their enmity but he could not desert the apostle and give him up to them.

Ya'qūb b. 'Utba b. al-Mughīra b. al-Akhnas told me that he was told that after hearing these words from the Quraysh Abū Ṭālib sent for his nephew and told him what his people had said. 'Spare me and yourself,' he said. 'Do not put on me a burden greater than I can bear.' The apostle thought that his uncle had the idea of abandoning and betraying him, and that he was going to lose his help and support. He answered, 'O my uncle, by God, if they put the sun in my right hand and the moon in my left on that condition that I abandoned this course, until God has made it victorious, or I perish therein, I would not abandon it.' Then the apostle broke into tears, and got up. As he turned away his uncle called him and said, 'Come back, my nephew,' and when he came back, he said, 'Go and say what you please, for by God I will never give you up on any account.'

When the Quraysh perceived that Abū Ṭālib had refused to give up the apostle, and that he was resolved to part company with them, they went to him with 'Umāra b. al-Walīd b. al-Mughīra and said, according to my information, 'O Abū Ṭālib, this is 'Umāra, the strongest and most handsome young man among Quraysh, so take him and you will have the benefit of his intelligence and support; adopt him as a son and give up to us this nephew of yours, who has opposed your religion and the religion of your fathers, severed the unity of your people, and mocked our way of life, so that we may kill him. This will be man for man.' He answered, 'By God, this is an evil thing that you would put upon me, would you give me your... son that I should feed him for you, and should I give you my son that you should kill him? By God, this shall never be.' Al-Muṭ'im b. 'Adīy said, 'Your people have treated me fairly and have taken pains to avoid what you dislike. I do not think that you are willing to accept anything from them.' Abū Ṭalīb replied, 'They have not treated me fairly, by God, but you have agreed to betray me and help the people against me, so do what you like,' or words to that effect. So the situation worsened, the quarrel became heated and people were sharply divided, and openly showed their animosity to their opponents. Abū Ṭalīb wrote the following verses, indirectly attacking Muṭ'im, and including those who had abandoned him from the 'Abdu Manāf, and his enemies among the tribes of Quraysh. He mentions therein what they had asked of him and his estrangement from them.

Say to 'Amr and al-Walid and Muṭ'im
Rather than your protection give me a young camel,
Weak, grumbling and murmuring,
Sprinkling its flanks with its urine
Lagging behind the herd, and not keeping up.
When it goes up the desert ridges, you would call it a weasel.
I see our two brothers, sons of our mother and father,
When they are asked for help, say 'It is not our business.'
Nay, it is their affair, but they have fallen away,
As a rock falls from the top of Dhū 'Alaq.1
I mean especially 'Abdu Shams and Naufal,
Who have flung us aside like a burning coal.
They have slandered their brothers among the people;
Their hands are emptied of them. They shared their fame with men of low birth,
With men whose fathers were whispered about;
And Taym, and Makhzûm, and Zuhra, are of them.
Who had been friends of ours when help was sought;
By God, there will always be enmity between us.
As long as one of our descendants lives.
Their minds and thoughts were foolish,
They were entirely without judgement (167).2

Then the Quraysh incited people against the companions of the apostle who had become Muslims. Every tribe fell upon the Muslims among them, beating them and seducing them from their religion. God protected His apostle from them through his uncle, who, when he saw what Quraysh were doing, called upon B. Ḥashim and B. al-Muṭṭalib to stand with him in protecting the apostle. This they agreed to do, with the exception of Abū Lahab, the accused enemy of God.

1 A mountain in the Banū Asad country.
2 To say that a man's well is demolished is to accuse him of losing all common sense.

Abū Ṭalīb was delighted at the response of his tribe and their kindness, and began to praise them and to bring to men's memory their past. He mentioned the superiority of the apostle among them and his position so that he might strengthen their resolve and that they might extend their kindness to him. He said:

If one day Quraysh gathered together to boast, 'Abdu Manāf would be their heart and soul;
And if the nobles of 'Abdu Manāf were reckoned, Amongst Ḥashim would be their noblest and chief;
If they boast one day, then Muhammad Would be the chosen noble and honourable one.
Quraysh summoned everyone against us;
They were not successful and they were beside themselves.
Of old we have never tolerated injustice;
When people turned away their faces in pride we made them face us.
We protected their sanctuary whenever danger threatened
And drove the assailant from its buildings.
Through us the dry wood becomes green,
Under our protection its roots expand and grow.

AL-WALID B. AL-MUGHIRA 171

When the fair was due, a number of the Quraysh came to al-Walid b. al-Mughira, who was a man of some standing, and he addressed them in these words: 'The time of the fair has come round again and representatives of the Arabs will come to you and they will have heard about this fellow of yours, so agree upon one opinion without dispute so that none will give the lie to the other.' They replied, 'You give us your opinion about him.' He said, 'No, you speak and I will listen.' They said, 'He is a kāhin.' He said, 'By God, he is not that, for he has not the unintelligent sorcery, and here is no spitting and no knots.' 'Then he is a sorcerer.' 'No, we have seen sorcerers and their sorcery, and here is no choking, spasmodic movements and whispering.' 'Then he is a poet,' they said. 'No, he is no poet, for we know poetry in all its forms and metres.' 'Then he is possessed,' they said. 'No, he is not that,' he said, 'we have seen possessed ones, and here is no choking, spasmodic movements and whispering.' 'Then he is a poet,' they said. 'No, he is no poet, for we know poetry in all its forms and metres.'

When the fair was due, a number of the Quraysh came to al-Walid b. al-Mughira, who was a man of some standing, and he addressed them in these words: 'The time of the fair has come round again and representatives of the Arabs will come to you and they will have heard about this fellow of yours, so agree upon one opinion without dispute so that none will give the lie to the other.' They replied, 'You give us your opinion about him.' He said, 'No, you speak and I will listen.' They said, 'He is a kāhin.' He said, 'By God, he is not that, for he has not the unintelligent murmuring and rhymed speech of the kāhin.' 'Then he is possessed,' they said. 'No, he is not that,' he said, 'we have seen possessed ones, and here is no choking, spasmodic movements and whispering.' 'Then he is a poet,' they said. 'No, he is no poet, for we know poetry in all its forms and metres.' 'Then he is a sorcerer.' 'No, we have seen sorcerers and their sorcery, and here is no spitting and no knots.' 'Then what are we to say, O Abū 'Abdu Shams?' they asked. He replied, 'By God, his speech is sweet, his root is a palm-tree whose branches are fruitful (168), and everything you have said would be known to be false. The nearest thing to the truth is your saying that he is a sorcerer, who has brought a message by which he separates a man from his father, or from his brother, or from his wife, or from his family.'

1 Cf. Sūra 113. 4. Spitting, or perhaps 'blowing.'
At this point they left him, and began to sit on the paths which men take when they come to the fair. They warned everyone who passed them about Muhammad's doings. God revealed concerning al-Walid:

Leave to Me him I made,
Giving him wealth and trade,
While sons before him played,
The road for him I laid,
Then he coveted more of My aid,
Ay, Our signs hath he gainsaid (169).¹

¹ Sûra 74: 11–25. It is strange that after al-Walid has made the point that Muhammad cannot be a kâhid because he does not deliver messages in saj¹ the next quotation from the Quran should be an example (to which I fear I have not done justice) of that very form.

'I shall impose on him a grievous burden; he thought and planned; may he perish how he planned, may he perish how he planned. Then he looked, then he frowned, and showed anger' (170).

'Then he turned his back in pride and said, "This is nothing but ancient sorcery, this is nothing but the speech of a mortal"'.

Then God revealed concerning the men who were with him, composing a term to describe the apostle and the revelation he brought from God, 'As we sent down upon the dividers who had split the Quran into parts, by thy Lord we will ask them all about what they used to do' (171).²

So these men began to spread this report about the apostle with everyone they met so that the Arabs went away from that fair knowing about the apostle, and he was talked about in the whole of Arabia. When Abû Talîb feared that the multitude would overwhelm him with his family he composed the following ode, in which he claimed protection in the sanctuary of Mecca and by his position therein. He showed his affection for the nobles of his people while, nevertheless, he told them and others in his poetry that he was not going to give up the apostle or surrender him on any account whatever, but he would die in his defence.

When I saw the people had no love for us
And had severed every tie and relationship,
And shown us enmity and ill-will,
Obeying the orders of persecuting enemies,
And had allied themselves with treacherous people against us,
Biting their fingers in rage at our backs,
I stood firm against them with my pliant spear,
And my shining sword, heirloom of princes.
Round the temple I gathered my clan and my brothers,
And laid hold of the striped red cloth³ that covered it,
Standing together, facing its gates,
Where everyone who takes an oath completes his vow,

Where the pilgrims make their camels kneel,
Where the blood flows between Isâf and Nâ‘îla,
Camels marked on the shoulders or neck,
Tamed ones, between six and nine years old;
You see amulets on them, and alabaster ornaments
Bound on their necks like date-bearing branches.
I take refuge with the Lord of men from every adversary
And every lying assailant;
From the hater with his hurtful slander,
And from him who adds to religion what we have not tried.
By Thaur and Him who fixed Thâbir in his place,
And by him who goes up and down Hîrâ';¹
By the true temple of the valley of Mecca;
By God who is never unmindful;
By the black stone, when they stroke it
When they go round it morning and evening;
By Abraham's footprint in the rock still fresh,
With both feet bare, without sandals;
By the running between Marwa and Safâ,
And by the statues and images therein;
By every pilgrim riding to the house of God,
And everyone with a vow and everyone on foot;
By Ilâl, the furthest sacred spot¹ to which they go
Where the streamlets open out;
By their halt at even above the mountains
When they help the camels by their hands to rise;³
By the night of the meeting, by the stations of Minâ,
Are any holy places and stations superior?
By the crowd, when the home-going horses pass by quickly
As though escaping from a storm of rain;
By the great stone heap,⁴ when they make for it
Aiming at its top with stones;
By Kinda, when they are at al-Hîsâb at even,
When the pilgrims of Bakr b. Wa'il pass by them
Two allies who strengthened the tie between them,
And directed it to all means of unity;

¹ Hîrâ', Thaur, and Thâbir were all mountains round Mecca.
² Ilâl in the Lîdân is said to be a strip of sand where the people halt, but the lines in Nâbihâs 17, 22 and 19, 14 show that it was the name of a sanctuary (and possibly, as Well­ hausen, p. 83, says, 'of the God of 'Arafa').
³ The words suggest the way in which men get a reluctant camel to its feet. One man pushes up the camel's chest while the other pulls its head up by the reins. Here perhaps the latter action alone is meant as the 'poet' is speaking of a halt; even so, 'they raise the breasts of the camels with their hands' is an unnatural way to speak of pulling on the reins.
⁴ The largest of the three heaps of stones at Minâ, presumably that known as Jamâru
'l-'Aqabâ. Cf. Hassân b. Thâbit's lament where the pilgrims throw seven stones. The rite is not mentioned in the Quran, but we shall meet it again in the Sûra on pp. 534 and 970 of the Arabic text. See further Dîmar in E.J.
By their breaking the acacias and shrubs of al-Šīfāh,\(^1\)
And its bushes too, as they galloped like flying ostriches.
Is there any better refuge for one who seeks it?
Is there a righteous god-fearing man who will grant it?
Our aggressors get their way with us, and wish
That the gates of Turk and Kābul\(^2\) were blocked with our bodies.
You lie, by God's house, we will not leave Mecca, and go forth,
Until your affairs are in confusion.
You lie, by God's house, Muhammad shall not be maltreated;\(^3\)
Before we shoot and thrust in his defence,
We will not give him up till we lie dead around him,
And be unmindful of our wives and children;
Until a people in arms rise and fight you,
As camels carrying water rise under empty water-skins,\(^4\)
Until you see the enemy falling face down in his blood
From the spear thrust weighed down and tottering.
By God, if what I see should become serious
Our swords will mingle with the best of them
In the hands of a young warrior, like a flame,
Trustworthy, defender of the truth, hero,
For days, months, a whole year,
And after next year, yet another.
What people, confound you, would abandon a chief,
Who protects his dependants? No foul-mouthed weakling,
A noble man, for whose sake the clouds drop rain,
The support of orphans, the defence of widows,
Hashim's family, ready to perish, resort to him,
There they find pity and kindness.
Asid and his firstborn made us hated
And cut us up for others to devour;\(^5\)
Neither 'Uthmān nor Qunfudh sympathized with us
But obeyed the command of those tribes.

---

\(^1\) This line is very difficult, as C.'s notes show. Unfortunately the note of Abū Dharr to the effect that Šīfāh is a place-name is omitted. This seems to me to provide the key to the meaning of the line. Yāqút says that al-Šīfāh lies between Ḥunayn and the pillars of the Ḥaram on the left of a man entering Mecca from Mushash. As the latter place lies on the hills of 'Arafas the rendering given above seems to suit the context. On the site of Ḥunayn see Yāqūt \textit{sub} voce. We evade the difficulty, and so, strangely enough, does Suhaylī. If \textit{al-Šīfāh} is the plural of \textit{šūfā}, the side of a mountain, I cannot see how the passage can be construed.

\(^2\) The commentators say that Turk and Kābul are two mountains, but I can find no mention of them in Yāqūt, who under 'Kābul' quotes a line from al-'Asha which clearly refers to Turk and Kābul as people. It looks as if the two names point to a later forger.

\(^3\) I follow the reading of the \textit{Lisan}. The text apparently means 'We will not be forcibly deprived of M.'.

\(^4\) Or 'rattling, swishing water-skins'. If the comparison refers to the speed of their attack, the simile which Abū Dharr favours is correct. If not, the simile rests in the noise which the armed men make.

\(^5\) A figure for 'malicious slander'.

---

The Life of Muhammad

They obeyed Ubayy and the son of their 'Abdu Yagūth,
And did not observe what others said of us;
So, too, were we treated by Subay' and Naufal,
And everyone who turned away from us, not treating us kindly.
If they throw down their arms, or God give us the better of them,
We will pay them measure for measure.
That fellow Abū 'Amr would do naught but hate us,
To send us away among shepherds and camel-drivers;
He talks about us confidentially night and morning.
Talk on, Abū 'Amr, with your guile!
He swears by God he won't deceive us,
But we see him openly doing nothing else;
He hates us so much that the hill-tops
Between Mecca's hills and Syria's forts
Are too narrow to hold him.
Ask Abū'1-Walid, what have you done to us with your slander
Turning away like a deceitful friend.
You were a man by whose opinion men guided their lives,
And you were kind to us, nor are you a fool.
O 'Utbā, do not listen to an enemy's words against us;
Envious, lying, hating and malicious.
Abū Sufyān averted his face from me as he passed,
Sweeping along as though he were one of the great ones of the earth,
He betook himself to the high ground and its cool waters,
Pretending that he does not forget us.
He tells us that he is sorry for us like a good friend,
But he hides evil designs in his heart.
O, Mu'Tim! I did not desert you when you called for help,
Nor on the day of battle when mighty deeds were called for,
Nor when they came against you full of enmity,
Opponents whose strength matched yours.
O Mu'Tim, the people have given you a task to do,
I too when entrusted with a task do not try to evade it.
God requite 'Abdu Shams and Naufal for us
With evil punishment quick and not delayed,
With an exact balance, not a 'grain too little,
The balance its own witness that it is exact.
Foolish are the minds of people who exchanged us
For Banū Khalaf and the Ghayāṭī.\(^1\)
We are the pure stock from the summit of Hashim
And the family of Quṣayy in matters of import.
Sāhm and Makhzūm stirred up against us
Every scoundrel and low-born churl.
'Abdu Manāf, you are the best of your people,
Do not make common cause with every outsider.
You have proved feeble and weak
And done a thing far from right.
You were till lately the sticks under one pot
But now you are the sticks under many pots and vessels,
Let the Banū 'Abdu Manāf get satisfaction from parting from us,
Deserting us and leaving us imprisoned in our quarters!
If we are men we shall take revenge1 for what you have done
And you will suffer the full effects of war.
The best men among Lu'ayy b. Ghalib,
Every bold chief exiled to us;
The family of Nufayy is the worst that ever trod the earth,
The most contemptible of all the sons of Ma'add.
Tell Quṣayy that our cause will be blazed abroad,
And give Quṣayy the good news that after us there will be a falling apart (among our enemies).
Yet if calamity befell Quṣayy one night,
We should have been the first to protect them;
If they fought bravely in defence of their houses,
We should show them how to protect the mothers of children,
Yet every friend and nephew on whom we ought to count
We find useless when put to the test
Except for certain men of Kilāb b. Murra
Whom we exempt from the stigma of the deserter;2

1 Or 'bear a grudge', according to another reading.
2 We came to them by night; they all scattered.
Every liar and fool disappeared from our sight.
Ours was the watering-place among them,
We are the rock-like defence of Ghālib.
The young men of the scented ones and Hāshām
Are like sword blades in the hands of the polishers.
They took no revenge, nor shed blood,
Nor do they oppose any but the worst tribes.
In their fighting you see the youths
Like fierce lions quarrelling over lumps of meat;
Sons of a favourite Ethiopian* slave girl,
Sons of Junah, 'Ubayd Qays b. 'Āqīl;
But we are the noblest stock of lords
Whose heroic deeds were sung in verse.

These seven verses are not in W.'s text, and as he does not mention them in his critical notes it may be assumed that none of his manuscripts contained them. Further, there is not a note in Abū Dhar's commentary, and it is difficult to believe that he would have passed over the extraordinary word hindīkya without a note, if the line containing it were before him. I. H. at the end of the poem indicates that he has cut out some verses, possibly (though I think most improbably) these verses were among them, and even so he says some authorities reject the greater part. It will at once be apparent that the seven lines interrupt the sequence of thought which deals with the honourable exceptions to the general defection. In v. 4 I conjecture khādāfī for khālīfī.

* Hindīkya. Greek and Syrian writers use the term India for South Arabia and Ethiopia and a slave girl from one of those countries is almost certainly indicated here. The suffix kī is the Pahlavi suffix. See A. Jeffery, Foreign Vocabulary of the Quran, Baroda, 1938, pp. 15 f. and 18 f.
name 'the two-tied-together-ones' from this. 'Ali killed him at the battle of Badr. Abū 'Amr is Qurṣa b. 'Abdu 'Amr b. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manaf. The 'treacherous people' are B. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kināna. These are the Arabs whom Abū Ṭālib enumerated in his verse (174).

When the prophet's fame began to be blazed abroad throughout the land he was mentioned in Medina. There was no tribe among the Arabs who knew more about the apostle when and before he was mentioned than this tribe of Aus and Khazraj. The reason for this was that they were well acquainted with the sayings of Jewish rabbis and they lived side by side with them as allies. When the apostle was talked of in Medina and they heard of the trouble he had with Quraysh, Abū Qays b. al-Aslat, brother of B. Wāqīf, composed the verses given below (175).

Abū Qays was warmly attached to Quraysh since he was related to them through his wife Arnab d. Asad b. 'Abdu'l-'Uzza b. Quṣayy, and he with his wife used to stay with them for years at a time. He composed an ode in which he magnified the sanctity of the area, forbade Quraysh to fight there, urged them to stand by one another, mentioned their merits and virtues, urged them to protect the apostle, and reminded them of how God had dealt with them and saved them in the War of the Elephant.

O rider, when you meet Lu'ayy ibn Ghālib
Give him a message from me,
The tidings of a man who though far from you
Is distressed at what is between you, sad and worried.
I have become the caravanerai of cares,
Because of them I cannot do what I should.
I learn that you are divided into camps,
One party kindles the fire of war, the other provides the fuel.
I pray God to protect you from your evil act,
Your wicked quarrel and the insidious attack of scorpions,
Defamatory reports and secret plots
Like pricking awls which never fail to pierce.
Remind them of God, first of all things,
And the sin of breaking the taboo on travel-worn gazelles.¹
Say to them, (and God will give His judgement)
If you abandon war it will go far from you.
When you stir it up you raise an evil thing;
'Tis a monster devouring everything near and far,
It cuts the flesh from the hump and the back.
You will give up the finest clothes of Yaman
For a soldier's garb and coat of mail,
Musk and camphor for dust-coloured armour
With buttons like the eyes of a locust.

¹ The killing of game within the sacred area was taboo, and the poet means that if the blood of animals there is sacrosanct, a fortiori bloodshed and war are forbidden by God.

Man's Lord has chosen a religion,
So let none guard you but the Lord of heaven,
Raise up for us a ḥanīfī religion.
You are our object; one is guided in travel by heights,
You are a light and protection to this people,
You lead the way, not lacking virtues.
If men were valued, you would be a jewel,
The best of the vale is yours in noble pride.
You preserve noble, ancient peoples
Whose genealogy shows no foreign blood;
You see the needy come to your houses
Wave after wave of starving wights.
The people know that your leaders
Are ever the best people of the stations of Minā,²
Best in counsel, loftiest in custom,
Most truthful amid the assemblies.

¹ If the subject of the metaphor is war the reading dālāl is right, and indiscriminate bloodshed is indicated; if the variant dālāl 'porous soil' is adopted, the poet is continuing his description of the generous warrior whose hospitality extends to the most insatiable guest.
² See Al-Suhayli, 182, who says that I.I. so explains the word. He is quoting from p. 300 of the text. Al-Baqri says it was a well at Minā where the blood of the sacrificial victims was collected. It was a spot venerated by the Arabs. The word Subba apparently means the stomach of a ruminant, and naturally a large number of such skins used for carrying water would be available there; therefore it is possible that the term 'people of the stomach skins' simply means Arabs, the people who more than any other used this kind of vessel for carrying food and water, and so the meaning of the poet is that the tribe of Lu'ayy is the finest tribe in Arabia.
Rise and pray to your Lord and rub yourselves against the corners of this house between the mountains. He gave you a convincing test.
On the day of 'Abū Yāṣūm, leader of the squadrons, his cavalry was in the plains, his infantry upon the passes of the hills. When the help of the Lord of the throne reached you his armies repulsed them, pelting them, and covering them with dust.

Quickly they turned tail in flight and none but a few returned to his people from the army. If you perish, we shall perish, and the fairs by which men live. These are the words of a truthful man (176).

182 Hakīm b. Umayya b. Hāritha b. al-Auqāṣ al-Sulami, an ally of B. Umayya who had become a Muslim, composed the following verses to turn his people from their determined enmity to the apostle. He was a man of good birth and authority.

Does one who says what is right stick to it, and is there one listening who would be angry at the truth? Does the chief whose tribe hopes to profit from him gather friends from near and far? I disown all but Him who controls the wind and I abandon you for ever. I submit myself utterly to God though friends threaten me with terror.

183 HOW THE APOSTLE WAS TREATED BY HIS OWN PEOPLE

When the Quraysh became distressed by the trouble caused by the enmity between them and the apostle and those of their people who accepted his teaching, they stirred up against him fools who called him a liar, insulted him, and accused him of being a poet, a sorcerer, a diviner, and of being possessed. However, the apostle continued to proclaim what God had ordered him to proclaim, concealing nothing, and exciting their dislike by contempting their religion, forsaking their idols, and leaving them to their unbelief.

Yahyā b. 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr on the authority of his father from 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr b. al-'Āṣ told me that the latter was asked what was the worst way in which Quraysh showed their enmity to the apostle. He replied: 'I was with them one day when the notables had gathered in the Hijr and the apostle was mentioned. They said that they had never known anything like the trouble they had endured from this fellow; he had declared their mode of life foolish, insulted their forefathers, reviled their religion, divided the community, and cursed their gods. What they had borne was past all bearing, or words to that effect.

1 For this and the following lines, except the last, see p. 39 of the Arabic text.

While they were thus discussing him the apostle came towards them and kissed the black stone, then he passed them as he walked round the temple. As he passed they said some injurious things about him. This I could see from his expression. He went on and as he passed them the second time they attacked him similarly. This I could see from his expression. Then he passed the third time, and they did the same. He stopped and said, 'Will you listen to me O Quraysh? By him who holds my life in His hand I bring you slaughter.' This word so struck the people that not one of them but stood silent and still; even one who had hitherto been most violent spoke to him in the kindest way possible, saying, 'Depart, O Abū'l-Qāsim, for by God you are not violent.' So the apostle went away, and on the morrow they assembled in the Hijr, I being there too, and they asked one another if they remembered what had taken place between them and the apostle so that when he openly said something unpleasant they let him alone. While they were talking thus the apostle appeared, and they leaped upon him as one man and encircled him, saying, 'Are you the one who said so-and-so against our gods and our religion?' The apostle said, 'Yes, I am the one who said that.' And I saw one of them seize his robe. Then Abū Bakr interposed himself weeping and saying, 'Would you kill a man for saying Allah is my Lord?' Then they let him. That is the worst that I ever saw Quraysh do to him.

One of the family of Umm Kulthūm, Abū Bakr's daughter, told me that she said, 'Abū Bakr returned that day with the hair of his head torn. He was a very hairy man and they had dragged him along by his beard' (177).
had gone back to his house when he passed by this woman, who asked him if he had heard of what Abūl-Ḥakam b. Ḥishām had done just recently to his nephew, Muhammad; how he had found him sitting quietly there, and insulted him, and cursed him, and treated him badly, and that Muhammad had answered not a word. Ḥamza was filled with rage, for God purposed to honour him, so he went out at a run and did not stop to greet anyone, meaning to punish Abū Jahl when he met him. When he got to the mosque he saw him sitting among the people, and went up to him until he stood over him, when he lifted up his bow and struck him a violent blow with it, saying, ‘Will you insult him when I follow his religion, and say what he says? Hit me back if you can!’ Some of B. Makhzum got up to go to Abū Jahl’s help, but he said, ‘Let Abū ‘Umar alone for, by God, I insulted his nephew deeply.’ Ḥamza’s Islam was complete, and he followed the apostle’s commands. When he became a Muslim the Quraysh recognized that the apostle had become strong, and had found a protector in Ḥamza, and so they abandoned some of their ways of harassing him.

WHAT ‘UTBA SAID ABOUT THE PROPHET

Yazīd b. Ziyād from Muhammad b. Ka‘b al-Qurāṣī told me that he was told that ‘Utba b. Rab‘a, who was a chief, said one day while he was sitting in the Quraysh assembly and the apostle was sitting in the mosque by himself, ‘Why should I not go to Muhammad and make some proposals to him which if he accepts in part, we will give him whatever he wants, and he will leave us in peace?’ This happened when Ḥamza had accepted Islam and they saw that the prophet’s followers were increasing and multiplying. They thought it was a good idea, and ‘Utba went and sat by the prophet and said, ‘O my nephew, you are one of us as you know, of the noblest of the tribe and hold a worthy position in ancestry. You have come to your people with an important matter, dividing their community thereby and ridiculing their customs, and you have insulted their gods and their religion, and declared that their forefathers were unbelievers, so listen to me and I will make some suggestions, and perhaps you will be able to accept one of them.’ The apostle agreed, and he went on, ‘If what you want is money, we will gather for you of our property so that you may be the richest of us; if you want honour, we will make you our chief so that no one can decide anything apart from you; if you want sovereignty, we will make you king, and if this ghost which comes to you, which you see, is such that you cannot get rid of him, we will find a physician for you, and exhaust our means in getting you cured, for often a familiar spirit gets possession of a man until he can be cured of it,’ or words to that effect. The apostle listened patiently, and then said: ‘Now listen to me, ‘In the name of God, the compassionate and merciful, H.M., a revelation from the compassionate, the merciful, a book whose verses are expounded as an Arabic Quran for people who understand, as an announcement and warning, though most of them turn aside not listening and say, ‘Our hearts are veiled from that to which you invite us.’ Then the apostle continued to recite it to him. When ‘Utba heard it from him, he listened attentively, putting his hands behind his back and leaning on them as he listened. Then the prophet ended at the prostration and prostrated himself, and said, ‘You have heard what you have heard, Abūl-Walîd; the rest remains with you.’ When ‘Utba returned to his companions they noticed that his expression had completely altered, and they asked him what had happened. He said that he had heard words such as he had never heard before, which were neither poetry, spells, nor witchcraft. ‘Take my advice and do as I do, leave this man entirely alone for, by God, the words which I have heard will be blazed abroad. If (other) Arabs kill him, others will have rid you of him; if he gets the better of the Arabs, his sovereignty will be your sovereignty, his power your power, and you will be prosperous through him.’ They said, ‘He has bewitched you with his tongue.’ To which he answered, ‘You have my opinion, you must do what you think fit.’

NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN THE APOSTLE AND THE LEADERS OF QURAYSH AND AN EXPLANATION OF THE SŪRA OF THE CAVE

Islam began to spread in Mecca among men and women of the tribes of Quraysh, though Quraysh were imprisoning and seducing as many of the Muslims as they could. A traditionist told me from Sa‘îd b. Jubayr and from ‘Ikrima, freedman of ‘Abdullah b. ‘Abbās, that the leading men of every clan of Quraysh—‘Utba b. Rab‘a, and Shayba his brother, and Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb, and al-Naḍr b. al-Hārith, brother of the Banū Abūl-Dār, and Abū ‘Bakhtār b. Ḥishām, and al-Aswad b. al-Muṭṭalib b. Asad and Zama‘a b. al-Aswad, and al-Walîd b. al-Mughira, and Abū Jahl b. Ḥishām, and ‘Abdullāh b. Abū Umayya, and al-‘Aṣ b. Wā‘il, and Nubayh and Munabbī, the sons of al-Hajjāj, both of Sahm, and Umayya b. Khalaf and possibly others—gathered together after sunset outside the Ka‘ba. They decided to send for Muhammad and to negotiate and argue with him so that they could not be held to blame on his account in the future. When they sent for him the apostle came quickly because he thought that what he had said to them had made an impression, for he was most zealous for their welfare, and their wicked way of life pained him. When he came and sat down with them, they explained that they had sent for him in order that they could talk together. No Arab had ever treated his tribe as Muhammad had treated them, and they repeated the charges which had been mentioned on several occasions. If it was money he wanted, they would make him the richest of them all; if it was honour, he should be their prince; if it was sovereignty, they would make him king; if it was a Sūra 41. 1.

2 i.e. verse 37 ‘Prostrate yourselves to God’.
spirit which had got possession of him (they used to call the familiar spirit of the jinn ra'iy), then they would exhaust their means in finding medicine to cure him. The apostle replied that he had no such intention. He sought not money, nor honour, nor sovereignty, but God had sent him as an apostle, and revealed a book to him, and commanded him to become an announcer and a warner. He had brought them the messages of his Lord, and given them good advice. If they took it then they would have a portion in this world and the next; if they rejected it, he could only patiently await the issue until God decided between them, or words to that effect. ‘Well, Muhammad,’ they said, ‘if you won’t accept any of our propositions, you know that no people are more short of land and water, and live a harder life than we, so ask your Lord, who has sent you, to remove for us these mountains which shut us in, and to straighten out our country for us, and to open up in it rivers like those of Syria and Iraq, and to resurrect for us our forefathers, and let there be among those that are resurrected for us Qusayy b. Kilāb, for he was a true shaikh, so that we may ask them whether you speak the truth, and what you say is true or false. If they say you are speaking the truth, and you do what we have asked you, we will believe in you, and we shall know what your position with God is, and that He has actually sent you as an apostle as you say.’ He replied that he had not been sent to them with such an object. He had conveyed to them God's message, and they could either accept it with advantage, or reject it and await God’s judgement. They said that if he would not do that for them, let him do something for himself. Ask God to send an angel with him to confirm what he said and to contradict them; to make him gardens and castles, and treasures of gold and silver to satisfy his obvious wants. He stood in the streets as they did, and he sought a livelihood as they did. If he could do this, they would recognize his merit and position with God, if he were an apostle as he claimed to be. He replied that he would not do it, and would not ask for such things, for he could do this, they would recognize his merit and position with God, if he were an apostle as he claimed to be. He replied that he would not do it, and would not ask for such things, for he was not sent to do so, and he repeated what he had said before. They said, ‘Then let the heavens be dropped on us in pieces,’ as you assert that your Lord could do if He wished, for we will not believe you unless you do so.’ The apostle replied that this was a matter for God; if He wanted to do it with them, He would do it. They said, ‘Did not your Lord know that we would sit with you, and ask you these questions, so that He might come to you and instruct you how to answer us, and tell you what He was going to do with us, if we did not receive your message? Information has reached us that you are taught by this fellow in al-Yamama, called al-Ra’im, and by God we will never believe in the Ra’im. Our conscience is clear. By God, we will not leave you and our treatment of you, until either we destroy you or you destroy us.’ Some said, ‘We worship the angels, who are the daughters of Allah.’ Others said, ‘We will not believe in you until you come to us with God and the angels as a surety.’

When they said this the apostle got up and left them. 'Abdullah b. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughira b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar b. Makhzūm (who was the son of his aunt 'Ātika d. of 'Abdul-Muḥṭalib) got up with him and said to him, ‘O Muhammad, your people have made you certain propositions, which you have rejected; first they asked you things for themselves that they might know that your position with God is what you say it is so that they might believe in you and follow you, and you did nothing; then they asked you to take something for yourself, by which they might know your superiority over them and your standing with God, and you would not do it; then they asked you to hasten some of the punishment with which you were frightening them, and you did not do it’, or words to that effect, 'and by God, I will never believe in you until you get a ladder to the sky, and mount up it until you come to it, while I am looking on, and until four angels shall come with you, testifying that you are speaking the truth, and by God, even if you did that I do not think I should believe you.’ Then he went away, and the apostle went to his family, sad and grieving, because his hope that they had called him to accept his preaching was vain, and because of their estrangement from him. When the apostle had gone Abū Jahl spoke, making the usual charges against him, and saying, ‘I call God to witness that I will wait for him tomorrow with a stone which I can hardly lift,’ or words to that effect, 'and when he prostrates himself in prayer I will split his skull with it. Betray me or defend me, let the B. 'Abdu Manāf do what they like after that.’ They said that they would never betray him on any account, and he could carry on with his project. When morning came Abū Jahl took a stone and sat in wait for the apostle, who behaved as usual that morning. While he was in Mecca he faced Syria in prayer, and when he prayed, he prayed between the southern corner and the black stone, putting the Ka’ba between himself and Syria. The apostle rose to pray while Quraysh sat in their meeting, waiting for what Abū Jahl was to do. When the apostle protrasted himself, Abū Jahl took up the stone and went towards him, until when he got near him, he turned back in flight, pale with terror, and his hand had withered upon the stone, so that he cast the stone from his hand. The Quraysh asked him what had happened, and he replied that when he got near him a camel’s stallion got in his way. ‘By God’, he said, ‘I have never seen anything like his head, shoulders, and teeth on any stallion before, and he made as though he would eat me.’

I was told that the apostle said, ‘That was Gabriel. If he had come near, he would have seized him.’

When Abū Jahl said that to them, al-Naḍr b. al-Ḥārith b. Kalada b. 'Alqama b. Abū Manāf b. Abū’l-Dār b. Qusayy (78) got up and said: ‘O Quraysh, a situation has arisen which you cannot deal with. Muhammad was a young man most liked among you, most truthful in speech, and most trustworthy, until, when you saw grey hairs on his temple, and he brought you his message, you said he was a sorcerer, but he is not, for we have seen such people and their spitting and their knots; you said, a diviner, but we have seen such people and their behaviour, and we have heard their rhymes; and you said a poet, but he is not a poet, for we have heard all kinds of poetry; you said he was possessed, but he is not, for we have seen the possessed, and he shows no signs of their gasping and whispering and delirium. Ye men of Quraysh, look to your affairs, for by God, a serious thing has befallen you.' Now al-Naḍr b. al-Ḥarīth was one of the satans of Quraysh; he used to insult the apostle and show him enmity. He had been to al-Ḥīrāt and learnt there the tales of the kings of Persia, the tales of Rustum and Isbandiyār. When the apostle had held a meeting in which he reminded them of God, and warned his people of what had happened to bygone generations as a result of God's vengeance, al-Naḍr got up when he sat down, and said, 'I can tell a better story than he, come to me.' Then he began to tell them about the kings of Persia, Rustum and Isbandiyār, and then he would say, 'In what respect is Muhammad a better story-teller than I?' (179).

Ibn 'Abbās, according to my information, used to say eight verses of the Quran came down in reference to him, 'When our verses are read to him, he says fairy tales of the ancients'; and all those passages in the Quran in which 'fairy tales' are mentioned.

When Al-Naḍr said that to them, they sent him and 'Uqba b. Abū Mu'āyyat to the Jewish rabbis in Medina and said to them, 'Ask them about Muhammad; describe him to them and tell them what he says, for they are the first people of the scriptures and have knowledge which we do not possess about the prophets.' They carried out their instructions, and said to the rabbis, 'You are the people of the Taurāt, and we have come to you so that you can tell us how to deal with this tribesman of ours.' The rabbis said, 'Ask him about three things of which we will instruct you; if he gives you the right answer then he is an authentic prophet, but if he does not, then the man is a rogue, so form your own opinion about him.
Ask him what happened to the young men who disappeared in ancient days, for they have a marvellous story. Ask him about the mighty traveller who reached the confines of both East and West. Ask him what the spirit is. If he can give you the answer, then follow him, for he is a prophet. If he cannot, then he is a forger and treat him as you will.' The two men returned to Quraysh at Mecca and told them that they had a decisive way dealing with Muhammad, and they told them about the three questions.

They came to the apostle and called upon him to answer these questions.

192 He said to them, 'I will give you your answer tomorrow,' but he did not say, 'if God will.' So they went away; and the apostle, so they say, waited for fifteen days without a revelation from God on the matter, nor did Gabriel come to him, so that the people of Mecca began to spread evil reports, saying, 'Muhammad promised us an answer on the morrow, and today is the fifteenth day we have remained without an answer.' This delay caused the apostle great sorrow, until Gabriel brought him the Chapter of The Cave, in which he reproaches him for his sadness, and told him the answers of their questions, the youths, the mighty traveller, and the spirit.

I was told that the apostle said to Gabriel when he came, 'You have shut yourself off from me, Gabriel, so that I became apprehensive.' He answered, 'We descend only by God's command, whose is what lies before us, behind us, and what lies between, and thy Lord does not forget.'

He began the Sura with His own praise, and mentioning (Muhammad's) prophethood and apostolate and their denial thereof, and He said, 'Glory belongs to God, who has revealed the book to His servant,' meaning Muhammad.

'Verily thou art an apostle from Me,' i.e. confirming what they ask about thy prophethood. 'He hath not made therein crookedness, it is straight,' i.e.
it is level, without any difference. 'To warn of a severe punishment from Him,' that is, His immediate judgement in this world. 'And a painful judgement in the next,' that is, from thy Lord, who has sent thee as an apostle. 'To give those who believe, who do good works, the good news that they will have a glorious reward, enjoying it everlastingly,' i.e. the eternal abode. 'They shall not die therein,' i.e. those who have accepted your message as true, though others have denied it, and have done the works that you have ordered them to do. 'And to warn those who say God has taken a son.' He means the Quraysh when they say, 'We worship the angels who are the daughters of Allah.' 'They have no knowledge about it, or had their forefathers', who take hardly your leaving them and shaming their religion. 'Dreadful is the word that proceedeth from their mouth' when they say the angels are God's daughters. 'They say nothing but a lie, and it may be that thou wilt destroy thyself,' O Muhammad. 'In grief over their course if they believe not this saying,' i.e. because of his sorrow when he was disappointed of his hope of them; i.e. thou shalt not do it (180). 'Verily We have made that which is upon the earth an ornament to it to try them which of them will behave the best,' i.e. which of them will follow My commandment and act in obedience to Me. 'And verily we will make that which is upon it a barren mound,' i.e. the earth and what is upon it will perish and pass away, for all must return to Me that I may reward them according to their deeds, so do not despair nor let what you hear and see therein grieve you (181).

Then comes the story of what they asked him about the young men, and God said: 'Have you considered that the dwellers in the Cave and al-Raqim were wonders from our signs?' i.e. there were still more wonderful signs in the proofs I have given to men (182). Then God said: 'When the young men took refuge in the Cave they said, O Lord, show us kindness and give us guidance by Your command, so We sealed up their hearing in the Cave for many years. Then We brought them to life again that We might know which of the two parties would best calculate the time that they had been there. Then He said: ‘We will tell you the true account of them; they were young men who believed in their Lord, and We gave them further guidance, and We strengthened their hearts. Then they stood and said, Our Lord is the Lord of heaven and earth. We will pray to no other god but Him. If we were to say otherwise we should speak blasphemy,' i.e. they did not associate anyone with Me as you have associated with Me what you know nothing about (183). ‘These people of ours have chosen gods in addition to Him, though they bring no plain authority for them,' i.e. a clear proof. ‘Who is more wicked than he who invents a lie against God? When you withdraw from them and what they worship instead of God, then take refuge in the Cave; your Lord will spread for you by His mercy and prepare a pillow for you in your plight. You might see the sun when it rises move away from their Cave towards the right, and when it sets it would go past them to the left, while they were in a cleft of the Cave' (184). ‘That was one of the signs of God', i.e. for a proof against those of the people of the scriptures who knew their story and who ordered those men to ask you about them concerning the truth of your prophecy in giving a true account of them. ‘Whom God guides is rightly guided, and for him whom He leads astray you will find no friend to direct. And you would think they were awake while they were sleeping, and we would turn them over to the right and the left, while their dog was lying with its forepaws on the threshold’ (185). ‘If you observed them closely you would turn your backs on them fleeing, and be afraid of them' up to the words ‘those who gained their point said,' i.e. the people of power and dominion among them. ‘Let us build a mosque above them; they will say,' i.e. the Jewish rabbis who ordered them to ask these questions. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, 'and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, 'and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, 'and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, 'and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. ‘Three, their dog being the fourth of them, and some say five, their sixth being the dog, guessing in the dark,' i.e. they know nothing about it, ‘and they say seven and their dog the eighth. Say: My Lord knows best among them. “Umar heard a man calling someone Dhūl-Qarnayn, and he said, “God pardon you, are you not satisfied to use the names of the prophets for your children that you must now name them after the angels?’” God knows the truth of the matter, whether the apostle said that or not. If he said it, then what he said was true. God said concerning what they asked him about the Spirit, ‘They will ask you about the Spirit, say, the Spirit is a matter for my Lord, and you have only a little knowledge about it.” I was told on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbās that he said, When the apostle came to Medina, the Jewish rabbis said, ‘When you said, “And you have only a little knowledge about it,” did you mean us or your own people?’ He said, ‘Both of you.’ They said, ‘Yet you will read in what you brought that we were given the Taurūt in which is an exposition of everything.’ He replied that in reference to God’s knowledge that was little, but in it there was enough for them if they carried it out. God revealed concerning what they asked him about that ‘If all the trees in the world were pens and the ocean were ink, though the seven seas reinforced it, the words of God would not be exhausted. Verily God is mighty and wise.” i.e. The Taurūt compared with God’s knowledge is little. And God revealed to him concerning what his people asked him for themselves, namely, removing the mountains, and cutting the earth, and raising their forefathers from the dead, ‘If there were a Qur’ān by which mountains could be moved, or the earth split, or the dead spoken to [it would be this one], but to God belongs the disposition of all things,’ i.e. I will not do anything of the kind

1 Or ‘the Persians’.
2 Sūra 17, 87.
3 Sūra 31, 26.
unless I choose. And He revealed to him concerning their saying, 'Take for yourself', meaning that He should make for him gardens, and castles, and treasures, and should send an angel with him to confirm what he said, and to defend him. 'And they said, 'What is this apostle doing, eating food, and walking in the markets? Unless an angel were sent to him to be a warner with him, or he were given a treasure or a garden from which he might eat [we would not believe]'"; and the evildoers say, 'You follow only a man bewitched'. See how they have coined proverbs of thee, and have gone astray and cannot find the way. Blessed is He, who if He willed, could make for thee something better than that, i.e. than that you should walk in the marketplaces, seeking a livelihood. 'Gardens beneath which run rivers, and make for thee castles.'

And He revealed to him concerning their saying, 'When We sent messengers before thee they did eat and walk in the markets, and we made some of you a test for others, whether you would be steadfast, and your Lord is looking on,' i.e. I made some of you a test for others that you might be steadfast. Had I wanted to make the world side with my apostles, so that they would not oppose them, I would have done so.

And he revealed to him concerning what 'Abdullah b. Umayya said, 'And they said, 'We will not believe in thee until fountains burst forth for us from the earth, or you have a garden of dates and grapes and make the rivers within it burst forth copiously, or make the heavens fall upon us in fragments as you assert, or bring God and the angels as a surety, or you get a house of gold, or mount up to heaven, we will not believe in thy ascent until you bring down to us a book which we can read.'" Say: exalted be my Lord, am I aught but a mortal messenger' (187).

He revealed to him with reference to their saying 'We have heard that a man in al-Yamāma called al-Rahmān teaches you. We will never believe in him'. "Thus did We send you to a people before whom other peoples had passed away that you might read to them that which We have revealed to thee, while they disbelieved in the Rahmān. Say, He is my Lord, there is no other God but He. In Him I trust and unto Him is the return.'

And He revealed to him concerning what 'Abū Jahil said and intended: 'Have you seen him who prohibited a servant when he prayed, have you seen if he was rightly guided or gave orders in the fear of God, have you seen if he lied and turned his back; does he not know that Allah sees everything? If he does not cease we will drag him by the forelock, the lying sinful forelock; let him call his gang, we will call the guards of hell. Thou shalt certainly not obey him, prostrate thyself and draw near to God' (188).

And God revealed concerning what they proposed to him in regard to their money, 'Say, I ask no reward of you, it is yours; my reward is God's concern alone and He witnesses everything." When the apostle brought to them what they knew was the truth so that they recognized his truthfulness and his position as a prophet in bringing them tidings of the unseen when they asked him about it, envy prevented them from admitting his truth, and they became insolent against God and openly forsook his commandments and took refuge in their polytheism. One of them said, 'Do not listen to this Qurān; treat it as nonsense and probably you will get the better of it', i.e. treat it as nonsense and false; and treat him as a mere raver—you will probably get the better of him, whereas if you argue or debate with him any time he will get the better of you.

Abū Jahil, when he was mocking the apostle and his message one day, said: 'Muhammad pretends that God's troops who will punish you in hell and imprison you there, are nineteen only, while you have a large population. Can it be that every hundred of you is unequal to one man of them?' In reference to that God revealed, 'We have made the guardians of hell angels, and We have made the number of them a trial to those who disbelieve', to the end of the passage. Whereupon when the apostle recited the Quran loudly as he was praying, they began to disperse and refused to listen to him. If anyone of them wanted to hear what he was reciting as he prayed, he had to listen stealthily for fear of Quraysh; and if he saw that they knew that he was listening to it, he went away for fear of punishment and listened no more. If the apostle lowered his voice, then the man who was listening thought that they would not listen to any part of the reading, while he himself heard something which they could not hear, by giving all his attention to the words.

Dā'ūd b. al-Husayn freedman of 'Amr b. 'Uthmān told me that 'Ikrima freedman of Ibn 'Abbās had told them that 'Abdullah b. 'Abbās had told them that the verse, 'Don't speak loudly in thy prayer and don't be silent; adopt a middle course,' was revealed because of those people. He said, 'Don't speak loudly in thy prayer' so that they may go away from you, and 'Don't be silent' so that he who wants to hear, of those who listen stealthily, cannot hear; perhaps he will give heed to some of it and profit thereby.

THE FIRST ONE WHO PRONOUNCED THE QURAN LOUDLY

Yahyā b. 'Urwā b. al-Zubayr told me as from his father that the first man to speak the Quran loudly in Mecca after the apostle was 'Abdullah b. Mas'ūd. The prophet's companions came together one day and remarked that Quraysh had never heard the Quran distinctly read to them, and who was there who would make them listen to it? When 'Abdullah said that he would, they replied that they were afraid on his behalf and they wanted only a man of good family who would protect him from the populace if they attacked him. He replied, 'Let me alone, for God will protect me.' So in the morning he went to the sanctuary while Quraysh were in their conferences, and when he arrived at the Maqám, he read, 'In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful,' raising his voice as he did so, 'the compassionate who taught the Quran.' Then he turned towards them as he read so that they noticed him, and they said, 'What on earth is this son of a slavewoman saying?' And when they realized that he was reading some of what Muhammad prayed, they got up and began to hit him in the face; but he continued to read so far as God willed that he should read. Then he went to his companions with the marks of their blows on his face. They said, 'This is just what we feared would happen to you.' He said, 'Abu Jahî's house, and asked him to tell him his opinion of what he had heard from Muhammad. He replied, 'By God, I heard things that I know, and know what was meant by them, and I heard things whose meaning I don't know, nor what was intended by them.' Al-Akhnas replied, 'I feel precisely the same.' Then he left him and went to Abu Jahl's house, and asked him the same question. He answered, 'What did I hear! We and B. 'Abdu Manâf have been rivals in honour. They have fed the poor, and so have we; they have assumed others' burdens, and so have we; they have been generous, and so have we, until we have progressed side by side, and we were like two horses of equal speed. They said, 'We have a prophet to whom revelation comes from heaven', and when shall we attain anything like that? By God, we will never believe in him and treat him as truthful.' Then al-Akhnas got up and left him.

When the apostle recited the Quran to them and called them to God, they said in mockery, 'Our hearts are veiled, we do not understand what you say. There is a load in our ears so that we cannot hear what you say, and a curtain divides us from you, so follow your own path and we will follow ours, we do not understand anything you say.' Then God revealed, 'And when you read the Quran we put between you and those who do not believe in the last day a hidden veil,' as far as the words 'and when you mention your Lord alone in the Quran they turn their backs in aversion', that is, how can they understand thy assertion that thy Lord is one if I have put veils over their hearts and heaviness in their ears, and between you and them is a curtain as they allege? i.e. that I have not done it. 'We know best about what they listen to when they listen to you, and when they take secret counsel, the wicked say, 'You are only following a man bewitched', i.e. that is the way they order people not to listen to the message I have given you. 'See how they have made parables of you, and gone astray, and cannot find the way,' i.e. they have made false proverbs about you, and cannot find the right path, and what they say is not straightforward. 'And they say, when we are bones and dried morsels shall we be raised a new creation? i.e. you have come to tell us that we shall be raised after death when we are bones and dried fragments, and that is something that cannot be. 'Say, Be ye hard stones or iron, or anything that you think in your minds is harder, they will say, 'Who will raise us?' Say, He who created you in the beginning,' i.e. He who created you from what you know, for to create you from dust is no more difficult than that to him.

'Abdullah b. 'Abu Najîh from Mujähid from Ibn 'Abbas told me that the latter said, 'I asked him what was meant by the word of God 'or something that you think is harder' and he said, 'Death.'"

THE QURAYSH LISTEN TO THE PROPHET'S READING

Muhammad b. Muslim b. Shihâb al-Zuhri told me that he was told that Abû Sufyân b. Hjar and Abû Jahl b. Hishâm and al-Akhnas b. Shariq b. 'Amr b. Wahb al-Thaqafi, an ally of B. Zuhra, had gone out by night to listen to the apostle as he was praying in his house. Everyone of them chose a place to sit where he could listen, and none knew where his fellow was sitting. So they passed the night listening to him, until as the dawn rose, they dispersed. On the way home they met and reproached one another, and one said to the other, 'Don’t do it again, for if one of the light-minded fools sees you, you will arouse suspicion in his mind.' Then they went away, until on the second night everyone of them returned again to his place, and they passed the night listening. Then at dawn the same thing happened again, and again on the third night, when on the morrow they said to one another, 'We will not go away until we take a solemn obligation that we will not return.' This they did and then dispersed. In the morning al-Akhnas took his stick and went to the house of Abû Sufyân, and asked him to tell him his opinion of what he had heard from Muhammad. He replied, 'By God, I heard things that I know, and know what was meant by them, and I heard things whose meaning I don’t know, nor what was intended by them.' Al-Akhnas replied, 'I feel precisely the same.' Then he left him and went to Abû Jahl's house, and asked him the same question. He answered, 'What did I hear! We and B. 'Abdu Manâf have been rivals in honour. They have fed the poor, and so have we; they have assumed others' burdens, and so have we; they have been generous, and so have we, until we have progressed side by side, and we were like two horses of equal speed. They said, 'We have a prophet to whom revelation comes from heaven', and when shall we attain anything like that? By God, we will never believe in him and treat him as truthful.' Then al-Akhnas got up and left him.

When the apostle recited the Quran to them and called them to God, they said in mockery, 'Our hearts are veiled, we do not understand what you say. There is a load in our ears so that we cannot hear what you say, and a curtain divides us from you, so follow your own path and we will follow ours, we do not understand anything you say.' Then God revealed, 'And when you read the Quran we put between you and those who do not believe in the last day a hidden veil,' as far as the words 'and when you mention your Lord alone in the Quran they turn their backs in aversion', that is, how can they understand thy assertion that thy Lord is one if I have put veils over their hearts and heaviness in their ears, and between you and them is a curtain as they allege? i.e. that I have not done it. 'We know best about what they listen to when they listen to you, and when they take secret counsel, the wicked say, 'You are only following a man bewitched', i.e. that is the way they order people not to listen to the message I have given you. 'See how they have made parables of you, and gone astray, and cannot find the way,' i.e. they have made false proverbs about you, and cannot find the right path, and what they say is not straightforward. 'And they say, when we are bones and dried morsels shall we be raised a new creation? i.e. you have come to tell us that we shall be raised after death when we are bones and dried fragments, and that is something that cannot be. 'Say, Be ye hard stones or iron, or anything that you think in your minds is harder, they will say, 'Who will raise us?' Say, He who created you in the beginning,' i.e. He who created you from what you know, for to create you from dust is no more difficult than that to him.

'Abdullah b. Abû Najîh from Mujähid from Ibn 'Abbas told me that the latter said, 'I asked him what was meant by the word of God 'or something that you think is harder' and he said, 'Death.'"

THE POLYTHEISTS PERSECUTE THE MUSLIMS OF THE LOWER CLASSES

Then the Quraysh showed their enmity to all those who followed the apostle; every clan which contained Muslims attacked them, imprisoning them, and beating them, allowing them no food or drink, and exposing them to the burning heat of Mecca, so as to seduce them from their religion. Some gave way under pressure of persecution, and others resisted them, being protected by God.

Bilál, who was afterwards freed by Abû Bakr but at that time belonged to one of B. Jumâh, being slave born, was a faithful Muslim, pure of heart. His father's name was Ribîh and his mother was Hâmâma. 'Umâyya b. Khalaf b. Wahb b. Ḥudâfa b. Jumâh used to bring him out at the hottest part of the day and throw him on his back in the open valley and have a great rock put on his chest; then he would say to him, 'You will stay here till you die or deny Muhammad and worship Al-Lāt and al-'Uzza.' He used to say while he was enduring this, 'One, one!'

Hishām b. 'Urwa told me on the authority of his father: Waraqā b.
Naufal was passing him while he was being thus tortured and saying,
'One, one,' and he said, 'One, one, by God, Bilāl.' Then he went to Umayya and those of B. Jumah who had thus maltreated him, and said,
'I swear by God that if you kill him in this way I will make his tomb a shrine.' One day Abū Bakr passed by while they were thus ill-treating him, for his house was among this clan. He said to Umayya, 'Have you no fear of God that you treat this poor fellow like this? How long Is It to go on?' He replied, 'You are the one who corrupted him, so save him from his plight that you see.' 'I will do so,' said Abū Bakr; 'I have got a black slave, tougher and stronger than he, who Is a heathen. I will exchange him for Bilāl.' The transaction was carried out, and Abū Bakr took him and freed him.

Before he migrated to Medina he freed six slaves in Islam, Bilāl being the seventh, namely: 'Amir b. Fuhayra, who was present at Badr and Uhud and was killed at the battle of Bīr Maʿānā; and Umm 'Ubays and Zinnira (she lost her sight when he freed her and Quraysh said, 'Al-Lāt and al-'Uzza are the ones that have taken away her sight'); but she said, 'By the house of God, you lie. Al-Lāt and al-'Uzza can neither harm nor heal,' so God restored her sight.

And he freed al-Nahdiya and her daughter who belonged to a woman of
B. 'Abdu'l-Dār; he passed by them when their mistress had sent them about some flour of hers, and she was saying, 'By God, I will never free you.' Abū Bakr said, 'Free yourself from your oath.' She said, 'It is free; you corrupted them so you free them.' They agreed upon the price, and he said, 'I will take them and they are free. Return her flour to her.' They said, 'Oughtn't we to finish the grinding and then take it back to her?'
He said, 'Yes, if you like.'

He passed by a slave girl of B. Muʿamml, a clan of B. Adīy b. Kaʿb who was a Muslim. 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb was punishing her to make her give up Islam. At that time he was a polytheist. He beat her until he was tired and said, 'I have only stopped beating you because I am tired.' She said,
'May God treat you in the same way.' Abū Bakr bought her and freed her.

Muḥammad b. 'Abdullāh b. Abū 'Atīq from 'Amir b. 'Abdullāh b.
Al-Zubayr from one of his family told me: Abū Quḥāfā said to his son Abū Bakr, 'My son, I see that you are freeing weak slaves. If you want to do what you are doing, why don't you free powerful men who could defend you and protect you?' He said, 'I am only trying to do what I am attempting for God's sake.' It is said that these verses came down in reference to him and what his father said to him: 'As to him who gives and fears God and believes in goodness,' up to the divine words, 'none is rewarded by God with favour but for seeking his Lord's most sublime face and in the end he will be satisfied.'

The B. Makhzūm used to take out 'Ammār b. Yāsir with his father and mother, who were Muslims, in the heat of the day and expose them to the heat of Mecca, and the Apostle passed by them and said, so I have heard, 'Patience, O family of Yāsir! Your meeting-place will be paradise.' They called his mother, for she refused to abandon Islam.

It was that evil man Abū Jahl who stirred up the Meccans against them.
When he heard that a man had become a Muslim, if he was a man of social importance and had relations to defend him, he reprimanded him and poured scorn on him, saying, 'You have forsaken the religion of your father who was better than you. We will declare you a blockhead and brand you as a fool, and destroy your reputation.' If he was a merchant he said,
'We will boycott your goods and reduce you to beggary.' If he was a person of no social importance, he beat him and incited people against him.

'Abbās, "Were the polytheists treating them so badly that apostasy was excusable?" "Yes, by God, they were," he said, "they used to beat one of them, depriving him of food and drink so that he could hardly sit upright because of the violence they had used on him, so that in the end he would do whatever they said." If they said to him, 'Are al-Lāt and al-'Uzza your gods and not Allah?' he would say, "Yes" to the point that if a beetle passed by them they would say to him, 'Is this beetle your God and not Allah?' he would say yes, in order to escape from the suffering he was enduring.

Al-Zubayr b. 'Ukāsha b. 'Abdullāh b. Abū Ahmad told me that he was told that some men of B. Makhzūm went to Hishām b. al-Walid when his brother al-Walid b. al-Walid became a Muslim. They had agreed to seize some young men who had become Muslims, among whom were Salma b.
Hishām and 'Ayyāsh b. Abū Rabi'a. They were afraid of his violent temper and so they said, 'We wish to admonish these men because of this religion which they have newly introduced; thus we shall be safe in the case of others.' 'All right,' he said, 'admonish him, but beware that you do not kill him.' Then he began to recite:

My brother 'Uyays shall not be killed,
Otherwise there will be war between us for ever.

'Be careful of his life, for I swear by God that if you kill him, I will kill the noblest of you to the last man.' They said, 'God damn the man. After what he has said who will want to bring trouble on himself, for, by God, if this man were killed while in our hands the best of us would be killed to a man.' So they left him and withdrew, and that was how God protected him from them.

1 Sūrah 92. 5.
2 Lit., 'reciprocal cursing', which was an inseparable accompaniment to war among the pagan Arabs.
When the apostle saw the affliction of his companions and that though he escaped it because of his standing with Allah and his uncle Abu Talib, he could not protect them, he said to them: 'If you were to go to Abyssinia (it would be better for you), for the king will not tolerate injustice and it is a friendly country, until such time as Allah shall relieve you from your distress.' Thereupon his companions went to Abyssinia, being afraid of apostasy and fleeing to God with their religion. This was the first hijra in Islam.

The first of the Muslims to go were: B. Umayya: 1 Uthman b. Affan ... with his wife Ruqayya, d. the apostle.

B. 'Abdul-Shams: ... Abu Hudhayfa b. 'Utba ... with his wife Sahla d. Suwayl b. 'Amr one of B. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy.

B. Asad b. 'Abdul-'Uzzaz: al-Zubayr b. al-Awwam ...

B. 'Abdul-'Arish: ... Musab b. Umayr.

B. Zuhra b. Kilab: 'Abdul-Rahman b. 'Auf ...

B. Makhrum b. Yaqqa: ... Abu Salama b. 'Abdul-Asad ... with his wife Umm Salama d. Abu Umayya b. al-Mughira ...

B. Junah b. 'Amr b. Husayn: 'Uthman b. Mash'un...

B. Adiy b. Ka'b: 'Amir b. Rabia', an ally of the family of al-Khattab of Anz b. Wail (89), with his wife Layla d. Abu Hathma b. Hudhafa ...

B. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy: Abu Sabra b. Abu Ruhm b. 'Abdul-'Uzza b. Abu Qays ... b. 'Amir. Others say it was Abu Hisham b. 'Amr b. 'Abdu Shams of the same descent. It is said that he was the first to arrive in Abyssinia.

B. al-Harith: Suwayl b. Bayda'. ... These ten were the first to go to Abyssinia according to my information (190).

Afterwards Ja'far b. Abu Talib went, and the Muslims followed one another until they gathered in Abyssinia; some took their families, others went alone.

B. Hisham: Ja'far ... who took his wife Asma d. 'Umayya b. al-Nunman ... She bare him 'Abdullah in Abyssinia.

B. Umayya: 'Uthman b. Affan ... with his wife Ruqayya; ... 'Amr b. Sa'id b. al-'As ... with his wife Fatima d. Safiyya b. Umayya d. Muharrith b. Khalid b. Shaqiq b. Raqqa b. Mukhlij al-Kinani, and his brother Khaidir with his wife Umayya (91) d. Khalaf of Khuzza a. She bare him his son Sa'id in Abyssinia, and his daughter Ama who afterwards married al-Zubayr b. al-Awwam and bare to him 'Amr and Khaidir. Of their allies of B. Asad b. Khuzayma: 'Abdullah b. Jashsh ... and his brother 'Ubaydullah with his wife Umm Habiba d. Abu Sufyan b. Habir ... and Qays b. 'Abdullah ... with his wife Baraka d. Yasir, a freedwoman of His dots indicate that the genealogies (which in many cases have been given previously) have been cut short.
And shame in death, not safe from blame.
We have followed the apostle of God, and they Have rejected the words of the prophet, and been deceitful.¹
Visit thy punishment on the people who transgress
And protect me lest they rise and lead me astray.

¹Abdullah b. al-Harith also said when he spoke of the Quraysh expelling them from their country, and reproached some of his people:

My heart refuses to fight them
And so do my fingers; I tell you the truth,
How could I fight a people who taught you
The truth that you should not mingle with falsehood?
Jinn worshippers exiled them from their noble land
So that they were exceeding sorrowful;
If there were faithfulness in 'Adiy b. Sa'd
Springing from piety and kinship ties,
I should have hoped that it would have been among you,
By the grace of Him who is not moved by bribes.
I got in exchange for the bountiful refuge of poor widows
A whelp, and that mothered by a bitch.

He also said:

Those Quraysh who deny God's truth
Are as 'Ad and Madyan and the people of al-Hijr who denied it.
If I do not raise a storm let not the earth,
Spacious land or ocean hold me!
In a land wherein is Muhammad, servant of God,
I will explain what is in my heart
When exhaustive search is made.

Because of the second verse of this poem 'Abdullah was called al-Mubriq, the thunderer (or threatener).

Hudhafa b. Jumah, who was his cousin, and who used to ill-treat him because of his belief, made the following verses. Umayya was a leader among his people at that time.

O Taym b. 'Amr, I wonder at him who came in enmity,
When the sea and the broad high land lay between us.²

¹ Such is the commentators' explanation of 'gone high in the balance'. The line is explained by Lane, 2200b; it begins 'They said We have followed', &c.
² Commentators find this verse difficult. Abû Dharr says that sharâmûn is a place-name, or with other vowels it means the sea; while balkû is either another place-name or a herd of kneeling camels. Abû'l-Farwar meaning 'all' is generally preceded by aynû. Subayil says that sharrûn is the sea and balkû is wide high ground. He prefers the opening line to begin: 'O Taym b. 'Amr, I wonder at him whose anger burned.' Subayil is right. In Eth. barkû means 'land'.

To those who hope for the demonstration of God and religion,
Namely, that we have found God's country spacious,
So do not live a life in humiliation

O rider, take a message from me
To those who hope for the demonstration of God and religion,¹
To everyone of God's persecuted servants,
Mistreated and hard tried in Mecca's vale,
Namely, that we have found God's country spacious,
Giving security from humiliation, shame and low-repute,
So do not live a life in humiliation.

¹ This seems to be an allusion to the last verse of Sura 14.
Did you drive me out of Mecca's vale where I was safe
And make me live in a loathsome white castle.¹
You feather arrows, whose feathering will not help you;
You sharpen arrows, whose feathers are all for you;
You fight noble strong people
And destroy those from whom you once sought help.
You will know one day, when misfortune attacks you
And strangers betray you, what you have done.

217

Taym b. 'Amr, whom 'Uthmān addresses, was Jumāḥ. His name was Taym.

THE QURAYSH SEND TO ABBYSSINIA TO GET THE EMIGRANTS RETURNED

When Quraysh saw that the prophet's companions were safely ensconced in Abyssinia and had found security there, they decided among themselves to send two determined men of their number to the Negus to get them sent back, so that they could seduce them from their religion and get them out of the home in which they were living in peace. So they sent 'Abdullah b. Abū Rabj'a and 'Amr b. al-Āṣ b. Wā'il. They got together some presents for them to take to the Negus and his generals. When Abū Ṭālib perceived their design he composed the following verse for the Negus to move him to treat them kindly and protect them:

Would that I knew how far-away Ja'far and 'Amr fare, (Th'e bitterest enemies are oft the nearest in blood).
Does the Negus still treat Ja'far and his companions kindly,
Or has the mischief-maker prevented him?
Thou art noble and generous, mayst thou escape calamity;
No refugees are unhappy with thee.
Know that God has increased thy happiness
And all prosperity cleaves to thee.
Thou art a river whose banks overflow with bounty
Which reaches both friend and foe.

Muḥammad b. Muḥammad-al-Zuhri from Abū Bakr b. 'Abdul-Raḥmān b. al-Ḥarīth b. Hishām al-Makhzūmī from Umm Salama d. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughira wife of the apostle said, 'When we reached Abyssinia the Negus gave us a kind reception. We safely practised our religion, and we worshipped God, and suffered no wrong in word or deed. When the Quraysh got to know of that, they decided to send two determined men to the Negus and to give him presents of the choicest wares of Mecca. Leatherwork was especially prized there, so they collected a great many skins so that they were able to give some to every one of his generals. They sent 'Abdullah and 'Amr with instructions to give each general his present before they spoke to the Negus about the refugees. Then they were to give their presents to the Negus and ask him to give the men up before he spoke to them. They carried out these instructions to the letter, and said to each of the generals, 'Some foolish fellows from our people have taken refuge in the king's country. They have forsaken our religion and not accepted yours, but have brought in an invented religion which neither we nor you know anything about. Our nobles have sent us to the king to get him to return them, so when we speak to the king about them advise him to surrender them to us and not to speak to them, for their own people have the keenest insight and know most about their faults.' This the generals agreed to do. They took their gifts to the Negus and when he had accepted them, they said to him what they had already said to the generals about the refugees. Now there was nothing which Abū Ṭālib and 'Abdullah disliked more than that the Negus should hear what the Muslims had to say. The generals about his presence said that the men had spoken truly, and their own people best knew the truth about the refugees, and they recommended the king to give them up and return them to their own people. The Negus was enraged and said, 'No, by God, I will not surrender them. No people who have sought my protection, settled in my country, and chosen me rather than others shall be betrayed, until I summon them and ask them about what these two men allege. If they are as they say, I will give them up to them and send them back to their own people; but if what they say is false, I will protect them and see that they receive proper hospitality while under my protection.'

Then he summoned the apostle's companions, and when his messenger came they gathered together, saying one to another, 'What will you say to the man when you come to him?' They said, 'We shall say what we know and what our prophet commanded us, come what may.' When they came into the royal presence they found that the king had summoned his bishops with their sacred books exposed around him. He asked them what was the religion for which they had forsaken their people, without entering into his religion or any other. Ja'far b. Abū Ṭālib answered, 'O King, we were an uncivilized people, worshipping idols, eating corpses, committing abominations, breaking natural ties, treating guests badly, and our strong devotion was weak. Thus we were until God sent us an apostle whose lineage, truth, trustworthiness, and clemency we know. He summoned us to acknowledge God's unity and to worship him and to renounce the stones and images which we and our fathers formerly worshipped. He commanded us to speak the truth, be faithful to our engagements, mindful of the ties of kinship and kindly hospitality, and to refrain from crimes and bloodshed. He forbade us to commit abominations and to speak lies, and to devour the property of orphans, to vilify chaste women. He commanded us to worship God alone and not to associate anything with Him, and he gave us orders about prayer, almsgiving, and fasting (enumerating the commands of Islam). We confessed his truth and believed in him, and we followed him in what he had brought from God, and we worshipped God alone without associating aught with Him. We treated as forbidden what he forbade, and as lawful what he declared lawful. Thereupon our people attacked us, treated us harshly and seduced us from our faith to try to make us go back to the worship of idols instead of the worship of God, and to regard as lawful the evil deeds we once committed. So when they got the better of us, treated us unjustly and circumscribed our lives, and came between us and our religion, we came to your country, having chosen you above all others. Here we have been happy in your protection, and we hope that we shall not be treated unjustly while we are with you, O King.

The Negus asked if they had with them anything which had come from God. When Ja'far said that he had, the Negus commanded him to read it to him, so he read him a passage from (Sūra) KHY'S. The Negus wept until his beard was wet and the bishops wept until their scrolls were wet, when they heard what he read to them. Then the Negus said, 'Of a truth, this and what Jesus brought have come from the same niche. You two may go, for by God, I will never give them up to them and they shall not be betrayed.'

When the two had gone, 'Amr said, 'Tomorrow I will tell him something that will uproot them all.' Abdullah, who was the more godfearing of them in his attitude towards us, said, 'Do not do it, for they are our kindred though they have gone against us.' He said, 'By God, I will tell him that they assert that Jesus, son of Mary, is a creature.' He went to him in the morning and told him that they said a dreadful thing about Jesus, son of Mary, and that he should send for them and ask them about it. He did so. Nothing of the kind had happened to them before, and the people gathered together asking one another what they should say about Jesus when they were asked. They decided that they would say what God had said and what the prophet had brought, come what may. So when they went into the royal presence and the question was put to them, Ja'far answered, 'We say about him that which our prophet brought, saying, he is the slave of God, and his apostle, and his spirit, and his word, which he cast into Mary the blessed virgin.' The Negus took a stick from the ground and said, 'By God, Jesus, son of Mary, does not exceed what you have said by the length of this stick.' His generals round about him snorted when he said this, and he said, 'Though you snort, by God! Go, for you are safe in my country.' (Shuyām means al-aminīna.) Then he repeated three times the words, 'He who curses you will be fined. Not for a mountain of gold would I allow a man of you to be hurt' (199). Give them back their presents, for I have no use for them. God took no bribe from me when He gave me back my kingdom, that I should take a bribe for it, and God did not do what men wanted against me, so why should I do what they want against Him?' So they left his presence, crestfallen, taking away their rejected gifts, while we lived with him comfortably in the best security.

While we were living thus, a rebel arose to snatch his kingdom from him, and I never knew us to be so sad as we were at that, in our anxiety lest this fellow would get the better of the Negus, and that a man would arise who did not know our case as the Negus did. He went out against him, and the Nile lay between the two parties. The apostle's companions called for a man who would go to the battle and bring back news, and al-Zubayr b. al-'Awwām volunteered. Now he was the youngest man we had. We inflated a waterskin and he put it under his chest, and swam across until he reached that point of the Nile where the armies faced one another. Then he went on until he met them. Meanwhile we prayed to God to give the Negus victory over his enemy and to establish him in his own country; and as we were doing so, waiting for what might happen, up came al-Zubayr running, waving his clothes as he said, 'Hurrāh, the Negus has conquered and God has destroyed his enemies and established him in his land.' By God, I never knew us to be so happy before. The Negus came back, God having destroyed his enemy and established him in his country, and the chiefs of the Abyssinians rallied to him. Meanwhile we lived in happiest conditions until we came to the apostle of God in Mecca.

HOW THE NEGUS BECAME KING OF ABYSSINIA

Al-Zuhri said: I told 'Urwā b. al-Zubayr the tradition of Abū Bakr b. 'Abdu'l-Raḥmān from Umm Salama the prophet's wife and he said: 'Do you know what he meant when he said that God took no bribe from me when He gave me back my kingdom that I should take a bribe for it, and God did not do what men wanted against me so why should I do what they want against Him?' When I said that I did not know, he said that 'Āisha told him that the father of the Negus was the king, and the Negus was his only son. The Negus had an uncle who had twelve sons who were of the Abyssinian royal house. The Abyssinians said among themselves, 'It would be a good thing if we were to kill the father of the Negus and make his brother king, because he has no son but this youngster, while his brother has twelve sons, so they can inherit the kingdom after him so that the future of Abyssinia may be permanently secured.' So they attacked the Negus's father and killed him, making his brother king, and such was the state of affairs for a considerable time.

The Negus grew up with his uncle, an intelligent and resolute young man. He attained an ascendancy over his uncle to such a degree that when

---

1 Sūra 59.
2 This is the reading of the Cairo text which unfortunately fails to record the MS. on which (presumably) it is based. W.'s text reads Moses and he does not record a variant.
3 Lit. 'slave'
4 Shuyām in Eth. means 'a high official' (sing.) or S. conjectured. Dār is also an Eth. word. The story evidently comes from someone familiar with the language of Abyssinia.
The Abyssinians perceived how great his influence with the king was, they began to fear lest he might gain the crown, and would then put them all to death because he knew that they were the murderers of his father. Accordingly they went to his uncle and said, 'Either you must kill this young man or you must exile him from among us, for we are in fear of our lives because of him.' He replied, 'You wretches, but yesterday I slew his father, and am I to kill him today? But I will put him out of your country.' So they took him to the market and sold him to a merchant for six hundred dirhams. The latter threw him into a boat and went off with him, but on that very evening the autumn storm clouds massed, and his uncle went out to pray for rain beneath the mass of cloud when he was struck by lightning and killed. The Abyssinians hastened in fear to his sons, and lo! he was a begetter of fools; he had not a son who was any good at all; the situation of the Abyssinians became very unsettled, and when they feared the pressure of events they said to one another, 'Know, by God, that your king, the only one who can put us to rights, is the one you sold this morning, and if you care about your country go after him now.' So they went out in search of him and the man to whom they had sold him, until they overtook him and took the Negus from him. They then brought him home, put the crown on his head, made him sit upon the throne, and proclaimed him king.

The merchant to whom they had sold him came and said, 'Either you give me my money or I shall tell him about this.' They said, 'We will not give you a penny.' He said, 'In that case, by God, I will speak to him.' They said, 'Well, there he is;' so he came and stood before him and said, 'O King, I bought a young slave from people in the market for six hundred dirhams. They gave me my slave and they took my money, yet when I had gone off with my slave they overtook me and seized my slave and kept my money.' The Negus said, 'You must either give him his money back or let the young man place his hand in his, and let him take him where he wishes.' They replied, 'No, but we will give him his money.' For this reason he said the words in question. This was the first thing that was reported about his firmness in his religion and his justice in judgement.

Yazid b. Rümân told me from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from 'Âisha that she said: 'When the Negus died it used to be said that a light was constantly seen over his grave.'

THE ABBYSIANIS REVOLT AGAINST THE NEGUS

Ja'far b. Muhammad told me on the authority of his father that the Abyssinians assembled and said to the Negus, 'You have left our religion' and they revolted against him. So he sent to Ja'far and his companions and prepared ships for them, saying, 'Embark in these and be ready. If I am defeated, go where you please; if I am victorious, then stay where you are.' Then he took paper and wrote, 'He testifies that there is no God but Allah and that Muhammad is His slave and apostle; and he testifies that Jesus, Son of Mary, is His slave, His apostle, His spirit and His word, which He cast into Mary.' Then he put it in his gown near the right shoulder and went out to the Abyssinians, who were drawn up in array to meet him. He said, 'O people, have I not the best claim among you?' 'Certainly,' they said. 'And what do you think of my life among you?' 'Excellent.' 'Then what is your trouble?' 'You have forsaken our religion and assert that Jesus is a slave.' 'Then what do you say about Jesus?' 'We say that he is the Son of God.' The Negus put his hand upon his breast over his gown, (signifying), 'He testifies that Jesus, the Son of Mary, was no more than this.' By this he meant what he had written, but they were content and went away. News of this reached the prophet, and when the Negus died he prayed over him and begged that his sins might be forgiven.

'UMAR ACCEPTS ISLAM

When 'Amr and 'Abdullah came to the Quraysh, not having been able to bring back the prophet's companions and having received a sharp rebuff from the Negus, and when 'Umar became a Muslim, he being a strong, stubborn man whose protectors none dare attack, the prophet's companions were so fortified by him and Hamza that they got the upper hand of Quraysh. 'Abdullah b. Mas'ûd used to say, 'We could not pray at the Ka'ba until 'Umar became a Muslim, and then he fought the Quraysh until he could pray there and we prayed with him.' 'Umar became a Muslim after the prophet's companions had migrated to Abyssinia.

Al-Bakkâ'î said:

Misâr b. Kidâm from Sa'd b. Ibrâhim said that 'Abdullah b. Mas'ûd said: 'Umar's (conversion to) Islam was a victory; his migration to Medina was a help; and his government was a divine mercy. We could not pray at the Ka'ba until he became a Muslim, and when he did so he fought the Quraysh until he could pray there and we joined him.'

'Abdul-Rahmân b. al-Hârith b. 'Abdullah b. 'Ayyâsh b. Abû Rabî'â from Abdul-‘Azîz b. 'Abdullah b. 'Amîr b. Rabî'â from his mother Umm 'Abdullah d. Abû Ḥâlîma who said: 'We were on the point of setting out for Abyssinia, and 'Amîr had gone out for something we needed, when 'Umar came and stopped beside me, he being a polytheist at the time, and we were receiving harsh treatment and affliction from him. He said, 'So you are off, O mother of 'Abdullah.' 'Yes,' I said, 'we are going to God's country. You have violently ill-treated us until God has given us a way out.' He said, 'God be with you,' and I saw in him a compassion which I had never seen before. Then he went away, and I could see plainly that our departure pained him; and when 'Amîr came back with the thing' 1

1 This indicates the recension of I.I. which I.H. used. Other MSS. read 'Ibn Hishâm said'.
he needed I said to him, "Father of 'Abdullah, I wish you had seen 'Umar just now and the compassion and sorrow he showed on our account."

When he asked me if I had hopes of his becoming a Muslim, I replied that I had, to which he answered, "The man you saw will not become a Muslim until al-Khattāb's donkey does." This he said in despair of him because of his harshness and severity against Islam.

The Islam of 'Umar, so I have heard, was on this wise. His sister was Fāṭima d. al-Khattāb, and was married to Sa'īd b. Zayd b. 'Amr b. Nufayl, both of whom had become Muslims and concealed the fact from 'Umar. Now Nu'aym b. 'Abd Allāh al-Nabhām, a man of his tribe from B. 'Adiy b. Ka'b, had become a Muslim and he also concealed the fact out of fear of his people. Khabbāb b. al-Ārāt used often to come to Fāṭima to read the Quran to her. One day 'Umar came out, girt with his sword, making for the apostle, and a number of his companions, who he had been informed had gathered in a house at al-Safā, in all about forty, including women. With the apostle was his uncle Hamza, and Abū Bakr, and 'All, from among the Muslims who stayed with the apostle and had not gone out with those who went to Abyssinia. Nu'aym met him and asked him where he was going. 'I am making for Muhammad, the apostate, who has split up the Quraysh, made mockery of their traditions, insulted their faith and their gods, to kill him.' 'You deceive yourself, 'Umar,' he answered, 'do you suppose that B. 'Abdu Manāf will allow you to continue walking upon the earth when you have killed Muhammad? Had not you better go back to your own family and set their affairs in order?' 'What is the matter with my family?' he said. 'Your brother-in-law, your nephew Sa'īd, and your sister Fāṭima, have both become Muslims and followed Muhammad in his religion, so you had better go and deal with them.' Thereupon 'Umar returned to his sister and brother-in-law at the time when Khabbāb was with them the manuscript of Tā Hā, which he was reading to them. When they heard 'Umar's voice Khabbāb hid in a small room, or in a part of the house, and Fāṭima took the page and put it under her thigh. Now 'Umar had heard the reading of Khabbāb as he came near the house, so when he came in he said, 'What is this balderdash I heard?' 'You have not heard anything,' they answered. 'By God, I have,' he said, 'and I have been told that you have followed Muhammad in his religion;' and he seized his brother-in-law Sa'īd, and his sister Fāṭima rose in defence of her husband, and he hit her and wounded her. When he did that they said to him, 'Yes, we are Muslims, and we believe in God and His apostle, and you can do what you like.' When 'Umar saw the blood on his sister he was sorry for what he had done and turned back and said to his sister, 'Give me this sheet which I heard you reading just now so that I may see just what it is which Muhammad has brought,' for 'Umar could write. When he said that, his sister replied that she was afraid to trust him with it. 'Do not be afraid,' he said, and he swore by his gods that he would return it when he had read it. When he said that, she had hopes that he would become a Muslim, and said to him, 'My brother, you are unclean in your polytheism and only the clean may touch it.' So 'Umar rose and washed himself and she gave him the page in which was Tā Hā, and when he had read the beginning he said, 'How fine and noble is this speech.' When he heard that, Khabbāb emerged and said, 'O 'Umar, by God, I hope that God has singled you out by His prophet's call, for but last night I heard him saying, 'O God, strengthen Islam by Abu'l-Hakam b. Hishām or by 'Umar b. al-Khattāb.' Come to God, come to God, O 'Umar.' At that 'Umar said, 'Lead me to Muhammad so that I may accept Islam.' Khabbāb replied that he was in a house at al-Safā with a number of his companions. So 'Umar took his sword and girt it on, and made for the apostle and his companions, and knocked on the door. When they heard his voice one of the companions got up and looked through a chink in the door, and when he saw him girt with his sword, he went back to the apostle in fear, and said, 'It is 'Umar with his sword on.' Hamza said, 'Let him in; if he has come with peaceful intent, we will treat him well; if he has come with ill intent, we will kill him with his own sword.' The apostle gave the word and he was let in. The apostle rose and met him in the room, seized him round the girdle or by the middle of his cloak, and dragged him along violently, saying, 'What has brought you, son of Khattāb, for by God, I do not think you will cease (your persecution) until God brings calamity upon you.' 'Umar replied, 'O Apostle of God, I have come to you to believe in God and His apostle and what he has brought from God.' The apostle gave thanks to God so loudly that the whole household knew that 'Umar had become a Muslim.

The companions dispersed, having become confident when both 'Umar and Hamza had accepted Islam because they knew that they would protect the apostle, and that they would get justice from their enemies through them. This is the story of the narrators among the people of Medina about 'Umar's Islam.

'Abd Allāh b. Abū Najīh, the Meccan, from his companions 'Aţā' and Mūjahīd, or other narrators, said that 'Umar's conversion, according to what he used to say himself, happened thus: 'I was far from Islam. I was a winebibber in the heathen period, used to love it and rejoice in it. We used to have a meeting-place in al-Hazwara where the houses of the family of 'Umar b. Abū b. 'Imrān al-Makhzūmī. I went out one night, making for my boon companions in that gathering, but when I got there, there was no one present, so I thought it would be a good thing if I went to so-and-so, the wineseller, who was selling wine in Mecca at the time, in the hope that I might get something to drink from him, but I could not find him either, so I thought it would be a good thing if I went round the Ka'ba seven or seventy times. So I came to the mosque meaning to go round the Ka'ba and there was the apostle standing praying. As he prayed he faced Syria, putting the Ka'ba between himself and Syria. His stance was between the black stone and the southern corner. When I saw him I thought it would be a good thing if I could listen to Muhammad so as to hear what he said. If I came near to listen to him I should scare him, so I came from the direction of the hijra and got underneath its coverings and began to walk gently. Meanwhile the prophet was standing in prayer reciting the Quran until I stood in his qibla facing him, there being nothing between us but the covering of the Ka'ba. When I heard the Quran my heart was softened and I wept, and Islam entered into me; but I ceased not to stand in my place until the apostle had finished his prayer. Then he went away. When he went away he used to go past the house of the son of Abü Husayn, which was on his way, so that he crossed the path where the pilgrims ran. Then he went between the house of 'Abbās and Ibn Azhar b. 'Abdu-'Zuhri; then by the house of Al-Akhnās b. Shariq until he entered his own house. His dwelling was in al-Dār al-Raqṭā, which was in the hands of Mu'āwiya b. Abū Sufyān. I continued to follow him, until when he got between the house of 'Abbās and Ibn Azhar I overtook him, and when he heard my voice he recognized me and supposed that I had followed him only to ill-treat him, so he repelled me, saying, "What has brought you at this hour?" I replied that I had come to believe in God and His apostle and what he had brought from God. He gave thanks to God and said, "God has guided you." Then he rubbed my breast and prayed that I might be steadfast. Afterwards I left him. He went into his house." But God knows what the truth was.

Nafi' freedman of 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar on the authority of Ibn 'Umar said: When my father 'Umar became a Muslim he said, 'Which of the Quraysh is best at spreading reports?' and was told that it was Jamīl b. Ma'mar al-Jumāji. So he went to him, and I followed after to see what he was doing, although I was very young at the time I understood everything I saw. He went to Jamīl and asked him if he knew that he had become a Muslim and entered into Muhammad's religion; and, by God, hardly had he spoken to him when he got up dragging his cloak on the ground as 'Umar followed him and I followed my father, until he stood by the door of the mosque and cried at the top of his voice while the Quraysh were in their meeting-places round the Ka'ba, "Umar has apostatized," while 'Umar behind him shouted, "He is a liar; but I have become a Muslim and I testify that there is no God but Allah and Muhammad is His servant and apostle." They got up to attack him and fighting went on between them until the sun stood over their heads, and he became weary and sat down while they stood over him, as he said, "Do as you will, for I swear by God that if we were three hundred men we would have fought it out on equal terms." At this point a shaykhl of the Quraysh, in a Yamānī robe and an embroidered shirt, came up and stopped and inquired what was the matter. When he was told that 'Umar had apostatized he said, "Why should not a man choose a religion for himself, and what are you trying to do? Do you think that B. 'Adiy will surrender their companion to you thus? Let the man alone." By God, it was as though they were a garment stripped off him. After my father had migrated to Medina I asked him who the man was who drove away the people on the day he became a Muslim while they were fighting him, and he said, "That, my son, was al-'Ās b. Wā'il al-Sahmī (202)."

Abū'l-Rahmān b. al-Ḥarith from one of 'Umar's clans or one of his family said that 'Umar said, "When I became a Muslim that night I thought of the man who was the most violent in enmity against the apostle so that I might come and tell him that I had became a Muslim, and Abū Jahl came to my mind." Now 'Umar's mother was Ḥantama d. Ḥishām b. al-Mughirā. So in the morning I knocked on his door, and he came out and said, "The best of welcomes, nephew, what has brought you?" I answered that I had come to tell him that I believed in God and His apostle Muhammad and regarded as true what he had brought. He slammed the door in my face and said, "God damn you, and damn what you have brought."

THE DOCUMENT PROCLAIMING A BOYCOTT

When Quraysh perceived that the apostle's companions had settled in a land in peace and safety, and that the Negus had protected those who sought refuge with him, and that 'Umar had become a Muslim and that both he and Ḥamza were on the side of the apostle and his companions, and that Islam had begun to spread among the tribes, they came together and decided among themselves to write a document in which they should put a boycott on B. Ḥashīm and B. Muṭṭala b. Ḥāji al-Ṭalib that they should not marry their women nor give women to them to marry; and that they should not buy from them nor sell to them, and when they agreed on that they wrote it in a deed. Then they solemnly agreed on the points and hung the deed up in the middle of the Ka'ba to remind them of their obligations. The writer of the deed was Mansūr b. Ḥakīma, ʿAbdu Manāf b. Abūl-Dār b. Quṣayy (203) and the apostle invoked God against him and some of his fingers withered.

When Quraysh did that, the two clans of B. Ḥāšīm and B. al-Ṭalīb went to Abū Tālib and entered with him into his alley and joined him. Abū Lahab 'Abdu'l-ʿUzzā went out from B. Ḥāšīm and helped Quraysh. ʿUmar b. 'Abdullāh told me that Abū Lahab met Hind d. ʿUtbah when he had left his people and joined Quraysh against them, and he said, "Haven't I helped al-ʿUbt and al-ʿUzzā and haven't I abandoned those who have abandoned them and assisted their opponents?" She said, "Yes, and may God reward you well, ʿAbū Ṭubba."

And I was told that among the things that he said were, "Muḥammad promises me things which I do not see. He alleges that they will happen after my death; what has he put in my hands after that?" Then he blew on his hands and said, "May you perish. I can see nothing in you of the things which Muḥammad says."
The Life of Muhammad

160

The Life of Muhammad

So God revealed concerning him the words, 'Abū Lahab and his hands God blast (202).'

When Quraysh had agreed on this and had done what has just been described, Abū Ṭālib said:

Tell Luʿayy, especially Luʿayy of the Banū Kaʿb,
News of our condition.
Did you not know that we have found Muhammad,
A prophet like Moses described in the oldest books,
And that love is bestowed on him (alone) of mankind
And that none is better than he whom God has singled out in love,
And that the writing you have fixed
Will be a calamity like the cry of the hamstrung camel?²
Awake, awake before the grave is dug
And the blameless and the guilty are as one.
Follow not the slanderers, nor sever
The bonds of love and kinship between us.
Do not provoke a long-drawn-out war,
Often he who brings on war tastes its bitterness.
By the Lord of the temple we will not give up Aḥmad,
To harsh misfortunes and times' troubles,
Before hands and necks, yours and ours,
Are cut by the gleaming blades of Qusās³
In a close-hemmed battlefield where you see broken spears
And black-headed vultures circling round like a thirsty crowd.
The galloping of the horses about the scene
And the shout of warriors are like a raging battle.
Did not our father Ḥāshim gird up his loins
And teach his sons the sword and spear?
We do not tire of war until it tires of us;
We do not complain of misfortune when it comes.
We keep our heads and our valour
When the bravest lose heart in terror.

They remained thus for two or three years until they were exhausted, nothing reaching them except what came from their friends unknown to Quraysh.

Abū Jahl, so they say, met Ḥakīm b. Ḥizām b. Khwayyād b. Asad with whom was a slave carrying flour intended for his aunt Khadīja, the prophet's wife, who was with him in the alley. He hung on to him and said, 'Are you taking food to the B. Ḥāshim? By God, before you and your food move from here I will denounce you in Mecca.' Abūl-Bakhrā came to him and said, 'What is going on between you two?' When he said that Ḥakīm was taking food to the B. Ḥāshim, he said: 'It is food he has which belongs to his aunt and she has sent to him about it. Are you trying to prevent him taking her own food to her? Let the man go his way!' Abū Jahl refused until they came to blows, and Abūl-Bakhtārī took a camel's jaw and knocked him down, wounded him, and trod on him violently, while Ḥamza was looking on near by. They did not wish the apostle and his companions to hear this news and rejoice over their discomfiture. Meanwhile the apostle was exhorting his people night and day, secretly and publicly, openly proclaiming God's command without fear of anyone.

THE ILL-TREATMENT THE APOSTLE RECEIVED FROM HIS PEOPLE

His uncle and the rest of B. Ḥāshim gathered round him and protected him from the attacks of the Quraysh, who, when they saw that they could not get at him, mocked and laughed at him and disputed with him. The Quran began to come down concerning the wickedness of Quraysh and those who showed enmity to him, some by name and some only referred to in general. Of those named are his uncle Abū Lahab and his wife Umm Jamīl, 'the bearer of the wood'. God called her this because she, so I am told, carried thorns and cast them in the apostle's way where he would be passing. So God sent down concerning the pair of them:

Abū Lahab and his hands, God blast,
His wealth and gains useless at the last,
He shall roast in flames, held fast,
With his wife, the bearer of the wood, aghast,
On her neck a rope of palm-fibre cast. (203)¹

I was told that Umm Jamīl, the bearer of the wood, when she heard what had come down about her and about her husband in the Quran, came to the apostle of God, when he was sitting in the mosque by the Kaʿba with Abū Bakr, with a stone pestle in her hand, and when she stood by the pair of them God made her unable to see the apostle so that she saw only Abū Bakr and asked him where his companion was, 'for I have been told that he is satirizing me,' and by God, if I had found him I would have smashed his mouth with this stone. By God, I am a poet.' Then she said:

We reject the reprobate,
His words we repudiate,
His religion we loathe and hate.³

¹ Sūra 111. The rhyme of the original has been imitated.
² i.e. composed a Ḥijāba, which in early times had the effect of a spell which could bring the fate it described on its victims. See my Prophecy and Destruction, pp. 248 f., 258 ff., 281 ff. Umm Jamīl's object in trying to smash Muhammad's mouth was to destroy his organs of speech so that he could no longer utter magical curses.
³ This is a rough attempt to render the rough rhyme of the original, which consists of seven syllables, by a strange coincidence similar to the taunt song of children:
I'm the king of the castle,
Get out you dirty rascal.

232

233
The Life of Muhammad

234 Then she went off and Abū Bakr asked the apostle if he thought she had seen him. He replied that she had not because God had taken her sight away from him (204).

The Quraysh had called the apostle Mudhammam to revile him. He used to say, 'Aren't you surprised at the injuries of the Quraysh which God turns away from me? They curse me and satirize Mudhammam [reprobate] whereas I am Muḥammad [the laudable].'

[Another referred to in the Quran] is Umayya b. Khalaf b. Wahb b. Hudhafā' b. Jumāh. Whenever he saw the apostle he slandered and reviled him, so God sent down concerning him, 'Woe to every slandering backbiter, who has gathered wealth and increased it, and thinks that his wealth will make him immortal. No, he will be thrown to the devouring fire. What will make you realize what that is? It is God's fire kindled which mounts over the hearts. It is shut in on them in wide columns (205).'

Khabbab b. al-Aratt, the prophet's companion, was a smith in Mecca who used to make swords. He sold some to al-ʿAqā b. Wālī so that he owed him some money and he came to him to demand payment. He answered, 'Does not Muḥammad, your companion whose religion you follow, allege that in Paradise there is all the gold and silver and clothes and servants that his people can desire?' 'Certainly,' said Khabbab. 'Then give me till the day of resurrection until I return to that house and pay your debt there; for by God, you and your companion will be no more influential with God than I, and have no greater share in it.' So God revealed concerning him, 'Have you considered him who disbelieves Our signs and says, I shall be given wealth and children. Hath he studied the unseen?' so far as the words, 'and we shall inherit from him what he speaks of and he will come to us alone.'

Abū Jahl met the apostle, so I have heard, and said to him, 'By God, Muḥammad, you will either stop cursing our gods or we will curse the God you serve.' So God revealed concerning that, 'Curse not those to whom they pray other than God lest they curse God wrongfully through lack of knowledge.' I have been told that the apostle refrained from cursing their gods, and began to call them to Allah.

Al-Nadr b. al-Ḥārith b. ʿAlqama b. Kalada b. ʿAbd Manāf whenever the apostle sat in an assembly and invited people to God, and recited the Quran, and warned the Quraysh of what had happened to former peoples, followed him when he got up and spoke to them about Rustum the Hero and Isfandiyār and the kings of Persia, saying, 'By God, Muḥammad cannot tell a better story than I and his talk is only of old fables which he has copied as I have.' So God revealed concerning him, 'And they say, Stories of the ancients which he has copied down, and they are read to him morning and night. Say, He who knows the secrets of heaven and earth has sent it down. Verily, He is merciful, forgiving.'

And there came down concerning him, 'When Our verses are read to him he says, fables of the ancients.'

And again, 'Woe to every sinful liar who hears God's verses read before him. Then he continues in pride as though he had not heard them, as though in his ears was deafness. Tell him about a painful punishment' (206).

The apostle sat one day, so I have heard, with al-Walid b. al-Mughīra in the mosque, and al-Nadr b. al-Ḥārith came and sat with them in the assembly where some of Quraysh were. When the apostle spoke al-Nadr interrupted him, and the apostle spoke to him until he silenced him. Then he read to him and to the others: 'Verily ye and what ye serve other than God is the fuel of hell. You will come to it. If these had been gods they would not have come to it, but all will be in it everlastingly. There is wailing and there they will not hear' (207).

Then the apostle rose and 'Abdullah b. al-Zibāʿr al-Sahmī came and sat down. Al-Walid said to him: 'By God al-Nadr could not stand up to the (grand)son of 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib just now and Muḥammad alleged that we and our gods are fuel for hell.' 'Abdullah said: 'If I had found him I would have refuted him. Ask Muḥammad, 'Is everything which is worshipped besides God in Gehenna with those who worship it?' We worship the angels; the Jews worship 'Uzayr; and the Christians worship Jesus Son of Mary.' Al-Walid and those with him in the assembly marvelled at 'Abdullah's words and thought that he had argued convincingly. When the apostle was told of this he said: 'Everyone who wishes to be worshipped to the exclusion of God will be with those who worship him. They worship only satans and those they have ordered to be worshipped.' So God revealed concerning that: 'Those who have received kindness from us in the past will be removed far from it and will not hear its sound and they abide eternally in their heart's desire,' i.e. Jesus Son of Mary and 'Uzayr and those rabbis and monks who have lived in obedience to God, whom the erring people worship as lords beside God. And He revealed concerning their assertion that they worship angels and that they are the daughters of God, 'And they say the Merciful has chosen a son, (exalted be He above this); nay, they are but honoured slaves, they do not speak before He speaks, and they carry out His commands', as far as the words, 'and he of them who says, I am God as well as He, that one we shall repay with Gehenna. Thus do they repay the sinful ones.'

And He revealed concerning what he mentioned about Jesus, Son of Mary, that he was worshipped beside God, and the astonishment of al-Walid and those who were present, at his argument and disputation, 'And
"On the day that the sinner bites his hands, saying, would that I had chosen a path with the apostle,' as far as the words 'a deserter of men'.

Ubayy took to the apostle an old bone, crumbling to pieces, and said, 'Muhammad, do you allege that God can revivify this after it has decayed?'

Then he crumbled it in his hand and blew the pieces in the apostle's face. The apostle answered: 'Yes, I do say that. God will raise it and you, after you have become like this. Then God will send you to Hell.'

So God revealed concerning him, 'He gave us a parable, and he forgot that he was created, saying, who will revivify bones which are rotten? Say, He who gave them life in the first instance will revivify them. He who knows about all creation, who has made for you fire from the green wood, and to you, kindle flame from it.'

There met the apostle, as he was going round the Ka'ba, so I have been told, Al-Awsad b. al-Mu'talib b. Asad b. 'Abdul-`Uzza and al-Walid b. al-Mughira and Umuya b. Khalaf and al-'As b. Wa'll al-Sahmi, men of reputation among their people. They said: 'Muhammad, come let us worship what you worship, and you worship what we worship. You and we will combine in the matter. If what you worship is better than what we worship we will take a share of it, and if what we worship is better than what you worship, you can take a share of that.'

So God revealed concerning them, 'Say, O disbelievers, I do not worship what you worship, and you do not worship what I worship, and I do not worship what you worship, and you do not worship what I worship; you have your religion and I have mine,' i.e. If you will only worship God on condition that I worship what you worship, I have no need of you at all. You can have your religion, all of it, and I have mine.

(T.) Now the apostle was anxious for the welfare of his people, wishing T. 119a to attract them as far as he could. It has been mentioned that he longed for a way to attract them, and the method he adopted is what Ibn Hamid told me that Salama said M. b. Ishaq told him from Yazid b. Ziyad of Medina from M. b. Ka'b al-Qurayjat: When the apostle saw that his people turned their backs on him and he was pained by their estrangement from what he brought them from God he longed that there should come to him from God a message that would reconcile his people to him. Because of his love for his people and his anxiety over them it would delight him if the obstacle that made his task so difficult could be removed; so that he mediated on the project and longed for it and was dear to him. Then God sent down 'By the star when it sets your comrade errs not and is not deceived, he speaks not from his own desire, and when he reached His words 'Have you thought of al-Lat and al-'Uzza and Manat the third, the other', Satan, when he was meditating upon it, and desiring to bring it

1 Sura 3. 57.
2 A difficult phrase. Sudda with the preposition min means 'to laugh immoderately or to make a loud noise'. With 'an it means 'to turn away from'. But these two prepositions are often interchangeable. Ibn Islaq's explanation of the passage is that the fact that Christians pray to Jesus is no justification for the polytheism of the Meccans, as the latter argued, for Christians perverted the message Jesus brought. When Jesus is adduced as an example (of one who called an evil people to God) the Meccans rejected Muhammad's attitude towards him in what they said; but this exegesis is not sound. The Sura is perfectly consistent in showing how prophets were sent to erring peoples and were laughed at. Cf. v. 47: The Meccans laugh when Jesus is mentioned because his worship would seem to justify their worshiping several gods. The citation which follows shows where in Muhammad's opinion they were wrong. I. I. has adopted the reading yaquddina (so Na', 1. 'Amir, and al-Kisai') instead of the commoner yaqiddina.
3 Sura 43. 30.
4 Sura 43. 30.
5 Sura 35. 20.
6 Sura 36. 78.
7 Ta. 1191. 12 gives the authorities for this tradition as I. I. from Sa'id b. Mink, a freedman of Abul-Bakhtari. There are a few verbal discrepancies: the Meccans say, 'If what you have brought is better than what we have... and if what we have is better than what you have,' &c.
8 Sura 109.
9 Sura 53. 1-20.
(ac. reconciliation) to his people, put upon his tongue 'these are the exalted Gharānīq whose intercession is approved.' When Quraysh heard that, they were delighted and greatly pleased at the way in which he spoke of their gods and they listened to him; while the believers were holding that what their prophet brought them from their Lord was true, not suspecting a mistake or a vain desire or a slip, and when he reached the prostration and the end of the Sūra in which he prostrated himself the Muslims prostrated themselves when their prophet prostrated confirming what he brought and obeying his command, and the polytheists of Quraysh and others who were in the mosque prostrated when they heard the mention of their gods, so that everyone in the mosque believer and unbeliever prostrated, except al-Walid b. al-Mughira who was an old man who could not do so, so he took a handful of dirt from the valley and bent over it. Then the people dispersed and Quraysh went out, delighted at what had been said about their gods, saying, 'Muhammad has spoken of our gods in splendid fashion. He alleged in what he read that they are the exalted Gharānīq whose intercession is approved.'

The news reached the prophet's companions who were in Abyssinia, it being reported that Quraysh had accepted Islam, so some men started to return while others remained behind. Then Gabriel came to the apostle and said, 'What have you done, Muhammad? You have read to these people something I did not bring you from God and you have said what He did not say to you. The apostle was bitterly grieved and was greatly in fear of God. So God sent down (a revelation), for He was merciful to him, comforting him and making light of the affair and telling him that every prophet and apostle before him desired as he desired and wanted what he wanted and Satan interjected something into his desires as he had on his tongue. So God annulled what Satan had suggested and God established His verses i.e. you are just like the prophets and apostles. Then God sent down: 'We have not sent a prophet or apostle before you but when he longed Satan cast suggestions into his longing. But God will annul what Satan has suggested. Then God will establish his verses, God being merciful to whomever He pleases and accepts',5 i.e. how can the intercession of their gods avail with Him? When the annulment of what Satan had put upon the prophet's tongue came from God, Quraysh said: 'Muhammad has repented of what he said about the position of your gods with Allah, altered it and brought something else.' Now those two words which Satan had put upon the apostle's tongue were in the mouth of every polytheist and they became more violently hostile to the Muslims and the apostle's followers. Meanwhile those of his companions who had left Abyssinia when they heard that the people of Mecca had accepted Islam when they prostrated themselves with the apostle, heard when they approached Mecca that the report was false and none came into the town without the promise of protection or secretly. Of those who did come into Mecca and stayed there until he migrated to Medina and were present at Badr with him was 'Uthmān b. 'Affān ... with his wife Ruqayya d. of the apostle and Abū Ḥudhayfa b. 'Utba with his wife Suhayla d. of Suhayl, and a number of others, in all thirty-three men.'

Abū Jahl b. Ḥashām, when God mentioned the tree of al-Zaqqūm to strike terror into them, said: 'O Quraysh, do you know what the tree of al-Zaqqūm with which Muhammad would scare you is?' When they said that they did not he said: 'It is Yathrib dates buttered. By Allah, if we get hold of them we will gulp them down in one!' So God sent down concerning him, 'Verily the tree of al-Zaqqūm is the food of the sinner like molten brass seething in their bellies like boiling water,'2 i.e. it is not as he said (208). God revealed concerning it, 'And the tree which is cursed in the Quran; and We will frighten them, but it increases them in naught save great wickedness.'3

Al-Walid was having a long conversation with the apostle who greatly desired to convert him to Islam when I. Umān Makūm, a blind man, passed by and began to ask the apostle to recite the Quran. The prophet found this hard to bear and it annoyed him, because he was diverting him from al-Walid and spoiling the chance of his conversion; and when the man became importunate he went off frowning and left him. So God revealed concerning him, 'He frowned and turned his back when the blind man came to him' as far as the words 'in books honoured, exalted, and purified',4 i.e. I sent you only to be an evangelist and a reprover; I did not specify one person to the exclusion of another, so withhold not (the message) from him who seeks it, and do not waste time over one who does not want it (209).

THE RETURN OF THOSE WHO HAD FLED TO ABYSSINIA

The apostle's companions who had gone to Abyssinia heard that the Meccans had accepted Islam and they set out for the homeland. But when they got near Mecca they learned that the report was false, so that they

---

1 The word is said to mean 'Numidian cranes' which fly at a great height.
2 Another reading is tariqā 'to be hoped for'.
3 Mentioned in the last verse of the Sūra.
4 Sūra 22. 51. The following verse is not without relevance in this context: 'that He may make what Satan suggested a temptation to those whose hearts are diseased and hardened'.
5 Sūra 53. 19-27.

1 A parallel tradition from M. b. Ka'b al-Quraṣī and M. b. Qays is given by T. 1795-6.
2 Sūra 44. 43. Subaylī, p. 238, has an interesting note to the effect that this word is of Yamani origin, and that there it means anything which causes vomiting.
3 Sūra 17. 62.
4 Sūra 80.
entered the town under the protection of a citizen or by stealth. Some of those who returned to him stayed in Mecca until they migrated to Medina and were present at Badr and Uţbud with the apostle; others were shut away from the prophet until Badr and other events were passed; and others died in Mecca. They were:

From B. Naufal b. `Abdû Manâf: `Utb b. Ḥazwân, an ally of theirs from Qays b. `Aylân.

From B. `Abdu'l-Dar b. Quṣayy: Muṣ`ab b. `Umayr b. Ḥâšîm b. `Abdu Manâf; and Suwaybîth b. Sa`d b. Ḥarmala.

From B. Makhrûm b. Yaqa`a: Abû Salama b. `Abdu'il-Asad b. Ḥilîl b. `Abduh b. Amr with his wife Umn Salama d. Abû Umayya b. al-Mughîra; and Shâmmas b. `Uthmân b. al-Șarîd b. Suwayd b. Ḥarnîy b. `Amr; and Salama b. Ḥishâm b. al-Mughîra whom his uncle imprisoned in Mecca so that he did not get to Medina until after Badr and Uţbud and the Trench; `Ayyâsh b. Abû Rabî`a b. al-Mughîra. He migrated to Medina with the prophet, and his two brothers on his mother's side followed him and brought him back to Mecca and held him there until the three battles were over. Their names were Abû Jalîl and Al-Ĥâriîth, sons of Ḥishâm. Of their allies Ammâr b. Yâsîr, though it is doubted whether he went to Abyssinia or not; and Mu`âttlîb b. `Af b. `Amr b. Ḥuzza`a.

From B. Sahm b. Armar b. Huṣayya b. Ka`b: Khunaysa b. Ḥudhâfa b. Qays b. `Adî; and Ḥishâm b. al-`Aţ b. Wâl who was imprisoned in Mecca after the apostle migrated to Medina until he turned up after the three battles above mentioned.

From B. `Adî b. Ka`b: `Amir b. Rabî`a; one of their allies, with his wife Laylâ d. Abû Ḥathma b. Ḥudhâfa b. Ḥânim.

From B. `Amr b. Lu`ayy: `Abdallah b. Makhrâma b. `Abdu'l-`Uzza b. Abû Qays; `Abdallah b. Suhayl b. `Amr. He was held back from the apostle of God when he emigrated to Medina until when the battle of Badr was joined he deserted the polytheists and joined the battle on the side of the apostle. Abû Sâhra b. Abû Ruhm b. `Abdu'l-`Uzza with his wife Umn Khalîm d. Suhayl b. `Amr; Sakrân b. `Amr b. `Abdu Shams with his wife Sauda d. Zama`a b. Qays. He died in Mecca before the apostle emigrated and the apostle married his widow Sauda. Lastly Sa`d d. Khuala, one of their allies.

From B. I-Ĥâriîth b. Fihr: Abû `Ubayya b. al-Jarrâh whose name was `Amir b. `Abdallah; `Amr b. al-Ĥâriîth b. Zuhayr b. Abû Shaddâd; Suhayl b. Baydâ who was the son of Wahh b. Rabî`a b. Ḥilîl; and `Amr b. Abû Sarâ b. Rabî`a and Hîlîl.

The total number of his companions who came to Mecca from Abyssinia was thirty-three men. The names given to us of those who entered under promise of protection are `Uthmân b. Maq`ûn protected by al-Walîd b. al-Mughîra; Abû Salama under the protection of Abû Talîb who was his uncle, Abû Salama's mother being Barra d. `Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib.

`Uthmân b. Maq`ûn renounces al-Walîd's protection

Sa`lîb b. Ibrâhîm b. `Abdu'l-`Râhîm b. `Af told me from one who had got it from `Uthmân saying: When `Uthmân b. Maq`ûn, saw the misery in which the apostle's companions were living while he lived night and day under al-Walîd's protection he said, 'It is more than I can bear that I should be perfectly safe under the protection of a polytheist while my friends and co-religionists are afflicted and distressed for God's sake.' So he went to al-Walîd and renounced his protection. 'Why, nephew,' he asked, 'Can it be that one of my people has injured you?' 'No,' he answered, 'but I want to be under God's protection: I don't want to ask for anyone else's.' Al-Walîd asked him to come to the mosque and renounced his protection publicly as he had given it publicly. When they got there al-Walîd said: "`Uthmân here has come to renounce my protection.' 'True,' said the latter, 'I have found him loyal and honourable in his protection, but I don't want to ask anyone but God for protection; so I give him back his promise.' So saying he went away.

On another occasion when Labîd b. Rabî`a b. Malik b. Ja`far b. Kilâb was in an assembly of the Quraysh when `Uthmân was present he recited a verse:

``Everything but God is vain,郊

Truel interjected 'Uthmân; but when he went on:

``And everything lovely must inevitably cease,郊

`Uthmân cried, 'You lie! The joy of Paradise will never cease.' Labîd said: 'O men of Quraysh your friends never used to be annoyed thus. Since when has this sort of thing happened among you?' One of the audience answered: 'This is one of those louts with Muhammad. They have abandoned our religion. Take no notice of what he says.' `Uthmân objected so energetically that the matter became serious. Whereupon that man rose to his feet and hit him in the eye so that it became black. Now al-Walîd was hard by watching what happened to 'Uthmān and he said: ‘O nephew, your eye need not have suffered this had you remained in sure protection.’

‘Uthmān answered: ‘Nay by God my good eye needs what happened to its fellow for God’s sake, and I am under the protection of One who is stronger and more powerful than you, O Abū ‘Abduh Shame.’ Al-Walid only said, ‘Come, nephew, my protection is always open to you,’ but he declined it.

HOW ABŪ SALAMA FARED WITH HIS PROTECTOR

My father Isāq b. Yasār on the authority of Salama b. 'Abdullah b. 'Umar b. Abū Salama told me that he told him that when Abū Salama had asked Abū Talib’s protection some of the B. Makhzūm went to him and said: ‘You have protected your nephew Muhammad from us, but why are you protecting our tribesman?’ He answered: ‘He asked my protection and he is my sister’s son. If I did not protect my sister’s son I could not protect my brother’s son.’ Thereupon Abū Lahab rose and said: ‘O Quraysh, you have continually attacked this shaikh for giving his protection among his own people. By God, you must either stop this or we will stand in with him until he gains his object.’ They said that they would not do anything to annoy him, for he had aided and abetted them against the apostle, and they wanted to keep his support.

Hearing him speak thus Abū Talib hoped that he would support him in protecting the apostle, and composed the following lines urging Abū Lahab to help him:

A man whose uncle is Abū ‘Utayba
Is in a garden where he is free from violence.
I say to him (and how does such a man need my advice?)
O Abū Muṭib stand firm upright.
Never in your life adopt a course
For which you will be blamed when men meet together.
Leave the path of weakness to others,
For you were not born to remain weak.
Fight! For war is fair;
You will never see a warrior humiliated till he surrenders.
How should you when they have done you no great injury
Nor abandoned you in the hour of victory or defeat?
God requite for us ‘Abdu Shams and Naufal and Taym
And Makhzūm for their desertion and wrong
In parting from us after affection and amity
So that they might get unlawful gains.
By God’s House you lie! Never will we abandon Muhammad
Before you see a dust-raising day in the shīb (210)."}

---

1 This is the reading of Abū Dharr which seems to me superior to that of W. and C.
245 Qātim means 'a thick cloud of dust' and implies men on the march. No satisfactory meaning can be given to qātim. Presumably the shīb of Abū Talib, a defile of the mountains where the projecting rocks of Abū Quibays pressed upon the eastern outskirts of the city. It was entered from the town by a narrow alley closed by a low gateway through which a camel could pass with difficulty. On all other sides it was detached by cliffs and buildings.' Muir, 246 The Life of Muhammad, 93 f.
The Life of Muhammad

The annulling of the boycott

The B. Ḥāshim and the B. al-Muṭṭalib were in the quarters which Quraysh had agreed upon in the document they wrote, when a number of Quraysh took steps to annul the boycott against them. None took more trouble in this than Ḥishām b. Ḥaṭmūr. Ḥishām b. ʿAbdu Manāf by his mother and was closely attached to the B. Ḥāshim. He was highly esteemed by his people. I have heard that when these two clans were in their quarter he used to bring a camel laden with food by night and then when he had got it to the mouth of the alley he took off its halter, gave it a whack on the side, and sent it into the alley to them. He would do the same thing another time, bringing clothes for them.

He went to Ṣūḥayr b. ʿAbdū Umāyya b. al-Mughīrā whose mother was Ṭāqīd. ʿAbdūl-Muṭṭalib said: ‘Are you content to eat food and wear clothes and marry women while you know of the condition of your maternal uncles? They cannot buy or sell, marry, nor give in marriage. By God I swear that if they were the uncles of Ṣūḥayr b. ʿAbdu Manāf b. Ḥāshim you asked him to do what he has asked you to do he would never agree to it.’ He said, ‘Confound you, Ḥishām, what can I do? I’m only one man. By God if I had another man to back me I would soon annul it.’ He said, ‘I have found a man. Myself.’ ‘Find another,’ said he. So Ḥishām went to al-Muṭṭim b. ʿAdy and said, ‘Are you content that two clans of the B. ʿAbdu Manāf should perish while you look on consenting to follow Quraysh? You will find that they will soon do the same with you.’ He made the same reply as Zuhayr and demanded a fourth man, so Ḥishām went to Abūl-Bakhtar b. Ḥishām who asked for a fifth man, and then to Zamaʾa b. al-ʿAswād b. al-Muṭṭalib b. Ṣaʿṣaʾ and reminded him of their kinship and duties. He asked whether others were willing to co-operate in this task and he gave him the names of the others. They all arranged to meet at night on the nearest point of al-Ḥajjun above Mecca, and there they bound themselves to take up the question of the document until they had secured its annulment. Zuhayr claimed the right to act and speak first. So on the morrow when the people met together Zuhayr clad in a long robe went round the Kaʿba seven times; then he came forward and said: ‘O people of Mecca, are we to eat and clothe ourselves while the B. Ḥāshim perish, unable to buy or sell? By God I will not sit down until this evil boycotting document is torn up!’ Abū Jahl, who was at the side of the mosque, exclaimed, ‘You lie by Allah. It shall not be torn up.’ Zamaʾa said, ‘You are a greater liar; we were not satisfied with the document when it was written’. Abūl-Bakhtar said, ‘Zamaʾa is right. We are not satisfied with what is written and we don’t hold with it.’ Al-Muṭṭim said, ‘You are both right and anyone who says otherwise is a liar. We take Allah to witness that we dissociate ourselves from the whole idea and what is written in the document.’ Ḥishām spoke in the same sense. Abū Jahl said: ‘This is a matter which has been decided overnight. It has been discussed somewhere else.’ Now Abū Ṣuḥayl was sitting at the side of the mosque. When Al-Muṭṭim went up to the document to tear it in pieces he found that worms had already eaten it except the words ‘In Thy name O Allah’. (ᵀ. This was the customary formula with which Quraysh began their writing.) The writer of the deed was Manṣūr b. Ḥikrīma. It is alleged that his hand was shrewd (212).

When the deed was torn up and made of none effect Abū Ṣuḥayl composed the following verses in praise of those who had taken part in the annulment:

Has not our Lord’s doing come to the ears of those Far distant across the sea (for Allah is very kind to men),
Telling them that the deed was torn up
And all that was against God’s wish had been destroyed?
Lies and sorcery were combined in it,
But sorcery never gets the upper hand.
Those not involved in it assembled together for it in a remote place
While its bird of ill omen hovered within its head.
It was such a heinous offence that it would be fitting
That because of it hands and necks should be severed
And that the people of Mecca should go forth and flee,
Their hearts quaking for fear of evil
And the ploughman be left in doubt what to do—
Whether to go down to the lowland or up to the hills—
And an army come up between Mecca’s hills
Equipped with bows, arrows, and spears.
He of Mecca’s citizens whose power rises
(Let him know) that our glory in Mecca’s vale is older.
We grew up there when men were few
And have ever waxed great in honour and reputation.
We feed our guests till they leave a dish untasted
When the hands of the maysur players would begin to tremble.
God reward the people in al-Ḥajjun who swore allegiance!

1 So the commentators, but an unnatural extension of the usual meaning of tabayta’i is involved.
2 Commentators suggest as an alternative rendering ‘those who took it seriously’. Qarqar means ‘flat soft ground’.
3 This seems to be an adaptation of Sura 17, 14. ‘We have fastened every man’s bird of ill omen to his neck.’ Dr. Arafat suggests that the tabayta’i here means ‘ghost’, the bird which emerges from the head of a murdered man, and the meaning would then be that the ghost is fluttering within it before it finally emerges.
4 Reading tabayta’i with C. W. has tabai′āt.
To a chief who leads with decision and wisdom,
Sitting by the near side of al-Hajun as though princes,
Nay they are even more noble and glorious.
Every bold man helped therein
Clad in mail so long that it slowed his stride,
Running to portentous deeds
Like a flame burning in the torchbearer's hands.
The noblest of Lu'ayy b. Ghalib's line
When they were wronged their faces show their anger.
With long cord to his sword half his shank bare.
For his sake the clouds give rain and blessing.
Prince son of prince of princely hospitality
Gathering and urging food on his guests.
Building and preparing safety for the tribesmen
When we walk through the land.
Every blameless man kept this peace.
A great leader, there was he praised.
They accomplished their work in a night
While others slept; in the morning they took their case.
They sent back Sahl b. Baidā' well pleased
And Abū Bakr and Muhammad rejoiced thereat.
When have others joined in our great exploits,
From old have we shown each other affection?
Never have we approved injustice.
We got what we wanted without violence.
O men of Qusayy, won't you consider,
Do you want what will befall you tomorrow?
For you and I are as the words of the saying:
'You have the explanation if you could only speak, O Aswad.'

Mourning al-Mu't'im b. 'Adiy and mentioning his stand in getting the deed annulled, Hassān b. Thabit composed the following:

Weep O eye the people's leader, be generous with thy tears.
If they run dry, then pour out blood.
Mourn the leader of both the pilgrim sites
To whom men owe gratitude so long as they can speak.
If glory could immortalize anyone

1 Or 'daring'.
2 Commentators explain that Aswad is the name of a mountain on which a dead man was found and there was no indication of his murderer. The relatives addressed the mountain in the words just quoted which became a proverb.
3 See Divin de Hassān b. Thabit, ed. Hartwig Hirschfeld (Gibb Memorial Series), London, 1910, 43 f. The version given there is sadly at fault, but the text in line 2 was-rabbahd syntactically, though not metrical, is a mistake for rabbahmi (instead of I.I.'s kila'ahmi) is right: 'weep for the lord and master of the two sanctuaries'. Cf. Agh. xiii, 5, 1. 5 (cited by Lammens, I.'Arabic occidentale', Beirut, 1926, p. 146): 'the hurrying between the two māshārs'. I.H., though he denies that I.I. wrote 'both', fails to quote the right reading.

AL-TUFAYL B. 'AMR AL-DAUSI ACCEPTS ISLAM

In spite of his people's behaviour the apostle was continually giving them good counsel and preaching salvation from their evil state. When God protected him from them they began to warn all new-comers against him.

Al-Tufayl used to say that he came to Mecca when the apostle was there and some of the Quraysh immediately came up to him. (He was a poet of standing and an intelligent man.) They told him that this fellow had done them much harm; had divided their community and broken up its unity; 'in fact he talks like a sorcerer separating a man from his father, his brother, or his wife. We are afraid that he will have the same effect on you and your people, so don't speak to him or listen to a word from him.'

They were so insistent that I decided not to listen to a word or to speak to him and I went so far as to stuff cotton in my ears when I went to the mosque fearing that I might overhear a word or two against my will. When I got to the mosque there was the apostle of God standing at prayer by the Ka'ba, so I stood near him. God had decreed that I should hear some of his speech and I heard a beautiful saying. So I said to myself, 'God bless my soul! Here am I, an intelligent man, a poet, knowing perfectly well the difference between good and evil, so what is to prevent me from listening to what this man is saying? If it is good I shall accept it; if it is bad I shall reject it.'

I stayed until the apostle went to his house and I followed him and entered his house with him. I told him what his people had said and that they had so scared me that I had stuffed cotton in my ears lest I should hear what he was saying. But God had not allowed me to remain deaf and I heard a beautiful saying, 'So explain the matter to me,' I said. The apostle explained Islam to me and recited the Quran to me. By God I never heard anything finer nor anything more just. So I became a Muslim and bore true witness. I said, 'O prophet of God, I am a man of authority among my people and when I go back and call them to Islam, pray to God to give me a sign which will help me when I preach to them.' He said, 'O God give him a sign.'

So I went back to my people and when I came to the pass which would bring me down to the settlement a light like a lamp played between my eyes and I said, 'O God, not in my face! for I fear that they will think that a dire punishment has befallen my face because I have left their religion.' So the light moved and lighted on the top of my whip. The people began to look at that light attached to my whip like a candle while I was coming down from the pass to them.

When I got down my father came to me (he was a very old man) and I said, 'Be off with you, father, for I have nothing to do with you or you with me!' 'But why, my son?' said he. I said, 'I have become a Muslim and follow the religion of Muhammad.' He said, 'All right, my son, then my religion is your religion.' So I said, 'Then go and wash yourself and clean your clothes; then come and I will teach you what I have been taught.' He did so; I explained Islam to him and he became a Muslim.

Then my wife came to me and I said: 'Be off with you, for I have nothing to do with you or you with me'. 'Why?' she said, 'my father and mother be your ransom!' I said, 'Islam has divided us and I follow the religion of Muhammad.' She said, 'Then my religion is your religion.' I said, 'Then go to the himin (temenos?) of Dhul-Kaffayn and cleanse yourself from it.' Now Dhul-Kaffayn was an image belonging to Daus and the himin was the temenos which they had made sacred to him; in it there was a trickle of water from a rivulet from the mountain. She asked me urgently, 'Have you any fear from Dhul-Kaffayn on my account?' 'No,' I said, 'I will go surety for that.' So she went and washed and when she returned he said, 'O God, guide Daus! Go back to your people and preach to them gently.' I continued in the Daus country calling them to Islam until the apostle migrated to Medina and Badr, Ubud, and the Trench were passed. Then I went to the apostle with my converts while he was in Khaybar. I arrived at Medina with seventy or eighty households of Daus, and then we joined the apostle in Khaybar and he gave us an equal share of the booty with the Muslims.

I remained with the apostle until God opened Mecca to him and then I asked him to send me to burn Dhul-Kaffayn,¹ the image of 'Amr b. Humana. As he lit the fire he said:

Not of your servants am I, Dhul-Kaffayn,
Our birth is far more ancient than thine.
To stuff this fire in your heart I pine.

He returned to Medina to the apostle and remained with him until God took him. When the Arabs revolted he sided with the Muslims and fought with them until they disposed of Tulayhah and the whole of Najd. Then he went with the Muslims to the Yamarna with his son 'Amr, and while on the way he saw a vision of which he told his companions asking for an interpretation. 'I saw my head had been shaved and a bird was coming out of my mouth and a woman met me and took me into her womb, and I saw my son seeking me anxiously; then I saw him withheld from me,' They said that they hoped it would prove a good omen, but he went on to say that he himself would provide the interpretation of it. The shaving of his head meant that he would lay it down; the bird which flew from his mouth was his spirit; and the woman who received him into her womb was the earth which would be opened for him and he would be hidden therein; his son's vain search for him meant that he would try to attain what he had attained. He was slain as a martyr in al-Yamarna while his son was severely wounded and recovered later. He was actually killed in the year of the Yarmuk in the time of 'Umar, dying as a martyr (216).

THE AFFAIR OF THE IRĀSHITE WHO SOLD HIS CAMELS TO ABū Jahl

Despite Abū Jahl's hostility, hatred, and violence towards the apostle God humiliated him before him whenever he saw him.

I was told by 'Abdul-Malik b. 'Abdullah b. Abū Sufyān al-Thaqafī who had a good memory: A man from Irāsh (209) brought some camels of his to Mecca and Abū Jahl bought them from him. He kept back the money, so the man came to the assembly of Quraysh when the apostle was sitting at the side of the mosque and said: 'Who among you will help me to get what is due to me from Abūl-Hakam b. Ḥishām? I am a stranger, a wayfarer, and he will not pay his debt.' They said: 'Do you see that man sitting there?' pointing to the apostle. (In fact they were making game of him for they knew quite well of the enmity between him and Abü Jahl.) 'Go to him. He'll help you to your right.'

¹ According to Ibnul-Kalbi, al-Asmām, Cairo, 1924, p. 37, it belonged to a sub-section of Daus, called the B. Munhib.

So the man went and stood over the apostle and said, 'O Servant of God, Abü'l-Hakam b. Hishâm has withheld the money he owes me. I am a stranger, a wayfarer, and I asked these men to tell me of someone who would help me to my right and they pointed to you, so get my money from him, God bless you.' He said, Go to him,' and the apostle got up and went with him. When they saw this, the men said to one of their number, 'Follow him.' The apostle went to his house and knocked on the door, and when he asked who was there he said, 'Muhammad! Come out to me.' He came out to him pale with agitation, and the apostle said, 'Pay this man his due.' 'One moment until I give him his money,' he said, and went indoors and came out again with the amount he owed and paid it to the man. The apostle went away saying, 'Go about your business.'
The Irâshite went back to the gathering and said, 'May God reward him, for he has got me my due.'

Then the man they had sent after them came back and reported what he had seen. 'It was extraordinary,' he said; 'he had hardly knocked on the door when out he came breathless with agitation,' and he related what had been said. Hardly had he done so when Abü Jahl himself came up and they said: 'Whatever has happened, man? We've never seen anything like what you've done.' 'Confound you,' he said; 'By God as soon as he knocked on my door and I heard his voice I was filled with terror. And when I went out to him there was a camel stallion towering above his head.
I've never seen such a head and shoulders and such teeth on a stallion before. By God, if I'd refused to pay up he would have eaten me.'

RUKĀNA AL-MUṬṬALĪB WRESTLES WITH THE APOSTLE

My father Ishâq b. Yâsâr told me saying: Rukāna b. 'Abdu Yazîd b.
Hishâm b. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalîb b. 'Abdu Manâf was the strongest man among Quraysh, and one day he met the apostle in one of the passes of Mecca alone: 'Rukāna,' said he, 'why won't you fear God and accept my preaching?' 'If I knew that what you say is true I would follow you,' he said.
The apostle then asked him if he would recognize that he spoke the truth if he threw him, and when he said Yes they began to wrestle, and when the apostle got a firm grip of him he threw him to the ground, he being unable to offer any effective resistance. 'Do it again, Muhammad,' he said, and he did it again. 'This is extraordinary,' he said, 'can you really throw me?
'I can show you something more wonderful than that if you wish. I will call this tree that you see and it will come to me.' 'Call it,' he said. He called it and it advanced until it stood before the apostle. Then he said, 'Retire to your place,' and it did so.

Then Rukāna went to his people the B. 'Abdu Manâf and told them that their tribesman could compete with any sorcerer in the world, for he had never seen such sorcery in his life, and he went on to tell them of what he had seen and what Muhammad had done.

A DEPUTATION OF CHRISTIANS ACCEPT ISLAM

While the apostle was in Mecca some twenty Christians came to him from Abyssinia when they heard news of him. They found him in the mosque and sat and talked with him, asking him questions, while some Quraysh-ites were in their meeting round the Ka'ba. When they had asked all the questions they wished the apostle invited them to come to God and read the Quran to them. When they heard the Quran their eyes flowed with tears, and they accepted God's call, believed in him, and declared his truth. They recognized in him the things which had been said of him in their scriptures. When they got up to go away Abü Jahl with a number of Quraysh intercepted them, saying, 'Gud, what a wretched band you are! Your people at home sent you to bring them information about the other, and as soon as you sat with him you renounced your religion and believed what he said. We don't know a more asinine band than you,' or words to that effect. They answered: 'Peace be upon you. We will not engage in foolish controversy with you. We have our religion and you have yours. We have not been remiss in seeking what is best.'

It is said that these Christians came from Najrân, but God knows whether that was so. It is also said, and again God knows best, that it was in reference to them that the verses 'Those to whom we brought the book aforetime, they believe in it. And when it is read to them they say We believe in it. Verily it is the truth from our Lord. Verily aforetime we were Muslims,' as far as the words, 'We have our works and you have your works. Peace be upon you; we desire not the ignorant.'

I asked Ibn Shihâb al-Zuhri about those to whom these verses had reference and he told me that he had always heard from the learned that they were sent down concerning the Negus and his companions and also the words of the sūra of The Table from the words 'That is because there are of them presbyters and monks and because they are not proud' up to the words 'So inscribe us with those who bear witness'.

When the apostle used to sit in the mosque with his more insignificant companions such as Khabbâb, 'Amâr, Abû Fukayha, Yasâr, freedman of Safwân b. Umayya b. Muharrith, Sûhayb, and their like, Quraysh used to jeer at them and say to one another, 'These are his companions, as you see. Is it such creatures that God has chosen from among us to give

1 I have endeavoured to reproduce the simple somewhat rough style of the original.
2 Or, 'his call'.
3 Sūra 5. 85.
4 Sūra 28. 53-55.
The Life of Muhammad

guidance and truth? If what Muhammad has brought were a good thing these fellows would not have been the first to get it, and God would not have put them before us.' God revealed concerning them: 'Drive not away those who call upon their Lord night and morning seeking His face. You are in no way responsible for them, and they are in no way responsible for you, so that you should drive them away and become an evildoer. Thus We tempt some by others that they may say, Are these they whom God has favoured among us? Does not God know best about the grateful? And when those who believe in Our signs come to thee say Peace be upon you. Your Lord hath prescribed for Himself mercy that he who doeth evil in ignorance and repenteth afterwards and doeth right (to him) He is forgiving, merciful."

According to my information the apostle used often to sit at al-Marwa at the booth of a young Christian called Jabr, a slave of the B. al-Hadrami, and they used to say 'The one who teaches Muhammad most of what he brings is Jabr, the Christian, slave of the B. al-Hadrami.' Then God revealed in reference to their words 'We well know that they say, "Only a mortal teaches him."' The tongue of him at whom they hint is foreign, and this is a clear Arabic tongue (218)."}

261 THE COMING DOWN OF THE SURA AL-KAUTHAR

I have been told that when the apostle was mentioned Al-'Āṣ b. Wā'il al-Sahmī used to say, 'Let him alone for he is only a childless man with no offspring. If he were to die, his memory would perish and you would have rest from him.' God sent down in reference to that: 'We have given you al-Kauthar,' something which is better for you than the world and all that it holds. Kauthar means 'great'. Labīd b. Rab'a al-Kilābī said:

'We were distressed at the death of the owner of Mālūhū. And at al-Ridā the house of another great man (kauthar) (219).

Ja'far b. 'Amr (220) told me on the authority of 'Abdullah b. Muslim, the brother of Muhammad b. Muslim b. Shihāb al-Zuhri from Anas b. Mālik that the latter said: 'When the apostle was asked what Kauthar was which God had given to him I heard him say it is a river as broad as from San'a to Ayla. Its water pots are in number as the stars of heaven. Birds go down to it with necks like camels. 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb said, 'O apostle of God the birds must be happy!' He answered 'He who eats them will be happier still!'"

1 Sūra 6. 52 f. 2 Nöldeke, Der Islam, v (1914), 163, was of the opinion that this man was an Abyssinian slave, the name Gabrū (Gabre) meaning 'slave of' in Ethiopic. 3 Sūra 16. 105. 4 Sūra 108. 5 Mālūhū is said to be either the name of water belonging to the B. Asad b. Khuzayma, or a village of the B. 'Abdullah b. al-Duwal b. Harīfa in al-Yamāma; or a horse. Cf. Bibl., ed. Yūsūf al-Chāifī, Wien, 1886, p. 78. 6 Ridā is the name of a watering place of the B. al-'Ara{j b. Ka'b.

262 THE COMING DOWN OF 'WHY HAS NOT AN ANGEL BEEN SENT DOWN TO HIM?'

I have heard that the apostle passed by al-Walīd b. al-Mughirā and Umayya b. Khālif and Abū Jahl b. Hīshām and they reviled and mocked him, and this caused him distress. So God sent down to him concerning this: 'Apostles have been mocked before thee, but that which they mocked at hemmed them in.'

263 THE NIGHT JOURNEY AND THE ASCENT TO HEAVEN

Ziyād b. 'Abdullah al-Bakkā'ī from Muhammad b. Ishaq told me the following: Then the apostle was carried by night from the mosque at Mecca to the Masjid al-Aqṣā, which is the temple of Aelia, when Islam had spread in Mecca among the Quraysh and all the tribes. The following account reached me from 'Abdullah b. Mas'ūd and Abū Sa'id al-Khidrī, and 'A'isha the prophet's wife, and Muʿāwiya b. Abū Sufyān, and al-Ḥasan b. Abū'l-Ḥasan al-Bāṣrī, and Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri and Qatādā and other traditionists, and Umm Hāni' d. of Abū Ṭalīb. It is pieced together in the story that follows, each one contributing something of what he was told about what happened when he was taken on the night journey. The matter of the place of the journey and what is said about it is a searching test and a matter of God's power and authority wherein is a lesson for the intelligent; and guidance and mercy and strengthening to those who believe. It was certainly an act of God by which He took him by night in what way He pleased to show him His signs which He willed him to see so that he witnessed His mighty sovereignty and power by which He does what He wills to do.

According to what I have heard 'Abdullah b. Mas'ud used to say: Būrāq, the animal whose every stride carried it as far as its eye could reach on which the prophets before him used to ride was brought to the apostle and he was mounted on it. His companion (Gabriel) went with him to see the wonders between heaven and earth, until he came to Jerusalem's temple. There he found Abraham the friend of God, Moses, and Jesus assembled with a company of the prophets, and he prayed with them. Then he was brought three vessels containing milk, wine, and water respectively. The apostle said: 'I heard a voice saying when these were offered to me: If he takes the water he will be drowned and his people also; if he takes the wine he will go astray and his people also; and if he takes the milk he will be rightly guided and his people also. So I took the vessel containing milk and drank it. Gabriel said to me, You have been rightly guided and so will your people be, Muhammad.'

I was told that al-Hasan said that the apostle said: 'While I was sleeping in the Hījir Gabriel came and stirred me with his foot. I sat up but saw nothing and lay down again. He came a second time and stirred me with his foot. I sat up but saw nothing and lay down again. He came to me the third time and stirred me with his foot. I sat up and he took hold of my arm and I stood beside him and he brought me out to the door of the mosque and there was a white animal, half mule, half donkey, with wings on its sides with which it propelled its feet, putting down each forefoot at the limit of its sight and he mounted me on it. Then he went out with me keeping close to me.

I was told that Qatāda said that he was told that the apostle said: 'When I came up to mount him he shied. Gabriel placed his hand on its mane and I stood beside him and he brought me out to the door of the mosque and there was a white animal, half mule, half donkey, with wings on its sides with which it propelled its feet, putting down each forefoot at the limit of its sight and he mounted me on it. Then he went out with me keeping close to me.'

In his story al-Hasan said: 'The apostle and Gabriel went their way until they arrived at the temple at Jerusalem. There he found Abraham, Moses, and Jesus among a company of the prophets. The apostle acted as their imam in prayer. Then he was brought two vessels, one containing wine and the other milk. The apostle took the milk and drank it. Gabriel said: 'You have been rightly guided to the way of nature and so will your people be, Muhammad. Wine is forbidden you.' Then the apostle returned to Mecca and in the morning he told Quraysh what had happened. Most of them said, 'By God, this is a plain absurdity! A 1 I think that by Kāfa shī’a the author means to leave open the question whether it was an actual physical journey or a nocturnal vision. See below.

2 Fitrā is an elusive word. The meaning here may be 'the true primeval religion.'
3 This indicates that the meaning is not 'Veracious' but 'Testifier to the Truth'.
4 The verb implies grave doubt as to the speaker's veracity.

265 The Life of Muhammad

266 The Life of Muhammad
Moses was a ruddy faced man, tall, thinly fleshed, curly haired with a hooked nose as though he were of the Shanu'a. Jesus, Son of Mary, was a reddish man of medium height with lank hair with many freckles on his face as though he had just come from a bath. One would suppose that his head was dripping with water, though there was no water on it. The man most like him among you is 'Urwa b. Mas'ud al-Thaqafi (221).

The following report has reached me from Umm Hani', d. of Abū Ta'lib, whose name was Hind, concerning the apostle's night journey. She said: 'The apostle went on no night journey except while he was in my house. He slept that night in my house. He prayed the final night prayer, then he slept and we slept. A little before dawn the apostle woke us, and when we had prayed the dawn prayer he said, 'O Umm Hani', I prayed with you the last evening prayer in this valley as you saw. Then I went to Jerusalem and prayed there. Then I have just prayed the morning prayer with you as you see.' He got up to go out and I took hold of his robe and laid bare his belly as though it were a folded Egyptian garment. I said, "O prophet of God, don't talk to the people about it for they will give you the lie and insult you." He said, "By God, I certainly will tell them." I said to a negress, a slave of mine, Follow the apostle and listen to what he says to the people, and what they say to him. He did tell them and they were amazed and asked what proof he had. He replied that he had passed the caravan of so-and-so in such-and-such a valley and the animal he bestrode scared them and a camel bolted, "and I showed them where it was as I was on the way to Syria. I carried on until in Dajānā I passed by a caravan of the Bāni so-and-so. I found the people asleep. They had a jar of water covered with something. I took the covering off and drank the water replacing the cover. The proof of that is that their caravan is this moment coming down from al-Ba'ida' by the pass of al-Tan'im led by a dusky camel loaded with two sacks one black and the other multihued". The people hurried to the pass and the first camel they met was as he had described. They asked the men about the vessel and they told them that they had left it full of water and covered it and that when they woke it was covered but empty. They asked the others too who were in Mecca and they said that it was quite right: they had been scared and a camel had bolted, and they had heard a man calling them to it so that they were able to recover it.

THE ASCENT TO HEAVEN

One whom I have no reason to doubt told me on the authority of Abū Sa'īd al-Khudri: I heard the apostle say, 'After the completion of my 1 185 business in Jerusalem a ladder was brought to me finer than any I have ever seen. It was that to which the dying man looks when death approaches. My companion mounted it with me until we came to one of the gates of heaven called the Gate of the Watchers. An angel called Ismā'il was in charge of it, and under his command were twelve thousand angels each of them having twelve thousand angels under his command.' As he told this story the apostle used to say, 'and none knows the armies of God but He.' When Gabriel brought me in, Ismā'il asked who I was, and when he was told that I was Muhammad he asked if I had been given a mission, 2 and on being assured of this he wished me well.

2

A traditionist who had got it from one who had heard it from the apostle told me that the latter said: 'All the angels who met me when I entered the lowest heaven smiled in welcome and wished me well except one who said the same things but did not smile or show that joyful expression which the others had. And when I asked Gabriel the reason he told me that if he had ever smiled on anyone before or would smile on anyone hereafter he would have smiled on me; but he does not smile because he is Mālik, the Keeper of Hell. I said to Gabriel, he holding the position with regard to God which he has described to you "obeyed there, trustworthy", 3 "Will you not order him to show me hell?" And he said, "Certainly! O Mālik, show Muhammad Hell." Thereupon he removed its covering and the flames blazed high into the air until I thought that they would consume everything. So I asked Gabriel to order him to send them back to their place which he did. I can only compare the effect of their withdrawal to the falling of a shadow, until when the flames retreated whence they had come, Mālik placed their cover on them. 4

In his tradition Abū Sa'īd al-Khudri said that the apostle said: 'When I entered the lowest heaven I saw a man sitting there with the spirits of men passing before him. To one he would speak well and rejoice in him saying: "A good spirit from a good body" and of another he would say "Faugh!" and frown, saying: "An evil spirit from an evil body." In answer to my question Gabriel told me that this was our father Adam reviewing the spirits of his offspring; the spirit of a believer excited his pleasure, and the spirit of an infidel excited his disgust so that he said the words just quoted.

Then I saw men with lips like camels; in their hands were pieces of fire like stones which they used to thrust into their mouths and they would come out of their posteriors. I was told that these were those who sinfully devoured the wealth of orphans.

Then I saw men in the way of the family of Pharaoh, 5 with such bellies as I have never seen; there were passing over them as it were camels

---

1 Sūra 74. 24.
2 Or perhaps simply 'sent for'.
3 Sūra 81. 21.
4 The allusion is to Sūra 40. 49 'Cast the family of Pharaoh into the worst of all punishments'.

---

1 Dimās = demonism and indicates the foreign origin of this legend. Cf. Mūsā b. Uqba, No. 1, in Introduction, p. 34.
2 A mountain in the neighbourhood of Tihāma. According to al-Wāqīḍī it is 25 m. from Mecca.
3 Ba'ida' is a hill near Mecca on the Medina side. Tan'im is on high ground very near Mecca.

---

Sūra 74. 24.
maddened by thirst when they were cast into hell, treading them down, they being unable to move out of the way. These were the usurers.

Then I saw men with good fat meat before them side by side with lean stinking meat, eating of the latter and leaving the former. These are those who forsake the women which God has permitted and go after those he has forbidden.

'Then I saw women hanging by their breasts. These were those who had fathered bastards on their husbands.'

Ja'far b. 'Amr told me from al-Qäsim b. Muhammad that the apostle said: 'Great is God's anger against a woman who brings a bastard into her family. He deprives the true sons of their portion and learns the secrets of the harim.'

To continue the tradition of Sa'id al-Khudrî: 'Then I was taken up to the second heaven and there were the two maternal cousins Jesus, Son of Mary, and John, son of Zakariyah. Then to the third heaven and there was a man whose face was as the moon at the full. This was my brother Joseph, son of Jacob. Then to the fourth heaven and there was a man called Idrîs. "And we have exalted him to a lofty place.' Then to the fifth heaven and there was a man with white hair and a long beard, never have I seen a more handsome man than he. This was the beloved among his people Aaron son of 'Imrân. Then to the sixth heaven, and there was a dark man with a hooked nose like the Shanî'a. This was my brother Moses, son of 'Imrân. Then to the seventh heaven, and there was a man sitting on a throne at the gate of the immortal mansion. Every day seventy thousand angels went in not to come back until the resurrection day. Never have I seen a man more like myself. This was my father Abraham. Then he took me into Paradise and there I saw a damsel with dark red lips and I asked her to whom she belonged, for she pleased me much when I saw her, and she told me "Zayd b. Háritha". The apostle gave Zayd the good news about her.'

From a tradition of 'Abdullah b. Mas'ûd from the prophet there has reached me the following: When Gabriel took him up to each of the heavens and asked permission to enter he had to say whom he had brought and whether he had received a mission and they would say 'God grant what you have been ordered and turn away from the mockery, saying, 'O God, blind him and bereave him of his son!') Of the B. Asad ... was al-Aswad b. al-Muṭṭalib b. Asad Abû Zama'a. (I have heard that the apostle had cursed him for his insults and mockery, saying, 'O God, blind him and bereave him of his son!') Of the B. Zuhra ... was al-Aswad b. 'Abdu Yaghūṭ. Of the B. Makhāzūm ... was al-Walīd b. al-Mughīrā ... Of the B. Sahīm b. 'Amr ... was al-Ăs b. Wālī b. Hishām (222). Of the B. Khuzā'a was al-Hārið b. al-Tuliṭlā b. 'Amr b. al-Hārið b. 'Abd b. 'Amr b. Lu'ayy b. Malākān.

When they persisted in evil and constantly mocked the apostle, God revealed: 'Proclaim what you have been ordered and turn away from the mockery, saying, 'O God, blind him and bereave him of his son!')

The same Yazid told me from 'Urwa (or it may have been from some other traditionist) that Gabriel came to the apostle when the mockers were going round the temple. He stood up and the apostle stood at his side; and as al-Aswad b. al-Muṭṭalib passed, Gabriel threw a green leaf in his face and he became blind. Then al-Aswad b. 'Abdu Yaghūṭ passed and he pointed at his belly which swelled so that he died of dropsy. Next al-Walīd passed by. He pointed at an old scar on the bottom of his ankle (the result of a wound he received some years earlier as he was trailing his gown when he passed by a man of Khuzā'a who was feathering an arrow, and the arrowhead caught in his wrapper and scratched his foot—a mere nothing). But the wound opened again and he died of it. Al-'Ăs passed. He pointed to his instep, and he went off on his ass making for al-Ţā'iff. He tied the animal to a thorny tree and a thorn entered his foot and he died of it. Lastly al-Hārið passed. He pointed at his head. It immediately filled with pus and killed him.

The Story of Abû Uzayhir al-Dawsî

When al-Walīd's death was near he summoned his three sons Hishām, al-Walīd, and Khālid and said: 'My sons, I charge you with three duties; be not remiss in any of them. My blood lies on the Khuza'a: don't let it remain uncompensated. I know that they are innocent of it, but I fear that you may be ill spoken of because of it when I am dead. Thaqif owe me money in interest; see that you get it. Lastly my dowry money is with Abu Uzayhir al-Dausi. Don't let him keep it.' Now Abū Uzayhir had married him to a daughter of his and then withheld her from him and did not let him have access to her up to the day of his death.

When al-Walid died, the B. Makhzūm leaped upon Khuza'a demanding blood-money for al-Walid, saying, 'It was your man's arrow that killed him.' He was one of the B. Ka'b, an ally of the B. 'Abdullâ-Mu'talib b. Ḥâshim. Khuza'a refused their demand and a competition in verse followed and the situation became tense. The man whose arrow had killed al-Walid was one of the B. Ka'b b. 'Amr of Khuza'a, and 'Abdullah b. Abū Umâyya b. al-Mughîra b. 'Abdullah b. 'Amr b. Makhzūm composed the following lines:

I'll wager that you'll soon run away
And leave al-Zahrâ with its yelping foxes.
And that you'll leave the water in the vale of Aṭriqâ
And that you'll ask which Arâk trees are the best.
And those we fight do not get to their feet again.

Al-Zahrâ and al-Arâk were camping-grounds of the B. Ka'b of Khuza'a.

Al-Jaun b. Abū-Jaun, brother of the B. Ka'b b. 'Amir al-Khuza'i, answered him:

By God we will not pay unjust blood-wit for al-Walid
Until you see a day when the stars wax faint;
When your stout ones will be overthrown one after another
Each in death helplessly opening his mouth.
When you eat your bread and your gruel,
Then all of you will weep and wail for al-Walid.

There followed much argument and recrimination until it was apparent that it was prestige that was at stake, so Khuza'a paid some of the blood-money and they relinquished their claim to the rest. When peace had been made al-Jaun said:

Many a man and woman when we made peace
Spoke in surprise of what we paid for al-Walid.
'Did you not swear that you would not pay unjust compensation for al-Walid Until you had seen a day of great misfortune?'

1 Yâq. i. 310.

But we have exchanged war for peace
Now every traveller may go safely where he will.

But al-Jaun did not stop there but went on to boast of the killing of al-Walid, saying that they had brought about his end, all of which was false. As a result al-Walid, his son, and his tribe met what they had been warned against. Al-Jaun said:

Did not al-Mughîra claim that in Mecca
Kâ'b was a great force?
Don't boast, Mughîra, because you see us
True Arabs and by-blows walk its streets.
We and our fathers were born there
As surely as Thabîr stands in its place.
Al-Mughîra said that to learn our state
Or to stir up war between us.
For Walid's blood will not be paid for:
You know that we do not pay for blood we shed.
The auspicious warrior hit him with an arrow
Poisoned, while he was full and out of breath.
He fell full length in Mecca's vale.
'Twas as though a camel fell.
'Twill save me delaying payment for Abû Hishâm with Miserable' little curly haired camels (223).

Then Hishâm b. al-Walid attacked Abû Uzayhir while he was in the market of Dhû'il-Majâz. Now his daughter 'Atika was the wife of Abû Sufyân b. Harb. Abû Uzayhir was a chief among his people and Hishâm killed him for the dowry money belonging to al-Walid which he had retained, in accordance with his father's dying injunction. This happened after the apostle's migration to Medina. Badr was over and many of the leaders of heathen Quraysh had been slain. Yazid b. Abû Sufyân went out and collected the B. 'Abdu Manâf while Abû Sufyân was in Dhû'il-Majâz, and people said Abû Sufyân's honour in the matter of his father-in-law had been violated and he will take vengeance for him. When Abû Sufyân heard of what his son Yazid had done he came down to Mecca as fast as he could. He was a mild but astute man who loved his people exceedingly, and he was afraid that there might be serious trouble among Quraysh because of Abû Uzayhir. So he went straight to his son, who was armed among his people the B. 'Abdu Manâf and the 'scented ones', took his spear out of his hand and hit him hard on the head with it, saying, 'God damn you! Do you wish to cause civil war among Quraysh for the sake of a man from Daus? We will pay them the bloodmoney if they will accept it.' Thus he put an end to the matter.

1 Lit. 'mingled'.
2 khâr is the pl. of khawwâr, 'weak', 'wretched', not 'abounding in milk' as the commentators explain. See Nöldeke, Fünf Mu'allaqât, vii. 44.
Hassān b. Thābit composed the following lines to excite feeling for the murder of Abū Uzayhir and to bring shame on Abū Sufyān for his cowardice and betrayal of trust:

The people on both sides of Dhū'l-Majāz rose one morning,
But Ibn Ḥarb's protégé in Mughammas\(^1\) did not!
The farting donkey did not protect him he was bound to defend.\(^2\)
Hind did not avert her father's shame.
Hishām b. al-Walid covered you with his garments,
Wear them out and mend new ones like them later.
He got what he wanted from him and became famous,
But you were utterly useless.
If the shyakhs at Badr had been present
The people's sandals would have been red with blood newly shed.

When he heard of this satire Abū Sufyān said: 'Hassān wants us to fight one another for the sake of a man from Daus. By God, what a poor idea!'\(^3\)

Khālid b. al-Walid when the people of Ṭā'īf became Muslims spoke to the apostle about his father's interest which Thaqīf owed him, and a traditionist told me that those verses which prohibit the carrying over of usury from the Jahiliya arose out of Khalid's demanding interest: 'O ye who believe, fear God and give up what usury remains to you if you are (really) believers', to the end of the passage.\(^4\)

So far as we know there was no vengeance for Abū Uzayhir until Islam made a clear cut between men; however, Dirār b. al-Khaṭṭāb b. Mirdās al-Fihrī went out with a number of Quraysh to the Daus country, and came to the dwelling of a woman called Umm Ghaylān, a freedwoman of Daus. She used to comb the women's hair and prepare brides for their husbands. Daus wanted to kill them in revenge for Abū Uzayhir, but Umm Ghaylān and the women stood in their way and defended them. It was in reference to that that Dirār said:

God reward Umm Ghaylān and her women well
For their coming without their finery with dishevelled hair,
They saved us at death's very door
When the avengers of blood came forth.
She called on Daus and the sandbanks flowed with glory,
The streams on either side carried it on.
God require 'Amr well. He was not weak,
He did his best for me.
I drew my sword and made play with its edge
For whom should I fight but myself (224)?

---

\(^{1}\) al-Mughammas was on the road to Ṭā'īf.
\(^{2}\) Hassān was notorious for his coarseness in lampoons.
\(^{3}\) Sura 3. 278.

---

The Life of Muhammad

The death of Abū Ṭalīb and Khadijā

Those of his neighbours who ill treated the apostle in his house were Abū Lahab, al-Ḥakam b. Abū'l-Āṣ, 'Uqba b. Abū Mu'ayy, 'Adiy b. Ḥamrāʾ al-Thaqāfī, and Ihnūn al-Āṣdāʾ al-Hudhali. Not one of them became a Muslim except al-Ḥakam. I have been told that one of them used to throw a sheep's uterus at him while he was praying; and one of them used to throw it into his cooking-pot when it had been placed ready for him. Thus the apostle was forced to retire to a wall while he was praying. 'Umar b. Abūl-Lahab b. 'Urwa b. Zubayr told me on the authority of his father that when they threw this objectionable thing at him the apostle took it out on a stick, and standing at the door of his house, he would say, 'O Banū 'Abdu Manāf, what sort of protection is this?' Then he would throw it into the street.

Khadijā and Abū Ṭalīb died in the same year, and with Khadijā's death troubles followed fast on each other's heels, for she had been a faithful support to him in Islam, and he used to tell her of his troubles. With the death of Abū Ṭalīb he lost a strength and stay in his personal life and a defence against his tribe. Abū Ṭalīb died some three years before he migrated to Medina, and it was then that Quraysh began to treat him in an offensive way which they would not have dared to follow in his uncle's lifetime. A young lout actually threw dust on his head.

Hishām on the authority of his father 'Urwa told me that when this happened the apostle went into his house with the dust still on his head and one of his daughters got up to wash it all away, weeping as she did so. 'Don't weep, my little girl,' he said, 'for God will protect your father.' Meanwhile he was saying, 'Quraysh never treated me thus while Abū Ṭalīb was alive.'

When Abū Ṭalīb fell ill and Quraysh learned of his grave condition they reminded one another that now that Ḥamza and 'Umar had accepted Islam and Muhammad's reputation was known among all the Quraysh clans, they had better go to Abū Ṭalīb and come to some compromise lest they be robbed of their authority altogether.

Al-'Abbas b. 'Abdullah b. Ma'hād b. 'Abbās from one of his family from Ibn 'Abbās told me that 'Utba and Shayba, sons of Rabī', and Abū Jahl and Umayya b. Khalaf and Abū Sufyān with sundry other notables went to Abū Ṭalīb and said: 'You know your rank with us and now that you are at the point of death we are deeply concerned on your account. You know the trouble that exists between us and your nephew, so call him and let us make an agreement that he will leave us alone and we will leave him alone; let him have his religion and we will have ours.' When he came Abū Ṭalīb said, 'Nephew, these notables have come to you that they may give you something and to take something from you.' 'Yes,' he answered, 'you may give me one word by which you can rule the Arabs and subject the Persians to you.' 'Yea,' said Abū Jahl, 'and ten words.' He said: 'You must say There is no God but Allah and you must repudiate what you worship beside him.' They clapped their hands and said, 'Do you want to make all the gods into one God, Muhammad? That would be an extraordinary thing.' Then they said one to another, 'This fellow is not going to give you anything you want, so go and continue with the religion of your fathers until God judge between us.' So saying they departed.

Abū Ṭalīb said, 'Nephew, I don't think that you asked them anything extraordinary.' On hearing this the apostle had hoped that he would accept Islam, and he said at once, 'You say it, uncle, and then I shall be able to intercede for you on Resurrection Day.' Seeing the apostle's eagerness he replied, 'Were it not that I fear that you and your father's sons would be abused after my death and that Quraysh would think that I had only said it in fear of death, I would say it. I should only say it to give you pleasure.' As his death was near, al-'Abhās looked at him as he was moving his lips and put his ear close to him and said, 'Nephew, by God, my brother has spoken the word you gave him to say.' The apostle replied, 'I did not hear it.'

God revealed concerning the people who came to him with their proposals: 'Sūd. By the renowned Qurān, Nay, those who disbelieve are in pride and schism as far as the words 'Does he make the gods one God. This is an extraordinary thing. Their chiefs went off saying: Go and remain true to your gods. This is a thing designed. We have not heard of this in the last religion,' (meaning Christians because they say) 'Verily God is the third of three.' Then Abū Ṭalīb died.

THE APOSTLE GOES TO THAQIF TO SEEK HELP

In consequence of the growing hostility of Quraysh after Abū Ṭalīb's death the apostle went to Ṭūf if to seek help from Thaqif and their defence against his tribe. Also he hoped that they would receive the message which God had given him. He went alone.

Yaṣṣū b. Ziyād told me from Muhammad b. Ka' b al-Qurāzī: 'When the apostle arrived at al-Ṭūf if he made for a number of Thaqīf who were at that time leaders and chiefs, namely three brothers: Abū Yūsuf Mas'ud, and Ḥabīb, sons of Amr b. Umayr b. A'fūr b. 'Uqba B. Ghiyara b. A'fūr b. Thaqīf. One of them had a Quraysh wife of the B. Jamāh. The apostle sat with them and invited them to accept Islam and asked them to help him against his opponents at home. One of them swore that he would tear up the covering of the Ka'ba if God had sent him. The other said, 'Could not God have found someone better than you to send?' The third said, 'By God, don't let me ever speak to you. If you are an apostle from God as you say you are, you are far too important for me to reply to, and if you are lying against God it is not right that I should speak to you!' So the apostle got up and went, despairing of getting any good out of Thaqīf.

I have been told that he said to them, "Seeing that you have acted as you have, keep the matter secret," for he was loath that his people should hear about it, so that they would be still further emboldened against him (225). But they did not do so and stirred up their louts and slaves to insult him and cry after him until a crowd came together, and compelled him to take refuge in an orchard belonging to 'Uthb b. Rābi'a and his brother Shaybā who were in it at the time. The louts who had followed him went back, and he made for the shade of a vine and sat there while the two men watched him, observing what he had to endure from the local louts. I was told that the apostle had met the woman from the B. Jamāh and said to her, "What has befallen us from your husband's people?"

When the apostle reached safety he said, so I am told, "O God, to Thee I complain of my weakness, little resource, and lowliness before men. O Most Merciful, Thou art the Lord of the weak, and Thou art my Lord. To whom wilt Thou confide me? To one after who will misuse me? Or to an enemy to whom Thou hast given power over me? If Thou art not angry with me I care not. Thy favour is more wide for me. I take refuge in the light of Thy countenance by which the darkness is illumined, and the things of this world and the next are rightly ordered, lest Thy anger descend upon me or Thy wrath light upon me. It is for Thee to be satisfied until Thou art well pleased. There is no power and no might save in Thee."

When 'Uthb and Shaybā saw what happened they were moved with compassion and called a young Christian slave of theirs called 'Abdās and told him to take a bunch of grapes on a platter and give them to him to eat. 'Abdās did so, and when the apostle put his hand in the platter he said "In the name of God" before eating. 'Abdās looked closely into his face and said, "By God, this is not the way the people of this country speak." The apostle then asked "Then from what country do you come, O 'Abdās? and what is your religion?" He replied that he was a Christian and came from Nineveh. "From the town of the righteous man Jonah son of Mattāl," said the apostle. "But how did you know about him?" asked 'Abdās. "He is my brother; he was a prophet and I am a prophet," answered the apostle. 'Abdās bent over him and kissed his head, his hands, and his feet. The two brothers were looking on and one said to the other, "He's already corrupted your slave!" And when 'Abdās came back they said to him: "You rascal, why were you kissing that man's head, hands, and feet?" He answered that he was the finest man in the country who had told him things that only a prophet could know. They replied, "You rascal, don't let him seduce you from your religion, for it is better than his."

Then the apostle returned from Ṭūf īf when he despaired of getting anything out of Thaqīf. When he reached Nakhlā he rose to pray in the middle of the night, and a number of jinn whom God has mentioned

---

1 Sūra 38. 1-6. 2 Sūra 5. 77. 3 Sūra 38. 6. 4 For this idiom see Tab. Gloss., s.v. maraj.
The Life of Muhammad

passing. They were—so I am told—seven jinn from Naṣibin. They listened to him and when he had finished his prayer they turned back to their people to warn them having believed and responded to what they had heard. God has mentioned them in the words “And when We inclined to thee certain of the jinn who were listening to the Qurān” as far as “and He will give you protection from a painful punishment”. And again, “Say: It has been revealed unto me that a number of the jinn listened.”

THE APOSTLE OFFERS HIMSELF TO THE TRIBES

When the apostle returned to Mecca he opposed him more bitterly than ever, apart from the few lower-class people who believed in him.

T. 1203, 3

(1. One of them said that when the apostle left al-Tāʾīf making for Mecca a Meccan passed and asked him if he would take a message for him; and when he said that he would he told him to go to al-Akhnas b. Sharīq and say, ‘Muhammad says: Will you give me protection so that I may convey the message of my Lord?’ When the man delivered his message al-Akhnas replied that an ally could not give protection against a member of the home tribe. When he told the apostle of this he asked him if he would go back and ask Suhayl b. 'Amr for his protection in the same words.
Suhayl sent word that the B. 'Āmir b. Lu'ayy do not give protection against
B. Ka'b. Then he asked the man if he would go back and make the same application to al-Mu'tim b. 'Adiy. The latter said, ‘Yes, let him enter,’ and the man came back and told the apostle. In the morning al-Mu'tim having girt on his weapons, he and his sons and his nephews went into the mosque. When Abū Jahl saw him he asked, ‘Are you giving protection or following him?’ ‘Giving protection, of course,’ he said. ‘We give protection to him whom you protect,’ he said. So the prophet came into Mecca dwelt there. One day he went into the sacred mosque when the polytheists were at the Ka'ba, and when Abū Jahl saw him he said, ‘This is your prophet, O B. 'Abdu'l-Muttalib. ‘Utba b. Rabī'a replied: ‘And why should you take it amiss if we have a prophet or a king?’ The prophet was told of this, or he may have heard it, and he came to them and said, ‘O
'O Utba, you were not angry on God's behalf or his apostle's behalf, but on your own account. As for you, O Abū Jahl, a great blow of fate will come upon you so that you will laugh little and weep much; and as for you, O Leaders of Quraysh, a great blow of fate will come upon you so that you will experience what you most abhor and that perforce!’

The apostle offered himself to the tribes of Arabs at the fairs whenever opportunity came, summoning them to God and telling them that he was a prophet who had been sent. He used to ask them to believe in him and protect him until God should make clear to them the message with which he had charged his prophet.

One of our friends whom I hold above suspicion told me from Zayd b.

Aslam from Rabī'a b. ʿĪbād al-Dīlī or from one whom Abū al-Zinād had told (226) and Ḥusayn b. ʿAbdullāh b. ʿUbaydullāh b. ʿAbbās told me: I heard my father telling Rābiʾa b. ʿAbbād that when he was a youngster with his father in Minā when the apostle used to stop by the Arab encampments and tell them that he was the apostle of God who ordered them to worship Him and not associate anything with Him, and to renounce the rival gods which they worshipped, and believe in His apostle and protect him until God made plain His purpose in sending him, there followed him an artful sucrate fellow with two locks of hair, wearing an Aden cloak.
When the apostle finished his appeal he used to say, “This fellow wishes only to get you to strip off al-Lāt and al-ʿUzzā from your necks and your allies the jinn of B. Mālik b. ʿUqayl for the misleading innovation he has brought. Don't obey him and take no notice of him.” I asked my father who the man was who followed him and contradicted what he said, and he answered that it was his uncle ʿAbdul'-ʿUzzā b. ʿAbdul-Muṭṭallīh known as Abū Lahab (227).

Ibn Shīhāb al-Zuhri told me that he went to the tents of Kinda where there was a shaykh called Mulayh. He invited them to come to God and offered himself to them, but they declined.

Muhammad b. ʿAbdul-Rahmān b. ʿAbdullāh b. Ḥusayn told me that he went to the tents of Kalb to a clan called B. ʿAbdullāh with the same message, adding, ‘O Banū ʿAbdullāh, God has given your father a noble name.' But they would not give heed.

One of our companions from ʿAbdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik told me that the apostle went to the B. Hanfīa where he met with the worst reception of all.

Al-Zuhri told me that he went to the B. ʿĀmir b. Ṣaṣa'a and one of them called Bayḥara b. Fīrās (228) said: ‘By God, if I could take this man from Quraysh I could eat up the Arabs with him.' Then he said, ‘If we actually give allegiance † to you and God gives you victory over your opponents, shall we have authority after you?' He replied, ‘Authority is a matter which God places where He pleases.' He answered: ‘I suppose you want us to protect you from the Arabs with our breasts and then if God gives you victory someone else will reap the benefit! Thank you, No!'

Afterwards the B. ʿĀmir went back to an old shaykh of theirs who was unable to attend the fairs. Their custom was to give him all the news on their return. This year when he asked for the news they told him that a man from Quraysh—one of the B. ʿAbdul-Muṭṭallīh to be precise—pretended that he was a prophet and invited them to protect him, to stand in with him, and to take him back to their country. The old man put his hands upon his head and said, ‘O Banū ʿĀmir, could it have been avoided?
Can the past ever be regained? No Ismaʿili has ever claimed prophethood falsely. It was the truth. Where was your common sense?'

Whenever men came together at the fairs or the apostle heard of anyone

† Some MSS. and T. 1202 have ‘if we follow you'.

‡ T. ‘if you win'.
of importance coming to Mecca he went to them with his message. 'Aṣīm b. 'Umar b. Qatāda al-Anṣārī—more precisely al-Zafarī—on the authority of some of his shaykhīs told me that they said that Suwayd b. al-Sāmt, brother of the B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, came to Mecca on pilgrimage. Suwayd's tribesmen used to call him al-Kāmil because of his toughness, his poetry, his honour, and his lineage. He it was who said:

There's many a man you call friend you'd be shocked
If you knew the lies he tells against you in secret.
While he's with you his words are like honey;
Behind your back a sword aimed at the base of the neck.
What you see of him pleases you, but underneath
He's a deceitful backbiter cutting through to the marrow.
His eyes will show you what he's concealing,
Rancour and hatred are in his evil look.
Strengthen me with good deeds: long have you weakened me!'
The best friends strengthen without weakening.

He once had a dispute with a man of the B. Sulaym—one of the B. Zi'b b. Mālik—over a hundred camels, and they appointed an Arab woman diviner arbitrator and she gave judgement in his favour, and he and the Sulamī went away alone. When they reached the parting of the ways Suwayd asked for his property. The man promised to send it, but Suwayd wanted to know who would guarantee that the animals would be handed over. As he could offer none but himself, Suwayd refused to leave him until he got his due. So they came to blows and Suwayd knocked him down, bound him closely and took him away to the country of the B. 'Amr; and there he had to stay until his tribesmen paid what was owing. It was in reference to that, Suwayd composed these lines:

Don't think, Ibn Zi'b son of Mālik, that I
Am like the man you deceitfully slew in secret.
When I had been thrown I manfully became your match—
Thus the resolute man can change his position—
I locked him under my left arm
And his cheek remained in the dirt.

When he heard about him the apostle sought him out and invited him to Islam. He said, 'Perhaps you've got something like that which I have.' 'And what is that?' asked the apostle. 'The roll of Luqman,' meaning the wisdom of Luqman, he answered. 'Hand it to me,' said the apostle, and he handed it over and he said, 'This discourse is fine, but that which I have is better still, a Quran which God has revealed to me which is a guidance and a light.' And the apostle recited the Quran to him and invited him to Islam; he did not withdraw from it but said, 'This is a fine saying.' Then he went off and rejoined his people in Medina and almost at once the Khazraj killed him. Some of his family used to say, 'In our opinion he was a Muslim when he was killed'; he was (in fact) killed before the battle of Bu'ath.'

Iyās Accepts Islam

Al-Huṣayn b. 'Abdullāh b. Rabbānī b. 'Amr b. Sa'd b. Mu'ādh on the authority of Mājūmū b. Labīd told me that when Abūl-Hayyān Ansā b. Rāfī' came to Mecca with members of the B. 'Abdullāh Shāhīh including Iyās b. Mu'ādh seeking an alliance with Quraysh against their sister tribe the Khazraj, the apostle heard about them. He came and sat with them and asked them if they would like to get something more profitable than their present errand. When they asked him what that could be he told them that he was God's apostle sent to humanity to call on them to serve God and not associate any other with Him; that He had revealed a book to him; then he told them about Islam and read to them some of the Qurān. Iyās, who was a young man, said, 'By God, people, this is something better than you came for!' Thereupon Abūl-Hayyān took a handful of dirt from the valley and threw it in his face, saying, 'Shut up! We didn't come here for this.' So Iyās became silent. The apostle left them and they went to Medina and the battle between Bu'ath between Aus and Khazraj took place.

Within a little while Iyās died. Mājūmū said: 'Those of his people who were present at his death told me that they heard him continually praising and glorifying God until he died. They had no doubt that he died a Muslim, he having become acquainted with Islam at that gathering when he heard the apostle speak.

The Beginning of Islam Among the Helpers

When God wished to display His religion openly and to glorify His prophet and to fulfil His promise to him, the time came when he met a number of the Helpers at one of the fairs; and while he was offering himself to the Arab tribes as was his wont he met at al-'Aqāba a number of the Khazraj whom God intended to benefit. 'Aṣīm b. 'Umar b. Qatāda told me on the authority of some of the shaykhīs of his tribe that they said that when the apostle met them he learned by inquiry that they were of the Khazraj and allies of the Jews. He invited them to sit with him and expounded to them Islam and recited the Qurān to them. Now God had prepared the way for Islam in that they lived side by side with the Jews who were people of the scriptures and knowledge, while they themselves were polytheists and idolaters. They had often raided them in their district and whenever had feeling arose the
The Life of Muhammad

The first pledge at al-'Aqaba and the mission of Muṣ'ab

In the following year twelve Helpers attended the fair and met at al-'Aqaba—where they gave the apostle the 'pledge of women',1 This was before the duty of making war was laid upon them.

From B. 'Auf of the clan of B. Ghanm b. 'Auf b. 'Amr: 'Auf who were the Qawaqil: 'Ubāda b. al-Ṣāmit b. Qays b. ʿĀṣār b. Fīrāb b. Ṣawād b. Ghanm; and Abū 'Abdullāh-Ṭāhir b. Ṣawād b. al-Khanjārī b. 'Āṣār b. 'Amr b. Qurâysh b. Ṣawād (231).

From B. 'Auf of the clan of B. Ghanm b. 'Auf b. 'Amr: 'Auf who were the Qawaqil: 'Ubāda b. al-Ṣāmit b. Qays b. ʿĀṣār b. Fīrāb b. Ṣawād b. Ghanm; and Abū 'Abdullāh-Ṭāhir b. Ṣawād b. al-Khanjārī b. 'Āṣār b. 'Amr b. Qurâysh b. Ṣawād (231).

From B. 'Auf of the clan of B. Ghanm b. 'Auf b. 'Amr: 'Auf who were the Qawaqil: 'Ubāda b. al-Ṣāmit b. Qays b. ʿĀṣār b. Fīrāb b. Ṣawād b. Ghanm; and Abū 'Abdullāh-Ṭāhir b. Ṣawād b. al-Khanjārī b. 'Āṣār b. 'Amr b. Qurâysh b. Ṣawād (231).

The Life of Muhammad

The institution of Friday prayers in Medina

Muhammad b. Abū Umāma b. Sahl b. Ḥunayf from his father from Abūl-Ṭāhir b. Ka'b b. Mālik told me that the latter said: 'I was leading my father Ka'b when he had lost his sight, and when I brought him out to the mosque and he heard the call to prayer he called down blessings on Abū Umāma As'ād b. Zurāra. This went on for some time: whenever he heard the adhān he blessed him and asked God's pardon for him. I thought that this was an extraordinary thing to do and decided to ask him why he did it. He told me that it was because he was the first man to bring them

1 i.e. no fighting was involved. Cf. Sūra 60. 12.

2 Cf. Sūra 60. 12 where the wording is very similar.
together in the low ground of al-Nabît in the quarter of the B. Bayāda called Naqṭu‘l-Khadīmāt. I asked him how many of them there were,
and he told me that they numbered forty men.

Muhammad b. ‘Amr b. Hazm told me that As‘ad b. Zurāra went out with Muṣ‘āb b. ‘Umayr to the areas of B. ‘Abdul‘Ashshāl and of B. Ṣafar.
Sa‘d b. al-Nu‘mān b. Imrū‘ul-Qays b. Zayd b. ‘Abdul‘Ashshāl was the son of As‘ad’s aunt. He entered with him one of the gardens of B. Ṣafar
(235) by a well called Māraq and sat in the garden and some of the men who had accepted Islam gathered together there. Now Sa‘d b. Mu‘ādh and Usayd b. Ḥudayr were at that time leaders of their clan, the B. ‘Abdul‘Ashshāl, and both followed the heathenism of their tribe. When they heard about him Sa‘d said to Usayd: ‘Go to these fellows who have entered our quarters to make fools of our weak comrades, drive them out and forbid them to enter our quarters. If it were not that As‘ad b. Zurāra is related to me as you know I would save you the trouble. He is my aunt’s son and I can do nothing to him.’ So Usayd took his lance and went to them; and when As‘ad saw him he said to Muṣ‘āb, ‘This is the chief of his tribe who is coming to you, so be true to God with him.’ Muṣ‘āb said, ‘If he will sit down I will talk to him.’ He stood over them looking furious and asking what they meant by coming to deceive their weaker comrades. ‘Leave us if you value your lives.’ Muṣ‘āb said, ‘Won’t you sit down and listen. If you like what you hear you can accept it, and if you don’t like it you can leave it alone.’ He agreed that that was fair, stuck his lance in the ground, and sat down. He explained Islam to him and read him the Quran. Afterwards they said—according to what has been reported of them—‘By God, before he spoke we recognized Islam in his face by its peaceful glow.’ He said, ‘What a wonderful and beautiful discourse this is! What does one do if he wants to enter this religion?’ They told him that he must wash and purify himself and his garments, then bear witness to the truth and pray.
He immediately did so and made two prostrations. Then he said, ‘There is a man behind me who if he follows you every one of his people will follow suit. I will send him to you at once. It is Sa‘d b. Mu‘ādh.’ Taking his lance he went off to Sa‘d and his people who were sitting in conclave.

When Sa‘d saw him coming he said, ‘By God, Usayd is coming with a different expression from that he had when he left you.’ And when he came up he asked what had happened. He said, ‘I have spoken to the two men and I find no harm in them. I forbade them to go on and they said to me, We will do what you like; and I was told that the B. Ḥāritha had gone out against As‘ad to kill him because they knew that he was the son of your aunt so as to make you appear a treacherous protector of your guests.’
Sa‘d enraged got up at once, alarmed at what had been said about the B.

Hāritha. He took the lance from his hand, saying, ‘By God, I see that you have been utterly ineffective.’ He went out to them and when he saw them sitting comfortably he knew that Usayd had intended that he should listen to them. He stood over them, looking furious. To As‘ad he said, ‘Were it not for the relationship between us you would not have treated me thus.
Would you behave in our houses in a way we detest?’ (Now As‘ad had said to Muṣ‘āb, ‘The leader whom his people follow has come to you. If he follows you, no two of them will remain behind.’) So Muṣ‘āb said to him what he had said to Usayd, and Sa‘d stuck his lance in the ground and sat down. The same thing happened again and he went to his people’s meeting-place accompanied by Usayd. When they saw him coming they said, ‘We swear by God Sa‘d has returned with a different expression.’
And when he stopped by them he asked them how they knew what had happened to him. He replied, ‘(You are) our chief, the most active in our interests, the best in judgement and the most fortunate in leadership.’
He said, ‘I will not speak to a man or woman among you until you believe in God and His apostle.’ As a result every man and woman among the

As‘ad and Muṣ‘āb returned to As‘ad’s house and stayed there calling men to Islam until every house of the Anṣār had men and women who were Muslims except those of B. Umayya b. Zayd, and Khaṣṣa‘ and Wā‘il and Wāqif; the latter were Aus Allah and of Aus b. Ḥāritha. The reason was that Abū Qays b. al-Aslat whose name was Sayfī was among them. He was their poet and leader and they obeyed him and he kept them back from Islam. Indeed he continued to do so until the apostle migrated to Medina, and Badr, and Uhud, and al-Khaṭdāq were over. He said concerning what he thought of Islam and how men differed about his state:

Lord of mankind, serious things have happened.
The difficult and the simple are involved.

Lord of mankind, if we erred
Guide us to the good path.

Were it not for our Lord we should be Jews
And the religion of Jews is not convenient.

Were it not for our Lord we should be Christians
Along with the monks on Mount Jalil,¹

But when we were created we were created
Hanifs; our religion is from all generations.

We bring the sacrificial camels walking in fetters
Covered with cloths but their shoulders bare (236).

THE SECOND PLEDGE AT AL‘AQABA

Then Muṣ‘āb returned to Mecca and the Muslim Anṣār came to the fair there with the pilgrims of their people who were polytheists. They met

¹ i.e. Galilee.
Ma'bad b. Ka'b b. Malik b. Abū Ka'b b. al-Qayn, brother of the B. Salima, told me that his brother 'Abdullah b. Ka'ba was one of the most learned of the Āṣārīr told him that his father Ka'ba b. al-Malik was one of those who had been present at al-'Aqaba and did homage to the apostle, informed him saying: 'We went out with the polytheist pilgrims of our people having prayed and learned the customs of the pilgrimage. With us was al-Bara' b. Ma'rūr our chief and senior. When we had started our journey from Medina al-Bara' said, ‘I have come to a conclusion and I don’t know whether you will agree with me or not. I think that I will not turn my back on this building’ (meaning the Ka'ba), ‘and that I shall pray towards it.’ We replied that so far as we knew our prophet prayed towards Syria and we did not wish to act differently. He said, ‘I am going to pray towards the Ka'ba.’ We said, ‘But we will not.’ When the time for prayer came we prayed towards Syria and he prayed towards the Ka'ba until we came to Mecca. We blamed him for what he was doing, but he refused to change. When we came to Mecca he said to me, ‘Nephew, let us go to the apostle and ask him about what I did on our journey. For I feel some misgivings since I have seen your opposition.’ So we went to ask the apostle. We did not know him and we had never seen him before. We met a man of Mecca and we asked him about the apostle; he asked if we knew him and we said that we did not. Then do you know his uncle, al-'Abbās b. 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib? We said that we did because he was always coming to us as a merchant. He said, ‘When you enter the mosque he is the man sitting beside al-'Abbās.’ So we went into the mosque and there was al-'Abbās sitting with the apostle beside him; we saluted them and sat down. The apostle asked al-'Abbās if he knew us, and he said that he did and named us. I shall never forget the apostle's words when Ka'ba's name was mentioned, ‘The poet?’ Al-Bara’ said, ‘O prophet of God, I came on this journey God having guided me to Islam and I felt that I could not turn my back on this building, so I prayed towards it; but when my companions opposed me I felt some misgivings. What is your opinion, O apostle of God?’ He replied, ‘You would have had a qibla if you had kept to it,’ so al-Bara’ returned to the apostle’s qibla and prayed with us towards Syria. But his people assert that he prayed towards the Ka'ba until the day of his death; but this was not so. We know more about that than they (237).’

1 The days of the Ṭashrīq are the three days following the day of sacrifice, i.e., 10th, 12th, and 13th of Dhu-l-Ḥijja. Various explanations are given by the lexicographers: (a) because the victims were not sacrificed until the sun rose; (b) because the flesh of the victims was cut into strips and left to dry in the sun on those days; (c) because in pagan times they used to say at that time Ashūr Ṭabīb ʿayna mughir 'Show the sun, O ʿThābīb, that we may pass on quickly.' See further F.I. and literature cited there.
2 i.e. Jerusalem.
3 The apostle's reply to al-Bara' could be taken in either sense, and considerable doubt is reflected in the commentaries and traditions on the question involved.
is blood not to be paid for.

Ka'b continued: 'The apostle said, "Bring out to me twelve leaders that they may take charge of your people's affairs." They produced nine from al-Khazraj and three from al-Aus.'

The Names of the Twelve Leaders and the Rest of the Story of al-'Aqaba

According to what Ziyād b. 'Abdullāh al-Bakkaṭî told us from Muhammad b. Ishāq al-Muṭṭalibī (they were):

Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me that the apostle said to the Leaders: 'You are the sureties for your people just as the disciples of Jesus, Son of Mary, were responsible to him, while I am responsible for my people, i.e. the Muslama.' They agreed.

'Aṣīm b. Ḫarīth b. Qatāda told me that when the people came together to plight their faith to the apostle, al-‘Abbās b. Ubāda b. Naḍla al-Anṣāfī, brother of B. Sālim b. 'Auf, said, 'O men of Khazraj, do you realize to what you are committing yourselves in pledging your support to this man? It is to war against all and sundry.' If you think that if you lose your property and your nobles are killed you will give him up, then do so now, for it would bring you shame in this world and the next (if you did so later); but if you think that you will be loyal to your undertaking if you lose your property and your nobles are killed, then take him, for by God it will profit you in this world and the next.' They said that they would accept the apostle on these conditions. But they asked what they would get in return for their loyalty, and the apostle promised them paradise. They said, 'Stretch forth your hand,' and when he did so they pledged their word. 'Aṣīm added that al-‘Abbās said that only to bind the obligation more securely on them. 'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr said that he said it merely to keep the people back that night, hoping that 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy b. Sāfūl would come and so give more weight to his people's support. But God knows best which is right (242).

The B. al-Najjār allege that As'ad b. Zurārā was the first to strike his hand in fealty; the B. 'Abdu‘l-Ashhal say that he was not, for Abū‘l-Haytham was the first. Ma‘bad b. Ka'b told me in his tradition from his brother 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b from his father Ka'b b. Malik that al-Barā' was the first and the people followed him. When we had all pledged ourselves Satan shouted from the top of al-Aqaba in the most penetrating voice. I have ever heard, 'O people of the stations of Minā, do you want this repro­bate1 and the apostates2 who are with him? They have come together to make war on you!' The apostle said, 'This is the Izb3 of the hill. This is the son of Azyāb. Do you hear, O enenmy of God, I swear I will make an end of you!' (243).

The apostle then told them to disperse and go back to their caravan, and al-‘Abbās b. Ubāda said, 'By God, if you wish it we will fall on the people of Minā tomorrow with our swords.' He replied, 'We have not been commanded to do that; but go back to your caravan.' So we went back to our beds and slept until the morrow.

With the morning the leaders of Quraysh came to our encampment saying that they had heard that we had come to invite Muhammad to leave them and had pledged ourselves to support him in war against them, and that there was no Arab tribe that they would fight more reluctantly than us. Thereupon the polytheists of our tribe swore that nothing of the kind had happened and they knew nothing of what had happened. We looked at one another. Then the people got up, among them al-Ḥārith b. Ḫishām b. al-Mughira al-Makḥūṣī who was wearing a pair of new sandals. I spoke a word to him as though I wanted to associate the people with what they had said, 'O Abū Jābir, seeing that you are one of our chiefs, can't you get hold of a pair of sandals such as this young Qurayshite has? Al-Ḥārith heard me and took them off his feet and threw them at me saying, 'By God you can have them!' Abū Jābir said, 'Gently now, you have angered the 1 Madhumam is probably an offensive counterpart to the name Muhammad.

---

2 Ṣabūlī, the plural of Ṣabī, the name given to those who had given up their own religion to take another. Hardly an apostate (murtadd).
3 The word is said to mean 'small and contemptible'.
young man, so give him back his sandals." 'By God, I will not,' I said; 'it is a good omen and if it proves to be true I shall plunder him.'

Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that they came to 'Abdullah b. Ubayy and said to him much the same as Ka'b had said and he replied, 'This is a serious matter; my people are not in the habit of deciding a question without consulting me in this way and I do not know that it has happened.'

Thereupon they left him.

When the people had left Minā they investigated the report closely and found that it was true. So they went in pursuit of (our) people and overtook Sa'd b. 'Ubāda in Adhākhrīr and also al-Mundhir b. 'Amr, brother of B. Sa'id, both of them being 'leaders'. The latter got away, but they called Sa'd and tied his hands to his neck with the thongs of the girth and brought him back to Mecca beating him on the way and dragging him by the hair, for he was a very hairy man. Sa'd said, 'As they held me, a number of Quraysh came up, among them a tall, white, handsome man of pleasant appearance and I thought that if there was any decency among them this man would show it. But when he came up he delivered me a violent blow in the face and after that I despaired of fair treatment. As they were dragging me along, a man took pity on me and said, 'You poor devil, haven't you any right to protection from one of the Quraysh?'

'Yes,' I said, 'I have. I used to guarantee the safety of the merchants of Jubayr b. Muṭ'im b. 'Adiy b. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manāf and protect them from those who might have wronged them in my country; also al-Hārīth b. Ḥarb b. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shams b. 'Abdu Manāf.' 'Very well, then, call out the names of these two men and say what tie there is between you,' he said. This I did and that man went to them and found them. In the mosque beside the Ka'ba and told them of me and that I was calling for them and mentioning my claim on them. When they heard who I was they acknowledged the truth of my claim and came and delivered me.' So Sa'd went off. The name of the man who hit him was Suhayl b. 'Amr, brother of B. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy (244).

The first poem about the Migration was two verses composed by Dirār
b. al-Khāṭtāb b. Mīrād, brother of B. Muḥārīb b. Fīh:

I overtook Sa'd and took him by force.
It would have been better if I had caught Mundhir.
If I had got him his blood would not have to be paid for.
He deserves to be humiliated and left unavenged (244a).

Hāssān b. Thābit answered him thus:

You were not equal to Sa'd and the man Mundhir
When the people's camels were thin.
But for Ābū Wahb (my) verses would have passed over
The top of al-Barqa' swooping down swiftly.

1 Yāqūt says that this is a place in the desert. He does not say where.
2 The interpretation of this difficult line depends on the identity of Ābū Wahb. The man

Do you boast of wearing cotton
When the Nabataeans wear dyed wrappers?

Be not like a sleeper who dreams that
He is in a town of Caesar or Chosroes.
Don't be like a bereaved mother who
Would not have lost her child had she been wise;
Nor like the sheep which with her forelegs
Digs the grave she does not desire;
Nor like the barking dog that sticks out his neck
Not fearing the arrow of the unseen archer.
He who directs poetry's shafts at us
Is like one who sends dates to Khaybar.

THE IDOL OF 'AMR IBN U'L-JAMŪH

When they came to Medina they openly professed Islam there. Now some of the shaykhs still kept to their old idolatry, among whom was 'Amr b. son, Mu'ādh, had been present at al-'Aqaba and had done homage to the apostle there. 'Amr was one of the tribal nobles and leaders and had set up in his house a wooden idol called Manāt as the nobles used to do, making it a god to reverence and keeping it clean. When the young men of the
B. Salama Mu'ādh b. Jabal and his own son Mu'ādh adopted Islam with the other men who had been at al-'Aqaba they used to creep in at night to this idol of 'Amr's and carry it away and throw it on its face into a cesspit. When the morning came 'Amr cried, 'Woe to you! Who has been at our gods this night?' Then he went in search of the idol and when he found it he washed it and cleaned it and perfumed it saying, 'By God, if I knew who had done this I would treat him shamefully!' When night came and he was fast asleep they did the same again and he restored the idol in the morning. This happened several times until one day he took the idol from the place where they had thrown it, purified it as before, and of this name mentioned by I.I. (p. 123) was the father of the prophet's maternal uncle; if it is he that is referred to, clearly the meaning must be that the presence of this man in Mecca prevented Hāssān from launching his invective against Quraysh, and the verb must mean swooping or rushing. However, al-Bāqīḍī in his commentary on the Dīnaṭe tentatively suggests that it was Ābū Wahb who brought Dirār's lines to Medina; had he not done so they would have fallen impotently on the way. This interpretation requires us to understand hawa in the sense of falling, and bussarā as 'bewept' instead of 'stripped for action' and so capable of rapid movement. The last line in I.I.'s text follows this line and this rearrangement of the lines would naturally suggest that the qad'il came from the same source; but as I.I. reported the satire such a conclusion is unnecessary. See further Dr. Arafat's thesis on the poetry of Hāssān.
1 Or 'bleached'.
2 i.e. Sends coals to Newcastle. This line follows line 2 in the Dīnaṭe.
3 Subhāni explains that the idol was so called because blood was shed (munjatt) by it as an offering and that is why idols are said to be bloody. But the explanation of the name is to be found outside the Arabic language in the goddess of Fate. See S. H. Langdon, Semitic Mythology, 1931, pp. 19 ff.
fastened his sword to it, saying, 'By God, I don't know who has done this; but if you are any good at all defend yourself since you have this sword.' At night when he was asleep they came again and took the sword from its neck and hung a dead dog to it by a cord and then threw it into a cesspit. In the morning 'Amr came and could not find it where it normally was; ultimately he found it face downwards in that pit tied to a dead dog. When he saw it and perceived what had happened and the Muslims of his clan spoke to him he accepted Islam by the mercy of God and became a good Muslim. He wrote some verses when he had come to a knowledge of God in which he mentioned the image and its impotence and thanked God for having delivered him from the blindness and error in which he had lived hitherto:

By Allah, if you had been a god you would not have been tied to a dead dog in a cesspit.
Phew! that we ever treated you as a god, but now
We have found you out and left our wicked folly.
Praise be to God most High, the Gracious,
The Bountiful, the Provider, the Judge of all religions
Who has delivered me in time to save me
From being kept in the darkness of the grave.

CONDITIONS OF THE PLEDGE AT THE SECOND 'AQABA

When God gave permission to his apostle to fight, the second 'Aqaba contained conditions involving war which were not in the first act of fealty. Now they bound themselves to war against all and sundry for God and his apostle, while he promised them for faithful service thus the reward of paradise.

'Ubad b. al-Walid b. 'Ubad b. al-Samit from his father from his grandfather 'Ubad b. al-Samit who was one of the Leaders told me, 'We pledged ourselves to war in complete obedience to the apostle in weal and woe, in ease and hardship and evil circumstances; that we would not wrong anyone; that we would speak the truth at all times; and that in God's service we would fear the censure of none.' 'Ubad was one of the twelve who gave his word at the first 'Aqaba.

THE NAMES OF THOSE PRESENT AT THE SECOND 'AQABA

There were seventy-three men and two women of Aus and Khazraj.¹
Of Aus there were:

¹ The genealogies already given have been omitted together with repetitions.

Of B. 'Amr b. Auf b. Malik: Sa'd b. Khaythama a 'leader' who was present at Badr and was killed there as a martyr beside the apostle (246). Rif'a a b. 'Abdu'l-Mundhir, a leader present at Badr. Abdullah b. Jubayr b. al-Nun' man b. Umayya b. al-Burak, the name of al-Burak being Imru'al-Qays b. Thala'ba b. 'Amr who was present at Badr and was killed as a martyr at Uhud commanding the archers for the apostle (247). And Ma'an b. Adiy b. Al-Jad b. Al-Ajlun b. Haritha b. Dubay'a, a client of theirs from Bally present at Badr, Uhud, and al-Khandaq and all the apostle's battles. He was killed in the battle of al-Yamama as a martyr in the caliphate of Abu Bakr. And 'Uwaym b. Saa'id a who was present at Badr, Uhud, and al-Khandaq. Total 5.

The total for all clans of Aus was 11.

Of al-Khazraj there were:
Of B. al-Najjar who was Taymullah b. Thala'ba b. 'Amr: Abu Ayyab Khaliid b. Zayd b. Kulayy b. Thala'ba b. 'Abd b. Auf b. Ghanm b. Malik b. al-Najjar. He was present at all the apostle's battles and died in Byzantine territory as a martyr in the time of Mu'a'wiya. Mu'adh b. al-Harith b. Rif'a a b. Sawad b. Malik b. Ghanm. Present at all battles. He was the son of 'Afra' and his brother was 'Auf b. al-Harith who was killed at Badr as a martyr. Mu'a'wiya his brother shared the same glory. It was he who killed Abu Jahl b. Hisham b. al-Mughira; he too was 'Afra's son (248). And 'Umara b. Ijazin b. Zayd b. Laudhin b. 'Amr b. 'Abd b. Auf b. Ghanm. He was present at all battles and died a martyr in the battle of al-Yamama in the caliphate of Abu Bakr. Asad b. Zura'a, a leader. He died before Badr when the apostle’s mosque was being built. Total 6.

The total for B. al-Najjar was 11 (250).

Malik as a martyr as one of the apostle’s commanders. Was at Badr, Uţud, and al-Khandaq and was killed as a martyr fighting B. Qurayza when a millstone was thrown from one of their castles and crushed his skull. The apostle said—so they say—that he will have the reward of two martyrs. ‘Uqba b. ‘Amr b. Tha’labā b. Usayya b. ‘Usayya b. Jādāra b. ‘Auf who is Abū Mas‘ūd, the youngest of those at al-‘Aqaba. Died in the time of Mu‘awiya. Was not at Badr. Total 7.

Of B. Ḥarām b. Ka‘b b. Ghanīm b. Ka‘b b. Salama: ‘Abdullah b. ‘Āmir who was a leader and was at Badr and was killed as a martyr at Uţud. ‘Alī b. ‘Arbā‘a b. ‘azines b. al-Jamūḥ who was at Badr. Thābit b. al-Jidh‘ (al-Jidh‘ being Tha’labā b. Zayd b. al-‘Aţirītah b. Ḥarām) was at Badr and was killed as a martyr at al-Ṭi‘f. ‘Umayr b. al-‘Aţirītah b. Tha’labā b. al-‘Aţirītah b. Ḥarām who was at Badr (254). Khālid b. Salāma b. ‘Āmir b. al-Furāfīr an ally from Balīy. Mu‘ād b. Ḥabar b. ‘Āmir b. ‘Adī b. Ka‘b b. ‘Amr b. ‘Adī b. Sa‘d b. ‘Alī b. Asad. It is said ‘Asad b. Sārida b. Ta‘zīd b. Jusham b. the oldest of those who joined the apostle with the B. Salama; he was present at all the battles and died in ‘Amwās in the year of the Syrian plague during the caliphate of Umar. The B. Salama claimed him for the reason that he was the brother of Sahl b. Muhammad b. al-Judd b. Qays b. ‘Ṣakhir b. Khansā‘ b. Sinān b. ‘Ubayy ... b. Salama through his mother (255). Total 7.

Of B. ‘Auf b. al-Khazrajā then of the B. Sālim b. ‘Auf b. ‘Amr b. ‘Auf: ‘Uţhāda b. al-Ṣalīm, a leader who was at all the battles ... (256). Al-‘Abbās b. ‘Uţhāda b. Nadla ... one of those who joined the apostle in Medina, lived there with him, and was called an Anṣārī Muḥāfīrī. He was killed at Uţud as a martyr. Abū ‘Abdullāh al-Raḥmān Yazīd b. Tha’labā b. Khazama b. ‘Arīm b. ‘Amr b. Ammār, an ally from the B. Ghuṣayna of Balīy. Al-‘Amr b. al-‘Aţirītah b. Labda b. ‘Amr b. Tha’labā. They were the Qawāqīl. Total 4.

1 Some authorities assert that this is the same person as the one just mentioned above.
2 Some read Uţhad. See Suhaylī in loc.
3 i.e. the biblical Emmaus.
Of the B. Sá'ída b. Ka'b: Sa'd b. 'Ubáda a leader. Al-Mundhir b. 'Amr, a leader, present at Badr and Uhüd and killed at Bi't Ma'á'una commanding for the apostle. It was said of him 'He hastened to death' (259). Total 2.

The total number of those present at the second 'Aqaba from the Aus and Khazraj was seventy-three men and two women who they allege pledged their obedience also. The apostle used not to strike hands with women; he merely stated the conditions, and if they accepted them he would say, 'Go, I have made a covenant with you.'

(Of these two women) Nusayba was of B. Máizin b. al-Najjár. She was d. of Ka'b b. 'Amr b. 'Auf b. Mabdhühl b. 'Amr b. Ghanm b. Máizin, mother of 'Umára. She and her sister went to war with the apostle. Her husband was Zayd b. 'Ájím b. Ka'b, and her two sons were Hábit and 'Abdulláh. Musaylima the liar, the Haráthi chief of the Yamámá, got hold of Hábit and began to say to him, 'Do you testify that Muhammed is the apostle of God?' And when he said that he did, he went on, 'And do you testify that I am the apostle of God?' he answered, 'I do not hear.' So he began to cut him to pieces member by member until he died. He tried putting the same questions to him again and again, but he could get no different answers. Nusayba went to al-Yamámá with the Muslims and took part in the war in person until God slew Musaylima, when she returned having suffered twelve wounds from spear or sword. It was Muhammed b. Yáyá b. Hábbán who told me this story from 'Abdulláh b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmán b. Abú Sá'á'a.

The other woman was of B. Salama, Umm Mani', named 'Asmá' d. d. 'Amr b. 'Adiy b. Nábí b. 'Amr b. Sawád b. Ghanm b. Ka'b b. Saláma.

THE APOSTLE RECEIVES THE ORDER TO FIGHT

The apostle had not been given permission to fight or allowed to shed blood before the second 'Aqaba. He had simply been ordered to call men to God and to endure insult and forgive the ignorant. The Quraysh had persecuted his followers, seducing some from their religion, and exiling others from their country. They had to choose whether to give up their religion, be maltreated at home, or to flee the country, some to Abyssinia, others to Medina.

When Quraysh became insolent towards God and rejected His gracious purpose, accused His prophet of lying, and ill treated and exiled those who served Him and proclaimed His unity, believed in His prophet, and held fast to His religion, He gave permission to His apostle to fight and to protect himself against those who wronged them and treated them badly.

The first verse which was sent down on this subject from what I have heard from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr and other learned persons was: 'Permission is given to those who fight because they have been wronged. God is well able to help them,—those who have been driven out of their houses without right only because they said God is our Lord. Had not God used some men to keep back others, cloisters and churches and oratories and mosques wherein the name of God is constantly mentioned would have been destroyed. Assuredly God will help those who help Him. God is Almighty. Those who if we make them strong in the land will establish prayer, pay the poor-tax, enjoin kindness, and forbid iniquity. To God belongs the end of matters.' The meaning is: 'I have allowed them to fight only because they have been unjustly treated while their sole offence against men has been that they worship God. When they are in the ascendant they will establish prayer, pay the poor-tax, enjoin kindness, and forbid iniquity, i.e. the prophet and his companions all of them.' Then God sent down to him: 'Fight them so that there be no more seduction, i.e. until no believer is seduced from his religion. 'And the religion is God's', i.e. Until God alone is worshipped.

When God had given permission to fight and this clan of the Ansáar had pledged their support to him in Islam and to help him and his followers, and the Muslims who had taken refuge with them, the apostle commanded his companions, the emigrants of his people and those Muslims who were with him in Mecca, to emigrate to Medina and to link up with their brethren the Ansáar. 'God will make for you brethren and houses in which you may be safe.' So they went out in companies, and the apostle stayed in Mecca waiting for his Lord's permission to leave Mecca and migrate to Medina.

THOSE WHO MIGRATED TO MEDINA

The first of the Quraysh to migrate to Medina from among the apostle's companions was one of B. Mákzhüm, Abú Saláma b. 'Abdu'l-Asad b. Híílís b. 'Abdulláh b. 'Umar b. Mákzhüm whose forename was 'Abdulláh. He went to Medina a year before the pledge at al-'Aqaba, having come to the apostle in Mecca, to emigrate to Medina and to link up with their brethren the Ansáar. 'God will make for you brethren and houses in which you may be safe.' So they went out in companies, and the apostle stayed in Mecca waiting for his Lord's permission to leave Mecca and migrate to Medina.

My father Isháq b. Yasáar on the authority of Salama who had it from his grandmother Umm Salama the prophet's wife told me that she said: When Abú Saláma had decided to set out for Medina he saddled his camel for me and mounted me on it together with my son Saláma who was in my arms. Then he set out leading the camel. When the men of B. al-Mughíra b. 'Abdulláh b. 'Umar b. Mákzhüm saw him they got up and said: 'So far as you are concerned you can do what you like; but what about your wife? Do you suppose that we shall let you take her away?' So they snatched the camel's rope from his hand and took me from him. Abú Saláma's family, the B. Abdu'l-Asad, were angry at this and said: 'We will not leave our son with her seeing you have torn her from our tribesman.' So they dragged at my little boy Saláma between them until they dislocated his arm, and the B. al-Asad took him away, while the B. al-Mughira kept me with them, and my husband Abū Salama went to Medina. Thus I was separated from my husband and my son. I used to go out every morning and sit in the valley weeping continuously until a year or so had passed when one of my cousins of B. al-Mughira passed and saw my plight and took pity on me. He said to his tribesmen, 'Why don't you let this poor woman go? You have separated husband, wife, and child.' So they said to me, 'You can join your husband if you like'; and then the B. 'Abdu'l-Asad restored my son to me. So I saddled my camel and took my son and carried him in my arms. Then I set forth making for my husband in Medina. Not a soul was with me. I thought that I could get food from anyone I met on the road until I reached my husband. When I was in Tan'im I met 'Uthmān b. 'Alīha b. Abū 'Alīha, brother of B. 'Abdu'l-Dār, who asked me where I was going and if I was all alone. I told him that except for God and my little boy I was alone. He said that I ought not to be left helpless like that and he took hold of the camel's halter and went along with me. Never have I met an Arab more noble than he. When we halted he would make the camel kneel for me and then withdraw; when we reached a stopping-place he would lead my camel away, unload it, and tie it to a tree. Then he would go from me and lie down under a tree.

1 Súra 22, 40-42. 2 Súra 2, 198.

When evening came he would bring the camel and saddle it, then go behind me and tell me to ride; and when I was firmly established in the saddle he would come and take the halter and lead it until he brought me to a halt. This he did all the way to Medina. When he saw a village of B. 'Afr b. 'Auf in Qubā' he said: 'Your husband is in this village (Abū Salama was actually there), so enter it with the blessing of God.' Then he went on his way back to Mecca.

She used to say, By God, I do not know a family in Islam which suffered what the family of Abū Salama did. Nor have I ever seen a nobler man than 'Uthmān b. 'Alīha.

The first emigrant to go to Medina after Abū Salama was 'Amīr b. Rabī'ā, an ally of B. 'Adiy b. Ka'b together with his wife Laylā d. of Harthma b. Ghānim b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Afr b. 'Abd B. Ka'b. Then 'Abdullāh b. Jahsh b. Rilāb b. Ya'mar b. Sabīr b. Murra b. Kathīr b. Ghānim b. Dūdān b. Asad b. Khuzayma ally of B. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shamal along with his family and his brother Abū—who was known as Abū Ahmad. Now Abū Ahmad was blind and he used to go all round Mecca from top to bottom without anyone to lead him. He was a poet. He had to wife al-Fārā d. of Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb; his mother was Umayya d. of 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib.

The house of the B. Jahsh was locked up when they left and 'Utba b. Rabī'ā and al-'Abbās b. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib and Abū Jahl b. Hishām passed by it on their way to the upper part of Mecca. (Today it is the house of Abū 'Uthmān in Radm.) 'Utba looked at it with its doors blowing to and fro, empty of inhabitants, and sighed heavily and said:

Every house however long its prosperity lasts
Will one day be overtaken by misfortune and trouble (261).

He went on: This is the work of this man's nephew. He has divided our community, disrupted our affairs, and driven a wedge between us. Abū Salama and 'Amīr b. Rabī'ā and 'Abdullāh b. Jahsh and his brother Abū Ahmad b. Jahsh were billeted on Mubashshir b. 'Abdu'l-Mundhir b. Zanbar in Qubā' among the B. 'Amr b. 'Auf.

Then the refugees came in companies and the B. Ghanm b. Dūdān were Muslims who had gone to Medina as a body with the apostle as emigrants both men and women: 'Abdullāh b. Jahsh and his brother Abū Ahmad and 'Ukāsha b. Miḥṣān and Shujā' and 'Uqba, the two sons of Wahb, and Arbad b. Humayyira (262), and Muneqṣīd b. Nūbātā and Sa'id b. Ruqaysh and Mubriz b. Nādla and Yazīd b. Ruqaysh, and Qays b. Jābir and 'Amr b. Miḥṣān and Malik b. 'Amr and Sāfīwān b. 'Amr and Taqīf b. 'Amr and Rabī'ā b. Aktham and al-Zubayr b. 'Abīd and Tamīm b. Ubayda and Sakhbāra b. 'Ubayda and Muhammad b. 'Abdullāh b. Jahsh.

Their women were Zaynab and Umm Habīb daughters of Jahsh, Judhāma d. Jandāl and Umm Qays d. Miḥṣān and Umm Habīb d. Thumāma and Amina d. of Ruqaysh and Sakhbāra d. Tamīm and Ḥamāma d. Jahsh.

Abū Ahmad, mentioning the migration of the B. Asad b. Khuzayma of his people to God and his apostle and their going in a body when they were called on to emigrate, said:

Had Ahmad's mother twixt Safa and Marwa sworn
Her oath would have been true.
We were the first in Mecca and remained so
Till the worse became the better part.
Here Ghanm b. Dūdān pitched his tent.
From it Ghanm has gone and its inhabitants diminish,
To God they go in ones and twos,
Their religion the religion of God and his apostle.

He also said:

When Umm Ahmad saw me setting out
In the protection of One I secretly fear and reverence,

1 This place is said to be two parasangs, i.e. about six miles, from Mecca.

2 The family was all but destroyed in the wars that followed; 'Uthmān himself was killed at the beginning of 'Umar's reign.
She said, 'If you must do this, then take us anywhere but to Yathrib.' I said to her, 'Nay, Yathrib today is our goal. What the Merciful wills the slave must do.' Towards God and His apostle is my face. And he who sets his face to God today will not be disappointed. And many sincere friends have we left behind. And a woman who would dissuade us with weeping and wailing. You may think that hope of vengeance takes us far from home, but we think that the hope of good things to come draws us.

I besought the Banū Ghanm to avoid bloodshed. And accept the truth when the way is plain to all. Praising God they accepted the call of truth. And salvation, and went forth as one man. We and some of our companions who left the right path. Who helped others against us with their weapons. Became two parties: one helped and guided. To the truth, the other doomed to punishment. Unjust they have invented lies. Iblis beguiled them from the truth— they are disappointed and frustrated.

We turned back to the prophet Muhammad's words. 'Twas well with us, friends of truth, and we were made happy. We are the nearest in kin to them. But there's no next-of-kin when friendship is lacking. What sister's son after us will trust you? What son-in-law after mine can be relied on? You will know which of us has found the truth: the one who gives his heart to God. And the other who turns to Mecca. Who helped others against us with their weapons. Become two parties: one helped and guided. To the truth, the other doomed to punishment. Unjust they have invented lies. Iblis beguiled them from the truth— they are disappointed and frustrated.

We turned back to the prophet Muhammad's words. 'Twas well with us, friends of truth, and we were made happy. We are the nearest in kin to them. But there's no next-of-kin when friendship is lacking. What sister's son after us will trust you? What son-in-law after mine can be relied on? You will know which of us has found the truth: the one who gives his heart to God. And the other who turns to Mecca. Who helped others against us with their weapons. Become two parties: one helped and guided. To the truth, the other doomed to punishment. Unjust they have invented lies. Iblis beguiled them from the truth— they are disappointed and frustrated.

We turned back to the prophet Muhammad's words. 'Twas well with us, friends of truth, and we were made happy. We are the nearest in kin to them. But there's no next-of-kin when friendship is lacking. What sister's son after us will trust you? What son-in-law after mine can be relied on? You will know which of us has found the truth: the one who gives his heart to God. And the other who turns to Mecca. Who helped others against us with their weapons. Become two parties: one helped and guided. To the truth, the other doomed to punishment. Unjust they have invented lies. Iblis beguiled them from the truth— they are disappointed and frustrated.

We turned back to the prophet Muhammad's words. 'Twas well with us, friends of truth, and we were made happy. We are the nearest in kin to them. But there's no next-of-kin when friendship is lacking. What sister's son after us will trust you? What son-in-law after mine can be relied on? You will know which of us has found the truth: the one who gives his heart to God. And the other who turns to Mecca. Who helped others against us with their weapons. Become two parties: one helped and guided. To the truth, the other doomed to punishment. Unjust they have invented lies. Iblis beguiled them from the truth— they are disappointed and frustrated.
THE LODGEMENTS OF THE EMIGRANTS IN MEDINA

321 'Umar accompanied by various members of his family, and his brother Zayd, and 'Amr and 'Abdullah the sons of Suràqa b. al-Mu'tamir, and Khunays b. Hûdâhâ al-Sahmi (who had married 'Umar's daughter Hafsa whom the apostle married after the death of her husband), and Waqîq b. 'Abdullah al-Tamimi an ally of theirs, and Khauli and Mâlik b. Abû Khauli, two allies (265), and four sons of al-Bukayr, namely Iyâs, 'Aqîl, 'Amir, and Khâlid; and their allies from B. Sa'd b. Layth; when they arrived at Medina stayed with Rîfâ'a b. 'Abdul'Mundhir b. Zanbar among B. 'Amr b. 'Auf in Qubâ'. 'Ayyâsh also stayed with him when he came to Medina.

The following stayed with Kulthûm b. Hidm brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf in Qubâ': Hamza b. 'Abdullâl-Mu'tâlib; Zayd b. Hârîthâ; Abû Marthad Kannâz b. Hâsân (267); and his son Marthad of the tribe Ghânî, allies of Hamza; Anasa; and Abû Kabsâ, freedmen of the apostle. Other reports are that they stayed with Sa'd b. Khaythama; and that Hamza stayed with As'ad b. Zurâra.

With Sa'd b. al-Rabî' b. al-Ḩârîth b. al-Khâzraj in the house of the latter stayed 'Abdullâl-Râhîm b. 'Auf with some male emigrants.

With Sa'd b. Mu'âdh b. al-Nu'mân brother of the B. 'Abdullâl-Ashhal in their dwelling stayed Mus'ab b. 'Umayr b. Hâshim brother of the B. 'Abdullâl-Dâr.

With Aus b. Thâbit b. al-Mundhir, brother of Hassân b. Thâbit in the dwelling of B. al-Najjar stayed 'Uthmân b. 'Affân. This was the reason why Hassân was so fond of 'Uthmân and lamented him when he was slain.

It is said that the celibate emigrants stayed with Sa'd b. Khaythama because he himself was unmarried; but God knows best about that.

1 In the upper part of Medina.
After his companions had left, the apostle stayed in Mecca waiting for permission to migrate. Except for Abū Bakr and 'Ali, none of his supporters were left but those under restraint and those who had been forced to apostatize. The former kept asking the apostle for permission to emigrate and he would answer, 'Don't be in a hurry; it may be that God will give you a companion.' Abū Bakr hoped that it would be Muhammad himself.

When the Quraysh saw that the apostle had a party and companions not of their tribe and outside their territory, and that his companions had migrated to join them, and knew that they had settled in a new home and had gained protectors, they feared that the apostle might join them, since they knew that he had decided to fight them. So they assembled in their council chamber, the house of Qusayy b. Kilāb where all their important business was conducted, to take counsel what they should do in regard to the apostle, for they were now in fear of him.

One of our companions whom I have no reason to doubt told me on the authority of 'Abdullah b. Abī Najīh from Mujāhid b. Jubiyyr father of al-Ihājaj; and another person of the same character on the authority of 'Abdullāh b. 'Abbās told me that when they had fixed a day to come to a decision about the apostle, on the morning of that very day which was called the day of al-Zaḥma the devil came to them in the form of a handsome old man clad in a mantle and stood at the door of the house. When they saw him standing there they asked him who he was and he told them that he was a shaykh from the highlands who had heard of their intention and had come to hear what they had to say and perhaps to give them counsel and advice. He was invited to enter and there he found the leaders of Quraysh. From B. 'Abdu Shams were 'Utba and Shayba sons of Rabī‘a; and Abū Sufyān. From B. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manāf Ṭu‘ayma b. 'Adiy; Jubiyyr b. Mu‘īn; and al-Hāriz b. Ṭāmīr b. Naufal. From B. 'Abdu‘l-Dar al-Nadr b. al-Ihājaj b. Kaldā. From B. Asad b. 'Abdu‘l-Uzza Abī‘l-Bakhtarī b. Hishām and Zam‘a b. al-Awsad b. al-Mussālib; and Ḥakim b. Ḥizām. From B. Makhzūm Abū Jahl b. Hishām. From B. Sahm Nubayh and Munabbib the sons of al-Ihājaj. From B. Jumāh Umayya b. Khalaf, and others including some who were not of Quraysh.

The discussion opened with the statement that now that Muhammad had gained adherents outside the tribe they were no longer safe against a sudden attack and the meeting was to determine the best course to pursue. One advised that they should put him in irons behind bars and then wait until the same fate overtook him as befell his like, the poets Zuhayr and Nabīgha, and others. The shaykh objected to this on the ground that news would leak out that he was imprisoned, and immediately his followers would attack and snatch him away; then their numbers would so grow that they would destroy the authority of Quraysh altogether.
They must think of another plan. Another man suggested that they should drive him out of the country. They did not care where he went or what happened to him once he was out of sight and they were rid of him. They could then restore their social life to its former state. Again the shaykh objected that it was not a good plan. His fine speech and beautiful diction and the compelling force of his message were such that if he settled with some Beduin tribe he would win them over so that they would follow him and come and attack them in their land and rob them of their position and authority and then he could do what he liked with them. They must think of a better plan.

Thereupon Abū Jahl said that he had a plan which had not been suggested hitherto, namely that each clan should provide a young, powerful, well-born, aristocratic warrior; that each of these should be provided with a sharp sword; that each of them should strike a blow at him and kill him. Thus they would be relieved of him, and responsibility for his blood would lie upon all the clans. The B. 'Abdu Manāf could not fight them all and would have to accept the blood-money which they would all contribute to. The shaykh exclaimed: ‘The man is right. In my opinion it is the only thing to do.’ Having come to a decision the people dispersed.

Then Gabriel came to the apostle and said: ‘Do not sleep tonight on the bed on which you usually sleep.’ Before much of the night had passed they assembled at his door waiting for him to go to sleep so that they might fall upon him. When the apostle saw what they were doing he told ‘Ali to lie on his bed and to wrap himself in his green Hadrami mantle; for no harm would befall him. He himself used to sleep in this mantle.

Yazīd b. Ziyād on the authority of Muhammad b. Ka'b, al-Qurayzī told me that when they were all outside his door Abū Jahl said to them: ‘Muhammad alleges that if you follow him you will be kings of the Arabs and the Persians. Then after death you will be raised to gardens like those of the Jordan. But if you do not follow him you will be slaughtered, and when you are raised from the dead you will be burned in the fire of hell.’ The apostle came out to them with a handful of dust saying: ‘I do say that. You are one of them.’ God took away their sight so that they could not see him and he began to sprinkle the dust on their heads as he recited these verses: ‘Ya Sin, by the wise Quran. Thou art of those that art sent on a straight path, a revelation of the Mighty the Merciful’ as far as the words ‘And we covered them and they could not see’,2. When he had finished reciting not one of them but had dust upon his head. Then he went wherever he wanted to go and someone not of their company came up and asked them what they were waiting for there. When they said that they were waiting for Muhammad he said: ‘But good heavens Muhammad came out to you and put dust on the head of every single man of you and then went off on his own affairs. Can’t you see what has happened to you?’ They put up their hands and felt the dust on their heads. Then they began to search and saw ‘Ali on the bed wrapped in the apostle’s mantle and said, ‘By God it is Muhammad sleeping in his mantle.’ Thus they remained until the morning when ‘Ali rose from the bed and then they realized that the man had told them the truth.

Among the verses of the Quran which God sent down about that day and what they had agreed upon are: ‘And when the unbelievers plot to throw thee up or to kill thee or to drive thee out they plot, but God plots also, and God is the best of plotters’;1 and ‘Or they say he is a poet for whom we may expect the misfortune of fate. Say: Go on expecting for I am with you among the expectant’ (269).2

It was then that God gave permission to his prophet to migrate. Now Abū Bakr was a man of means, and at the time that he asked the apostle’s permission to migrate and he replied ‘Do not hurry; perhaps God will give you a companion,’ hoping that the apostle meant himself he bought two camels and kept them tied up in his house supplying them with fodder in preparation for departure.

A man whom I have no reason to doubt told me as from ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr that ‘Aisha said: ‘The apostle used to go to Abū Bakr’s house every day either in the early morning or at night; but on the day when he was given permission to migrate from Mecca he came to us at noon, an hour at which he was not wont to come. As soon as he saw him Abū Bakr realized that something had happened to bring him at this hour. When he came in Abū Bakr gave up his seat to him. Only my sister Asmā’ and I were there and the apostle asked him to send us away. ‘But they are my two daughters and they can do no harm, may my father and my mother be your ransom,’ said Abū Bakr. ‘God has given me permission to depart and migrate,’ he answered. ‘Together?’ asked Abū Bakr. ‘Together,’ he replied. And by God before that day I had never seen anyone weep for joy as Abū Bakr wept then. At last he said, ‘O prophet of God, these are the two camels which I have held in readiness for this.’ So they hired ‘Abdallāh b. Arqat, a man of B. ‘l-Dîl b. Bakr whose mother was a woman of B. Sahm b. ‘Amr, an alim and a polytheist to drive him out of the country. They did not care where he

1 3Sūrā 8, 20.
2 3Sūrā 32, 20.
3 At this point in Suhayl’s commentary (ii. p. 2) there is a note of considerable importance in the light it throws on the textual tradition of our author. It runs thus: Ibn Ishāq said (in a narration which does not come via Ibn Hishām) in a long, sound, tradition which I have shortened that when Abū Bakr migrated with the apostle he left his daughters behind in Mecca. When they got to Medina the apostle sent Sayyid b. Ḥaritha and Abū Raffi his freedman; and Abū Bakr sent ‘Abdallāh b. Urayqit together with 500 dirhems with which they bought a mount in Qudayd. Arrived at Mecca they brought away Saws of Zama’s and Fāima and Umm Kalūhin. ‘Aisha said: My mother came out with them and Taʾīnah b. ‘Ubaydallāh travelling together; and when we were in Qudayd the camel on which my mother Umm Rūmān and I were riding in a litter, bolted, and my mother began to cry Ali, my daughter, alas my husband!’ In the tradition of ‘Urūs from Ibn Ishāq there is...
According to what I have been told none knew when the apostle left except 'Ali and Abu Bakr and the latter’s family. I have heard that the apostle told 'Ali about his departure and ordered him to stay behind in Mecca in order to return goods which men had deposited with the apostle; for anyone in Mecca who had property which he was anxious about left it with him because of his notorious honesty and trustworthiness.

When the apostle decided to go he came to Abu Bakr and the two of them left by a window in the back of the latter’s house and made for a cave on Thaur, a mountain below Mecca. Having entered, Abu Bakr ordered his son ‘Abdullah to listen to what people were saying and to come to them by night with the day’s news. He also ordered ‘Amir b. Fuhayra, his freedman, to feed his flock by day and to bring them to them in the evening in the cave. Asma’ his daughter used to come at night with food to sustain them (270).

The two of them stayed in the cave for three days. When Quraysh missed the apostle they offered a hundred she-camels to anyone who would bring him back. During the day ‘Abdullah was listening to their plans and conversation and would come at night with the news. ‘Amir used to pasture his flock with the shepherds of Mecca and when night fell would bring them to the cave where they milked them and slaughtered some. When ‘Abdullah left them in the morning to go to Mecca, ‘Amir would take the sheep over the same route to cover his tracks. When the three days had passed and men’s interest waned, the man they had hired came with their camels and one of his own. Asma’ came too with a bag of provisions; but she had forgotten to bring a rope, so that when they started she could not tie the bag on the camel. Thereupon she undid her girdle and using it as a rope tied the bag to the saddle. For this reason she got the name ‘She of the girdle’ (271).

When Abu Bakr brought the two camels to the apostle he offered the better one to him and invited him to ride her. But the apostle refused to ride an animal which was not his own and when Abu Bakr wanted to give him it he demanded to know what he had paid for it and bought it from him. They rode off, and Abu Bakr carried ‘Amir his freedman behind him to act as a servant on the journey.

I was told that Asma’ said, ‘When the apostle and Abu Bakr had gone, a number of Quraysh including Abu Jahl came to us and stood at the door. When I went out to them they asked where my father was and when I said that I did not know Abu Jahl, who was a rough dissolute man, slapped my face so violently that my earring flew off. Then they took themselves off and we remained for three days without news until a man mention of this hadith. In it ‘Aisha said ‘I heard a voice but could see no one...’, and she goes on to describe how they came to Medina and found the apostle building a mosque and houses for himself. ‘I stayed with Abu Bakr’s family and Sauda in her own house, and Abu Bakr asked the apostle if he would not build for his family, and when he said that he would if he had the money Abu Bakr gave him 12 oxes and 20 dirhams.’ This tradition from ‘Aisha comes via Ibn Abi’l-Zinad from Hisham b. ‘Urwa from his father.

The Life of Muhammad

of the Jinn came from the lower part of Mecca singing some verses in the Arab way. And Io people were following him and listening to his voice but they could not see him, until he emerged from the upper part of Mecca saying the while:

God the Lord of men give the best of his rewards
To the two companions who rested in the two tents of Umm Ma’bad.
They came with good intent and went off at nightfall.
May Muhammad’s companion prosper!
May the place of the Banu Ka’b’s woman bring them luck,
For she was a look-out for the believers’ (272).

Asma’ continued: ‘When we heard his words we knew that the apostle was making for Medina. There were four of them: the apostle, Abu Bakr, ‘Amir, and ‘Abdullah b. Arqat their guide’ (273).

Yaiya b. ‘Abbad b. ‘Abdullah b. al-Zubayr told me that his father ‘Abbad told him that his grandmother Asma’ said: ‘When the apostle went forth with Abu Bakr the latter carried all his money with him to the amount of five or six thousand dirhams. My grandfather Abu Quhafa who had lost his sight came to call on us saying that he thought that Abu Bakr had put us in a difficulty by taking off all his money. I told him that he had left us plenty of money. And I took some stones and put them in a niche where Abu Bakr kept his money; then I covered them with a cloth and took his hand and said, “Put your hand on this money, father.” He did so and said: “There’s nothing to worry about; he has done well in leaving you this, you will have enough.” In fact he had left us nothing, but I wanted to set the old man’s mind at rest.’

Al-Zuhri told me that ‘Abdu’l-Rahman b. Malik b. Ju’shun told him from his father, from his uncle Suraga b. Malik b. Ju’shun: ‘When the apostle migrated Quraysh offered a reward of a hundred camels to anyone who would bring him back. While I was sitting in my people’s assembly one of our men came up and stopped saying, “By God, I’ve just seen three riders passing. I think they must be Muhammad and his companions.” I gave him a wink enjoining silence and said “They are the so-and-so looking for a lost camel.” “Perhaps so,” he said and remained silent. I remained there for a short while; then I got up and went to my house and ordered my horse to be got ready, for it was tethered for me in the bottom of the valley. Then I asked for my weapons and they were brought from the back of the room. Then I took my divining arrows and went out, having put on my armour. Then I cast the divining arrows and out came the arrow which I did not want: “Do him no harm.” I did the same again and got the same result. I was hoping to bring him back to Quraysh so that I might win the hundred camels reward.

1 Some mark indicating this would be on the straw.
he stumbled and threw me. I thought this was somewhat unusual so I resorted to the divining arrows again and out came the detestable “Do him no harm.” But I refused to be put off and rode on in pursuit. Again my horse stumbled and threw me, and again I tried the arrows with the same result. I rode on, and at last as I saw the little band my horse stumbled with me and its forelegs went into the ground and I fell. Then as it got its legs out of the ground smoke arose like a sandstorm. When I saw that I knew that he was protected against me and would have the upper hand. I called to them saying who I was and asking them to wait for me; and that they need have no concern, for no harm would come to them from me. The apostle told Abū Bakr to ask what I wanted and I said, “Write a document for me which will be a sign between you and me” and the apostle instructed Abū Bakr to do so.

‘He wrote it on a bone, or a piece of paper, or a potsherded and threw it to me and I put it in my quiver and went back. I kept quiet about the whole affair until when the apostle conquered Mecca and finished with al-Ṭa‘if and Hunayn I went out to give him the document and I met him in al-Jīrānā.

‘I got among a squadron of the Ansār cavalry and they began to beat me with their spears, saying, “Be off with you; what on earth do you want?”
However, I got near to the apostle as he sat on his camel and his shank in his stirrup looked to me like the trunk of a palm-tree. I lifted my hand with the document, saying what it was and what my name was. He said “It is a day of repaying and goodness. Let him come near.” So I approached him and accepted Islam. Then I remembered something that I wanted to ask him. All I can remember now is that I said “Stray camels used to come to my cistern which I kept full for my own camels. Shall I get a reward for having let them have water?” “Yes,” he said, “for watering every thirsty creature there is a reward.” Then I returned to my people and brought my alms to the apostle’ (274).

Their guide, ‘Abdullah b. Arqāt, took them below Mecca; then along the shore until he crossed the road below ‘Usfān; then below Amaj; then after passing Qudayd by way of al-Kharrār and Thaniyyatu‘l-Marra to Liqf (275).

He took them past the waterhole of Liqf, then down to Madlajatu Muḥāj (276), then past Marjiḥ Muḥāj, then down to Marjiḥ of Dhū‘l-Ghādwayn (277), then the valley of Dhū Kaṣbūr; then by al-Jadājīd, then al-‘Aṣrār, then Dhū Salam of the valley of A‘dā‘a, the waterhole of Ta‘hīn, then by al-‘Abābin (278), then by way of al-Fājīa (279). Then he took them down to al-‘Aṣrār; and one of their mounts having dropped behind, a man of Aslam, Aus b. ʻUrayj by name, took the prophet to Medina on his camel which was called Ibn al-Ridā‘, sending with him a servant called

1 This story is cast in the familiar form of the story-teller: the same words are repeated again and again until the climax is reached. In the translation given above the sense is given —not the repetitions.

2 A place near Mecca on the road to al-Ṭa‘if.

Mas‘ūd b. Hunayda. From ‘Aţā the guide took them to Thaniyyatu‘l-‘Aţār (280) to the right of Rukūbā until he brought them down to the valley of Rīm; thence to Qubā’ to B. ‘Amr b. ʻAuf on Monday 12th Rabi‘u‘l-awwal at high noon.

Muhammad b. Ḥafṣ b. al-Zubayr from ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr from ‘Abdu‘l-Rahmān b. ‘Uwaymīr b. Sā‘īda told me, saying, ‘Men of my tribe who were the apostle’s companions told me, “When we heard that the apostle had left Mecca and we were eagerly expecting his arrival we used got out after morning prayers to our lava tract beyond our land to await him. This we did until there was no more shade left and then we went indoors in the hot season. On the day that the apostle arrived we had sat as we always had until there being no more shade we went indoors and then the apostle arrived. The first to see him was a Jew. He had seen what we were in the habit of doing and that we were expecting the arrival of the apostle and he called out at the top of his voice ‘O Banū Qayla your luck has come!’ So we went out to greet the apostle who was in the shadow of a palm-tree with Abū Bakr who was of like age. Now most of us had never seen the apostle and as the people crowded round him they did not know him from Abū Bakr until the shade left him and Abū Bakr got up with his mantle and shielded him from the sun, and then we knew.”

The apostle, so they say, stayed with Kūlhūm b. Ḥīdīm brother of the B. ‘Amr b. ʻAuf, one of the B. ‘Ubayd. Others say he stayed with Sa‘d
b. Khaythama. Those who assert the former say that it was only because he left Kūlhūm to go and sit with the men in Sa‘d’s house (for he was a bachelor and housed the apostle’s companions who were bachelors) that it is said that he stayed with Sa‘d’s, for his house used to be called the house of the bachelors. But God knows the truth of the matter.

Abū Bakr stayed with Khubayb b. ʻIsāf, one of the B. al-Ḥārīth b. al-Khazzraj in al-Sunh. Some say it was with Khārijā b. Zayd b. Abū Zuhray, brother of the B. al-Ḥārīth.

‘All stayed in Mecca for three days and nights until he had restored the deposits which the apostle held. This done he joined the apostle and lodged with him at Kūlhūm’s house. He stayed in Qubā’ only a night or two. He used to say that in Qubā’ there was an unmarried Muslim woman and he noticed that a man used to come to her in the middle of the night and knock on her door; she would come out and he would give her something.
He felt very suspicious of him and asked her what was the meaning of this nightly performance as she was a Muslim woman without a husband.
She told him that the man was Sahl b. Hunayf b. Ḥāwīb who knew that she was all alone and he used to break up the idols of his tribe at night and bring her the pieces to use as fuel. 'Ali used to talk of this incident until Sahl died in Iraq while he was with him. Hind b. Sa'd b. Sahl b. Ḥunayf told me this story from what 'Ali said.

The apostle stayed in Qubā' among B. 'Amr b. 'Auf from Monday to Thursday and then he laid the foundation of his mosque. Then God brought him out from them on the Friday. The B. 'Amr allege that he stayed longer with them, and God knows the truth of the matter. Friday prayer found the apostle among B. Sālim b. 'Auf and he prayed it in the mosque which is in the bottom of the Wādī Rāmūnā'. This was the first Friday prayer that he prayed in Medina.

Ibān b. Mālik and 'Abdās b. 'Ubāda b. Najla with some of B. Sālim b. 'Auf came and asked him to live with them and enjoy their wealth and protection, but he said, 'Let her go her way,' for his camel was under God's orders; so they let her go until she came to the home of B. Bayāda, where he was met by Ziyād b. Labid and Farwa b. 'Amr with some of their clansmen. They gave the same invitation and met with the same reply. The same thing happened with B. Sā'ida when Sa'd b. 'Ubāda and al-Mundhir b. 'Amr invited him to stay; and with B. 'I-Hārith b. al-Khazraj represented by Sa'd b. al-Rabi' and Khārijah b. Zayd and 'Abdullah b. Rawāḥa; and with B. 'Adiy b. al-Najār (who were his nearest maternal relatives the mother of 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib Salmā d, 'Amr being one of their women), being represented by Salīt b. Qays and Abū Salīt and Uṣayya b. Abū Khārijah. Finally the camel came to the home of B. Mālik b. al-Najār when it knelt at the door of his mosque, which at that time was used as a drying-place for dates and belonged to two young orphans of B. al-Najār of B. Mālik clan, who were under the protection of Mu'ādh b. 'Afrā', Sahl and Suhayl the sons of Amr. When it knelt the apostle did not alight, and it got up and went a short distance. The apostle left its rein free, not guiding it, and it turned in its tracks and returned to the place where it had knelt at first and knelt there again. It shook itself and lay exhausted with its chest upon the ground. The apostle alighted and Abū Ayyūb Khālid b. Zayd took his baggage into the house (T). The Anṣār invited him to stay with them, but he said 'A man (stays) with his baggage' and the apostle stayed with him. When he asked to whom the date-store belonged Mu'ādh b. 'Afrā' told him that the owners were Sahl and Suhayl the sons of Amr who were orphans in his care and that he could take it for a mosque and he would pay the young men for it.

The apostle ordered that a mosque should be built, and he stayed with Abū Ayyūb until the mosque and his houses were completed. The apostle joined in the work to encourage the Muslims to work and the muḥājirīn and the anṣār laboured hard. One of the Muslims rhymed:

If we sat down while the prophet worked
It could be said that we had shirked.

1 T. 1259. 7.

As they built, the Muslims sang a rajaz verse:

There's no life but the life of the next world,
O God, have mercy on the anṣār and the muḥājirīn (281).

The apostle used to sing it in the form

There's no life but the life of the next world,
O God, have mercy on the muḥājirīn and the anṣār.

'Ammār b. Yāsir came in when they had overloaded him with bricks, saying, 'They are killing me. They load me with burdens they can't carry themselves.' Um'm Salama the prophet's wife said: I saw the apostle run his hand through his hair—for he was a curly-haired man—and say 'Alas Ibn Sumayya! It is not they who will kill you but a wicked band of men.'

'Ali composed a rajaz verse on that day:

There's one that labours night and day
To build us mosques of brick and clay
And one who turns from dust away! (282.)

And 'Ammār learned it and began to chant it.

When he persisted in it one of the prophet's companions thought that it was he who was referred to in it according to what Ziyād b. 'Abdullah al-Bakka'ī told me from Ibn Iṣḥāq. The latter had actually named the man.2

He said: 'I have heard what you have been saying for a long time, O Ibn Sumayya, and by God I think I'll hit you on the nose!' Now he had a stick in his hand and the apostle was angry and said, 'What is wrong between you and 'Ammār? He invites them to Paradise while they invite him to hell. 'Ammār is as dear to me as my own face. If a man behaves like this he will not be forgiven, so avoid him.'

Sufyān b. Uyyāna mentioned on the authority of Zakariyya from al-Sha'bî that the first man to build a mosque was 'Ammār b. Yāsir.

The apostle lived in Abū Ayyūb's house until his mosque and dwelling-houses were built; then he removed to his own quarters.

Yazīd b. Abū Habīb from Marthad b. 'Abdullah al-Yu'zantī from Abū Rūm al-Samā'il told me that Abū Ayyūb told him: 'When the apostle came to lodge with me in my house he occupied the ground floor, while I and Um'm Ayyūb were above. I said to him, 'O prophet of God, you

1 By this alteration the rhyme and rhythm were destroyed.
2 The prophecy is said to have been fulfilled when 'Ammār was killed at Siffin; Suhaylī, ii, p. 3.
3 Suhaylī says: Ibn Iṣḥāq did name the man, but Ibn Iṣḥāq preferred not to do so so as not to mention one of the prophet's companions in disgraceful circumstances. [Cf. what Ibn Iṣḥāq says to his introduction.] Therefore it can never be right to inquire after his identity. Abū Dharr says: Ibn Iṣḥāq did name the man and said 'This man was 'Utbūn b. 'Affān.' The Cairo editors say that in the Mawdū'h al-laduniya (al-Qastallānī, d. A.D. 1577) the man is said to be 'Utbūn b. Mas'ūd. This late writer may safely be ignored on this point.
are dear to me as my parents, and I am distressed that I should be above and you below me. So leave your present quarters and exchange places with us." He replied: "O Abū Ayyūb, it is more convenient for me and my guests that we should be on the ground floor of the house." So we remained as we were. Once we broke a jar of water and Umm Ayyūb and I took one of our garments to mop up the water in fear that it would drop on the apostle and cause him annoyance. We had no cloth which we could use.

'We used to prepare his evening meal and send it to him. When he returned what was left, Umm Ayyūb and I used to touch the spot where his hand had rested and eat from that in the hope of gaining a blessing. One night we prepared for him onions or garlic and the apostle returned it and I saw no mark of his hand in it. I went to him in some anxiety to tell him of our practice and that this time there was no mark of his hand, and he replied that he had perceived the smell of the vegetables and he was a man who had to speak confidentially to people but that we should eat them. So we ate the dish and never sent him onions again.'

339 The emigrants followed one another to join the apostle, and none was left in Mecca but those who had apostatized or been detained. Whole families with their property did not come together except the B. Maz'ūn from B. 'Junah; the B. Jašh b. 'Irāb, allies of B. 'Umayyā; and the B. Bukayr from B. Sa'ūd b. Layth, allies of B. 'Adī b. Ka'b. Their houses in Mecca were locked up when they migrated, leaving no inhabitant.

When the B. Jašh gave up their house Abū Sufyān went and sold it to Amr b. 'Aal qama brother of B. 'Amīr b. Lu'ayy. When the owners heard of this 'Abdullāh b. Jašh told the apostle of it, and he replied: 'Are you not pleased that God will give you a better house in Paradise?' And when he answered Yes, he said, 'Then you have it.' When the apostle got possession of Mecca Abū Ahmad spoke to him about their house; and the apostle delayed his reply. People said to him, 'The apostle dislikes your reopening the question of your property which you lost in God's service, so don't speak to him about it again.' Abū Ahmad said in reference to Abū Sufyān:

Tell Abū Sufyān of a matter he will live to regret.
You sold your cousin's house to pay a debt you owed.
Your ally by God the Lord of men swears an oath:
Take it, Take it, may [your treachery] cling to you like the ring of the dove.

The apostle stayed in Medina from the month of Rābi‘u‘l-awwal to Safār of the following year until his mosque and his quarters were built. This tribe of the Ansār all accepted Islam and every house of the Ansār accepted Islam except Khaṭṭa‘a, Wāqīf, Wā‘il, and Umayyā who were the Aus Allah, a clan of Aus who clung to their heathenism.

The first address which the apostle gave according to what I heard on the authority of Abū Salama b. 'Abdullāḥ-Rahmān—God save me from attributing to the apostle words which he did not say—was as follows: he praised and glorified God as was His due and then said: O men, send forward (good works) for yourselves. You know, by God, that one of you may be smitten and will leave his flock without a shepherd. Then his Lord will say to him—there will be no interpreter or chamberlain to veil him from Him—Did not My apostle come to you with a message, and did not I give you wealth and show you favour? What have you sent forward for yourself? Then will he look to right and left and see nothing; he will look in front of him and see nothing but hell. He who can shield his face from the fire even with a little piece of date let him do so; and he who cannot find that then with a good word; for the good deed will be rewarded tenfold yea to twice seven hundred fold. Peace be upon you and God's mercy and blessing.

Then the apostle preached on another occasion as follows: Praise belongs to God whom I praise and whose aid I implore. We take refuge in God from our own sins and from the evil of our acts. He whom God guides none can lead astray; and whom He leads astray none can guide. I testify that there is no God but He alone, He is without companion. The finest speech is the Book of God. He to whom God has made it seem glorious and made him enter Islam after unbelief, who has chosen it above all other speech of men, doth prosper. It is the finest speech and the most penetrating. Love what God loves. Love God with all your hearts, and weary not of the word of God and its mention. Harden not your hearts. Out of everything that God creates He chooses and selects; the actions He chooses He calls khūra; the people He chooses He calls mustafā; and the speech He chooses He calls sālih. From everything that is brought to man there is the lawful and the unlawful. Worship God and associate none with Him; fear Him as He ought to be feared; Carry out loyally towards God what you say with your mouths. Love one another in the spirit of God. Verily God is angry when His covenant is broken. Peace be upon you.

THE COVENANT BETWEEN THE MUSLIMS AND THE MEDINANS AND WITH THE JEWS

The apostle wrote a document concerning the emigrants and the helpers in which he made a friendly agreement with the Jews and established them in their religion and their property, and stated the reciprocal obligations, as follows: In the name of God the Compassionate, the Merciful. This is a document from Muhammad the prophet [governing the relations] between the believers and Muslims of Quraysh and Yathrib, and those who

2 Or, perhaps simply 'seven hundredfold'. Here, as in the rest of the sermon, there is an allusion to the Qur'an. Cf. 34. 36 where commentators differ as to the exact meaning of 'y'.

...
followed them and joined them and laboured with them. They are one community (umma) to the exclusion of all men. The Quraysh emigrants according to their present custom shall pay the bloodwit within their number and shall redeem their prisoners with the kindness and justice common among believers.

The B. 'Auf according to their present custom shall pay the bloodwit they paid in heathenism; every section shall redeem its prisoners with the kindness and justice common among believers. The B. Sā'ida, the B. 'l-Hārith, and the B. Jusham, and the B. al-Najjār likewise. 1

The B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, the B. al-Nabīt and the B. al-'Aus likewise. 2

Believers shall not leave anyone destitute among them by not paying his redemption money or bloodwit in kindness (283). A believer shall not take as an ally the freedman of another Muslim against him. The God-fearing believers shall be against the rebellious or him who seeks to spread injustice, or sin or emnity, or corruption between believers; the hand of every man shall be against him even if he be a son of one of them. A believer shall not slay a believer for the sake of an unbeliever, nor shall he aid an unbeliever against a believer, God's protection is one, the least of them may give protection to a stranger on their behalf. Believers are friends one to the other to the exclusion of outsiders. To the Jew who follows us belong help and equality. He shall not be wronged nor shall his enemies be aided. The peace of the believers is indivisible. No separate peace shall be made when believers are fighting in the way of God. Conditions must be fair and equitable to all. In every fara a rider must take another behind him. The believers must avenge the blood of one another shed in the way of God. The God-fearing believers enjoy the best and most upright guidance. No polytheist shall take the property or person of Quraysh under his protection nor shall he intervene against a believer. Whosoever is convicted of killing a believer without good reason shall be subject to retaliation unless the next of kin is satisfied (with blood-money), and the believers shall be against him as one man, and they are bound to take action against him.

It shall not be lawful to a believer who holds by what is in this document and believes in God and the last day to help an evII-doer 3 or to shelter him. The curse of God and His anger on the day of resurrection will be upon him if he does, and neither repentance nor ransom 4 will be received from him. Whenever you differ about a matter it must be referred to God and to Muhammad. The Jews shall contribute to the cost of war so long as they are fighting alongside the believers. The Jews of the B. 'Auf are one community with the believers (the Jews have their religion and the Muslims have theirs), their freedmen and their persons except those who behave unjustly and sinfully, for they hurt but themselves and their families. The same applies to the Jews of the B. al-Najjār, B. al-Hārith, B. Sā'īda, B. Jusham, B. al-'Aus, B. Tha'laba, and the Jafna, a clan of the Tha'laba and the B. al-Shutayba. Loyalty is a protection against treachery. 1 The freedmen of Tha'laba are as themselves. The close friends 2 of the Jews are as themselves. None of them shall go out to war save with the permission of Muhammad, but he shall not be prevented from taking revenge for a wound. He who slays a man without warning slays himself and his household, unless it be one who has wronged him, for God will accept that. The Jews must bear their expenses and the Muslims their expenses. Each must help the other against anyone who attacks the people of this document. They must seek mutual advice and consultation, and loyalty is a protection against treachery. A man is not liable for his ally's misdeeds. The wronged must be helped. The Jews must pay with the believers so long as war lasts. Yathrib shall be a sanctuary for the people of this document. A stranger under protection shall be as his host doing no harm and committing no crime. A woman shall only be given protection with the consent of her family. If any dispute or controversy likely to cause trouble should arise it must be referred to God and to Muhammad the apostle of God. God accepts what is nearest to piety and goodness in this document. Quraysh and their helpers shall not be given protection. The contracting parties are bound to help one another against any attack on Yathrib. If they are called to make peace and maintain it they must do so; and if they make a similar demand on the Muslims it must be carried out except in the case of a holy war. Every one shall have his portion from the side to which he belongs; 3 the Jews of al-'Aus, their freedmen and themselves have the same standing with the people of this document in pure loyalty from the people of this document (284).

Loyalty is a protection against treachery: He who acquires aught 4 acquires it for himself. God approves of this document. This deed will not protect 5 the unjust and the sinner. The man who goes forth to fight and the man who stays at home in the city is safe unless he has been unjust and sinned. God is the protector of the good and God-fearing man and Muhammad is the apostle of God.

1 Wellhausen, Slazien und Vorlieben, v, Berlin, 1889, p. 70. Rinds: 'Aufiheit steht vor 'Enuf' and accuses Spranger and Kielich of incorrectness. S. has 'sie müssen loyal und nicht seltsch handeln' where a general truth is in question. Subayj says the meaning is 'Pietät und loyality stand in the way of treachery' (ii. 17).
2 For the meaning of this word cf. 519, 4 where bifius clearly has such a connotation.
3 This is not clear to me.
4 For this idiom cf. Sura 6. 24.
5 Or 'in Medina'. Whether Medina is meant or not the passage stands self-condemned as a later interpolation because the town is consistently called Yathrib.
BROTHERHOOD BETWEEN EMIGRANTS AND HELPERS

The apostle instituted brotherhood between his fellow emigrants and the helpers, and he said according to what I have heard—and I appeal to God lest I should attribute to him words that he did not say—"Let each of you take a brother in God." He himself took 'Ali by the hand and said, 'This is my brother.' So God's apostle, the lord of the sent ones and leader of the God-fearing, apostle of the Lord of the worlds, the peerless and unequalled, and 'Ali b. Abū Tālib became brothers. Hamza, the lion of God and the lion of his apostle and his uncle, became the brother of Zayd b. Hāriṣa the apostle's freedman. To him Hamza gave his last testament on the day of Uhud when battle was imminent in case he should meet his death. Ja'far b. Abū Tālib—the 'one of the wings' who was to fly in Paradise—and Mu'ādh b. Jabal brother of B. Salama became brothers (285).

The pairs were arranged thus:

'Abdullāh b. Yāsir ally of the B. Makkzūm and Ḥudhayfā b. al-Yamān brother of B. Abū 'Abs ally of the B. Abūl-Ḳāhir. (Others say that Thābit b. Qays b. al-Ṣhammās brother of the B. al-Ḥarīth b. al-Khazraj the prophet's orator and 'Ammār b. Yāsīr.)

Ḫāṭib b. Abū Balṭa'a, ally of B. Asad b. 'Abdu'l-Uzzi and Ḥuwaym b. Šā'īda brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf.

Ṣalmān the Persian and Abūl-Dardā' Uwaymīr b. Tha'labā brother of B. al-Ḥarīth (287). Some say Uwaymīr was the son of 'Amīr or of Zayd, Bilāl freedman of Abū Bakr and the apostle's muezzin and Abū Ruwaḥa1.

1 A khawār characteristic of a negro, 'the father of the faint smell'. Cf. H. Lammens, L'Arabie occidentale avant l'Hégire, p. 246.

Abū Umāma

During the months in which the mosque was being built Abū Umāma As'ād b. Zurārā died; he was seized by diphtheria and a rattling in the throat.

'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amīr b. Ḥazīt told me on the authority of Yaḥyā b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdu'l-Ḥarīm b. As'ād b. Zurārā that the apostle said: 'How unfortunate is the death of Abū Umāma! The Jews and the Arab hypocrites are sure to say "If he were a prophet his companion would not die" and (truly) I have no power from God for myself or for my companion (to avert death).'

'Asīm b. 'Umar b. Qatāda al-Ḳansārī told me that when Abū Umāma died the B. al-Ḳāhir came to the apostle, for Abū Umāma was their leader, saying that he held the high rank the apostle knew of and would appoint someone from among them to act in his place; to which the apostle replied, 'You are my maternal uncles, and we belong together so I will be your leader.' The apostle did not want to prefer any one of them to the others. Henceforth the B. al-Ḳāhir regarded themselves as highly honoured in having the apostle as their leader.

THE CALL TO PRAYER

When the apostle was firmly settled in Medina and his brethren the emigrants were gathered to him and the affairs of the helpers were arranged Islam became firmly established. Prayer was instituted, the alms tax and fasting were prescribed, legal punishments fixed, the forbidden and the permitted prescribed, and Islam took up its abode with them. It was this clan of the helpers who 'have taken up their abode (in the city of the prophet) and in the faith'.1 When the apostle first came, the people gathered to him for prayer at the appointed times without being summoned. At first the apostle thought of using a trumpet like that of the Jews who used it to summon to prayer. Afterwards he disliked the idea and ordered a clapper of the Shi'a cry 'Alam'ah, and the Sufis, 'Abd al-Aziz.

to be made, so it was duly fashioned to be beaten when the Muslims should pray.

Meanwhile 'Abdullah b. Zayd b. Tha'labah b. 'Abdu Rabbih, brother of B. al-Harith, heard a voice in a dream, and came to the apostle saying: 'A phantom visited me in the night. There passed by me a man wearing two green garments carrying a clapper in his hand, and I asked him to sell it to me. When he asked me what I wanted it for I told him that it was to summon people to prayer, whereupon he offered to show me a better way: it was to say thrice "Allah Akbar. I bear witness that there is no God but Allah I bear witness that Muhammad is the apostle of God. Come to prayer. Come to prayer. Come to divine service." Come to divine service. Allah Akbar. Allah Akbar. There is no God but Allah."' When the apostle was told of this he said that it was a true vision if God so willed it, and that he should go with Bilal and communicate it to him so that he might call to prayer thus, for he had a more penetrating voice. When Bilal acted as muezzin 'Umar heard him in his house and came to the apostle dragging his cloak on the ground and saying that he had seen precisely the same vision. The apostle said, 'God be praised for that!' I was told of this tradition by Muhammad b. Ibrāhīm b. al-Harith on the authority of Muhammad b. 'Abdullah b. Zayd b. Tha'labah himself (288).

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr told me on the authority of 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from a woman of B. al-Najjar who said: My house was the highest of those round the mosque and Bilal used to give the call from the top of it at dawn every day. He used to come before daybreak and would sit on the housetop waiting for the dawn. When he saw it he would stretch his arms and say, 'O God, I praise thee and ask thy help for Quraysh that they may accept thy religion.' I never knew him to omit these words for a single night.

ABŪ QAYS B. ABŪ ANAS

When the apostle was established in his house and God had manifested his religion therein and made him glad with the company of the emigrants and helpers Abū Qays spoke the following verses (289).

He was a man who had lived as a monk in heathen days and worn a black mantle of camel-hair, given up idols, washed himself after impurity, kept himself clean from women in their courses. He had thought of adopting Christianity but gave it up and went into a house of his and made

1 Falaḥ. This word is generally rendered 'salvation' or 'prosperity'; cf. Lane, 2439a. But it has always seemed to me that it must be an arabized form of the Aramaic sabāhā, divine worship. Its original meaning is dearly cut, especially pleading. Among Aramaic-speaking Jews and Christians it was connected with the service of God. Between the words 'Come to the falaḥ and Allah Akbar' the Shi'a cry 'Come to the best work (šamāl) which must surely be a memory of the original meaning of falaḥ. I. Sayyid al-'Nis′ Uyamsīr- Alhār, Cairo, 1336, i. 204, quotes this story in what appears to be a more primitive form.

2 A. Dh. explains that 'uddīl, a wearisome incurable disease, is a metaphor.
My sons, transgress not the proper limits
Transgressing the bounds brings one to a hilt.
O my sons, trust not the days.
Beware their treachery and the passage of time.
Know that it consumes all creation,
Both the new and the old.
Live your lives in piety and godliness.
Abandon obscenity and hold fast to what is right.¹

In the following poem he mentioned how God had honoured them with Islam and His special favour in sending His apostle to them:

He abode among Quraysh some ten years
Hoping for a friend to help him.
He displayed himself to those who came to the fairs
But found none to offer him hospitality.
But when he came to us God displayed his religion
And he became happy and contented in Medina.⁵
He found friends and ceased to long for home
And was plainly helped by God.³
He told us what Noah said to his people
And what Moses answered when he was called.
None near at hand need he fear
And those afar he recked not of.⁴
We spent on him the best of our possessions,
Sparing not our lives in war at his side.
We know that there is nought beside God
And we know that God is the best guide.
We shall fight any man that fights Him,
Be he our dearest friend.
In every mosque when I pray to Thee
I say Blessed art Thou (Oft have I mentioned Thy name).
I say when I traverse a land I fear
'Mercy! Let not my enemies triumph over me.'
Go where you will death comes in many guises
And you cannot live for ever.
A man does not know how to protect himself
Unless he makes God his protector.
The palm that needs water² cares naught for its owner.
It if it has moisture, though he be dead (291).

¹ The influence of Syriac as in the words shamma' and tshhîm is clear, and some of the verses are reminiscent of the Psalms.
² This is the fragment, which is the ancient honorific of Medina. Cf. Hassan's opening line on p. 1222, 'In Tiha are the monuments of his luminous sojourn'.
³ W.'s text 'He was a plain help to us from God' seems inferior to the C. text.
⁴ The verse is just as banal in the original.
⁵ I follow C. in reading mu'âma for W.'s muqâma, and tâdâya for tâdâya 'standing'.

The Life of Muhammad

About this time the Jewish rabbis showed hostility to the apostle in envy, hatred, and malice, because God had chosen His apostle from the Arabs.

They were joined by men from al-Aus and al-Khazraj who had obstinately clung to their heathen religion. They were hypocrites, clinging to the polytheism of their fathers denying the resurrection; yet when Islam appeared and their people flocked to it they were compelled to pretend to accept it to save their lives. But in secret they were hypocrites whose inclination was towards the Jews because they considered the apostle a liar and strove against Islam.

It was the Jewish rabbis who used to annoy the apostle with questions and introduce confusion, so as to confound the truth with falsity. The Quran used to come down in reference to these questions of theirs, though some of the questions about what was allowed and forbidden came from the Muslims themselves. These are the names of those Jews:

From B. Thalâbul b. al-Fiyaun: 'Abdullah b. Sûrî, the one-eyed who was the most learned man of his time in the Hijaz in Torah studies; Ibn Sâlâm and Mukhayrij their rabbi who became a Muslim.

From B. Qaynuqâ': Zayd b. al-Lasit (291); Sa'd b. Hunayf; Mâhâmûd b. Sayhân; 'Uzayr b. Abû 'Uzayr; and Abdullah b. Sayf (292). Suwayd b. al-Hasîrîth; Rifâ'a b. Qays; Finâshâs; Ashya'; Nu'mân b. Abî; Bahriy b. al-Zuhri and from Muhammad b. Shâlî from T. 1253.

350 This paragraph is part of a long chapter which T. devotes to the question of chronology in reference to the principal events in the prophet's life. It is put here because the last passage he quotes from I. in the poem of Abû Qays mentioning the length of the prophet's sojourn in Mecca after the beginning of his mission: the connexion with chronology is obvious.
The Life of Muhammad

"Abdullah b. Salām accepts Islam

I was told the story of "Abdullah b. Salām, a learned rabbi, by one of his family. He said: 'When I heard about the apostle I knew by his description, name, and the time at which he appeared that he was the one we were waiting for, and I rejoiced greatly thereat, though I kept silent about it until the apostle came to Medina. When he stayed in Qubā' among the B. 'Amr b. 'Auf a man came with the news while I was working at the top of a palm-tree and my aunt Khalīda d. al-Ihārīth was sitting below. When I heard the news I cried Allah Akbar and my aunt my assurance that he was. Straightway I went to the apostle and became a Muslim, and when I returned to my house I ordered my family to do the same.

'I concealed the matter from the Jews, and then went to the apostle and said, "The Jews are a nation of liars and I wish you would take me into one of your houses and hide me from them. Then ask them about me so that they may tell you: the position I hold among them before they know that I have become a Muslim. For if they know it beforehand they will utter slanderous lies against me." The prophet housed me; the Jews came; and the apostle asked them about my standing among them. They said: "He is our chief, and the son of our chief; our rabbi, and our learned man." When they said this I emerged and said: "O Jews, fear God and accept what He has sent you. For by God you know that he is the apostle of God. You will find him described in your Torah and even named. I testify that he is the apostle of God, I believe in him, I hold him to be true, and I acknowledge him." They accused me of lying and reviled me. Then I reminded the apostle that I had said that they would do this, for they were a treacherous, lying, and evil people. I publicly proclaimed my conversion and my household and my aunt Khalīda followed suit.'

The Story of Mukhayriq

He was a learned rabbi owning much property in date palms. He recognized the apostle by his description and his own learning, and he felt a predilection for his religion until on the day of Uhud, which fell on the sabbath, he reminded the Jews that they were bound to help Muhammad. They objected that it was the sabbath. 'May you have no sabbath,' he answered, and took his weapons and joined the apostle in Uhud. His parting testimony to his people was: 'If I am killed today my property is to go to Muhammad to use as God shows him.' He was killed in the battle that followed. I am told that the apostle used to say Mukhayriq is the best of the Jews.' The apostle took over his property and all the aims he distributed in Medina came from it.'

The Testimony of Safiyā

"Abdullah b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amr b. Hazm told me that he was told that Safiyā d. Huyayy b. Akhtab said 'I was the favourite child of my father and my uncle Abū Yāsir. When I was present they took no notice of their other children. When the apostle was staying in Qubā' with the B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, the two went to see him before daybreak and did not return until after nightfall, weary, worn out, drooping and feeble.'
The following hypocrites from al-Aus and al-Khazraj joined the Jews according to information given me. God knows best about the truth. From Aus of the section of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf b. Mālik of the subdivision Ladhān b. 'Amr b. 'Auf: Zuwayy b. al-Ḥārith. From B. Hūbayb b. 'Amr b. 'Auf: Julās b. Suwayd b. al-Ṣāmit and his brother al-Ḥārith. Julās was one of those who withdrew from the apostle in the raid on Tabūk. He said, 'If this man is right we are worse than donkeys.' 'Umayr b. Sa'd, one of them, who was closely related to Julās, he having married his mother after his father's death, reported what he had said to the apostle. But first he said to Julās: 'You are dearer to me than any man, the most generous to me, and it is most painful to me that anything should happen to upset you; but you have said words which if I repeat them I shall bring shame upon you, and if I keep silence I shall bring my religion into peril. One is preferable to the other.' Then he went to the apostle and told him what Julās had said. Julās swore by God that he had not said the words attributed to him by 'Umayr. And God sent down concerning him: 'They swear by God that they did not say, when they did actually say, words of unbelief and did disbelieve after they had surrendered themselves. They planned what they could not carry out and they had nothing to avenge but that God and His apostle had enriched them by His bounty. If they repent it will be better for them; and if they turn back God will afflict them with a painful punishment in this world and the next. In this world they have no friend or helper' (295). It is alleged that he repented and was known to be a good Muslim. His brother al-Ḥārith who killed al-Mujāhdhār b. Dhiyād al-Balawī and Qays b. Zayd went out with the Muslims. He was a hypocrite, and when battle was joined he fell upon these two men, killed them, and attached himself to Quraysh (296). Mu'ādh b. 'Afīr killed Suwayd treacherously when there was no war. He shot him with an arrow before the battle of Bu'th. The apostle—so they say—had ordered 'Umar to kill him if he could get hold of him, but he escaped and got to Mecca. Then he sent to his brother Julās asking for forgiveness so that he might return to his people.

1 What Arabic writers mean by 'hypocrites' has been made clear in the section on the Jewish adversaries. It is not a really good rendering of munāfiq, but no one word suggests itself as better. Muslims look with a tolerant eye on a man who conceals his belief through force majeure, but to pretend to be a Muslim is a crime.  ² Sūra 9. 75.
Zayd and Mujammā’. They were also concerned with the mosque of al-Dirār. Mujammā’ was a youth who had collected most of the Quran and he used to lead them in prayer. When the mosque had been destroyed and certain men of B. ‘Amr b. ‘Auf who used to lead their people in prayer in their mosque, died, in the time of ‘Umar, Mujammā’ was mentioned to act as leader, but ‘Umar would not have it, saying, ‘Wasn’t it the imam of the hypocrites in the mosque of al-Dirār?’ He replied: ‘By God, I knew nothing of their affairs. But I was a youngster who could recite the Quran, whereas they could not, so they put me forward to lead the prayers. Their affair seemed to me to accord with the best account they gave.’ They allege that ‘Umar let him go and lead the prayers of his people.

Of B. Umayya b. Zayd b. Mālik: Wādi‘a b. Thābit, one of the builders of the Dirār mosque who said, ‘We were only talking and jesting.’ So God sent down: ‘If you ask them they will say we were only talking and jesting: Say: Is it about God and His signs and His apostle you were jesting?’ to the end of the passage.

Of B. Ubayd b. Zayd b. Mālik: Khidhām b. Khālid, from whose house the mosque of al-Dirār was carved out; and Bishr and Rāfi‘ the two sons of Zayd.

Of B. al-Nabīt (298) of the clan of B. Hārith b. al-Hārith b. al-Khazraj b. ‘Amr b. Mālik b. al-Aus: Mīrba‘ b. Qayzā—who said to the apostle when he passed through his garden on his way to Uḥūd: ‘I do not allow you Muhammad to pass through my garden even if you are a prophet.’ He took a handful of dirt and said: ‘By God, if I did not know that I might throw it on others I would throw this dirt at you.’ The people pressed on him to kill him and the apostle said: ‘Let him alone. For this blind man is blind of heart and blind of perception’. Sa’d b. Zayd brother of B. ‘Abdul-l-Asḥāl hit him with his bow and wounded him; also his brother Ans b. Qayzā—who said to the apostle on the day of the Trench: ‘Our houses lie open to the enemy, so give us leave to go back to them.’ So God revealed concerning him: ‘They say Our houses lie open to the enemy. They are not open; all they want is to run away’ (299).

Of B. Zafar (Zafar’s name was Ka‘b b. al-Hārith b. al-Khazraj): Ḥāṭib b. Umayya b. Rāfi‘. He was a sturdy old man steeped long in paganism. A son of his was one of the best of the Muslims, Yazīd b. Aus b. Zayd. He was suspected of hypocrisy and love of the Jews. He was a sturdy old man steeped long in paganism. A son of his was one of the best of the Muslims, Yazīd b. Aus b. Zayd. He was suspected of hypocrisy and love of the Jews.

359

I have heard that before his repentance Julās together with Mu‘attib, Rāfi‘, and Bishr used to make false profession of Islam. Some Muslims asked them to go to the apostle to settle a matter in dispute between them, while they wanted to refer it to the kahins who acted as arbitrators in the pagan era. So God sent down concerning them: ‘Hast thou considered those who allege that they believe in what has been sent down to thee and what was sent down before thee who wish to go to idolatry for arbitrament? They say: Is it about God and His signs and His apostle you were jesting? By God, I knew nothing of their affairs. But I was a youngster who could recite the Quran, whereas they could not, so they put me forward to lead the prayers. Their affair seemed to me to accord with the best account they gave.’ They allege that ‘Umar let him go and lead the prayers of his people.

Of B. Jusham of the clan of B. Salīma: al-Jidd b. Qays who said, ‘O Muhammad, give me leave (to stay at home) and tempt me not.’ So God sent down concerning him: ‘Hast thou considered those who allege that they believe in what has been sent down to thee and what was sent down before thee who wish to go to idolatry for arbitrament? They say: Is it about God and His signs and His apostle you were jesting? By God, I knew nothing of their affairs. But I was a youngster who could recite the Quran, whereas they could not, so they put me forward to lead the prayers. Their affair seemed to me to accord with the best account they gave.’ They allege that ‘Umar let him go and lead the prayers of his people.

Also Bushayr b. Ubayyiq Abū Tu‘ma, the ‘Stealer of the Two Breast-plates’ concerning whom God sent down: ‘And argue not on behalf of those who deceive themselves. God does not love a sinful deceiver.’ Also Quzman, an ally of theirs.

The same ‘Āṣim told me that the apostle used to say: ‘He belongs to the people of hell.’ At Uḥūd he fought so valiantly that he killed several polytheists. But they severely wounded him and he was carried to the quarters of the B. Zafar. The Muslims said, ‘Cheer up, O Quzman; you have done gallantly today and your sufferings have been for God’s sake.’ He said: ‘Why should I cheer up? I fought only to protect my people.’ And when the pain of his wounds became unendurable he took an arrow from his quiver and cut a vein in his hand and thus committed suicide.

Among B. ‘Abdul-l-Asḥāl no hypocrite male or female was known except al-Dahḥāk b. Thābit, one of the B. Ka‘b of the family of Sa‘d b. Zayd. He was suspected of hypocrisy and love of the Jews.

Hassān b. Thābit said of him:

- Who will tell al-Dahḥāk that his veins
- Were unable to be glorified in Islam?
- Do you love the Jews of al-Hijāz and their religion,
- You liver-hearted ass, and not love Muhammad?
- Their religion will never march with ours
- As long as men roam the open desert.

1 Sūra 9. 66
Hypocrites came down about him and Wadi'a a man of B. *Auf and Malik b. Abū Quqaq and Suwayd and Dā'is of the clan of 'Abdullah b. Ubayy. Those were his men who sent secret messages to B. al-Nadîr when the apostle besieged them: 'Stand fast, for by God if you are driven out we will go forth with you and we will never obey anyone against you and if you are attacked we will help you.' So God sent down concerning them: 'Hast thou not considered the hypocrites who say to their brethren of the scripture folk, If you are driven out we will go forth with you and we will never obey anyone against you and if you are attacked we will help you. God bears witness that they are liars', as far as His words 'Like Satan when he says to men, "Disbelieve,"' and when they disbelieve he says, "I am not responsible for you; for my part I fear God the Lord of the worlds.'

THE RABBIS WHO ACCEPTED ISLAM HYPOCRITICALLY

The following are the Jewish rabbis who took refuge in Islam along with the Muslims and hypocritically professed it: Of B. Qaynuqa': Sa'd b. Hunayf; Zayd b. al-Luṣayt; Nu'man b. Aufa b. 'Amr; 'Uthmān b. Aufā; Zayd b. al-Luṣayt who fought with 'Umar in the market of the B. Qaynuqa'. He was the man who said when the apostle's camel wandered off: 'Muhammad alleges that revelations come to him from heaven and he doesn't know where his camel is!' When the apostle heard of what this enemy of God had said and God had told him where his camel was he said, 'I only know what God lets me know. And God has shown me. It is in such-and-such a glen caught by its rope to a tree.' The Muslims went and found it in that very spot caught up as the apostle had said.

Also Râfi' b. Huraymila of whom I have heard that the prophet said, 'One of the greatest hypocrites has died today.' And Râfi'a b. Zayd b. al-Tābi't of whom the prophet said when there was a high wind as he was returning from the expedition against the B. al-Muṣṭalīq and the Muslims were in great anxiety: 'Don't be afraid; the wind is blowing because a great unbeliever is dead.' When he got back to Medina he found that Râfi'a had died the day the wind blew. Also Sīsīla b. Barhām and Khunā b. Sūrīyā.

These hypocrites used to assemble in the mosque and listen to the stories of the Muslims and laugh and scoff at their religion. When some of them were there one day the apostle saw them talking with lowered voice among themselves huddled together. He ordered that they should be ejected and they were put out with some violence. Abū Ayyūb Khālid b. Zayd b. Kulayb got up and went to 'Amr b. Qays, one of B. Ghann

---

1 Sūra 63, Cf. W. 747 infra.
2 Cf. W. 653, 10.
3 Sūra 59, 11–16.
4 It is by no means certain that these men were Jews. The previous section almost certainly proves that they were not; however they may well have been half converted to Judaism like so many of the inhabitants of Medina.
poor-tax expecting a (future) reward for it. 'And those who believe in what has been sent down to thee and to those who were before thee,' i.e. they believe thee to be true in what thou hast brought from God and what the sent ones brought before thee, making no difference between them nor opposing what they brought from their Lord. 'And are certain of the latter end,' i.e. the waking from death, the resurrection, paradise and hell, the reckoning and the scales, i.e. these are those who believe that they believe in what was before thee and in what has come to thee from thy Lord. 'These live in guidance from their Lord,' i.e. according to light from their Lord and uprightly according to what has come to them. 'These are they who prosper,' i.e. who attain what they seek and escape the evil they flee from. 'As for those who disbelieve,' i.e. in what has been sent down to thee though they say we have long believed in what came to us before thee, 'it is all one to them whether thou warn them or do not warn them they will not believe,' i.e. they disbelieve that thou art mentioned (in the books) they have and they reject the covenant which was made with them with reference to thee. They disbelieve in what has come to thee and in what they have already which others brought to them so how will they listen to warning and exhortation from thee when they have denied that they have any knowledge of thee? 'God hath sealed their hearts and their hearing and over their sight there is a covering,' i.e. so that they will never find guidance, meaning: because they have declared you a liar so that they will not believe in the truth which has come to thee from thy Lord though they believe in all that came before thee. For opposing thee they will have an awful punishment. Thus far concerning the Jewish rabbis for calling the truth a lie after they knew it.

'And there are some men who say, We believe in God and the last day when they do not believe.' He means the hypocrites of Aus and Khazraj and their followers. 'They would deceive God and those who believe, but they deceive only themselves, and perceive it not. In their hearts is a sickness,' i.e. doubt. 'And God increases their sickness,' i.e. doubt. 'A painful punishment is theirs because they lie. And when it is said to them, 'Do not make mischief in the land they say we are only putting things to right,' i.e. we only wish to make peace between the two parties of the believers and the scripture folk. God said: 'Are not they indeed the mischief makers but they perceive it not? And when it is said to them, Believe as the people believe they say: Are we to believe as the foolish believe? Surely they are the foolish but they know it not. And when they meet those who believe they say, We believe; and when they go apart to their leaders,' i.e. the Jews who order them to deny the truth and contradict what the apostle brought, 'They say Certainly we are with you,' i.e. we agree entirely with you. 'We were only mocking,' i.e. mocking the people and jesting with them. God said: 'God will mock at them and let them continue to wander blindly in their error' (303).

1 Lit. 'their satans'.
He came to them, and He reminds them of the beginning of their creation when He created them, and what happened to their forefather Adam and how he was dealt with for his disobedience; then He says: 'O children of Israel,' addressing the Jewish rabbis, 'Remember the favour I showed you,' i.e. My care for you and your fathers, wherewith He delivered them from Pharaoh and his army. 'And fulfil My covenant' which I placed on your necks with regard to My prophet Ahmad when he should come to you. 'I shall fulfil My part of the covenant.' I shall carry out what I promised you for believing in and following him by removing the bonds and chains which were upon your necks because of the sins which you had committed. 'And stand in awe of Me,' i.e. lest I bring down on you what I brought down on your fathers before you—the vengeance that you know of, bestial transformation and the like. 'And believe in what I have sent down confirming what you already have, and be not the first to disbelieve it' seeing that you have knowledge which others have not about it. 'And fear Me and do not mingle truth with falsehood nor hide the truth which you know,' i.e. do not conceal the knowledge which you have about My apostle and what he has brought when you will find it with you in what you know of the books which are in your hands. 'Would you tell men to be good and forget to be so yourselves, you being readers of scripture? Do you not understand?' i.e. would you forbid men to disbelieve in the prophecy you have and the covenant of the Torah and abandon it yourselves? i.e. when you deny that it contains My covenant with you that you must pronounce My apostle to be true, and you break My agreement and you contradict what you know to be in My book.

Then He recounts their sins, mentioning the calf and what they did with it; how He forgave them and pardoned them; then their words 'Show us God plainly' (306); and how the storm came upon them because of their presumptuousness; then He quickened them after they had died; overshadowed them with the cloud, sent down to them manna and quails and said to them, 'Enter the gate with prostrations and say Hijatu,' i.e. say what I command you, and I will remove your sins from you; and their changing that word making a mockery of His command; and His forgiving them after their mockery (307).

With regard to their changing that word, the apostle said according to what Sāliḥ b. Kaisān from Sāliḥ, freedman of al-Tau'arna d. Umayya b. Khalaf from Abū Hurayra and someone above suspicion from Ibn 'Abīās: They entered the gate they were ordered to enter with prostrations in a crowd saying, 'Wheat is in the barley' (308). (He also reminded them of) Moses praying for water for his people and His commanding him to strike the rock with his staff so that the water gushed forth in twelve streams, one for each tribe to drink from, each tribe knowing the one from which it was to drink. And their saying to Moses, 'We cannot bear one kind of food. Pray to your Lord for us that He may bring forth to us vegetables which the earth produces such as cucumbers and corn (309) and beans and onions. He said: Will you exchange that which is better for that which is baser? Go down to Egypt; thus you will get what you ask for.' They did not do so. Further how He raised the mountain above them that they might receive what was brought to them; and the bestial transformation when He made them into apes for their sins; and the cow which God showed them in which there was a lesson concerning the slain man about whom they differed until God made clear to them his affair after their repeated requests to Moses for a description of the cow; further the hardness of their hearts afterwards so that they were harder than stone. Then He said: 'There are rocks from which rivers gush forth and there are rocks which split asunder and water comes out of them, and there are rocks which fall down for fear of God,' i.e. some rocks are softer than your hearts in regard to the truth to which you were called. 'And God is not unaware of what you do.'

Then He said to Muhammad and the believers with him, causing them to despair of them: 'Do you hope that they will believe you when there is a party of them who listen to the word of God then change it after they understand it, doing so knowingly?' His saying 'They listen to the Torah' does not mean that they all heard it, but only a party of them, i.e. a selected number according to what I was told by a scholar. They said to Moses: Something has come between us and the vision of God so let us hear His word when He speaks to thee. Moses conveyed the request to God who said: Yes, command them to purify themselves or to purify their clothing and to fast; and they did so. Then he brought them forth to the mountain, and when the cloud covered them Moses commanded them to prostrate themselves and his Lord spoke to him and they heard His voice giving them commands and prohibitions so that they understood what they heard. Then he went back with them to the Children of Israel and when he came to them a party of them changed the commandments they had been given; and when Moses said to the Children of Israel, 'God has ordered you to do so-and-so,' they contradicted him and said that God had ordered something else. It is they to whom God refers.

Then God said: 'And when they meet those who believe they say: We believe,' i.e. in your leader the apostle of God; but he (has been sent) to you alone. And when they go apart with one another they say, Don't talk to the Arabs about this for you used to ask for victory over them through him and he is of them. So God sent down concerning them: 'And when they meet those who believe they say, We believe. But when

1 verse 40.
2 The meaning of this word (lit. unloading, or relief), and indeed the significance of the whole passage, is obscure. Presumably a Jewish midrash lies behind it. Cf. Geiger, op. cit. 177.
3 These words are I.1.'s explanation. 'The word of God' just mentioned could only have been the Torah.
they go apart with one another they say, Will you talk about what God has revealed to you that they may contend with you about it before your Lord? Have you no understanding? i.e. maintain that he is a prophet since you know that God has made a covenant with you that you should follow him, while he tells you that he is the prophet whom we are expecting and find in our book. Oppose him and do not recognize him. God said: ‘Do they not know that God knows what they conceal and what they proclaim, and some of them are gentle? who do not know the book but merely recite passages? They only think they know, i.e. they don’t know the book and they do not know what is in it, yet they oppose thy prophethood on mere opinion. ‘And they say the fire will not touch us except for a limited time. Say, Have ye received a covenant from God? God will not break His covenant—or do you say what you do not know about God?’

A freedman of Zayd b. Thābit told me as from ‘Ikrima or from Sa‘īd b. Jubayr from Ibn ‘Abbās: The apostle came to Medina when the Jews were saying that the world would last for seven thousand years and that God would only punish men in hell one day in the next world for every thousand in this world. There would be only seven days and then punishment would cease. So God sent down concerning this saying: ‘And they say, The fire will not touch us except for a limited time. Say, Have ye received a covenant from God? God will not break His covenant—or do you say what you do not know about God?’

Then He said in blaming them, ‘And when We made a covenant with the children of Israel, i.e. your covenant. ‘Worship none but God, show kindness to parents and to near relatives, and to orphans and the poor, and speak kindly to men, and establish prayer and pay the poor-tax, then you turned your backs except a few of you, being averse, i.e. you abandoned all that—nothing less. ‘And when we made a covenant with you, Shed not your blood (311). ‘And do not turn (some of) your people out of your dwellings. Then ye ratified it and you are witnesses thereof, i.e. that My covenant condition truly binds you. ‘Then you are they who kill your people and drive some of them from their houses, supporting one another against them by crime and transgression, i.e. the polytheists, so that they shed their blood along with them and drive them from their houses along with them. ‘And if they came to you as prisoners you would ransom them’ knowing that that is incumbent upon you in your religion, ‘while their expulsion is forbidden to you’ in your scripture. ‘Will you believe in a part of the scripture and disbelieve in another part?’ i.e. will you ransom them believing in one part and expel them disbelieving in another part? ‘And what is the recompense of those of you who do that but shame in this world and on the day of resurrection they will be sent to the severest punishment. ‘For God is not unaware of what you are doing. These are they who buy this life at the price of the next life. Their punishment will not be lightened nor will they be helped.’ Thus God blamed them for what they were doing, He having in the Torah prohibited them from shedding each other’s blood and charged them to redeem their prisoners.

There were two parties: The B. Qaynuqa‘ and their adherents, allies of Khazraj; and al-Naḍîr and Qurayza and their adherents allies of Aus. When there was war between Aus and Khazraj the B. Qaynuqa‘ went out with Khazraj, and al-Naḍîr and Qurayza with Aus, each side helping his allies against his own brethren so that they shed each other’s blood, while the Torah was in their hands by which they knew what was allowed and what was forbidden them. Aus and Khazraj were polytheists worshipping idols knowing nothing about paradise and hell, the waking and the resurrection, the scriptures, the permitted and the forbidden. When the war came to an end they ransomed their prisoners in accordance with the Torah each side redeeming those of their men who had been captured by the other side, disregarding the bloodshed that had been incurred in helping the polytheists. God said in blaming them for that: ‘Will you believe in a part of the scripture and disbelieve in another part?’ i.e. would you redeem him in accordance with the Torah and kill him when the Torah forbids you to do so, killing him and driving him out of his house and helping the polytheist who worships idols instead of God against him, all for the sake of this world’s gain? According to my information this passage came down with reference to their behaviour with Aus and Khazraj.

He continued: ‘We gave Moses the scripture and We sent apostles after him and We gave Jesus, Son of Mary, the clear proofs,’ i.e. the signs which were wrought by Him in raising the dead; forming the likeness of birds from clay and then breathing into them so that they became birds by God’s permission healing the sick; and news of many hidden things which 1 This word ummi is generally translated ‘illiterate’. In Surah 7, 157 and 158 Muhammad calls himself ‘the gentle prophet’, but practically all Arab writers claim that he meant that he could not read or write (see, e.g., Pickthall’s translation). Geiger, op. cit. 26 f., was, I think, the first to point out the only possible derivation of the word, and he has been followed by every subsequent European Arabist. But this passage brings to light the fact that he was preceded by these two early traditionists who identified the ummi:διαι as Arab proselytes who did not themselves know the scriptures.

2 That is to say these Arabs cannot read the sacred books, but they can join in the Jewish liturgy reciting the prayers and responses.

3 * v. 77.
The Life of Muhammad

they stored in their houses; and His confusing them from the Torah and the Gospel which God had created for Him. Then he mentions their disbelief in all that and says: 'Is it that whenever there comes to you an apostle with what you do not like you act arrogantly; some you declare liars and some you put to death?' Then he says: 'And they said, Our hearts are uncircumcised,' i.e. in coverings. 'Nay, but God has cursed them for their unbelief. Little do they believe. And when a scripture comes to them from God confirming what they already have, though before that they were asking for a victory over the unbelievers, when there comes to them what they know they deny it. God's curse is on the unbelievers.'

'Asim b. 'Umar b. Qatada told me that shaykhs of his people said: This passage came down about us and them. We had got the better of them in the pagan era, we being polytheists and they scripture folk. They used to say to us, 'Soon a prophet will be sent whom we shall follow; his time is at hand. With his help we shall kill you like 'Ad and Iram.' And when God sent His apostle from Quraysh and we followed him they denied him. God said: 'And when there comes to them what they know they deny it. God's curse is on the unbelievers. Wretched is that for which they sell themselves in disbeliefing in what God has sent down, grudging that God should send down of His bounty upon whom He will of His servants,' i.e. that He should have given it to one who was not of them. 'They have incurred anger upon anger and for the unbelievers there is a shameful punishment' (312).

The double anger is His anger at what they have disregarded of the Torah which they had and His anger at their disbeliefing in this prophet whom God had sent to them. Then he told them of the raising of the mountain above them and their taking the calf as a god instead of their Lord. God then said: 'Say, If the last dwelling with God is for you alone excluding others, then long for death if you are truthful,' i.e. pray for death to which of the two parties is most false with God. And they refused the apostle's suggestion. God said to His prophet: 'They will never long for it because of what their hands have sent before them,' i.e. because they know about thee by the knowledge which they have and deny it, It is said that if they had longed for it the day he said that to them, not a single Jew would have remained on the earth but would have died. Then He mentions their love of this life and of a long life and God said: 'Thou wilt find them the most eager of men for life,' the Jews, 'even more than the polytheists; each one would like to live a thousand years and to be allowed to live long would not remove him from the punishment,' i.e. it would not deliver him from it. The reason is that the polytheists

1 Abd C. Ishaq. Apparently this is a pregnant construction meaning 'created and sent to them'.
2 Abd C. Ishaq. The text of W. and C. annabahum 'blamed them' yields no suitable meaning. The true text is given in W.'s notes, ii. 171, anl'di'alam. I owe this correction to Dr. Arafat.
4 i.e. their past deeds.

The Life of Muhammad

does not hope for raising after death so he wants to live long, and the Jew knows what awaits him of shame in the next life because he has wasted the knowledge that he has. Then God said: 'Say, Who is an enemy to Gabriel? For it is he who brought it down to thy heart by God's permission.'

'Abdullah b. 'Abdu'l-Rahman b. Abu Husayn al-Makki told me from Shahr b. Haushab al-As'far that a number of Jewish rabbis came to the apostle and asked him to answer four questions, saying that if he did so they would follow him and testify to his truth, and believe in him. He got them to swear a solemn oath that if they gave him the right answers they would acknowledge his truth and they began: 'Why does a boy resemble his mother when the semen comes from the man?' 'I adjure you by God and His favours towards the children of Israel, do you not know that a man's semen is white and thick while a woman's is yellow and thin, and the likeness goes with that which comes to the top?' 'Agreed,' they said. 'Tell us about your sleep.' 'Do you not know that a sleep which you allege I do not have is when the eye sleeps but the heart is awake?' 'Agreed.' 'Thus is my sleep. My eye sleeps but my heart is awake.' 'Tell us about what Israel voluntarily forbade himself,' 'Do you not know that the food he loved best was the flesh and milk of camels and that once when he was ill God restored him to health so he deprived himself of his favourite food and drink in gratitude to God?' 'Agreed. Tell us about the Spirit.' 'Do you not know that it is Gabriel, he who comes to me?' 'Agreed, but O Muhammad he is an enemy to us, an angel who comes only with violence and the shedding of blood, and were it not for that we would follow you.' So God sent down concerning them: 'Who is an enemy to Gabriel? For it is he who brought it down to thy heart by God's permission confirming what was before it and a guidance and good tidings to the believers' as far as the words 'Is it not that when they make a covenant some of them set it aside, nay most of them do not believe. And when an apostle comes to them from God confirming that which they have, some of them who have received the scripture, the book of God, put it behind them as if they did not know it and they follow that which the satans read concerning the kingdom of Solomon,' i.e. sorcery. 'Solomon did not disbelieve, but the satans disbelieved, teaching men sorcery.'

This, so I have heard, happened when the apostle mentioned Solomon b. David among the sent ones. One of the rabbis said, 'Don't you wonder at Muhammad? He alleges that Solomon was a prophet, and by God he was nothing but a sorcerer.' So God sent down concerning that: 'Solomon did not disbelieve but the satans disbelieved,' i.e. in following sorcery and practising it. 'And that which was revealed to the two angels Harût and Marût in Babylon and they taught nobody.'

Someone above suspicion told me from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbas that he used to say: 'What Israel forbade himself was the two lobes of the liver,

1 This formula is repeated four times.
2 v. 94.
the kidneys and the fat (except what was upon the back), for that used to be offered in sacrifice and the fire consumed it.\footnote{1}

The apostle wrote to the Jews of Khaybar according to what a freedman of the family of Zayd b. Thabit told me from 'Ikrima or from Sa'd b.
Jubayr from Ibn 'Abbas: 'In the name of God the compassionate the merciful from Muhammad the apostle of God friend and brother of Moses who confirms what Moses brought. God says to you, O scripture folk, and you will find it in your scripture "Muhammad is the apostle of God; and those with him are severe against the unbelievers, merciful among themselves. Thou seest them bowing, falling prostrate seeking bounty and acceptance from God. The mark of their prostrations is on their foreheads. That is their likeness in the Torah and in the Gospel like a seed which sends forth its shoot and strengthens it and it becomes thick and rises straight upon its stalk delighting the sowers that He may anger the unbelievers with them. God has promised those who believe and do well forgiveness and a great reward."\footnote{2} I adjure you by God, and by what He has sent down to you, by the manna and quails He gave as food to your tribes before you, and by His drying up the sea for your fathers when He delivered them from Pharaoh and his works, that you tell me, Do you find in what He has sent down to you that you should believe in Muhammad? If you do not find that in your scripture then there is no compulsion upon you. "The right path has become plainly distinguished from error\footnote{3} so I call you to God and His prophet" (31.3).

Among those people concerning whom the Qur'an came down, especially the rabbis and unbelieving Jews who used to ask him questions and annoy him in confusing truth with falsehood—as I was told on the authority of Abdullah b. 'Abbās and Jābir b. 'Abdullah b. Rū'ab—was Abū Yāsir b.
Aḥtāb who passed by the apostle as he was reciting the opening words of The Cow: 'Alīf, Lām, Mīm, That is the book about which there is no doubt.' He came to his brother Ḥuyayy who was with some other Jews and said: 'Do you know that I have heard Muhammad reciting in what has been sent down to him Alīf Lām Mīm, &c?' After expressing surprise Ḥuyayy and these men went to the apostle and told him what had been reported to them and asked if Gabriel had brought the message from God.
When he said that he had they said: God sent prophets before you but we do not know of anyone of them being told how long his kingdom would last and how long his community would last. Ḥuyayy went up to his men and said to them: 'Alīf is 1; Lām is 30; and Mīm is 40, i.e. 71 years. Are you going to adopt a religion whose kingdom and community will last for only 71 years?' Then he went to the apostle and said, 'Have you anything else, Muhammad?' 'Yes, Alīf Lām Mīm Sād.' 'This by God is more weighty and longer: Alīf 1; Lām 30; Mīm 40; Sād 90, i.e. 161 years.'

\footnote{1} This is the sacrificial law given in Leviticus 3, 4, 10, 15, &c., and the tradition shows a remarkable knowledge of the Jewish Law.
\footnote{2} Sūra 48. 29.
\footnote{3} Sūra 2. 257.

Similar questions were asked and answered in respect of Alīf Lām Rā 231;
Alīf Lām Mīm Rā 271; then he said, 'Your situation seems obscure to us, Muhammad, so that we do not know whether you will have a short or long duration.' Then they left him. Abū Yāsir said to his brother Ḥuyayy and the others, 'How do you know that all these totals should not be added together to make a grand total of 734 years?' They answered, 'His affair is obscure to us.' They allege that these verses came down in reference to them: 'The plain verses are the mother of the Book; the rest are obscure.'\footnote{4}

I heard a scholar above suspicion mentioning that these verses were sent down about the people of Najrān when they came to the apostle to ask him about Ǧesus, Son of Mary.

Muhammad b. Abū Umāma b. Sahl b. Ḥunayf told me that he had heard that they were sent down about a number of Jews, but he did not explain that to me. God knows best.

According to what I heard from 'Ikrima, freedman of Ibn 'Abbas or from Sa'd b. Jubayr from Ibn 'Abbas, Jews used to hope that the apostle would be a help to them against Aus and Khazzraj before his mission began; and when God sent him from among the Arabs they disbelieved in him and contradicted what they had formerly said about him.\footnote{5} Mu'ādh
b. Jabal and Bishr b. al-Bara' b. Ma'rūr brother of the B. Salama said to them: 'O Jews, fear God and become Muslims, for you used to hope for Muhammad's help against us when we were polytheists and to tell us that he would be sent and describe him to us.' Salām b. Mishkam, one of B. al-Naḍīr, said, 'He has not brought us anything we recognize and he is not the one we spoke of to you.' So God sent down about that saying of theirs: 'And when a book comes to them from God confirming what they have, though beforehand they were asking for help against those who disbelieve, when there came to them what they knew, they disbelieved in it, so God's curse rests on the unbelievers.'\footnote{6}

Mālik b. al-Sayf\footnote{4} said when the apostle had been sent and they were reminded of the condition that had been imposed on them and what God had covenanted with them concerning him, 'No covenant was ever made with us about Muhammad.' So God sent down concerning him: 'Is it not that when they make a covenant a party of them set it aside? Nay most of them do not believe.'\footnote{5}

Abū Salābā al-Fīrūzī said to the apostle: 'O Muhammad, you have not brought us anything we recognize, and God has not sent down to you any sign that we should follow you.' So God sent down concerning his words, 'We have sent down to thee plain signs and only evildoers disbelieve in them.'

Rāḥ b. Huraymīla and Wahb b. Zayd said to the apostle, 'Bring us a book; bring it down to us from heaven that we may read it; bring out rivers for us from the earth, then we will follow you and believe in you.' So God sent down concerning that: 'Or do you wish to question your apostle as Moses was questioned aforetime; he who exchanges faith for unbelief has wandered from the straight road' (314). 1

Huyayy and Abū Yāsir were the most implacable enemies of the Arabs when God chose to send them an apostle from among themselves and they used to do all they could to turn men away from Islam. So God sent down concerning them: 'Many of the scripture folk wish to make you unbelievers again after you have believed being envious on their own account after the truth has become plain to them. But forgive and be indulgent until God shall give you His orders. God can do anything.'

When the Christians of Najrān came to the apostle the Jewish rabbis came also and they disputed one with the other before the apostle. Rāfī' said, 'You have no standing,' and he denied Jesus and the Gospel; and a Christian said to the Jews, 'You have no standing' and he denied that Moses was a prophet and denied the Torah. So God sent down concerning them: 'The Jews say the Christians have no standing; and the Christians say that Jews have no standing, yet they read the scriptures. They do not know what they are talking about. God will judge between them on the day of resurrection concerning their controversy,' i.e. each one reads in his book the confirmation of what he denies, so that the Jews deny Jesus though they have the Torah in which God required them by the word of Moses to hold Jesus true; while in the Gospel is what Jesus brought in confirmation of what he denies, so that the Jews deny Jesus when they alleged that he faked the signs. So God sent down concerning that: 'Those are a people who have passed away; they have what they earned and you have what you earned, but forgive and be indulgent until God makes clear to a people who are sure.'

Rāfī' said: 'If you are an apostle from God as you say, then ask God to speak to us so that we may hear His voice.' So God revealed concerning that: 'And those who do not know say, Why does not God speak to us or a sign come to us? Those who were before them said the same. Their minds are just the same. We have made the signs clear to a people who are sure.'

Abdullah b. Sāriyā, the one-eyed man, said to the apostle, 'The only guidance is to be found with us, so follow us, Muhammad, and you will be rightly guided.' The Christians said the same. So God sent down concerning them both: 'And they say, Be Jews or Christians then you will be rightly guided. Say, Nay, the religion of Abraham a hāniṣf who was no polytheist,' as far as the words 'Those are a people who have passed away; they have what they earned and you have what you earned and you will not be asked about what they used to do.'

And when the qibla was changed from Syria to the Ka'ba—it was changed in Rajab at the beginning of the seventeenth month after the apostle's arrival in Medina—Rāfī' b. Qays; Qardam b. 'Amr; Ka'b b. al-Ashraf; Rāfī' b. Abū Rāfī'; al-Ḥajjāj b. 'Amr, an ally of Ka'b's; al-Rabj' b. al-Rabj', and Khārijja b. Zayd brother of B. al-Ḥārith b. al-Khaṭirj, asked some of the Jewish rabbis about something in the Torah and they concealed it from them and refused to tell them anything about it. So God sent down about them: 'Those who conceal the proofs and guidance We have sent down after We have made it plain to men in the book, God will curse them and those who curse will curse them.'

The apostle summoned the Jewish scripture folk to Islam and made it attractive to them and warned them of God's punishment and vengeance. Rāfī' b. Khārijja and Mālik b. 'Auf said to him that they would follow the religion of their fathers, for they were more learned and better men than they. So God sent down concerning their words: 'And when it is said to them, Follow what God has sent down, they say: Nay, but we will follow what we found our fathers doing. What! even if their fathers understood nothing and were not rightly guided?'
When God smote Quraysh at Badr, the apostle assembled the Jews in the market of the B. Qaynaq" when he came to Medina and called on them to accept Islam before God should treat them as he had treated Quraysh. They answered, 'Don't deceive yourself, Muhammad. You have killed a number of inexperienced Quraysh who did not know how to fight. But if you fight us you will learn that we are men and that you have met your equal.' So God sent down concerning their words: 'Say to those who disbelieve, You will be defeated and gathered into hell, a wretched resting-place. You had a sign in the two parties which met: one party fought in the way of God and the other was unbelieving seeing twice their number with their very eyes. God will strengthen with His help whom He will. In that there is a warning for the observant.'

The apostle entered a Jewish school where there was a number of Jews and called them to God. Al-Nu'mān b. 'Amr and al-Hārith b. Zayd said to him:

'What is your religion, Muhammad?
'The religion of Abraham.
'But Abraham was a Jew.
'Then let the Torah judge between us,'

They refused, and so God sent down concerning them: 'Hast thou not seen how those who have received a portion of scripture when invited to God's book that it may judge between them, a party of them turn their backs in opposition. That is because they say, The fire will not touch us except for a limited time. What they were inventing has deceived them in their religion.'

The Jewish rabbis and the Christians of Najrān, when they were together before the apostle, broke into disputing. The rabbis said that Abraham was nothing but a Jew. 'The Christians said he was nothing but a Christian; so God revealed concerning them: 'O Scripture folk, Why do you argue about Abraham when the Torah and the Gospel were not sent down until after his time? Can it be that you do not understand? Behold, you are they who argue of what you know something, but why do you argue about what you know nothing? God knows but you do not know. Abraham was neither a Jew nor a Christian but he was a Muslim munafik and he was not a polytheist. Those who are the nearest to Abraham are those who follow him and this prophet and those who believe, God being the friend of believers.'

'Abdullah b. Ṣayf and 'Adiy b. Zayd and al-Ḥārith b. 'Auf agreed among themselves that they should affect to believe in what had been sent down to Muhammad and his companions at one time and deny it at another so as to confuse them, with the object of getting them to follow their example and give up his religion. So God sent down concerning them: 'O Scripture folk, why confuse ye the true with the false and conceal the truth which you know? Some of the Scripture folk said, Believe in that which has been sent down to those that believe at the beginning of the day and deny it at the end of the day; perhaps they will go back (on it). Believe only in one who follows your religion. Say, The guidance is God's guidance that anyone should be given the like of what you have been given or that they may argue with you before their Lord. Say: the bounty is in the hand of God. He giveth it to whom He pleaseth and God is all-embracing and all-knowing.'

Abū Rāfi' al-Qurashi said when the rabbis and the Christians from Najrān had assembled before the apostle and he invited them to Islam, 'Do you want us, Muhammad, to worship you as the Christians worship Jesus, Son of Mary?' One of the Christians called al-Ribābīs (or al-Rīs or al-Rā'īs) said, 'Is that what you want of us and invite us to, Muhammad?' or words to that effect. The apostle replied, 'God forbid that I should worship anyone but God or order that any but He should be worshipped. God did not send me and order me to do that' or words to that effect. So God sent down concerning their words: 'No mortal to whom God has sent a book and authority and prophecy could say to men, Worship me instead of God; but Be learned in that you teach the book and in that you study it as far as the words 'after ye had become Muslims' (3:16).'

'And he did not command you to take the angels and prophets as lords. Would He command you to disbelieve after you had become Muslims?

Then he mentions how God had imposed on them and on their prophets the obligation to bear witness to his truth when he came to them and their taking that upon themselves and he says: 'When God made His covenant with the prophets (He said) Behold that which I have given you—a book and wisdom. Then when an apostle shall come to you confirming what you have, you shall believe in him and help him. He said, Do you agree and take upon yourselves my burden?' They answered, We agree. He said, Then bear witness, I being with you as a witness to the end of the passage. Shāh b. Qays, who was an old man hardened in unbelief and most bitter against the Muslims and exceeding envious of them, passed by a number of the apostle's companions from Aus and Khazraj in a meeting while they were talking together. When he saw their amity and unity and their happy relations in Islam after their enmity in pagan times he was filled with rage and said: 'The chiefs of B. Qayna in this country having united there will be no firm place for us with them.' So he gave orders to a Jewish youth who was with them to go to them and six with them and mention the battle of Bu'āth and the preceding events, and recite to them some of the poetry composed by each side.

Now at the battle of Bu'āth Aus and Khazraj fought and the victory went to Aus who were commanded at the time by Hudayr b. Simāk al-ᾀshāhīf the father of Usayd b. Hudayr, Khazraj being led by 'Amr b. al-Nu'mān al-Bayyādī, and both were killed (317).
The youth did so. Thereupon the people began to talk and to quarrel and to boast until two men of the two clans leapt up, Aus b. Qayṣī of B. Ḥaritha b. Harith of Aus and Jabbār b. Ṣaḳhr of B. Salama of Khazraj. They began to hold forth against each other until one of them said, ‘If you wish we will do the same again.’ Thereupon both sides became enraged and said, ‘We will. Your meeting-place is outside—that being the volcanic tract—To arms! To arms!’ So out they went and when the news reached the apostle he went out with such of the emigrants as were with him and said to them: ‘O Muslims, remember God. Remember God. Will you act as pagans while I am with you after God has guided you to Islam and honoured you thereby and made a clean break with paganism; delivered you thereby from unbelief; made you friends thereby?’ Then the people realized that the dissension was due to Satan and the guile of their enemy. They wept and the men of Aus and Khazraj embraced one another. Then they went off with the apostle, attentive and obedient, God having quenched the guile of the enemy of God Shāb b. Qays. So God sent down concerning him, and what he did: ‘Say: O Scripture folk, why do you deny God’s signs while God is witness of what you do? Say, O Scripture folk, why do you keep those who believe from God’s way wishing to make it crooked when you are witnesses and God is not unmindful of what you are doing?’

God sent down concerning Aus and Jabbār and the people who were with them when Shāb brought back for a moment the atmosphere of pagan days, ‘O you who believe, if you obey some of those to whom a book has been given they will make you unbelievers again after your faith. How can you disbelieve when God’s verses are read to you and His apostle is with you? He who holds fast to God is guided to a straight path. O ye who believe, fear God as He ought to be feared and die not except as Muslims’ as far as the words ‘Those shall have a painful punishment’.

When Abdullah b. Salām, Thalāba b. Saʿya, and Usayd b. Saʿya, and Asad b. ʿUbayd and other Jews became Muslims and believed and were earnest and firm in Islam, the rabbis who disbelieved said that it was only the bad Jews who believed in Muhammad and followed him. Had they been good men they would not have forsaken the religion of their fathers and adopted another. So God sent down concerning what they had said: ‘They are not (all) alike: of the scripture folk there is an upright community who read God’s verses in the night season prostrating themselves (318). They believe in God and the last day and enjoin good conduct and forbid evil and vie with one another in good works. Those are the righteous.’

Some Muslims remained friends with the Jews because of the tie of mutual protection and alliance which had subsisted between them, so God sent down concerning them and forbidding them to take them as intimate friends: ‘O you who believe, do not choose those outside your community as intimate friends. They will spare no pains to corrupt you longing for your ruin. From their mouths hatred has already shown itself and what their breasts conceal is greater. We have made the signs plain to you if you will understand. Behold you love them but they love not you and you believe in the books—all of it,’ i.e. you believe in their book and in the books that were before that while they deny your book, so that you have more right to hate them than they to hate you. ‘And when they meet you they say, We believe and when they go apart they bite their fingers against you in rage. Say, Die in your rage’, &c.

Abū Bakr went into a Jewish school and found a good many men gathered round a certain FINHĀS, one of their learned rabbis, and another rabbi called Ashya’. Abū Bakr called on the former to fear God and become a Muslim because he knew that Muhammad was the apostle of God who had brought the truth from Him and that they would find it written in the Torah and the Gospel. FINHĀS replied: ‘We are not poor compared to Allah but He is poor compared to us. We do not humble ourselves to Him as He humbles Himself to us; we are independent of Him while He needs us. Were He independent of us He would not ask us to lend Him our money as your master pretends, prohibiting you to take interest and allowing us to. Had He been independent of us He would not have given us interest.’

Abū Bakr was enraged and hit Finhās hard in the face, saying, ‘Were it not for the treaty between us I would cut off your head, you enemy of Allah!’ FINHĀS immediately went to the apostle and said, ‘Look, Muhammad, at what your companion has done.’ The apostle asked Abū Bakr what had impelled him to do such a thing and he answered: ‘The enemy of Allah spoke blasphemy. He alleged that Allah was poor and that they were rich and I was so angry that I hit his face.’ FINHĀS contradicted this and denied that he had said it, so Allah sent down refuting him and confirming what Abū Bakr had said: ‘Allah has heard the speech of those who say: “Allah is poor and we are rich.” We shall write what they say and their killing the prophets wrongfully and we shall say, Taste the punishment of burning’.

And there came down concerning Abū Bakr and the angry that he felt: ‘And you will certainly hear from those who received the book before you and from the polytheists much wrong but if you persevere and fear God that is of the steadfastness of things.’

Then He said concerning what Finhās and the other rabbis with him said: ‘And when God laid a charge upon those who had received the book: You are to make it clear to men and not to conceal it, they cast it behind them’.

1 Sūra 3. 93
2 v. 109.
3 Sūra 3. 177.
4 The key to this seemingly blasphemous utterance is in the words ‘as your master pretends’. Later Muslim scholars would have called it an śūrum, a form of the argumentum ad absurdum in which an opponent’s proposition is adopted and followed to its (absurd) conclusion. The Jews had objected to contributing to the cost of the war against the Meccans, saying that if God needed their money as the apostle said they must be better off than Hel their backs and sold it for a small price. Wretched is the exchange! Think not that those who rejoice in what they have done and want to be praised for what they have not done—think not that they will escape the punishment: theirs will be a painful punishment. ¹ He means Finahag and Ashya and the rabbis like them who rejoice in what they enjoy of worldly things by making error attractive to men and wish to be praised for what they have not done so that men will say they are learned when they are nothing of the kind, not bringing them to truth and guidance and wanting men to say that they have so done.

Kardam, Usama, Nafi’, Bahri, Huayy, and Rifa’a ² used to go to some of the helpers advising them not to contribute to the public expenses, ‘for we fear that you will come to poverty. Don’t be in a hurry to contribute, for you do not know the outcome.’ So God sent down concerning them: ‘Who are avaricious and enjoin avarice on others concealing the bounty they have received from God’, i.e. the Torah which confirms what Muhammad brought. ³ ‘We have prepared for the unbelievers a shameful punishment, and those who spend their money to be seen of men and believe not in God and the last day’ as far as the words ‘God knows about them’.

Rifa’a was a notable Jew. When he spoke to the apostle he twisted his tongue and said: ‘Give us your attention, Muhammad, so that we can make you understand.’ Then he attacked Islam and reviled it. So God sent down concerning him: ‘Hast thou considered those to whom a part of the book has been given how they buy error and wish that you should err as to the way. But God knows best about your enemies. God is sufficient as a friend and helper. Some of the Jews change words from their contexts and say: We hear and disobey; hear thou as one that heareth not and listen to us, twisting their tongues and attacking religion. Had they said, We hear and we obey; hear thou and look at us, it would have been better for them and more upright. But God has cursed them for their unbelief and only a few will believe.’ ⁴

The apostle spoke to two of the chiefs of the Jewish rabbis ‘Abdullah b. Surya al-A’war and Ka’b b. Asad calling on them to accept Islam, for they knew that he had brought them the truth; but they denied that they knew it and were obstinate in their unbelief. So God sent down concerning them: ‘O you to whom the book was sent, Believe in what We have sent down in confirmation of what you have before We efface

¹ Sura 4, 134.
² Their names have already been given in full.
³ One would naturally suppose that their wealth is referred to here.
⁴ Sura 4, 47. This text shows that Muhammad knew (a) that when they said ‘We hear’ and ‘loqaynay they were playing on the similar-sounding Hebrew word awin (with its meaning ‘we carry out’, and (b) that ra’ina to them meant ‘our evil one’. It seems, therefore, probable that ghaya ‘mama’in is not to be understood in the sense given above, but as a vocative, ‘O thou that hast not been made to hear’, i.e. thou who has not received a divine revelation. The ‘tongue-twisting’ is revealed as the sarcastic use of Arabic in a Hebrew sense by a bilingual scholar.

² Sura 4, 57.
³ Sura 4, 161.
⁴ Sura 5, 14.
Nu'man b. Adā' and Bahri b. 'Amr and Sha's b. 'Adiy came to the apostle and he invited them to come to God and warned them of His vengeance. They replied: 'You cannot frighten us, Muhammad. We are the sons and the beloved of God' as the Christians say. So God sent down concerning them: 'And the Jews and the Christians say, We are the sons and the beloved of God. Say, Then why does He punish you for your sins? Nay you are but mortals of those He has created. He pardons whom He will and He punishes whom He will and to God belongs the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and what lies between them and to Him is the journeying.'

The apostle invited the Jews to Islam and made it attractive to them and warned them of God's jealousy and His retribution; but they repulsed him and denied what he brought them. Mu'ādh b. Jabal and Su'd b. 'Ubdā and 'Uqba b. Wahb said to them: 'Fear God, for you know right well that he is the apostle of God and you used to speak of him to us before his mission and describe him to us.' Rā'fī' b. Ḥuraymila and Wahb b. Yahūdā said, 'We never said that to you, and God has sent down no book since Moses nor sent an evangelist or Warner after him.' So God sent down concerning their words: 'O scripture folk, our apostle has come to you to make things plain to you after a cessation of apostles lest you should say: No evangelist and no Warner has come to us when an evangelist and Warner has come to you (now). God is able to do all things.'

Then he recounted to them the story of Moses and their opposition to him, and how they disobeyed God's commands through him so that they wandered in the wilderness forty years as a punishment.

Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri told me that he heard a learned man of Muṣayyab saying Sa'd b. al-Musayyab that Abū Hurayra had told him that Jewish rabbis had gathered in their school when the apostle came to Medina. A married man had committed adultery with a married woman and they said: 'Send them to Muhammad and ask him what the law about them is and leave the penalty to him. If he prescribes ṭajbīh (which is scourging with a rope of palm fibre smeared with pitch, the blackening of their faces, mounting on two donkeys with their faces to the animal's tail) then follow him, for he is a king and believe in him. If he prescribes stoning for them, he is a prophet so beware lest he deprive you of what you hold.' They brought the pair to Muhammad and explained the position. The prophet walked to meet the rabbis in the school house and called on them to bring out their learned men and they produced 'Abdullah b. Sūriyā.

One of the B. Qurayza told me that Abū Yāsir and Wahb b. Yahūdā were with them and the apostle questioned them so that he got to the bottom of their affair until they said (pointing) to 'Abdullah b. Sūriyā, 'This is the most learned man living in the Torah' (321). He was one of the youngest of them and when the apostle was alone with him he put him on his oath as to whether the Torah did not prescribe stoning for adulterers. 'Yes,' he said, 'they know right well, Abū'l-Qasim, that you are a prophet sent (by God) but they envy you.' The apostle went out to them and commanded that the two should be stoned and they were stoned at the door of his mosque among B. 'Abd b. Malik b. al-Najjār. Afterwards Ibn Sūrīyā disbelieved and denied that the apostle was a prophet. So God sent down concerning them: 'O apostle, let not those who live with one another in unbelief sadden thee, those who say with their mouths, We believe, but their hearts do not believe, those Jews who listen to lies, listening for other people who do not come to thee, i.e. those who sent others and stayed behind themselves and gave them orders to change the judgement from its context. Then He said: 'They change words from their places, saying, If this be given to you receive it, and if it is not given to you, i.e. the stoning, beware of it,' i.e. Muhammad b. Ta'lab b. Yazīd b. Rukāna from Ismā'il b. Ibrāhīm from Ibn 'Abbās told me that the apostle ordered them to be stoned, and they were stoned at the door of his mosque. And when the Jew felt the first stone he crouched over the woman to protect her from the stones until both of them were killed. This is what God did for the apostle in exacting the penalty for adultery from the pair.

Sāliḥ b. Kaisān from Nāfī', freedman of 'Abdullāh b. Umar from 'Abdullāh b. Umar, told me: When the apostle gave judgement about them he asked for a Torah. A rabbi sat there reading it having put his hand over the verse of stoning. 'Abdullāh b. Salām struck the rabbi's hand, saying, 'This, O prophet of God, is the verse of stoning which he refuses to read to you.' The apostle said, 'Woe to you Jews! What has induced you to abandon the judgement of God which you hold in your hands?' They answered: 'The sentence used to be carried out until a man of royal birth and noble origin committed adultery and the king refused to allow him to be stoned. Later another man committed adultery and the king wanted him to be stoned but they said No, not until you stone so-and-so. And when they said that to him they agreed to arrange the matter by ṭajbīh and they did away with all mention of stoning.' The apostle said: 'I am the first to revive the order of God and His book and to practise it.' They were duly stoned and 'Abdullāh b. Umar said, 'I was among those that stoned them.'

Da'ūd b. al-Ḥusayn from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbās said that the verses of The Table in which God said: 'Then judge between them or withdraw from them and if you withdraw from them they will do thee no harm. And if thou judgest, judge with fairness, for God loveth those who deal fairly' were sent down concerning the blood-money between B. al-Nādir and B. Qurayza. Those slain from B. al-Nadīr were leaders and they wanted the whole bloodwit while B. Qurayza wanted half of it. They referred the matter for arbitration to the apostle, and God sent down that passage concerning them. The apostle ordered that the matter should be settled.
justly and awarded the bloodwit in equal shares. But God knows which account is correct.

Ka'b b. Asad and Ibn Sa'īdā and his son 'Abdullah and Sha's said one to another, 'Let us go to Muhammad to see if we can seduce him from his religion, for he is only a mortal'; so they went to him and said: 'You know, Muhammad, that we are the rabbis, nobles, and leaders of the Jews; and if we follow you the rest of the Jews will follow you and not oppose us. Now we have a quarrel outstanding with some of our people and if we believe in you and say that you are truthful will you, if we appoint you arbitrator between us, give judgement in our favour?' The apostle refused to do so and God sent down concerning them: 'And judge between them by what God has sent down and follow not their vain desires; and beware of them lest they seduce thee from some of what God has sent down to thee. And if they turn their backs then know that God wishes to smite them for some of their sins. Many men are evil-doers. Is it that they are seeking the judgement of paganism? Who is better than God in judgement for a people who are certain?'

'Abū Yāsir and Nāfī' b. Abū Nāfī and 'Āzīr and Khālid and Zayd and Iṣār and Aṣhya came to the apostle and asked him about the apostles he believed in. So the apostle said: 'We believe in God and what he has sent down to us and what was sent down to Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the tribes and what was given to Moses and Jesus and what was given to the prophets from their Lord; we make no difference between any one of them. And we are submissive unto Him.' When he mentioned Jesus, Son of Mary, they denied that he was a prophet, saying, 'We do not believe in Jesus, Son of Mary, or in anyone who believes in him.' So God sent down concerning them: 'O Scripture folk, do you blame us for anything but our belief in God and what He has sent down to us and what was sent down aforetime and because most of you are evil-doers?'

Rāfī' b. Hāritha and Sallām b. Mīshkam and Mālik b. al-Ṣayf and Rāfī' b. Huraymīla came to him and said: 'Do you not allege that you follow the religion of Abraham and believe in the Torah which we have and testify that it is the truth from God?' He replied, 'Certainly, but you have sinned and broken the covenant contained therein and concealed what you were ordered to make plain to men, and I dissociate myself from your sin.' They said, 'We hold by what we have. We live according to the guidance and the truth and we do not believe in you and we will not follow you.' So God sent down concerning them: 'Say, O Scripture folk, you have no standing until you observe the Torah and the Gospel and what has been sent down to you from your Lord. What has been sent down to thee from thy Lord will assuredly increase many of them in error and unbelief. But be not sad because of the unbelieving people.'

Al-Nahhām and Qardam and Bahīr came and said to him: 'Do you not know that there is another god with God?' The apostle answered: 'God, there is no God but He. With that (message) I was sent and that I preach.' God sent down concerning their words: 'Say, What is the greatest testimony? Say God is witness between me and you, and this Qurān has been revealed to me that I might warn you by it and whomever it reaches. Do you actually testify that with God there are other gods? Say, I do not testify to that. Say He is only One God, and I dissociate myself from what you associate (with Him). Those to whom We sent the book know it as they know their own sons. Those who destroy themselves will not believe.'

Rīf'ī' and Suwayd had hypocritically affected to embrace Islam and some of the Muslims were friendly with them. So God sent down concerning these two men: 'O Believers, choose not as friends those who have chosen your religion to make a jest and game of it from among those who received the scripture before you, nor the unbelievers, and fear God if you are believers', as far as the words 'And when they come to you they say, We believe, but they came in in unbelief and they went out with it and God knows best about what they are concealing.'

Jabal and Shamwīl came to the apostle and said: 'Tell us when the hour will be if you are a prophet as you say.' So God sent down concerning them: 'They will ask you about the hour when it will come to pass. Say, only my Lord knows of it. None but He will reveal it at its proper time. It is heavy in the heavens and the earth. Suddenly will it come upon you. They will ask you as though you knew about it. Say Only God knows about it, but most men do not know (322).

Sallām and Nu'mān b. Aufā and Māḥmūd b. Dhiya and Sha's and Mālik came and said to him: 'How can we follow you when you have abandoned our Qibla and you do not allege that 'Uzayr is the son of God?'

So God sent down concerning these words: 'The Jews say that 'Uzayr is the son of God and the Christians say the Messiah is the son of God. That is what they say with their mouths copying the speech of those who disbelieve aforetime. God fight them! How perverse they are to the end of the passage (323)

Māḥmūd b. Sayhān and Nu'mān b. Adā' and Bahlīf and 'Uzayr and Sallām came to him and said: 'Is it true, Muhammad, that what you have brought is the truth from God? For our part we cannot see that it is arranged as the Torah is.' He answered, 'You know quite well that it is from God; you will find it written in the Torah which you have. If men and jinn came together to produce its like they could not.' Fīhinā and 'Abdullāh b. Shūrāy and Ibn Sa'ilāh and Kīnānā b. al-Rā'h and Aṣhya and Kāb b. al-Asad and Shamwīl and Jabāl were there and they said: 'Did neither men nor jinn tell you this, Muhammad?' He said: 'You know

1 The charge of polytheism made against the Jews is very puzzling and hard to explain. Certainly this passage (Sūra 5, 5) and the context in which it occurs refers not to the Jews but to the polytheists.

2 Sūra 5. 54.

3 Sūra 5. 54.

4 Sūra 5. 52.

5 Sūra 5. 52.

6 Sūra 5. 52.
well that it is from God and that I am the apostle of God. You will find it written in the Torah you have.' They said: 'When God sends an apostle He does for him what he wishes, so bring down a book to us from heaven that we may read it and know what it is, otherwise we will produce one like the one you bring.' So God sent down concerning their words: 'Say, Though men and jinn should meet to produce the like of this Quran they would not produce its like though one helped the other.'[1] (324).

Huyayy, Ka'b, Abū Rāfi', Ashya', and Sharmwil said to 'Abdullah b. Saḍǎm when he became a Muslim, 'There is no prophecy among the Arabs, but your master is a king.' Then they went to the apostle and asked him about Dhul-Qarnayn and he told them what God had sent him about him from what he had already narrated to Quraysh. They were of those who ordered Quraysh to ask the apostle about him when they sent al-Naḍr and 'Uqba to them.[2]

I was told that Sa'd b. Jubayr said: A number of Jews came to the apostle and said: 'Now, Muhammad, Allah created creation, but who created Allah?' The apostle was so angry that his colour changed and he rushed at them being indignant for his Lord. Gabriel came and quietened him saying, 'Calm yourself, O Muhammad.' And an answer to what they asked came to him from God: 'Say, He God is One. God the Eternal. He begetteth not neither is He begotten and there is none equal to Him.' When he recited that to them they said, 'Describe His shape to us, Muhammad; his forearm and his upper arm, what are they like?' The apostle was more angry than before and rushed at them. Gabriel came to him and spoke as before. And an answer to what they asked came to him from God: 'They think not of God as He ought to be thought of; the whole earth will be in His grasp at the day of resurrection and the heavens folded up in His right hand. Glorified and Exalted is He above what they associate with Him.'[4]

'Urba b. Muslim freedman of the B. Taym from Abū Sa'dama b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān from Abū Hurayra told me: I heard the apostle say, 'Men question their prophet[5] to such an extent that one would almost say, Now God created creation, but who created God? And if they say that, say ye: He God is One,' &c. Then let a man spit three times to the left and say 'I take refuge in God from Satan the damned' (325).

401 A DEPUTATION FROM THE CHRISTIANS OF NAＪRĀN

A deputation from the Christians of Najrān came to the apostle. There were sixty riders, fourteen of them from their nobles of whom three were in control of affairs, namely (a) the 'Aqīb the leader of the people, a man of affairs, and their chief adviser whose opinion governed their policy, 'Abdu'l-Masīh by name; (b) the Sayyid, their administrator who saw to transport and general arrangements, whose name was al-Ayham; and (c) their Bishop, scholar, and religious leader who controlled their schools, Abū Ḥāritha b. 'Alqama, one of B. Bakr b. Wā'il.

Abū Ḥāritha occupied a position of honour among them, and was a great student, so that he had an excellent knowledge of their religion, and the Christian kings of Byzantium had honoured him and paid him a subsidy and gave him servants, built churches for him and lavished honours on him, because of his knowledge and zeal for their religion.

When they set out from Najrān to see the apostle Abū Ḥāritha was riding on a mule of his with a brother at his side whose name was Kūz b. 'Alqama (326). Abū Ḥāritha's mule stumbled and Kūz said, 'May So-and-so stumble,' [i.e. Curse him!], meaning the apostle. Abū Ḥāritha said, 'Nay but may you stumble.' 'But why, brother?' he asked. 'Because by God he is the prophet we have been waiting for.' Kūz said, 'Then if you know that, what stops you from accepting him?' He replied, 'The way these people have treated us. They have given us titles, paid us subsidies, and honoured us. But they are absolutely opposed to him, and if I were to accept him they would take from us all that you see.' Kūz pondered over the matter until later he adopted Islam, and used to tell this story, so I have heard (327).

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubair told me that when they came to Medina they came into the apostle's mosque as he prayed the afternoon prayer clad in Yamani garments, cloaks, and mantles, with the elegance of the Christian kings of Byzantium had honoured him and paid him a subsidy and gave him servants, built churches for him and lavished honours on him, because of his knowledge and zeal for their religion.

The names of the fourteen principal men among the sixty riders were: 'Abdu'l-Masīh the 'Aqīb, al-Ayham the Sayyid; Abū Ḥāritha b. 'Alqama brother of B. Bakr b. Wā'il; Aus; al-Hārith; Zayd; Qays; Yazid; Nubayh; Khuwaylid; 'Amr; Khālid; 'Abdullah; Johannes; of these the first three named above spoke to the apostle. They were Christians according to the Byzantine rite, though they differed among themselves in some points, saying He is God; and He is the son of God; and He is the third person of the Trinity, which is the doctrine of Christianity. They argue that he is God because he used to raise the dead, and heal the sick, and declare the unseen; and make clay birds and then breathe into them so that they flew away; and all this was by the command of God Almighty, 'We will make him a sign to men.'[3] They argue that he is the son of God in that they say he had no known father; and he spoke in the cradle and this is something that no child of Adam has ever done. They argue that he is the third of three in that God says: We have done, We have commanded,
We have created and we have decreed, and they say, 'If He were one He would have said I have done, I have created, and soon, but He is He and Jesus and Mary.' Concerning all these assertions the Qur'an came down.

When the two divines spoke to him the apostle said to them, 'Submit yourselves.' They said, 'We have submitted.' He said: 'You have not submitted, so submit.' They said, 'Nay, but we submitted before you.' He said, 'You lie. Your assertion that God has a son, your worship of the cross, and your eating pork hold you back from submission.' They said, 'But who is his father, Muhammad?' The apostle was silent and did not answer them. So God sent down concerning their words and their incoherence the beginning of the saura of the Family of 'Imrân up to more than eighty verses, and He said: 'Alif Lâm Mim. God there is no God but He the Living, the Ever-existent.' Thus the saura begins with the statement that He transcends what they say, and His oneness in creation and authority, without associate therein, in refutation of the infidelity they have invented, and their making rivals to Him; and using their own arguments against them in reference to their master to show them their error thereby. 'God there is no God but He,' no associate is with Him in His authority. 'The Living the Ever-existent,' the living Who cannot die, whereas Jesus died and was crucified according to their doctrine; 'The Ever-existent' one who remains unceasingly in the place of His sovereignty in His creation, whereas Jesus, according to their doctrine, removed from the place where he was and went from it elsewhere. 'He has brought down to thee the book in truth,' i.e. with the truth about which they differ. 'And He sent down the Torah and the Gospel,' the 'Torah to Moses and the Gospel to Jesus, as He sent down books to those who were before him. 'And He sent down the Criterion,' i.e. the distinction between truth and falsehood about which the sects differ in regard to the nature of Jesus and other matters. 'Those who disbelieve in God's signs will have a severe punishment. God is Mighty, Vengeful,' i.e. God will take vengeance on all who deny His signs, after knowing about them and about what comes from Him in them. 'Nothing in heaven or earth is hidden from God,' i.e. He knows what they intend and scheme and what comparison they seek to establish in their doctrine of Jesus when they make Him God and Lord, when they possess the knowledge that He is nothing of the kind, thus behaving with insolence and infidelity. 'He it is who forms you in the womb as He pleases,' i.e. Jesus was one who was formed in the womb—they do not attempt to deny that—like every other child of Adam, so how can he be God when he had occupied such a place? Then He says, to lift His transcendence and His essential Unity above what they put with Him, 'There is no God but He the Mighty the Wise.' The Mighty in His victory over those who deny Him when He wills, and the Wise in His argument and His case against His creatures. 'He it is who has sent down to thee the book which has plain verses: they are the core of the book,' in them is the divine argument, the protection of (His) creatures, and the thrusting aside of controversy and falsehood. These are not subject to modification or alteration in the meaning which has been given. 'And others are obscure,' they are subject to modification and interpretation. By them God tests His creatures as He tests them with things permitted and forbidden that they should not be changed into what is false and altered by declining from the truth. 'But as to those in whose hearts is a deviation,' i.e. turning away from true guidance, 'they follow what is ambiguous,' i.e. what can be otherwise interpreted to substantiate thereby what they have invented and introduced anew that they may have an argument and a plausible reason for their doctrine, 'desiring fitnah,' i.e. confusion, and 'desiring an arbitrary interpretation,' e.g. the error they adopted in explaining 'We created' and 'We decreed.' 'And none knows its interpretation,' i.e. what they mean by it, 'except God; and those grounded in knowledge. They say, We believe in it. Everything comes from our Lord.' So how can there be any controversy when it is one speech from one Lord? Then they carry over the interpretation of the obscure to the plain which can have only one meaning and thus the book becomes consistent, one part confirming another, the argument effective and the case clear; falsehood is excluded and unbelief is overcome. 'None but the intelligent take heed' in this way. 'O Lord, Suffer not our hearts to go astray after Thou hast guided us,' i.e. Do not let our hearts swerve, though we swerve aside through our sins. 'Grant us mercy from Thy presence. Thou art the Generous Giver.' Then He says, 'God witnesses that there is no God but He, and the angels and the men of knowledge too' contrary to what they say 'subsisting ever in justice,' i.e. in equity. 'There is no God but He the Mighty the Wise. The religion with God is Islam,' i.e. the religion you practise. O Muhammad, acknowledging the oneness of God and confirming the apostles. 'Those to whom the book was brought differed only after knowledge had come to them,' i.e. that which came to thee, namely that God is One without associate, 'through transgression among themselves. And whosoever disbelieves in God's revelations—God is swift to take into account. And if they argue with thee,' i.e. with the false doctrine they produce about 'We created,' 1 1 Lit. 'the mother'.

2 The two words used, tarif and takheef, are not always clearly defined by the Arab commentators. Lane says that the tarif of the verses means 'the varying or diversifying of the verses of the Qur'an by repeating them in different forms, or the making of them distinct in their meanings by repeating and varying them'. As to takheef, Rhdf's article in E.I. should be consulted: 'It may happen in various ways, by direct alteration of the written text, by arbitrary alterations in reading aloud the text which is itself correct, by omitting parts of it or by interpolations or by a wrong exposition of the true sense...'; Ibn 'Isaiah says that neither the plain nor the obscure verses may be treated with takheef; but in the latter category tarif and interpretation may be resorted to—i.e. a meaning may be given to them which the words taken as they stand do not justify.
3 Not in the theological sense, though undoubtedly christological differences form the background of this saura.
The Life of Muhammad

We did’, and ‘We commanded’, it is only a specious argument devoid of truth. ‘Say, I have surrendered my purpose’ to God,’ i.e. to Him alone, ‘as have those who follow me. And say to those who received the book and to the gentle (converts) who have no book, ‘Have you surrendered?’ For if they have surrendered they will be rightly guided and if they turn their backs it is only incumbent on thee to deliver the message. And God sees (His) servants.’

Then He combined the Jews and Christians and reminded them of what they had newly invented and said: ‘Those who disbelieve in God’s revelations and kill the prophets wrongfully and kill men who enjoin justice’ as far as the words, ‘Say, O God possessor of sovereignty,’ i.e. Lord of mankind and the King who alone decrees among them. ‘Thou givest sovereignty to whom Thou wilt and takest it away from whom Thou wilt. Thou exaltest and abasest whom Thou wilt; in Thy hand is good,’ i.e. there is no God but Thee. ‘Thou canst do all things,’ i.e. none but Thou can do this in thy majesty and power. ‘Thou causest the night to pass into day and the day into night and bringest forth the living from the dead and the dead from the living’ by that power. ‘And Thou nurtur’dst whom Thou wilt without stint.’ None has power to do that but Thou; i.e. though I gave Jesus power over those matters in virtue of which they say that he is God such as raising the dead, healing the sick, creating birds of clay, and declaring the unseen, I made him thereby a sign to men and a confirmation of his prophethood wherewith I sent him to his people. But some of My majesty and power I withheld from him such as appointing kings by a prophetic command and placing them where I wished, and making the night to pass into day and the day into night and bringing forth the living from the dead and the dead from the living and nurturing whom I will without stint, both the good and the evil man. All that I withheld from Jesus and gave him no power over it. Have they not an example and a clear proof that if he were a God all that would be within his power, while they know that he fled from kings and because of them he moved about the country from town to town.

Then he admonished and warned the believers and said: ‘Say, If you love God,’ i.e. if what you say is true in love to God and in glorifying Him and follow me, God will love you and forgive you your sins,’ i.e. your past unbelief. ‘And God is Forgiving Merciful. Say, Obey God and His apostle,’ for you know him and find him (mentioned) in your book. ‘But if you turn back,’ i.e. to your unbelief, ‘God loveth not the unbelievers.’

Then He explained to them how what God intended to do with Jesus originated and said: ‘God chose Adam and Noah and the family of Abraham and the family of IImrān above the worlds. They were descendants one of another and God is a Hearer, a Knower.’ Then he mentioned the affair of IImrān’s wife and how she said: ‘My Lord, I vow to Thee what is in my womb as a consecrated offering,’ i.e. I have vowed him and made him entirely devoted to God’s service subservient to no worldly interest. ‘Accept (him) from me. Thou art the Seer the Knower. And when she was delivered of him she said: O my Lord, I have given birth to a female—and God knew best of what she was delivered—and the male is not as the female,’ i.e. the two were not the same when I vowed her to thee as a consecrated offering. ‘I have called her Mary and I put her in Thy keeping and her offspring from Satan the damned.’ God said: ‘And her Lord accepted her with kindly acceptance and made her grow up to a goodly growth and made Zachariah her guardian’ after her father and mother were dead (328).

He mentions that she was an orphan and tells of her and Zachariah and what he prayed for and what He gave him when He bestowed on him Yabya. Then He mentions Mary and how the angels said to her, ‘O Mary, God hath chosen thee and purified thee and chosen thee above the women of the worlds. O Mary, be obedient to Thy Lord and prostrate thyself and bow with those that bow’, saying, ‘That is some of the tidings of things hidden. We reveal it to thee. Thou wast not present with them,’ i.e. thou wast not with them ‘when they threw their arrows to know which of them should be the guardian of Mary’ (329).

Later her guardian was Jurayj, the ascetic, a carpenter of B. Isrā’il. The arrow came out for him so he took her, Zachariah having been her guardian heretofore. A grievous famine befell B. Isrā’il and Zachariah was unable to support her so they cast lots to see who should be her guardian and the lot fell on Jurayj the ascetic and he became her guardian. ‘And thou wast not with them when they disputed,’ i.e. about her. He tells him about what they concealed from him though they knew it to prove his prophethood and as an argument against them by telling them what they had concealed from him.

Then He said: ‘Then the angels said: O Mary, God giveth thee good tidings of a word from Him whose name is the Messiahs Jesus, Son of Mary,’ i.e. thus was his affair not as you say concerning him, ‘illustrious in this world and the next,’ i.e. with God and of those who are brought near, ‘He will speak to men in his cradle and as a grown man, and he is of the righteous ones,’ telling them of the phases of life through which he would pass like the other sons of Adam in their lives young and old, although God marked him out by speech in his cradle as a sign of his prophethood and to show mankind where his power lay. ‘She said, O my Lord, how can I have a child when no man hath touched me? He said: Thus it will be God creates what He will,’ i.e. He does what He wishes, and creates what He wills of mortal or non-mortal. ‘When He decrees a thing He merely says to it Be’ of what He wills and how He wills ‘And it is’ as He wishes.

Then He tells her of His intention in regard to him: ‘And He will teach him the book and the wisdom and the Torah’ which had been with them from the time of Moses before him ‘and the Gospel,’ another book which God initiated and gave to him; they had only the mention of him that he would be one of the prophets after him. 'And an apostle to B. Iṣrā'īl,' i.e. confirming (saying) I have come to you with a sign from your Lord,' i.e. confirming that which was before me of the Torah, i.e. what of it preceded me, 'and to make lawful to you some of that which was forbidden you,' i.e. I tell you about it that it was forbidden you and you abandoned it; then I make it lawful to you to relieve you of it and you can enjoy it and be exempt from its penalties. 'And I bring you signs from your Lord, so fear God and obey me. God is your Lord and your Lord,' i.e. disowning what they say about him and proving that his Lord (is God).
'So worship Him. This is a straight path,' i.e. that to which I urge you and bring you. 'But when Jesus perceived their disbelief' and enmity against him 'He said, Who are my helpers towards God? The disciples said: We are God's helpers. We believe in what Thou hast sent us down among the witnesses,' i.e. thus was their saying and their faith.

Then He mentions His taking up of Jesus to Himself when they decided to kill him and says: 'And they plotted and God plotted and God is the best of plotters.' Then He tells them—refuting their disbelief, of the story of Jesus and of what they differed in regard to his crucifixion—how He took him up and purified him from them and says: 'When God said, O Jesus I am about to cause thee to die and to return home. But I will come to you later with a sign from thy Lord,' i.e. the report which comes to thee about Jesus, 'so he not of the doubters,' i.e. the truth which comes to thee about Jesus, 'so be not of the doubters,' i.e. the report which comes to thee from thy Lord so do not be doubtful about it; and if they say, Jesus was created without a male (intervening), I created Adam from earth by that same power without a male or a female. And he was as a male is no more wonderful than this. 'Whoose argues with thee about him after knowledge has come to thee,' i.e. after I have told thee his story and how his affair was, 'Then say: Come, let us summon our sons and your sons, our wives and your wives, ourselves and yourselves, let us pray earnestly1 and invoke God's curse upon the liars.' (331). 'Verily this which I have brought you of the story of Jesus is the true story' of his affair.
'There is no God but God, and God is Mighty Wise. If they turn back God knows about the corrupt doers. Say, 0 Scripture folk, Come to a just word between us that we will worship only God and associate nothing with Him and some of us will not take others as lords beside God. And if they turn back say: Bear witness that we are Muslims.' Thus he invited them to justice and deprived them of their argument.

When there came to the apostle news of Jesus from God and a decisive judgement between him and them, and he was commanded to resort to mutual invocation of a curse if they opposed him, he summoned them to begin. But they said: O Abū 'l-Qāsim, let us consider our affairs; then we will come to you later with our decision.' So they left him and consulted with the Āqīb who was their chief adviser and asked him what his opinion was. He said: 'O Christians, you know right well that Muhammad is a prophet sent (by God) and he has brought a decisive declaration about the nature of your master. You know too that a people has never invoked a curse on a prophet and seen its elders live and its youth grow up. If you do this you will be exterminated. But if you decide to adhere to your religion and to maintain your doctrine about your master, then take your leave of the man and go home.' So they came to the apostle and told him that they had decided not to resort to cursing and to leave him in his religion and return home. But they would like him to send a man he could trust to decide between them in certain financial matters in dispute among them.

Muhammad b. Ja'far said: The apostle said, 'If you come to me this evening I will send a firm and trusty man.' 'Umar used to say, 'I never wanted an office more than I wanted that one and hoped that I should get it. I went to the noon prayer in the heat and when the apostle had concluded it he looked to right and left and I began to stretch myself to my full height so that he could see me; but he kept on searching with his eyes until he saw Abū 'Ubaydā b. al-Jarrāḥ and calling him he said, 'Go with them and judge between them faithfully in matters they dispute about.'
So, said 'Umar, Abū 'Ubaydā went with them.

 SOME ACCOUNT OF THE HYPOCRITES

'Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda told me that when the apostle came to Medina the leader there was 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy b. Sa'ūd al-'Auфи of the clan of B. al-Hublā; none of his own people contested his authority and Aus and 1 See p. 254. n. 1.

277
Khazraj never rallied to one man before or after him until Islam came, as they did to him. With him was a man of Aus whom Aus obeyed, Abū 'Amir 'Abdū 'Amr b. Sayf b. al-Nu'mān, one of B. Ḍubay'a b. Zayd, the father of Ḥānẓala, 'the washed' on the day of Uhud. He had been an ascetic in pagan days and had worn a coarse hair garment and was called 'the monk'. These two men were damned through their high status and it did them harm.

'Abdūb b. Ubayy's people had made a sort of jewelled diadem to crown him and make him their king when God sent His apostle to them; so when his people foresaw him in favour of Islam he was filled with enmity realizing that the apostle had deprived him of his kingship. However, when he saw that his people were determined to go over to Islam he went too, but unwillingly, retaining his enmity and dissimulating.

Abū 'Amir stubbornly refused to believe and abandoned his people when they went over to Islam and went off to Mecca with about ten followers to get away from Islam and the apostle. Muhammad b. Abū Umāmah from one of the family of Ḥānẓala b. Abū 'Amir told me that the apostle said, 'Don't call him the monk but the evil-doer'.

Ja'far b. 'Abdullāh b. Abū'l-Hakam whose memory went back to apostolic days and who was a narrator of tradition told me that before he left for Mecca Abū 'Amir came to the apostle in Medina to ask him about the religion he had brought.

'The Hanifīya, the religion of Abraham.'

'That is what I follow.'

'You do not.'

'But I do! You, Muhammad, have introduced into the Hanifīya things which do not belong to it.'

'I have not. I have brought it pure and white.'

'May God let the liar die a lonely, homeless, fugitive!' (meaning the apostle as if he had falsified his religion).

'Well and good. May God so reward him!'

That actually happened to the enemy of God. He went to Mecca and when the apostle conquered it he went to Ṭa'īf; when Ṭa'īf became Muslim he went to Syria and died there a lonely, homeless, fugitive.

Now there went with him 'Alqama b. 'Ulah b. 'Auf b. al-Alwās b. Ja'far b. Kilāb, and Kinānā b. 'Abd Yālīl b. 'Amr b. 'Umayr al-Thaqāfī. When they died they brought their rival claims to his property before Caesar, lord of Rome. Caesar said, 'Let townsmen inherit townsmen and let nomads inherit nomads.' So Kinānā b. 'Abd Yālīl inherited his property and not 'Alqama.

Ka'b b. Mālik said of Abū 'Amir and what he had done:

God save me from an evil deed
Like yours against your clan, O 'Abdū 'Amr.

1 i.e. Nova Roma.

2 i.e. Nova Roma.

Fever attacks the Apostle's Companions

Hishām b. 'Urwā and 'Umar b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Urwā from 'Urwā b. al-Zubayr told me that 'Āisha said: When his apostle came to Medina it was the most fever-infested land on earth, and his companions suffered severely from it, though God kept it from His apostle. 'Amir b. Fuhayra and Bilāl, freedmen of Abū Bakr, were with him in one house when the fever attacked them, and I came in to visit them, for the veil had not then been ordered for us. Only God knows how much they suffered from the fever. I came to my father and asked him how he fared and he said:

\[1\] Ibn Qutayba, Maqaddima, tr. Gaudet-Demomhynne, Paris, 1917, p. 22, has ya'lli'ka for yafṣā'ka. G.-D. translates maṣa'dahu by 'patron'. The word is a homonym and in its context seems to require the meaning I have given.

Any man might be greeted by his family in the morning,
While death was nearer than the thong of his sandal.

I thought that my father did not know what he was saying. Then I went to 'Amir and asked him how he was and he said:

I have experienced death before actually tasting it:
The coward's death comes upon him as he sits.
Every man resists it with all his might
Like the ox who protects his body with his horns (335).

I thought that 'Amir did not know what he was saying. Bilāl when the fever left him lay prostrate in a corner of the house. Then he lifted up his voice and said:

Shall I ever spend a night again in Fakhkhī?
With sweet herbs and thyme around me?
Will the day dawn when I come down to the waters of Majanna?
Shall I ever see Shāma and Ṭafīl again? (336)

I told the apostle what they had said and he remarked that they were delirious and out of their minds with a high temperature. He said, "0 God, make Medina as dear to us as Mecca and even dearer! And bless to us its food, and carry its fever to Mahya'a." Mahya'a is al-Juḥfa.1

Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri from 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr b. al-Āṣ mentioned that, when the apostle came to Medina with his companions, the fever of Medina smote them until they were extremely ill (though God turned it away from his prophet) to such a degree that they could only pray sitting. The apostle came out to them when they were praying thus and said: 'Know that the prayer of the sitter is only half as valuable as the prayer of the stander.' Thereupon the Muslims painfully struggled to their feet despite their weakness and sickness, seeking a blessing.

Then the apostle prepared for war in pursuance of God's command to fight his enemies and to fight those polytheists who were near at hand whom God commanded him to fight. 'This was thirteen years after his call.

1 Cf. Yus. iii, 854-11, and Bukhārī, i, 471. 12. Fakhkhī is a place outside Mecca. Majanna in the lower part of Mecca was a market of the Arabs in pre-Arab days.

By the preceding ismā`l from 'Abdullāh b. Hishām who said Ziyād b. 'Abdullāh al-Bakki'ī from Muhammad b. Ishaq told me that the apostle came to Medina on Monday at high noon on the 12th of Rabī‘ul-awwal.

The apostle on that day was fifty-three years of age, that being thirteen years after God called him. He stayed there for the rest of Rabī‘ul-awwal, the month of Rabī‘ul-Ākhir, the two Jumādās, Rajah, Sha'bān, Ramadān, Shawwāl, Dhul-Qa‘ada, Dhul-Hijja (when the polytheists supervised the pilgrimage), and Meharram. Then he went forth raiding in Safar at the beginning of the twelfth month from his coming to Medina (337).

(The raid on Waddān which was his first raid) until he reached Waddān, which is the raid of al-Abwā’, making for Quraysh and B.  Dönra b. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāf b. Kinnā. The B. Dönra there made peace with him through their leader Mukhāyi b. 'Amr al-Darrī. Then he returned to Medina without meeting war and remained there for the rest of Safar and the beginning of Rabī‘ul-awwal (338).

The expedition of Ubayda b. al-Jārīth

During that stay in Medina the apostle sent 'Ubayda b. al-Jārīth b. al-Muṯṭalib with sixty or eighty riders from the emigrants, there not being a single one of the Ansār among them. He went as far as water in the Hijāz below Thanyat-ul-Murra, where he encountered a large number of Quraysh. No fighting took place except that Sa‘d b. Abū Waqqās shot an arrow on that day. It was the first arrow to be shot in Islam. Then the two companies separated, the Muslims having a rearguard. Al-Miqdād b. 'Amr al-Buhārī, an ally of the B. Zuhra, and 'Uthā b. Ghazwān b. Jabir al-Muzīnī, an ally of the B. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manāf, fled from the polytheists and joined the Muslims to whom they really belonged. They had gone out with the unbelievers in order to be able to link up with the Muslims. 'Irīma b. Abū Jahl was in command of the Meccans (339).

Concerning this raid Abū Bakr composed the following (340).

Could you not sleep because of the spectre of Salmā in the sandy valleys,
And the important event that happened in the tribe?
You see that neither admonition nor a prophet's call
Can save some of Lu'ayy from unbelief;
A truthful prophet came to them and they gave him the lie,
And said, 'You shall not live among us.'

When we called them to the truth they turned their backs,
They howled like bitches driven back panting to their lairs;

Cf. Yūs. i. 35. 16, who says it was once a large village with a pulpit on the road from Medina to Mecca about four stages distant from the latter. It was the rendezvous of the Egyptians and Syrians if they wished to avoid Medina.
With how many of them have we ties of kinship,
Yet to abandon piety did not weigh upon them;
If they turn back from their unbelief and disobedience
(For the good and lawful is not like the abominable);
If they follow their idolatry and error
God's punishment on them will not tarry;
We are men of Ghālib's highest stock
From which nobility comes through many branches;
I swear by the lord of camels urged on at even by singing,
Their feet protected by old leather thongs,
Like the red-backed deer that haunt Mecca
Going down to the well's slimy cistern;
I swear, and I am no perjurer,
If they do not quickly repent of their error,
A valiant band will descend upon them,
Which will leave women husbandless.
It will leave dead men, with vultures wheeling round,
It will not spare the infidels as Ibn Ħārith did.1
Give the Banū Sahm with you a message
And every infidel who is trying to do evil;
If you assail2 my honour in your evil opinion
I will not assail1 yours.

'Abdullah b. al-Zibārā al-Sahmi replied thus:

Does your eye weep unceasingly
Over the ruins of a dwelling that the shifting sand obscures?
And one of the wonders of the days
(For time is full of wonders, old and new)
Is a strong army which came to us
Led by 'Ubayda, called Ibn Ħārith in war,
That we should abandon images venerated in Mecca,
Passed on to his heirs by a noble ancestor.
When we met them with the spears of Rudayna,
And noble steeds panting for the fray,
And swords so white they might be salt-strewn
In the hands of warriors, dangerous as lions,
Wherewith we deal with the Conceited1
And quench our thirst for vengeance without delay,
They withdrew in great fear and awe,
Pleased with the order of him who kept them back.
Had they not done so the women would have waited,

1 i.e. 'Ubayda.
2 Abū Dhar refers the meaning of this word to the divine omniscience. In this line possibly 'ancestry' rather than 'honour' is the meaning of 'Nak'.
3 Lit., the turning away of him who turns to one side. Possibly the writer has in mind Sūra 31. 17, 'Turn not thy cheek in scorn towards people'.

The Life of Muhammad

Bereft of their husbands all of them,
The slain would have been left for those concerned
And those utterly heedless to talk about.
Give Abū Bakr with you a message:
You have no further part in the honour of Fih,
No binding oath that cannot be broken
That war will be renewed is needed from me (341).

Sa'd b. Abū Waqqās, according to reports, said about his having shot an arrow:

Has the news reached the apostle of God
That I protected my companions with my arrows?
By them I defended their vanguard
In rough ground and plain.
No archer who shoots an arrow at the enemy
Will be counted before me, O apostle of God.
'Twas because thy religion is true
Thou hast brought what is just and truthful.
By it the believers are saved
And unbelievers recompensed at the last.
Stop, thou hast gone astray, so do not slander me.
Woe to thee Abū Jahl, last one of the tribe! (342).

The flag of 'Ubayda b. Ħārith according to my information was the first flag which the apostle entrusted to a believer in Islam. Some scholars allege that the apostle sent him when he came back from the raid of al-Abwā' before he got to Medina.

Hamza's Expedition to the Sea-Shore

While he was staying there he sent Hamza b. 'Abdullāh-Muţtalīb to the seashore in the neighbourhood of Al-‘Īs (J.) in the territory of Juhayna) with thirty riders from the emigrants; none of the helpers took part. He met Abū Jahl with three hundred riders from Mecca on the shore, and Majdī b. 'Amr al-Juhāni intervened between them, for he was at peace with both parties. So the people separated one from another without fighting.

Some people say that Hamza's flag was the first which the apostle gave to any Muslim because he sent him and 'Ubayda at the same time, and thus people became confused on the point. They alleged that Hamza had composed poetry in which he says that his flag was the first which the apostle entrusted to anyone. Now if Hamza actually said that, it is true if God wills. He would not have said it if it were not true, but God knows what happened. We have heard from learned people that 'Ubayda was the first man to receive a flag. Hamza said concerning that, so they allege (343):

Wonder, O my people, at good sense and at folly,
At lack of sound counsel and at sensible advice,'

1 See n. 2 on the previous page.
Abū Jahl answered him, saying:

I am amazed at the causes of anger and folly
And at those who stir up strife by lying controversy,
Who abandon our fathers' ways.

Those noble, powerful men,
They come to us with lies to confuse our minds,
But their lies cannot confuse the intelligent.

We said to them, 'O our people, strive not with your folk—
Controversy is the utmost folly—
For if you do, your weeping women will cry out
Wailing in calamity and bereavement.

If you give up what you are doing,
We are your cousins, trustworthy and virtuous,'
They said to us, 'We find Muhammad
One whom our cultured and intelligent accept.'

When they were obstinately contentious
And all their deeds were evil
I attacked them by the sea-shore, to leave them
Like a withered leaf on a rootless stalk.

Abū Jahl warred there unjustly,
And was disappointed, for God frustrated his schemes.

We were but thirty riders, while they were two hundred and one.
Therefore, O Lu'ayy, obey not your deceivers,
Return to Islam and the easy path,
For I fear that punishment will be poured upon you
And you will cry out in remorse and sorrow.

When we saw each other, they halted and hobbled the camels,

And we did the same an arrow-shot distant.

We said to them, 'God's rope is our victorious defence,
You have no rope but error.'

Abū Jahl warred there unjustly,
And was disappointed, for God frustrated his schemes.

We went through a glen called 'Abdullah to this day;
Left until he came to al-'Ushayra in the neighbourhood of Radwā.
Then he returned to Medina without fighting, and remained there for the rest of Rabi'ū'l-Ākhir and part of Jumādā'il-Ūlā.

THE RAID ON BUWĀT

Then the apostle went raiding in the month of Rabi'ū'l-Āwwal, making for Quraysh (345), until he reached Buwāt in the neighbourhood of Radwā. Then he returned to Medina without fighting, and remained there for the rest of Rabi'ū'l-Ākhir and part of Jumādā'il-Ūlā.

THE RAID ON AL-'USHAYRA

Then he raided the Quraysh (346). He went by the way of B. Dīnār, then by Fāyā'u'l-Khabār, and halted under a tree in the valley of Ibn Azhar called Dḥātā'isq. There he prayed and there is his mosque. Food was prepared and they all ate there. The place occupied by the stones which supported his cooking-pot is still known. He drank from a watering place called al-Mushtarib. 2 Then he went on leaving al-Khālibq on the left and went through a glen called 'Abdullah to this day; then he bore to the left until he came down to Yahyāl and halted where it joins al-Dābāa. He drank of the well at al-Dābāa and then traversed the plain of Malal until he met the track in Sukhāyrāt al-Yamān which carried him straight to al-'Ushayra in the valley of Yanbu' where he stopped during Jumādā'il-Ūlā and some days of the following month. He made a treaty of friendship there with B. Mudīj and their allies B. Damrā, and then returned to Medina without a fight. It was on this raid that he spoke the well-known words to 'Ali.

1 The language of this 'poem' and its predecessor owes much to the Quran.
2 'Abd. and Suhaylī have 'al-Mushtarib.
3 According to Yaqūt there is a place of this name near Medina which belonged to 'Abdullāh b. Ahmad b. Jāsh.
4 Reading yānār for W.'s Nāf. Cf. Suhaylī in loc.
some men of B. Mudlij working at a well and on the date palms. 'Ali suggested that we should go and see what the men were doing, so we went and watched them for a time until we were overcome by drowsiness and we went and lay down under some young palms and fell fast asleep in the soft fine dust. And then who should wake us but the apostle himself as he stirred us with his foot! It was as we were dusting ourselves that the apostle said to 'Ali when he saw him covered with dust, 'What have you been up to, Abū Turāb (father of dust)?' Then he went on, 'Shall I tell you of the two most wretched creatures? Uhaymir of Thamūd who slaughtered the camel, and he who shall strike you here, 'Ali'—and he put his hand to the side of his head—'until this is soaked from it'—and he took hold of his beard.

A learned traditionist told me that the real reason why the apostle called 'Ali Abū Turāb was that when 'Ali was angry with Fāṭima he would not speak to her. He did not say anything to annoy her, but he used to sprinkle dust on his head. Whenever the apostle saw dust on 'Ali's head he knew that he was angry with Fāṭima and he would say, 'What is your trouble, O Abū Turāb?' But God knows the truth of the matter.

THE RAID OF SA'D B. ABU WAQQĀS

Meanwhile the apostle had sent Sa'd b. Abu Waqqās with eight men from the emigrants. He went as far as al-Kharrār in the Hijāz. Then he returned without fighting (347).

THE RAID ON SAFAWĀN, WHICH IS THE FIRST RAID OF BADR

The apostle stayed only a few nights, less than ten, in Medina when he came back from raiding Al-'Ushayra, and then Kurz b. Jabir al-Fihri raided the pasturing camels of Medina. The apostle went out in search of him (348), until he reached a valley called Safawān, in the neighbourhood of Badr. Kurz escaped him and he could not overtake him. This was the first raid of Badr. Then the apostle returned to Medina and stayed there for the rest of Jumāda'āl-ʾĀkhirā, Rajāb, and Shabān.

EXPEDITION OF 'ABDULLAH B. JAHSĪ AND THE COMING DOWN OF 'THEY WILL ASK YOU ABOUT THE SACRED MONTH'

The apostle sent 'Abdullāh b. Jaḥš b. Rīḍāb al-Asādi in Rajāb on his return from the first Badr. He sent with him eight emigrants, without any of the Ansārī. He wrote for him a letter, and ordered him not to look at it until he had journeyed for two days, and to do what he was ordered to do, but not to put pressure on any of his companions. The names of the eight emigrants were, Abū Ḥudhayfa, 'Abdullāh b. Jaḥš, 'Ukkāsha b. Miḥṣān, 'Utba b. Ghaḍwān, Sa'd b. Abū Waqqās, 'Āmir b. Rabī'a, Wāqīd b. 'Abdullāh, and Khālid b. al-Bukayr.\(^1\)

When 'Abdullāh had travelled for two days he opened the letter and looked into it, and this is what it said: 'When you have read this letter of mine proceed until you reach Nakhlah between Mecca and Al-Ṭā'īf. Lie in wait there for Quraysh and find out for us what they are doing.' Having read the letter he said, 'To hear is to obey.' Then he said to his companions, 'The apostle has commanded me to go to Nakhlah to lie in wait there for Quraysh so as to bring him news of them. He has forbidden me to put pressure on any of you, so if anyone wishes for martyrdom let him go forward, and he who does not, let him go back; as for me I am going on as the prophet has ordered.' So he went on, as did all his companions, not one of them falling back. He journeyed along the Hijāz until at a mine called Ṭabrān above al-Furu', Sa'd and 'Utba lost the camel which they were riding by turns, so they stayed behind to look for it,' while 'Abdullāh and the rest of them went on to Nakhlah. A caravan of Quraysh carrying dry raisins and leather and other merchandise of Quraysh passed by them, 'Amr b. al-Hadrāmī (349), 'Uthmān b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Mughira and his brother Naufal the Makhzūmites, and al-Ḥakam b. Kayān, freedman of Hishām b. al-Mughira being among them. When the caravan saw them they were afraid of them because they had camped near them. 'Ukkāsha, who had shaved his head, looked down on them, and when they saw him they felt safe and said, 'They are pilgrims, you have nothing to fear from them.' The raiders took council among themselves, for this was the last day of Rajāb, and they said, 'If you leave them alone tonight they will get into the sacred area and will be safe from you; and if you kill them, you will kill them in the sacred month,' so they were hesitant and feared to attack them. Then they encouraged each other, and decided to kill as many as they could of them and take what they had. Wāqīd shot 'Amr b. al-Hadrāmī with an arrow and killed him, and 'Uthmān and al-Ḥakam surrendered. Naufal escaped and eluded them, 'Abdullāh and his companions took the caravan and the two prisoners and came to Medina with them. One of 'Abdullāh's family mentioned that he said to his companions, 'A fifth of what we have taken belongs to the apostle.' (This was before God had appointed a fifth of the booty to him.) So he set apart for the apostle a fifth of the caravan, and divided the rest among his companions. When they came to the apostle, he said, 'I did not order you to fight in the sacred month,' and he held the caravan and the two prisoners in suspense and refused to take anything from them. When the apostle said that, the men were in despair and thought that they were doomed. Their Muslim brethren reproached them for what they had done, and the Quraysh said 'Muhammad and his companions have violated the sacred month, shed blood therein, taken booty, and captured men.' The Muslims in Mecca who opposed them said that they had done it in Sha'bān. The Jews turned this raid into an omen against the apostle. 'Amr b. al-Hadrami whom Wāqiq had killed they said meant 'amarati'l-harb (war has come to life), al-Hadrami meant hajarati'l-harb (war is present), and Wāqiq meant waqdati'l-harb (war is kindled); but God turned this against them, not for them, and when there was much talk about it, God sent down to his apostle: 'They will ask you about the sacred month, and war in it. Say, war therein is a serious matter, but keeping people from the way of God and disbelieving in Him and in the sacred mosque and driving out His people therefrom is more serious with God.'1 i.e. If you have killed in the sacred month, they have kept you back from the way of God with their unbelief in Him, and from the sacred mosque, and have driven you from it when you were its people. This is a more serious matter with God than the killing of those of them whom you have slain. 'And seduction is worse than killing,' i.e. They used to seduce the Muslim in his religion until they made him return to unbelief after believing, and that is worse with God than killing. 'And they will not cease to fight you until they turn you back from your religion if they can.' i.e. They are doing more heinous acts than that contumaciously.

---

\(^1\) As these men have already been named with full particulars of their genealogy and tribes, only their first names are repeated here.

And when the Quran came down about that and God relieved the Muslims of their anxiety in the matter, the apostle took the caravan and the prisoners. Quraysh sent to him to redeem 'Uthmān and al-Hakam, and the apostle said, 'We will not let you redeem them until our two companions come,' meaning Sa'd and 'Uthba, 'for we fear for them on your account. If you kill them, we will kill your two friends.' So when Sa'd and 'Uthba turned up the apostle let them redeem them. As for al-Hakam he became a good Muslim and stayed with the apostle until he was killed as a martyr at Bīr Mā'ūnah. 'Uthmān went back to Mecca and died there as an unbeliever. When 'Abdullah and his companions were relieved of their anxiety when the Quran came down, they were anxious for reward, and said, 'Can we hope that it will count as a reward for which we shall be given the reward of combatants?' So God sent down concerning them: 'Those who believe and have emigrated and fought in the way of God, these may hope for God's mercy, for God is forgiving, merciful.' That is, God gave them the greatest hopes therein. The tradition about this comes from Al-Zuhri and Ya'qūb b. Rūmān from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr.

One of 'Abdullah's family mentioned that God divided the booty when He made it permissible and gave four-fifths to whom God had allowed to take it and one-fifth to God and His apostle. So it remained on the basis of what 'Abdullah had done with the booty of that caravan (350).

Abū Bakr said concerning 'Abdullah's raid (though others say that 'Ab-

1 Sūra 2. 214.
THE DREAM OF 'ĀTIKA D. OF 'ABDU'I-MU'TTALIB

A person above suspicion told me on the authority of 'Ikrīma b. 'Abbās and Yazīd b. Rūmān from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr, saying: 'three days before Dāmām arrived 'Ātiqa saw a vision which frightened her. She sent to her brother al-'Abbās saying, 'Brother, last night I saw a vision which frightened me and I am afraid that evil and misfortune will come upon your people, so treat what I tell you as a confidence.' He asked what she had seen, and she said, 'I saw a rider coming upon a camel who halted in the valley. Then he cried at the top of his voice, 'Come forth, O people, do not leave your men to face a disaster that will come in three days time.' I saw the people flock to him, and then he went into the mosque with the people following him. While they were round him his camel mounted to the top of the Ka'ba. Then he called out again, using the same words. Then his camel mounted to the top of Abū Qubays, and he cried out again. Then he seized a rock and loosened it, and it began to fall, until at the bottom of the mountain it split into pieces. There was not a house or a dwelling in Mecca but received a bit of it.' al-'Abbās said, 'By God, this is indeed a vision, and you had better keep quiet about it and not tell anyone.' Then 'Abbās went out and met al-Walid b. Uthba, who was a friend of his, and told him and asked him to keep it to himself. al-Walid told his father and the story spread in Mecca until Quraysh were talking about it in their public meetings.

'al-Abbās said, 'I got up early to go round the temple, while Abū Jahl was sitting with a number of Quraysh talking about 'Ātiqa's vision. When he saw me he said, 'Come to us when you have finished going round the temple.' When I had finished I went and sat with them, and he said, 'O Bani 'Abbāl-Mu'ttalib, since when have you had a prophetess among you?' 'And what do you mean by that?' I said. 'That vision which 'Ātiqa saw,' he answered. I said, 'And what did she see?' He said, 'Are you not satisfied that your men should play the prophet that your women should do so also? 'Ātiqa has alleged that in her vision someone said, 'Come forth to war in three days.' We shall keep an eye on you these three days, and if what she says is true, then it will be so; but if the three days pass and nothing happens, we will write you down as the greatest liars of the temple people among the Arabs.' Nothing much had passed between us except that I contradicted that and denied that she had seen anything. Then we separated. When night came every single woman of B. 'Abbāl-Mu'ttalib came to me and said, 'Have you allowed this evil rascal to attack your men, and then go on to insult your women while you listened? Have you no shame that you should listen to such things?' I said, 'By God, I have done nothing; nothing much had passed between us but I swear by God that I will confront him, and if he repeats what he has said, I will rid you of him.'

On the third day after 'Ātiqa's vision, while I was enraged, thinking that I had let something slip which I wanted to get from him, I went into the mosque and saw him, and as I was walking towards him to confront him so that he should repeat some of what he had said and I could attack him, for he was a thin man with sharp features, sharp tongue, and sharp sight, lo, he came out towards the door of the mosque hurriedly, and I said to myself, 'What is the matter with him, curse him, is all this for fear that I should insult him?' But lo, he had heard something which I did not hear, the voice of Dāmām crying out in the bottom of the wadi, as he stood upon his camel, having cut its nose, turned its saddle round, and rent his shirt, while he was saying, 'O Quraysh, the transport camels, the transport camels! Muhammad and his companions are lying in wait for your property which is with Abū Sufyān. I do not think that you will overtake it. Help! Help.' This diverted him and me from our affair.'

QURAYSH PREPARE TO GO TO BADR

The men prepared quickly, saying, 'Do Muhammad and his companions think this is going to be like the caravan of Ibn Ḥadrami? By God, they will soon know that it is not so.' Every man of them either went himself or sent someone in his place. So all went; not one of their nobles remained behind except Abū Lahab. He sent in his place al-Ūs b. Ḥishām b. al-Mughīrah who owed him four thousand dirhams which he could not pay. So he hired him with them on the condition that he should be cleared of his debt. So he went on his behalf and Abū Lahab stayed behind.'

'Abdullah b. Abū Najīḥ told me that Umayya b. Khalaf had decided to stay at home. He was a stately old man, corpulent and heavy. 'Uqba b. Abū Mu'ayy came to him as he was sitting in the mosque among his companions, carrying a censer burning with scented wood. He put it in front of him and said, 'Scent yourself with that, for you belong to the women!' 'God curse you and what you have brought,' he said, and then got ready and went out with the rest. When they had finished their preparations and decided to start, they remembered the quarrel there was between them and B. Bakr b. Abī Manāt b. Kināna, and were afraid that they would attack them in the rear.

The cause of the war between Quraysh and B. Bakr, according to what one of B. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy from Muhammad b. Sa'id b. al-Musayyab told me, was a son of Ḥafs b. al-Akhyaf, one of the B. Ma'īs b. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy. He had gone out seeking a lost camel of his in Ḍajnān. He was a youngster with flowing locks on his head, wearing a robe, a good-looking, clean youth. He passed by 'Amir b. Yazīd b. 'Amir b. al-Muławwih, one of B. Ya'īmar b. 'Auf b. Ka'b b. 'Amir b. Layth b. Bakr b. Abī Manāt b. Kināna in Ḍajnān, he being the chief of B. Bakr at that time. When he saw him he liked him and asked him who he was. When he told him, and had gone away, he called his tribesmen, and asked them if there was any blood outstanding with Quraysh, and when they said there was, he said, 'Any man who kills this youngster in revenge for one of his tribe will have exacted the blood due to him.' So one of them followed him and killed him in revenge for the blood Quraysh had shed. When Quraysh discussed the matter, 'Amir b. Yazid said, 'You owed us blood so what do you want? If you wish pay us what you owe us, and we will pay you what we owe. If you want only blood, man for man, then ignore your claims and we will ignore ours'; and since this youth was of no great importance to this clan of Quraysh, they said, 'All right, man for man,' and ignored his death and sought no compensation for it.

Now while his brother Mikraz was travelling in Marr al-Zahran he saw 'Amir on a camel, and as soon as he saw him 'Amir went up to him and made his camel kneel beside him. 'Amir was wearing a sword, and Mikraz brought his sword down on him and killed him. Then he twirled his sword about in his belly, and brought it back to Mecca and hung it overnight among the curtains of the Ka'ba. When morning came Quraysh saw 'Amir's sword hanging among the curtains of the Ka'ba and recognized it. They said, 'This is 'Amir's sword; Mikraz has attacked and killed him.' This is what happened, and while this vendetta was going on, Islam intervened between men, and they occupied themselves with that, until when Quraysh decided to go to Badr they remembered the vendetta with B. Bakr and were afraid of them.

Mikraz b. Hafs said about his killing 'Amir:

When I saw that it was 'Amir I remembered the fleshless corpse of my dear brother.
I said to myself, it is 'Amir, fear not my soul and look to what you do.
I was certain that as soon as I got in I would be killed with the sword, it would be the end of him.
I swooped down on him, on a brave, experienced man, with a sharp sword.
When we came to grips I did not show myself a son of ignoble parents, I slaked my vengeance, forgetting not revenge which only weaknesses forgo (353).

Yazid b. Ruman from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr told me that when Quraysh were ready to set off they remembered their quarrel with B. Bakr and it almost deterred them from starting. However, Iblis appeared to them in the form of Suraqa b. Abu Sufyan and convinced them to set out. In his neighbourhood he crossed a wadi called Ruhajun between al-Na'iy and the pass of al-Safra'; then along the pass; then he debunked from it until when near al-Safra' he sent Basbas b. 'Amr al-Juhani, an ally of B. Saida, and 'Adly b. Abu Zaghiba al-Juhani, ally of B. al-Najjar, to Badr to scout for news about Abu Sufyan and his caravan. Having sent them on ahead he moved off and when he got to al-Safra', which is a village between two mountains, he asked what their names were. He was told that they were Muslih and Mukhir. He asked about their inhabitants and was told that they were B. al-Nar and B. Hurrug, two clans of B. Ghafr. The apostle drew an ill omen from their names and so disliked them that he refused to pass between them, so he left them and al-Safra' on his left and went to the right to a wadi called Dhafirah which he crossed and then halted.

News came to him that Quraysh had set out to protect their caravan, and he told the people of this and asked their advice. Abu Bakr and then 'Umar got up and spoke well. Then al-Miqdad got up and said, 'O apostle of God, go where God tells you for we are with you. We will not say as the children of Israel said to Moses, 'You and your Lord go and fight and we will stay at home,' but you and your Lord go and fight, and we will fight

1 Though there is no authority in the printed editions, or in the variants cited therein, I cannot help thinking that the reading should be 'arih and not ghayrī, 'anyone else.' In the earlier raids the prophet had not made inquiries about all and sundry and all he was concerned with was the Meccan caravan and the Meccan army. If the latter were meant in the assumed reading ghayrī, one feels they would have been explicitly mentioned. Nöl. reads 'arih 'T. 1320.'
2 Both names mean 'defector.'
3 'Fire' and 'Burning' respectively.
4 Noma 5. 27.
with you. By God, if you were to take us to Bark al-Ghimād,1 we would fight resolutely with you against its defenders until you gained it.' The apostle thanked him and blessed him. Then he said, ‘Give me advice, O Men,’ by which he meant the Ānār. This is because they formed the majority, and because when they had paid homage to him in al-‘Aqabah they stipulated that they were not responsible for his safety until he entered their territory, and that when he was there they would protect him as they did their wives and children. So the apostle was afraid that the Ānār would not feel obliged to help him unless he was attacked by an enemy in Medina, and that they would not feel it incumbent upon them to go with him against an enemy outside their territory. When he spoke these words Sa’d b. Mu‘ādh said, ‘It seems as if you mean us,’ and when he said that he did, Sa’d said, ‘We believe in you, we declare your truth, and we witness that what you have brought is the truth, and we have given you our word and agreement to hear and obey; so go where you wish, we are with you; and by God, if you were to ask us to cross this sea and you plunged into it, we would plunge into it with you; not a man would stay behind. We do not dislike the idea of meeting your enemy tomorrow. We are experienced in war, trustworthy in combat. It may well be that God will let us show you something which will bring you joy, so take us along with God’s blessing.’ The apostle was delighted at Sa’d’s words which greatly encouraged him. Then he said, ‘Forward in good heart, for God has promised me one of the two parties,2 and by God, it is as though I now saw the enemy lying prostrate.’ Then the apostle journeyed from Dhafrah and went over passes called Asāfīr. Then he dropped down from them to a town called al-Dabbat and left al-Hannān on the right. This was a huge sandhill like a large mountain. Then he stopped near Badr and he and one of his companions (359) rode on, as Muhammad b. Yahyā b. Ḥabbar told me, until he stopped by an old man of the Beduin and inquired about Quraysh and about Muhammad and his companions, and what he had heard about them. The old man said, ‘I won’t tell you until you tell me which party you belong to.’ The apostle said, ‘If you tell us we will tell you.’ He said, ‘Tit for tat?’ ‘Yes,’ he replied. The old man said, ‘I have heard that Muhammad and his companions went out on such-and-such a day. If that is true, today they are in such-and-such a place, referring to the place in which the apostle actually was, and I heard that Quraysh went out on such-and-such a day, and if this is true, today they are in such-and-such a place,’ meaning the one in which they actually were. When he had finished he said, ‘Of whom are you?’ The apostle said, ‘We are from Mā’in.’3 Then he left him, while the old man was saying, ‘What does “from Mā’in” mean? Is it from the water of Iraq?’ (360).

1 A place in the Yemen, others say the farthest point of Ḥajār. T. 1300 adds ‘a town of the Abyssinians’.
2 i.e. the caravan or the army. Cf. Sūra 8. 7
3 i.e. Water.

Then the apostle returned to his companions; and when night fell he sent Ali and al-Zubayr b. al-‘Awām and Sa’d b. Abū Waqqās with a number of his companions to the well at Badr in quest of news of both parties, according to what Yazid b. Rūmnān from ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr told me, and they fell in with some water-camels of Quraysh, among whom were Aslam, a slave of B. al-Hāfidh, and ‘Arīf b. Ya‘sar, a young man of B. al-‘Āq b. Sa‘id, and they brought them along and questioned them while the apostle was standing praying. They said, ‘We are the watermen of Quraysh; they sent us to get them water.’ The people were displeased at their report, for they had hoped that they would belong to Abū Sufyān, so they beat them, and when they had beaten them soundly, the two men said, ‘We belong to Abū Sufyān,’ so they let them go. The apostle bowed and prostrated himself twice, and said, ‘When they told you the truth you beat them; and when they lied you let them alone. They told the truth; they do belong to Quraysh. Tell me you two about the Quraysh.” They replied, ‘They are behind this hill which you see on the farthest side.’ (The hill was al-‘Aqanqal.) The apostle asked them how many they were, and when they said, ‘Many,’ he asked for the number, but they did not know; so he asked them how many beasts they slaughtered every day, and when they said nine or ten, he said, ‘The people are between nine hundred and a thousand.’ Then he asked how many nobles of Quraysh were among them. They said: ‘Utbah, Shaybah, Abū’l-Bakhtari, Hākim, Naufal, al-Hāridh b. Āmir, Ṭū’ayma, al-Nadr, Zama’a, Abū Dahl, Umayya, Nabil, Munabbih, Suhayl, Abīr b. Abdu Wudd.’ The apostle went to the people and said, ‘This Mecca has thrown to you the pieces of its liver!’

Bashbas and Ḍiyā‘ had gone on until they reached Badr, and halted on a hill near the water. Then they took an old skin to fetch water while Majdī b. ‘Amr al-Juhanī was by the water. ‘Ady and Bashbas heard two girls from the village discussing a debt, and one said to the other, ‘The caravan will come tomorrow or the day after and I will work for them and then pay you what I owe you.’ Majdī said, ‘You are right,’ and he made arrangements with them. Ḍiyā‘ and Bashbas overheard this, and rode off to the apostle and told him what they had overheard.

Abū Sufyān went forward to get in front of the caravan as a precautionary measure until he came down to the water, and asked Majdī if he had noticed anything. He replied that he had seen nothing untoward: merely two riders had stopped on the hill and taken water away in a skin. Abū Sufyān came to the spot where they had halted, picked up some camel dung and broke it in pieces and found that it contained date-stones. ‘By God,’ he said, ‘this is the fodder of Yathrib.’ He returned at once to his companions and changed the caravan’s direction from the road to the seashore leaving Badr on the left, travelling as quickly as possible.

Quraysh advanced and when they reached al-Juḥfa Juḥaym b. al-Salt b. Makhrama b. al-Muṭjali b. saw a vision. He said, ‘Between waking and sleeping I saw a man advancing on a horse with a camel, and then he halted and said: “Slain are Uthba and Shayba and Abū‘l-Hakam and Umayya” (and he went on to enumerate the men who were killed at Badr, all nobles of Quraysh). Then I saw him stab his camel in the chest and send it loose into the camp, and every single tent was bespattered with its blood.” When the story reached Abū Jahl he said, ‘Here’s another prophet from B. al-Muṭṭalib! He’ll know tomorrow if we meet them who is going to be killed!’

When Abū Sufyān saw that he had saved his caravan he sent word to Quraysh, ‘Since you came out to save your caravan, your men, and your property, and God has delivered them, go back.’ Abū Jahl said, ‘By God, we will not go back until we have been to Badr’—Badr was the site of one of the Arab fairs where they used to hold a market every year. ‘We will spend three days there, slaughter camels and feast and drink wine, and the girls shall play for us. The Arabs will hear that we have come and gathered together, and will respect us in future. So come on!’

Al-Akhnas b. Sharīq b. ‘Amr b. Wahb al-Ṯaqaff, an ally of B. Zuhra who were in al-Juhfa, addressed the latter, saying, ‘God has saved you and your property and delivered your companion Makhrama b. Naufal; and as you only came out to protect him and his property, lay any charge of cowardice on me and go back. There is no point in going to war without profit as this man would have us,’ meaning Abū Jahl. So they returned and not a single Zuhrite was present at Badr. They obeyed him as he was a man of authority. Every clan of Quraysh was represented except B. ‘Adiy b. Ka‘b; not one of them took part, so with the return of B. Zuhra with al-Akhnas these two tribes were not represented at all. There was some discussion between Tālib b. Abū Tālib, who was with the army, and some of Quraysh. The latter said, ‘We know, O B. Hāshim, that if you have come out with us your heart is with Muhammad.’ So Tālib and some others returned to Mecca. Tālib said:

O God, if Tālib goes forth to war unwillingly
With one of these squadrons,
Let him be the plundered not the plunderer,
The vanquished not the victor (361).

Quraysh went on until they halted on the farther side of the wadi behind al-‘Aqanqal. The bed of the wadi—Yalāl—was between Badr and al-‘Aqanqal, the hill behind which lay Quraysh, while the wells at Badr were on the side of the wadi nearest to Medina. God sent a rain which turned the soft sand of the wadi into a compact surface which did not hinder the apostle’s movements, but gravely restricted the movements of Quraysh. The apostle went forth to hasten his men to the water and when he got to the nearest water of Badr he halted.

I was told that men of B. Ṣalama said that al-Ḥubāb b. al-Mundhir b. al-Jamāḥ said to the apostle: ‘Is this a place which God has ordered you to occupy, so that we can neither advance nor withdraw from it, or is it a matter of opinion and military tactics?’ When he replied that it was the latter he pointed out that it was not the place to stop but that they should go on to the water nearest to the enemy and halt there, stop up the wells beyond it, and construct a cistern so that they would have plenty of water; then they could fight their enemy who would have nothing to drink. The apostle agreed that this was an excellent plan and it was immediately carried out; the wells were stopped; a cistern was built and filled with water from which his men replenished their drinking-vessels.

‘Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that he was informed that Sa‘d b. Mu‘ādh said: ‘O prophet of God, let us make a booth (‘T. of palm-branches) for you to occupy and have your riding camels standing by; then we will meet the enemy and if God gives us the victory that is what we desire; if the worst occurs you can mount your camels and join our people who are left behind, for they are just as deeply attached to you as we are. Had they thought that you would be fighting they would not have stayed behind. God will protect you by them; they will give you good counsel and fight with you.’ The apostle thanked him and blessed him. Then a booth was constructed for the apostle and he remained there.

Quraysh, having marched forth at daybreak, now came on. When the apostle saw them descending from the hill ‘Aqanqal into the valley, he cried, ‘O God, here come the Quraysh in their vanity and pride, contending with Thee and calling Thy apostle a liar. O God, grant the help which Thou didst promise me. Destroy them this morning!’ Before uttering these words he had seen among the enemy ‘Uthba b. Rabī‘a, mounted on a red camel of his, and said, ‘If there is any good in any one of them, it will be with the man on the red camel: if they obey him, they will take the right way.’ Khūfāf b. A‘īmī b. Rāḥada, or his father A‘īmī b. Rāḥada al-Ghifārī, had sent to Quraysh, as they passed by, a son of his with some camels for slaughter, which he gave them as a gift, saying, ‘If you want us to support you with arms and men, we will do so;’ but they sent to him the following message by the mouth of his son—‘You have done all that a kinsman ought. If we are fighting only men, we are surely equal to them; and if we are fighting God, as Muhammad alleges, none is able to withstand Him.’ And when Quraysh encamped, some of them, among whom was Ḥakīm b. Ḥizām, went to the cistern of the apostle to drink. ‘Let them be!’ he said; and every man that drank of it on that day was killed, except Ḥakīm, who afterwards became a good Muslim and used to say, when he was earnest in his oath, ‘Nay, by Him who saved me on the day of Badr.’

My father Iṣḥāq b. Yāsār, and other learned men told me on the authority of some elders of the Ānsār that when the enemy had settled in their camp they sent ‘Umayr b. Wahb al-Jumāḥ to estimate the number of Muhammad’s followers. He rode on horseback round the camp and on his return said, ‘Three hundred men, a little more or less; but wait till I see whether they have any in ambush or support.' He made his way far into the valley but saw nothing. On his return he said, 'I found nothing, but O people of Quraysh, I have seen camels carrying Death—the camels of Yathrib laden with certain death. These men have no defence or refuge but their swords. By God! I do not think that a man of them will be slain till he slay one of you, and if they kill of you a number equal to their own, what is the good of living after that? Consider, then, what you will do.' When Hakim b. Hizām heard those words, he went on foot amongst the folk until he came to 'Uthb b. Rabī`a and said, 'O Abū l-Walīd, you are chief and lord of Quraysh and he whom they obey. Do you wish to be remembered with praise amongst them to the end of time?' 'Utba said, 'How may that be, O Hakim?' He answered, 'Lead them back and take up the cause of your ally, Amr b. al-Ḥadramī. 'I will do it,' said 'Utba, 'and you are witness against me (if I break my word): he was under my protection, so it behoves me to pay his bloodwit and what was seized of his wealth (to his kinsmen). Now go you to Ibn al-Ḥanzaliyya, for I do not fear that any one will make trouble except him (362). Then 'Utba rose to speak and said, 'O people of Quraysh! By God, you will gain naught by giving battle to Muhammad and his companions. If you fall upon him, each one of you will always be looking with loathing on the face of another who has slain the son of his paternal or maternal uncle or some man of his kin. Therefore turn back and leave Muhammad to the rest of the Arabs. If they kill him, that is what you want; and if be otherwise, he will find that you have not tried to do to him what you (in fact) would have liked to do.' Hakim said: 'I went to Abū Jahl and found him oiling a coat of mail (363) which he had taken out of its bag. I said to him, 'O Abū l-Ḥakam, 'Uthb has sent me to you with such-and-such a message,' and I told him what 'Uthb had said. 'By God,' he cried, 'his lungs became swollen (with fear) when he saw Muhammad and his companions. No, by God, we will not turn back until God decide between us and Muhammad. 'Utba does not believe his own words, but he saw that Muhammad and his companions are (in number as) the eaters of one slaughtered camel, and his son is among them, so he is afraid lest you slay him.' Then he sent to Amr b. al-Ḥadramī, saying, 'This ally of yours is for turning back with the folk at this time when you see your blood-revenge before your eyes. Arise, therefore, and remind them of your covenant and the murder of your brother.' Amr arose and uncovered; then he cried, 'Alas for Amr! Alas for Amr!' And war was kindled and all was marred and the folk held stubbornly on their evil course and 'Utba's advice was wasted on them. When 'Uthb heard how Abū Jahl had taunted him, he said, 'He with the befouled garment' will find out whose lungs are swollen, mine or his (364).'' Then 'Utba looked for a helmet to put on his head; but seeing that his head was so big that he could not find in the army a helmet that would contain it, he wound a piece of cloth he had round his head.

1 ‘T. adds: ‘He escaped on a horse of his called al-Wajib.’ So also al-Aghā.

Al-Aswād b. 'Abdūl-Asad al-Mukhīnī, who was a quarrelsome ill-natured man, stepped forth and said, 'I swear to God that I will drink from their cistern or destroy it or die before reaching it.' Ḥamza b. Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib came forth against him, and when the two met, Ḥamza smote him and sent his foot and half his shank flying as he was near the cistern. He fell on his back and lay there, blood streaming from his foot towards his comrades. Then he crawled to the cistern and threw himself into it with the purpose of fulfilling his oath, but Ḥamza followed him and smote him and killed him in the cistern.

Then after him 'Uthb b. Rabī`a stepped forth between his brother Shayba and his son al-Walīd b. 'Utba, and when he stood clear of the ranks gave the challenge for single combat. Three men of the Ansār came out against him: 'Auf and Mu`awwidh the sons of Ḥārīth (their mother was 'Afra`) and another man, said to have been 'Abdullāh b. Rawāhā. The Quraysh said, 'Who are you?' They answered, 'Some of the Ansār,' whereupon the three of Quraysh said, 'We have nothing to do with you.' Then the herald of Quraysh shouted, 'O Muhammad! Send forth against us our peers of our own tribe!' The apostle said, 'Aris, O 'Ubaydā b. Ḥārīth, and arise, O Ḥamza, and arise, O 'Ali.' And when they arose and approached them, the Quraysh said, 'Who are you?' And having heard each declare his name, they said, 'Yes, these are noble and our peers.' Now 'Ubayda was the eldest of them, and he faced 'Uthb b. Rabī`a, while Ḥamza faced Shayba b. Rabī`a and 'Ali faced al-Walīd b. 'Utba. It was not long before Ḥamza slew Shayba and 'Ali slew al-Walīd, 'Ubayda and 'Utba exchanged two blows with one another and each laid his enemy low. Then Hamza and 'Ali turned on 'Uthb with their swords and dispatched him and bore away their comrade and brought him back to his friends. (T. 1318. 2. His leg had been cut off and the marrow was oozing from it. When they brought 'Ubayda to the prophet he said, 'Am I not a martyr, O apostle of God?' 'Indeed you are,' he replied. Then 'Ubayda said, 'Were Abū Taḥlib alive he would know that his words1

We will not give him up till we have broken him, and be unmindful of our women and children.

1 Or 'shield'.
2 A coarse expression for a coward.

are truly realized in me.) 'Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda told me that when the men to the Ansār declared their lineage, 'Uthb said, 'You are noble and our peers, but we desire men of our own tribe.'

Then they advanced and drew near to one another. The apostle had ordered his companions not to attack until he gave the word, and if the enemy should surround them they were to keep them off with showers of arrows. He himself remained in the hut with Abū Bakr. I was informed by Abū Ja`far Muhammad b. al-Ḥusayn that the battle of Badr was fought

1 W. 174. 9.
2 T. 1318. 11 'come near'.

The Life of Muhammad
on Friday morning on the 17th of Ramadan. Ḥabbān b. Wāsiʻ b. Ḥabbān 444 b. Tha‘labā b. Šu‘ayr al-‘A‘dhiyn, an ally of B. Zuhra, told me that when the warriors advanced to battle and drew near to one another Abū Jahl cried,
'O God, destroy this morning him that more than any of us hath cut the ties of kinship and wrought that which is not approved.' Thus he condemned himself to death.

Then the apostle took a handful of small pebbles and said, turning towards Quraysh, 'Foul be those faces!' Then he threw the pebbles at them and ordered his companions to charge. The foe was routed. God slew many of their chiefs and made captive many of their nobles. Meanwhile the apostle was in the hut and Sa‘d b. Mu‘āth was standing at the door of the hut girt with his sword. With him were some of the Anṣār guarding the apostle for fear lest the enemy should come back at him.
While the folk were laying hands on the prisoners the apostle, as I have been told, saw displeasure on the face of Sa‘d at what they were doing.
He said to him, 'You seem to dislike what the people are doing.' 'Yes, by God,' he replied, 'it is the first defeat that God has brought on the infidel and I would rather see them slaughtered than left alive.'

Al-Abdās b. 'Abdallāh b. Ma‘bad from one of his family from Ḥm
'Abdās told me that the latter said that the prophet said to his companions that day, 'I know that some of B. Ḥāshim and others have been forced to come out against their will and have no desire to fight us; so if any of you meet one of B. Ḥāshim or Abū’l-Bakhtari or al-Abdās the apostle’s uncle do not kill him, for he has been made to come out against his will.' Abū Hudhayfa said: 'Are we to kill our fathers and our sons and our brothers and our families and leave al-Abdās? By God, if I meet him I will flash my sword in him!' (367).

This saying reached the apostle’s ears and he said to ‘Umar, 'O Abū Ḥaṣa‘—and ‘Umar said that this was the first time the apostle called him by this honorific—'ought the face of the apostle’s uncle to be marked with the sword?' 'Umar replied, 'Let me off with his head! By God, the man is a false Muslim.'2 Abū Hudhayfa used to say, 'I never felt safe after my words that day. I was always afraid unless martyrdom stoned for them.'
He was killed as a martyr in the battle of al-Yamāma.

The reason why the apostle forbade the killing of Abū’l-Bakhtari was because he had kept back the people in Mecca from the apostle; he never insulted him or did anything offensive; and he took a prominent part in the cancelling of the boycott which Quraysh had written against B. Ḥāshim and B. al-Muṭṭalib. Now al-Mujādhddhar b. Dhiyā‘ al-Balawī, an ally of the Anṣār, of the clan of B. Ṣalīm b. ‘A‘fā –fell in with him and told him that the apostle had forbidden them to kill him. Now al-‘Aṣ Abū’l-Bakh-

1 v. 498.
2 The verb from which munāṣṣūn, generally rendered ‘hypocrites’, is formed. Clearly it includes the meaning of a rebel against the prophet’s authority; perhaps the underlying idea is feigned obedience.
tari was accompanied by his fellow-rider Junāda b. Mulayha d. Zuhayr b. al-Hārith b. Asad who was one of B. Layth, and he said, 'And what about my friend here?' 'No, by God,' said al-Mujadhdhar, 'we are not going to spare your friend. The apostle gave us orders about you only.' 'In that case,' he said, 'I will die with him. The women of Mecca shall not say that I forsook my friend to save my own life.' He uttered these rajas as al-Mujadhdhar came at him and he insisted on fighting:

A son of the free betrays not his friend
Till he's dead, or sees him safe on his way.

The result was that al-Mujadhdhar killed him and composed these lines thereon:

Do you not know or have you forgotten?
Then note well my line is from Bali.
Those who thrust with Yazzat spears
Smiting down chiefs and bringing them low.
Tell Bakhtarī that he's bereaved of his father
Or tell my son the like of me.
I am he of whom it is said my origin is in Bali.
When I thrust in my spear it bends almost double.
I kill my opponent with a sharp Mashrafi sword,
I yearn for death like a camel overfull with milk.
You will not see Mujadhdhar telling a lie (368).

Then al-Mujadhdhar went to the apostle and told him that he had done his best to take him prisoner and bring him to him but that he had insisted on fighting and the result had been fatal to him (369).

Yahyā b. 'Abbad b. 'Abdullah b. al-Zuhayr told me on the authority of his father; and 'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr and others on the authority of 'Abdullāh-rahman b. 'Aufl told me the same, saying; 'Umayya b. Khalaf was a friend of mine in Mecca and my name was 'Abdu 'Amr, but I was called 'Abdu'I-Rahman when I became a Muslim. When we used to meet in Mecca he would say, 'Do you dislike the name your parents gave you?' and I would say yes; and he would say, 'As for me, I don't know al-Rahman, so adopt a name which I can call you between ourselves. You won't reply to your original name, and I won't use one I don't know.' When he said 'O 'Abdu 'Amr!' I wouldn't answer him, and finally I said, 'O Abū 'Ali, call me what you like,' and he called me 'Abdu'I-Hāb' and I accepted the name from him. On the day of Badr I passed by him standing with his son 'Ali holding him by the hand. I was carrying coats of mail which I had looted; and when he saw me he said, 'O 'Abdu 'Amr,' but I would not answer until he said 'O 'Abdu'I-Hāb.' Then he said, 'Won't you take me prisoner, for I am more valuable than these coats of mail which you have?' 'By God I will,' I said. So I threw away the mail and took him and his son by the hand, he saying the while 'I never saw a day like this. Have you no use for milk?' Then I walked off with the pair of them' (376).

'Abdu'l-Wāḥib b. Abū 'Aun from Sa'id b. Ibrahīm from his father 'Abdullāh-rahman b. 'Aufl told me that the latter said: Umayya said to me as I walked between them holding their hands, 'Who is that man who is wearing an ostrich feather on his breast?' When I told him it was Hamza he said that it was he who had done them so much damage. As I was leading them away Bilāl saw him with me. Now it was Umayya who used to torture Bilāl in Mecca to make him abandon Islam, bringing him out to the scorching heat of the sun, laying him on his back, and putting a great stone on his chest, telling him that he could stay there until he gave up the religion of Muhammad, and Bilāl kept saying 'One! One!' As soon as he saw him he said, 'The arch-infidel Umayya b. Khalaf! May I not live if he lives.' I said, 'Would you attack my prisoners?' But he kept crying out these words in spite of my remonstrances until finally he shouted at the top of his voice, 'O God's Helpers, the arch-infidel Umayya b. Khalaf! May I not live if he lives.' The people formed a ring around us as I was protecting him. Then a man drew his sword and cut off his son's foot so that he fell down and Umayya let out a cry such as I have never heard; and I said to him 'Make your escape' (though he had no chance of escape) I can do nothing for you.' They hewed them to pieces with their swords until they were dead. Abdu'l-rahman used to say, 'God have mercy on Bilāl. I lost my coats of mail and he deprived me of my prisoners.'

'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me he was told as from Ibn 'Abbās: 'A man of B. Ghiyār told me: I and a cousin of mine Ibrahim battle so that we could join in the looting. And while we were on the way I was accompanied by his fellow-rider Junāda b. Mulayha d. Zuhayr b. al-Hārith b. Asad who was one of B. Layth, and he said, 'And what about my friend here?' 'No, by God,' said al-Mujadhdhar, 'we are not going to spare your friend. The apostle gave us orders about you only.' 'In that case,' he said, 'I will die with him. The women of Mecca shall not say that I forsook my friend to save my own life.' He uttered these rajas as al-Mujadhdhar came at him and he insisted on fighting:

A son of the free betrays not his friend
Till he's dead, or sees him safe on his way.

The result was that al-Mujadhdhar killed him and composed these lines thereon:

Do you not know or have you forgotten?
Then note well my line is from Bali.
Those who thrust with Yazzat spears
Smiting down chiefs and bringing them low.
Tell Bakhtarī that he's bereaved of his father
Or tell my son the like of me.
I am he of whom it is said my origin is in Bali.
When I thrust in my spear it bends almost double.
I kill my opponent with a sharp Mashrafi sword,
I yearn for death like a camel overfull with milk.
You will not see Mujadhdhar telling a lie (368).

Then al-Mujadhdhar went to the apostle and told him that he had done his best to take him prisoner and bring him to him but that he had insisted on fighting and the result had been fatal to him (369).

Yahyā b. 'Abbad b. 'Abdullah b. al-Zuhayr told me on the authority of his father; and 'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr and others on the authority of 'Abdullāh-rahman b. 'Aufl told me the same, saying; 'Umayya b. Khalaf was a friend of mine in Mecca and my name was 'Abdu 'Amr, but I was called 'Abdu'I-Rahman when I became a Muslim. When we used to meet in Mecca he would say, 'Do you dislike the name your parents gave you?' and I would say yes; and he would say, 'As for me, I don't know al-Rahman, so adopt a name which I can call you between ourselves. You won't reply to your original name, and I won't use one I don't know.' When he said 'O 'Abdu 'Amr!' I wouldn't answer him, and finally I said, 'O Abū 'Ali, call me what you like,' and he called me 'Abdu'I-Hāb' and I accepted the name from him. On the day of Badr I passed by him standing with his son 'Ali holding him by the hand. I was carrying coats of mail which I had looted; and when he saw me he said, 'O 'Abdu 'Amr,' but I would not answer until he said 'O 'Abdu'I-Hāb.' Then he said, 'Won't you take me prisoner, for I am more valuable than these coats of mail which you have?' 'By God I will,' I said. So I threw away the mail and took him and his son by the hand, he saying the while 'I never saw a day like this. Have you no use for milk?' Then I walked off with the pair of them' (376).

'Abdu'l-Wāḥib b. Abū 'Aun from Sa'id b. Ibrahīm from his father 'Abdullāh-rahman b. 'Aufl told me that the latter said: Umayya said to me as I walked between them holding their hands, 'Who is that man who is wearing an ostrich feather on his breast?' When I told him it was Hamza he said that it was he who had done them so much damage. As I was leading them away Bilāl saw him with me. Now it was Umayya who used to torture Bilāl in Mecca to make him abandon Islam, bringing him out to the scorching heat of the sun, laying him on his back, and putting a great stone on his chest, telling him that he could stay there until he gave up the religion of Muhammad, and Bilāl kept saying 'One! One!' As soon as he saw him he said, 'The arch-infidel Umayya b. Khalaf! May I not live if he lives.' I said, 'Would you attack my prisoners?' But he kept crying out these words in spite of my remonstrances until finally he shouted at the top of his voice, 'O God's Helpers, the arch-infidel Umayya b. Khalaf! May I not live if he lives.' The people formed a ring around us as I was protecting him. Then a man drew his sword and cut off his son's foot so that he fell down and Umayya let out a cry such as I have never heard; and I said to him 'Make your escape' (though he had no chance of escape) I can do nothing for you.' They hewed them to pieces with their swords until they were dead. Abdu'l-rahman used to say, 'God have mercy on Bilāl. I lost my coats of mail and he deprived me of my prisoners.'

'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me he was told as from Ibn 'Abbās: 'A man of B. Ghiyār told me: I and a cousin of mine Ibrahim battle so that we could join in the looting. And while we were on the way I was accompanied by his fellow-rider Junāda b. Mulayha d. Zuhayr b. al-Hārith b. Asad who was present at Radr told him after he had lost his sight: 'If I were in Badr today and had my sight I could show you the glen from which the angels emerged. I have not the slightest doubt on the point.'

My father Ishāq b. Yasār from men of B. Māzin b. al-Najār from Abū Dā'ūd al-Māzinī, who was at Badr, told me: 'I was pursuing a polytheist at Badr to smite him, when his head fell off before I could get at him with my sword, and I knew that someone else had killed him.'

One above suspicion from Miṣṣam, freedman of 'Abdullāh b. al-Hārith from 'Abdullāh b. 'Abbās, told me, 'The sign of the angels at Badr was white turbans flowing behind them: at Hzayyūn they wore red turbans' (371).

One above suspicion from Miṣṣam from Ibn 'Abbās told me: The angels

1 ethlifa means that he put his hand behind him to draw his sword which hung behind him.
2 The name of Gabriel's horse.
did not fight in any battle but Badr. In the other battles they were there as reinforcements, but they did not fight.

As he was fighting that day Abū Jahl was saying:

What has fierce war to dislike about me,
A young he-camel with razor-like teeth?

For this very purpose did my mother bear me (372).

When the apostle had finished with the enemy he ordered that Abū Jahl should be looked for among the slain. (1) He said, 'O God, don't let him escape Thee!' The first man to find him—so Thaur b. Yazid from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbās told me; as well as 'Abdullah b. Abī Bakr who told me the same—was Mu'āwiyah b. 'Amr b. al-Jamāh, brother of B. Salama, whom they reported as saying: I heard the people saying when Abū Jahl was in a sort of thicket, 'Abū 'l-Ḥakam cannot be got at' (373). When I heard that I made it my business, and made for him. When I got within striking distance I fell upon him and fetched him a blow which sent his foot and half his shank flying. I can only liken it to a date-stone flying from the pestle when it is beaten. His son 'Ikrima struck me on the shoulder and severed my arm and it hung by the skin from my side, and the battle compelled me to leave him. I fought the whole of the day dragging my arm behind me and when it became painful to me I put my foot on it and standing on it tore it off.' He lived after that into the reign of 'Uthmān.

Mu'awwidh b. 'Afrī passed Abū Jahl as he lay there helpless and smote him until he left him at his last gasp. He himself went on fighting until he was killed. Then 'Abdullāh b. Mas'ud passed by Abū Jahl when the apostle had ordered that he was to be searched for among the slain. I have heard that the apostle had told them that if he was hidden among the corpses they were to look for the trace of a scar on his knee. When they both were young they had been pressed together at the table of 'Abdullāh b. Jadān. He was thinner than Abū Jahl and he gave him a push which sent him to his knees and one of them was scratched so deeply that it left a permanent scar. 'Abdullāh b. Mas'ud said that he found him at his last gasp and put his foot on his neck (for he had once clawed at him and punched him in Mecca), and said to him: 'Has God put you to shame, you enemy of God?' He replied 'How has He shamed me? Am I anything more remarkable than a man you have killed? Tell me how the battle went. He told him that it went in favour of God and His apostle (374).

Men of B. Makhrūm assert that Ibn Mas'ud used to say: He said to me, 'You have climbed high, you little shepherd.' Then I cut off his head and brought it to the apostle saying, 'This is the head of the enemy of God, Abū Jahl.' He said, 'By God than Whom there is no other, is it?' (This used to be his oath.) 'Yes,' I said, and I threw his head before the apostle and he gave thanks to God (375).

1 This is a difficult expression much commented on by Arab writers; other possibilities are: 'Am I to wonder at, or be angry?', &c. Cf. Lane, 2151 c and 'Isb. Gh. 376.

When the apostle said, '70,000 of my people shall enter Paradise like the full moon' 'Ukkāsha asked if he could be one of them, and the apostle prayed that he might be one. One of the Ṭawārīkh got up and asked that he too might be one of them, and he replied, 'Ukkāsha has forestalled you and the prayer is cold.'

I have heard from his family that the apostle said: 'Ours is the best horsemanship among the Arabs,' and when we asked who, he said that it was 'Ukkāsha. When Dirār b. al-Azwār al-Asadī said, 'That is a man of ours,' the apostle answered, 'He is not yours but ours through alliance' (377).

Yazid b. Ṭūmān from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from 'A'isha told me that the latter said: 'When the apostle ordered that the dead should be thrown into a pit they were all thrown in except 'Umayya b. Khalaf whose body had swelled within his armour so that it filled it and when they went to move him his body disintegrated; so they left it where it was and heaped earth and stones upon it. As they threw them into the pit the apostle stood and said: 'O people of the pit, have you found that what God threatened is true? For I have found that what my Lord promised me is true.' His companions asked: 'Are you speaking to dead people?' He replied that they knew that what their Lord had promised them was true.' 'A'isha said: 'People say that he said 'They hear what I say to them,' but what he said was 'They know.'

1 One of the leaders of the apostate rebels.

2 al-Suhayjī points out that 'A'isha was not there at the time, and therefore those who were there are likely to have a better recollection of what the apostle said than she. This tradition is evidently a sly attack on Musa b. Uqba's tradition from 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar. See, No. 5.

B 4080 X
Humayd al-Tawil told me that Anas b. Malik said: 'The apostle's companions heard him saying in the middle of the night: 'O people of the pit: O 'Utba, O Shayba, O Umaiyah, O Abu Jahl.' The Muslims said, 'Are you calling to dead bodies?' He answered: 'You cannot hear what I say better than they, but they cannot answer me.'

A learned person told me that the apostle said that day, 'O people of the pit, you were an evil kinsfolk to your prophet. You called me a liar when others believed me; you cast me out when others took me in; you fought against me when others fought on my side.' Then he added: 'Have you found that what your Lord promised you is true?'

Hassan b. Thabit said:

I recognize the dwellings of Zaynab on the sandhill
Looking like the writing of revelation on dirty old paper.1
Winds blow over them and every dark cloud
Pours down its heavy rain;
Its traces obscured and deserted
Were once the abodes of dearly loved friends.
Abandon this constant remembrance of them,
Quench the heat of the sorrowing breast.
Tell the truth about that in which there is no shame,
Not the tale of a liar,
Of what God did on the day of Badr,
Giving us victory over the polytheists.
The day when their multitude was like Hira'
Whose foundations appear at sunset.
We met them with a company
Like lions of the jungle young and old
In defence of Muhammad in the heat of war
Helping him against the enemy.
In their hands were sharp swords
And well-tried shafts with thick knots.
The sons of Aus the leaders, helped by
The sons of al-Najjar in the strong religion.
Abu Jahl we left lying prostrate
And 'Utba we left on the ground.
Shayba too with others
Of noble name and descent.
The apostle of God called to them
When we cast them into the pit together.
'Have you found that I spoke the truth?
And the command of God takes hold of the heart?'

1 I follow S.'s suggestion for the meaning of gashib.
everyone to turn in what they had taken I came and threw it into the heap of spoils. Now the apostle never held back anything he was asked for and al-Arqam b. Abü'l-Arqam knew this and asked him for it and the apostle gave it him.

Then the apostle sent 'Abdullah b. Rawâha with the good news of the victory to the people of Upper Medina, and Zayd b. Hâritha to the people of Lower Medina. Usâma b. Zayd said: 'The news came to us as we had heaped earth on Ruqayya the apostle's daughter who was married to 'Uthmân b. 'Affân, (the apostle having left me behind with 'Uthmân to look after her), that Zayd b. Hâritha had come. So I went to him as he was standing in the place of prayer surrounded by the people, and he was saying: "'Uba and Shayba and Abû Jahl and Zama'a and Abû'l-Bakhhtari and Umayya and Nubayh and Munabbih have been slain." I said, "Is this true, my father?" and he said, "Yes, by God it is, my son."

Then the apostle began his return journey to Medina with the unbelieving prisoners, among whom were 'Uqba b. Abû Mu'ayyāt and al-Naḍr b. al-Ḥârîth. The apostle carried with him the booty that had been taken from the polytheists and put 'Abdullah b. Ka'b in charge of it. A rajaz poet of the Muslims (379) said:

Start your camels, O Basbas!
There's no halting-place in Dhū Ṭalah;
Nor in the desert of Ghumayr a pen.
The people's camels cannot be locked up.
So to set them on the way is wiser
God having given victory and Akhmas having fled.

Then the apostle went forward until when he came out of the pass of al-Safra' he halted on the sandhill between the pass and al-Nâziya called Sayar at a tree there and divided the booty which God had granted to the Muslims equally. Then he marched until he reached Rauhâ when the Muslims met him congratulating him and the Muslims on the victory God had given him. Salama b. Salâma—so 'Aṣîm b. 'Umar b. Qatâda and Yazîd b. Rumân told me—said, 'What are you congratulating us about? By God, we only met some bald old women like the sacrificial camels who are hobbled, and we slaughtered them!' The apostle smiled and said, 'But, nephew, those were the chiefs' (380). When the apostle was in al-Safra', al-Naḍr was killed by 'All, as a learned Meccan told me. When he was in 'Irqūl-Zâbya 'Uqba was killed (381). He had been captured by 'Abdullah b. Salâma, one of the B. al-'Ajîlān.

When the apostle ordered him to be killed 'Uqba said, 'But who will look after my children, O Muhammad?' 'Hell,' he said, and 'Aṣîm b. Thâbit b. Abîl-Aṣlah al-Asnârî killed him according to what Abû 'Ubayda b. Muhammad b. 'Ammâr b. Yâsir told me (382).

Abû Hind, freedman of Farwa b. 'Amr al-Bâyâţ, met the apostle there with a jar full of butter and dates (383). He had stayed behind from Badr but was present at all the other battles and afterwards became the apostle's cupper. The apostle said, 'Abû Hind is one of the Anṣâr; intermarry with him,' and they did so.

The apostle arrived in Medina a day before the prisoners. 'Abdullah b. Abû Bakr told me that Yâbyâ b. 'Abdullâh b. 'Abdul-Rahmân b. As'âd b. Zûrârâ told him that the prisoners were brought in when Sauda d. Zama'a, the wife of the prophet, was with the family of 'Affârî when they were bewailing 'Auff and Mu'awwidh 'Affârî's sons, this being before the veil was imposed on them. Sauda said: 'As I was with them, suddenly it was said: "Here are the prisoners" and I returned to my house where the apostle was. And there was Abû Yazîd Suhayl b. 'Amr in a corner of the room with his hands tied to his neck. I could hardly contain myself when I saw Abû Yazîd in this state and I told, "O Abû Yazîd, you surrendered too readily. You ought to have died a noble death!" Suddenly the prophet's voice startled me; Sauda, would you stir up trouble against God and his apostle?" I said, "By God, I could hardly contain myself when I saw Abû Yazîd in this state and that is why I said what I did."

Nubayh b. Walb, brother of B. 'Abdul-Dâr told me that the apostle divided the prisoners amongst his companions and said, 'Treat them well.' Now Abû 'Azîz b. Umayr b. 'Abdul-Muṣ'ab b. Umayr by the same mother and father, was among the prisoners and he said, 'My brother Muṣ'ab passed by me as one of the Anṣâr was binding me and he said: "Bind him fast, for his mother is a wealthy woman; perhaps she will redeem him from you." I was with a number of the Anṣâr when they brought me from Badr, and when they ate their morning and evening meals they gave me the bread and ate the dates themselves in accordance with the orders that the apostle had given about us. If anyone had a morsel of bread he gave it to me. I felt ashamed and returned it to one of them but he returned it to me untouched' (384).

The first to come to Mecca with news of the disaster was al-Haysumân b. 'Abdullâh al-Khuza'î, and when they asked for news he enumerated all the Quraysh chiefs who had been killed. Sayfân who was sitting in the bîjir said, "This fellow is out of his mind. Ask him about me." So they said: 'What happened to Sayfân b. Umayya?' He answered, 'There he is sitting in the bîjir, and by God I saw his father and his brother when they were killed.'

Husayn b. 'Abdullâh b. 'Abdullâh b. 'Abbâs from 'Ikrima, freedman of Ibn 'Abbâs, told me that Abû Râfî', freedman of the apostle, said, 'I used to be a slave of Abbâs. Islam had entered among us, the people of the house; Abbâs had become a Muslim, and so had Ummu'l-Fadl, and so had I. But Abbâs was afraid of his people and disliked to go against them, so he hid his faith; he had a great deal of money scattered among the people. Abū Lahab had stayed behind from the Badr expedition sending in his stead al-'Âṣ b. Hishâm; for that is what they did—any man who stayed behind sent another in his place. And when news came of the Quraysh disaster at Badr God humiliated Abū Lahab and put him to shame while we stood ourselves in a position of power and respect. Now I was a weak man and I used to make arrows, sharpening them in the tent of Zamzam, and lo as I was sitting there with Ummul-Fadl sharpening arrows delighted with the news that had come, up came Abū Lahab dragging his feet in ill temper and sat down at the end of the tent with his back to mine. As he was sitting there people said, "Here is Abū Sufyân b. al-Ḥārith b. 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib (385) just arrived." Abū Lahab said, "Come here, for you have news." So he came and sat with him while the people stood round, and when he asked his nephew for the news he said, "As soon as we met the party we turned our backs and they were killing and capturing us just as they pleased; and by God I don't blame the people for that. We met men in white on piebald horses between heaven and earth, and by God they spared nothing and none could withstand them." So I lifted the rope of the tent and said: "Those were the angels." Abū Lahab struck me violently in the face. I leapt at him, but he knocked me down and knelt on me beating me again and again, for I was a weak man. Ummul-Fadl went and got one of the supports of the tent and split his head with a blow which left a nasty wound, saying, "You think you can despise him now his master is away?" He got up and turned tail humiliated. He only lived for another week, for God smote him with pustules, from which he died."

* These words are not found in T.'s quotation from I. I.

(T. 1340. 10. His two sons left him unburied for two or three nights so that the house stank (for the Quraysh dread pustules and the like as men dread plague) until finally a man said to them: 'It is disgraceful! Are you not ashamed that your father should stink in his house while you do not cover him from the sight of men?' They replied that they were afraid of those ulcers. He offered to go with them. They did not wash the body but threw water over it from a distance without touching it. Then they took it up and knelt on it on the high ground above Mecca by a wall and threw stones over it until it was covered. Ibn Hamid said that Salama b. al-Fadl said that Muhammad b. Ishāq said that al-'Abbâs b. 'Abdullah b. Ma'bad from one of his family on the authority of 'Abdullah b. 'Abbâs said: 'On the night of Badr when the prisoners were safely guarded, the apostle could not sleep during the first part of the night. When his companions asked him the reason he said: 'I heard the writhing of al-'Abbâs in his prison. So they got up and liberated him whereupon the apostle slept soundly.'

On the same authority I heard that Muhammad b. Ishāq said: "al-Ḥasan b. 'Umar told me from al-Ḥakam b. 'Utayba from Miqsam from Ibn 'Abbâs: The man who captured al-'Abbâs was Abūl-Yasar Ka'b b. 'Amr brother of the B. Salima. Abūl-Yasar was a compact little man while al-'Abbâs was bulky. When the apostle asked the former how he had managed to capture him, he said that a man such as he had never seen before or afterwards had helped him, and when he described him, the apostle said, "A noble angel helped you against him."")

(Suhaqili, ii. 79: In the riwāya of Yūnus I. I. recorded that the apostle saw her (Ummul-Faṣil) when she was a baby crawling before him and said, 'If she grows up and I am still alive I will marry her.' But he died before she grew up and Sufyân b. al-Aswad b. 'Abdul-'Asad al-Makhzûmi married her and she bore him Rizq and Lubāba. . . . They did not bury Abū Lahab, but he was put against a wall and stones were thrown upon him from behind the wall until he was covered. It is said that when 'A'isha passed the place she used to veil her face.)

Yahyâ b. 'Abbâd b. 'Abdullah b. al-Zubayr from his father 'Abbâd told me that Quraysh bewailed their dead. Then they said, 'Do not do this, for the news will reach Muhammad and his companions and they will rejoice over your misfortune; and do not send messengers about your captives but hold back so that Muhammad and his companions may not demand excessive ransoms.' Al-Aswad b. al-Muṭṭalib had lost three of his sons: Zam'a, 'Aqil, and al-Ḥārith b. Zam'a, and he wanted to bewail them. Meanwhile he heard a weeping woman, and as he was blind he told a servant to go and see whether lamentation had been permitted, for if Quraysh were weeping over their dead he might weep for Zam'a Abū Ḥakîma, for he was consumed by a burning sorrow. The servant returned to say that it was a woman weeping over a camel she had lost. Thereupon he said:

---

Does she weep because she has lost a camel?
And does this keep her awake all night?
Weep not over a young camel
But over Badr where hopes were dashed to the ground,
Over Badr the finest of the sons of Husays
And Makhzûm and the clan of Abūl-Walîd.
Weep if you must weep over 'Aqil,
Weep for Ḥārith the lion of lions,
Weep unweariedly for them all,
For Abū Ḥakîma had no peer.
Now they are dead, men bear rule
Who but for Badr would be of little account (386).

Among the prisoners was Abū Wadâ'a b. Ḍubayra al-Salmî. The apostle remarked that in Mecca he had a son who was a shrewd and rich merchant and that he would soon come to redeem his father. When Quraysh counselled delay in redeeming the prisoners so that the ransom should not be extortionate al-Muṭṭalib b. Abū Wadâ'a—the man the apostle meant—said, 'You are right. Don't be in a hurry.' And he slipped away at night and came to Medina and recovered his father for 4,000 dirhams and took him away.
Then Quraysh sent to redeem the prisoners and Mikraz b. Ḥaḍża b. al-Akhyaf came about Suhayl b. 'Amr who had been captured by Malik b. al-Dukhshum, brother of the B. Sālim b. 'Auf, who said:

I captured Suhayl and I would not exchange him
For a prisoner from any other people.
Khindif knows that its hero is Suhayl
When injustice is complained of.
I struck with my keen sword until it bent.
I forced myself to fight this hare-lipped man.

Suhayl was a man whose lower lip was split (387).

Abū Bakr told me that Abū Sufyān's son 'Amr whom he had by a daughter of 'Uqba b. Abū Mu'ayyāt (390) was a prisoner in the apostle's hands from Badr (391); and when Abū Sufyān was asked to ransom his son 'Amr he said, 'Am I to suffer the double loss of my blood and my money? They have killed Hanzala and am I to ransom 'Amr? Leave him with them. They can keep him as long as they like!'

While he was thus held prisoner in Medina with the apostle Sa'd b. al-Nu'mān b. Akkāl, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, one of the B. Mu'āwiya, goes forth on pilgrimage accompanied by a young wife of his. He was an old man and a Muslim who had sheep in al-Naqī. He left that place on pilgrimage without fear of any untoward events, never thinking that he would be detained in Mecca, as he came as a pilgrim, for he knew that Quraysh did not usually interfere with pilgrims, but treated them well.
But Abū Sufyān fell upon him in Mecca and imprisoned him in retaliation for his son 'Amr. Then Abū Sufyān said:

O family of Ibn Akkāl, answer his plea
May you lose each other! Do not surrender the chief in his prime.
The Banu 'Amr will be base and contemptible
If they do not release their captive from his fetters.

Hassān b. Thābit answered him:

If Sa'd had been free the day he was in Mecca
He would have killed many of you ere he was captured.
With a sharp sword or a bow of nab'a wood
Whose string twangs when the arrow is shot.

The B. 'Amr b. 'Auf went to the apostle and told him the news and asked him to give them 'Amr b. Abū Sufyān so that they could let him go in exchange for their man and the apostle did so. So they sent him to Abū Sufyān and he released Sa'd.

Among the prisoners was Abūl-Āṣ b. al-Rahīm, son-in-law of the apostle, marrried to his daughter Zaynab (392). Abūl-Āṣ was one of the important men of Mecca in wealth, respect, and merchandise. His mother was Hāla d. Khawwaylid, and Khadija was his aunt. Khalīfa had asked the apostle to find him a wife. Now the apostle never opposed her—this was before revelation came to him—and so he married him to his daughter.
Khalīfa used to regard him as her son. When God honoured His apostle

---

1 e.d. 1021 for Suhayl's speech after the death of the prophet.
2 Reading thinimit. The variant thanuminit is less likely because duand generally means from three to ten camels.
with prophecy Khadija and her daughters believed in him and testified that he had brought the truth and followed his religion, though Abūl-ʾĀṣ persisted in his polytheism. Now the apostle had married Ruqayya or Umm Kuhlām to 'Utbā b. Ābū Lahab, and when he openly preached to Quraysh the command of God and showed them hostility they reminded one another that they had relieved Muhammad of his care for his daughters and decided to return them so that he should have the responsibility of looking after them himself. They went to Abūl-ʾĀṣ and told him to divorce his wife and they would give him any woman he liked. He refused, saying that he did not want any other woman from Quraysh; and I have heard that the apostle used to speak warmly of his action as a son-in-law.
Then they went to 'Utbā b. Ābū Lahab with the same request and he said that if they would give him the daughter of Abān b. Saʿīd b. al-ʾĀṣ or the daughter of Saʿīd b. al-ʾĀṣ he would divorce his wife, and when they did so he divorced her, not having consummated the marriage. Thus God took her from him to his honour and his shame, and 'Uthmān afterwards married her.

Now the apostle had no power of binding and loosing in Mecca, his circumstances being circumscribed. Islam had made a division between Zaynab and her husband Abūl-ʾĀṣ, but they lived together, Muslim and unbeliever, until the apostle migrated. Abūl-ʾĀṣ joined the expedition to Badr and was captured among the prisoners and remained at Medina with the apostle.

Yahyā b. 'Abdāb b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from his father 'Abbād told me that 'Ā'isha said: 'When the Meccans sent to ransom their prisoners, Zaynab sent the money for Abūl-ʾĀṣ; with it she sent a necklace which Khadija had given her on her marriage to Abūl-ʾĀṣ. When the apostle saw it his feelings overcame him and he said: 'If you would like to let her have her captive husband back and return her money to her, do so.' The people at once agreed and they let him go and sent her money back.'

ZAYNAB SETS OUT FOR MEDINA

Now the apostle had imposed a condition on Abūl-ʾĀṣ, or the latter had undertaken it voluntarily—the facts were never clearly established—that he should let Zaynab come to him. At any rate, after Abūl-ʾĀṣ had reached Mecca the apostle sent Zayd b. Ḥāritha and one of the Ansār with instructions to stop in the valley of Yājiʿ1 until Zaynab passed, and then to accompany her back to him. About a month or so after Badr they went off to take up their position. Meanwhile Abūl-ʾĀṣ came to Mecca and told Zaynab to rejoin her father, and she went out to make her preparations.

'Abdullāh b. Ābū Bakr told me that he had been told that Zaynab said that while she was making her preparations she was met by Hind d. 'Utbā who inquired whether she was going off to rejoin Muhammad. When she said that she did not wish to go, Hind offered to give her anything she needed for the journey as well as money. She need not be shy of her, for women stood closer together than men. However, though she thought she was sincere she was afraid of her and denied that she had any intention of going. But she went on with her preparations.

1 About 8 miles from Mecca.

These completed, her brother-in-law Kinānā b. al-Rabiʿ brought her a camel and taking his bow he led her away in a howdah in broad daylight.
After discussing the matter Quraysh went off in pursuit and overtook them in Dhū Tūwā. The first man to come up with them was Ḥabhār b. al-Aswād b. al-Muṭṭalib b. Āsād b. 'Abdullāh-ʾUzẓā al-Fihrīt. He threatened her with his lance as she sat in the howdah. It is alleged that the woman was pregnant and when she was frightened she had an abortion. Her brother-in-law Khānān knelt and emptied his quiver [in front of her] and said, 'By God, if one of you comes near me I will put an arrow through her.' So the men fell back. Then Ābū Sufyān with some Quraysh leaders came up and asked him to unbend his bow so that they could discuss the matter. Then he came up to him and said, 'You have not done the right thing. You have taken the woman out publicly over the heads of the people when you know of our misfortune and disaster which Muhammad has brought on us. The people will think, if you take away his daughter pub-clicly over the heads of everyone, that that is a sign of our humiliation after the disaster that has happened and an exhibition of utter weakness. 'Od's life we don't want to keep her from her father and that is not our way of seeking revenge. But take the woman back, and when the chatter has died down and people say that we have brought her back you can take her away secretly to rejoin her father.' This is exactly what happened and one night he took her off and delivered her to Zayd b. Ḥāritha and his companion, and they took her to the apostle.

'Abdullāh b. Ḥārara b. Ābū Khaythama, brother of B. Sālim b. Āuf, said of this affair of Zaynab's (393):

Tidings reached me of their wicked treatment of Zaynab,
So criminal that men could not imagine it.
Muhammad was not put to shame when she was sent forth
Because of the result of the bloody war between us.
From his alliance with Dāmānī and his war with us
Ābū Sufyān got but disappointment and remorse.
We bound his son 'Amr and his sworn friend together
In well-wrought jangling irons.
I swear we shall never lack soldiers,
Army leaders with many a champion.
Driving before us infidel Quraysh until we subdue them
With a halter above their noses (and) with a branding iron.
We will drive them to the ends of Najd and Nakhlā.'
If they drop to the lowland we will pursue them with horse and foot
So that our road will never deviate.
We will bring upon them the fate of 'Ad and Jurhum.
A people that disobeyed Muhammad will regret it.
And what a time for showing repentance!
Tell Abū Sufyān if you meet him
'If you are not sincere in worship, and embrace Islam
Then shame will come on you speedily in this life
And in hell you will wear a garment of molten pitch for ever!'”

Abū Sufyān's 'sworn friend' was 'Amīr b. al-Ḥadrāmī who was among the prisoners. Al-Ḥadrāmī was an ally of Ḥarb b. 'Umayya (395).

When those who had gone out to Zaynab returned Hind d. 'Utba met them and said:

In peace are you wild asses—rough and coarse
And in war like women in their courses?

Kināna b. al-Rabi' when he handed Zaynab over to the two men said:

I am astonished at Habbār and the pastray ones of his people
Who wish me to break my word with Muhammad’s daughter.
I care not for their numbers as long as I live
And as long as my hand can grasp my trusty blade.

Yazīd b. Abū Ḥabīb from Bukayr b. ‘Abdullāh b. al-‘Ashājī from Sulaymān b. Yāsīr from Abū Isḥāq al-Dauṣī from Abū Hurayra, told me that the latter said: 'The apostle sent me among a number of raiders with orders that if we got hold of Ḥabbār b. al-‘Awād or the other man who first got to Zaynab with him (396) we were to burn them with fire. On the following day he sent word to us “I told you to burn these two men if you got hold of them; then I reflected that none has the right to punish by fire save God, so if you capture them kill them.”’

ABŪ'L-ĀṢ B. AL-RABI’ BECOMES A MUSLIM

When Islam thus came between them Abū'l-Āṣ lived in Mecca while Zaynab lived in Medina with the apostle until, shortly before the conquest, Abū'l-Āṣ went to Syria trading with his own money and that of Quraysh which they entrusted to him, for he was a trustworthy man. Having completed his business he was on his way home when one of the apostle's raiding parties fell in with him and took all he had, though he himself escaped them. When the raiders went off with their plunder Abū'l-Āṣ went into Zaynab's house under cover of night and asked her to give him protection. She at once did so. He came to ask for his property. When the apostle went out to morning prayer—so Yazīd b. Rūmān told me —and said ‘Allah akbar’ followed by all present, Zaynab cried from the place where the women sat ‘O you men, I have given protection to Abū'l-Āṣ b. al-Rabi’.11 His prayers over, the apostle turned round to face the men and asked them if they had heard what he had heard, and when they said that they had he swore that he knew nothing about the matter until Zaynab made her declaration, adding, ‘the meanest Muslim can give protection on their behalf’. He went off to see his daughter and told her to honour her guest but not to allow him to approach her for she was not lawful to him.

‘Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me that the apostle sent to the raiding party which had taken Abū'l-Āṣ’s goods saying: “This man is related to us as you know and you have taken property of his. If you think well to restore it to him we should like that; but if you will not it is booty which God has given you and you have the better right to it.” They replied that they would willingly give it back and they were so scrupulous that men brought back old skins and little leather bottles and even a little piece of wood until everything was returned and nothing withheld. Then Abū'l-Āṣ went to Mecca and paid everyone what was due, including those who had given him money to lay out on their behalf, and asked them if anyone of them had any further claim on him. ‘No,’ they said, ‘God reward you; we have found you both trustworthy and generous.’ ‘Then,’ said he, ‘I bear witness that there is no God but the God and that Muhammad is his servant and his apostle. I would have become a Muslim when I was with him but that I feared that you would think that I only wanted to rob you of your property; and now that God has restored it to you and I am clear of it I submit myself to God.’” Thus saying he went off to rejoin the apostle.

Dāwūd b. al-Ḥuṣayn from Ikrima from b. ‘Abdās told me that the apostle restored Zaynab to him according to the first marriage after six years had passed12 without any new procedure (397).

Among the prisoners who, I was told, were given their freedom without having to pay ransom were: Abū'l-Āṣ whom the prophet freed after Zaynab his daughter had sent his ransom; al-Мuṣṭalib b. al-Ḥārīth b. ‘Ubayda b. ‘Umara b. Makhzūm who belonged [by capture] to some of B. al-Ḥārīth b. al-Khazraj (He was left in their hands until they let him go, and he went to his people.) (398); Sayfī b. Abū Rūfā b. ‘Abīd b. 471 ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Umara b. Makhzūm. (He was left in the hands of his captors and when no one came to ransom him they let him go on condition that he should send his ransom, but he broke his word to them. Ḥassān b. Thābit said in reference to that:

Sayfī is not the man to fulfil his pledge
The back of a fox tired at some waterhole or other;2

---

1 Zaynab called out in a moment of complete silence at the beginning of prayer.
2 Dinān, L. The line is not clear to me.
3 * These words are not in W.
Jumāh. He was a poor man whose family consisted of daughters, and he said to the apostle: ‘You know that I have no money, and am in real need with a large family, so let me go without ransom.’ The apostle did so on condition that he should not fight against him again. Praising him and mentioning his kindness among his people Abū ‘Azza said:

Who will tell the apostle Muhammad from me
You are true and the divine King is to be praised?
You call men to truth and right guidance,
God himself witnesses to you.
You are a man given a place among us
To which there are steps hard and easy.
Those who fight you die miserably,
Those who make peace live happily.
When I am reminded of Badr and its people
Sorrow and a sense of loss come over me (399).¹

‘Umayr b. Wahb becomes a Muslim

Muhammad b. Ja‘far b. al-Zubayr from ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr told me that ‘Umayr was sitting with ʿṢafwān b. ʿUmayya in the ḥijr shortly after Badr.

Now ‘Umayr was one of the leaders of Quraysh who used to molest the apostle and his companions and cause them distress while he was in Mecca, and his son Wahb was among the prisoners taken at Badr (400).

He mentioned those who were thrown into the well and ʿṢafwān said, ‘By God, there is no good in life now they are dead.’ ‘You are right,’ said ‘Umayr, ‘were it not for a debt outstanding against me which I cannot pay and a family I cannot afford to leave unprovided for, I would ride to Muhammad and kill him, for I have good cause against the lot of them, my son being a prisoner in their hands.’ ʿṢafwān took him up and said: ‘I will discharge your debt and take care of your family with my own so long as they live. All that I have shall be theirs.’ ‘Umayr and he agreed to keep the matter secret.

Then ‘Umayr called for his sword and sharpened it and smeared it with poison and went off to Medina. While ʿUmar was talking with some of the Muslims about Badr and mentioning how God had honoured them in giving them victory over their enemies he suddenly saw ʿUmayr stopping at the door of the mosque girt with his sword, and said, ‘This dog the enemy of God is ʿUmar b. Wahb. By God he’s come for some evil purpose. It was he who made mischief among us and calculated our numbers for the enemy at Badr.’ Then ʿUmar went into the apostle and said, ‘O prophet of God, this enemy of God ʿUmayr b. Wahb has come girt with his sword.’ He told him to let him come in and ʿUmar advanced and seizing his bandoleer he gripped him round the neck with it. He told the Ansār who were with him to come in and sit with the apostle and to watch the rascal carefully, for he was not to be trusted. When the apostle saw ‘Umār and ʿUmar grasping the bandoleer round his neck he told ʿUmar to let go and ʿUmar to advance. He came up and said ‘Good morning’, for that was the greeting of paganism. The apostle said, ‘God has honoured us with a better greeting than thine, ʿUmar. It is Salām, the greeting of the inhabitants of Paradise.’ ‘By God, Muhammad, you have taken it to only recently.’ ‘What brought you?’ ‘I have come about this prisoner you have that you may treat him well.’ ‘Then why have you a sword round your neck?’ ‘God damn the swords. Have they done us any good?’ ‘Tell me the truth. Why have you come?’ ‘I came only for the reason I have told you.’ ‘Nay, but you and ʿṢafwān b. ʿUmayya sat together in the ḥijr and talked about the Quraysh who were thrown into the well. Then you said ‘But for debts and family reasons I would go and kill Muhammad.’ And ʿṢafwān assumed responsibility for both if you would kill me for him, but God intervened.’ ‘I testify that you are the apostle of God. We used to call you a liar when you brought us tidings from heaven and we denied the revelation you brought. But this is a matter to which only I and ʿṢafwān were privy, and none can have told you of it but God. Praise be to God who has guided me to Islam and led me thus.’ Then he testified to the truth and the apostle said, ‘Instruct your brother in his religion, read the Quran to him, and free his prisoner for him,’ and they did so.

¹ I prefer the reading ṣaḥāṣu to qaṣāṣu. This is perhaps the most blatant forgery of all the ‘poems’ of the Sīra. The heathen author’s record was so bad that the prophet ordered his execution and yet he is made to utter fulsome praise of him and devotion to Islam.

Then he said, ‘I used to be active in extinguishing the light of God and in persecuting those who followed God’s religion. I should like you to give me permission to go to Mecca to summon them to God and His apostle and to Islam that perhaps God may guide them; and if not I will persecute them in their religion as I used to persecute your companions.’ The apostle agreed and he went to Mecca. When ʿUmar had left, ʿṢafwān was saying, ‘You will soon have some good news which will make you forget what happened at Badr.’ ʿṢafwān kept questioning riders until one came who told him of ʿUmar’s Islam, and he swore that he would never speak to him again nor do him a service. When ʿUmar came to Mecca he stayed there summoning people to Islam and treating those who opposed him violently so that through him many became Muslims.

I was told that it was either ʿUmar or al-Ḥarīth b. Ḥishām who saw the devil when he turned on his heels on the day of Badr and said, ‘Where are you going, O Surāqā?’ And the enemy of God lay on the ground and disappeared.² So God sent down concerning him, ‘And when Satan made their works seem good to them and said None can conquer you today for I am your protector’³ and he mentions how the devil deceived them and took ² Reading Kunīs for C. and W.’s Kunis, but perhaps the meaning is ‘It is new to me’.

³ In another tradition quoted by Subayyī ii. 85 it is the devil who knocks down al-Ḥarīth.
⁴ Sūra 8, 50.
the form of Surāqā b. Mālik b. Ju’shum when they remembered the quarrel they had with B. Bakr. God said, ‘And when the two armies saw each other’ and the enemy of God saw the armies of angels by which God strengthened His apostle and the believers against their enemies ‘he turned on his heels and said, ‘I am quit of you, for I see what you do not see.’ The enemy of God spoke the truth for he did see what they could not see and said, ‘I fear God for God is severe in punishment.’’ I was told that they used to see him in every camp whenever he appeared in the form of Surāqā not suspecting him until on the day of Badr when the two armies met he turned on his heels and betrayed them after he had led them on (401).

Hāsān b. Thābit said:

My people it was who sheltered their prophet
And believed in him when all the world were unbelievers,
Except a chosen few who were forerunners
To the righteous, helpers with the Helpers.
Rejoicing in God’s portion,
Saying when he came to them, noble of race, chosen,
Welcome in safety and comfort,
Goodly the prophet the portion and the guest.
They gave him a home in which a guest of theirs
Need have no fear—an (ideal) home.
They shared their wealth when the refugees came
While the share of the stubborn opponent is hell.
To Badr we went—they to their death.
Had they known what they should have known they would not have gone;
The devil deluded and then betrayed them.
Thus does the evil one deceive his friends.
He said I am your protector and brought them to an evil pass
Wherein is shame and disgrace.
Then when we fought them they deserted their leaders,
Some fleeing to high ground others to the plain (402).

THE QURAYSH WHO FED THE PILGRIMS

The names of the Quraysh who used to feed the pilgrims are as follows:

From B. Ḥāshim: Al-‘Abbās b. ‘Abdullāh-Muṭṭalib.
From B. Asad: Abūl-Bakhtārī and Ḥākim b. Ḥizām by turns.
From B. Makkūm: Abū Jahl.

From B. Sahm: Nubayh and Munabbih sons of al-Ḥājjāj b. ‘Āmir by turns.

THE COMING DOWN OF THE SURA ANFĀL

When Badr was over, God sent down the whole Sūra Anfāl about it. With regard to their quarrelling about the spoils there came down: ‘They will ask you about the spoils, say, the spoils belong to God and the apostle, so fear God and be at peace with one another, and obey God and His apostle if you are believers.’

‘Ubādah b. al-Ṣāmīt, so I have heard, when he was asked about this Sūra said: ‘It came down about us, the people of Badr, when we quarrelled about the booty on that day, and God took it out of our hands when we showed an evil disposition and gave it to the apostle, who divided it equally among us. In that there was the fear of God, and obedience to Him and to His apostle, and peace among us.’

Then He mentions the army, and their journey with the apostle when they knew that Quraysh had come out against them, and they had only gone out making for the caravan because they wanted booty, and He said, ‘As thy Lord brought thee out of thy house in truth when a part of the believers were unwilling, they disputed with thee about the truth after it had become plain, as though they were being driven to their death while they looked on.’ i.e. Unwilling to meet the army and disinclining to confront Quraysh when they were told of them.

‘And when God promised you that one of the parties should be yours, and you wanted to have the one that was not armed.’ i.e. Booty and not war.

‘And God wanted to establish the truth by His words, and to cut off the utmost part of the unbelievers.’ i.e. By the disaster which He brought upon the chiefs and leaders of Quraysh on the day of Badr.

‘When you asked your Lord for help.’ i.e. Their prayers when they looked at the multitude of their enemies and their own small numbers.

‘And He answered you.’ i.e. The prayer of His apostle and your prayers.

‘I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, one behind another. When He made you slumber as a reassurance from Him.’ i.e. I sent down reassurance upon you when you slumbered unafraid.

‘And He sent down water from heaven upon you.’ i.e. The rain that came upon them that night and prevented the polytheists from getting to the water first, and left the way clear to the Muslims.

‘That He might cleanse you by it, and take from you the impurity of Satan, and sanctify your hearts, and confirm your steps.’ i.e. To take from you the doubt of Satan when he made them afraid of the enemy, and the hardening of the ground for them so that they got to their halting-place before the enemy arrived.

1 Sūra 8.

B 4080
Then God said, ‘Then thy Lord revealed to the angels, I am with you so strengthen those that believe,’ i.e. help those that believe.

'I will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, so strike off their heads and cut off all their fingers, because they opposed God and His apostle and he who opposes God and His apostle (will find) God severe in punishment.

Then He said, ‘O you who believe, when you meet those who disbelieve on the march, do not turn your backs. He who turns his back except in manoeuvring or intending to join another section, incurs the wrath of God, and his destination is Hell, a miserable end.’ i.e. Inciting them against their enemy so that they should not withdraw from them when they met them, God having promised what He had promised.

Then God said concerning the apostle’s throwing pebbles at them, ‘When you throw, it was not you that threw, but God.’ i.e. Your throwing would have had no effect unless God had helped you therein and cast terror into their hearts when He put them to flight.

‘And to test the believers with a good test.’ i.e. To let them know of His favour towards them in giving them victory over their enemies in spite of their small number that they might know thereby His truth, and be thankful for His favour.

Then He said, ‘If you sought a judgement, a judgement came to you.’ i.e. With reference to what Abū Jahl said, ‘O God, he who is the worst in severing relations and bringing us things that are unacceptable destroy him this morning.’ Istiftah means to pray for what is just. God said, ‘If you cease,’ that is addressed to Quraysh, ‘it is better for you, and if you return (to the attack) We will return.’ i.e. With a similar blow to that which We gave you on the day of Badr.

‘And your army will avail you nothing however numerous, and (know) that God is with the believers.’ i.e. That your number and multitude will not avail you at all while I am with the believers, helping them against those that oppose them.

Then God said, ‘O you that believe, obey God and His apostle, turn not away from him while you are listening.’ i.e. Do not contradict his orders when you hear him speak and while you assert that you are on his side. ‘And be not like those who said, ‘We hear’ when they did not hear.’ i.e. Like the hypocrites who pretend to be obedient and are secretly disobedient to him.

‘The worst of beasts with God are the deaf and the dumb who do not understand.’ i.e. The hypocrites whom I have forbidden you to imitate. Dumb in reference to good, deaf to truth, not understanding and not knowing the vengeance and consequence which will come upon them.

‘Had God known that there was good among them, He would have made them listen.’ i.e. In performing for them the words which they spoke with their tongues, but their hearts contradicted them, and if they had come forth with you, ‘they would have turned their backs, going aside.’ i.e. Would not have been faithful to you in the purpose for which they had come out.

‘O you who believe, respond to God and the apostle when he summons you to that which will quicken you.’ i.e. to the war in which God exalted you after humiliation, and made you strong after weakness, and protected you from your enemies after you had been overcome by them.

‘And remember when you were few, despised in the land, fearing that men would pluck you away, and He gave you refuge and strengthened you by His help and nourished you with good things that you might be thankful. ‘O you who believe, betray not God and His apostle and betray not your trust knowingly,’ i.e. Do not show Him what is right, which pleases Him, and then oppose Him secretly in something else, for that is destroying your trust and treachery to yourselves.

‘O you who believe, fear God and He will make for you a furqan;’ and wipe away your evil acts and pardon you. od is exceeding bountiful,’ i.e. A distinction between true and false by which God shows your truth and extinguishes the falsehood of those who oppose you.

Then He reminds the apostle of His favour towards him when the people plotted against him ‘to kill him, or to wound him, or to drive him out; and they platted and God platted, and God is the best of plotters.’ i.e. I deceived them with My firm guile so that I delivered you from them.

Then He mentions the folly of Quraysh in asking for a judgement against themselves when they said, ‘O God, if this is the truth from Thee,’ i.e. what Muhammad has brought, ‘then rain upon us stones from heaven.’ i.e. As you rained them upon the people of Lot.

‘Or bring us a painful punishment.’ i.e. Some of that by which You punished the peoples before us.

They used to say, God will not punish us when we ask for His pardon, and He will not punish a people whose prophet is with them until He has sent him away from them. That is what they said when the apostle was among them, and God said to His apostle, mentioning their ignorance and folly and the judgement they asked against themselves when He reproached them with their evil deeds. ‘God will not punish them while you are with them, and God will not punish them while they ask for forgiveness,’ i.e. When they said, ‘We ask for forgiveness and Muhammad is among us.’

Then He said, ‘What (plea) have they that God should not punish them? though you are among them and though they ask for forgiveness as they say.

1. I.I.’s explanation of the meaning of furqan is adopted by T柏bari on 2. 50 and it admirably suits the sense of the verb in Arabic, but Baydawi on 21. 49 and Zamakhshari on 6. 29 (this verse) collect a number of meanings. If the word were purely Arabic, it would be difficult to see why there was any doubt about it. The facts are that in Aramaic furqan means ‘deliverance’, and in Christian Aramaic it is the common word for ‘salvation’. In the Quran it often means, or seems to mean, some sort of book, 2. 50; 3. 2; and 21. 49, &c., but in 3. 47 (cf.t) ‘The day of the furqan, the day when the two hosts met’, ‘deliverance’ seems to be the most probable meaning, and the same would seem to apply to this verse. For an illuminating discussion of the evidence and theories formed thereon see Jeffery, Foreign Vocabulary, 225-9.
The Life of Muhammad

'While they bar the way to the sacred mosque,' i.e. Against those who believe in God and His servant. i.e. You and those who follow you.

'And they are not its guardians, its guardians are only the God-fearers,' who observe its sanctity and perform prayer by it. i.e. You and those who believe in you.

'But most of them do not know and their prayer at the temple,' i.e. By which they assert that evil is kept from them, 'Is nothing but whistling and clapping of hands.' (405)

Then God said,

'Those who believe in God and the day of Resurrection, and believe in what is sent down to My servant on the day of Resurrection, and believe in God and His apostle and do not dispute about God's matters,' i.e. That God is the Lord of the Earth and the heavens, and that He has no partner. 'God will forgive you and make you进入 their gardens. 'God is a Hearer, a Knower.' i.e. That He knows the secrets of the heavens and the earth.

And that is what God does not approve of and does not like and what they were not ordered to do.

'So taste the punishment for what you are disbelieving.' i.e. When He brought death upon them at the battle of Badr.

Yahyā b. 'Abbād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from his father 'Abbād from 'Ā'isha, who said that only a little time elapsed between the coming down of 'O thou that art enwrapt' and the word of God about it, 'Leave Me to deal with the liars living at ease, and let them alone for a little.' We have fettlers and fire and food which chokes, and a painful punishment,' until God smote Quraysh on the day of Badr (406).

Then God said,

'Those who disbelieve, spending their wealth to keep men from the way of God will expend it, then they will suffer loss, then they will be overcome, and those who disbelieve will be gathered to Hell.' He means those who went to Abū Sufyān and to everyone of the Quraysh who had money in that merchandise, and asked them to help them with it in the war against the apostle, and they did so.

Then He said, 'Say to those who disbelieve, if they cease, they will be pardoned for what is passed, and if they return, 'the example of the ringleaders has been made,' i.e. those who were killed at Badr.

Then He said, 'Fight them so that there is no more persecution, and religion, all of it, shall belong to God.' i.e. So that no believer is persecuted from his religion, and monotheism may be pure, God having no partner and no rivals.

'If they cease, then God sees what they do, and if they turn away,' from thy commandment to their unbelief, 'then know that God is your friend,' who glorified you and helped you against them on the day of Badr in spite of their great numbers and your small force.

'A fine friend, and a fine helper.'

Then He taught them how to divide the spoil and His judgement about it when He made it lawful to them and said: 'And know that what you take as booty a fifth belongs to God and the apostle and next of kin and orphans and the poor and the wayfarer, if you believe in God and what We sent down to Our servant on the day of furqān, the day the two armies met; and 1 Sūra 73. 1 and 11-14.

2 Normally actualis would mean 'the men of old'.

3 ḍīna. This word contains the ideas of painful trial, rebellion, and seduction.

God is able to do all things,' i.e. the day I divided between the true and the false by My power the day the two armies met—'you and they 'when you were on the nearer side' of the wadi 'and they on the further side' of the wadi towards Mecca 'and the caravan was below you,' i.e. the caravan of Abū Sufyān which you had gone out to capture and they had gone out to protect without any appointment between you. 'And if you had arranged to meet you would have failed to meet,' i.e. had you arranged to meet and then you had heard of their multitude compared with your force you would not have met them; but that God might accomplish a thing that had to be done,' i.e. that He might accomplish what He willed in His power, namely to exalt Islam and its followers and to abuse the unbelievers without your fighting hard. He did what He willed in His goodness. Then He said: 'that he who died should die with a clear proof and he who lived should live by a clear proof. God is a Hearer, a Knower,' i.e. that he who disbelieved should disbelieve after the proof in the sign and example which he had seen and he who believed should believe by the same warrant.

Then He mentioned His kindness and His plotting for him: 'When God showed thee in thy sleep that they were few, and if He had shown them to thee as many you would have failed and quarrelled over the affair; but God saved you. He knows what is within the breasts.' What God showed him was one of His favours by which He encouraged them against their enemy, and kept from them what would have frightened them because of their weakness, because He knew what was in them (407). 'And when you met them He made you see them as few making you seem small in their eyes that God might accomplish a thing that had to be done,' i.e. to unite them for war to take vengeance on whom He willed and to show favour to those Whom He willed so to bless, who were of the number of His friends.

Then He admonished and instructed and taught them how they ought to conduct their wars and said: 'O believers, when you meet an army whom you fight in the way of God 'Stand firm and remember God often’ to Whom you devoted yourselves when you gave your allegiance to Him so that you may prosper. And obey God and His apostle and wrangle not lest you fail,' i.e. do not quarrel so that your affairs become disordered 'and your spirit depart,' i.e. your bravery go, 'and be steadfast. God is with the steadfast,' i.e. I am with you when you do that. 'And be not like those who went forth from their houses boastfully to be seen of men,' i.e. do not be like Abū Jahl and his companions who said, 'We will not go back until we have been to Badr and slaughtered camels there and drunk wine and the singing girls have made music for us and the Arabs will hear of it,' i.e. let not your affair be outward show and the subject of gossip, nor concerned with men, and purify your intention towards God and your efforts for the victory of your religion and the help of your prophet. Simply do that and do not aim at anything else. Then He said: 'And when Satan made their deeds seem good to them and said, ‘No man can conquer you today for I am your protector’' (408).
Then God mentions the unbelievers and what they will meet when they die, and describes them, and tells His prophet about them until He says: 'If you come upon them in war, deal with them so forcibly as to terrify those who follow them, haply they may take warning,' i.e. make a severe example of them to those that come after, that haply they may understand. 'And prepare what strength you can against them, and cavalry by which you may strike terror into the enemy of God and your enemy' as far as His words, 'And whatever you spend in the way of God will be repaid to you: you will not be wronged,' i.e. you will not lose your reward with God in the next life and a rapid recompense in this world. 'Then He said, 'And if they incline to peace incline thou to it,' i.e. if they ask you for peace on the basis of Islam then make peace on that basis, 'and rely on God,' verify God will suffice thee, 'He is the Hearer, the Knower' (409). 'And if they would deceive thee, God is sufficient for thee,' He being behind thee, 'He it is who strengtheneth thee with His help' after weakness 'and by the believers. And He made them of one mind' by the guidance which God sent thee to them. 'Hadst thou spent all the world's wealth thou hadst not made them of one mind but God made them of one mind' by His religion to which He gathered them. 'He is mighty, wise.'

Then He said: 'O prophet, God is sufficient for thee and the believers who follow thee. O prophet, exhort the believers to fight. If there are twenty steadfast ones among you they will overcome two hundred, and if there are a hundred of you they will overcome a thousand unbelievers for they are a senseless people,' i.e. they do not fight with a good intention nor for truth nor have they knowledge of what is good and what is evil.

Abdullah b. Abū Najīh from 'Atā' b. Abū Rihāb from 'Abdullāh b. 'Abbās told me that when this verse came down it came as a shock to the Muslims who took it hard that twenty should have to fight two hundred, and a hundred fight a thousand. So God relieved them and cancelled the verse with another saying: 'Now has God relieved you and He knows that there is weakness amongst you, so if there are a hundred steadfast they shall overcome two hundred, and if there are a thousand of you they shall overcome two thousand by God's permission, for God is with the steadfast.' ('Abdullāh) said, 'When they numbered half of the enemy it was wrong for them to run from them; but if they were less than half they were not bound to fight and it was permissible for them to withdraw.'

Then God reproached him about the prisoners and the taking of booty, no other prophet before him having taken booty from his enemy. Muhammad Abū Ja'far b. 'Abbās b. al-Huṣayn told me that the apostle said: 'I was helped by fear; the earth was made a place to pray, and clean; I was given all-embracing words; booty was made lawful to me as to no prophet before me; and I was given the power to intercede; five privileges accorded to no prophet before me.'

God said, 'It is not for any prophet,' i.e. before thee, 'to take prisoners' from his enemies 'until he has made slaughter in the earth,' i.e. slaughtered his enemies until he drives them from the land. 'You desire the lure of this world,' i.e. joys goods, the ransom of the captives. 'But God desires the next world,' i.e. their killing them to manifest the religion which He wishes to manifest and by which the next world may be attained. 'Had there not previously been a book from God there would have come upon you for what you took,' i.e. prisoners and booty, 'an awful punishment,' i.e. had it not previously gone forth from Me that I would punish only after a prohibition—and He had not prohibited them—I would have punished you for what you did. Then He made it lawful to him and to them as a mercy from Him and a gift from the Compassionate, the Merciful. He said, 'So enjoy what you have captured as lawful and good, and fear God. God is Forgiving, Merciful.' Then He said: 'O prophet, Say to those captives in your hands, If God knows any good in your hearts He will give you something better than that which has been taken from you and God will pardon you. God is Forgiving, Merciful.'

He incited the Muslims to unity and made the Refugees and the Helpers friends in religion and the unbelievers friends one of another. Then He said: 'If you do not do so, there will be confusion in the land and a great corruption,' i.e. unless believer becomes friend of believer to the exclusion of the unbeliever even though he is of his kin. 'There will be confusion in the land,' i.e. doubt about the true and the false and the rise of corruption in the land if the believer takes the side of the unbeliever against the believer.

Then He assigned inheritances to next of kin of those who became Muslims after the friendship between Refugees and Helpers and said: 'And those who believed afterwards and migrated and strove along with you are of you; and those who are akin are nearer to one another in God's book,' i.e. in inheritance 'God knoweth all things'.

Of B. Abū Shams b. 'Abdullāh b. Manāf: 'Uthmān b. Affān b. 'Abū' Ās b. Umayya b. Abī Shams; (He stayed behind on account of his wife Ruqayyā the apostle's daughter, so the apostle assigned him his portion. He asked 'And my reward (from God) as well? 'Yes', said the apostle.) Abū Hudhayfa b. Utba b. Rabī'a b. Abū Shams, and Sālim his freedman (413). They allege that Subayh freedman of B. 'Abdullāh b. Umayya got ready to march with the apostle, but fell sick and mounted on his camel Abū Salama b. Abīl-ʿĀṣad b. Ḥilāl b. 'Abdullāh b. ʿUmar b. Makhzūm. Afterwards Subayh was present at all the apostle's battles.

Of the allies of B. Kabīr: Thaqīf b. ʿĀmir and his two brothers Mālik and Muḍūlī (414). They belonged to the B. Ḥaʃr, a clan of B. Sula'am; Abī Makhshī as an ally of theirs (415). Total 16 men.

Of B. Taym b. Murra: Abū Bakr whose full name was ʿAtīq b. ʿUthmān b. ʿĀmir b. ʿAmr b. Ka'b b. Sa'd b. Taym (421). Bilāl his freedman, born a slave among the B. Jumāh. Abū Bakr bought him from Umayya b. Khalīf. His name was Bilāl b. Rabīb, &c. He had no offspring; ʿAmr b. Fuhayra (422) and Subayh b. Sinān from al-Namr b. Qāṣīt (423) and Ţalha b. ʿAbdullāh b. ʿUthmān b. ʿAmr b. Ka'b, &c. He was in Syria and did not turn up until the apostle had returned from Badr. Nevertheless, he allotted him a share in the booty as he had done in the case of ʿUthmān. Total 5 men.

THE HELPERS AND THEIR ADHERENTS WHO WERE AT BADR

Of al-Aus b. al-Khazraj b. 'Amr b. 'Auf, freedman of Suhayl; and Sa'd b. Khula, an ally of theirs (429). Total 5 men.

The total number of the Emigrants who took part in the battle of Badr to whom the apostle allotted shares in the booty was 83 men (430).

Abū-'Āqīl b. Iṣmā'īl b. Mālik b. 'Amr b. 'Abdāb b. al-'Atiṣāfī b. 'Abdāb b. al-'Az'ār b. Zayd b. al-'Atiṣāfī; and 'Umar b. Mā'bad b. al-'Az'ār, &c. (438); and Saḥ b. Ḥunayf b. Wāḥib b. al-'Uqaym b. Thala'bā b. Majdā'ā b. al-Hārith b. 'Amr who was called Bāḥzāj b. Ḥanāsh b. 'Abū 'Amr b. 'A'uf. Total 5 men.

The total number of Aus who fought at Badr with the apostle and of those who were given a share of the booty was 61 men.

Of B. Da'd b. Fihr b. Tha'laba b. Ghanim: al-Nu'mān b. Mālik b. Tha'laba b. Da'd; this man was known as Qauqal. Total 1 man.

The Life of Muhammad

The names of those who died as martyrs at Badr

Of Quraysh of the clan of B. al-Muttalib: 'Ubayda b. al-Harith whom 'Uthma b. Rabi'a slew by cutting off his leg. He afterwards died in al-Safra'. Total 7.

Thus the total number of Muslims, emigrants, and Helpers who were at Badr and were allotted a share in the booty was 314, the emigrants providing 83, Aus 61, and Khazraj 170.

The names of the polytheists who were slain at Badr

The Quraysh losses at Badr were as follow:

Of B. 'Abdu Shams: Hanzala b. 'Abdu Sufyân (500); al-Harith b. al-Hadrâmî and 'Amîr b. al-Hadrâmî, two allies of theirs (500); and 'Umayr b. Abu 'Umayr and his son two freedmen of theirs (501); and 'Umayr b. Sa'id b. al-Âs b. Umaysa whom al-Zubayr b. al-'Awâm killed; and al-Âs b. Sa'id whom Ali killed; and 'Uqba b. Abu Muhammad whom 'Âsîm b. Thâbit killed (502); and 'Utba b. Rabi'a whom 'Ubayda b. al-Harith b. Surâqa b. al-Harith (503); and Shayba b. Rabi'a whom Hâmza killed; and al-Walid b. 'Utba whom 'Ali killed; and 'Amir b. 'Abdullâh, an ally from B. Annâr b. Baghid whom 'Ali killed. Total 12.

Of B. Naufal b. Abu Manâf: al-Harith b. 'Amir whom Khubayb b. Isâf is said to have killed; and Tu'ayma b. 'Abdi b. Naufal whom 'Ali killed while others say Hamza killed him. Total 2.

Of B. 'Abdu'l-Âzîz: Zama'a b. al-Aswâd (504); and al-Harith b. Zama'a (505); and 'Uqayl b. al-Aswâd (506); and Abu'l-Rakhtari who was al-Âs b. Hîshâm whom al-Mujâdîdhâr b. Dhiyâd b. al-Balawi killed (507); and Naufal b. Khuwaylid whom was b. al-Adawiya the 'Adly of Khuzâ'a; it was he who bound Âbî Bakr and Talha b. 'Ubaydullah with a rope when they became Muslims and so were called 'the-two-tied-together-ones'. He was one of the principal men of Quraysh. 'Ali killed him. Total 5 men.

From B. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manâf, Adî b. al-Khiyâr b. Adîy; and 'Uthmân b. 'Abdu Shams nephew of Ghazwân b. Jâbir, an ally of theirs from B. Mâzin b. Ma'nîr; and Abû Thaur, an ally. 3.

From B. 'Abdul'l-Dâr b. Qusâyy: Abû 'Azî z b. 'Umayr b. Hâshim b. 'Abdu Manâf; and al-Aswad b. 'Amîr, an ally. They used to say 'We are the B. al-Aswad, 'Amîr b. 'Amîr b. al-Hârîth b. al-Sabbâq.' 2.

From B. Asad b. 'Abdul'l-Uzza b. Qusâyy: al-Sâ'îb b. 'Abdul Hubaysh b. al-Mu'talib; and al-Huwayrîth b. 'Abdul b. Uthmân (534); Asad, and Sâlim b. Shammâkh an ally. 3.

From B. Mâkidm b. Yaʕaza b. Murrâ: Khâlid b. Hâshîm b. al-Mughîra b. 'Abdullah b. 'Umar; and Umayya b. Abû Hudhayfà b. al-Mughîra; and Walîd b. al-Walîd b. al-Mughîra; and 'Uthmân b. 'Abdullah b. al-Mughîra b. 'Abdullah b. 'Umar; and Sayfî b. Abû Rîfâ' b. Abî b. 'Abdul b. 'Umar; and Abû'l-Mu'âdhârîth b. 'Abî b. 'Abdul b. 'Umar; and Khâlid b. al-'Alâ'm an ally, who they say was the first to turn his back in flight. He was who said:

The wounds that bleed are not on our backs
But the blood drops on our feet. 9 (535).

The total number reported to me was 43 men (536).
SOME POETRY ABOUT THE BATTLE OF BADR

Of the poetry about the battle of Badr which the two parties bandied between them in reference to what happened therein are the lines of Ḥāmza b. ‘Abdu’l-Muṭṭalib (537):

Surely one of time’s wonders
(Though roads to death are plain to see)
Is that a people should destroy themselves and perish
By encouraging one another to disobedience and disbelief.

The night they all set out for Badr
And became death’s pawns in its well.
We had sought but their caravan, naught else,
But they came to us and we met unexpectedly,

When we met there was no way out
Save with a thrust from dun-coloured straight-fashioned shafts
And a blow with swords which severed their heads,
Swords that glittered as they smote.

We left the erring ‘Utba lying dead
And Shayba among the slain thrown in the well;
‘Amr lay dead among their protectors
And the keening women rent their garments for him,
The noble women of Lu’ayy b. Gḥālib
Who surpass the best of Fīhr.

Those were folk who were killed in their error
And they left a banner not prepared for victory—
A banner of error whose people Iblīs led.
He betrayed them (the evil one is prone to treachery).

When he saw things clearly he said to them,
‘I am quit of you. I can no longer endure;
I see what you do not see, I fear God’s punishment
For He is invincible.’

He led them to death so that they perished
While he knew what they could not know.
On the day of the well they mustered a thousand,
We three hundred like excited white stallions.

Under our banner Gabriel attacked with them
In the fray where they met their death.

1 Lit. Did you see a thing that was one of time’s wonders?
2 That a people, &c.
3 Reading fahād with C.
4 Reading da‘ādun, lit. by (God’s) decree.
5 Lit. Did you see a thing that was one of time’s wonders?

Al-Ḥāriṯ b. Ḥiṣām b. al-Mughira answered them thus:

Help, 0 my people, in my longing and loss
My sorrow and burning heart!
Tears flow copiously from my eyes
Like pearls falling from the cord of the woman who strings them,
Weeping for the sweet-natured hero
Death’s pawn at the well of Badr.
Bless you, ‘Amr kinsman and companion of most generous nature.
If certain men chanced to meet you when your luck was out,
Well, time is bound to bring its changes.
In past times which are gone
You brought upon them a humiliation which is hard to bear.
Unless I die I shall not leave you unavenged.
I will spare neither brother nor wife’s kin.
I will slay as many dear to them
As they have slain of mine.

Have strangers whom they have collected deceived them
While we are the pure stock of Fīhr?
Help, O Lu’ayy, protect your sanctuary and your gods;
Give them not up to the evil man!
Your fathers handed them down and you inherited their foundations,
The temple with its roof and curtain.
Why did the reprobate want to destroy you?
Forgive him not, O tribe of Gḥālib,
Fight your adversary with all your might and help one another.
Bear one another’s afflictions with endurance.
You may well avenge your brother,
Nothing matters if you fail to take revenge on ‘Amr’s slayers.
With waving swords flashing in your hands like lightning
Sending heads flying as they glitter.
As it were the tracks of ants on their blades
When they are unsheathed against the evil-eyed enemy.

‘Alī b. Abū Ṭālib said:

Have you not seen how God favoured His apostle
With the favour of a strong, powerful, and gracious one;
How He brought humiliation on the unbelievers
Who were put to shame in captivity and death,
While the apostle of God’s victory was glorious
He being sent by God in righteousness.
He brought the Furqān sent down from God.
Its signs are plain to men of sense.
Some firmly believed in that and were convinced
And (thanks to God) became one people; 2
Others disbelieved, their minds went astray
And the Lord of the throne brought repeated calamities upon them;
At Badr He gave them into the power of His apostle
And an angry army who did valiantly.
They smote them with their trusty swords,
Furbished well, and polished.
How many a lusty youngster,
Many a hardy warrior did they leave prone.
Their keening women spent a sleepless night,
Their tears now strong, now weak.
They keen for erring 'Utba and his son,
And Shayba and Abū Jahl
And Dhul-Rijl 1 and Ibn Judān also,
With burning throats in mourning garb displaying bereavement.
Dead in Badr's well lay many,
Brave in war, generous in times of dearth;
Error called them and some responded
(For error has ways easy to adopt).
Now they are in Hell,
Too occupied to rage furiously against us.

Al-Hārith b. Hishām b. al-Mughira answered him thus:
I wonder at folk whose fool sings
Of folly captious and vain,
Singing about the slain at Badr
When young and old vied in glorious endeavour,
The brave swordsman of Lu'ayy, Ibn Ghālib,
Thrusting in battle, feasting the hungry in times of dearth;
They died nobly, they did not sell their family
For strangers alien in stock and homeland,
Like you who have made Ghasān your special friends
Instead of us—a sorry deed,
An impious, odious crime, and a severing of the ties of blood;
Men of judgement and understanding perceive your wrongdoing.
True, they are men who have passed away,
But the best death is on the battlefield.
Rejoice not that you have killed them,
For their death will bring you repeated disaster.
Now they are dead you will always be divided,

1 Or 'its messages'.
3 i.e. Al-Aswad whose leg Ghanza hewed off, v.t.
And ‘Ali among those you could mention,
Abū Ḥaṣā and ‘Uthmān were of them,
Sa’d too, if anyone was present,
Those men—not the begettings of Aus and Najjār—
Should be the object of your boasting,
But their father was from Lu’ayy Ibn Ghālib,
Ka’b and ‘Amir when noble families are reckoned.
They are the men who repelled the cavalry on every front,
The noble and glorious on the day of battle.

Ka’b b. Mālik brother of the B. Salīma said:
I wonder at God’s deed, since He Does what He wills, none can defeat Him.
He decreed that we should meet at Badr
An evil band (and evil ever leads to death).
They had summoned their neighbours on all sides
Until they formed a great host.
At us alone they came with ill intent,
Ka’b and ‘Amir and all of them.
With us was God’s apostle with Aus round him
Like a strong impregnable fortress
The tribes of Bānū Najjār beneath his banner
Advancing in light armour while the dust rose high.
When we met them and every steadfast warrior
Ventured his life with his comrades
We testified to the unity of God
And that His apostle brought the truth.
When our light swords were unsheathed
’Twas as though fires flashed at their movement.
With them we smote them and they scattered
And the impious met death,
Abū Jahl lay dead on his face
And ‘Utbā our swords left in the dust.1
Shaybān and Al-Taymī they left on the battlefield,
Everyone of them denied Him who sitteth on the throne.
They became fuel for Hell,
For every unbeliever must go there.
It will consume them, while the stoker
Increases its heat with pieces of iron and stone.2
God’s apostle had called them to him
But they turned away, saying, ‘You are nothing but a sorcerer.’
Because God willed to destroy them,
And none can avert what He decrees.

1 Reading ‘a’fara with some authorities for ‘al‘āra, though these letters sometimes interchange.
2 Cf. Sūra 18. 95.
By night my dreams inflame my desire for her.
I swear I will not forget to think of her
Until my bones lie in the grave.
O woman who foolishly blames me,
I refuse to accept blame on account of my love;
She came to me at dawn after I woke
When life's troubles were at hand.
She told me that man is sad all his life
Because he lacks plenty of camels;
If you lied in what you said
May you escape the consequences as Al-Hārith b. Hishām did.
He left his friends fearing to fight in their defence,
And escaped by giving his horse free rein.
It left the swift steeds behind in the desert;
As the weighted rope drops down the well.
His mare galloped away at full speed while
His friends remained in their evil plight
His brothers and his family were in the battle
In which God gave the Muslims victory—
For God accomplishes His work—war ground them to powder,
Its fire blazed (with them as fuel).
But for God and the animal's speed (our horses) had left him
A prey to wild beasts trodden under their hoofs,
Some of them firmly bound prisoners (though they were)
Hawks protecting (their young) when they met the spears;
Some prostrate never to answer to the call
Till the highest mountains cease to be,
In shame and plain disgrace when they saw
The sword blades driving every resolute chief before them.
Swords in the hands of noble valiant chiefs,
Whose noble ancestry is vindicated without searching inquiry.
Swords that strike fire from steel
Like lightning 'neath the storm clouds.
Al-Hārith answered him and said:
The people know well I did not leave the fight until my steed was foaming with blood
I knew that if I fought alone I should be killed; my death would not injure the enemy
So I withdrew and left my friends meaning to avenge them another day.

1 These three verses are obviously a later interpolation. The syntax requires that the partitive min should follow its antecedent 'his friends'. Moreover, the ostentatious piety of these verses is foreign to Hassān.
2 C has 'God knows best', but this is almost certainly wrong. I have followed the text of W.
To the death: we have help unlimited
Faithful to his promise, intrepid, a brilliant star,
A full moon that casts light on every noble man (543).

Hassān also said:

The Bānū Asad were disappointed and their raiders returned
On the day of the Well in misery and disgrace.
Abū'l-Āṣ soon lay dead on the ground:
Hurled from the back of his galloping steed:
He met his end with his weapons, good fighter as he was
When he lay still in death.
The man Zam'a we left with his throat severed,
His life blood flowing away,
His forehead cushioned in the dust,
His nostrils defiled with filth;
Ibn Qays escaped with a remnant of his tribe
Covered with wounds, at the point of death.

Hassān also said:

Can anyone say if the Meccans know
How we slew the unbelievers in their evil hour?
We killed their leaders in the battle
And they returned a shattered force;
We killed Abū Jahl and 'Utbā before him,
And Shayba fell forward with his hands outstretched.
We killed Suwayd and 'Utbā after him.
Tu'ma also in the dust of combat.
Many a noble, generous man we slew
Of lofty line, illustrious among his people.
We left them as meat for hyaenas
Later to burn in Hell fire.
I'ḥāth Mālik's horsemen and their followers were no protection
When they met us at Badr (544).

Hassān also said:

Hakim's speed saved him on the day of Badr
Like the speed of a colt from al-A'waj's mares,
When he saw Badr's valley walls
Swarming with the black-mailed squadrons of Khazraj
Who do not retire when they meet the enemy,
Who march boldly in the middle of the beaten track.

1 Diwan ccvii.
2 Diwan xlv.
3 The true reading is yakḥū, W.'s yakḥū is an obvious misprint. The widely different reading in H.'s Diwan is markedly inferior.
4 A reminiscence of Sūra 68.4.
5 Diwan lixxx.
6 A horse as famous in pagan sagas as Black Bess in English legend.

The Life of Muhammad

How many a valiant chief they have,
Heroes where the coward turns at bay,
Chiefs giving lavishly with open hand,
Crowned ones bearing the burden of blood-wits,
Ornaments in conclave, persistent in battle,
Smiting the bold with their all-piercing swords (545).

Hassān also said:

Thanks to God we fear not an army
How many they be with their assembled troops.
Whenever they brought a multitude against us
The gracious Lord sufficed us against their swords;
At Badr we raised our spears aloft,
Death did not dismay us.
You could not see a body of men
More dangerous to those they attack when war is stirred up,
But we put our trust [in God] and said:
'Our swords are our fame and our defence.'
With them we met them and were victorious
Though but a band against their thousands.

Hassān also said, satirizing B. Jumāh and those of them who were slain:

Bānū Jumāh rushed headlong to disaster because of their unlucky star
(The mean man inevitably meets humiliation).
They were conquered and slain at Badr,
They deserted in all directions,
They rejected the scripture and called Muhammad liar.
But God makes the religion of every apostle victorious;
God curse Abū Khuzayma and his son,
The two Kūhālids and Šā'īd b. 'Aqīl.

'Ubayda b. al-Ḥārith said about the battle of Badr, and the cutting off of his foot when it was smitten in the fight, when he and Ḥamza and 'Alī fought their enemies (546):

A battle will tell the Meccans about us:
It will make distant men give heed,
When 'Utbā died and Shayba after him
And 'Utbā's eldest son had no cause to be pleased with it.
You may cut off my leg, yet I am a Muslim,
I hope in exchange for a life near to Allah
With Houris fashioned like the most beautiful statues
With the highest heaven for those who mount there.

1 The metaphor is that of the untimely address of the he-camel to the mare.
2 Here there is a pun on the name Jumah.
3 'Utbā's firstborn al-Walid was also slain at Badr.
The Life of Muhammad

I have bought it with a life of which I have tasted the best¹
And which I have tried until I lost even my next-of-kin.

The Merciful honoured me with His favour
With the garment of Islam to cover my faults.
I did not shrink from fighting them
The day that men called on their peers to fight them,
When they asked the prophet he sought only us three
So that we came out to the herald;
We met them like lions, brandishing our spears,
We fought the rebellious for God's sake;
We three did not move from our position
Till their fate came upon them (547).

When 'Ubayda died of the wound in his leg at the battle of Badr, Ka'b b. Mālik, the Anṣāri, wrote this elegy on him:

O eye, be generous, not niggardly,
With thy true tears; spare them not
For a man whose death appalled us,
Noble in deed and in descent,
Bold in attack with sharpened sword,
Of noble repute and goodly descent.²
'Ubayda has passed away, we cannot hope
For good or evil from him,
On the eve of battle he used to protect our rearguard with his sword.

Ka'b also said:

Have Ghassān heard in their distant haunt
(The best informant is one with knowledge thereof),
That Ma'add shot their arrows at us,
The whole tribe of them were hostile,
Because we worship God, hoping in none other,
Hoping for heaven's gardens since their prophet has come to us.³
A prophet with a glorious inheritance among his people,
And truthful ancestors whose origin made them pure;
Both sides advanced, and we met them like lions Whose victims have nothing to hope for;
We smote them in the battle
Till Lu'ayy's leader fell upon his face;
They fled, and we cut them down with our sharp swords,
Their allies and their tribesmen alike.

Ka'b also said:

By your father's life, ye sons of Lu'ayy,
Despite your deceit and pride,

¹ Reading ta'arruṭu.
² Or reading makhari, 'of sweet breath'.
³ Lit. 'guarantor'.

The Life of Muhammad

Your horsemen did not protect you at Badr,
They could not stand fast when they met us;
We came there with God's light
Clearing away the cover of darkness from us.
God's apostle led us, by God's order,
An order He had fixed by decree;
Your horsemen could not conquer at Badr
And returned to you in evil case;
Do not hurry, Abū Sufyān, and watch
For the fine steeds coming up from Kada',¹
By God's help the holy spirit is among them²
And Michael, what a goodly company!

Ṭālib b. Abū Ṭālib, praising the apostle and lamenting the men of Quraysh who were thrown into the pit at Badr, said:

My eye wept copiously
Over Ka'b, though it sees them not.
Ka'b deserted one another in the wars, and Fate destroyed them, they having greatly sinned.³
And 'Amir this morning are weeping for the misfortunes (that befell them).
Shall I ever see them closer (to each other)?
They are my brothers, their mother no harlot,
Their guest suffered wrong;
O our brothers 'Abdu Shams and Naufal, may I be your ransom, Put not 'ālār between us. After the love and friendship we had Become not (the subject of) stories in which all of you have something to complain of.
Do you not know what happened in the war of Dāḥis
And when Abū Yakhṣūn's army filled the ravine?
Had not God the Sole Existent saved you
You could not have protected your people.
We among Quraysh have done no great wrong
But merely protected the best man that ever trod the earth;
A standby in misfortunes, generous,
Noble in reputation, no niggard, no wrongdoer.
His door is thronged by those seeking his bounty,
A sea of generosity, vast, unfailing.
By God, my soul will ever be sad,
Restless, until you smite Khazraj well and truly.

Dirār b. al-Khaṭṭāb al-Fihri lamenting Abū Jahl said:

Alas for my eye that cannot sleep
Watching the stars in the darkness of the night!

¹ A place near Mecca. Cf. W. 829, line 8.
² i.e. Gabriel.
³ The language is reminiscent of Sūra 40. 20.
It is as though a mote were in it,
But there is naught but flowing tears.
Tell Quraysh that the best of their company,
The noblest man that ever walked,
At Badr lies imprisoned in the well;
The noble one, not base-born and no niggard.
I swear that my eyes shall never weep for any man
Now Abū'l-Hakam our chief is slain.
I weep for him whose death brought sorrow to Lu'ayy b. Gālib,
To whom death came at Badr where he remains.
You could see fragments of spears in his horse's chest,
Scraps of his flesh plainly intermingled with them.
No lion lurking in the valley of Bīsha,
Where through jungled vales the waters flow,
Was bolder than he when lances clashed,
When the cry went forth among the valiant 'Dismount'—
Grieve not overmuch, Mughīrā's kin, be resolute
(Though he who so grieves is not to be blamed).
Be strong, for death is your glory,
And thereafter at life's end there is no regret.
I said that victory will be yours
And high renown—no man of sense will doubt it (548).

Al-Hārith b. Hishām, bewailing his brother Abū Jahl, said:
Alas my soul for 'Amr!
But can grief avail one whit?
Someone told me that 'Amr
Was the first of his people to go into the old abandoned pit.
I have always thought it right (that you should be the first),
Since your judgement in the past was sound.
I was happy while you were alive;
Now I am left in a miserable state.
At night when I cannot see him I feel
A prey to indecision and full of care.
When daylight comes once more
My eye is weary of remembering 'Amr (549).

Abū Bakr b. al-Aswad b. Shu'ūb al-Laythī, whose name was Shaddād, said:
Ummu Bakr gave me the greeting of peace;
But what peace can I have now my people are no more?
In the pit, the pit of Badr,
What singing girls and noble boon companions!

1 Or, perhaps, 'To battle'.
A happy suggestion of the editors of C. is to read futūf, a Quranic figure for complete insignificance. This is much to be preferred to the obvious qatil of the MSS.
The Life of Muhammad

That the vale of Mecca has altered,
Become a valley deserted
By every chief, son of a chief,1
Fair-skinned, illustrious,
Constantly at the gate of kings,
Crossing the desert, victorious,
Strong-necked, stout of body,
Men of eminence, successful in enterprise,
Who say and do and order what is right,
Who feed their guests on fat meat
Served on bread white as a lamb’s stomach;
Who offer dishes and yet more dishes
As large as water pools.
The hungry finds them not empty
Nor wide without depth,
To guest after guest they send them
With broad open hand,
Givers of hundreds from hundreds of milch camels
To hundreds of their guests,
Driving the hundred from hundreds of camels
From the hundred to the hundred,
Returning from Baladil.
Their nobles have a distinction
Outweighing the nobility of others
As the weights send down the scale
As the balancer holds it.
A party deserted them, while they protected
Their women from disgrace,
Men who smote the front ranks of the enemy
With broad-bladed Indian swords;
Their voices pained me as they Called for water crying aloud;
How fine were the sons of Ali all of them!2
If they do not raid such a raid
As would send back every barking dog to its lair,
With horses trained to long rides,
With proudly raised heads, kept near the tents,
As young men on fine horses
Against fierce menacing lions;
Each man advances to his enemy
Walking as though to shake hands,

1 patricius (phylarch) by this time little more than an honorary title in the Eastern Empire. The word must have been well known to the Arabs because it occurs frequently in early literature. My colleague, Professor Lewis, reminds me that Hārith b. Jabala was appointed phylarch and patricius by Justinian in 529.
2 The reference to the death of Husayn at Karbela and the call to the Alids to rise and revenge themselves is unmistakable.

Umāya also said, lamenting Zama’ā b. al-Aswad and the B. Aswad who were slain:

O eye, weep with overflowing tears for Abū ʿl-Hārith
And hold not thy tears for Zama’ā.
Weep for ʿAqil b. Aswad, the bold lion,
On the day of battle and the dust of war.
Those Banū Aswad were brothers like the Gemini,
No treachery and no deceit was in them,
They are the noblest family of Ka’b,
The very summit of excellence.
They produced sons as many as the hairs of the head
And established them in impregnable positions.2
When misfortune visited their kinsmen
Their hearts ached for them.
They gave their food when rain failed,
When all was dry and no cloud could be seen (552).

Abū Usāma Mu’āwiya b. Zuhayr b. Qays b. al-Ḥārith b. Ḫubayrā b. Māżīn b. ’Adiy b. Jusham b. Mu’āwiya, an ally of B. Makhzūm (553), passed Ḫubayrā b. Abū Wāḥab as they were running away on the day of 534 Badr. Ḫubayrā was exhausted and threw away his coat of mail and (Mu’āwiya) picked it up and went off with it. He composed the following lines (554):

When I saw the army panic,
Running away at top speed
And that their leaders lay dead,
Methought the best of them
Were like sacrifices to idols.
Many of them lay there dead,
And we were made to meet our fate at Badr.

1 Abū Dharr has an interesting note here of a tradition going back to Abū Hurayra which reads thus: ‘The apostle gave us permission to recite the poetry of the pagan era except the ode of Umāya b. Abū al-Ṣalt about Badr (i.e. this ode) and the ode of al-ʿAṣhā which begins “Abū bīlith” (lines 10–18 in No. 10 of the Dīwān ed. Geyer which has many variants). The apostle forbade the recitation of this ode because it lamented the death of the unbelievers and attacked the reputation of the prophet’s companions. It was only for that reason that Ibn Ḥusayn omitted two verses from Umāya’s ode. Similarly al-ʿAṣhā’s verse praised ‘Arwā b. Ṭufayl and satirized Alqama b. Ḫathīra. ‘Aṣwā became a Muslim, and when the king of the Byzantines asked him about the apostle he spoke well of him, and the prophet held that in his favour and remembered him. Some scholars say that the prohibition to recite these two odes in the early days of Islam was because of the feeling between Muslims and unbelievers, but when Islam was generally accepted and hatred and enmity ceased, there was no harm in citing them.
2 The reference to the death of Husayn at Karbela and the call to the Alids to rise and revenge themselves is unmistakable.

The Life of Muhammad

About a thousand or two thousand
Mailed men and spearmen (551).1
We left the way and they overtook us
In waves, like an overwhelming flood;
Some said, 'Who is Ibn Qays?'
I said, 'Abū Usāma, without boasting,
I am the Jushamite, that you may know me,
I will announce my lineage,
Answering challenge by challenge.
If you are of the best born of Quraysh,
I am from Mu'āwiya ibn Bakr.'
Tell Mālik, when we were attacked,
For you, 0 Malik, know of me;
Tell Hubayra of us if you meet him,
For he is wise and influential.
That when I was called to Ufayd,
I returned to the battle with undaunted heart,
The night the hapless were left unheeded
Old friends and mother's kindred.
So that is your brother, 0 B. Lu'ayy,
And that is Malik, 0 Umm 'Amr,' for
Had I not been there striped hyaenas,
Mothers of cubs would have had him,
Digging at the graves with their claws,
Their faces as black as a cooking-pot;
I swear by Him Who is my Lord
And by the blood-stained pillars of the stoning places
You will see what my true worth is
When men become as fierce as leopards.3
No lion from his lair in Tarj—
Bold, menacing, fathering cubs in the jungle,
Who has made his den taboo against intruders
So that none can approach him even with a force.4
In the sand, bands of men are helpless
He leaps upon all who try to drive him away—
Is swifter than I
When I advance roaring and growling at the enemy
With arrows like sharp lances
Their points like burning coals,
And a round shield of bull's hide
And a strongly fashioned bow, and
A glittering sword which 'Umayr, the polisher,
Whetted for a fortnight.

Abū Usāma also said:
Who will send a messenger from me
With news that a shrewd man will confirm?
Do not you know how I kept returning to the fight at Badr
When the swords flashed around you,
When the army's leaders were left prostrate,
Their heads like slices of melon?
A gloomy fate, to the people's hurt,
Came upon you in the valley of Badr;
My resolution saved them from disaster
And God's help and a well-conceived plan.
I returned alone from al-Abwâ'
When you were surrounded by the enemy,
Helpless, if anyone attacked you,
Wounded and bleeding by the side of Kurash.2
Whenever a comrade in distress called
For my aid in an evil day,
A brother or ally in such case,
Much as I love my life I answered his call.
I returned to the fray, dispelling gloom,
And shot when faces showed hostility.
Many an adversary have I left on the ground
To rise painfully like a broken twig.3
When battle was joined I dealt him a blow
That drew blood—his arteries murmured aloud:
That is what I did on the day of Badr.
Before that I was resourceful and steadfast,
Your brother as you know in war and famine
Whose evils are ever with us
Your champion undaunted by darkest night or superior numbers.
Out into the bitter black night I plunged
When the freezing wind forces dogs to shelter (556).

1 Commentators differ as to whether this is the name of a place, or a man, or a body of men, the leaders of an attack.
2 The hyaenas.
3 Lit. 'when skins are changed to leopards' skins'. See note on 741. 3.
4 Reading bin'afri.
5 Or, reading abālaf, 'black.'
The Life of Muhammad

Hind d. 'Uthāb b. Rabī'ā bewailing her father on the day of Badr said:

O eyes, be generous with thy tears
For the best of Khindif's sons
Who never returned (home).
His clan fell upon him one morning,
The sons of Ḥāshim and the sons of al-Muṭṭalib
They made him taste the edge of their swords,
They attacked him again when he was helpless,
They dragged him stripped and spoiled
With the dust upon his face;
To us he was a strong mountain,
Grass-clad, pleasing to the eye;
As for al-Ḥarāṯ I do not mention him,
May he get the good he counted on.

She also said:

Fate is against us and has wronged us,
But we can do naught to resist it.
After the slain of Lu'ayy b. Ghālib,
Can a man care about his death or the death of his friend?
Many a day did he rob himself of wealth
By lavishing gifts morning and evening.
Give Abū Sufyān a message from me;
If I meet him one day I will reprove him.
'Twas a war that will kindle another war,
For every man has a friend to avenge (557).

She also said:

What an eye which saw a death like the death of my men!
How many a man and woman tomorrow
Will join with the keening women;
How many did they leave behind on the day of the pit,
The morning of that tumultuous cry!
All generous men in years of drought
When the stars withheld their rain.¹
I was afraid of what I saw
And now my fear is realized.
I was afraid of what I saw
And today I am beside myself.
How many a woman will say tomorrow
Alas Umm Mu'āwiya! (558)

¹ The ancient Arabs thought that the stars brought rain.

Hind also said:

O eye, weep for 'Uthāb, the strong-necked chief,
Who gave his food in famine,
Our defence on the day of victory,
I am grieved for him, broken-hearted, demented.²
Let us fall on Yathrib with an overwhelming attack
With horses kept hard by,
Every long-bodied charger.

Ṣafīya d. Musāfir b. Abū 'Amr b. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shams b. 'Abdu Manāf, bewailing the slain in the pit of Badr, said:

Alas for my eye painful and bleared
The night far spent, the rising sun still hid!
I was told that the noble chieftains
Fate had seized for ever,
That the riders fled with the army and
Mothers neglected their children that morning.
Arise, Ṣafīya, forget not their relationship,
And if you weep, it is not for those who are distant.
They were the supports³ of the tent.
When they broke, the roof of the tent was left unsupported (559).

Ṣafīya also said:

Alas my eye, weeping has exhausted its tears
Like the two buckets of the waterman
Walking among the trees of the orchard.
No lion of the jungle with claws and teeth,
Father of cubs, leaping on his prey,
Exceeding fierce and angry,
Is equal to my love when he died
Facing people whose faces were changed in anger,
In his hand a sharp sword of the finest steel.
When you thrust with a spear you made great wounds
From which came hot foaming blood (560).

Hind d. Uthātha b. 'Abbād b. al-Muṭṭalib lamenting 'Ubayda b. al-Ḥārith b. al-Muṭṭalib said:

Al-Ṣafīra ⁴ holds glory and authority,
Deep-rooted culture, ample intelligence.
Weep for 'Ubayda, a mountain of strength to the strange guests,
And the widow who suckles a dishevelled baby;

¹ Suh. here presses for the meaning 'clad in mourning', mu'taliba, but as all the adjectives are psychological such a sense seems out of place here.
² I follow C. in reading nughb.
³ A place between Mecca and Medina.
The Life of Muhammad

To the people in every winter
When the skies are red from famine;
To the orphans when the wind was violent.
He heated the pot which foamed with milk as it seethed;
When the fire burned low and its flame died
He would revive it with thick brushwood.
Mourn him for the night traveller or the one wanting food,
The wanderer lost whom he put at his ease (561).

Qutayla d. al-Ḥārith, sister of al-Naḍr b. al-Ḥārith, weeping him said:
O Rider, I think you will reach Uthayl!¹
At dawn of the fifth night if you are lucky.
Greet a dead man there for me.
Swift camels always carry news from me to thee.
(Tell of) flowing tears running profusely or ending in a sob.
Can al-Nadr hear me when I call him,
How can a dead man hear who cannot speak?
O Muhammad, finest child of noble mother,
Whose sire a noble sire was,
'Twould not have harmed you had you spared him.
(A warrior oft spares though full of rage and anger.)
Or you could have taken a ransom,
The dearest price that could be paid.²
Al-Nadr was the nearest relative you captured
With the best claim to be released.
The swords of his father's sons came down on him.
Good God, what bonds of kinship there were shattered!
Exhausted he was led to a cold-blooded death,
A prisoner in bonds, walking like a hobbled beast (562).³

The Life of Muhammad

The apostle left Badr at the end of the month of Ramaḍān or in Shawwāl.

The apostle stayed only seven nights in Medina before he himself made a raid against B. Sulaym (563). He got as far as their watering place called al-Kudr and stayed there three nights, returning to Medina without any fighting. He stayed there for the rest of Shawwāl and Dhu'l-Qa'da, and during that time he accepted the ransom of most of the Quraysh prisoners.

1 A place near Medina between Badr and Wādī Ṣafra.
2 Nöldeke's Delectus, p. 67, has a different text here.
3 Some MSS., followed by Suh. and W., make I.H. responsible for its inclusion in the Sura.

Abū Muhammad 'Abdu'l-Malik b. Hishām from Ziyād b. 'Abdullāh al-Bakkā'ī from Muhammad b. Ishaq al-Muṭṭalibī said: Then Abū Sufyān b. Hār b. Sulaym of Dhu'l-Ḥijja. The polytheists were in charge of the pilgrimage that year. Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr and Yazīd b. Rūmān, and one whose veracity I do not suspect from 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik who was one of the most learned Helpers told me that when Abū Sufyān returned to Mecca and the Quraysh fugitives returned from Badr, he swore that he would not practise ablation until he had raided Muhammad. Accordingly he sallied forth with two hundred riders from Quraysh to fulfill his vow. He took the Najd road and stopped by the upper part of a watercourse which led to a mountain called Thayb about one post distance from Medina. Then he sallied forth by night and came to the B. al-Naḍr under cover of darkness. He came to Huyāyy b. Akhṭab and knocked upon his door, but as he was afraid of him he refused to open the door, so he went to Sallām b. Mishkam, who was their chief at that time, and keeper of the public purse. He asked permission to come in and Sallām entertained him with food and drink, and gave him secret information about the Muslims. He rejoined his companions at the end of the night and sent some of them to Medina. They came to an outlying district called Al-'Urayḍ and there they burnt some young palm-trees and finding one of the Helpers and an ally of his working the fields there, they killed them and returned. People got warning of them and so the apostle went out in pursuit (564). He got as far as Quraraturu'l-Kudr² and then returned because Abū Sufyān and his companions had eluded him. They saw some of the provisions which the raiders had thrown away in the fields to lighten their baggage so as to get away quickly. When the apostle brought the Muslims back they asked, 'Do you hope that this will count (with God) in our favor as a raid?' and he replied, 'Yes' (565).

When he went away Abū Sufyān said of Sallām's treatment of him:
I chose one man out of Medina as an ally,
I had no cause to regret it, though I did not stay long,
Sallām ibn Mishkam gave me good wine,
He refreshed me in full measure despite my haste.
When the raiders turned back I said
(Unwilling to burden him),
'Look forward to raiding and booty.
Consider, for the people are the pure stock of Lu'ayy,
Not a mixed rabble of Jurhum'.
It was no more than (spending) part of the night by a traveller
Who came hungry though not needy and destitute.

1 A euphemism for abstaining from sexual intercourse.
2 About eight posts distance from Medina.
Meanwhile there was the affair of the B. Qaynuqa'. The apostle assembled them in their market and addressed them as follows: 'O Jews, beware lest God bring upon you the vengeance that He brought upon Quraysh and become Muslims. You know that I am a prophet who has been sent—you will find that in your scriptures and God's covenant with you.' They replied, 'O Muhammad, you seem to think that we are your people. Do not deceive yourself because you encountered a people with no knowledge of war and got the better of them; for by God if we fight you, you will find that we are real men!'

A freedman of the family of Zayd b. Thabit from Sa'ād b. Jubayr or from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbās told me that the latter said the following verses came down about them:

'\texttt{Say to those who disbelieve: you will be vanquished and gathered to Hell, an evil resting place. You have already had a sign in the two forces which met, i.e. the apostle's companions at Badr and the Quraysh. One force fought in the way of God; the other, disbelievers, thought they saw double their own force with their very eyes. God strengthens with His help whom He will. Verily in that is an example for the discerning.}'

'\texttt{Asīm b. 'Umar b. Qatāda said that the B. Qaynuqa' were the first of the Jews to break their agreement with the apostle and to go to war, between Badr and Uhud (568), and the apostle besieged them until they surrendered unconditionally. 'Abdullah b. Ubayy b. Sa‘īl went to him: when God had put them in his power and said, 'O Muhammad, deal kindly with my clients' (now they were allies of Khazraj), but the apostle put him off. He repeated the words, and the apostle turned away from him, whereupon he thrust his hand into the collar of the apostle's robe (569); the apostle was so angry that his face became almost black. He said, 'Confound you, let me go.' He answered, 'No, by God, I will not let you go until you deal kindly with my clients. Four hundred men without mail and three hundred mailed protected me from all mine enemies; would you cut them down in one morning? By God, I am a man who fears that circumstances may change.' The apostle said, 'You can have them (570).'}

My father ʻIṣaʻā b. Yaśār told me from ‘Ubādā b. al-Walī b. ʻUbādā b. al-Šāmīt who said: when the B. Qaynuqa' fought the apostle 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy espoused their cause and defended them, and 'Ubādā b. al-Šāmīt, who was one of the B. ʻAṣūf, who had the same alliance with them as had 'Abdullāh, went to the apostle and denounced all responsibility for them in favour of God and the apostle, saying, 'O apostle of God, I take God and His apostle and the believers as my friends, and I renounce my agreement and friendship with these unbelievers.' Concerning him and 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy, this passage from the chapter of the Table came down:  \begin{footnote} \texttt{Sūra 3, 36.} \end{footnote}
'O you who believe, take not Jews and Christians as friends. They are friends one of another. Who of you takes them as friends is one of them. God will not guide the unjust people. You can see those in whose heart there is sickness', i.e. 'Abdullah b. Ubayy when he said, 'I fear a change of circumstances.' 'Acting hastily in regard to them, they say we fear that change of circumstances may overtake us. Peradventure God will bring victory or an act from Him so that they will be sorry for their secret thoughts, and those who believe will say, Are these those who swore by God their most binding oath?' [that they were with you], as far as God's words, 'Verily God and His apostle are your friends, and those who believe, who perform prayer, give alms and bow in homage,' mentioning 'Ubāda taking God and His apostle and the believers as friends, and renouncing his agreement and friendship with the B. Qaynuqā', 'Those who take God and His apostle and the believers as friends, they are God's party, they are the victorious.'

THE RAID OF ZAYD B. ḤĀRITHA TO AL-QARADA

The story of the foray of Zayd who captured the caravan of Quraysh, in which was Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb, when the apostle sent him to al-Qarada, a watering-place in Najd, is as follows:

Quraysh were afraid to follow their usual route to Syria after what had happened at Badr, so they went by the Iraq route. Some of their merchants went out, among whom was Abū Sufyān, carrying a great deal of silver which formed the larger part of their merchandise. They hired a man from the B. Bakr b. Wā'il called Furāt b. Hayyān to conduct them by that route (571). The apostle duly sent Zayd, and he met them by that watering-place and captured the caravan and its contents, but the men got away. He brought the spoil to the apostle.

Hassān b. Thābit after Uḥud concerning the last raid of Badr taunted Quraysh for taking the Iraq road thus:

You can say good-bye to the streams of Damascus, for in between Are swords like the mouths of pregnant camels who feed on arak trees In the hands of men who migrated to their Lord And His true helpers and the angels. If they go to the lowland of the sandy valley Say to them, 'There is no road here (572).'

THE KILLING OF KA'B B. AL-ASHRAF

After the Quraysh defeat at Badr the apostle had sent Zayd b. Ḥāritha to the lower quarter and 'Abdullah b. Rawāḥa to the upper quarter to tell the Muslims of Medina of God's victory and of the polytheists who had been killed. 'Abdullah b. al-Mughit b. Abū Burda al-Zafāri and 'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amr b. Ḥazm and 'Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda and Śāliḥ b. Abū Umāma b. Sahl each gave me a part of the following story: Ka'b b. al-Asḥraf who was one of the 'Ta'yi' of the subsection B. Nabāhān whose mother was from the B. al-Nadr, when he heard the news said, 'Is this true? Did Muhammad actually kill these whom these two men mention? (i.e. Zayd and 'Abdullah b. Rawāḥa). These are the nobles of the Arabs and kingly men; by God, if Muhammad has slain these people 'twere better to be dead than alive.'

When the enemy of God became certain that the news was true he left the town and went to Mecca to stay with al-Muṭṭalib b. Abū Wādā'a b. Dūbayra al-Sahmi who was married to 'Āṭika d. Abū'l-'Is b. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shams b. 'Abdu Manāf. She took him in and entertained him hospitably. He began to inveigh against the apostle and to recite verses in which he bewailed the Quraysh who were thrown into the pit after having been slain at Badr. He said:

Badr's mill ground out the blood of its people. At events like Badr you should weep and cry. The best of the people were slain round their cisterns, Don't think it strange that the princes were left lying. How many noble handsome men, The refuge of the homeless were slain, Liberal when the stars gave no rain, Who bore others' burdens, ruling and taking their due fourth. Some people whose anger pleases me say 'Ka'b b. al-Asḥraf is utterly dejected'. They are right. O that the earth when they were killed Had split asunder and engulfed its people, That he who spread the report had been thrust through Or lived cowering blind and deaf. I was told that all the Banū'l-Mughīrā were humiliated And brought low by the death of Abū'l-Ḥakim And the two sons of Rabī'a with him, And Munabbīh and the others did not attain (such honour) as those who were slain.2 I was told that al-Hārith ibn Hishām Is doing well and gathering troops To visit Yathrib with armies, For only the noble, handsome man protects the loftiest3 reputation (573).

Hassān b. Thābit answered him thus:

Does Ka'b weep for him again and again And live in humiliation hearing nothing?

1 Lit. the inside of the earth is better than the outside.
2 Or 'Tubba' did not (so A. Dh.). Waq. has ḥal for ma and al-tubba'ū for watubba'ū.
3 The reading must be 'alā, because yābbil governs an accusative.
4 The question is ironical; let him weep if he wants to. The text of this poem is dubious.
The Life of Muhammad

In the vale of Badr I saw some of them, the slain,
Eyes pouring with tears for them.
Weep ['Atika], for you have made a mean slave weep
Like a pup following a little bitch.
God has given satisfaction to our leader
And put to shame and prostrated those who fought him.
Those whose hearts were torn with fear
Escaped and fled away (574).

A Muslim woman of B. Murayd, a clan of B. who were allied attachments of B. Umayya b. Zayd, called al-Ja'ādira answered Ka'b (575):

This slave shows great concern
Weeping over the slain untiringly,
May the eye that weeps over the slain at Badr weep on
And may Lu'ayy b. Ghalib weep double as much!
Would that those werting in their blood
Could be seen by those who live between Mecca's mountains!
They would know for certain and would see
How they were dragged along by hair and beard.¹

Ka'b b. al-Ashraf answered her:

Drive off that fool of yours that you may be safe
From talk that has no sense!
Do you taunt me because I shed tears
For people who loved me sincerely?
As long as I live I shall weep and remember
The merits of people whose glory is in Mecca's houses.
By my life Murayd used to be far from hostile
But now they are become as jackals.
They ought to have their noses cut off
For insulting the two clans of Lu'ayy b. Ghalib.
I give my share in Murayd to Ja'dar
In truth, by God's house, between Mecca's mountains.

Then Ka'b returned to Medina and composed amatory verses about Ummu'l-Faṣl d. al-Ḥārith, saying:

Are you off without stopping in the valley
And leaving Ummu'l-Faṣl in Mecca?
Out would come what she bought from the pedlar of bottles,
Henna and hair dye.
What lies 'twixt ankle and elbow in motion²
When she tries to stand and does not.

¹ Or, reading mahazzahum, 'the sword cuts above their beards and eyebrows'.
² Presumably her buttocks are meant; they would be between her ankle and her elbow as she reclined. Large and heavy buttocks were marks of female beauty among the old Arabs.

Like Umm Hakim when she was with us
The link between us firm and not to be cut.
She is one of B. 'Amir who bewitches the heart,
And if she wished she could cure my sickness.
The glory of women and of a people is their father,
A people held in honour true to their oath.
Never did I see the sun rise at night till I saw her Display herself to us in the darkness of the night!

Then he composed amatory verses of an insulting nature about the Muslim women. The apostle said—according to what 'Abdullah b. al-Mughith b. Abū Burda told me—'Who will rid me of Ibnul-l-Ashraf?'
Muhammad b. Maslama, brother of the B. 'Abdu'l-Ashhal, said, 'I will deal with him for you, 0 apostle of God, I will kill him.' He said, 'Do so if you can.' So Muhammad b. Maslama returned and waited for three days without food or drink, apart from what was absolutely necessary. When the apostle was told of this he summoned him and asked why he had given up eating and drinking. He replied that he had given him an undertaking and he did not know whether he could fulfil it. The apostle said,
'All that is incumbent upon you is that you should try.' He said, '0 apostle of God, we shall have to tell lies.' He answered, 'Say what you like, for you are free in the matter.' Thereupon he and Silkan b. Salāma b. Waqsh who was Abū Nūl'ila one of the B. 'Abdu'l-Ashhal, foster-brother of Ka'b, 'Abdu'l-Ashhal and Abū 'Abs b. Jabr of the B. Ḥāritha conspired together and sent Silkan to the enemy of God, Ka'b b. Ashraf, before they came to him. He talked to him some time and they recited poetry one to the other, for Silkan was fond of poetry. Then he said, '0 Ibn Ashraf, I have come to you about a matter which I want to tell you of and wish you to keep secret.'
'Very well,' he replied. He went on, 'The coming of this man is a great trial to us. It has provoked the hostility of the Arabs, and they are all in league against us. The roads have become impassable so that our families are in want and privation, and we and our families are in great distress.'
Ka'b answered, 'By God, I kept telling you, 0 Ibn Salāma, that the things
I warned you of would happen.' Silkan said to him, 'I want you to sell us food and we will give you a pledge of security and you deal generously in the matter.' He replied, 'Will you give me your sons as a pledge?' He said, 'You want to insult us. I have friends who share my opinion and I want to bring them to you so that you may sell to them and act generously, and we will give you enough weapons for a good pledge.' Silkan's object was that he should not take alarm at the sight of weapons when they brought them. Ka'b answered, 'Weapons are a good pledge.' Thereupon Silkan returned to his companions, told them what had happened, and ordered them to take their arms. Then they went away and assembled with him and met the apostle (576).
Thaur b. Zayd from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbās told me the apostle walked with them as far as Baq‘ul-Gharqad. Then he sent them off, saying, 'Go in God’s name; O God help them.' So saying, he returned to his house. Now it was a moonlight night and they journeyed on until they came to his castle, and Abū Na‘īla called out to him. He had only recently married, and he jumped up in the bedsheet, and his wife took hold of the end of it and said, 'You are at war, and those who are at war do not go out at this hour.' He replied, 'It is Abū Na‘īla. Had he found me sleeping he would not have woken me,' She answered, 'By God, I can feel evil in his voice.' Ka‘b answered, 'Even if the call were for a stab a brave man must answer it.' So he went down and talked to them for some time, while they conversed with him. Then Abū Na‘īla said, 'Would you like to walk with us to Shīb al-‘Aţūz, so that we can talk for the rest of the night?' 'If you like,' he answered, so they went off walking together; and after a time Abū Na‘īla ran his hand through his hair. Then he smelt his hand, and said, 'I have never smelt a scent finer than this.' They walked on farther and he did the same so that Ka‘b suspected no evil. Then after a space he did it for the third time, and cried, 'Smite the enemy of God!' So they smote him, and their swords clashed over him with no effect. Muhammad b. Maslama said, 'I remembered my dagger when I saw that our swords were useless, and I seized it. Meanwhile the enemy of God had made such a noise that every fort around us was showing a light. I thrust it into the lower part of his body, then I bore down upon it until I reached his genitals, and the enemy of God fell to the ground. Al-Ḥārith had been hurt, being wounded either in his head or in his foot, one of our swords having struck him. We went away, passing by the B. Umayya b. Zayd and then the B. Qurayṣa and then Bū‘āth until we went up the Harra of al-‘Urāy.1 Our friend al-Ḥārith had lagged behind, weakened by loss of blood, so we waited for him for some time until he came up, following our tracks. We carried him and brought him to the apostle at the end of the night. We saluted him as he stood praying, and he came out to us, and we told him that we had killed God’s enemy. He spat upon our comrade’s wounds, and both he and we returned to our families. Our attack upon God’s enemy cast terror among the Jews, and there was no Jew in Medina who did not fear for his life.12

Ka‘b b. Malik said:

Of them Ka‘b was left prostrate there
(After his fall al-‘Aţūr were brought low).

1 Harra is a district of black volcanic stone and ‘Urāy is one of the valleys of Medina.

2 A photograph of the ruins of Ka‘b’s castle is given in The Islamic Review, Sept. 1653, p. 12. There Dr. M. Hamidullah writes: 'Towards the south [of Medina] in the eastern lava plain near Wadi Mudhanah, there is a small hillock. On this the walls of the palace of Ka‘b Ibn al-Ashraf still stand, about a yard or a yard and a quarter in height, built of stone. Inside the palace there is a well... In front of the palace, on the base of the hillock, there are rims of a big cistern of water, built of lime and divided into several sections, each connected with the other by means of clay pipes.'

The apostle said, ‘Kill any Jew that falls into your power.’ Thereupon Muhayyisa b. Mas‘ūd leapt upon Ibn Sunayna (579), a Jewish merchant with whom they had social and business relations, and killed him. Huwayyiṣa was not a Muslim at the time though he was the elder brother. When Muhayyisa killed him Huwayyiṣa began to beat him, saying, ‘You enemy of God, did you kill him when much of the fat on your belly comes from his wealth?’ Muhayyisa answered, ‘Had the one who ordered me to kill him ordered me to kill you I would have cut your head off.’ He said that this was the beginning of Huwayyiṣa’s acceptance of Islam. The other replied, ‘By God, if Muhammad had ordered you to kill me would you have killed me?’ He said, ‘Yes, by God, had he ordered me to cut off your head I would have done so.’ He exclaimed, ‘By God, a religion which can bring you to this is marvellous!’ and he became a Muslim. I was told this story by a client of B. Ḥāritha from the daughter of Muhayyisa from Muhayyisa himself.

Muhayyisa composed the following lines on the subject:

My mother’s son blames me because if I were ordered to kill him
I would smite his nape with a sharp sword,
A blade white as salt from polishing,
My downward stroke never misses its mark.
It would not please me to kill you voluntarily
Though we owned all Arabia from north to south (580).

After his arrival from Bahrān the apostle stopped for the months of the latter Jumādā, Rajab, Sha‘bān, and Ramadān (in Medina). Quraysh made the raid of Uhud in Shawwāl, A.H. 3.
THE BATTLE OF UHUD

I have pieced together the following story about the battle of Uhud, from what I was told by Muhammad b. Muslim al-Zuhri and Muhammad b. Yalyā b. Ḥibbān and 'Āṣim b. Ṭāmār b. Qatāda and Al-Husayn b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. 'Amr b. Sa'd b. Mu'ādh and other learned traditionists. One or the other, or all of them, is responsible for the following narrative.

When the unbelieving Quraysh met disaster at Badr and the survivors returned to Mecca and Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb had returned with his caravan, 'Abdullāh b. Abū Ṣa'bā' and 'Ikrima b. Abū Jahl and Šafwān b. Šumayyah walked with the men whose fathers, sons, and brothers had been killed at Badr, and they spoke to Abū Sufyān and those who had merchandise in that caravan, saying, 'Men of Quraysh, Muhammad has wronged you and killed your best men, so help us with this money to fight him, so that we may hope to get our revenge for those we have lost,' and they did so.

A learned person told me that it was concerning them that God sent down: 'Those who disbelieve spend their money to keep others from the way of God, and they will spend it, then they will suffer the loss of it, then they will be overcome, and those who disbelieve will be gathered to Hell.'

So Quraysh gathered together to fight the apostle when Abū Sufyān did this, and the owners of the caravan, with their black troops, and such of the tribes of Kīnāna as would obey them, and the people of the low country. Now Abū 'Azza al-Jumahl had been spared by the apostle at Badr because he was a poor man with a large family.2 He had been taken prisoner, and said, 'I am a poor man with a large family and great need, as you know, so spare me,' and the apostle let him go. Šafwān said to him, 'Now, Abū 'Azza, you are a poet so help us with your tongue and go forth with us.' He replied, 'Muhammad spared me and I do not want to go against him.' He said, 'No, but help us with your presence, and God is my witness that if I return I will make you rich; and if you are killed I will treat your daughters as my own. What befalls mine, whether good or ill, shall befall yours.' So Abū 'Azza went through the low country calling the B. Kīnāna and saying:

Listen, sons of 'Abdullāh b. Manāt, the steadfast,
You are stout warriors like your father,
Do not promise me your help a year hence,
Do not betray me, for betrayal is not right.3

Musāfī b. 'Abdullāh b. Wahhāb b. Ḥudhāfā b. Jumāh went out to the B. Mālik b. Kīnāna stirring them up and calling them to fight the apostle, saying:

O Mālik, Mālik, foremost in honour,
I ask in the name of kindred and confederate,

Those who are next-of-kin and those who are not,
In the name of the alliance in the midst of the holy city,
At the wall of the venerable Kā'ba.

Jubayr b. Muḥṣim summoned an Abyssinian slave of his called Wāshī, who could throw a javelin as the Abyssinians do and seldom missed the mark. He said, 'Go forth with the army, and if you kill Hāmza, Muhammad's uncle, in revenge for my uncle, Tā'aymā b. 'Adiy, you shall be free.' So Quraysh marched forth with the flower of their army, and their black troops, and their adherents from the B. Kīnāna, and the people of the lowland, and women in howdahs went with them to stir up their anger and prevent their running away. Abū Sufyān, who was in command, went out with Hind d. 'Uṭba, and 'Ikrima b. Abū Jahl went with Umm Ḥakīm d. al-Ḥarīth b. Ḥissām b. al-Mughīrah; and al-Ḥarīth b. Ḥissām b. al-Mughīrah went with Fāṭima d. Al-Walīd b. al-Mughīrah; and Šafwān went with Barza d. Maṣʿūd b. 'Amr b. Umayr the Thaqafī who was the mother of 'Abdullāh b. Šafwān b. Ummayy (584). 'Amr b. al-'Āṣ went with Rāyya d. Munabbīh b. al-Ḥajjāj who was Umm 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr b. Tālha b. Abū Šulaym b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Uthmān b. 'Abdullāh b. Dār went with Sūlāfā d. Sa'd b. Shuwayd al-Šadīrīya who was mother of the sons of Tālha, Musāfī, al-Jalūs and Kīlāb; they were killed with their father that day. Khunās d. Mālik b. al-Munabbī, one of the women of the B. Mālik b. Ḥiss went with her son Abū Azīz b. Umayr. She was the mother of Mūsā b. Umayr. 'Ammā d. Aqīma, one of the women of the B. al-Ḥarīth b. 'Abdullāh b. Kīnāna went out. Whenever Hind passed Wāshī or he passed by her, she would say, 'Come on, you father of blackness, satisfy your vengeance and ours.' Wāshī had the title of Abū Dāsma. They went forward until they halted at 'Aynayn on a hill in the valley of al-Sabkha of Qanāt by the side of the wadi opposite Medina. If you think it well to stop in Medina and leave them where they have encamped, for if they halt they will have halted in a bad position and if they try to enter the city, we can fight them therein, (that is a good plan).2 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy b. Šalāh agreed with the apostle in this, and thought that they should not go out to fight them, and the apostle himself disliked the idea of leaving the city. Some men whom God honoured with martyrdom at Uhud and others who were not present at Badr said, 'O apostle of God, lead us forth to our enemies, lest they think that we are too cowardly and too weak to fight them.' 'Abdullāh said, 'O apostle of God, 1 See M. Hamidullah in R.E.I. 1919, 1-15.
2 T 1387 adds: Quraysh encamped at Uhud on Wednesday and remained there till Friday. When the apostle had finished the Friday prayers he went in the morning to the valley of Uhud and they met on the Saturday half-way through Shawāl.'
to Medina, do not go out to them. We have never gone out to fight an enemy but we have met disaster, and none has come in against us without being defeated, so leave them where they are. If they stay, they stay in an evil predicament, and if they come in, the men will fight them and the women and children will throw stones on them from the walls, and if they retreat they will retreat low-spirited as they came.' Those who wanted to fight Quraysh kept urging the apostle until he went into his house and put on his armour. That was on the Friday when he had finished prayers. On that day one of the Anṣār, Mālik b. 'Amr one of the B. al-Najjār died, and the apostle prayed over him, and then went out to fight. Meanwhile the people had repented of their design, saying they thought they had persuaded the apostle against his will, which they had no right to do, so that when he went out to them they admitted that and said that if he wished to remain inside the city they would not oppose him. The apostle said, 'It is not fitting that a prophet who has put on his armour should lay it aside until he has fought,' so he marched out with a thousand of his companions (583), until when they reached al-Shaut between Medina and Uhud, 'AbdAllah b. Ubayy withdrew with a third of the men, saying, 'He has obeyed them and disobeyed me. We do not know why we should lose our lives here, O men.' So he returned with the wavering and doubtful who followed him, and 'AbdAllah b. 'Amr b. Ḥarīm, brother of the B. al-Salama, followed them, saying, 'O people, I adjure you by God not to abandon your people and your prophet when the enemy is at hand.' They replied, 'If we knew that you would fight we would not abandon you, but we do not think that there will be a battle.' So when they withstood him and persisted in withdrawing, he said, 'May God curse you, you enemies of God, for God will make His prophet independent of you.' Someone, not Ziyād,11 from Muhammad b. Isḥāq from al-Zuhair, said that on that day the Anṣār said, 'O apostle, should we not ask help from our allies, the Jews?' He said, 'We have no need of them.' Ziyād said Muhammad b. Isḥāq told me that the apostle went his way until he passed through the harra of the B. Ḥarīthah and a horse swished its tail and it caught the pommel of a sword so that it came out of its sheath (584). The apostle, who liked auguries, though he did not observe the flight of birds, said to the owner of the sword, 'Sheath your sword, for I can see that swords will be drawn today.'

Then the apostle asked his companions whether anyone could take them near the Quraysh by a road which would not pass by them. Abū Khaythama, brother of B. Ḥarīthah b. al-Ḥarīth, undertook to do so, and he took him through the harra of B. Ḥarīthah and their property until he came out in the territory of Mi'rāb' b. Qayyār who was a blind man, a disaffected person. When he perceived the approach of the apostle and his men he got up and threw dust in their faces saying, 'You may be the apostle of God, but I won't let you through my garden!' I was told that he took a handful of dust and said, 'By God, Muhammad, if I could be sure that I

1 Ziyād b. 'AbdAllah al-Bakkā'ū.
Abo Dujana, Abu Amr al-Buqshani, who was known as Abu Dujana strutting, 'This is a gait which Allah hates except on an occasion like this.'

T. Now Abu Sufyan had sent a messenger saying, 'You men of Aus and Khazraj, leave me to deal with my cousin and we will depart from you, for we have no need to fight you'; but they gave him a rude answer.

'Asim b. 'Umar b. Qatada told me that Abū 'Amir 'Abdu 'l-Dar b. Shayfi b. Mālik b. al-Nu'mān, one of the B. Dubay'a who had separated from the apostle and gone off to Mecca along with fifty young men of al-Aus [T. among whom was 'Uthmān b. Ḥunayf] though some people say there were only fifteen of them, was promising Quraysh that if he met his people no two men of them would exchange blows with him; and when the battle was joined the first one to meet them was Abū 'Amir with the black troops and the slaves of the Meccans, and he cried out, 'O men of Aus, I am Abū 'Amir.' They replied, 'Then God destroy your sight, you impious rascal.' (In the pagan period he was called 'the monk'; the apostle called him 'the impious'.) When he heard their reply he said, 'Evil has befallen my people since I left them.' Then he fought with all his might, peltling them with stones.

Abū Sufyan had said to the standardbearers of the B. 'Abdul-Dār, inciting them to battle, 'O Banū 'Abdul-Dār, you had charge of our flag on the day of Bād— you saw what happened. Men are dependent on the fortunes of their flags, so either you must guard our standard efficiently or you must leave it to us and we will save you the trouble (of defending it). They pondered over the matter and threatened him, saying, 'Are we to surrender our flag to you? You will see tomorrow how we shall act when battle is joined' and that was just what Abū Sufyan wanted. When each side drew near to the other Hind b. Utbah rose up with the women that were with her and took tambourines which they beat behind the men to incite them while Hind was saying:

On ye sons of 'Abdul-Dār,
On protectors of our rear,
Smite with every sharpened spear!

She also said:

If you advance we hug you,
Spread soft rugs beneath you;
If you retreat we leave you,
Leave and no more love you (586).

The people went on fighting until the battle grew hot, and Abū Dujāna fought until he had advanced far into the enemy's ranks (587).

Whenever he met one of the enemy he killed him. Now among the pagans there was a man who dispatched every man of ours he wounded. These two men began to draw near one to the other, and I prayed God that He would make them meet. They did meet and exchanged blows, and the polytheist struck at Abū Dujāna, who warded off the blow with his shield; his sword sank into the shield so that he could not withdraw it, and Abū Dujāna struck him and killed him. Then I saw him as his sword hovered over the head of Hind d. Utbah. Then he turned it aside from her. Al-Zubayr said, 'And I said, "God and His apostle know best."'

Abū Dujāna said, 'I saw a person inciting the enemy, shouting violently, and I made for him, and when I lifted my sword against him, he shrieked, and lo, it was a woman; I respected the apostle's sword too much to use it on a woman.'

Hamza fought until he killed Arṭā b. Abī Shuraḥbih b. Ḥāšhim b. 'Abdu Manāf b. 'Abdu'l-Dār who was one of those who were carrying the standard. Then Sibā' b. 'Abdul-'Uzza al-Ghubshāni, who was known as Abū Niyār, passed by him, and Hamza said, 'Come here, you son of a female circumciser.' Now his mother was Umm Anmār, freedwoman of Sharīq b. Amr b. Wahb al-Thaqafi (588), a female circumciser in Mecca. When they closed Hamza smote him and killed him.

Wāshī, the slave of Jābeyr b. Muṭ'īm, said, 'By God, I was looking at Hamza while he was killing men with his sword, sparing no one, like a huge camel, when Sibā' came up to him before me, and Hamza said, "Come here, you son of a female circumciser," and he struck him a blow so swiftly that it seemed to miss his head. I poised my javelin until I was sure that it would hit the mark, and launched it at him. It pierced the lower part of his body and came out between his legs. He came on towards me, but collapsed and fell. I left him there until he died, when I came and recovered my javelin. Then I went off to the camp, for I had no business with anyone but him.'

'Abdullāh b. al-Fāḍil b. 'Abbās b. Rābi'a b. al-Hārith from Sulaymān b. Yāsir from Ja'far b. Amr b. Umayya al-Dārī told me: 'I went out with 'Ubaydullāh b. Adiy b. al-Khiyār, brother of the B. Naufāl b. 'Abdu Manāf in the time of Mu'awiyah b. Abū Sufyan and we made an excursion with the army. When we came back passed by Him that Wāshī had taken up his abode. When we arrived there 'Ubaydullāh said to me, "Shall we go and see Wāshī and ask him how he killed Hamza?" 'If you like,' I said. So we went to inquire about him in Himṣ. While we were doing so a man said to us, "You will find him in the courtyard of his house. He is a man much addicted to wine; and if you find him sober, you will find an Arab and will get what you want from him in answer to your questions; but if you find him in his usual state, then leave him alone." So we walked off to find him, and there he was in the courtyard of his house upon a

1 In M. (66) the verse given by I. 561 follows here.

2 Almost the same words were used by a woman of B. Ijl at the battle of Dhu Qār. Cf. Nāğī, 641.
The passage in brackets is taken from Yunus' riwaq. It is cited from Suhayli (ii. 132 loco "I Abu 'Amir, Sufyan met in combat, So I told him as I have told Ta'if Waläshi? "Yes,
!Ilamza, Ançar my son I 'yo,," killed him. Sibil', whose uncle Tu'ainma b. 'Adiy had been killed got to him first, and when she swore an oath that if God ever let her get is being washed Jubayr told me that if I and returned to the camp and stayed there, for I had no further business, by God, I was getting ready for him, making towards him and hiding myself behind trees or rocks so that he might come near me, when suddenly Siba' got to him first, and when Hanza saw him, he said, "Come here, you son of a female circumciser., and struck him a blow so swiftly that it seemed to miss his head. I poised my javelin until I was sure that it would hit the mark and launched it at him. It pierced the lower part of his body and came out between his legs, and he began to stagger towards me. Then he collapsed, and I left him with the javelin until he died; then I came back and recovered my javelin, and returned to the camp and stayed there, for I had no further business, and my only object in killing him was that I might be freed. When I returned to Mecca I was freed and lived there until the apostle conquered Mecca, when I fled to al-Ṭa'if, and stayed there for some time. When the envoys of Ṭa'if went out to the apostle to surrender, I was in an impasse and thought that I would go to Syria or the Yaman, or any other country, and while I was in this anxiety a man said to me, "Good heavens, what is the matter? He does not kill anyone who enters his religion and pronounces the shahada." On hearing this I went out of the town to the apostle at Medina, and the first thing to surprise him was to see me standing at his head, witnessing to the truth of God and His apostle. When he saw me he said,
"Is it Wāshhi?" "Yes, O apostle of God," I said. He replied, "Sit down and tell me how you killed Hanza." So I told him as I have told you. When I had finished he said, "Woe to you, hide your face from me and never let me see you again." So I used to avoid the apostle wherever he was so that he should not see me, until God took him.

1 A place in Mecca.
2 Or, perhaps, 'Your feet looked shiny to me'. In what respect this person's feet were not normal is not indicated.
The apostle said, ‘For this reason the angels washed him.’ Shaddād said about his killing Ḥanzala:

I protect my friend and myself
With a thrust that pierces like the rays of the sun.

Abū Sufyān, mentioning his hardihood on that day and the help that Ibn Sha‘ūb gave him against Ḥanzala, said:

Had I wished it my swift bay could have saved me,
And I should owe no thanks to Ibn Sha‘ūb.
It remained but a stone’s throw off
From early morn till set of sun;
I fought them and cried, ‘On, Ghālib’
I beat them from me with firm strength;
Heed not the remonstrance of others,
Grow not weary of tears and sighs,
Weep for thy father and his brothers who have passed away,
Their fate deserves thy tears;
My former sorrow is relieved
Because I killed the best men of Najjār,
And Ḥāshim’s noble stallion and Muṣ‘āb
Who was not cowardly in war.
Had I not slaked my vengeance on them,
My heart had been seared and scarred.
They retired their (Meccan) vagabonds dead
Thrust through, bleeding, prostrate.
Those not their equals in blood smote them
And those who were beneath them in rank (593).

Ibn Sha‘ūb, mentioning the way he helped Abū Sufyān and defended him, said:

Had I not been there and defended you, Ibn Harb,
You would have been left speechless for ever at the mountain foot.

1 Jalālīb is said to mean ‘leather aprons or coverings’, as though it were the plural of jīlābī. Though Meccans exported leather, that can hardly have been matter for reproach because leather was sent to the Negus as a gift known to be highly prized in Abyssinia. Moreover, why should Abū Sufyān reproach his fellow townsmen for wearing garments which presumably differed in no way from those worn by other Meccans? It is clear that the word is an insult, and the question is why? Ḥassān’s poem (W. 738, Dilwān al-cal) attacking the mukhājīrīn begins:

The Jalābīn have become powerful and numerous and I. Salāl (W. 726) uses the same words to express his anger and dislike of the emigrants. Therefore it seems that the origin of the insult is to be sought in jālib ‘a thing driven or brought from one town to another’ and/or jālīb ‘an imported slave’; and so some such word as vagabonds’ is as near as one can get to the meaning. See W. Arafat, The Poems ascribed to Ḥassān ibn Thābit, 146, where he adopts the rendering ‘tramps’.

2 Reading kabība.

3 The meaning would appear to be that the mukhājīrīn were killed by negroes and brigand mercenaries, though there may be a reference to the killing of Ḥamza by Wāshi.
Hassān also said about 'Amra and her raising the standard:

When 'Adal were driven to us
They were like fawns of Shirk¹
With strongly marked eyebrows.
We attacked them thrusting, slaying, chastising,
Driving them before us with blows on every side.
Had not the Hārithite woman seized their standard
They would have been sold in the markets like chattels.

The Muslims were put to flight and the enemy slew many of them. It was a day of trial and testing in which God honoured several with martyrdom, until the enemy got at the apostle who was hit with a stone so that he fell on his side and one of his teeth was smashed, his face scored, and his lip injured. The man who wounded him was 'Utba b. Abū Waqqās.

Humayd al-Ṭawīl told me from Anas b. Mālik: The prophet's incisor was broken on the day of Uhud and his face was scored. The blood began to run down his face and he began to wipe it away, saying the while, 'How can a people prosper who have stained their prophet's face with blood while he summoned them to their Lord?' So God revealed concerning that: 'It is not your affair whether He relents towards them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers²' (598).

Hassān b. Thābit said of 'Utba:

When God recompenses a people for their deeds
And the Rahmān punishes them³
May my Lord disgrace you, 'Utaba b. Mālik,
And bring you a deadly punishment before you die.
You stretched out your hand with evil intent against the prophet,
You blooded his mouth. May your hand be cut off!
Did you forget God and the place you will go to
When the final misfortune overtakes you! (599).

According to what al-Hasayn b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. 'Amr b. Sa'd b. Mu'ādh told me on the authority of Māhmuḍ b. 'Amr, when the enemy hemmed him in, the apostle said: 'Who will sell his life for us?' and Ziyād b. al-Sakān with five of the Anṣār arose. (Others say it was 'Umrā b. Yazīd b. al-Sakān.) They fought in defence of the apostle man after man all until only Ziyād (or 'Umara) was left fighting until he was disabled. At that point a number of the Muslims returned and drove the enemy away from him. The apostle ordered them to bring him to him and made his foot a support for his head and he died with his face on the apostle's foot (600).

¹ A.Dh. gives the forms Shark and Shirk. Yāqūt gives Shark as the name of a place in the Hijaz and Shirk as the name of a waterhole on the other side of the mountain of al-Qūnān in Asad territory. 'Adel is a tribe of Khuzayma.
² Sūra 3. 123.
³ Reading wadarrāhum with C.
answered, 'He said to me in Mecca that he would kill me, and, by God, if he had spat on me he would have killed me.' The enemy of God died in Sarif as they were taking him back to Mecca.

In reference to that Ḥassān b. Thābit said:

Ubayy showed the disbelief inherited from his father
The day the apostle met him in battle.
You came to him carrying a mouldering bone
And threatened him, ignorant of his office.
Banūl-Najjār killed Umayyā from among you
When he called on 'Aqil for help.
Rabi'a's two sons perished when they obeyed Abū Jahl.
Their mother became childless.
Hārith escaped when we were busy taking prisoners.
To capture him was not worth while (604).}

576 Ḥassān b. Thābit also said:

Who will give a message from me to Ubayy?
You have been cast into the nethermost hell;
Long have you pursued error,
Sworn vows that you would win.
Long have you indulged in such hopes,
But unbelief leads to disappointment.
A thrust from an angry warrior found you
One of a noble house, no miscreant.
Who surpasses all other creatures
When misfortunes befall.

When the apostle reached the mouth of the glen 'All came out and filled his shield with water from al-Mihrās and brought it to the apostle, who refused to drink it because its evil smell repelled him. However, he used the water to wash the blood from his face and as he poured it over his head he said: 'The wrath of God is fierce against him who blooded the face of His prophet.'

Ṣāliḥ b. Kaysān told me from an informant who got it from Sa'd b. Abū Waqqāṣ that the latter used to say: 'I was never more eager to kill anyone than I was to kill 'Urba b. Abū Waqqāṣ; he was, as I know, of evil character and hated among his people. It was enough for me (to hate him) that the apostle should say, 'The wrath of God is fierce against him who blooded the face of His prophet'.'

While the apostle was in the glen with a number of his companions suddenly a troop of Quraysh came up the mountain (605). The apostle said, 'O God, it is not fitting that they should be above us,' so 'Umar and a number of emigrants fought until they drove them down the mountain.

The apostle made for a rock on the mountain to climb it. He had become heavy by reason of his age, and moreover he had put on two coats of mail, so when he tried to get up he could not do so. Ṭalḥa b. 'Ubaydullāh squatted beneath him and lifted him up until he settled comfortably upon it.

Yahyā b. 'Abbād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from his father from 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from al-Zubayr said: 'That day I heard the apostle saying 'Ṭalḥa earned paradise when he did what he did for the apostle (606).''

The army had fled away from the apostle until some of them went as far as al-Munaqqa near al-A'waṣ. Ṭāḥim b. 'Umar b. Qatada from al-Tud Busayl and women began to say to him, 'Good news of the garden of paradise when he did what he did for the apostle (606).'

The apostle wanted to pay his blood-money, but Ḥudhayfa gave it as alms to the Muslims and that increased his favour with the apostle.

Ṭāhūt b. Labīd told me that when the apostle went out to Uhud Ḥusayl b. Ṣālim, who was al-Yaman Abū Ḥudhayfa b. al-Yaman, and Thābit b. Waqqāṣ were sent up into the forts with the women and children. They were both old men and one said to the other, 'What are you waiting for, confound you? Neither of us will live much longer.' We are certain to die today or tomorrow, so let us take our swords and join the apostle. Perhaps God will grant us martyrdom with him.' So they took their swords and sailed out until they mingled with the army. No one knew anything about them.

Thābit was killed by the polytheists and Ḥusayl by the swords of the Muslims, who killed him without recognizing him. Ḥudhayfa said, 'It is my father.' They said, 'By God, we did not know him,' and they spoke the truth. Ḥudhayfa said, 'May God forgive you, for He is most compassionate.'

The apostle wanted to pay his blood-money, but Ḥudhayfa gave it as alms to the Muslims and that increased his favour with the apostle.

Ṭāḥim b. Labīd also told me that a man called Ḥāṭib b. Umāyya b. Raḥūt, who had a son called Yazīd, was grievously wounded at Uhud and was brought to his people's settlement at the point of death. His kinmen gathered round and the men and women began to say to him, 'Good news of the garden (of paradise), O son of Ḥāṭib.' Now Ḥāṭib was an old man who had lived long in the heathen period and his hypocrisy appeared then, for he said, 'What good news do you give him? Of a garden of rue?' By God, you have robbed this man of his life by your deception (and brought great sorrow on me.' Ṭāḥim also told me: 'There was a man among us, a stranger of unknown origin called Quzmān. The apostle used to say when he was mentioned, 'He belongs to the people of hell.' On the day of Uhud he fought fiercely and killed seven or eight polytheists single-handed, he being a stout warrior. He was disabled by wounds and carried to the quarter of B. Ṣafar. The Muslims began to say to him, 'You have done gallantly, Quzmān, be of good cheer!' 'Why should 1,' he said, 'I only fought for the honour of my people; but for that I should not have fought.' And when

1 Reading arrut'ahu for urrat'ahu (so Dr. Arafat).
2 According to some commentators this is the name of a well at Uhud. The word itself can mean a stone trough beside a well.
3 The dead were buried with rue at their feet at this time. See Wāqidī, B.M. MS. A. 20737, fol. 63a.
him what had brought him, whether it was concern for his people or goodwill towards Islam. He replied that it was the latter. 'I believed in God and His apostle and became a Muslim. Then I took my sword and fought with the apostle until I met the fate you see.' Soon afterwards he died in their hands. When they mentioned him to the apostle he said, 'Verily, he belongs to the people of paradise.'

My father Ḭisq from shaykhs of the B. Salama told me that 'Amr b. al-Jamāḥ was a man who was very lame. He had four lion-like sons who were present at the apostle's battles. On the day of Uhud they wanted to detain him, saying that God had excused him. He came to the apostle and told him that his sons wanted to keep him back and prevent his joining the army. 'Yet by God, I hope to tread the heavenly garden despite my lameness.' The apostle said, 'God has excused you, and Ḭisq is not incumbent on you.' and to his sons he said, 'You need not prevent him; perhaps God will favour him with martyrdom,' so he went along with him and was killed at Uhud.

According to what Ṣāḥib b. Kaysān told me, Hindi d. ʿUtha and the women with her stopped to mutilate the apostle's dead companions. They cut off their ears and noses and Hind made them into anklets and collars and gave her anklets and collars and pendants to Wāḥsh, the slave of Juyār b. Mūṭṭim. She cut out Ḥamza's liver and chewed it, but she was not able to swallow it and threw it away. Then she mounted a high rock and shrieked at the top of her voice:

We have paid you back for Badr
And a war that follows a war is always violent.
I could not bear the loss of ʿUtha
Nor my brother and his uncle and my first-born.
I have slaked my vengeance and fulfilled my vow.
You, O Wāḥsh, have assuaged the burning in my breast.
I shall thank Wāḥsh as long as I live
Until my bones rot in the grave.

Hindi d. ʿUthātha b. ʿAbbād b. al-Muṭṭalib answered her:

You were disgraced at Badr and after Badr,
O daughter of a despicable man, great only in disbelief.
God brought on you in the early dawn
Tall and white-skinned men from Ḥāshim,
Everyone slashing with his sharp sword:
Ḥamza my lion and 'Ali my falcon.
When Shayba and your father planned to attack me
They reddened their breasts with blood.
Your evil vow was the worst of vows (608).

1 For the words in brackets I. I. has merely 'and killed himself with it'.
2 Sūra 3, 80.
3 This is a repetition of what I. I. said on p. 356: Muʿādh killed Suwayd b. al-Ṣāmīt before Islam. Here he has said that Suwayd's son killed al-Mujaṭḥīdhar and Qays treacherously at Uhud as he said on p. 356. Both here and on p. 356 I. I. agrees that Suwayd's son killed al-Mujaṭḥīdhar and denies that he killed Qays, giving as a proof the fact that I. I. does not mention him among those slain at Uhud. He further asserts that al-Mujaṭḥīdhar had killed Suwayd before Islam. The emphatic way in which I. I. states that Muʿādh killed him (object before subject) would seem to indicate that I. I. knew of the rival story twice repeated by I. H. but stuck to his guns.

The pain of his wounds became unbearable he took an arrow from his quiver, (Ṭ. cut the veins of his wrist, and bled to death. When the apostle was told of this he said "I testify that I am truly God's apostle"). Among those killed at Uhud was (Ṭ. the Jew) Mukhairyiq who was one of the B. Thaʾlabā b. al-Fīṭyīn. On that day he addressed the Jews saying: 'You know that it is your duty to help Muhammad,' and when they replied that it was the Sabbath day, he said, 'You will have no Sabbath,' and taking his sword and accoutrements, he said that if he were slain his property was to go to Muhammad, who could deal with it as he liked. Then he joined the apostle and fought with him until he was killed. I have heard that the apostle said, 'Mukhairyiq is the best of the Jews.'

Al-Ḥārīth b. Suwayd b. Šāmīt was a hypocrite. He went out with the Muslims to Uhud, and when the armies met he attacked al-MuJaṭḥīdhar b. Dhīyād al-Balawī and Qays b. Zayd, one of the B. Dūyā'īn, and killed them. Then he joined the Quraysh in Mecca. Now the apostle, as they say, had ordered ʿUmar to kill him if he got the better of him, but he escaped him and was in Mecca. Then he sent to his brother al-Julūs desiring forgiveness so that he might return to his people, and God sent down His apostle to give a people who have disbelieved after their belief, and after that they have testified that the apostle is true and proofs have been given to them. God will not guide an evil people to the end of the passage (607).

Muʿādh b. ʿAfrāʾ had killed Suwayd b. al-Ṣāmīt treacherously in some other battle. He shot him with an arrow and killed him before the day of Buʿāth. Al-Ḥuṣayn b. ʿAbdull-Raḥmān b. ʿAmr b. Saʿd b. Muʿādh from Abū Sufyān client of Ibn Abū ʿĀhmād from Abū Hurayra said that he used to say: 'Tell me about a man who entered paradise never having prayed in his life,' and when the people did not know, they asked him who it was and he said, ʿUṣayrīm of the B. ʿAbdull-Asbāḥ, ʿAmr b. Thābit b. Waqš. Al-Ḥuṣayn asked Maḥmūd b. Aṣad what were the facts of ʿUṣayrīm, and he replied that in spite of his people he had refused to accept Islam, but on the day that the apostle marched out to Uhud he accepted it. He took his sword, plunged into the heart of the battle, and fought until he was overcome by wounds. While the B. ʿAbdull-Asbāḥ were looking for their dead in the battle suddenly they came upon him and marvelled that he should be there when they had left him showing his dislike for Islam. They asked

1 For the words in brackets I. I. has merely 'and killed himself with it'.
The Life of Muhammad

Hind d. ‘Utba also said:

I slaked my vengeance on Ŧaamza at Uhud.
I split his belly to get at his liver.
This took from me what I had felt
Of burning sorrow and excessive pain,
War will hit you excessive hard
Coming upon you as lions advance.

582 Ŧalîb b. Kaisān told me that he was told that ‘Umar said to Ṣaḥṣan, ‘O Ibn al-Furay’a (609), I wish you had heard what Hind said and seen her arrogance as she stood upon a rock uttering her taunts against us, reminding us of what she had done to Ṣaamza.’ Ṣaḥṣan replied, ‘I was looking at the lance as it fell, while I was on the top of Fārī’—meaning his fort—and I realized that it was not one of the weapons of the Arabs. It seemed to me as though it was directed at Ṣaamza, but I was not sure. But recite me some of her verse: I will rid you of her.’ So ‘Umar quoted some of what she said and Ṣaḥṣan said:

The vile woman was insolent: her habits were vile;
Seeing that disbelief accompanied her insolence (610).

Al-Ṭulays b. Zabbān, brother of the B. al-Ĥārīth b. ‘Abdu Manāh, who was then chief of the black troops, passed by Ābū Sufyān as he was striking the side of Ṣaamza’s mouth with the point of his spear saying, ‘Taste that, you rebel.’ Ṣulays exclaimed, ‘O B. Kīnānā, is this the chief of Quraysh acting thus with his dead cousin as you see?’ He said, ‘Confound you. Keep the matter quiet, for it was a slip.’

When Ābū Sufyān wanted to leave he went to the top of the mountain and shouted loudly saying, ‘You have done a fine work; victory in war goes by turns. Today in exchange for the day (T. of Badr). Show your superiority, Hubal,’ i.e. vindicate your religion. The apostle told ‘Umar to get up and answer him and say, ‘God is most high and most glorious. We are not equal. Our dead are in paradise, your dead in hell.’ At this answer Ābū Sufyān said to ‘Umar, ‘Come here to me.’ The apostle told him to go and see what he was up to. When he came Ābū Sufyān said, ‘I adjure thee by God, ‘Umar, have we killed Muhammad?’ ‘By God, you have not, he is listening to what you are saying now,’ he replied. He said, ‘I regard you as more truthful and reliable than Ibn Qamī’a,’ referring to the latter’s claim that he had killed Muhammad (611).

Then Ābū Sufyān called out, ‘There are some mutilated bodies among your dead. By God, it gives me no satisfaction, and no anger. I neither prohibited nor ordered mutilation.’ When Ābū Sufyān and his companions went away he called out, ‘Your meeting-place is Badr next year.’ The apostle told one of his companions to say, ‘Yes, it is an appointment between us.’

Then the apostle sent ‘Alī to follow the army and see what they were doing and what their intentions were. If they were leading their horses and riding their camels they would be making for Mecca; but if they were riding the horses and driving the camels they would be making for Medina. ‘By God,’ said he, ‘if they make for Medina I will go to them there. Then I will fight them.’ ‘Alī said that he followed their tracks and saw what they were doing. They were leading their horses, riding their camels and going towards Mecca. (T. The apostle had said ‘Whatevcr they do, keep silent about it until you come to me.’ When I saw they had set out for Mecca I came back shouting. I could not hide the fact as the apostle had ordered me because of my joy at seeing them go to Mecca and thus avoiding Medina.)

The people searched for their dead, and the apostle said, according to what Muhammad b. ‘Abdu’l-Ĥārīth b. Abū Ģa’sa’a al-Māsīnī, brother of the B. al-Najjār told me, ‘Who will find out for me what has happened to Sa’d b. al-Raḥīm? Is he alive or among the dead?’ One of the Anṣār volunteered and found him lying wounded among the slain, at the point of death. He told him that the apostle had ordered him to see if he was alive or among the dead. He said, ‘I am among the dead. Convey my greetings to the apostle and say: ‘Sa’d says to you ‘May God reward you by us better than he has rewarded any prophet by his people,’ and give your people a greeting from me and say “You have no excuse with God if anything has happened to your prophet while you can flutter an eyelid,” and straightforwardly he died. He said: ‘I came to the apostle and delivered his message’ (612).

I have been told that the apostle went out seeking Ṣamza and found him at the bottom of the valley with his belly ripped up and his liver missing, and his nose and ears cut off. Muhammad b. Ja’far b. al-Zubayr told me that when he saw this the apostle said: ‘Were it not that I had a claim to victory in the future I would mutilate 30 of their men.’ When the Muslims saw the apostle’s grief and anger against those who had thus treated his uncle, they said, ‘By God, if God gives us victory over them in the future we will mutilate them as no Arab has ever mutilated anyone’ (613).

Burdyā b. Sufyān b. Farwa al-Ĥaslimi from Muhammad b. Ka‘b al-Ĥurraṣi, and a man I have no reason to suspect from Ibn ‘Abbās told me that God sent down concerning the words of the apostle and his companions ‘If you punish, then punish as you have been punished. If you endure patiently that is better for the patient. Endure thou patiently. Thy endurance is only in God. Grieve not for them, and be not in distress at what they plot.’ So the apostle pardoned them and was patient and

This hadith, if it is trustworthy, indicates that the prophet was aware that his every act would form a precedent for future generations. However, it is possible that the four words in the Arabic text have been added.

1 Sura 16, 127.
from Ibn 'Abbas, told me that the apostle ordered that I;lamza should be wrapped in a mantle; then he prayed over him and said 'Allah Akbar' seven times. Then the dead were brought and placed beside Hamza and he prayed over them all until he had prayed seventy-two prayers.

According to what I have been told Ṣafiya d. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib came forward to look at him. He was her full-brother and the apostle said to her son, al-Zubayr b. al-'Awwām, 'Go to meet her and take her back so that she does not see what has happened to her brother.' He said to her, 'Mother, the apostle orders you to go back.' She said, 'Why? I have heard that my brother has been mutilated and that for God's sake [T. is a small thing]. He has fully reconciled us to what has happened. I will be calm and patient if God will.' When Zubayr returned to the prophet and reported this to him he told him to leave her alone; so she came and looked at Hamza and prayed over him and said, 'We belong to God and to God do we return,' and she asked God's forgiveness for him. Then the apostle ordered that he should be buried. The family of 'Abdullah b. Jaḥš, who was the son of Umayma d. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib, Hamza being his maternal uncle, and he having been mutilated in the same way as Hamza except that his liver had not been taken out, asserted that the apostle buried him in the same grave with Hamza; but I heard that story only from his family.

Now some Muslims had carried their dead to Medina and buried them there. The apostle forbade this and told them to bury where they lay. Muhammad b. Musliμ al-Zuhri from 'Abdullah b. Tha'laba b. Ṣu‘ayr al-'Udhri, an ally of the B. Zuhra, told me that the apostle said when he looked down on the slain at Uhud: 'I testify concerning these that there is none wounded for God's sake but God will raise him on the resurrection day with his wounds bleeding, the colour that of blood, the smell like musk; look for the one who has collected most of the Quran and put him in front of his companions in the grave.' They were burying two and three in one grave.

My uncle Mūsā b. Yasār told me that he heard Abū Hurayra say: Abūl-Qāsim said, 'There is none wounded for God's sake but God will raise him on the resurrection day with his wounds bleeding, the colour that of blood, the smell like musk.'

My father Iḥsān b. Yasār told me on the authority of shaykhs of the B. Salama that when the apostle ordered the dead to be buried he said, 'Look out for 'Amr b. al-Jamīḥ and 'Abdullah b. 'Amr b. Ḥarām; they were close friends in this world, so put them in one grave.' (T. When Mu'āwiyah dug the canal and they were exhumed they were as free from rigor mortis as though buried but yesterday.) Then the apostle went back on his way to Medina and there met him Ḥamza d. Jaḥš, so I have been told. As she met the army she was told of the death of her brother 'Abdullah and she exclaimed, 'We belong to God and to God we return,' and asked forgiveness for him. Then she was told of the death of her maternal uncle Ḥamza, and uttered the same words. Then she was told of the death of her husband Muṣ'ab b. Umray and she shrieked and wailed. The apostle said: 'The woman's husband holds a special place with her, as you can see from her self-control at the death of her brother and uncle and her shrieking over her husband.'

The apostle passed by one of the settlements of the Anṣār of the B. 'Abdu'l-Ashthal and Zafar and he heard the sound of weeping and wailing over the dead. The apostle's eyes filled with tears and he wept and said, 'But there are no weeping women for Ḥamza.' When Sa'd b. Mu'ādh and Usayd b. Hudayr came back to the quarter, they ordered their women to gird themselves and go and weep for the apostle's uncle.

Hakim b. Hākim b. 'Abbād b. Ḥunayf from a man of the B. 'Abdu'l-Ashthal told me: 'When the apostle heard their weeping over Ḥamza at the door of his mosque he said: "Go home; may God have mercy on you; you have been a real help by your presence."' (614).

'Abdu'l-Walīd b. Abū 'Aun from Ismā'īl b. Muhammad from Sa'd b. Abū Waqqās told me that the apostle passed by a woman of the B. Dīnār whose husband, brother, and father had been killed at Uhud, and when she was told of their death she asked what had happened to the apostle, and when they replied that thanks to God he was safe, she asked that she might see him for herself. When he was pointed out to her she said, 'Every misfortune now that you are safe is negligible' (using the word jalāl in the sense of 'small') (615).

When the apostle rejoined his family he handed his sword to his daughter Fāṭima, saying, 'Wash the blood from this, daughter, for by God it has served me well today.' 'Ali also handed her his sword and said, 'This one too, wash the blood from it, for by God it has served me well today.' The apostle said, 'If you have fought well, Sa'd b. Ḥunayf and Abū Dujāna fought well with you' (616).

The battle was fought on the sabbath in mid-Shawwāl; and on the morning of Sunday the 16th of the month the apostle's crier called to the men to go in pursuit of the enemy and announced that none should go out with us unless he had been present at the battle on the preceding day. Jābir b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr b. Ḥarām said, 'O apostle of God, my father left me behind to look after my seven sisters, saying that it was not right for us both to leave the women without a man and that he was not one to give me the precedence in fighting with the apostle. So I stayed behind to look after them.' The apostle gave him permission to go and he went out with him. The apostle merely marched out as a demonstration against the enemy to let them know that he was pursuing them so that they might think he was in strength, and that their losses had not weakened them.

'Abdullah b. Khārija b. Zayd b. Thābit from Abū l-Sa‘īd b. Ubayy, a freed slave of ‘A‘ishah d. Uthmān, told me that one of the apostle’s companions from the B. Abūl-Ashshāh, who had been present at Uhud, said, 'I and one of my brothers were present at Uhud and we came back wounded. When the apostle’s crier announced that we must pursue the enemy, I said to my brother or he said to me, 'Are we going to stay away from an expedition with the apostle? We have no beast to ride and are severely wounded.' However, we marched out with the apostle and since my wound was less severe, when he was enfeebled I put him on the beast for a time and we walked and rode turn and turn about until we came up to where the Muslims had halted.'

The apostle went as far as Hamrā‘ul-Asad, about eight miles from Medina (617). He stayed the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, and then returned to Medina.

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that Ma‘bad b. Abū Ma‘bad al-Khuṣayn passed by him. The Khuṣayn, both their Muslims and polytheists, were confidants of the apostle in Tihāmah, they having agreed that they would not conceal from him anything that happened there. Now at this time Ma‘bad was a polytheist and he said, 'Muḥammad, we are distressed at what has happened to you [T. with your companions] and we wish that God would preserve you among them.' Then he went out while the apostle was in Hamrā‘ul-Asad until he met Abū Sufyān and his men in al-Rauhah when they had determined to come back to the apostle and his companions. They said, 'We have killed the best of his companions, their leaders and their nobles. Shall we then go back before we have exterminated them? Let us return to the survivors and make an end of them.' When Abū Sufyān saw Ma‘bad he said, 'What is the news?' He replied, 'Muḥammad has come out with his companions to pursue you with an army whose like I have never seen, burning with anger against you. Those who stayed behind when you fought them have joined him; they are sorry for what they did and are violently enraged against you. Never have I seen anything like it.' He said, 'Confound you, what are you saying?' He answered, 'By God, I do not think that you will move off before you see the forelocks of the cavalry.' He replied, 'But we have determined to attack them to exterminate their survivors.' He answered, 'But I would advise against that. What I saw induced me to utter some verses about them.' When he asked what they were, he recited:

My mount almost fell with fright at the clamour
When the ground flowed with horses of horse
Hastening with noble lion-like warriors
Eager for the fray; firm in the saddle; fully armed.

The day of Uhud was a day of trial, calamity, and heart-searching on which God tested the believers and put the hypocrites on trial, those who professed faith with their tongue and hid unbelief in their hearts; and a day in which God honoured with martyrdom those whom He willed.

PASSAGES IN THE QURAN WHICH DEAL WITH UHUD

Abū Muhammad ‘Abdu‘l-Malik b. Hishām told us from Ziyād b. ‘Abdul-lah al-Bakkāʾī from Muḥammad b. Ḥishāq al-Muṭṭalibī: There are sixty verses in 'The Family of Imran' which God sent down concerning the day of Uhud in which there is a description of what happened on that day and the blame of those who merited His rebuke.

God said to His prophet: 'And when you went forth early from your family you assigned to the believers positions for the fighting, God hearing and knowing' (619). 'Hearing' what you said; 'knowing' about what you were concealing.

'When two parties of you thought they would fail,' i.e. of deserting; and the two parties were the B. Salima b. Jusham b. al-Khazraj and the B.
Hārista b. al-Nabīt of al-Aus, they being the two wings.

God said: 'And God was their friend,' i.e. God protected them from the cowardice they meditated because it was only the result of weakness and feebleness which overcame them, not doubt in their religion, so He thrust that from them in His mercy and pardon so that they were saved from their weakness and feebleness and stuck to their prophet (620).

God said: 'Upon God let the believers rely,' i.e. the believer who is weak let him rely on Me and ask My help. I will help him in his affair and protect him until I bring him to his appointed time of life and ward off evil from him and strengthen him in his purpose.

'God helped you at Badr when you were contemptible, so fear God that you may be thankful,' i.e. fear Me, for that is gratitude for My kindness.

'God helped you at Badr' when your numbers and strength were inferior
'then thou didst say to the believers: 'Is it not enough for you that your Lord reinforced you with three thousand angels sent down?' Nay, if you are steadfast and fear God and they come on you suddenly your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked,' i.e. if you are steadfast against My enemy and obey My command and they come on you recklessly
I will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked (622).

'God did this only as good news for you that your hearts might be at rest therein. Victory comes only from God, the Mighty the Wise,' i.e. I mentioned the armies of My angels only as good news for you and that your hearts might be at rest therein, because I know your weakness and victory comes only from Me because of My sovereignty and power for the reason that power and authority belong to Me, not to any one of my creatures.

Then He said: 'And when you went forth early from your family you assigned to the believers positions for the fighting, God hearing and knowing' (619). 'Hearing' what you said; 'knowing' about what you were concealing.

'When two parties of you thought they would fail,' i.e. of deserting; and the two parties were the B. Salima b. Jusham b. al-Khazraj and the B.
Hārista b. al-Nabīt of al-Aus, they being the two wings.

God said: 'And God was their friend,' i.e. God protected them from the cowardice they meditated because it was only the result of weakness and feebleness which overcame them, not doubt in their religion, so He thrust that from them in His mercy and pardon so that they were saved from their weakness and feebleness and stuck to their prophet (620).

God said: 'Upon God let the believers rely,' i.e. the believer who is weak let him rely on Me and ask My help. I will help him in his affair and protect him until I bring him to his appointed time of life and ward off evil from him and strengthen him in his purpose.

'God helped you at Badr when you were contemptible, so fear God that you may be thankful,' i.e. fear Me, for that is gratitude for My kindness.

'God helped you at Badr' when your numbers and strength were inferior
'then thou didst say to the believers: 'Is it not enough for you that your Lord reinforced you with three thousand angels sent down?' Nay, if you are steadfast and fear God and they come on you suddenly your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked,' i.e. if you are steadfast against My enemy and obey My command and they come on you recklessly
I will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked (622).

'God did this only as good news for you that your hearts might be at rest therein. Victory comes only from God, the Mighty the Wise,' i.e. I mentioned the armies of My angels only as good news for you and that your hearts might be at rest therein, because I know your weakness and victory comes only from Me because of My sovereignty and power for the reason that power and authority belong to Me, not to any one of my creatures.

Then He said: 'And when you went forth early from your family you assigned to the believers positions for the fighting, God hearing and knowing' (619). 'Hearing' what you said; 'knowing' about what you were concealing.

'When two parties of you thought they would fail,' i.e. of deserting; and the two parties were the B. Salima b. Jusham b. al-Khazraj and the B.
Hārista b. al-Nabīt of al-Aus, they being the two wings.

God said: 'And God was their friend,' i.e. God protected them from the cowardice they meditated because it was only the result of weakness and feebleness which overcame them, not doubt in their religion, so He thrust that from them in His mercy and pardon so that they were saved from their weakness and feebleness and stuck to their prophet (620).

God said: 'Upon God let the believers rely,' i.e. the believer who is weak let him rely on Me and ask My help. I will help him in his affair and protect him until I bring him to his appointed time of life and ward off evil from him and strengthen him in his purpose.

'God helped you at Badr when you were contemptible, so fear God that you may be thankful,' i.e. fear Me, for that is gratitude for My kindness.

'God helped you at Badr' when your numbers and strength were inferior
'then thou didst say to the believers: 'Is it not enough for you that your Lord reinforced you with three thousand angels sent down?' Nay, if you are steadfast and fear God and they come on you suddenly your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked,' i.e. if you are steadfast against My enemy and obey My command and they come on you recklessly
I will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked (622).

'God did this only as good news for you that your hearts might be at rest therein. Victory comes only from God, the Mighty the Wise,' i.e. I mentioned the armies of My angels only as good news for you and that your hearts might be at rest therein, because I know your weakness and victory comes only from Me because of My sovereignty and power for the reason that power and authority belong to Me, not to any one of my creatures.

Then He said: 'And when you went forth early from your family you assigned to the believers positions for the fighting, God hearing and knowing' (619). 'Hearing' what you said; 'knowing' about what you were concealing.

'When two parties of you thought they would fail,' i.e. of deserting; and the two parties were the B. Salima b. Jusham b. al-Khazraj and the B.
Hārista b. al-Nabīt of al-Aus, they being the two wings.

God said: 'And God was their friend,' i.e. God protected them from the cowardice they meditated because it was only the result of weakness and feebleness which overcame them, not doubt in their religion, so He thrust that from them in His mercy and pardon so that they were saved from their weakness and feebleness and stuck to their prophet (620).

God said: 'Upon God let the believers rely,' i.e. the believer who is weak let him rely on Me and ask My help. I will help him in his affair and protect him until I bring him to his appointed time of life and ward off evil from him and strengthen him in his purpose.

'God helped you at Badr when you were contemptible, so fear God that you may be thankful,' i.e. fear Me, for that is gratitude for My kindness.

'God helped you at Badr' when your numbers and strength were inferior
'then thou didst say to the believers: 'Is it not enough for you that your Lord reinforced you with three thousand angels sent down?' Nay, if you are steadfast and fear God and they come on you suddenly your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked,' i.e. if you are steadfast against My enemy and obey My command and they come on you recklessly
I will reinforce you with five thousand angels clearly marked (622).

'God did this only as good news for you that your hearts might be at rest therein. Victory comes only from God, the Mighty the Wise,' i.e. I mentioned the armies of My angels only as good news for you and that your hearts might be at rest therein, because I know your weakness and victory comes only from Me because of My sovereignty and power for the reason that power and authority belong to Me, not to any one of my creatures.

Then He said: 'And when you went forth early from your family you assigned to the believers positions for the fighting, God hearing and knowing' (619). 'Hearing' what you said; 'knowing' about what you were concealing.

'When two parties of you thought they would fail,' i.e. of deserting; and the two parties were the B. Salima b. Jusham b. al-Khazraj and the B.
Hārista b. al-Nabīt of al-Aus, they being the two wings.

God said: 'And God was their friend,' i.e. God protected them from the cowardice they meditated because it was only the result of weakness and feebleness which overcame them, not doubt in their religion, so He thrust that from them in His mercy and pardon so that they were saved from their weakness and feebleness and stuck to their prophet (620).

God said: 'Upon God let the believers rely,' i.e. the believer who is weak let him rely on Me and ask My help. I will help him in his affair and protect him until I bring him to his appointed time of life and ward off evil from him and strengthen him in his purpose.

'God helped you at Badr when you were contemptible, so fear God that you may be thankful,' i.e. fear Me, for that is gratitude for My kindness.
Then He said: 'This is a plain statement to men and guidance and admonition to those that fear God,' i.e. this is an explanation to men if they receive guidance; 'and guidance and admonition,' i.e. a light and discipline 'to those who fear,' i.e. to those who obey Me and know My commandment; 'and do not wax faint or be sad,' i.e. do not become weak and despair at what has befallen you 'you being the superiors,' i.e. you will have the victory 'if you believe,' i.e. if you had believed in what My prophet brought from Me. 'If you have received a shock the (Meccan) army received a shock likewise,' i.e. wounds like yours. 'These are days which We alternate among men,' i.e. we change them among men for trial and search; 'and that God may know those who believe and may choose martyrs from among you, and God loves not wrongdoers,' i.e. to distinguish between believers and hypocrites and to honour some of the faithful with martyrdom. 'And God loves not wrongdoers,' i.e. the hypocrites who profess obedience with their tongues while their hearts are firm in disobedience; 'and that God may try those who believe,' i.e. put to the test those who believe, so that He may purify them by the misfortune which came upon them, and their constancy and certainty; 'and confound the disbelievers,' i.e. bring to naught what the hypocrites say with their tongues that is not in their hearts until He brings to light their disbelief which they are concealing.

Then He said: 'Or do you think that you will enter the garden when God does not yet know those of you who are energetic and steadfast?' i.e. Do you think that you will enter the garden and receive the honour of My reward when I have not tested you with hardship and tried you with misfortune so that I may know your loyalty by faith in Me and steadfastness in what has befallen you through Me? 'And you used to wish' for martyrdom when you were in the way of truth before you met your enemy. He means those who urged the apostle to take them out against the disbelievers as you once were and abandon the fight with your enemy, and 'he who desires this world having no desire for the next We will give him his allotted portion of sustenance and nothing more and he has no share in the next world; and he who desires the reward of the next world We will give him what he has been promised together with his reward of sustenance in this world. That is the reward of the thankful, i.e. the pious.

Then He said: 'And with how many a prophet have myriads been slain and they waxed not faint at what befell them in the way of God and were not weak nor humiliated for God loves the steadfast,' i.e. how many a prophet has death (in battle) befallen and many myriads with him, i.e. a multitude, and they waxed not faint at the loss of their prophet nor showed weakness towards their enemies and were not humiliated when they suffered in the fight for God and their religion. That is steadfastness and God loves the steadfast. 'All that they said was, Forgive us our sins, O Lord, and our wasted effort in our affair; make our feet firm and give us the victory over a disbelieving people' (623), i.e. say what they said and know that that is for your sins, and ask His forgiveness as they did, and practise your religion as they did, and be no renegades turning back on your heels; and ask Him to make your feet firm as they did; and ask His help as they did against a disbelieving people. For all that they said actually happened and their prophet was killed, yet they did not do what you did. So God gave them the reward of this world by victory over their enemy and a fine reward in the hereafter with what He had promised therein, for God loves those who do well.

'O you who believe, if you obey those who disbelieve they will turn you back on your heels and you will return as losers,' i.e. from your enemy, and will lose this world and the next. 'But God is your protector and He is the best of helpers.' If what you say with your tongues is true in your hearts then hold fast to Him and ask victory only of Him and do not turn back, withdrawing from His religion. 'We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve,' i.e. that by which I was helping you against them because they associated with Me that for which I gave them no warrant; i.e. do not think that they will have the final victory over you, while you hold fast to Me and follow My commandment, because of the disaster which befell you through sins which you committed whereby you went against My commandment in disobedience and also disobeyed the prophet. 'God fulfilled His promise when you routed them by His leave until you failed and disagreed about the order and were disobedient after He had shown you what you were desiring. Some of you desired this world and some desired the hereafter. Then He made you flee from them that He might try you. Yet He forgave you, for God is full of kindness to the believers,' i.e. I carried out My promise to give you victory over your enemy when you routed them with the sword, i.e. killing them by My permission and My giving you power over them and keeping them from you (624). 'Until you failed,' i.e. deserted and disagreed about the order; i.e. you disputed about My order, i.e. you abandoned the order of your prophet and what he had told you to do, meaning the archers. 'After He had shown you what you were desiring,' i.e. victory about which there was no doubt and the flight of the (Meccan) army from their wives and property. 'Some of you desired this world,' i.e. those who desired the spoil in this world and abandoned their orders which carried the reward of the hereafter; 'and some of you desired the hereafter,' i.e. those who fought for God's sake and did not transgress in going after what they had been forbidden for an accident of this world out of desire for it, hoping for the fine reward that is with God hereafter; i.e. those who fought for religion and did not transgress in going after what they had been forbidden for an accident of this world. 'To try you' for some of your sins. God pardoned the great sin in that He did not destroy you for having disobeyed your prophet. But I restored My kindness to you. 'And thus God favours the believers.' He punished some sins at once in this world by way of discipline and admonition, but He did not exterminate all for the debt they owed Him because they suffered for disobeying Him, out of mercy to them and as a reward for such faith as they had.

Then He reproached them for running away from their prophet and paying no heed when he called to them: 'When you climbed up and paid no heed to any one while the apostle was calling behind you, He rewarded you with grief for grief, that you might not be sad for what you missed and for what befell you,' i.e. grief after grief by the killing of some of your brethren and your enemy getting the better of you, and what you felt when someone said your prophet had been killed. That was what brought grief for grief to you so that you might not be sad over the victory you had missed after you had seen him with your own eyes, nor over the death of your brethren until I gave you ease of that sorrow. 'And God is informed of what you do.' God comforted them from the sorrow and grief which they suffered in rebutting the lie of Satan that their prophet had been killed; and when they saw the apostle alive among them what they had missed from the Meccans after the victory over them and their disaster in the loss of their brethren became easy to bear when God had turned death aside from their prophet.

Then He said: '0 you who believe, be not like those who disbelieved and said of their brethren who journeyed through the land or were raiding that they had been with us, they would not have died or been killed that God may make that sorrow in their hearts. God gives life and causes death and God is a seer of what you do,' i.e. be not like the hypocrites who forbid their brethren to war for God's sake and to travel through the land in obedience to God and His apostle and say when they die or are killed, 'Had they obeyed us, they would not have died or been killed.' 'That God may make that sorrow in their heart' because of their lack of certainty in their Lord. 'God gives life and causes death,' i.e. their earthly stay is shortened or prolonged by His power as He wishes. Then God said: 'If you are slain for God's sake or die, pardon from God and mercy are better than what you amassed,' i.e. there is no escape from death, so death for God's sake or death in battle is better even if they had known and been certain of what they would amass from the world for which they hold back from fighting in fear of death and battle because of what they have amassed from the splendour of this world, not desiring the hereafter. 'If you die or are slain,' whichever it may be, 'surely to God will you be gathered,' i.e. to God you must return. Let not the world deceive you and be not deceived by it. Let fighting and the reward which God holds out to you have more weight with you than that.

Then he said: 'It was by the mercy of God that thou wast lenient to them. Hadst thou been stern and rough, they would have dispersed and been no longer round thee,' i.e. they would have left you. 'So forgive them,' i.e. about God thoughts of heathen days, saying, Have we anything to do with the matter? Say, the whole matter belongs to God. They hide in themselves what they do not reveal to thee. They say, If we had had anything to do with the matter we should not have been killed here. Say: Had you been in your houses, those whose slaying has been written would have gone forth to the places where they were to lie. (This has happened) that God might test what is in your breasts and prove what is in your hearts, for God knows about what is in the breasts.' God sent down sleep in security upon the people who were confident in Him and they slept unafraid; while the hypocrites whose thoughts troubled them, thinking wrongly about God thoughts of heathen days, were afraid of death because they had no hope in the final result. God mentioned their recriminations and sorrow at what befell them. Then He said to His prophet, 'Say "Had you been in your houses,"' you would not have been in this place in which God has made plain your secret thoughts 'those whose slaying has been written would have gone forth to the places where they were to lie' to some other place where they would have been slain so that He might test what was in their breasts and prove what was in their hearts, for God knows what is in the breasts,' i.e. what is in their breasts which they try to conceal from you is not hidden from Him.

Then He said: '0 you who believe, be not like those who disbelieved and said of their brethren who journeyed through the land or were raiding that they had been with us, they would not have died or been killed that God may make that sorrow in their hearts. God gives life and causes death and God is a seer of what you do,' i.e. be not like the hypocrites who forbid their brethren to war for God's sake and to travel through the land in obedience to God and His apostle and say when they die or are killed, 'Had they obeyed us, they would not have died or been killed.' 'That God may make that sorrow in their heart' because of their lack of certainty in their Lord. 'God gives life and causes death,' i.e. their earthly stay is shortened or prolonged by His power as He wishes. Then God said: 'If you are slain for God's sake or die, pardon from God and mercy are better than what you amassed,' i.e. there is no escape from death, so death for God's sake or death in battle is better even if they had known and been certain of what they would amass from the world for which they hold back from fighting in fear of death and battle because of what they have amassed from the splendour of this world, not desiring the hereafter. 'If you die or are slain,' whichever it may be, 'surely to God will you be gathered,' i.e. to God you must return. Let not the world deceive you and be not deceived by it. Let fighting and the reward which God holds out to you have more weight with you than that.

Then he said: 'It was by the mercy of God that thou wast lenient to them. Hadst thou been stern and rough, they would have dispersed and been no longer round thee,' i.e. they would have left you. 'So forgive them,' i.e.
overlook their offence, 'and ask pardon for them and consult them about the matter. When thou art resolved put thy trust in God, for God loves those who trust.' He reminded His prophet of his leniency to them, and his patience with them in their weakness and their lack of patience had he treated them harshly for all their opposition when there was laid upon them the duty of obeying their prophet. Then He said: 'So forgive them,' i.e. overlook their offence 'and ask pardon' for their sins: the people of faith who did wrong. 'And consult them about the matter' to show them that you listen to them and ask their help, even if you are independent of them, thereby making their religion agreeable to them. 'And when thou art resolved' on a matter which has come from Me and a matter of religion concerning fighting your enemy when only that will bring you and them advantage, then do as you have been ordered despite the opposition of those who oppose you and in agreement with those who agree with you. 'And trust in God,' i.e. please Him rather than men. 'God loves them that trust. If God helps you none can overcome you; if He forsakes you, who thereafter can help you?' i.e. so that you do not leave My command for men, and forsake men's orders for Mine. On God, not on men, let believers trust.

Then He said: 'It is not for any prophet to deceive. Whoso deceives will bring his deceit with him on the day of resurrection. Then every soul will be paid in full what it has earned and they will not be wronged.' It is not for a prophet to conceal from men what he has been ordered to reveal either out of fear or desire to please them. Whoso does that will bring it with him on the day of resurrection; then he will be repaid what he has earned not wronged nor defrauded. 'Is one who follows the pleasure of God' whether men like it or not 'like one who has incurred God's displeasure?' by pleasing or displeasing men. He says, Is one who obeys Me whose reward is the garden and the goodwill of God like one who has incurred God's anger and deserves His anger, whose home is hell and a miserable end? Are the two examples the same? So know 'There are degrees with God and God is a seer of what they do' of all the degrees of what they do in paradise and hell, i.e. God knows those who obey and those who disobey Him.

Then He said: 'God showed favour to the believers when He sent among them an apostle from among themselves who recited to them His verses and purified them and taught them the book and wisdom, though before they were in obvious error.' God favoured you, O people of the faith, when He sent among you an apostle of your own, reciting to you His verses concerning what you did, and teaching you good and evil that you might know the good and do it; and the evil and guard yourselves against it, and telling you of His pleasure with you when you obeyed Him; that you might gain much from obeying Him and avoid the wrath proceeding from disobedience that thereby you might escape His vengeance and obtain the reward of His garden. 'Though before you were in obvious error,' i.e. in the blindness of paganism not knowing what was good nor asking pardon for evil—dumb to the right, blind to guidance.

Then He mentioned the catastrophe that befell them: 'And was it so when a catastrophe befell you though you had smitten (them) with a disaster twice as great you said: How is this? Say: It is from yourselves. God is able to do all things.' Though a catastrophe befell you in the death of your brethren because of your sins, before that you had smitten your enemy with double that on the day of Badr in slaying and taking prisoners; and you have forgotten your disobedience and your opposition to what your prophet commanded you. You have brought that on yourselves. 'God is able to do all things.' God is able to do what He wills with His servants in taking vengeance or pardoning. 'And what befell you on the day the two armies met was by God's permission and that He might know the believers.' What befell you when you and your enemy met was by My permission. That happened when you acted as you did after My help had come to you and I had fulfilled my promise to you to distinguish between believers and hypocrites and to know those who were hypocrites among you, i.e. to make plain what was in them. 'And it was said to them, Come, fight for God's sake or defend,' meaning 'Abdullah b. Ubayy and his companions who went back from the apostle when he went against his polytheistic enemies at Uhud and their words: 'If we knew that you were going to fight we would go with you and would defend you; but we do not think that there will be a fight.' So he showed what they were hiding within them.

God said: 'They were nearer to disbelief than to faith that day saying with their mouths what was not in their hearts,' i.e. showing you faith which was not in their hearts 'but God knows best about what they conceal,' i.e. what they hide, 'who said of their brethren' who belonged to their families and people who were killed in your company, 'Had they obeyed us they would not have been killed. Say: Then avert death from yourselves if you are truthful,' i.e. there is no escape from death, but if you are able to keep death away from you then do so. 'This was because they were hypocritical and left fighting for God's sake, eager to survive in this world and fleeing from death.'

Then He said to His prophet to make the believers wish to fight and desire battle: 'And do not think that those who were killed for God's sake are dead, nay they are alive with their Lord being nourished, glad with the bounty that God has brought them and rejoicing in those who have not yet joined them that they have nothing to fear or grieve over,' i.e. Do not think that those who were killed for God's sake are dead, i.e. I have brought them to life again and they are with Me being nourished in the rest and bounty of the Garden, rejoicing in the bounty that God has brought them for their striving on His account, and happy about those who have not yet joined them, i.e. glad when those of their brethren join them on account of their effort in war that they will share with them in the reward that God has given them, God having removed from them fear and sorrow.
God says: 'Rejoicing in the favour and bounty of God and that God does not waste the wages of the believers' because they have seen the fulfilment of the promise and the great reward.

Ismā‘il b. Umayya told me from Abūl-Zubayr from Ibn 'Abbās: The apostle said when your brethren were slain at Uhud, 'God has put their spirits in the crops of green birds which come down to the rivers of the Garden; they eat of its fruits and come home to where there are golden candlesticks in the shadow of the throne; and when they experience the goodly drink and food and their beautiful resting-place they say: Would that our brethren knew what God has done with us that they might not dislike fighting and shrink from war!' And God says 'I will tell them of you' so He sent down to His apostle these verses 'And do not think,' &c.

Al-Hārith b. al-Puḍayl told me from Maḥmūd b. Labīd al-Anṣārī from Ibn 'Abbās: The martyrs are at Bāriq, a river at the gate of the Garden, in a green tent, their provision coming out to them morning and evening.

One whom I do not suspect told me from 'Abdullah b. Mas‘ūd that he was asked about these verses 'Do not think,' &c., and he said, We asked about them and we were told that when your brethren were slain at Uhud God put their spirits in the crops of green birds which come down to the rivers of the Garden and eat of its fruits and come home to where there are golden candlesticks in the shade of the throne and God takes one look at them and says: 'O My servants, What do you wish that I should give you more?' And they say, 'O our Lord, there is nothing beyond the Garden which Thou hast given us from which we eat when we please.' After the question has been put three times they say the same, adding, 'except that we would like our spirits to return to our bodies and then return to the earth and fight for Thee until we are killed again.'

One of our companions told me from 'Abdullah b. Muhammad b. 'Aqil from Jābir b. 'Abdullah: The apostle said to me, 'I will give you good news, Jābir. God has restored to life your father who was killed at Uhud.' Then he asked him what he would like Him to do for him and he said that he would like to return to the world and fight for Him and be killed a second time.

'Amr b. 'Ubayd told me from al-Hasan that the apostle swore that there was no believer who had parted from the world and wanted to return to it for a single hour even if he could possess it with all it has except the martyr who would like to return and fight for God and be killed a second time.

Then God said, 'Those who responded to God and His apostle after harm had befallen them,' i.e. wounds. They are the believers who went with the apostle on the morrow of Uhud to Hamrā‘ul-Asad in spite of the pain of their wounds, 'for those of them who do well and are pious there is a great reward; those to whom men said: The men (of Mecca) have gathered against you so fear them, and that but increased their faith and they said, Allah is sufficient for us and a fine one in whom to trust.' The men who said that were a number of 'Abdu'l-Qays to whom Abū Sufyān spoke. They said: 'Abū Sufyān and his company are certainly coming back to you.' God says, 'So they returned with God's grace and favour. Harm did not befall them and they followed God's pleasure and God is of great bounty in that He turned away their enemy so that they did not meet him. It is only the devil,' i.e. those men and what Satan put into their mouths, 'who would make men fear his adherents,' i.e. frighten you by means of his adherents. 'But fear them not and fear Me if you are believers. Let not those who vie in running to disbelief grieve you,' i.e. the hypocrites, 'they can in no wise injure God. God wills not to assign them a portion in the next world where they will have a painful punishment. Those who buy infidelity with faith will in no wise injure God: they will have a painful punishment. Let not those who dislike think that the respite We give them is good for them. We give them a respite only that they may increase in trespass. Theirs is an ignominious punishment. It is not God's purpose to leave the believers as you are till He shall separate the evil from the good,' i.e. the hypocrites. 'And it is not God's purpose to let you know the unseen,' i.e. what He wills to try you with that you may take heed of what comes to you. 'But God chooses whom He will of His messengers,' i.e. He lets him know that 'So believe in God and His messengers and if you believe and are pious,' i.e. return and repent 'then you will have a great reward.'

THE NAMES OF THE MUSLIMS WHO WERE MARTYRED AT UHUD

The Muslims who were martyred at Uhud in the company of the apostle were as follows:

Of the Ḥanīfīs: of B. 'Abdu'l-Asḥāḥ: 'Amr b. Mu‘ādh; al-Hāriṭ b. Anas b. Rāf‘ī; and 'Umāra b. Ziyād b. al-Sakan (623); Salama b. Thābit b. Waqṣ and 'Amr his brother ('Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatādā asserted to me that their father Thābit was killed that day); and Riḍa b. Waqṣ; and Ḥusayl b. Jābir Abū Hudhayfa who was al-Yaman (the Muslims killed him unwittingly and Hudhayfa forewent his blood-wit incumbent on the slayer); and Șayfī and Ǧabīb sons of Qayṣī; and 'Abdāb b. Sahl; and al-Hāriṭ b. Aus b. Mu‘ādh. Total 12.

Of the men of Rāṭij: 1 Iyās b. Aus b. 'Atīk b. 'Amr b. 'Abdu'l-’Alām b. 1 One of the forts in Medina.
b. Jusham b. 'Abdu'l-Ashhal; and 'Ubayd b. al-Tayyihan (626); and 'Abd ibn Yazid b. Taym 3.

Of B. Thalābā b. 'Amr b. 'Auf: 'Abū Ḥayya, brother to Sa'd b. Khaythama by his mother (628); and 'Abdullāh b. Jubbayr b. al-Nu'mān who commanded the archers 2.

Of B. al-Najjār, of the clan of B. Sāwād b. Malik b. Ḥanām: 'Amr b. Qays and his son Qays (630) and Thābit b. 'Amr b. Zayd; and 'Āmir b. Makhlaḍ. 4.

Of B. Dīnār b. al-Najjār: Sulaym b. al-Hājirāth; and Nu'mān b. 'Abd ibn 'Amr. 2.

Of B. Ṭārif, the family of Sa'd b. 'Ubudā: 'Abdullāh b. 'Amr b. Wahb b. Thalāba b. Waqq b. Thalāba b. Ṭārif; and Dāmār, an ally from B. Juhayna. 2.

Of B. Sāwād b. Ḥanām: Sulaym b. 'Amir b. Ḥadīda and his client Ḥantar; and Sālih b. Qays b. Abū Ka'b b. al-Qayn. 3.

Of B. Zuraq b. 'Āmir: Ḥalwān b. 'Abdu'l-Qays; and 'Ubayd b. al-Mu'āllā b. Laudhān (634). 2.

The total number of Muslims killed including both Emigrants and Anšār was 65 men (635). 6

The Names of the Polytheists Who Were Killed at Uhud 610

Of the Quraysh from B. 'Abdu'l-‘Arbā' b. Quṣayy who carried the standard: Ṭāla b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdu'l-‘Uzzā b. 'Uthmān b. 'Abdu'l-‘Arbā' whom Ali killed; and Abū Sa'id b. Abū Ṭalāḥah whom Sa'd b. Abū Waqqās killed (636); and 'Uthmān b. Abū Ṭalāḥah whom Ḥamza killed; and Mus'īdī and al-Jūsās sons of Ṭalāḥah whom Ḥā'im b. Thābit b. Abdu'l-Aqāfī killed; and Kīlāb and al-Hājirāth sons of Ṭalāḥah killed by Quzmān an ally of B. Zafar (637); and Aţā b. 'Abdu Shuraḥbīl b. Ḥāshim b. 'Abdu Manāf b. Abdu'l-‘Arbā' whom Ḥamza killed; and Abū Zayd b. 'Umar b. Ḥāshim, &c., whom Quzmān killed; and Su'bāb an Abyssinian slave of his also killed by Quzmān (638); and al-Qašīṭ b. Shurayḥ b. Ḥāshim b. 'Abdu Manāf whom Quzmān killed 11.

Of B. Zuhra b. Kīlāb: Abdu'l-Ḥakam b. al-Akhnas b. Sharīq b. 'Amr b. Wahb al-Thaqāfī, an ally of theirs whom Ali killed; and Sībā b. Abdu'l-'Uzzā—the latter's name was 'Arif b. Ṣalāḥ b. Ḥubayr b. Ḥubayr b. Malakān b. Aṣā— an ally from Khuzā'a whom Ḥamza killed. 2.

Of B. Makhrūm b. Ya'qūb: Ḥishām b. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughira whom Quzmān killed; and al-Walīd b. al-‘Āṣ b. Ḥishām b. al-Mughira whom Quzmān killed; and Abū Umayya b. Abū Ḥudhayfa b. al-Mughira whom Ali killed; and Khaliḍ b. al-‘Arṭam an ally whom Quzmān killed. 4.

Of B. Jumāh b. 'Amr: 'Amr b. Abdu'l-‘Ālā b. 'Umar b. Wahb b. Ḥudhayfa b. Jumāh who was Abū 'Azza whom the apostle killed when a prisoner; and Ubayy b. Khālid b. Wahb b. Ḥudhayfa b. Jumāh whom the apostle killed with his own hand. 2.

Of B. 'Āmir b. Lu'ayy: 'Ubaydā b. Jābir; and Shayba b. Malik b. al-Muṭṭārrīb both of whom were killed by Quzmān (639). 2.

Thus God killed on the day of Uhud 22 polytheists.
POETRY ON THE BATTLE OF UHUD

The following wrote verses on the subject:

Hubayra b. Abū Wahb b. 'Amr b. 'A'īd b. 'Abd b. 'Imrān b. Makhzūm

(640):

Why does this painful anxiety afflict me at night?
My love for Hind beset by cares.¹
Hind keeps blaming and reproaching me
While war has distracted me from her.
Gently now, blame me not; 'tis my habit
As you know I have never concealed it.
I help the B. Ka'b as they demand
Struggling with the burdens they impose.
I bore my arms bestride a noble horse
Long of pace, smooth in gait, keeping up with the cavalry's gallop, Running like a wild ass in the desert which Pursued by hunters keeps close to the females.²
Sired by A'waj, which rejoices men's hearts
Like a branch on a thick lofty palm.
I got him ready and a sharp choice sword
And a lance with which I meet life's crises.
This and a well-knit coat of mail like a wavy pool
Fastened on me clear of blemishes.
We brought Ḫinānā from the confines of yonder Yemen
Across the land driving them hard.
When Ḫinānā asked where we were taking them
We told them Medina;³ so they made for it and its people.
We were the true knights that day on Uhud's slope.
Ma'add were in terror so we said we would come to them.
They feared our strokes and thrusts well aimed and cutting
Which they beheld when their outposts had drawn together.
Then we came like a cloud of hail,
The B. al-Najjar's bird of death bemoaned them.
Their skulls in the battle were like ostrich eggs
Split open (by the chicks) and cast aside;
Or a colocynth on a withered shoot
Loosened by the sweeping winds.
We spend our wealth lavishly without reckoning
And we stab the horsemen in their eyes right and left.

¹ So A. Dh., but 'ādīya in 742. 17 means 'troops' and it may well be that love and war are mingled in his thoughts.
² Cf. Ahlwardt, Chalaf el-Ahmar's Qaside, Greifswald, 1859; but a comparison with 'Amr b. Qarni's (ed. Lyall, Camb. 1919, p. 53) suggests that we should read muhaddimān (active) 'biting' to quicken their pace as he protects their rear.
³ Al-Nukhayl. A watering-place near Medina.

---

Many a night when the host warms his hands in the belly of a slaughtered camel
And invites only wealthy guests,¹
Many a night of Ḫumādā with freezing² rain
Have I travelled through the wintry cold.
Because of the frosts the dogs bark but once
And the vipers leave not their holes.
I kindled then a blaze for the needy
Bright as the lightning that illumines the horizon.
'Amr and his father before him bequeathed me this example.
He used to do this again and again.
They vied with the courses of the stars.
Their deeds never fell below the highest standard.

Ḥassān b. Thābit answered him:

You brought Ḫinānā in your folly (to fight) the apostle,
For God's army was (bound to) disgrace them.
You brought them to death's cisterns in broad daylight.
Hell was their meeting-place, killing what they met with.
You collected them, black slaves, men of no descent,
O leaders of infidels whom their insolent ones deceived.
Why did you not learn from those thrown into Badr's pit
Slain by God's horsemen?
Many a prisoner did we free without ransom,
Many a captive's forelock did we, his masters, cut! (641)

Ka'b b. Mālik also answered Hubayra:

Have Ghassān heard about us though
Wide desert land where travel is uncertain separates them?
Deserts and mountains looking black in the distance
Like pillars of dust dotted here and there.
Strong camels there become feeble,
The yearly rains pass over it to make other lands fertile,¹
There the skeletons of exhausted mals
Look like merchants' linen dotted with figures.
The wild oxen and gazelles walk in file
And broken ostrich eggs lie strewn abroad.
Our warriors who fight for their religion are all troops
Skilled in war with helmets² shining.

¹ The mean man does not throw the meal open to all and sundry, but invites only those who can return his hospitality.
² Ḫumādā. S. points out that the old names of the months indicated their position in the solar year and that these names persisted when the months fell in different seasons after the lunar calendar was adopted; thus Remādān, 'the scorcher', could begin in January and Rabī'a, 'the Spring', begin in November.
³ Or 'The yearly rain clouds are empty and pass swiftly on'.
Every coat of mail preserved in store is
When donned as a well-filled pool.
But ask any man you meet about Badr;
News you are ignorant of will be profitable.
Had other men been in that land of fear
They would have decamped at night and fled away.
When a rider of ours came he said,
'Prepare to meet the force Ibn Ḥarb has collected.'
In misfortunes that would distress others
We showed greater calmness than all.
Had others been beset by a multitude
They would have given up and lost heart.
We fought them; no tribe could stand against us
But feared and fled in dread.
When they made their home in 'Irṣ, our leader said,
'Why do we plant grain if we do not protect it?'
Among us was God's apostle whose command we obey.
When he gives an order we do not examine it.
The spirit descends on him from his Lord
Brought down from the midst of heaven and taken up again.
We consult him on our wishes, and our desire
Is to obey him in all that he wants.
The apostle said when they appeared,
'Cast off the fear of death and desire it,
Be like one who sells his life
To draw near to a King by Whom he will be restored to life.
Take your swords and trust in God
'To Whom belongs the disposal of all things.'
We made for them openly as they rode their camels
Bearing swords and unafraid
In a compact force with lances and spears;
When our steeds planted their feet they kept them firm.
Into a sea of foemen we plunged,
Their blacks in the centre some in armour some unprotected.
They were three thousand while we were three hundred
Or four hundred at the most.
The battle went to and fro while death ran between us.
We tried to get to the cistern of death before them and did so.
Bows of lote wood exchanged 'presents' between us
All of them cut from Yathribi wood
And Meccan arrows made by Ṣā'id
Sprinkled with poison at the time they were made
Sometimes hitting men's bodies,
Sometimes glancing off shields with a clang;
And horsemen in the plain looking like locusts
Which the east wind brings, moving briskly in the cold.
When we met them and the battle was fierce
(For there is no defence against God's decree)
We smote them until we left their leaders
Lying in the hollow like fallen trees.
From morn till eve until we recovered our strength
Our zeal was like a fire burning all in its path.
They fled in haste hurrying away
Like a cloud wisp that the wind robs of rain.
We went on, our rearguard coming slowly,
Like strong lions seeking meat in Bisha.
We inflicted loss on you and you on us;
Perhaps we should have won, but what is with God is more spacious.
The battle waged hot between us
And all were made to get their fill of evil.
We are men who see no blame in him who kills
To guard and protect his protégés.
Firm in misfortunes, you will never see
Our eyes weeping over a comrade slain;
Warriors who do what we say
Nor become despondent in war's trials;
Warriors who commit no atrocities in victory
Nor complain of war's scratches.
We are a flame whose heat men ward off,
Those near it withdraw with scorched faces.
You taunt me, Ibn al-Ziba'rā, yet a party went after you
Searching for you at nightfall.
Ask about yourself in the summit of Ma'add and elsewhere
Who is the lowest and most shameful of men?
Whom did war leave shorn of glory,
His face humiliated on the day of war?
We attacked you with God's help and succour
Our spearheads directed at you.
Our lances made gaping wounds among you
Like the mouths of waterskins where the water gushes forth.
We attacked the standard-bearers, and he who hastens to mention the standard
Is the first in giving praise.
But they were treacherous, surrendered, and deserted.
Only God's will can prevail and He is the greatest doer (642)

\'Abdullah b. al-Ziba\'ra:
O raven, you have made men hear, then speak.
You can say only what has happened.
(To good and evil there is an end and both befall men.
Gifts are mean among them
And the graves of the rich and the poor are equal.
Every comfortable and pleasant life comes to an end
And the blows of fate play with us all.)
Give Hassan a message from me,
For composing poetry cures inward pain.
How many skulls on the mountain slope did you see,
How many hands and feet cut off,
Fine armour stripped from the brave
Who had perished in the battle?
How many noble chiefs did we slay,
Their descent doubly glorious, intrepid warriors;
Truly courageous, noble, conspicuous,
No weaklings when the spears fell?
Ask al-Mihras who inhabits it,
Between skulls and brains, like partridges?
Would that my elders in Badr had seen
The fear of Khazraj when the spears fell;
When (war) rubbed its breast in Quba’?
And the slaughter waxed hot among the ‘Abdu’l-Ashhad.
Then they were nimble in flight
Like young ostriches running up a hill.
We killed a double number of their nobles
And adjusted the inequality of Badr.
I do not blame myself, but
Had we returned we should have made a clean sweep of them,
With Indian swords above their heads
Delivering blow after blow.

Hassan b. Thabit answered him:
The battle is over, O Ibn Ziba’ra
(Had he been fair he would have admitted our superiority).
You inflicted loss on us and we on you.
The fortunes of war often change.
We thrust our swords between your shoulders
Where they drank blood again and again.

The Life of Muhammad

We made liquid to run from your arses
Like the ordure of camels that have eaten 'asal.
When you took to your heels in the pass
And fled like sheep one behind the other;
When we attacked you boldly
And drove you to the bottom of the mountain
With companies like vast objects (?) in the plain Whoever meets them is terrified.
The pass was too narrow for us when we traversed it
And we filled its heights and depths
With men you cannot equal
Strengthened by Gabriel’s help who came down.
We conquered at Badr by piety,
Obeying God and believing the apostles.
We killed all their chiefs
And we killed every long-robed noble.
We left in Quraysh a lasting shame that day of Badr,
An example to be talked of.
While the apostle of God witnessed truly,
While the short fat people among Quraysh
Got together by them were as Camels collected in herbage and left shepherdless
We and not men like you, children of your mother’s arse,
Meet the fighters when adversity comes (643).

Kal’b mourning Ḥamza and the Muslim dead:
You weep, but do you want one to stir you to tears?
You who are lost in grief when you remember them,6 Remembering a people of whom Stories have reached me in this crooked age.6
Your heart palpitates at the memory of them
In longing and tearful sadness.
Yet their dead are
Honoured in their exits and entrances.
Because they were steadfast beneath the flag,
The flag of the apostle in Dhūl-Awāj,7
The morning when the B. Aus and Khazraj
All responded with their swords
And Ahmad’s supporters followed the truth,8

1 The language is Quranic.
2 The reading is uncertain. A.Dh. cites ‘jinns’ as an alternative reading.
3 These two lines are difficult. A.Dh. makes several suggestions as to the meaning.
4 It would be tempting to read has for mās here.
5 The poet is apostrophizing himself.
6 A clear indication of the comparatively late date of this poem. Cf. also W. 628, line 5.
7 A place near Uhud. Yāq. i. 305.
The Life of Muhammad

The Life of Muhammad

410

The light-giving straight way.
They continually smote the warriors
As they passed through the clouds of dust
Till at last the King summoned them
To a garden with thick trees at its entrance.
All of them proved pure in the trial,
Died unflinchingly in God's religion
Like Ḥamza when he proved his loyalty
With a sharp well-whetted sword.
The slave of the B. Naufal met him
Muttering like a huge black camel
And pierced him with a lance like a flame
That burns in a blazing fire.
And Nu'mān fulfilled his promise
And the good Ḥanẓāla turned not from the truth
Until his spirit passed
To a mansion resplendent in gold.
Such are (true men) not those of your company
Who lie in nethermost hell with no escape.

Dirā b. al-Khaṭāb al-Fihri answered him:

Does Ka'b grieve over his followers
And weep over a crooked age
Crying like an old camel who sees his companions
Returning at even while he is kept back?
The water camels pass on and leave him
Grunbling of ill-treatment while he is not even saddled for women.
Say to Ka'b, 'Let him double his weeping
And let him suffer pain therefrom;
For the death of his brothers when the cavalry charged
In clouds of rising dust.'
Would that 'Amr and his followers
And 'Utba had been in our flaming meeting-place
That they might have slaked their vengeance
On those of Khazraj who were slain
And on those of Aus who died on the battlefield,
All of them slain in Dhūl-Adwaj,1
And the killing of Ḥamza under the flag
With a pliant death-dealing lance.
And where Muṣ'ab fell and lay
Smitten by a sword's quick stroke
In Uḥdūd when our swords flashed among them
Flaming like a roaring fire
On the morn we met you with swords

Like lions of the plains who cannot be turned back;
All our steeds like hawks,
Blood horses fiery, well-saddled.
We trod them down there until they fled
Except the dying or those hemmed in (644).

'Abdullāh b. al-Zībā'ā:

Surely tears flowed from your eyes1
When youth had fled and the loved one was far away.
Far off and gone is she whom you love and
The camp, now removed, has robbed me of a dear one.
The ardent lover cannot recover what is gone
However long he weeps.
But let be: Has Umm Mālik news of my people
Since news spreads far and wide
Of our bringing horses to the men of Medina,
Fine handsome horses, some reared with us, some cutbam,
The night we went forth in great force
Led by one, the dread of his enemies, the hope of his friends?
All were clad in coats of mail
Which looked like a well-filled pool where two valleys meet.
When they saw us they were filled with awe,
A dreadful plight confronted them;
They wished that the earth would swallow them,
Their stoutest hearted warriors were in despair.
When our swords were drawn they were like
A flame that leaps through brushwood.
On their heads we brought them down
Bringing swift death to the enemy.
They left the slain of Aus with hyaenas hard at them and Hungry vultures lighting on them.
The Banū Najjār on every height
Were bleeding from the wounds on their bodies.
But for the height of the mountain pass they would have left Ahmād dead,
But he climbed too high though the spears were directed at him,
As they left Ḥamza dead in the attack
With a lance thrust through his breast.
Nu'mān too lay dead beneath his banner,
The falling vultures busy at his bowels.2

1 Or the poet may be urging himself to weep.
2 This unpleasant version is probably the original. For yajuna C. follows the MSS. which have yahumna, said to mean 'fall upon', which seems unnatural here. Another variant quoted by C. is yahumna 'hover', while NIH., Delectus, 68, read yaga'ma 'hunger for', which again is unnatural. All these variants can be accounted for by the assumption that editors wanted to tone down the ghastly description of this early Muslim's death.
The Life of Muhammad

The spears of our warriors came on them in Uhud (as-swiftly)
As a well devours the ropes of the bucket.¹

Hassan b. Thabit:

Do the spring camps make you long for Ummu'l-Walid,
The waste lands deserted by their people?
The winds of summer and the rain of Aquarius,
Torrential cloudbringer, has effaced them;
Naught remains but the place where the fire was,
Round it on the ground are the firestones like doves.
Mention no more the camp whose people distance separates Severing the strongest ties, and say
'If there was a battle in Uhud which a fool counts a victory
The real truth will some day be known.'
All the Banu Aus stood firm that day,
High renown was theirs.
The Banu Najjar were steadfast
In defence,
None was fainthearted in the fight
In front of the apostle of God, they did not desert him.
They had a helper from their Lord and an intercessor.
They were faithful when you, Quraysh, denied your Lord.
(The loyal and the disloyal slave are never equal)
With swords in their hands when the battle was hot
He whom they smote could not but die.
They left 'Uthba and Sa'd lying in the dust
As the spears found their mark.
They left Ubayy laid beneath the dust by the apostle's own hand,
His shirt wet with blood
When the dust they stirred up covered the people.
These were chiefs from your leading families,
For every army has chiefs.
By them² we help God when³ He helps us
Even if things are terrible, O Quraysh.
Mention not the slain since Hamza is among them,
Dead for God's sake in true obedience.
Paradise eternal he lives in now
(With God's command is swift).

¹ C. has hitat.
² i.e. the swords.
³ Or 'By thy fortune'. See Lane, 386a.
⁴ The point of this simile would seem to be that the man's skull, split and matted with blood, reminded the poet of a shepherd's cloak which had been made of odd pieces of fur.
The Life of Muhammad

I said, This will be a battle worth many a battle,
It will be talked of as long as leaves fall.
Every day they have been accustomed to gain the victory in battle
And the spoils of those they encountered.
I forced myself to be steadfast when I felt afraid
And I was certain that glory could only be got in the forefront.
I forced my steed to plunge into their ranks
And drenched him with their blood.
My horse and my armour were coloured
With blood that spurted from their veins and coagulated.
I felt sure I should stay in their dwellings
For ever and a day.
Do not despair, O Banū Makhzūm, for you have men
Like Al-Mughira, men without blame.
Be steadfast, may my mother and brothers be your ransom,
Exchanging blows until time be no more.

'Amr b. al-‘Ās:

When I saw war’s flames leaping over the fire stones
Reaching the squadrons flaying men with their heat
I was sure that death was truth and life a delusion.
I set my arms on a strong horse which could outrun others easily,
Doleful when others go astray in the desert outrunning the best horse.
When the sweat flowed down his flanks he showed more spirit;
Swift as a young hart of the desert when archers scare him to run full stretch,
Firm of fetlock he leads the cavalry in canter and gallop.
My mother be your ransom that fearful morning
When they walked like sandgrouse.
Making for the leader of the squadron when the sun revealed him plainly (647).

Ka'b b. Mālik answered the two of them:

Tell Quraysh (the best word is the truest and truth is always acceptable to the wise)
That we killed your best men, the standard-bearers,
In revenge for our slain, so what is all the talk about?
And on the day that we met you
Michael and Gabriel reinforced and helped us.
If you kill us the true religion is ours
And to be killed for the truth is to find God’s favour.
If you think that we are fools

1 Reading tabbattu.
2 Reading fālajun.
3 Lit. ‘stones will disappear’ or ‘wear away’.
4 These lines seem to refer to the archers who left their post in quest of loot. See W. 570.
O my people, can one without strength and courage
Slay a man like me?
If the tiniest ants were to crawl upon her
They would make wounds in her skin.
She smells of sweet scent and lingers in her bed
Adorned with silver and strung with pearls.
The daily sun surpasses her in naught
Except that youth does not endure.
My uncle was orator at Jabiyatu’l-Jauhib
With al-Nu’man when he stood up (to speak).
I was the hawk at the door of Ibn Salma
On the day that Nu’man was sick in fetters.
Ubayy and Wāqid were set free for me.
The day they went forth with their fetters broken
I went surety for them with all my wealth,
Every scrap of it was allotted.
My family stood high in their regard,
Every dwelling had a great ancestor of mine.
My father gave decisive judgement at Sumayya
When disputes were referred to him.
Such were our deeds, but al-Ziba’ra
Is a man of no account, blamed even by his friends.
How much culture is destroyed by poverty
While prosperity hides barbarism!
Do not insult me for you cannot do so,
Only a gentleman can insult his peer.
I care not if a he goat cries in the wasteland
Or a churl speaks evil behind my back.
The finest stock of Banu ‘Qua’ayy took over the courage
(You ought to have had) when you withdrew.
Nine carried the standard while
Makhzum ran away from the spears with the riff-raff.
They stood firm together in their place till all were slain,
All of them bleeding from open wounds.
The noble man is truly noble.
They stood fast until death came upon them
With the lances broken in their throats.
Quraysh fled from us seeking refuge
So that they stood not fast but lost their wits.
Their collarbones could not sustain its weight;
Only the best men can carry the standard (648).

Hassān b. Thābit mourning Ḥāmza:
O Mayya, arise and weep sadly at dawn as the keening women do;
As those who carry heavy burdens cannot move for their weight
Who cry aloud scratching the faces of free women.
When their tears run they are like the pillars reddened by the blood of victims.
They let their hair loose and their locks appear
Like the tails of restive plunging horses in the morning,
Some plaited, some cut, dishevelled by the wind.
They weep sadly like mourners whom fate has wounded,
Their hearts scarred by painful wounds.
Fate has smitten those who were our hope when we were afraid,
The men of Uhud whom fate’s calamities destroyed.
Our knight and protector when armed men appeared,
O Ḥāmza, I will not forget you while time lasts,
The refuge of orphans and guests and the widow who looks shyly away,
And from the fate that brings war after war with growing evil.
O knight, O protector, O Ḥāmza, you were our great defender
From blows of fate when they were crushing.
You reminded me of the lion of the apostle, that protector of ours
Who will always be mentioned when noble chiefs are counted
High above the leaders, generous, white, shining;
Not frivolous, poor spirited, nor grumbling at life’s burdens.
A sea of generosity, he never withheld gifts from a guest.
Young men of honour, zealous and serious minded, have died
Who in the winter when none gets his fill of milk
Offered the flesh of camels topped by slices carved from its fat,
Protecting their guests as long as the enemy attacks.
Alas for the young men we have lost, they were as lamps,
Proud, patricians, princes, lavishly generous,
Who bought reputation with their wealth, (for reputation is a gain),
Who leapt to their bridles if a cry for help was raised.
One who suffered misfortunes in an unrighteous age.
His camels kept going over the dusty plain,
They went vying with each other while he was among those Whose breasts ran with sweat so that good fortune might return to him,
Not the lot of him who gets the unlucky arrow.
O Ḥāmza, you have left me lonely like a branch cut off from a tree.

1 Lit. ‘Her interest is’.
2 Sumayya was a well in Medina. Aus and Khazarj used to submit their disputes to the arbitration of his grandfather al-Mundhir b. Harām.
3 A variant in the ms of Yunus is ‘mounts above’.
4 ‘Abdul’-Rahmān.
5 If a brutish man becomes enraged.
6 Reading madīm, cf. A. Dh.
I complain to you when layers of dust and stone cover you, of
The stone we put above you when the gravedigger finished his work
In a wide space, covering it with earth carefully smoothed.
Our comfort is that we say (and what we say is grievous hard)
He who is free from life’s misfortunes let him come to us
And weep for our noble generous dead,
Who said and did what they said, the truly laudable,
Who always gave freely even when they had little to spare (649).

He also said:
Do you know the camp whose traces since you saw it
Are swept away by a mighty torrent of rain
Between Al-Sarādīḥ and Udmāna and the channel of Al-Rauhā’ in Ḥā’il?
I asked it of that and it would not answer;
It did not know the answer.
Give no thought to a camp whose traces have disappeared,
And weep over Ḥamza the generous who filled the platter
When the storm blew in bitter cold and famine,
Who left his adversaries in the dust
Stumbling on his slender lance,
Who threw himself among the horses when they held back
Like a lion bold in his thicket.
Shining at the summit of the Hashim clan
He did not oppose the truth with lies.
He died a martyr under your swords.
May the hands of Wahshī, the murderer, wither!
What a man did he leave on his lance, its point deadly sharp!
The earth has become dark at his loss
And the moon shining forth from the clouds is blackened.
God bless him in the heavenly paradise.
May his entry be honoured.
We looked on Ḥamza as a protector in all the blows of misfortune.
In Islam he was a great defence
Who made up for the loss of miserable stay-at-homes.
Rejoice not, O Hind, but produce thy tears,
Let flow the tears of the bereaved.
Weep for ‘Utba whom he cut down with the sword
Who lay in the whirling dust,
When he fell among your shaikh
Insolent, ignorant fellows.
Hamza killed them with a family who walk in long armour
The day that Gabriel helped him,
That fine helper of an intrepid horseman.
1 Or 'mingled with', al-lūḥī.

Visited by care you could not sleep
And feared because joyous youth had been taken from you.
A Damā girl claimed your love,
But your love is Ghauri and your company is Najd.1
Do not go too far rashly in the folly of love,
You have always been thought foolish for following its allure.
It is time for you to stop in obedience
Or to awake when an adviser warns you.
I was crushed by the loss of Ḥamza,
My inward parts trembled.
If Mount Ḥira’ had been so distressed
You would have seen its firm rocks shattered.
A noble prince, strong in the lofty stock of Ḥāshim,
Whence come prophecy, generosity, and lordship,
Who slew fat-humped camels when the wind is so cold
That it almost freezes the water,
Who left a brave opponent prostrate on the ground
On the day of battle, with his lance broken.
You could see him sweeping along in steel,
Like a tawny strong-pawed lion,
The prophet’s uncle and chosen one
Came to his death—a goodly end.
He met his fate marked out among a people
Who helped the prophet and sought martyrdom.
I imagine that Hind has been told of that
To still the burning choking within her breast
How we met her people on the sandhill
The day in which happiness left her.
And of the well of Badr when Gabriel and Muhammad
Beneath our banner turned them back
So that I saw their best men with the prophet in two parties,
One killing and one pursuing whom he pleased.
There remained where the camels knelt
Seventy men, ‘Utba and al-Aswād among them,
And Ibnu’l-Mughīra whom we smote above the neck vein
From which foaming blood gushed forth.
A sharp sword in the hands of the believers
Reduced the pride of Umayya al-Jumaili.2

1 The poet is addressing himself. There is a play on the underlying meaning of ghaur, low ground, and najd, high ground. The reading yabnuka would give a sense that could be expressed by 'Your heart is in the lowlands and your head in the highlands', though more exactly the word means 'Your return to sobriety'.
2 qawwama maylahu, lit. 'straightened his turning aside', i.e. struck him in the face which in his arrogance he was wont to turn away.
The Life of Muhammad

The fugitive polytheists came to you like runaway ostriches
With the cavalry in full pursuit.
Different are those whose home is hell everlasting
And those who are eternally in paradise.

He also said:

Rise, O Safiyya, be not weak.
Make the women weep over Hamza.
Be not weary in prolonging weeping
Over God’s lion in the mêlée.
For he was a strength to our orphans
And a lion of battle amid the weapons,
Wishing thereby to please Ahmad
And the glorious Lord of the throne.

He also said:

By thy noble father’s life I adjure you.
Ask those who sought our hospitality,
For if you ask them you will not be told a lie,
Those you ask will tell you the truth
That on nights when bones were gathered for food
We gave sustenance to those who visited us:
(Crowds took refuge in our shelters
From distress in years of famine)
With a gift of what our rich provided
With patience and generosity towards the indigent.
The shears of war left us
Those whose ways we have always tried to vie with.
One who saw the place where the camels go to water
Would think it was black rocky ground.
There the best camels are broken in,
Black, red, and white.

The rush of men was like Euphrates in flood,
Solid well-armed masses destroying all in their path.
You would think their glitter was the shining of stars,
They dazzle beholders in their commotion.
If you are ignorant of our importance
Then ask those near us who know,
How we behave when war is violent
In slaughter, severity, biting, and mauling.
Do we not tighten the cord round the camel’s udder
Until she yields her milk and becomes gentle?

1 W. has najād ‘poor women’.
2 White or, less likely, blackish. This word is one of the aṣḥād.
3 In these two lines war is compared to a savage camel that is subdued by the tribe’s firmness and resource and ends to their advantage.

Another reading is sanajjāstā ‘You have behaved filthily’, which may be right.
The Life of Muhammad

When hearts are moved by fear,
Advancing and encouraging us so that we should not be disobedient,
Like the full moon that cannot lie.
When he appeared we followed him and held him true.
They called him liar so we are the happiest of the Arabs.
They wheeled and we wheeled, they did not reform or return
While we followed them in unwearied pursuit.
The two armies had nothing in common,
God's party and the men of polytheism and idols (651).

'Abdullah b. Rawāha said (652):

My eye wept and right well it did so
(But what avails weeping and lamentation),
For God's lion on the day that they said
"Is that slain man ʿHamza?"
All the Muslims were distressed thereat; The apostle too suffered.
O Abu Ya'la,4 your pillars were shattered,
You the noble, just, bounteous one.
God's peace on you in paradise
With everlasting felicity!
O Ḥāshim, the best men, be steadfast
Whose every deed is fine and laudable.3
God's apostle is patient, noble,
Whenever he speaks 'tis by God's command.
Will someone tell Lu'ayy for me
(For after today war's fortune will change,
And previously they have known and tasted of
Our fighting in which vengeance was slaked),
You have forgotten our blows at Badr's pool
When swift death came to you,
The morn that Abī Jahl prostrate,
The vultures whetting and circling over him.
'Utba and his son fell together
And Shayba whom the polished sword bit.
We left Umayya stretched on the ground,
A huge lance in his belly.
Ask the skulls of Banī Rabi'a,
For our swords were notched by them.
Weep, O Hind, grow not weary,
For you are the bereaved one in tears for a lost son.

1 These two poems are in sharp contrast. The first is a fine example of the old Arabian spirit; the second belongs to the large category of the spurious, and clearly dates from a later age.
2 The ʿhamya of ʿHamza.
3 Cf. Sūras 38. 47. 8; 12. 18. 83.

Ka'b b. ʿAllāk said:

Show not joy at ʿHamza's death, O Hind,
For your boasting is contemptible.

Ka'b b. Malik said:

Say to Quraysh despite their distance,
Do you boast of what you have not won?
You boast of the slain on whom the favours
Of Him who grants the best favours have fallen.
They dwell in gardens and have left waiting for you
Lions who protect their cubs,
To fight for their religion, in their midst
A prophet who never recedes from the truth.
Ma'add attacked him with infamous words
And the arrows of enmity unceasingly (653).

Dirār b. al-Khaṭṭāb:

What ails thine eye which sleeplessness affects
As though pain were in thine eyelids?
Is it for the loss of a friend whom you hold dear
Parted by distance and foes?
Or is it because of the mischief of a useless people
When wars blaze with burning heat?
They cease not from the error they have committed.
Woe to them! No helper have they from Lu'ayy.
We adjured them all by God,
But neither kinship nor oaths deterred them;
Till finally when they determined on war against us
And injustice and bad feeling had grown strong.
We attacked them with an army
Flanked by helmeted strong mailed men
And slender horses sweeping along with warriors
Like kites, so smooth was their gait;
An army which ʿIkhr' led and commanded
Like an angry lion of the jungle tearing his prey.
Death brought out a people from their dwellings,
We and they met at Uḥād.
Some of them were left stone dead
Like goats which the hail has frozen to the cold ground.
Noble dead, the Banū Ḥāfil in their midst
And Muṣ`ab with broken pieces of our shafts around him
And ʿHamza the chief, prostrate, his widow going round him.
His nose and liver had been cut away. It was
As if when he fell he bled beneath the dust
Transfixed by a lance on which the blood had dried.

1 i.e. Abū Suғyān.
The Life of Muhammad

He was the colt of an old she-camel whose companions had fled
As frightened ostriches run away
Rushing headlong filled with terror,
The steep precipitous rocks aiding their escape.
Husbandless women weep over them
In mourning garb rent in pieces.
We left them to the vultures on the battlefield
And to the hyaenas who made for their bodies (654):

Abū Za’na b. ‘Abdullah b. ‘Amr b. al-Khayraj:

I’m Abū Za’na. Al-Huzam1 takes me apace,
Painful exertion alone saves disgrace.
A Khazrajite of Jusham his ward will solace.

Al-Jāhir b. al-Ṣimma
Was faithful to his covenant with us.
He went through painful deserts,
Black as darkest night,
Among many swords and spears
Seeking God’s apostle in what was happening there.

‘Ikrima b. Abū Jahl:

Each of them says to his horse, Come on here!
You can see him advancing today without fear
Bearing a leader with his mighty spear.

Al-A’shā b. Zurāra b. al-Nabīb al-Tamīmī, of B. ‘Abd al-Salam (636):

Al-Jāhir b. al-Ṣimma
Was faithful to his covenant with us.
He went through painful deserts,
Black as darkest night,
Among many swords and spears
Seeking God’s apostle in what was happening there.

Nu’m wife of Shammas b. ‘Uthmān weeping her husband:

O eye be generous, let thy tears flow spontaneously
For the noble and victorious warrior
Whose opinion was accepted, whose deeds were successful,
Who carried the standards, the rider of horses.
I said in anguish when news of his death came,
‘The generous man who fed and clothed others has perished.’
I said when the places where he sat were forsaken,
‘May God not take Shammas far from us!’

Hind d. ‘Utba when the polytheists withdrew from Uhud:

I came back my heart filled with sorrow,
For some from whom I sought vengeance had escaped me,

1 The last line is omitted by W., probably rightly. He refers to it in his notes in vol. II.
2 The name of his horse.
3 i.e. Whether they know or not. This poem is attributed to Bassan in the Diwān (xxxviii) where the text differs somewhat. It is obviously the product of a later age.

The apostle put Marthad in command of them and the band got as far as al-Rāji', a watering-place of Hudhayl in a district of the Hijāz at the upper part of al-Had'a.1 There they betrayed them and summoned Hudhayl against them. While they were off their guard sitting with their baggage suddenly they were set upon by men with swords in their hands, so they took their swords to fight them; but the men said that it was not their intention to kill them; they wanted to get something for them from the people of Mecca. They swore by God that they would not kill them.

Marthad, Khālid, and 'Aṣim said: 'By God, we will never accept an undertaking and agreement from a polytheist.' 'Aṣim said:

No weakening I, an archer bold,
My bow thick-stringed with trusty hold
Broad arrows can life's coil unfold.
Death's certain—life a mere tale told.
What God decrees men shall behold,
Life must return to Him its mould.
I fight though I leave a mother, cold (660).

He also said:

I'm Abū Sulaymān with al-Muq'ad's shafts.2
Like Gehenna they burn my feathered shafts.

---

1 The readings vary: al-nawādī 'the ways' and uṣūrīshā 'full of men'; al-nawādī 'swift camels' and uṣūrīshā 'collected'. The probable sense is given above.
2 Or, more probably, 'hurraws'. But see below.
3 Possibly for Anastasius.
The Life of Muhammad

that the man was subject to seizures. During one of his visits 'Umar asked him the cause of the trouble and he said, 'There is nothing the matter with me, but I was one of those who was present when Khubayb b. 'Adiy was killed and I heard his curse, and whenever I remember it when I am in a meeting I faint away.' This increased his favour in 'Umar's eyes (664).

A freedman of Zayd b. Thābit told me from 'Ikrama, freedman of Ibn 'Abbās, or from Sa'id b. Jubayr, that Ibn 'Abbās said with reference to a passage of the Quran about this expedition: When the expedition in which Marthad and 'Āṣim took part came to grief in al-Raj'ī some of the disaffected said, 'Alas for those beguiled fellows who perished thus! They did not stay with their families nor did they deliver the message of their master.' Then God sent down concerning their words and the good they gained by their suffering: 'There is the kind of man whose talk about the life of this world pleases you,' i.e. when he professes Islam with his tongue, 'and he calls God to witness about that which is in his heart' which is contrary to what he professes with his tongue, 'yet he is the most quarrelsome of adversaries', i.e. a controversialist when he argues with you (665).1

God said, 'And when he turns away,' i.e. goes out from your presence, 'he hastens through the land to make mischief therein and to destroy the crops and the cattle; but God loves not mischief,' i.e. He does not love the doing of it nor does it please Him. 'And when it is said to him, Beware of God, pride seizes him in sin. Hell will be his reckoning, an evil resting-place. And there is the kind of man who would sell himself to God by fighting in His way and doing what He required until they gave up their lives. He means that expedition (666).

Among the poems about this is that of Khubayb b. 'Adiy when he heard that the people had gathered to crucify him (667):

The confederates gathered their tribes around me
And assembled all whom they could collect.
All of them show violent enmity against me
Because I am helpless in bonds.
They collect their women and children
And I am brought to a lofty high trunk.
To God I complain of my loneliness and pain
And of the death the confederates have prepared for me.
Lord of the throne, give me endurance against their purpose.
They have pierced my flesh—all hope is gone!
This is for God's sake, and if He wills

1 Sura 2. 200. S. records a variant reading of Ibn Muhaysin, wayasahdu'llahu for wayahdu'llahu, i.e. God knows what is in his heart, and this may well be the true reading. He also says that the majority of commentators hold that this verse came down with reference to al-Akhnas b. Shariq al-Thaqafi according to the tradition from Ibn 'Abbās through Abū Mūlik, and Mujahid said the same. Ibnul-Kalbi said that when he was in Mecca he gave that opinion, but one of al-Akhnas' offspring denied it and said that it came down with reference to the people of Mecca.
He will bless the limbs thus torn.
They let me choose infidelity but death is preferable,
And my tears flowed though not in fear.
I fear not death who am about to die
But I fear hell and its all-embracing fire.
By God, I fear not if I die a Muslim
What death I suffer for God's sake.
I will not show subservience to the enemy
Nor despair, for 'tis to God I return.

Hassan b. Thabit said, mourning Khubayb:
What ails thine eye that its tears cease not
Flowing on to thy breast like loose pearls?
For Khubayb the hero, no coward when you meet him,
No fickle youth as men well know.
Then go, Khubayb, may God reward thee well
In the eternal gardens with houris among thy companions.
What will you say when the prophet says to you
When the pure angels are in the firmament,
Why did you kill God's martyr for the sake of an evil man
Who committed crimes far and wide? (668)

Hassan also said:
O eye, be generous with thy tears;
Weep for Khubayb who did not return with the warriors.
A hawk, 'midst the Ansar was his dignity,
Generous by nature of pure unmixed descent.
My eye was inflamed because of the difficulty of weeping
When 'twas said, He has been lifted up on a tree.
O raider going forth on your business
Convey a threat—no idle threat
To the Banu Kuhayba that war's milk
Will be bitter when its teats are pressed.
In it will be the lions of the Banu al-Najjar,
Their glittering spears in front of a great shouting army (669).

Hassan also said:
Had there been in the camp a noble chief, a warrior,
A champion of the people, a hawk whose uncle is Anas,
Then, Khubayb, you would have had a spacious place to sit in
And not have been confined by guards in prison.
Low adherents of the tribes would not have borne you to Tan'im,
Some of them men whom 'Udas had expelled.

They deceived you with their treachery, breaking their faith,
You were wronged, a prisoner in their camp (670).

Those who formed the mob from Quraysh when Khubayb was killed were 'Ikrima b. Abû Jahl; Sa'id b. 'Abdullah b. Abû Qays b. 'Abdu Wudd; al-Akhnas b. Shariq al-Thaqafi, ally of B. Zuha; 'Ubayda b. Ḥakim b.
Umayya b. Ḥāritha b. al-Auqa b. Umayya b. 'Abdu Shams; and Umayya b. Abû 'Utba and the B. al-Ḥadrāni.

Hassan also said reviling Hudhayl for what they did to Khubayb:
Tell Banu 'Amr that a man steeped in treachery
Sold their brother as a chattel.
Zuhayr b. al-Agharr and Jamî' sold him,
Both of them committing foul crimes.
You promised him protection and having done so betrayed him.
In the region of al-Rajf you were as sharp swords.
Would that Khubayb had not been deceived by your promise;
Would that he had known what people he was dealing with! (671)

Hassan also said:
If pure unalloyed treachery pleases you
Go to al-Rajf and ask about the abode of Lihyân;
A people who adjure one another to devour the guest among them.
Dog and ape are like such men.
If a he-goat were to rise up and address them one day
He would be a man of honour and importance among them! (672)

Hassan also said:
Hudhayl asked the apostle for something disgraceful.
They erred therein and went astray;
They asked their apostle what he would not grant them
To their dying day and they were the disgrace of the Arabs.
Never will you see in Hudhayl one
Calling others to a generous deed in that place of plunder.
Woe to them who desired to make immoral conditions
To be allowed what the scripture forbids!

Hassan also said:
The tale of Khubayb and 'Aṣim
Has ruined the name of Hudhayl ibn Mudrik.
The tale of Lihyân has ruined their reputation,
For Lihyân has committed the worst of crimes.
Men, the best stock of their tribe,
Like hairs upon a horse's fetlock,

1 Or, perhaps, 'thieves'.
2 Al-Jabir, Bukhaṭa, Cairo, 1948, p. 216, understands from this and other satirical poems that these men were cannibals.
The apostle stayed (in Medina) for the rest of Shawwal, Dhu'l-Qa'da, Dhii'I:Iijja, and al-Mu~arram while the polytheists supervised the pilgrimage. Then he sent the men of Bi'r Ma'lina forth in Safar, four months after U~ud.

My father Is~aq b. Yasar from al-Mughjra b. Abdu'l-Ra~man b. al-I:Iarith b. Hisham told me, as did 'Abdullah b. Abu Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Abd al-Malik b. J:Al spins to the Spear's' came to the apostle in Medina (T and offered him a present. The apostle refused it, saying that he could not accept a present from a polytheist and telling him to become a Muslim if he wished to accept his present). The apostle explained Islam to him and invited him to accept it. He would not do so yet he was not far from Islam. He said: 'O Muhammad (T. your affair to which you invite

The Life of Muhammad

The people in al-Raji will be found in the morning
Like little goats who have passed the winter without warmth.'

Hassan also said:

By God, Hudhayl do not know
Whether Zamzam's water is clean or foul;
And if they make the great or lesser pilgrimage
They have no share in the hijr or the running.
But at al-Raji they have a place,
The home of open meanness and disgrace.
They are like goats in the Hijaz bleating
In the evening beside the shelters.
They were treacherous to Khubayb their ward.
What a miserable covenant was their false word! (673)

Hassan also said:

God bless those who followed one another (to death) the day of al-Raji
And were honoured and rewarded.
Marthad the head and leader of the party and Ibn al-Bukayr their imam and Khubayb.
And a son of Tariq; Ibn Dathinna was there too.
There his death as it was written befell him
And al-'Asim slain at Raji'.
Attained the heights (of heaven) great gainer he.
He averted the disgrace of wounds in the back.
He met them sword in hand, the noble warrior (674).

The Story of Bi'r Ma'una in Safar, A.H. 4

The apostle stayed (in Medina) for the rest of Shawwāl, Dhūl-Qa'da, Dhūl-Hijja, and al-Muhārram while the polytheists supervised the pilgrimage. Then he sent the men of Bi'r Ma'una forth in Safar, four months after Uhud.

My father Ishāq b. Yasār from Al-Mughira b. Abū'l-Rahmān b. al-Hārith b. Hishām told me, as did 'Abdallāh b. Abū Bakr b. Muhammad b. 'Amr b. Hazm and other traditionists, as follows: Abū Ṣāfi 'Amr b. Mālik b. Ja'far the 'Player with the Spears' came to the apostle in Medina (T and offered him a present. The apostle refused it, saying that he could not accept a present from a polytheist and telling him to become a Muslim if he wished him to accept his present). The apostle explained Islam to him and invited him to accept it. He would not do so yet he was not far from Islam. He said: 'O Muhammad (T. your affair to which you invite

1 hard'm refers to the oath taken by Āṣim that he would never touch or be touched by a polytheist, and also to the vow of Sulāfa that she would drink wine from Āṣim's skull.
2 Lit. 'he of the hornets'.
The Life of Muhammad

‘Amiris of which ‘Amr knew nothing, and when after questioning he found that they belonged to B. ‘Amir he let them alone for a time until they slept when he fell upon them and killed them, thinking that he had taken vengeance on them for the killing of the apostle’s companions. But when he came to the apostle and told him what he had done he said, ‘You have killed two men whose blood I must pay.’ Then the apostle said, ‘This is (the result of) Abü Bara’s act. I did not like this expedition fearing what would happen.’ When Abü Bara heard the news he was much upset at ‘Amir’s violation of his guarantee in that the apostle’s companions had been killed because of what he had done and because he had promised them safety. Among those who were killed was ‘Amir b. Fuḥayra.

Hishām b. ‘Urwa from his father told me that ‘Amir b. al-‘Uţafayl used to ask, ‘Who was the man I saw lifted up between heaven and earth when he had been killed until I saw the sky receive him?’ They answered, ‘It was ‘Amir b. Fuḥayra.

One of B. Jabbār b. Salmā b. Mālik b. Ja’far told me—Jabbār was among those who were present that day with ‘Amir and afterwards became a Muslim—that Jabbār used to say, ‘What led me to become a Muslim was that I stabbed one of them between the shoulders that day and I saw the point of the spear come out of his chest, and I heard him say, “I have won by God!” I could not make out what he meant by the words seeing that I had killed him until afterwards I asked others and was told that it was martyrdom, and then I said, “By God he has won.” ‘

Hassān b. Thābit, inciting B. Abū Bara’ against ‘Amir b. al-‘Uţafayl, said:

Ye sons of Ummu’t-Banin, are you not dismayed,
You the loftiest of Najd’s people,
At ‘Amir’s insolence to Abū Bara’ in violating his safe conduct?
For a mistake is not the same as a deliberate act.
Say to Rabi’a who strives after great deeds,
What did you do after I left you?
Your father Abū Bara’ is a man of war,
Your uncle Ḥakam b. Ṣa’d is celebrated (677).

[T.] Ka’b b. Mālik also said on the same subject:

The violation of Abū Bara’s guarantee
Is blazed abroad far and wide.
It is like Musahhab and his father’s sons
Hard by al-Radh in the region of Suwa’.
O sons of Ummu’t-Banin, did you not hear
The cry for help at eventide, the loud call for aid?
You did indeed, but you knew that he was a doughty warrior.
The Banū Kilāb and al-Qurata’
Are homes of broken faith.
O ‘Amir, ‘Amir of ancient infamy, me is most excellent). If you were to send some of your companions to the people of Najd and they invited them to your affair I have good hopes that they would give you a favourable answer.” The apostle said that he feared that the people of Najd would kill them; to which Abū Bara’ replied that he would go surety for them, so let him send them and invite men to his religion. So the apostle sent al-Mundhir b. ‘Amir, brother of B. Sa’ida, ‘The Quick to seek Death’, with forty of his companions from the best of the Muslims. Among them were al-Hārith b. al-Simma; Harām b. Milhān, brother of B. ‘Adiy b. al-Najār; Urwa b. Asmā’ b. al-Salt al-Sulāmi; Nāfi’ b. Budayl b. Warqa’ al-Khuzā’i; ‘Amir b. Fuḥayra, freedman of Abū Bakr, of those who were named of the best Muslims. (T. Humayd al-Ṭawil from Anas b. Mālik who said that the apostle sent al-Mundhir b. ‘Amir with seventy riders.) They went on until they halted at Bi’r Ma’ānā which is between the land of B. ‘Amir and the arara of B. Sulaym, near to both districts but nearer to the arara.

When they alighted at it they sent Harām b. Milhān with the apostle’s letter to the enemy of God ‘Amir b. ʿUţafayl. When he came to him he rushed at the man and killed him before he even looked at the letter. Then he tried to call out the B. ‘Amir against them, but they refused to do what he wanted, saying that they would not violate the promise of security which Abū Bara’ had given these men. Then he appealed to the tribes of B. Sulaym of ‘Uṣayya, Rı’, and Dhakwān, and they agreed and came out against them and surrounded them as they were with their camels. Seeing them they drew their swords and fought to the last man. All were killed but Ka’b b. Zayd, brother of B. Dinār b. al-Najār; him they left while breath was in him. He was picked up from among the slain and lived until the battle of the Trench when he was killed as a martyr.

‘Amir b. Umayya al-Dāmri and an Anṣāri of B. ‘Amir b. ‘Auf were with the camels out at pasture (675). They did not know of the death of their companions until they saw vultures circling round the camp. They knew that this must mean that something serious had happened, so they went to investigate and there were the men lying in their blood and the horsemen who had killed them standing near. ‘Amir’s opinion was that they should rejoice the apostle and tell him the news, but the Anṣāri said that he could not bring himself to leave the spot where al-Mundhir had been slain, nor could he bear that people should say that he had done such a thing, so he fought the party until he was killed. They took ‘Amir prisoner, and when he told them that he was of Muḍār, ‘Amir b. al-‘Uţafayl let him go after cutting off his forelock. He freed him, so he alleged, because of an oath taken by his mother. 1

‘Amir got as far as al-Qarqara at the beginning of Qanāt when two men of B. ‘Amir turned up and stopped with him in the shade (676). Now there was an agreement of friendship between the apostle and the two

1 This is accepted by Bukhārī.

2 Cf. the shorter account in Mūṣa b. ʿUqba, No. 7.
You have won, but without intelligence or dignity.
Did you not deal falsely with the prophet?
Yet of old have you behaved infamously.
You are not like the guest of Abū Duwād
Nor al-Asadi the guest of Abū'l-'Alī;
But your shame is a disease of long standing.
Take note that the disease of treachery is the most deadly.

When the words of Hassān and Ka'b reached Rabī'ā b. 'Amir (Abū'l-Barā') he attacked 'Amir b. al-Ṭufayl and stabbed him with his spear in his thigh; he failed to kill him; but he fell from his horse saying, 'This is the work of Abū'l-Barā'; if I die my blood (I give) to my uncle and he is not to be sued for it: if I live I will see to what has to be done myself.'

Anas b. 'Abbās al-Sulami, maternal uncle of Tu'ayma b. Adiy b. Nu'ayfah who killed Nāfi' b. Budayl b. Warqā' al-Khuza'ī that day, said:

I left Ibn Warqa' dead on the ground
With the dust wind blowing o'er him.
I remembered Abū'l-Rayyān when I saw him
And made sure that I was avenged.

Abū'l-Rayyān was Tu'ayma b. Adiy.
'Abdullāh b. Rawāḥa mourning Nāfi' b. Budayl b. Warqā' said:

God have the mercy on Nāfi' b. Budayl!
That belongs to those who seek the reward of jihad!
Enduring, truthful, faithful,
When men talked too much he spoke to the point.

Hassān b. Thābit, mourning the slain at Bi'r Ma'ūna and especially al-Mundhir b. 'Amr, said:

Weep for the slain at Ma'ūna
With overflowing tears,
For the apostle's horsemen the day
They met their death by God's decree.
They met their end because a people
Were false to their covenant and treacherous.
Alas for Mundhir who died there.
And hastened to his end steadfastly!
How many a noble welcoming man
Of 'Amr's best people was done to death! (678)

1 T. has 'the spear was deflected so that it did not kill him'.
2 I.e. 'I forgive him'.
3 W. has Abū'l-Zahbān.
4 These lines are attributed to Hassān. Cf. Diwān xl.

The Deportation of the B. al-Nadīr, A.H. 4

According to what Yazīd b. Rūmān told me the apostle went to B. al-Nadīr to ask for their help in paying the bloodwit for the two men of B. 'Amir whom 'Amr b. Umayya al-Ḍanīrī had killed after he had given them a promise of security. There was a mutual alliance between B. al-Nadīr and B. 'Amir. When the apostle came to them about the bloodwit they said that of course they would contribute in the way he wished; but they took counsel with one another apart, saying, 'You will never get such a chance again. Who will go to the top of the house and drop a rock on him ('T. so as to kill him) and rid us of him?' The apostle was sitting by the T. wall of one of their houses at the time. 'Amr b. Ḫiṣāḥ b. Ka'b volunteered to do this and went up to throw down a rock.1 As the apostle was with a number of his companions among whom were Abū Bakr, 'Umar, and 'Alī, news came to him from heaven about what these people intended, so he got up (T. and said to his companions, 'Don't go away until I come to you') and he went back to Medina. When his companions had waited long for the prophet, they got up to search for him and met a man coming from Medina and asked him about him. He said that he had seen him entering Medina, and they went off, and when they found him he told them of the treachery which the Jews meditated against him. The apostle ordered them to prepare for war and to march against them (679). Then he went off with the men until he came upon them (680).

The Jews took refuge in their forts and the apostle ordered that the palm-trees should be cut down and burnt, and they called out to him, 'Muhammad, you have prohibited wanton destruction and blamed those guilty of it. Why then are you cutting down and burning our palm-trees?'

Now there was a number of B. 'Auf b. al-Khazraj among whom were 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy b. Saḥīl and Waḍā'īa and Mālik b. Abū Qaṣqāl and Suwayd and Dā'īs who had sent to B. al-Nadīr saying, 'Stand firm and protect yourselves, for we will not betray you. If you are attacked we will fight with you and if you are turned out, we will go with you.' Accordingly they waited for the help they had promised, but they did nothing and God cast terror into their hearts. They asked the apostle to deport them and to spare their lives on condition that they could retain all their property which they could carry on camels, except their armour, and he agreed. So they loaded their camels with what they could carry. Men were destroying their houses down to the lintel of the door which they put upon the back of their camels and went off with it. Some went to Khaybar and others went to Syria. Among their chiefs who went to Khaybar were Sallām b.
The Life of Muhammad

438

Abūl-Huqayq, Kīnāna b. al-Rabī b. Abūl-Huqayq, and Ḥuyayy b. Akhṭāb. When they got there the inhabitants became subject to them.

'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me that he was told that they carried off the women and children and property with tambourines and pipes and singing-girls playing behind them. Among them was Umm 'Amr, wife of 'Urwa b. al-Ward al-'Abt, whom they had bought from him, she being one of the women of B. Ghīfār. (They went) with such pomp and splendour as had never been seen in any tribe in their days.

They left their property to the apostle and it became his personal property which he could dispose of as he wished. He divided it among the first emigrants to the exclusion of the Ansār, except that Saḥīḥ b. Ḥunayf and Abū Dujāna Simāk b. Kharāsha complained of poverty and so he gave them some. Only two of B. al-Nadīr became Muslims: Yāmīn b. 'Umayr Abū Ka'b b. 'Amr1 b. Jīḥāsh and Abū Sa'd b. Wahb who became Muslims in order to retain their property.

One of Yāmīn's family told me that the apostle said to Yāmīn, 'Have you seen the way your cousin has treated me and what he proposed to do?' Thereupon Yāmīn gave a man money to kill 'Amr b. Jīḥāsh and he did kill him, or so they allege.

Concerning B. al-Nadīr the Sūra of Exile came down in which is recorded how God wreaked His vengeance on them and gave His apostle power over them and how He dealt with them. God said: 'He it is who turned out those who disbelieved of the scripture people from their homes to the first exile. You did not think that they would go out and they thought that their forts would protect them from God. But God came upon them from a direction they had not reckoned and He cast terror into their hearts so that they destroyed their houses with their own hands and the hands of the believers. That refers to their destroying their houses to extract the lintels of the doors when they carried them away. 'So consider this, you who have understanding. Had not God prescribed deportation against them,' which was vengeance from God, 'He would have punished them in this world,' i.e. with the sword, 'and in the next world there would be the punishment of hell' as well. 'The palm-trees which you cut down or left standing upon their roots.' Līmā means other than the best kind of dates.

'It was by God's permission,' i.e. they were cut down by God's order; it was not destruction but was vengeance from God, 'and to humble evildoers' (681). 'The spoil which God gave the apostle from them,' i.e. from B. al-Nadīr. 'You did not urge on your cavalry or riding camels for the sake of it, but God gives His apostle power over whom He wills and God is Almighty,' i.e. it was peculiar to him (682), 'The spoil which God gave the apostle from the people of the towns belongs to God and His apostle.' What the Muslims gallop against with horses and camels and what is captured by force of arms belongs to God and the apostle. 'And is for the next of kin and orphans and the poor and the wayfarer so that it should not circulate among your rich men; and what the apostle gives you take and abstain from what he forbids you.' He says this is another division between Muslims concerning what is taken in war according to what God prescribed to him.

Then God said, 'Have you seen those who are disaffected,' meaning 'Abdullāh b. ʿUbayy and his companions and those who are like-minded 'who say to their brothers of the scripture people who disbelieve,' i.e. the B. al-Nadīr, up to the words 'like those who a short time before then tasted the misery of their acts and had a painful punishment,' i.e. the B. Qaynuqā. Then as far as the words 'Like Satan when he said to man Disbelieve, and when man disbelieved he said, I am quit of you. I fear Allah the Lord of 656 the worlds and the punishment of both is that they will be in hell everlastingly. That is the reward of the evildoers.'

Among the verses composed about B. al-Nadīr are the following from I. Luqaym al-ʿAbt. (Others say Qays b. Bahr b. ʿṬair was the author (683).)

My people be a ransom for the immortal man
Who forced the Jews to settle in a distant place.2
They pass their siesta with live coals of tamarisk.
Instead of the young shooting palms they have the bare hills of ʿQdī.3
If I am right about Muhammad
You will see his horses between al-Sālīt and Yārāmarim Making for 'Amr b. Buṭūlā. They are the enemy.
(A friendly tribe is not the same as an evil one.)
On them are heroes, firebrands in war,
Brandishing spears directed at their enemies.
Every fine sharp Indian blade
Inherited from the days of ʿAd and Jurhum.
Who will give Quraysh a message from me,
For is there one honoured in glory after them?

In al-Balḍūrī's Futūḥāt al-Balḍūrī, ed. De Goeje, 18 ff., this passage reads as follows: ‘... from Ibn Abū Zayd al-Muḥātārī concerning God's word 'The spoil which God gave the apostle from them', i.e. from B. al-Nadīr, 'you did not urge cavalry ... whom He wills.' He taught them that it was peculiar to the apostle and to none else. So the apostle divided it among the emigrants except that Saḥīḥ b. Ḥunayf and Abū Dujāna complained of poverty and so he gave them some [e.g.]. As to His words 'The spoil which God gave the apostle from the people of the towns belongs to God and His apostle' to the end of the verse He says this is another division between Muslims according to what God described.'

It does not necessarily follow that this is what I. wrote, though the arrangement of the matter is certainly more systematic. That may be due to al-Balḍūrī. On the other hand, the mention of the first emigrants (i.e.) seems somewhat strange. The exclusion of the Ansār may well have been ignored by the later writer as foreign to his purpose. On the other hand, the clumsy Arabic 'concerning what is taken in war' does not appear here. The change of 'prescribed into described' is not an oral mistake but a misreading and incidentally is one of countless roots that tradition in early days was written down. A confusion between waṣaḥa' and waṣaḍaḥa in speech is utterly impossible; in writing it might well be impossible to determine which alternative to adopt.

1 In al-Balḍūrī’s Futūḥāt al-Balḍūrī, ed. De Goeje, 18 ff., this passage reads as follows: ‘... from Ibn Abū Zayd al-Muḥātārī concerning God's word 'The spoil which God gave the apostle from them', i.e. from B. al-Nadīr, 'you did not urge cavalry ... whom He wills.' He taught them that it was peculiar to the apostle and to none else. So the apostle divided it among the emigrants except that Saḥīḥ b. Ḥunayf and Abū Dujāna complained of poverty and so he gave them some [e.g.]. As to His words 'The spoil which God gave the apostle from the people of the towns belongs to God and His apostle' to the end of the verse He says this is another division between Muslims according to what God described.'

It does not necessarily follow that this is what I. wrote, though the arrangement of the matter is certainly more systematic. That may be due to al-Balḍūrī. On the other hand, the mention of the first emigrants (i.e.) seems somewhat strange. The exclusion of the Ansār may well have been ignored by the later writer as foreign to his purpose. On the other hand, the clumsy Arabic 'concerning what is taken in war' does not appear here. The change of 'prescribed into described' is not an oral mistake but a misreading and incidentally is one of countless roots that tradition in early days was written down. A confusion between waṣaḥa' and waṣaḍaḥa in speech is utterly impossible; in writing it might well be impossible to determine which alternative to adopt.

2 The meaning is obscure. I have followed S.

1 A. Dh. says that this is the name of a place. Yāqūt does not mention it.

The Life of Muhammad

439

W. has 'a cousin of 'Amr'.

Sūra 59.
That your brother Muhammad, and know it well,
Is of that generous stock between al-Hajān and Zamzam.
Obey him in truth and your fame will grow
And you will attain the greatest heights. He is A prophet who has received God's mercy.
Ask him no hidden uncertain matter.
You had an example at Badr, O Quraysh,
And at the crowded cistern
The morning he attacked you with the Khazrajis,
Obeying the Great and Honoured One,
Helped by the Holy Spirit, smiting his foes,
A true apostle from the Compassionate on high;
An apostle from the Compassionate reciting His book.
When the truth shone forth he did not hesitate.
I see his power mounting on every hand
In accord with God's decree (684).

Mentioning the deportation of B. al-Nadīr and the killing of Ka'b b. al-Ashraf, 'Ali said (685):

I know, and he who judges fairly knows,
I'm sure and swerve not
From the determined word, the signs which came
From God the Kind, the Most Kind,
Documents studied among the believers
In which he chose Ahmad the chosen one.
So Ahmad became honoured among us,
Honoured in rank and station.
O you who foolishly threaten him
Who came not in wickedness and was not overbearing,
Do you not fear the basest punishment
(He who has nothing to fear from God is not like him who lives in dread.)

And that you may be thrown beneath his swords
As Ka'b al-Ashraf was
The day that God saw his insolence
When he turned aside like a refractory camel?
And He sent down Gabriel with a gracious revelation
To His servant about his killing.
So the apostle secretly sent a messenger to him
With a sharp cutting sword,
Eyes wept copiously for Ka'b

1 A place in Mecca.
2 i.e. Gabriel.
3 A sarcastic reference to the prophet. C. has yudil.
4 A mountain in the Hijaz.
And the disbeliever therein will be recompensed.'

When he fell al-Nadir fell also.

If we stay safe we shall leave in revenge for Ka'b

Men of yours with vultures circling round them

As though they were beasts sacrificed on a feast day

With none to say them nay,

With swords that bones cannot resist,

Of finest steel and sharpened edge

Like those you met from brave Sakhr

At Uhad when you had no helper.

*Abbâs b. Mirdâs, brother of B. Sulaym, praising the men of B. al-Naḍîr, said:

Had the people of the settlement not been dispersed
You would have seen laughter and gaiety within it.

By my life, shall I show you women in howdahs
Which have gone to Shatat and Tay'ab?

Large-eyed like the gazelles of Tabâla;

Maidens that would bewitch one calmed by much truck with women?

When one seeking hospitality came they would say at once

With faces like gold, 'Doubly welcome!

The good that you seek will not be withheld.

You need fear no wrong while with us.'

Don't think me a client of Salam b. Makhzum
Nor of I:Iuyayy b. Akhâb.'

Khawwât b. Jubayr, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, answered him:

You weep bitterly over the Jewish dead and yet you can see

Those nearer and dearer to you if you want to weep.

Why do you not weep o'er the dead in Urayniq's valley

And not lament loudly with sad face (over others)?

When peace reigned with a friend you rejected it.

In religion an obstruction, in war a poltroon.

You aimed at power for your people, seeking

Someone similar that you might get glory and victory.

When you wanted to give praise you went

To one whom to praise is falsehood and shame.

You got what you deserved and you did not find

One among them to say Welcome to you.

Why did you not praise people whose kings

Built up their standing from ancient fame,

A tribe who became kings and were honoured?

None seeking food was ever found hungry among them.

Such are more worthy of praise than Jews;

In them you see proud glory firmly established.

1 Ka'b was nothing of the kind. His father was of Tayyî, though his mother belonged to B. al-Naḍîr. Can the forger possibly have confused him with Ka'b al-Abbîr?

2 But the man's name was Sikân (W. 551, line 2). Is the forger referring to Muhammad b. Maslama, one of the assassins, whom he confused with Mahmûd b. Maslama (W. 798, 759)?
The Life of Muhammad

Abūs b. Mirdas al-Sulami answered him:

You satirized the purest stock of the two priests,¹
Yet you always enjoyed favours at their hands.
'Twere more fitting that you should weep for them,
Your people too if they paid their debt of gratitude.
Gratitude is the best fruit of kindness,
And the most fitting act of one who would do right.
You are as one who cuts off his head
To gain the power that it contains.²
Weep for B. Hārūn and remember their deeds,
How they killed beasts for the hungry when you were famished.³
O Khāwās, shed tear after tear for them,
Abandon your injurious attack upon them.
Had you met them in their homes
You would not have said what you say.
They were the first to perform noble deeds in war,
Welcoming the needy guest with kind words.⁴

Ka'b b. Mālik (685) answered him:

On my life the mill of war
After it had sent Lu'ayy flying east and west⁵
Ground the remains of the family of the two priests, and their glory
Which once was great became feeble.
Sālām and I. Sa'ya died a violent death
And I. Akhṭub was led to a humiliating fate.
He made such noise in seeking glory ('twas really humiliation he sought),
What he gained from his fuss was frustration,⁶
Like him who leaves the plain and the height distresses him,
And that men find more difficult and arduous.
Sha's and 'Azzāl suffered war's fiery trial,
They were not absent as others were.
'Auf b. Salmā and I. 'Auf, both of them,

The meaning of the gloss in B.M. MS. 1489 seems to be 'In seeking glory he appealed to outsiders', &c.

⁴ Commentators say that there were two tribes known as the Kāhinayn in the neighbourhood of Medina. Some read kāhinīn in the plural. If (cf. v. 5) one of these tribes was the ' Sons of Aaron', could the other have been the tribe of Moses? But one must not take this forger's work too seriously. What Jew would refer to the Bible as 'The Law and the Psalms'? However, it is possible that al-nubīr here means no more than 'The Writings'. If so, it would, of course, be appropriate in the mouth of a Jew. And what had they to do with the slaughter of beasts on the open plain?²

５ i.e. kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. In destroying the Jewish settlements they destroyed the prosperity of the Hijaz.

６ Lit. 'killed hunger'.

The meaning of the gloss in B.M. MS. 1489 seems to be 'In seeking glory he appealed to outsiders', &c.

After the attack on B. al-Nadīr the apostle stayed in Medina during Rabī'u'l-‘akhir and part of Jumādā. Then he raided Najd making for B. Muhārib and B. Tha'labā of Ghatafān (687), until he stopped at Nakhl. This was the raid of Dhatu'l-Riqa'. There a large force of Ghatafān was encountered. The two forces approached one another, but no fighting occurred, for each feared the other. The apostle led the prayer of fear; then he went off with the men.

(T. Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr and Muhammad b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from Abū Hurayra: We went with the apostle to Najd until at Dhatu'l-Riqa' he met a number of Ghatafān. There was no fighting because the men were afraid of them. The prayer of fear came down¹ and he divided his companions into two sections, one facing the enemy and the other behind the apostle. The apostle cried 'Allah akbar,' and so did they all. Then he bowed with those behind him, and he and they prostrated themselves. When they stood erect they walked backwards to the ranks of their companions and the others returned and prayed one bow. Then they stood erect and the apostle prayed one bow with them and they sat. Those who were facing the enemy came back and prayed the second bow and all sat and the apostle united them with the salām, and gave them the Muslim greeting.)³

'Amr b. 'Ubayd from al-Hasan from Jābir b. 'Abdullāh told me that a 663 man of B. Muḥārib called Gharūth said to his people of Ghatafān and Muḥārib, 'Shall I kill Muhammad for you?' They encouraged him to do so and asked him how he proposed to carry out his design. He said that he would take him by surprise; so he went to the apostle as he was sitting with his sword in his lap, and asked to be allowed to look at it (689). The apostle gave it to him and he drew it and began to brandish it intending to strike him, but God frustrated⁴ him. He said, 'Aren't you afraid of me, Muhammad?' 'No, why should I be?' 'Aren't you afraid of me when I have a sword in my hand?' 'No, God will protect me from you.' Then he returned the apostle's sword to him. God sent down, 'O you who believe, remember God's favour to you when you purposely laid hands on him and he turned their hands away from you. Fear God and on God let the believers rely.'⁵

Yazīd b. Rumān told me that this came down in reference to 'Amr b.

¹ i.e. we have nothing but our hope in God.
² See further E.L. art. 'Salāt, p. 103b. T. here notes that there is an irreconcilable difference in tradition, and proposes to deal with the problem elsewhere. I.H. has probably omitted the story because of the conflict in tradition.
³ Sūra 5. 14.
Jihāsh, brother of B. al-Nadīr, and his intention. But God knows the truth of the matter.

Wahb b. Kaysān from Jābir b. Ḥabīb: Abdullah said: I went out with the apostle to the raid of Dhattūl-Riqā' of Nakhl on an old feeble camel of mine. On the way back the company kept going on while I dropped farther behind until the apostle overtook me and asked me what the trouble was. I told him that my camel was keeping me back, and he told me to make it kneel. I did so and the apostle made his camel kneel and then said, 'Give me this stick you are holding' or 'Cut me a stick from a tree.' He took it and prodded the beast with it a few times. Then he told me to mount and off we went. By Him who sent him with the truth my (old) camel kept up with the rapid pace of his she-camel.

As we were talking, the apostle asked me if I would sell him my camel. I said that I would give him it, but he insisted on buying it, so I asked him to make me an offer. He said he would give me a dirham. I refused and said that would be cheating me. Then he offered two dirhams and I still refused and the apostle went on raising his offer until it amounted to an ounce (of gold). When I asked him if he was really satisfied he said that he was and I said the camel was his. Then he asked me if I were married; then was she a virgin or a woman previously married? I told him she had been married before and he said, 'No girl so that you could sport together!' I told him that my father had been killed at Uhud leaving seven daughters and I had married a motherly woman who could look after them efficiently. He said, 'You have done well, if God will. Had we come to Shari' I would order camels to be slaughtered and stay there for the day and she would hear about us and shake the dust off her cushions.' I said, 'But by God we have no cushions!' He said, 'But you will have. When you return behave wisely.' When we got to Shari' the apostle ordered the camels to be slaughtered and we stayed there for the day. At night the apostle went home and so did we. I told the woman the news and what the apostle had said to me. She said 'Look alive and do what he tells you.' In the morning I led away the camel and made it kneel at the apostle's door. Then I sat inside the mosque hard by. He came out and saw it and asked what it was, and they told him it was the camel which I had brought. He asked where I was and I was summoned to him. He said, 'O son of my brother, take away your camel for it is yours,' and he called Bila'il and told him to give me an ounce of gold. He did so and added a little more. By God it continued to thrive with me and its effect on our household could be seen until it was lost recently in the misfortune which befell us, meaning the day of al-Ḥarra.1

The Life of Muhammad

al-Anṣārī said: We went with the apostle on the raid of Dhattūl-Riqā' of Nakhl and a man killed the wife of one of the polytheists. When the apostle was on his way back her husband, who had been away, returned and heard the news of her death. He swore that he would not rest until he had taken vengeance on Muhammad's companions. He went off following the track of the apostle, who when he halted asked that someone should keep watch during the night. A Muhājir and an Ansārī volunteered and he told them to stay in the mouth of the pass, the apostle and his companions having halted lower down the pass (690).

When the two had gone to take up their positions the Ansārī asked the Muhājiri whether he would prefer to watch for the first or the second part of the night. He said that he would like to be relieved of the first part and lay down and went to sleep, while the Ansārī stood up to pray. The man who had been following them perceiving the figure of the man on guard and recognizing him for what he was, shot him with an arrow. The guard pulled it out and laid it down and remained standing. He shot him a second and a third time, and each time he pulled out the arrow and laid it down. Then he bowed and prostrated himself. Only then did he wake his companion, saying, 'Sit down, for I have been wounded.' But he leapt up, and when the man saw the two of them he knew that they were aware of him and fled. When the Muhājirī saw the Ansārī flowing with blood he said 'Good gracious, why didn't you wake me the first time you were hit?' He replied, 'I was reading a sura and I did not want to stop until I had finished it. When the shooting continued I bowed in prayer and woke you. By God, unless I were to lose a post which the apostle had ordered me to hold he could have killed me before I would break off my reading until I had finished the sura (691).'

When the apostle came to Medina after this raid he stayed there for the rest of Jumādā'ī-l-ṭālā, Jumādā'ī-l-akhīra, and Rajab.

The Last Expedition to Badr, A.H. 4

In Sha'bān he went forth to Badr to keep his appointment with Abū Sufyān and stopped there (692).

He stayed there for eight nights waiting for Abū Sufyān. Abū Sufyān with the men of Mecca went as far as Majanna in the area of (T. Murr) al-Zahrān. Some people say he reached (T. passed through) 'Usfān; then he decided to go back. He told the Quraysh that the only suitable year was a fertile year when they could pasture the animals on the herbage and drink their milk, whereas this was a dry year. He was going to return and they must return with him. And so they did. The Meccans called them the porridge army', saying that they merely went out to drink porridge.1

While the apostle was staying at Badr waiting for Abū Sufyān to keep

1 Sūfīg was made of parched wheat or barley, mixed with water or butter; it was 'drunk' as a sort of porridge.
his appointment Makhshiy b. 'Amr al-Ḍamrī, who had made an agreement with him concerning B. Ḍamra in the raid of Waddān, came to him and asked him if he had come to meet Quraysh by this water. He said, 'Yes, O brother of B. Ḍamra; nevertheless, if you wish we will cancel the arrangement between us and then fight you until God decide between us.' He answered, 'No, by God, Muhammad, we do not want anything of the kind.'

As he remained waiting for Abū Sufyān, Ma'ād b. Abū Ma'ād al-Khuṭā'ī passed by. He had seen where the apostle was as his she-camel passed swiftly by and he said:

She fled from the two companies of Muhammad
And a datestone from Yathrib like a raisin stone
Hastening in the ancient religion of her fathers.
She made the water of Qudayd' my meeting-place
And the water of Ḍajnān² will be hers tomorrow.

'Abdullah b. Rawāḥa said concerning this: (693):

We arranged to meet Abū Sufyān at Badr,
But we did not find him true to his promise.
I swear if you had kept your word and met us
You would have returned disgraced without your nearest kin.
We had left there the limbs of 'Utba and his son
And 'Amr Abū Jahl we left lying there.
You disobeyed God's apostle—disgusting your religion
And your evil state that's all astray.
If you reproach me I say
My wealth and people be the apostle's ransom!
We obey him treating none among us as His equal.
He is our guiding light in the darkness of the night.

Hassān b. Thābit said concerning that:

You can say good-bye to Syria's running streams,
For in between are swords like mouths of pregnant camels that feed on arak trees
In the hands of men who migrated to their Lord,
In the hands of His true helpers and the angels too.
If they go to the lowland of the sandy valley
Say to them: 'This is not the road.'³
We stayed by the shallow well eight nights
With a large well-equipped force with many camels,⁴
With every dark bay its middle half its size

Šlender, long, of lofty withers.
You could see the swift camel's feet
Uprooting the annual herbs.
If on our journeyings we meet Furāt b. Ḥayyān
He will become death's hostage.
If we meet Qays b. Ḳīmār-Qays hereafter
His black face will become blacker still!
Take Abū Sufyān a message from me
For you are the best of a bad lot.

Abū Sufyān b. al-Ḥarīth b. 'Abdu'll-Muṭṭalib answered him:

O Ḥassān, son of a mouldy date-eating woman,
I swear that we so traversed wide deserts
That young gazelles could not escape between us
Had they fled from us swiftly one after the other.¹
When we left our halting-place you would have thought it
Dunghed by the crowds at a fair.
You stayed by the shallow well wanting us
And you left us in the palm-groves hard by.
Our horses and camels walked on the crops
And what they trod on they drove into the soft sand.
You would have thought fighting people beside their tents
Was as easy as buying lead for money.
Don't describe your fine horses, but speak of them
As one who holds them firmly back.
You rejoice in them, but that is the right of others,
The horsemen of the sons of Fihr b. Mālik.
You have no part in the migration though you mention it
And do not observe the prohibitions of its religion (694).

THE RAID ON DŪMATU'L-JANDAL, A.H. 5

The apostle returned to Medina and stayed there some months until Dhu'l-Hijja had passed. This was the fourth year of his sojourn in Medina and the polytheists were in charge of the pilgrimage. Then he raided Dūmatu'l-Jandal (695).

Then he returned, not having reached the place, without fighting, and stayed in Medina for the rest of the year.

¹ According to the commentator the meaning is that their force was so large that the gazelles could not escape them.
² Two mountains.
³ Lit. 'wide kneeling places'.
⁴ Two mountains.
THE LIFE OF MUHAMMAD

THE BATTLE OF THE DITCH, 1 A.H. 5

669 This took place in Shawwal, A.H. 5. Yazid b. Rümän, client of the family of al-Zubayr b. 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr, and one whom I have no reason to suspect from 'Abdullah b. Ka'b b. Mâlik, and Muhammad b. Ka'b al-Qurashi, and al-Zuhri, and 'Asim b. 'Umar b. Qatîda, and 'Abdullah b. Abû Bakr and other traditionists of ours told me the following narrative, each contributing a part of it:

A number of Jews who had formed a party against the apostle, among whom were Sallâm b. Abû-l-Huqayq al-Nâdrî, and Hûyyay b. Abkat al-Nâdrî and Khānâ b. Abû'l-Huqayq al-Nâdrî, and Haudha b. Qays al-Wâ'ilî, and Abû 'Ammâr al-Wâ'ilî with a number of B. al-Nâdrî and B. Wâ'il went to Quraysh at Mecca and invited them to join them in an attack on the apostle so that they might get rid of him altogether. Quraysh said, 'You, O Jews, are the first scripture people and know the nature of our dispute with Muhammad. Is our religion the best or is his?' They replied that certainly their religion was better than his and they had a better claim to be in the right. (It was about them that God sent down, 'Have you not considered those to whom a part of the scripture was given who believe in idols and false deities and say to those who disbelieve, These are more righteous guided than those who believe? These are they whom God hath cursed and he whom God has cursed you will find for him no helper' as far as His words, 'Or are they jealous of men because of what God from His bounty has brought to them?' i.e. prophecy. 'We gave the family of Abraham the scripture and wisdom and we gave them a great kingdom and some of them believed in it and some of them turned from it, and hell is sufficient for (their) burning.')

These words rejoiced Quraysh and they responded gladly to their invitation to fight the apostle, and they assembled and made their preparations. Then that company of Jews went off to Ghatafân of Qays 'Ayân and invited them to fight the apostle and told them that they would act with them and that Quraysh had followed their lead in the matter; so they too joined in with them (T. and agreed to what they suggested).

When the apostle heard of their intention he drew a trench about Medina and worked at it himself encouraging the Muslims with the hope of reward in heaven. The Muslims worked very hard with him, but the disaffected held back from them and began to hide their real object by working slackly and by stealing away to their families without the apostle's permission or knowledge. A Muslim who had to attend to an urgent matter would ask the apostle's permission to go and would get it, and when he had carried out his business he would return to the work he had left because of his desire to do what was right and his respect for the same. So God sent down concerning those believers: 'They only are the believers who believe in God and His apostle and when they are with him on a common work do not go away without asking his permission. Those who ask thy permission are they who believe in God and His apostle. And if they ask thy permission in some business of theirs, give leave to whom thou wilt of them and ask God's pardon for them. God is forgiving, merciful.' This passage came down concerning those Muslims who desired the good and respected it, and obeyed God and His apostle.

Then God said of the disaffected who were stealing away from the work and leaving it without the prophet's permission, 'Do not treat the call of the apostle among you as if it were one of you calling upon another. God knows those of you who steal away to hide themselves. Let those who conspire to disobey his order beware lest trouble or a painful punishment befal them' (696). 'Verily to God belong heaven and earth. He knows what you are doing' the man who speaks the truth and the man who lies. 'And (He knows) the day they will be returned to Him when He will tell them what they did, for God knows all things.'

The Muslims worked at the trench until they had finished it, and they made a jingle about one of the Muslims called Ju'ayl whom the apostle had named 'Amr, saying,

He changed his name from Ju'ayl to 'Amr And was a help to the poor man that day.

When they came to the word 'Amr the apostle said 'Amr', and when they came to 'help' he said 'help'.

I have heard some stories about the digging of the trench in which there is an example of God's justifying His apostle and confirming his prophetic office, things which the Muslims saw with their eyes. Among these stories is one that I have heard that Jâbir b. 'Abdullah used to relate: When they were working on the trench a large rock caused great difficulty, and they complained to the apostle. He called for some water and spat in it; then he prayed as God willed; then he sprinkled the water on the rock. Those who were present said, 'By Him who sent him a prophet with the truth it was pulverized as though it were soft sand so that it could not resist axe or shovel.'

Sa'id b. Minâ told me that he was told that a daughter of Bashîr b. Sa'd, sister of al-Nu'mân b. Bashîr, said: 'My mother 'Amra d. Rawâha called me and gave me a handful of dates which she put in my garment and told me to take them to my father and my uncle 'Abdullah b. Rawâha for their

1 Sûra 24. 6a.
2 The story comes from I.I. by way of al-Bakrî and I.H.
3 Sûra 4. 54 f.
4 The prophet came in with the rhyming words of each hemistich.
The Life of Muhammad

673

I was told that Salman al-Farisi said: I was working with a pick in the trench where a rock gave me much trouble. The apostle who was near at the trench took the pick from me and gave such a blow that lightning showed beneath the pick. This happened a second and a third time. I said: 'O you, dearer than father or mother, what is the meaning of this light beneath your pick as you strike?' He said: 'Did you see the light beneath your pick as you strike?' I replied: 'Yes.' He said: 'The first means that God has opened up to me to go back on my word because he had always found him loyal and faithful. Huyayy kept on wheeling Ka'b until at last he gave way in giving him a solemn promise that if Quraysh and Ghaafan returned without having killed Muhammad he would enter his fort with him and await his fate. Thus Ka'b broke his promise and cut loose from the bond that was between him and the apostle.

When the apostle and the Muslims heard of this the apostle sent Sa'd b. Mu'aydh b. al-Nu'man who was chief of Aus at the time, and Sa'd b. 675 Umada b. Dulayn, one of B. Saida b. Ka'b b. Khazraj, chief of al-Khazraj at the time, together with Abdullah b. Rawaha brother of B. al-Harith b. al-Khazraj, and Khawwab b. Jubayr brother of B. Amr b. Auf, and told them to go and see whether the report was true or not. 'If it is true give me an enigmatic message which I can understand, and do not undermine the people's confidence; and if they are loyal to their agreement speak out openly before the people.' They went forth and found the situation even more deplorable than they had heard; they spoke disparagingly of the apostle, saying, 'Who is the apostle of God? We have no agreement or undertaking with Muhammad.' Sa'd b. Mu'aydh reviled them and they reviled him. He was a man of hasty temper and Sa'd b. Umada said to him, 'Stop insulting them, for the dispute between us is too serious for recrimination.' Then the two Sa'ds returned to the apostle and after saluting him said: 'Adal and al-Qara i.e. (It is) like the treachery of 'Adal and al-Qara towards the men of al-Raji', Khubayb and his friends. The apostle said 'Allah akbar! Be of good cheer, you Muslims.'

The situation became serious and fear was everywhere. 'The enemy came

1 A pious exclamation in misfortunes.

2 See the excursus on the semantic development of the word lahm in J. Pöck, Arabiya, Berlin, 1950, p. 132.
at them from above and below until the believers imagined vain things, and disaffection was rife among the disaffected to the point that Mu'attib b. Quasyahr brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf said, 'Muhammad used to promise us that we should eat the treasures of Chosroes and Caesar and today not one of us can feel safe in going to the privy!' (698). It reached such a point that B. Qayzī, one of B. Hāritha b. al-Hārith, said to the apostle, 'Our houses are exposed to the enemy'—this he said before a large gathering of his people—'so let us go out and return to our home, for it is outside Medina.' The apostle and the polytheists remained twenty days and more, nearly a month, without fighting except for some shooting with arrows, and the siege.

When conditions pressed hard upon the people the apostle—according to what 'Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda and one whom I do not suspect told me from Muhammad b. Muslim b. 'Ubaydullah b. Shihāb al-Zubī—sent to 'Urayna b. Ḥiṣn b. Ḥudhayfa b. Badr and to al-Hārith b. 'Auf b. Abū Hāritha al-Murri who were leaders of Ghaṭafān and offered them a third of the dates of Medina on condition that they would go back with their followers and leave him and his men, so peace was made between them so far as the writing of a document. It was not signed and was not a definite peace, merely peace negotiations (TI. and they did so). When the apostle wanted to act he sent to the two Sa'ds and told them of it and asked their advice. They said: 'Is it a thing you want us to do, or something God has ordered you to do which we must carry out? or is it something you are doing for us?' He said: 'It is something I am doing for your sake. By God, I would not do it were it not that I have seen the Arabs have shot at you from one bow, and gathered against you from every side and I want to break their offensive against you! Sa'd b. Mu'ādh said: 'We and these people were polytheists and idolaters, not serving God nor knowing him, and they never hoped to eat a single date (T. of ours) except as guests or by purchase. Now, after God has honoured and guided us to Islam and made us famous by you, are we to give them our property? We certainly will not. We will give them nothing but the sword until God decide between us.' The apostle said: 'You shall have it so.' Sa'd took the paper and erased what was written, saying, 'Let them do their worst against us!'

The siege continued without any actual fighting, but some horsemen of Quraysh, among whom were 'Amr b. 'Abdu Wudd b. Abū Qays (699) brother of B. Amir b. Lu'ayy; 'Ikrima b. Abū Jahl; Hubayra b. Abū Wahb, both of Makhzum; Dīrār b. al-Khaṭṭāb the poet, b. Mīr dāb brother of B. Muḥārīb b. Fīlār donned their armour and went forth on horseback to the stations of B. Kinānā, saying, 'Prepare for fighting and then you will know who are true knights today.' They galloped forward until they stopped at the trench. When they saw it they exclaimed, 'This is a device which the Arabs have never employed!' (700).

Then they made for a narrow part of the trench and beat their horses so that they dashed through it and carried them into the swampy ground between the trench and Sāl. 'Ali with some Muslims came out to hold the gap through which they had forced a passage against (the rest of) them and the horsemen galloped to meet them. Now 'Amr b. 'Abdu Wudd had fought at Badr until he was disabled by wounds, and so he had not been at Uḥud. At the battle of the Trench he came out wearing a distinguishing mark to show his rank, and when he and his contingent stopped he challenged anyone to fight him. 'Ali accepted the challenge and said to him: "Amr, you swore by God that if any man of Quraysh offered you two alternatives you would accept one of them?" 'Yes, I did,' he said. 'Ali replied, 'Then I invite you to God and His apostle and to Islam.' He said that he had no use for them. 'Ali went on, 'Then I call on you to discount.' He replied, '0 son of my brother, I do not want to kill you.' 'Ali said, 'But I want to kill you.' This so enraged 'Amr that he got off his horse and hamstrung it and (T. or) beat its face; then he advanced on 'Ali, and they fought, the one circling round the other. 'Ali killed him and their cavalry fled, bursting headlong in flight across the trench.

When 'Amr issued his challenge to single combat 'Ali got up clad in I.S.N. ii. armour and asked the prophet's permission to fight him, but he told him to sit down, for it was 'Amr. Then 'Amr repeated his challenge taunting them and saying, 'Where is your garden of which you say that those you lose in battle will enter it? Can't you send a man to fight me?' Again 'Ali asked the prophet's permission to go out, and again he told him to sit down. Then 'Amr called out the third time:

'I've become hoarse from shouting.
Isn't there one among the lot of you who'll answer my challenge?
I've stood here like a fighting champion
While the so-called brave are cowards,
I've always hastened to the front
Before the fight begins.
Bravery and generosity are in truth
The best qualities of a warrior.

'Ali asked the prophet's permission to fight him, even if he were 'Amr, and he let him go. He marched towards him saying the while:

Don't be in a hurry. No weakling
Has come to answer your challenge.
A man of resolution and foresight.
Truth is the refuge of the successful.
I hope to make the keen women
Busy over your corpse
Through the blow of a spear
Whose memory will last while fights are talked of.

'Amr asked him who he was, and when he told him he said: 'Let it be one of your uncles who is older than you, my nephew, for I don't want to shed your blood.' 'Ali answered, 'But I do want to shed your blood.' He became angry, and drew his sword which flashed like fire, and advanced in his anger (it is said that he was mounted). 'Ali said to him, 'How can I fight you when you are on a horse? Dismount and be on a level with me.'

So he got off his horse and came at him and 'Ali advanced with his shield. 'Amr aimed a blow which cut deeply into the shield so that the sword stuck in it and struck his head. But 'Ali gave him a blow on the vein at the base of the neck and he fell to the ground. The dust rose and the apostle heard the cry, 'Allah Akbar' and knew that 'Ali had killed him. [Suhayli continues:] As he came towards the apostle smiling with joy 'Umar asked him if he had stripped him of his armour, for it was the best that could be found among the Arabs. He answered: 'When I had struck him down he turned his private parts towards me and I felt ashamed to despoil him and moreover he had said that he did not want to shed my blood because my father was a friend of his.]

_The Life of Muhammad_ 457

'Tikrima b. Abū Jahl threw away his spear as he was running from 'Amr, so Hassan b. Tha'bit said:

As he fled he threw his spear to us.
Perhaps, 'Ikrima, you have not done such a thing before?
As you turned your back you ran like an ostrich
Turning neither to right nor left.
You didn't turn your back as a human being would,
The back of your neck was like a young hyaena's (702).

Abū Laylā 'Abdullāh b. Sahl b. 'Abdul-‘Rahmān b. Sahl al-Anṣārī, brother of B. Hāritha, told me that 'A'isha was in the fort of B. Hāritha on that day. It was one of the strongest forts of Medina. The mother of Sa'd b. Mu‘ādh was with her. ‘A’isha said: 'This was before the veil had been imposed upon us. Sa’d went by wearing a coat of mail so short that the whole of his forearm was exposed. He hurried along carrying a lance, 679 saying the while,

Wait a little! Let Ḥamal1 see the fight.
What matters death when the time is right?

His mother said, "Hurry up, my boy, for by God you are late." I said to her, "I wish that Sa’d’s coat of mail were longer than it is", for I was afraid for him where the arrow actually hit him. Sa’d was shot by an arrow which severed the vein of his arm. The man who shot him, according to what ‘Āṣim b. ‘Umar b. Qatāda told me, was Hībān b. Qays b. al-‘Ariqā,2 one of B. ‘Amīr b. Lu‘ayy. When he hit him he said, "Take that from me, the son of al-‘Ariqā."" Sa’d said to him, "May God make your face sweat (‘aráq) in hell. O God, if the war with Quraysh is to be prolonged spare me for it, for there is no people whom I want to fight more than those who insulted your apostle, called him a liar, and drove him out. O God, seeing that you have appointed war between us and them grant me martyrdom and do not let me die until I have seen my desire upon B. Qurayza."

One whom I do not suspect told me from ‘Abdullāh b. Ka‘b b. Malik that he used to say: "The man who hit Sa’d that day was Abū Usāma al-Jushamī, an ally of B. Makhzūm. This Abū Usāma composed an ode about it with reference to ‘Ikrima b. Abū Jahl:

O 'Ikrima, why did you blame me when you said
Khālid be your ransom in the forts of Medina?
Am I not he who inflicted a bloody wound on Sa’d?
The vein where the elbow bends gushed with his blood.
Sa’d died of it and the grey-haired matrons
And the high-breasted virgins made loud lamentation.
You are the one who protected him when 'Ubayda3

1 The saying is proverbial. The readings vary between Ḥamal and Jumal, and the commentators are not agreed on the reading or the man intended.
2 She was Khadija’s grandmother according to some.
3 Is this 'Ubayda b. Jābir who was slain at Uhud?
Called all of them in his stress,
What time some of them turned away from him
And others made off in their terror.

God knows best about that' (703).

Yahyâ b. 'Abdâd b. 'Abdulhh b. al-Zubayr from his father 'Abbâd told me as follows: 'Abdu'l-Mu'tjalib was in Fâri', the fort of Hassân b. Thâbit. She said: 'Hassan was with us there with the women and children, when a Jew came along and began to go round the fort. The B. Qurayza had gone to war and cut our communications with the apostle, and there was no one to protect us while the apostle and the Muslims were at the enemy's throats unable to leave them to come to us if anyone turned up. I told Hassân that he could see this Jew going round the fort and I feared that he would discover our weakness and inform the Jews who were in our rear while the apostle and his companions were too occupied to help us, so he must go down and kill him. 'God forgive you,' he said. 'You know quite well that I am not the man to do that.' When he said that and I saw that no help was to be expected from him I girded myself and took a club, and went down to him from the fort above and hit him with the club until I killed him. 'This done I went back to the fort and told Hassân to go down and strip him: I could not do it myself because he was a man. He said, "I have no need to strip him, Bint 'Abdu'l-Munallib.""

As God has described, the apostle and his companions remained in fear and difficulty when the enemy came on them from above and below. Then Nu'aym b. Mas'ud b. 'Amir b. Unayf b. Thâlaba b. Qunfud b. Hilal b. Khalîwa b. 'Ashja'b. Rayth b. Gha'tafan came to the apostle saying that he had become a Muslim though his own people did not know of it, and let him give him what orders he would. 'The apostle said: 'You are only one man among us, so go and awake distrust among the enemy to draw them off us if you can, for war is deceit.' Thereupon Nu'aym went off to B. Qurayza with whom he had been a boon companion in heathen days, and reminded them of his affection for them and of the special tie between them. When they admitted that they did not suspect him he said: 'Quraysh and Gha'tafan are not like you: the land is your land, your property, your wives, and your children are in it; you cannot leave it and go somewhere else. Now Quraysh and Gha'tafan have come to fight Muhammad and his companions and you have aided them against him, but their land, their property, and their wives are not here, so they are not like you. If they see an opportunity they will make the most of it; but if things go badly they will go back to their own land and leave you to face the man in your country and you will not be able to do so if you are left alone. So do not fight along with these people until you take hostages from their chiefs who will remain in your hands as security that they will fight Muhammad with you until you make an end of him.' The Jews said that this was excellent advice.

Then he went to Quraysh and said to Abû Sufyân b. Harb and his company: 'You know my affection for you and that I have left Muhammad. Now I have heard something which I think it my duty to tell you of by way of warning, but regard it as confidential.' When they said that they would, he continued: 'Mark my words, the Jews have regretted their action in opposing Muhammad and have sent to tell him so, saying: "Would you like us to get hold of some chiefs of the two tribes Quraysh and Gha'tafan and hand them over to you so that you can cut their heads off? Then we can join you in exterminating the rest of them." He has sent word back to accept their offer; so if the Jews send to you to demand hostages, don't send them a single man.'

Then he went to Gha'tafan and said: 'You are my stock and my family, the dearest of men to me, and I do not think that you can suspect me.' They agreed that he was above suspicion and so he told the same story as 681 he had told Quraysh.

On the night of the sabbath of Shawwal a.h. 5 it came about by God's action on behalf of His apostle that Abû Sufyân and the chiefs of Gha'tafan sent 'Ikrima b. Abû Jahl to B. Qurayza with some of their number saying that they had no permanent camp, that the horses and camels were dying; therefore they must make ready for battle and make an end of Muhammad once and for all. They replied that it was the sabbath, a day on which they did nothing, and it was well known what had happened to those of their people who had violated the sabbath. 'Moreover we will not fight Muhammad along with you until you give us hostages whom we can hold as security until we make an end of Muhammad; for we fear that if the battle goes against you and you suffer heavily you will withdraw at once to your country and leave us while the man is in our country, and we cannot face him alone.' When the messengers returned with their reply Quraysh and Gha'tafan said (T. Now you know) that what Nu'aym told you is the truth; so send to B. Qurayza that we will not give them a single man, and if they want to fight let them come out and fight. Having received this message B. Qurayza said: 'What Nu'aym told you is the truth. The people are bent on fighting and if they get an opportunity they will take advantage of it; but if they do not they will withdraw to their own country and leave us to face this man here. So send word to them that we will not fight Muhammad with them until they give us hostages.' Quraysh and Gha'tafan refused to do so, and God sowed distrust between them, and sent a bitter cold wind against them in the winter nights which upset their cooking-pots and overturned their tents.

When the apostle learned of their dispute and how God had broken up their alliance he called Hudhayfa b. al-Yaman and sent him to them to see what the army was doing at night.

Yazid b. Ziyād told me from Muhammad b. Ka'b b. al-Qurāzī: A man of Kūfā said to Hudhayfa, 'Did you really see the apostle and were you his companion?' When he replied Yes, he asked what they used to do, and he said that they used to live a hard life. He said, 'By God, if we had lived in his day we would not have allowed him to set foot on the ground, but would have carried him on our shoulders.' Hudhayfa said, 'I can see us with the apostle at the trestle as he prayed for a part of the night and then turned to us and said, "Who will get up and see for us what the army is doing and then return—the apostle stipulating that he should return—I will ask God that he shall be my companion in paradise." Not a single man got up because of his great fear, hunger, and the severe cold. When no one got up the apostle called me, and I had to get up when he called me. He told me to go and see what the army was doing and not to do anything else until I returned to him. So I went out and mingled with the army while the wind and God's troops were dealing with them as they did, leaving neither pot, nor fire, nor tent standing. Abū Sufyān got up and said, 'O Quraysh, let every man see who is sitting next him.' So I took hold of the man who was at my side and asked him who he was and he said So-and-so.

Then Abū Sufyān said: 'O Quraysh, we are not in a permanent camp; the horses and camels are dyeing; the B. Qurayza have broken their word to us and we have heard disquieting reports of them. You can see the violence of the wind which leaves us neither cooking-pots, nor fire, nor tents to count on. Be off, for I am going!' Then he went to his camel which was hobbled, mounted it, and beat it so that it got up on its three legs. When the angel Gabriel came in an embroidered turban and riding on a mule with a saddle covered with a piece of brocade. He asked the apostle: if he had abandoned fighting, and when he said that he had said that the angels had not yet laid aside their arms and that he had just come from pursuing the enemy. 'God commands you, Muhammad, to go to B. Qurayza. I am about to go to them to shake their stronghold.'

The prophet ordered it to be announced that none should perform the afternoon prayer until after he reached B. Qurayza (705). The apostle sent 'Ali forward with his banner and the men hastened to it. 'Ali advanced until when he came near the forts he heard insulting language used of the apostle. He returned to meet the apostle on the road and told him that it was not necessary for him to come near those rascals. The apostle said, 'Why? I think you must have heard them speaking ill of me,' and when 'Ali said that that was so he added, 'If they saw me they would not talk in that fashion.' When the apostle approached their forts he said, 'You mothers of monkeys, has God disgraced you and brought His vengeance upon you?' They replied, 'O AbūbQāsim, you are not a barbarous person.'

The apostle passed by a number of his companions in al-Saurayn before he got to B. Qurayza and asked if anyone had passed them. They replied that Dihya b. Khalīfa al-Kalbī had passed upon a white mule with a saddle covered with a piece of brocade. He said, 'That was Gabriel who has been sent to B. Qurayza to shake their castles and strike terror to their hearts.'

When the apostle came to B. Qurayza he halted by one of their wells near their property called 'The Well of Ānā (706). The men joined him. Some of them came after the last evening prayer not having prayed the afternoon prayer because the apostle had told them not to do so until he got to B. Qurayza. They had been much occupied with warlike preparations and they refused to pray until they came to B. Qurayza in accordance with his instructions and they prayed the afternoon prayer there after the last evening prayer. God did not blame them for that in His book, nor did the apostle reproach them. My father Ishāq b. Yaṣār told me this tradition from Mā'bad b. Mālik al-Anṣārī.

The apostle besieged them for twenty-five nights until they were sore pressed and God cast terror into their hearts.

Now Huyayy b. Akhtāb had gone with B. Qurayza into their forts when Quraysh and Ghatafān had withdrawn and left them, to keep his word to Ka'b b. Asad; and when they felt sure that the apostle would not leave them until he had made an end of them Ka'b b. Asad said to them: 'O Jews, you can see what has happened to you; I offer you three alternatives. Take which you please.' (i) We will follow this man and accept him as true, for by God it has become plain to you that he is a prophet who has been sent and that it is he that you find mentioned in your scripture; and then your lives, your property, your women and children will be saved. They said, 'We will never abandon the laws of the Torah and never change it for another.' He said, 'Then if you won't accept this suggestion (ii) let us kill our wives and children and send men with their swords drawn to Muhammad and his companions leaving no encumbrances behind us, until God decides between us and Muhammad. If we perish, we perish, and we shall not leave children behind us to cause us anxiety. If we conquer we can acquire other wives and children.' They said, 'Should we kill these poor creatures? What would be the good of life when they were dead?' He said, 'Then if you will not accept this suggestion (iii) tonight is the eve of the sabbath and it may well be that Muhammad and his companions will feel secure from us then, so come down, perhaps we can take Muhammad and his companions by surprise.' They said: 'Are we to profane our sabbath and do on the sabbath what those before us of whom you well know did and were turned into apes?' He answered, 'Not a single man among you from the day of your birth has ever passed a night resolved to do what he knows ought to be done.'

Then they sent to the apostle saying, 'Send us Abū Lubāba b. 'Abdūl-Mundhir, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf (for they were allies of al-Aus), that we may consult him.' So the apostle sent them to him, and when they saw him they got up to meet him. The women and children went up to him weeping in his face, and he felt sorry for them. They said, 'Oh Abū Lubāba, do you think that we should submit to Muhammad's judgement?' He said, 'Yes,' and pointed with his hand to his throat, signifying slaughter. Abū Lubāba said, 'My feet had not moved from the spot before I knew that I had been false to God and His apostle.' Then he left them and did not go to the apostle but bound himself to one of the pillars in the mosque saying, 'I will not leave this place until God forgives me for what I have done,' and he promised God that he would never go to B. Qurayza and would never be seen in a town in which he had betrayed God and His apostle (707).

When the apostle heard about him, for he had been waiting for him a long time, he said, 'If he had come to me I would have asked forgiveness for him, but seeing that he behaved as he did I will not let him go from his place until God forgives him.' Yāqūt b. 'Abdullāh b. Qusayy told me that the forgiveness of Abū Lubāba came to the apostle at dawn while he was in the house of Umm Salama. She said: 'At dawn I heard the apostle laugh and I said: 'Why did you laugh?' May God make you laugh!' He replied, 'Abū Lubāba has been forgiven.' She said, 'Cannot I give him the good news?' and when he said that she could she went and stood at the door of her room (this was before the veil had been prescribed for women) and said, 'O Abū Lubāba, rejoice, for God has forgiven you'; and men rushed out to set him free. He said, 'No, not until the apostle frees me with his own hand.' When the apostle passed him when he was going out to morning prayer he set him free (708).

Tha'laba b. Sa'yā, Usayd his brother, and Asad b. 'Ubayd of B. Hadl who were not related to B. Qurayza or B. al-Naḍīr (their pedigree is far above that), accepted Islam the night on which B. Qurayza surrendered to the apostle's judgement.

On that night 'Amr b. Su'dā al-Qura?i went out and passed the apostle's guards commanded that night by Muhammad b. Maslama who challenged him. Now 'Amr had refused to join B. Qurayza in their treachery towards the apostle, saying, 'I will never behave treacherously towards Muham­mad.' When Muhammad b. Maslama recognized him he said, 'O God, do not deprive me (of the honour) of setting right the errors of the noble' and let him go his way. He went as far as the door of the apostle's mosque in Medina that night; then he vanished, and it is not known to this day where he went. When the apostle was told he said, 'That is a man whom God delivered because of his faithfulness.' Some people allege that he was bound with a rotten rope along with the captives of B. Qurayza when they submitted to the apostle's judgement, and his old rope was found cast away none knowing whither he went and the apostle then said those words. God knows what really happened.

In the morning they submitted to the apostle's judgement and al-Aus leapt up and said, 'O Apostle, they are our allies, not allies of Khazraj, and you know how you recently treated the allies of our brethren.' Now the apostle had besieged B. Qaynuqa' who were allies of al-Khazraj and when they submitted to his judgement 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy b. Sa'ūd asked him for them and he gave them to him; so when al-Aus spoke thus the apostle said: 'Will you be satisfied, O Aus, if one of your own number pronounces judgement on them?' When they agreed he said that Sa'd b. Mu'ād was the man. The apostle had put Sa'd in a tent belonging to a woman of Aslam called Rufayda inside his mosque. She used to nurse the wounded and see to those Muslims who needed care. The apostle had told his people when Sa'd had been wounded by an arrow at the battle of the Trench to put him in Rufayda's tent until he could visit him later. When the apostle appointed him umpire in the matter of B. Qurayza, his people came to him and mounted him on a donkey on which they had put a leather cushion, he being a corpulent man. As they brought him to the apostle they said, 'Deal kindly with your friends, for the apostle has made you umpire for that very purpose.' When they persisted he said, 'The time has come for Sa'd in the cause of God, not to care for any man's censure.' Some of his people who were there went back to the quarter of B. 'Abdūl-Ashhal and announced to them the death of B. Qurayza before Sa'd got to them, because of what they had heard him say.

When Sa'd reached the apostle and the Muslims the apostle told them to get up to greet their leader. The muḥājiṣūr of Quraysh thought that the
The Life of Muhammad

The apostle meant the Ānsār, while the latter thought that he meant everyone, so they got up and said 'O ʿAbū Amr, the apostle has entrusted to you the affair of your allies that you may give judgement concerning them.' Ṣaʿd asked, 'Do you covenant by Allah that you accept the judgement I pronounce on them?' They said Yes, and he said, 'And is it incumbent on the one who is here?' (looking) in the direction of the apostle not mentioning him out of respect, and the apostle answered Yes. Ṣaʿd said, 'Then I give judgement that the men should be killed, the property divided, and the women and children taken as captives.'

ʿĀsīm b. ʿUmar b. Qatāda told me from ʿĀbdūl-ʿRahmān b. ʿAmr b. Saʿd b. Muʿādh from ʿAlqama b. Waqqās al-Laythī that the apostle said to Saʿd, 'You have given the judgement of Allah above the seven heavens' (709).

Then they surrendered, and the apostle confined them in Medina in the quarter of d. al-Ḥārith, a woman of B. al-Najjār. Then the apostle went out to the market of Medina (which is still its market today) and dug trenches in it. Then he sent for them and struck off their heads in those trenches as they were brought out to him in batches. Among them was the enemy of Allah Ḥuyayy b. Aḥṭāb and Kaʿb b. Asad their chief. There were 600 or 700 in all, though some put the figure as high as 800 or 900. As they were being taken out in batches to the apostle they asked Kaʿb what he thought would be done with them. He replied, 'Will you never understand? Don't you see that the summoner never stops and those who are taken away do not return? By Allah it is death!' This went on until the apostle made an end of them.

Ḥuyayy was brought out wearing a flowered robe (710) in which he had made holes about the size of the finger-tips in every part so that it should not be taken from him as spoil, with his hands bound to his neck by a rope. When he saw the apostle he said, 'By God, I do not blame myself for opposing you, but he who forsakes God will be forsaken.' Then he went to the men and said, 'God's command is right. A book and a decree, and massacre have been written against the Sons of Israel.' Then he sat down and his head was struck off.

Jabal b. Jawwāl al-Ṭaʾlabī said:

Ibn Aḥṭāb did not blame himself
But he who forsakes God will be forsaken.
He fought until he justified himself
And struggled to the utmost in pursuit of glory.

Muhammad b. Jaʿfar b. al-Zubayr told me from ʿUrwa b. al-Zubayr that ʿAʾisha said: 'Only one of their women was killed. She was actually with me and was talking with me and laughing immoderately as the apostle was killing her men in the market when suddenly an unseen voice called her name. 'Good heavens,' I cried, 'what is the matter?' 'I am to be killed,' she replied. 'What for?' I asked. 'Because of something I did,' she answered. She was taken away and beheaded. ʿAʾisha used to say, 'I shall never forget my wonder at her good spirits and her loud laughter when all the time she knew that she would be killed' (711).

Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri told me that Thābit b. Qays b. al-Shammās had gone to al-Zabīr b. Bāṭāl al-Quraṣī who was ʿAbū ʿAbdūl-ʿRahmān. Al-Zabīr had spared Thābit during the pagan era. One of al-Zabīr's sons told me that he had spared him on the day of Buʿāth, having captured him and cut off his forelock and then let him go. Thābit came to him (he was then an old man) and asked him if he knew him, to which he answered, 'Would a man like me not recognize a man like you?' He said, 'I want to repay you for your service to me.' He said, 'The noble repays the noble.' Thābit went to the apostle and told him that al-Zabīr had spared his life and he wanted to repay him for it, and the apostle said that his life would be spared. When he returned and told him that the apostle had spared his life he said, 'What does an old man without family and without children want with life?' Thābit went again to the apostle, who promised to give him his wife and children. When he told him he said, 'How can a household in the Hijaz live without property?' Thābit secured the apostle's promise that his property would be restored and came and told him so, and he said, 'O Thābit, what has become of him whose face was like a Chinese mirror in which the virgins of the tribe could see themselves, Kaʿb b. Asad?' 'Killed,' he said. 'And what of the prince of the Desert and the Sown, Ḥuyayy b. Aḥṭāb?' 'Killed.' 'And what of our vanguard when we attacked and our rearguard when we fled (Ṭ. returned to the charge), ʿAzīz b. Samawʿāl? 'Killed.' 'And what of the two assemblies?' meaning B. Kaʿb b. Qurayṣa and B. ʿAmr b. Qurayṣa. 'Killed.' He said, 'Then I ask of you, Thābit, by my claim on you that you join me with my people, for life holds no joy now that they are dead, and I cannot bear to wait another moment to meet my loved ones.' So Thābit went up to him and struck off his head.

When ʿAbū Bakr heard of his words 'until I meet my loved ones' he said, 'Yes, by Allah he will meet them in hell for ever and ever' (712).

(Thābit b. Qays said concerning that, mentioning al-Zabīr b. Bāṭāl: T. 1496)

My obligation is ended; I was noble and persistent
When others swerved from steadfastness.
Zabīr had a greater claim than any man on me
And when his wrists were bound with cords
I went to the apostle that I might free him.
The apostle was a very sea of generosity to us.)

The apostle had ordered that every adult of theirs should be killed.

1 Lit. 'the time it takes a man to pour a bucket of water into the trough and return the bucket.'
Shu‘ba b. al-Hajjaj told me from ‘Abdu‘l-Malik b. ‘Umayr from ‘Atiya al-Qurazi: The apostle had ordered that every adult of B. Qurayza should be killed. I was a lad and I found that I was not an adult and so they let me go.

Ayyāb b. ‘Abdu‘ul-Rahmān b. ‘Abdullāh b. Abū Ṣa‘īda brother of B. ‘Adīy b. al-Najjār told me that Salma d. Qays, mother of al-Mundhir sister of Salīḥ b. Qays—she was one of the maternal aunts of the apostle who had prayed with him both towards Jerusalem and towards Mecca and had sworn the allegiance of women to him—asked him for Rīfā‘a b. Samaw‘al al-Qurāzī who was a grown man who had sought refuge with her, and who used to know them. She said that he had alleged that he would pray and eat camel’s flesh. So he gave him to her and she saved his life.

Then the apostle divided the property, wives, and children of B. Qurayza among the Muslims, and he made known on that day the shares of horse and men, and took out the fifth. A horseman got three shares, two for the horse and one for his rider. A man without a horse got one share. On the day of B. Qurayza there were thirty-six horses. It was the first booty on which lots were cast and the fifth was taken. According to its precedent and what the apostle did the divisions were made, and it remained the custom for raids.

Then the apostle sent Sa‘d b. Zayd al-Anṣārī brother of b. ‘Abdu‘l-Ashhal with some of the captive women of B. Qurayza to Najd and he sold them for horses and weapons.

The apostle had chosen one of their women for himself, Rayhānā d. ‘Amr b. Khunāfā, one of the women of B. ‘Amr b. Qurayza, and she remained with him until she died, in his power. The apostle had proposed to marry her and put the veil on her, but she said: ‘Nay, leave me in your power, for that will be easier for me and for you.’ So he left her. She had shown repugnance towards Islam when she was captured and clung to Judaism. So the apostle put her aside and felt some displeasure. While he was with his companions he heard the sound of sandals behind him and said, ‘This is Thā‘labā b. Sa‘ya coming to give me the good news of Rayhānā’s acceptance of Islam’ and he came up to announce the fact. This gave him pleasure.

God sent down concerning the trench and B. Qurayza the account which is found in the sūra of the Confederates1 in which He mentioned their trial and His kindness to them, and His help when He removed that from them after one of the disaffected had said what he did: ‘O you who believe, remember God’s favour to you when armies came against you, and We sent against them a wind and armies you could not see, and God is a seer of what you do.’ The armies were Quraysh, and Ghatafan, and B. Qurayza.

The armies which God sent with the wind were the angels. God said, ‘When they came at you from above you and below you, and when eyes grew wild and hearts reached to the throats and you thought vain things about God.’ Those who came at you from above were B. Qurayza; those from below were Quraysh and Ghatafan. ‘There were the believers tested and shaken with a mighty shock. And when the disaffected and those in whose hearts was a disease were saying What God and His apostle promised us is naught but a delusion’ refers to the words of Mu‘āṭṭib b. Qushayr. ‘And when a party of them said, O people of Yathrib, there is no standing for you, so turn back. And some of them sought the prophet’s permission saying Our houses are exposed, and they were not exposed. They only ran to escape away’ refers to the words of Aus b. Qays and those of his people who shared his opinion. ‘And if it had been entered from its sides’, i.e. Medina (713).

1 Sūra 33.

‘Then if they had been invited to rebellion’, i.e. the return to polytheism, ‘they would have complied and would have hesitated but a moment. Yet they had sworn to Allah beforehand that they would not turn their backs. An oath to God must be answered for.’ They were the B. Hāritha. They were the men who thought to desert on the day of Uhud with B. Salama when both thought to desert on the day of Uhud. Then they swore to God that they would never do the like again and he reminded them of what they had taken on themselves. ‘Say, Flight will not avail you if you flee from death or killing, and then you will enjoy comfort but for a little’ Say, Who can preserve you from Allah if He intends evil towards you, or intends mercy. They will not find that they have any friend or helper but Allah. Allah knows those of you who hinder,’ i.e. the disaffected people. ‘And those who say to their brethren, Come to us and they come not to battle save a little,’ i.e. for a moment to make a pretence of sincerity, ‘sparing of their help to you,’ i.e. because of their grudging nature. ‘But when fear comes you see them looking at you with rolling eyes like one in a deadly faint,’ i.e. thinking it dreadful and terrified of it. ‘Then when their fear departs they scold you with sharp tongues,’ i.e. with talk about what does not please you because their hope is in this life; hope of (future) reward does not move them, for they fear death with the dread of him who has no hope in a future life (714). ‘They think that the confederates have not gone away,’ i.e. Quraysh and Ghatafan, ‘and if the confederates should come again they would like to be in the desert with the Bedouin asking for news of you and if they were among you they would fight but little.’

Then He addressed the believers and said, ‘In God’s apostle you have a fine example for one who hopes for Allah and the last day,’ i.e. that they should not prefer themselves to him and not desire to be in a place where he is not.

Then He mentioned the believers and their truth and their belief in what God promised them of trial by which He tested them and He said, ‘And when the believers saw the confederates they said: This is what God and His apostle promised us, and God and His apostle are true. It did but increase their faith and submission,’ i.e. endurance of trial and submission to the decree and belief in the truth of what God and His apostle had promised them. Then He said: 'Some of the believers are men who are true to what they covenanted with Allah and some of them have fulfilled their vow in death,' i.e. finished their work and returned to their Lord like those who sought martyrdom at Badr and Uhud (715).

'And some of them are still waiting,' i.e. for the help which Allah promised them and the martyrdom like that which befell his companions. God said: 'And they have not altered in the least,' i.e. they did not doubt nor hesitate in their religion, and did not change it for another. "That God may reward the true men for their truth and punish the disaffected if He will, or repent towards them. God is forgiving, merciful. And Allah turned back those who disbelieved in their wrath,' i.e. Quraysh and Ghaṭašān. 'They gained no good. God averted battle from the believers, and Allah is strong, mighty. And He brought down those of the Scripture people who helped them,' i.e. B. Qurayza, 'from their strongholds' the forts and castles in which they were (716). "And he cast terror into their hearts; some you slew and some you captured,' i.e. he killed the men and captured the women and children. 'And caused you to inherit their land and their dwellings, and their property, and a land you had not trod,' i.e. Khaybar. 'For Allah can do all things.'

When the affair of B. Qurayza was disposed of, Sa’d’s wound burst open and he died a martyr therefrom.

Mu’ād b. Rif‘āt a-Zurqā’ī told me: Anyone you like from the men of my people told me that Gabriel came to the apostle when Sa’d was taken, in the middle of the night wearing an embroidered turban, and said, ‘O Muhammad, who is this dead man for whom the doors of heaven are opened and at whom the throne shook?’ The apostle got up quickly dragging his garment as he went to Sa’d and found him already dead.

‘Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me from ‘Amr b. ‘Abdul’-Rahmān: As ‘A‘isha was returning from Mecca with Usayd b. Hudayr he heard of the death of a wife of his, and showed considerable grief. ‘A‘isha said: ‘God forgive you, O Abū Yahyā, will you grieve over a woman when you have lost the son of your uncle, for whom the throne shook?’

One I do not suspect told me from al-Ḥasan al-Barri: Sa’d was a fat man and when the men carried him they found him light. Some of the disaffected said, ‘He was a fat man and we have never carried a lighter bier than his.’ When the apostle heard of this he said, ‘He had other carriers as well. By Him Who holds my life in His hand the angels rejoiced at (receiving) the spirit of Sa’d and the throne shook for him.’

Mu’ād b. Rif‘āt a-Zurqā’ī told me from Māmūd b. ‘Abdul’-Rahmān b. ‘Amr b. al-Jamīh from Jābir b. ‘Abdullāh: When Sa’d was buried as we were with the apostle he said Subhāna’llah and we said it with him. Then he said Allah akbar and the men said it with him. When they asked him why he had said Subhāna’llah he said ‘The grave was constricted on this good man until God eased him from it’ (717).
POETRY ABOUT THE TRENCH AND B. QURAYZA

Dirar b. al-Khaṭṭāb b. Mīrād b. Mūḥārib b. Fīhr said about the battle of the Trench:

Many a sympathetic woman had doubts about us,¹
Yet we led a great force, crushing all before us.
Its size was as Uhud
When one could see its whole extent.
You could see the long mail upon the warriors
And their strong leather shields
And the fine steeds like arrows
Which we discharged against the sinful wrongdoers.
When we charged the one the other,
'Twas as though at the gap in the trench men would shake hands.
You could not see a rightly guided man among them
Though they said: 'Are we not in the right?'
We besieged them for one whole month
Standing over them like conquerors.

Night and morning every day
We attacked them fully armed;
Sharp swords in our hands
Cutting through heads and skulls.
'Twas as though their gleam when they were drawn
When they flashed in the hands of those that drew them
Was the gleam of lightning illuminating the night
So that one could see the clouds clearly.
But for the trench which protected them
We would have destroyed them one and all.
But there it stood in front of them,
And they took refuge in it from fear of us.
Though we withdrew we left
Sa'd hostage to death in front of their tents.
When darkness came you could hear the keening women
Raising their lament over Sa'd.
Soon we shall visit you again
Helping one another as we did before
With a company of Kināna armed
Like lions at the gap in the trench
Whose tangled jungle protects their lairs.
Our horsemen when they charged night and morning
Looked disdainfully at the enemy as they wore their badges.
To help Ahmad and God so that we might be Sincere slaves of truth,
And that the Meccans might know when they came
And the people of different parties
That God has no partners,
And that He helps the believers.
Though you killed Sa'd wantonly,
God's decrees are for the best.
He will admit him to goodly gardens
The resting-place of the righteous.
As He repulsed you, runaway fugitives,
Fruitless, disgraced, despite your rage.
Disgraced, you accomplished nothing there
And were all but destroyed
By a tempest which overtook you
So that you were blinded by its force.

'Abdullah b. al-Ziba'rā al-Sahmi said about the trench:

Salute the dwelling whose vestiges
Long decay and time's changes have effaced.
'Tis as though their remains were the writings of Jews
Except the zarebas and (marks of) tentpegs.¹
A desert as though you did not find diversion in it
Happily with young girls of one age.
But speak no more of a life that has passed
And a place become ruined and deserted,
And gratefully remember the gallantry of all

¹ If this poem is really Dirar's it must have been composed after Sura 33, for it uses the language of verse 10. It is hardly likely that a Muslim would have boasted of the doings of Quraysh, or that a polytheist would have borrowed language from the Quran. Therefore it would seem to be a sort of literary Aunt Sally, put up to be assailed in the poems that follow.
Who marched from the sacred stones, 1
The stones of Mecca, making for Yathrib,
With a loud-throated mighty force;
Leaving the high ground well used paths
In every conspicuous height and pass;
The fine lean steeds led beside them
Thin in belly, lean of flank,
Foaled from long-bodied mares and stallions,
Like a wolf who attacks careless watchmen.
'Urayna marched with the banner of the army;
Sakhr led the confederates;
Two chiefs like the moon in its splendour,
The help of the poor, the refuge of the fugitive,
Until when they came to Medina
And girt themselves for death their sharp swords drawn.
For forty days they had the best of Muhammad
Though his companions in war were the best.
They called for withdrawal the morning you said
'We are almost done for,'
But for the trench they would have left them
Corpses for hungry birds and wolves.

Hassan b. Thabit answered him and said:
Can the vanished traces of a deserted place
Answer one who addresses it?
A desert where clouds of rain have effaced its traces
And the constant blowing of every high wind?
Yet have I seen their dwellings adorned by Shining faces, heirs of a glorious past.
But leave the dwellings, the talk of lovely maidens
With soft breasts, sweet in converse,
And complain to God of cares and what you see—
An angry people who wronged the apostle,
Who marched with their company against him
And collected townspeople and desert dwellers,
The army of 'Urayna and Ibn Harb
Mingled with the horsemen of the confederates
Until they came to Medina and hoped to slay
The apostle's men and plunder them,
And attacked us in their strength.
They were put to flight in their fury
By a tempest which dispersed their company

And the armies of thy Lord the Lord of lords.
God averted battle from the believers 1
And gave them the best of rewards.
When they had abandoned hope, our bounteous King
Sent down His aid and scattered them;
Gave ease to Muhammad and his companions
And humiliated every lying doubter,
Hard-hearted, suspicious, doubtful,
Not men of pure life, unbelievers.
May misery cling to their hearts, for
In unbelief they persisted to the very end. 2

Ka'b b. Malik also answered him:
War has left over to us
The best gift of our bounteous Lord;
High white forts and resting-places for camels where [from their rubbing]
Palms are black and where milk is plentiful.
They are like lava tracts and their bounty is lavished
On the visiting guest and relative; 3
And horses swift as wolves
Fed on barley and cut lucerne
With hairless fetlocks and firm-fleshed hindquarters,
Smooth their coats from head to tail;
Long-necked, answering the View hall
As hounds speed to the huntsman's call.
Now guarding the tribesman's cattle,
Now slaying the enemy and returning with the spoil,
Scaring wild beasts, swift in war,
Grim in combat, of noble spirit,
Well fed and sleek
Well fleshed yet thin bellied.
They bring coats of mail doubly woven
With strong spears which hit the mark,
And swords whose rust the polishers have removed;

1 Almost an exact quotation from Sura 33.25.
2 Or, To whose hearts misery has clung
So that their hearts persist in disbelief to the end of time.
3 A. Dh.'s explanation implies:
High white forts and resting-places for camels
Where the camels have black necks and are rich in milk.
They (the resting places) are like lava tracts
Their bounty, &c.
S. renders ma‘ājin 'palm plantations' and judhū' 'trunks' and then has to take abhāb as a metaphor of 'fruit.'
The verse is difficult, but it is possible to avoid unnatural metaphors in its translation.
The dung of the camels made the ground look like a lava tract.
* ma‘ājin' are horses imported from elsewhere.
All with a splendid highborn knight,
His right hand holding a spear ready for the thrust
Whose fashioning was entrusted to Khabbab.
The glitter of his lance is like
A flash of flame in the darkness of the night,
And a force whose mail defies the arrows
And repels the bolts that would pierce the thighs.
Reddish-black, massed, as though their spears
Were a blazing forest in every encounter,
Seeking the shadow of the standard as though
On the shaft of the spear was the shadow of a hawk.
Their courage defeated Abü Karib and Tubba’
And their gallantry overcame the Bedouin.
We were guided by admonitions from our Lord
On the tongue of one radiant and pure.
They were laid before us and we loved to remember them
After they had been laid before the confederates (and rejected).
Axioms which evildoers assert they thought too strict
But the wise understand.
Quraysh came to contend with their Lord,
But he who contends with the Conqueror will surely be conquered (723).

To say nothing of hands, as though they had not been created.
We met the enemy with a compact force
Driving away their force who went as though to the top of al-Mashriq.¹
Against the enemy we prepared
Every swift, bay, white-legged, piebald horse
Carrying riders who in battle were like Lions on damp dewy soil,²
Trusty ones who bring death to brave men
With death-dealing spears beneath the clouds of dust.
God commanded that the horses should be kept for His enemy in the fight³
(Truly God is the best guarantor of victory)
That they might vex the enemy and protect the dwellings
If the horses of the miscreants came near.
God the mighty helped us with His strength
And loyal steadfastness on the day of the encounter.
We obeyed our prophet’s orders.
When he called for war we were the first to respond.
When he called for violent efforts we made them.
When we saw the battle we hastened thither.
He who obeys the prophet’s command (let him do so), for among us
He is obeyed and truly believed.
By this He will give us victory and show our glory
And so give us a life of ease.
Those who call Muhammad a liar
Disbelieve and go astray from the way of the pious (724).

Kab b. Malik said about the trench:
Let one who enjoys the noise of battle where blows resound
Like the crackling of burning reeds,
Come to the fight where swords are sharp
Between al-Madhâd¹ and the side of the trench.
They were bold in smiting champions
And surrendered their lifeblood to the Lord of the world
In a company by which God helped His prophet
And was gracious to His servant.
All in long mail whose ends swept the ground,
Looking like an undulating pool blown by the wind
With mail well wrought and woven as though its nails
Were the eyes of a locust in the chain rings.
Braced up by the belt of a sword
Of pure steel, cutting, and shining.
Such with piety was our clothing on the day of battle⁵
And every hour that called for bravery.
When our swords were too short to meet the enemy
We made them reach by going forward.
You could see skulls split asunder,

¹ The place where the trench was dug. Some say that it was between Sal‘ and the trench.
² Borrowed from Sura 7, 25, ‘The clothing of piety is the best’.
³ Cf. Sura 8, 62.
Ka'b also said:

707 Tell Quraysh that Sal'
And the land between al-'Urayj and al-Sammād<
Is a land where camels who know war carry water,
Where wells dug in the days of 'Ad abound.
Still waters fed by copious fountains
That keep the wells at a steady depth.
The tangled growth and the rushes there
Seem to rustle when they yellow at the harvest.
Our trade does not consist in selling donkeys
To the land of Daus or Murād.
Ours is a land well tilled, for it we fight
If you have stomach for the battle.
We ploughed and planted it as peasants do;
Never have you seen a valley bordered like it.
We have kept every fine high-standing
Powerful courser for great objects.
Respond to our invitation
For clear statement and truth,
Or take the blows you will get from us
At the side of al-Madhād.
We will meet you with all our warriors
And bloodmares whose sides throb
Like the beating of a locust's wings.<
Swift of limb, firm fleshed,
Perfectly made from head to tail.
Horses which live through famine years
When other men's horses die;
Which tug at the reins, turning their necks to one side,<
When their master calls them to war.
When our wariers say: 'Be ready'
We put our trust in the Lord of men.
And we said: 'Nothing will ease our troubles
But smiting the helmets and desperate fighting.'
You have seen none among those we fought,
Whether townsfolk or tribesmen,
Bolder than we were in attack
Nor gentler in affection.
When we tied with trusty knots
Fine coats of mail upon them
Into long armour we put every fierce noble warrior

Careful in his preparation for battle;
Haughty as an angry lion
When someone appears in his valley,
Who shatter the skull of the doughtiest warrior
With the middle of a sword carried loose on its lanyard.
That we may make Thy religion victorious, O God.
We are in Thy hand, so guide us in the right paths (725).

Musāfi' b. 'Abdu Manāf b. Wahb b. Ḥudhāfa b. Jumālah, weeping for
'Amr b. 'Abdu Wudd and mentioning how 'Ali killed him, said:

'Amr b. 'Abd was the first horseman to cross Madhād
And he was the horseman of Yalyal.<
Mild in nature, noble, firm,
Seeking armed combat, never showing fear.
You knew that when they fled from you
Ibn Abd only hurried not Until the best fighters surrounded him
Seeking untiringly to kill him.
On Sal's sides the spears surrounded
A horseman who was no unarmed coward.
You asked Ghālib's horseman to dismount, O 'Ali,
On Sal's sides. Would he had not done so.
Away with you, 'Ali! Never have you overcome his like in renown
Nor coped with such a difficult task.
My life be a ransom for the horseman of Ghālib
Who met death unperturbed,
He who crossed al-Madhād with his mare
Seeking to avenge the men he would not desert.

Musāfi' also said, reproaching the horsemen of 'Amr who decamped and deserted him:

'Amr b. 'Abd and the fine horses he led—
Horses led for him and horses shod—
His horsemen decamped and his clan left
A great pillar, the first among them.
Marvel as I may I saw it
When you, 'Ali, asked 'Amr to dismount he dismounted.
Be not far,# for I have suffered by his death
And till I die I have a burden heavy to bear.
Hubayra who was despoiled turned his back in flight
Fearing the fight lest they should be killed.
And Dirār who had shown courage Fled like a miserable unarmed wretch (726).

---

1 All these places are in the neighbourhood of Medina.
2 An unusually fast-flying species of locust is meant.
3 This hemistich is repeated verbatim in the poem attributed to Hassān in W. 829. 8.

---
Hubayra b. Abii Wadh making excuses for his flight, weeping for 'Amr, and mentioning how 'Ali killed him, said:

On my life, I did not turn my back
On Muhammad and his companions in cowardice or fear of death;
But I considered my position and could find
No advantage in sword or arrow if I used them.
I stopped, and when I could not go forward
I withdrew like a strong lion with his cubs,
Who turns his shoulder from his adversary when
He can find no way to return to the fray—such has always been my way.

Be not far, O 'Amr, alive or dead.
Such as you deserves the highest praise from one like me
Who (now) will drive on horses checked by spears
Be not far, O 'Amr alive or dead.
You have gone (from us) full of praise, noble of ancestry.
Tell of his glory when the camels bellow loudly?
Had Ibn 'Abd been there he would have gone to them
And relieved them, that never ignoble man.
Away with you, 'Ali, never have I seen one who behaved like you
Against a brave man advancing like a stallion.
Never have you achieved such a proud boast.
As long as you live you can feel safe from stumbling thereby.

Hubayra also said:

The noblest man of Lu'ayy b. Ghalib knows
That when misfortune came their knight was 'Amr.
Their knight was 'Amr and 'Ali asked him to dismount.
(The lion must seek his enemy.)
Hc was their knight when 'Ali called to him
When the squadrons basely left him.
Alas that I left 'Amr in Yathrib.
May misfortunes never cease there!

Hassan also said:

Tears streamed from my eyes,
'Tis right that they should weep for Sa'd
Lying on the battlefield. Eyes that flow with tears Suffer his loss without ceasing.
Slain in God's religion, he inherits paradise with martyrs.
Their's a noble company.
Though you have said farewell and left us
And lie in the dusty darkness of the grave
You, O Sa'd, have returned (to God) with a noble testimony
And garments of honour and praise.
By pronouncing on the two tribes of Qurayza the (same) judgment
Which God had decreed against them you did not judge of your own volition.
Your judgement and God's were at one
And you did not forgive when you were reminded of a covenant.
Though fate has brought you to your death
Among those who sold their lives for everlasting gardens
Yet blessed is the state of the true ones
When they are summoned to God for favour and regard.

1 The reading in the Diwan xciv is easier but not necessarily original:

"Amr... lay dead
Vengeance for him is not to be expected."
Hassān also said mourning Sa'd and the prophet's companions who were martyred and mentioning their merits:

O my people, is there any defence against what is decreed? And can the good old days return? When I call to mind an age that is passed My heart is troubled and my tears flow; Yearning sorrow reminds me of friends Now dead, among them Ṭufayl and Rāfī' and Sa'd. They have gone to paradise And their houses are empty and the earth is a desert without them. When he called them they answered loyally, All of them obeyed him utterly. They gave no ground till all were dead. (Only battles cut short the allotted span.) Because they hoped for his intercession Since none but prophets can intercede. That, O best of men, is what we did, Our response to God while death is certain. Ours was the first step to thee, and the last of us Will follow the first in God's religion. We know that the kingdom is God's alone And that the decree of God must come to pass.

Hassān also said about B. Quraysh:

Qurayṣa met their misfortune And in humiliation found no helper. A calamity worse than that which fell B. al-Naḍīr befell them The day that God's apostle came to them like a brilliant moon, With fresh horses bearing horsemen like hawks. We left them with the blood upon them like a pool They having accomplished nothing. They lay prostrate with vultures circling round them. Thus are the obstinate and impious rewarded. Warn Quraysh of a like punishment from God If they will take my warning.

Hassān also said:

Qurayṣa met their misfortune And shameful humiliation befell their castles. Sa'd had warned them, saying Your God is a majestic Lord.

They soon broke their treaty so that The apostle slew them in their town. With our troops he surrounded their fort Which resounded with cries from the heat of the battle.

Hassān also said:

May the people who helped Quraysh miss one another,¹ For in their land they have no helper. They were given the scripture and wasted it, Being blind, straying from the Torah. You disbelieved in the Quran and yet You had been given confirmation of what the warner said. The nobles of B. Lu'ayy took lightly The great conflagration in al-Buwayra.²

Abū Sufyān b. al-Hārith b. 'Abdull-Muṭṭalib answered him: May God make that deed immortal, May fire burn in its quarters! You shall know which of us is far (from the fire) And which of our lands will be harmed. Had the palms therein been horsemen They would have said, 'You have no place here, be off!'³ Jabal b. Jawwāl al-Tha'lābī also answered him, mourning al-Naḍīr and Qurayṣa:

O Sa'd, Sa'd of B. Mu'ādh, For what befell Qurayṣa and al-Naḍīr. By thy life, Sa'd of B. Mu'ādh The day they departed was indeed steadfast. As for al-Khazarjī Abū Ḥubāb⁴ He told Qaynuqa' not to go. The allies got Usayd in exchange for Ḥuḍayr (For circumstances sometimes change.)⁵

¹ This is the reading of C. W. has ta'qada against tafaqada.
² A place belonging to B. al-Naḍīr (not Qurayṣa) according to Yāqūt, s.v. It was their trees which Muhammad destroyed.
³ The meaning of this poem is that the fact that B. al-Naḍīr were able to withdraw with all their effects deserves to be immortalized and may the site they left be destroyed by fire. The last line means 'could the trees have been made to walk you Muslims would have got rid of them too'. Yāqūt gives a different turn to all this and the preceding poem. Hassān's line above is put into the mouth of Abū Sufyān in the form:

'The B. Lu'ayy took hardly the great conflagration at al-Buwayra', and the first line of Abū Sufyān's poem is given to Hassān in the form:

'May God make that conflagration permanent'. But I. I. was right. Later writers thought that the 'deed' must be the burning of the trees and therefore the line must have been spoken by a Muslim. See further W. Arzaf, op. cit., pp. 277-81.
⁴ A reference to 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy's interference in favour of B. Qaynuqa'.
⁵ In the time of Ḥuḍayr, chief of Aus, the Jews were secure; but they suffered when his son Usayd came to power.
The Life of Muhammad

Al-Buwayra perished and was deprived of Sallam and Sa'ya and Ibn Akhtab.
Yet in their land they were weighty men like the ponderous rocks of Maytân.1
Though Sallam Abû Hakam is dead, His weapons were not useless or rusty. And both the tribes of Kâhin too, among them Hawklike men, albeit kindly and generous. We found their glory established on glory Which time cannot obscure. Dwell there, ye chiefs of Aus, As though you were blind to shame. You left your pot with nothing in it, The pot of a people worth mentioning is ever on the boil.2

THE KILLING OF SALLAM IBN ABU'L-HUQAYQ

When the fight at the trench and the affair of the B. Qurayṣa were over, the matter of Sallam b. Abû'l-Huqayq known as Abû Râfî' came up in connexion with those who had collected the mixed tribes together against the apostle. Now Aus had killed Ka'b b. al-Ashraf before Ubad because of his enmity towards the apostle and because he instigated men against him, so Khazraj asked and obtained the apostle's permission to kill Sallam who was in Khaybar.

Muhammad b. Muslim b. Shihâb al-Zuhri from 'Abdullah b. Ka'b b. Malik told me: One of the things which God did for His apostle was that these two tribes of the Anṣâr, Aus and Khazraj, competed the one with the other like two stallions: if Aus did anything to the apostle's advantage Khazraj would say, 'They shall not have this superiority over us in the apostle's eyes and in Islam' and they would not rest until they could do something similar. If Khazraj did anything Aus would say the same.

When Aus had killed Ka'b for his enmity towards the apostle, Khazraj used these words and asked themselves what man was as hostile to the apostle as Ka'b? And then they remembered Sallam who was in Khaybar and asked and obtained the apostle's permission to kill him.

Five men of B. Salima of Khazraj went to him: 'Abdullah b. 'Atik; Mas'ûd b. Sinân; 'Abdullah b. Unays; Abû Qatâda al-Hârîth b. Rîb'; and Khuzâ'î b. Aswad, an ally from Aslâm. As they left, the apostle appointed 'Abdullah b. 'Atik as their leader, and he forbade them to kill women or children. When they got to Khaybar they went to Sallam's house by night, having locked every door in the settlement on the inhabitants. Now he was in an upper chamber of his to which a (T. Roman) ladder led up. They mounted this until they came to the door and asked to be allowed to come in. His wife came out and asked who they were and they told her that they were Arabs in search of supplies. She told them that their man was here and that they could come in. When we entered1 we bolted the door of the room on her and ourselves fearing lest something should come between us and him. His wife shrieked and warned him of us, so we ran at him with our swords as he was on his bed. The only thing that guided us in the darkness of the night was his whiteness like an Egyptian blanket. When his wife shrieked one of our number would lift his sword against her; then he would remember the apostle's ban on killing women and withdraw his hand; but for that we would have made an end of her that night. When we had smitten him with our swords 'Abdullah b. Unays bore down with his sword into his belly until it went right through him, as he was saying Qatni, qatni, i.e. It's enough.

We went out. Now 'Abdullah b. 'Atik had poor sight, and fell from the ladder and sprained his arm (729) severely, so we carried him until we brought him to one of their water channels and went into it. The people lit lamps and went in search of us in all directions until, despairing of finding us, they returned to their master and gathered round him as he was dying. We asked each other how we could know that the enemy of God was dead, and one of us volunteered to go and see; so off he went and mingled with the people. He said, 'I found his wife and some Jews gathered round him. She had a lamp in her hand and was peering into his face and saying to them, 'By God, I certainly heard the voice of 'Abdullah b. 'Atik. Then I decided I must be wrong and thought "How can Ibn 'Atik be in this country?" Then she turned towards him, looking into his face, and said, 'By the God of the Jews he is dead!' Never have I heard sweeter words than those.

Then he came to us and told us the news, and we picked up our companion and took him to the apostle and told him that we had killed God's enemy. We disputed before him as to who had killed him, each of us laying claim to the deed. The apostle demanded to see our swords and when he looked at them he said, 'It is the sword of 'Abdullah b. Unays that killed him; I can see traces of food on it.'

Hassân b. Thâbit mentioning the killing of Ka'b and Sallam said:

God, what a fine hand you met,
O Ibnul-Huqayq and Ibnul-Ashraf!
They went to you with sharp swords,
Brisk as lions in a tangled thicket,
Until they came on you in your dwelling

1 The change into the first person without any mention of the speaker's authority is significant. Doubtless there are occasions when the actual words used at a particular time and place have been carefully stored in a hearer's memory; but it should always be borne in mind that oratio obliqua is abhorrent to semantic writers who escape into the oratio recta at the first opportunity.
And made you drink death with their swift-slaying swords,
Looking for the victory of their prophet's religion
Despising every risk of hurt.

‘AMR B. AL-‘ĀŠ AND KHĀLID B. AL-WALĪD ACCEPT ISLAM

Yazid b. Abū Ḥabīb from Rāshid client of Ḥabīb b. Abū Aus al-Ṭhaqāfī from Ḥabīb told me that ‘Amr b. al-‘Āṣ told him from his own mouth: When we came away from the trench with the mixed tribes I gathered some of Quraysh together, men who shared my opinion and would listen to me, and said: ‘You know that in my opinion this affair of Muhammad will go to unheard-of lengths and I should like to know what you think of my opinion. I think that we ought to go to the Negus and stay with him. If Muhammad conquers our people we shall be with the Negus and we should prefer to be subject to his authority rather than to Muhammad; on the other hand, if our people get the upper hand they know us and will treat us well.’ They thought that my suggestion was excellent so I told them to collect something that we could take as a present to him; as leather was the product of our land which he most valued we collected a large quantity and took it to him.

While we were with him who should come to him but ‘Amr b. Umayya al-Ḍamrī whom the apostle had sent concerning Ja‘far and his companions. He had an audience with the Negus, and when he came out I said to my companions that if I were to go to the Negus and ask him to let me have him, he would give him to me and we could cut off his head; and when I had done that Quraysh would see that I had served them well in killing Muhammad’s messenger. So I went in to the Negus and did obeisance as was my wont. He welcomed me as a friend and asked if I had brought anything from our country, and when I told him that I had brought a large quantity of leather and produced it he was greatly pleased and coveted it. Then I said, ‘O King, I have just seen a man leave your presence. He is the messenger of an enemy of ours, so let me have him that I may kill him, for he has killed some of our chiefs and best men.’ He was enraged, and stretching out his hand gave his nose such a blow that I thought he would have broken it. If the earth had opened I would have gone into it to escape his anger. I said that had I known that my request would have been distasteful to him I would not have made it. He said, ‘Would you ask me to give you the messenger of a man to whom the great Nāmūs comes as he used to come to Moses, so that you might kill him?’ When I asked if he were really so great he said: ‘Woe to you, ‘Amr, obey me and follow him, for by Allah he is right and will triumph over his adversaries as Moses triumphed over Pharaoh and his armies.’ I asked him if he would accept my allegiance to Muhammad in Islam, and he stretched out his hand and I gave my allegiance. When I went out to my companions I had entirely changed my mind, but I concealed my Islam from my companions.

Then I went off making for Muhammad to adopt Islam, and met Khalīd b. al-Walīd coming from Mecca. This was a little while before the occupation of Mecca. I said, ‘Where are you going, Abū Sulaymān?’ He said: ‘The way has become clear. The man is certainly a prophet, and by Allah I’m going to be a Muslim. How much longer should I delay?’ I told him that I too was travelling with the same object in view, so we went to Medina to the apostle. Khalīd got there first and accepted Islam and gave his allegiance. Then I came up and said, ‘O apostle, I will give you my allegiance on condition that my past faults are forgiven and no mention is made of what has gone before.’ He said, ‘Give allegiance ‘Amr, for Islam does away with all that preceded it, as does the hījra.’ So I gave my allegiance and went away (730).

One whom I do not suspect told me that ‘Uthmān b. Ṭalḥa b. Abū Ṭalḥa who was with them accepted Islam at the same time.

Ibn al-Zibārā’ al-Sahmī said:

I adjure ‘Uthmān b. Ṭalḥa by our oath of friendship
And by the casting of the sandals at the stone of kissing
And by every alliance our fathers made,
Khālid not being exempt from such,
Do you want the key of a house other than yours?
And what can be more desirable than the glory of an ancient house?
Trust not Khālid and ‘Uthmān
After this; they have brought a great disaster.

The conquest of B. Qurayza was in Dhū’l-Qa‘da and the beginning of Dhū’l-Hijja. The polytheists were in charge of that pilgrimage.

THE ATTACK ON B. LIHĪYĀN

The apostle stayed in Medina during Dhū’l-Hijja, Muharram, Safar, and the two months of Rabī‘, and in Jumādā’-l-Ulā, six months after the conquest of Qurayza, he went out against B. Liḥīyān to avenge his men killed at al-Rajjī, Khubayb b. ‘Adiy and his companions. He made as though he was going to Syria in order to take the people by surprise (731). He went past Ghorāb, a mountain near Medina on the road to Syria, then by Mabṣa‘, then by al-Battā‘, then he turned off to the left and came out by Bīn, then by Ṣuhkayratūl-Yamām, then the track went by the Meccan highroad. He quickened the pace until he came down to Ghorāb, the haunts of B. Liḥīyān. (Ghorāb is a wādī between Amaj and ‘Usfān extending as far as a village called Sāyā.) He found that the people had been warned and taken up strong positions on the tops of the mountains. When the apostle got there and saw that he had failed to take them by surprise as he

1 ‘Uthmān was the Keeper of the Key of the Ka‘ba. See W. 821.
2 The place is wrongly given as Makhiṭ in W.
3 A wādī near Medina.
4 Between al-Sayyāl and Farah.
719 had intended, he said, 'Were we to come down to 'Usfān the Meccans would think that we intend to come to Mecca.' So he went out with two hundred riders until he came to 'Usfān, when he sent two horsemen from his companions who went as far as Kurā'ul-Ghanām. Then he turned and went back.

Jāhīr b. 'Abdullāh used to say, 'I heard the apostle say when he set his face towards Medina "Returning repentant if God will, giving thanks to our Lord. I take refuge in God from the difficulties of the journey and its unhappy ending, and the evil appearance of man and beast."'

The tradition about the raid on B. Liḥyān is from Āsim b. 'Umar b. Qāṭāda and 'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr from 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik. Ka'b b. Mālik said:

If B. Liḥyān had waited
They would have met bands in their settlements, fine fighters.
They would have met audacious warriors whose terror fills the way.¹
In front of an irresistible force glittering like stars.
But they were as weasels who stick to the Clefts of the rocks², which have no means of escape.

THE ATTACK ON DHŪ QARAD

The apostle had spent only a few nights in Medina when 'Uuyānā b. Ḥishāb b. Ḥudhayfā b. Badr al-Faḍlārī with the cavalry of Ghaṭṭāfān raided the apostle's milch-camels in al-Ghāba.³ A man of B. Ghiṭār, who had his wife with him, was in charge of the camels. Him they killed and carried off his wife with the camels.

Āsim b. 'Umar b. Qāṭāda and 'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr and a man I do not suspect from 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik contributed to the story which follows. The first to know of them was Salāmā b. 'Amr b. al-Akwā al-Aslāmī. That morning he was making for al-Ghāba armed with bow and arrows accompanied by a slave belonging to Taḥā b. 'Ubaydullāh with a horse which he was leading. When he got to the pass of al-Wādā' he saw some of their cavalry and looked down in the direction of Sa' and cried aloud, 'O (what a) morning!' Then he hurried off after the raiding party like a lion. When he came up with them he began to keep them at bay with arrows, saying as he shot:

Take that, al-Akwā's son am I.
Today, mean crowd, you die!

Whenever the horsemen made for him he fled from them; then back he would come and take a shot at them when he could, saying the same words. One of them said, 'Our little Akwā' comes early in the morning.'

Ibnūl-Akwā's call for aid reached the apostle and he ordered the alarm to be sounded in Medina and the cavalry rallied to him. The first horsemanship was al-Miqdād b. 'Amr called b. al-Aṣwad, ally of B. Zuhra. The next to arrive from the Ansār were B. 'Abdullāh b. Bishr b. Wāṣḥīb b. Zughībā b. Zū'arā, one of B. 'Abdullāh-Aslāhī; Sa'd b. Zayd, one of B. Ka'b b. 'Abdullāh-Aslāhī; Usāyid b. Zuhāyir, brother of B. Ḥārīthā b. al-Ḥārīth, though there is some doubt about him; 'Ukāša b. Miḥsān, brother of B. Aslād b. Ḥuṣayn; Muḥrīz b. Nādla, brother of B. Ḥasan b. Ḥuṣayn; Abū Qātāda al-Ḥārīth b. Ribī', brother of B. Salīm; and Abū 'Ayyāsh who was 'Ubayd b. Zayd b. al-Sāmit, brother of B. Zurayq. When they had gathered to the apostle, he set Sa'd b. Zayd over them according to my information and told them to go in pursuit of the band until he himself overtook them with the army.

I have heard from some men of B. Zurayq that the apostle said to Abū 'Ayyāsh: 'How would it be if you were to give this horse to a man who is a better rider than you and he caught up with the band?' He replied: 'I am the best horsemanship of the people! Then I beat the horse, and by Allah he had not taken me fifty cubits before he threw me. I was astonished that the apostle should say that he wished that I had given him to a better horsemanship and that I should have said that I was the best horsemanship.' Men of B. Zurayq allege that the apostle gave Abū 'Ayyāsh's horse to Mu'āḍ b. Mā'īs, or to 'A'idh b. Mā'īs b. Qays b. Khalāda who was the eighth. Some people count Salāmā b. 'Amr b. al-Akwā as one of the eight and exclude Usāyid b. Zuhāyir, but God knows what happened, seeing that Salāmā was not riding that day but was the first to catch up with the band on foot. The horsemen went in pursuit of the band until they overtook them.

'Āsim b. 'Umar b. Qāṭāda told me that the first horsemanship to catch up with the band was Muḥrīz b. Nādla who was called 'al-Akhrām' and 'Qumayr', and that when the alarm sounded a horse belonging to Maḥmūd b. Maslāmā ran round the plantation when it heard the neighing of the horses, for it was a treasured animal not put to work. When some women of B. 'Abdullāh-Aslāhī saw the horse running round the plantation with the stump of wood to which it was tied they said: 'How would you like to ride this horse, Qumayr? You can see what it is like. Then you could overtake the apostle and the Muslims.' He agreed and they handed it over to him, and he soon outstripped the rest of them because it was full of spirit. When he overtook the band and came to a halt in front of them he said: 'Stop, you rascals, until the emigrants and Ansār who are behind you catch up with you.' One of them attacked and killed him. The horse wheeled and they could not stop him until it stood by its stable among B. 'Abdullāh-Aslāhī. This man was the only Muslim to be killed (732).

Maḥmūd's horse was called Dhūl-Limma (733). One whom I do not suspect told me from 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik that Muḥrīz rode a horse of 'Ukāša's called al-Janāh. Muḥrīz was killed 734

¹ Between Mecca and Medina, a wadi some eight miles from 'Usfān.
² Or, with a different vowel, 'the heart'.
³ A variant is 'passees of Ḥijāz'.
⁴ Near Medina in the direction of Syria.
and al-Janâh was captured. When the cavalry engaged, Abû Qatâda al­ Hâríth b. Rib‘î killed Hâbîb b. ‘Uyayna b. Hiân and covered him with his mantle; then he joined his force. The apostle advanced with the Muslims (734) and there was Hâbîb covered with Abû Qatâda’s mantle. The men exclaimed, ‘We are God’s and to Him must we return! Abû Qatâda has been killed.’ The apostle said that it was not Abû Qatâda but a man he had killed and covered with his mantle so that they might know that he was his prey. ‘Ukâsha overtook Aûbâr and his son ‘Amr who were riding the same camel, and ran them through with his lance, killing the two of them at one stroke. They recovered some of the milch-camels. The apostle went forward until he halted at the mountain of Dhî Qarad, and the men joined him there, and he stopped there for a day and a night.
Salama b. al-Akwa’ asked if he might go with a hundred men and recover the rest of the herd and cut off the heads of the band. I have heard that the apostle said, ‘By this time they are being served with their evening drink among Ghaîfân.’ The apostle divided a butchered camel among every hundred men, and after a while he returned to Medina. The wife of the Ghifârî came upon one of the apostle’s she-camels and told him what had happened. Having done so she said, ‘I vowed to Allah that I would slaughter her if Allah let me escape on her.’ The apostle smiled and said:
‘You would repay her badly when God mounted you on her and delivered you by her and then you would slaughter her! No vow in disobedience to God nor concerning property that is not your own is valid. She is one of my camels, so go back to your family with God’s blessing.’ This story of the Ghifârî’s wife comes from Abûl-Zubayr al-Makki from al-Hasan b.
Abûl-Hasan al-Bastî.

Among the verse composed about Dhî Qarad is the following from Hassân b. Thâbit:

Were it not for what our horses suffered and what hurt their frogs
As they were led to the south of Saya last night,
They would have met you as they carried well-armed warriors
Noble in ancestry protecting their standard,
And the bastards would have rejoiced that we Did not fight when Miqdâd’s horsemen came.
We were eight; they were a great force
Loud-voiced yet pricked by (our) lances (and) scattered.
We were of the people who followed them
And we gave free rein to every noble steed.
Yes, by the Lord of the camels that go to Minâ
Traversing the great mountain passes (we will pursue you)
Till we make the horses stale2 in the midst of your dwellings
And come back with your women and children,
Walking gently with every swift horse and mare

1 This line is obscure. Perhaps the ‘sacred property’ means the prophet’s camels. Possibly the verb is an optative.
2 i.e. Medina.
Tell the truth to those you meet whenever you come out. Conceal not the news in assemblies. Say, We slipped away from the claws of the angry lion. With rage in his heart which he could not work off (736).

Shaddâd b. 'Ārid said concerning the day of Dhū Qaḍā with reference to 'Uyaynâ who was surnamed Abû Mâlik:

Why, O Abû Mâlik, did you not return to the fight when your cavalry were in flight and being slain? You mentioned going back to 'Aṣjar.2 Nonsense! it was too late to return. You trusted yourself to a spirited horse quickly covering the ground when given free rein. When your left hand reined him in, he reared like a flaming cauldron. And when you saw that God's servants did not wait for those behind to come up, you knew that horsemen had been trained to chase warriors when they took to the plain. When they chase the cavalry they bring disgrace on them, and if they are pursued they dismount and protect themselves in evil case. With swords which the polisher has made bright.

The Life of Muhammad

The apostle stayed in Medina during the latter part of Jumâdâl-Âkhira and Rajâb; then he attacked B. al-Muṣṭalîq of Khuzâ'â in Sha'bân a.H. 6 (737).

'Āsim b. 'Umar b. Qatâda and 'Abdullâh b. Abû Bâkîr and Muhammad b. Yaḥyâ b. Habbân each told me a part of the following story: The apostle received news that B. al-Muṣṭalîq were gathering together against him, their leader being al-Ḥārîth b. Abû Dirâr, the father of Juwayriyya d. al-Ḥârîth (afterwards) wife of the apostle. When the apostle heard about them, he went out and met them at a watering place of theirs called al-Muraysîl in the direction of Qudayd towards the shore. There was a fight and God put the B. al-Muṣṭalîq to flight and killed some of them and gave the apostle their wives, children, and property as booty. A Mushîm of B. Kalb b. 'Uaḍ b. 'Āmir b. Layth b. Bâkîr called Hisâm b. Subâbâ was killed by a man of the Anṣâr of the family of 'Ubâd b. al-Ṣâmît who thought he was an enemy and killed him in error.

While the apostle was by this water a party came down to it. 'Umar had a hired servant from B. Ghifâr called Jahjâh b. Mas'ûd who was leading his horse. This Jahjâh and Sinân b. Wâbâr al-Juḥânî, an ally of B. 'Uaḍ b. 1 Reading fândâqâ with C. against W.'s fâkumâ. 2 A place near Mecca.

al-Khazraj, thrust one another away from the water and fell to fighting. The Juhanî called out 'Men of al-Ânṣâr!' and Jahjâh called out 'Men of the Muhâjirûn!'. 'Abdullâh b. Ubây b. Saḥîl was enraged. With him was a number of his people including Zayd b. Arqâm, a young boy. He said, 'Have they actually done this? They dispute our priority, they outnumber us in our own country, and nothing so fits us and the vagabonds of Quraysh as the ancient saying "Feed a dog and it will devour you". By Allah when we return to Medina the stronger will drive out the weaker.' Then he went to his people who were there and said: 'This is what you have done to yourselves. You have let them occupy your country, and you have divided your property among them. Had you but kept your property from them they would have gone elsewhere.' Zayd b. Arqâm heard this and went and told the apostle when he had disposed of his enemies. 'Umar, who was with him, said, 'Tell 'Abbâd b. Bishr to go and kill him.' The apostle answered, 'But what if men should say Muhammad kills his own companions? No, but give orders to set off.' Now this was at a time when the apostle was not accustomed to travel. The men duly moved off.

When 'Abdullâh b. Ubây heard that Zayd had told the apostle what he had said he went to him and swore that he had not said what he did say. He was a great man among his own people and the Anṣâr who were present with the apostle said: 'It may well be that the boy was mistaken in what he said, and did not remember the man's words,' sympathizing with Ibn Ubây and protecting him.

When the apostle had begun his journey Usayd b. Hudayr met him and saluted him as a prophet, saying, 'You are travelling at a disagreeable time, a thing you have never done before.' The apostle said: 'Have you not heard of what your friend said? He asserted that if he returns to Medina the stronger will drive out the weaker.' He answered: 'But you will drive him out if you want to; he is the weak and you are the strong.' He added: 'Treat him kindly, for Allah brought you to us when his people were stringing beads to make him a crown, and he thinks that you have deprived him of a kingdom.'

Then the apostle walked with the men all that day till nightfall, and through the night until morning and during the following day until the sun distressed them. Then he halted them, and as soon as they touched the ground they fell asleep. He did this to distract their minds from what 'Abdullâh b. Ubây had said the day before. He continued his journey through the Hijaz as far as water a little above al-Naqî' called Bâq'â. As he travelled at night a violent wind distressed the men and they dreaded it. He told them not to be afraid because the wind announced the death of one of the greatest of the unbelievers, and when they got to Medina they found that Rîfâ'î b. Zayd b. al-Tâbît b. Qaynuqâî, one of the most important Jews and a secret shelterer of the disaffected, had died that day.

The sûra came down in which God mentioned the disaffected with Ibn Ubây and those like-minded with him. When it came down the apostle... took hold of Zayd b. Arqam's ear, saying, "This is he who devoted his ear to Allah." 'Abdullah, 'Abdullah b. Ubayy's son, heard about his father's affair.

'Asim b. 'Umar b. Qatada told me that 'Abdullah came to the apostle, saying, "I have heard that you want to kill 'Abdullah b. Ubayy for what you have heard about him. If you must do it, then order me to do it and I will bring you his head, for al-Khazraj know that they have no man more dutiful to his father than I, and I am afraid that if you order someone else to kill him my soul will not permit me to see his slayer walking among men and I shall kill him, thus killing a believer for an unbeliever, and so I should go to hell." The apostle said: 'Nay, but let us deal kindly with him and make much of his companionship while he is with us.' After that it happened that if any misfortune befell it was his own people who reproached and upbraided him roughly. The apostle said to 'Umar when he heard of this state of things: 'Now what do you think, 'Umar? Had I killed him on the day you wanted me to kill him the leading men would have trembled with rage. If I ordered them to kill him today they would kill him.' 'Umar replied, 'I know that the apostle's order is more blessed than mine.'

Miqyas b. 'Abd al-Malik came from Mecca as a Muslim, so he professed, saying, 'I come to you as a Muslim seeking the bloodwit for my brother who was killed in error.' The apostle ordered that he should have the bloodwit for his brother Hisham and he stopped a short while with the apostle. Then he attacked his brother's slayer and killed him and went off to Mecca an apostate. He spoke the following lines:

It eased my soul that he died in the lowland,
The blood of his neck veins dyeing his garments.
Before I killed him I was beset by cares
Which prevented me from seeking my couch.
I gave free vent to my vengeance
And was the first to return to the idols.
I avenged Fihr on him and laid his bloodwit
On the chiefs of B. al-Najjar, the lords of Fari'.

He also said:

I fetched him a stroke in vengeance
Which drew blood that ebbed and flowed.
I said as the wrinkles of death covered him
'You can't be safe from B. Bakr when they are wronged' (738).

Of B. Mu'talik who were slain that day, 'Ali killed two—Malik and his son. 'Abdull-l-Rahman b. 'Auf killed one of their horsemen called A'mar.

1 This anecdote is related by Zayd in the first person in Waqidi (B.M. MS. 1617, 956). It is a good example of the way in which early traditions preserved the general sense and were comparatively indifferent to the form of words.
2 One of their castles.

The Life that was Uttered on the Raid of B. al-Mu'talik

According to what a man I do not suspect told me from al-Zuhri from 'Urwa from 'A'isha the apostle had gone forward on that journey of his until he was near Medina, 'A'isha having been with him on the journey, when the liars spoke about her.

1 Sura 49. 6.
Al-Zuhri told us from ‘Aqama b. Waqqas, and from Sa‘id b. Jubayr and from ‘Urwā b. al-Zubayr, and from ‘Abdullah b. ‘Utba, each contributing a part of the story, one remembering more of it than another, and I (Zuhri) have put together for you what the people told me.

Yahyā b. ‘Abbād b. ‘Abdullah b. al-Zubayr told me from his father from ‘A’isha; and ‘Abdullah b. Abu Bakr from ‘Amra d. ‘Abdu’l-Rahmān from ‘A’isha from her own words when the liars said what they did. The whole of her story rests on these men as a whole. One relates what another does not. All of them are trustworthy witnesses, and all of them related what they heard from her. She said: ‘When the apostle intended to go on an expedition he cast lots between his wives which of them should accompany him. He did this on the occasion of the raid on B. al-Mustaqiq and the lot fell on me, so the apostle took me out. The wives on these occasions used to eat light rations; meat did not fill them up so that they were heavy. When the camel was being saddled for me I used to sit in my howdah; then the men who saddled it for me would come and pick me up and take hold of the lower part of the howdah and lift it up and put it on the camel’s back and fasten it with a rope. Then they would take hold of the camel’s head and walk with it.

‘When the apostle finished his journey on this occasion he started back and halted when he was near Medina and passed a part of the night there. Then he gave permission to start and the men moved off. I went out for a certain purpose having a string of Zafār beads on my neck. When I had finished, it slipped from my neck without my knowledge, and when I returned to the camel I went feeling my neck for it but could not find it. Meanwhile the main body had already moved off. I went back to the place where I had been and looked for the necklace until I found it. The men who were saddling the camel for me came up to the place I had just left and having finished the saddling they took hold of the howdah thinking that I was in it as I normally was, picked it up and bound it on the camel, not doubting that I was in it. Then they took the camel by the head and went off with it. I returned to the place and there was not a soul there. The men had gone. So I wrapped myself in my smock and then lay down where I was, knowing that if I were missed they would come back for me, and by Allah I had but just lain down when Ṣafwān b. al-Mu’attal al-Sulami passed me; he had fallen behind the main body for some purpose and had not spent the night with the troops. He saw my form and came and stood over me. He used to see me before the veil was prescribed for us, so when he saw me he exclaimed in astonishment “The apostle’s wife” while I was wrapped in my garments. He asked me what had kept me behind but I did not speak to him. Then he brought up his camel and told me to ride it while he kept behind. So I rode it and he took the camel’s head going forward quickly in search of the army, and by Allah we did not overtake them and I was not missed until the morning. The men halted and when they were rested up came the man leading me and the liars spread their reports and the army was much disturbed. But by Allah I knew nothing about it.

‘Then we came to Medina and immediately I became very ill and so heard nothing of the matter. The story had reached the apostle and my parents, yet they told me nothing of it though I missed the apostle’s accustomed kindness to me. When I was ill he used to show compassion and kindness to me, but in this illness he did not and I missed his attentions. When he came in to see me when my mother was nursing me (740), all he said was, “How is she?” so that I was pained and asked him to let me be taken to my mother so that she could nurse me. “Do what you like,” he said, and so I was taken to my mother, knowing nothing of what had happened until I recovered from my illness some twenty days later. Now we were an Arab people: we did not have those privies which foreigners have in their houses; we loathe and detest them. Our practice was to go out into the open spaces of Medina. The women used to go out every night, and one night I went out with Umm Misrh d. Abū Ruhm b. al-Muṭṭalib b. ‘Abdu Manāf. Her mother was d. Ṣakhr b. ‘Āmir b. Ka‘b b. Sa‘d b. Ṭaym aunt of Abū Bakr. As she was walking with me she stumbled over her gown and exclaimed, “May Misr be dead!” Misr being the nickname of ‘A‘īshā. I said, “That is a bad thing to say about one of the emigrants who fought at Badr.” She replied, “Haven’t you heard the news, O daughter of Abū Bakr?” and when I said that I had not heard she went on to tell me of what the liars had said, and when I showed my astonishment she told me that all this really had happened. By Allah, I was unable to do what I had to do and went back. I could not stop crying until I thought that the weeping would burst my liver. I said to my mother, “God forgive you! Men have spoken ill of me (T, and you have known of it) and have not told me a thing about it.” She replied “My little daughter, don’t let the matter weigh on you. Seldom is there a beautiful woman married to a man who loves her but her rival wives gossip about her and men do the same.”

‘The apostle had got up and addressed the men, though I knew nothing about it. After praising God he said: “What do certain men mean by worrying me about my family and saying false things about them? By Allah, I know only good of them, and they say these things of a man of whom I know nought but good, who never enters a house of mine but in my company.”

‘The greatest offenders were ‘Abdullah b. Ubayy among the Khazraj and Misrāḥ and Ḥamna d. Jaẖsh, for the reason that her sister Zaynāb d. Jaẖsh was one of the apostle’s wives and only she could rival me in his favour. As for Zaynāb, Allah protected her by her religion and she spoke nothing but good. But Ḥamna spread the report far and wide opposing me (T, rivalling me) for the sake of her sister, and I suffered much from that.

1 Ṣa‘īna, a woman carried in a howdah.
2 Or ‘she (Zaynāb) suffered’.
'And, by God, the apostle had not moved from where he was sitting when there came over him from God what used to come over him and he was wrapped in his garment and a leather cushion was put under his head. As for me, when I saw this I felt no fear or alarm, for I knew that I was innocent and that God would not treat me unjustly. As for my parents, as soon as the apostle recovered I thought that they would die from fear that confirmation would come from God of what men had said. Then the apostle recovered and sat up and there fell from him as it were drops of water on a winter day, and he began to wipe the sweat from his brow, saying, "Good news, 'A'isha! God has sent down (word) about your innocence." I said, "Praise be to God," and he went out to the men and addressed them and recited to them what God had sent down concerning that (T. 'me'). Then he gave orders about Mistah b. Uthátha and Hassán b. Thábit and Hamma d. Jahsh who were the most explicit in their slander and they were flogged with the prescribed number of stripes.

'My father Ishaq b. Yasär told me from some of the men of B. al-Najjar that the wife of Abú Ayyûb Khalid b. Zayd said to him, "Have you heard what people are saying about 'A'isha?" 'Certainly, but it is a lie," he said. "Would you do such a thing?" She answered "No, by Allah, I would not," He said, "Well, 'A'isha is a better woman than you."'

'A'isha continued: When the Quran came down with the mention of those of the slanderers who repeated what the liars had said, God said: 'Those who bring the lie are a band among you. Do not regard it as a bad thing for you; nay it is good for you. Every man of them will get what he has earned from the sin, and he who had the greater share therein will have a painful punishment," meaning Hassán b. Thábit and his companions who said what they said (741).

Then God said, "Why did not the believing men and women when you heard it think good of themselves? i.e. say what Abû Ayyûb and his wife said. Then He said, 'When you welcomed it with your tongues and spoke with your mouths that of which you had no knowledge you thought it a light thing, yet with God it is grave.'

When this came down about 'A'isha and about those who spoke about her, Abû Bakr who used to make an allowance to Mistah because he was of his kin and needy said, 'Never will I give anything to Mistah again, nor will I ever help him in any way after what he said about 'A'isha and brought evil on us.' She continued: 'So God sent down concerning that "And let not those who possess dignity and ease among you swear not to give to kinsmen and the poor and those who emigrate for God's sake. Let them forgive and shew forbearance. Do you not wish that God should forgive you? And God is forgiving, merciful!" (742).'

Abû Bakr said, 'Yes, by Allah, I want God to forgive me,' so he continued the allowance that he was accustomed to give to Mistah, saying, 'I will never withdraw it from him.'

1 Cf. Sûra 4, 107.
2 Care is taken to avoid the use of 'A'isha's name.
3 Sûra 12. 18.
Then Sa'fwan b. al-Mu'aṭṭal met Hassān b. Thābit with a sword when he heard what he was saying about him, for Hassān had also uttered some verse alluding to him and the Arabs of Muḍar who had accepted Islam:

The vagabond immigrants have become powerful and numerous
And Ibu'l-Furay'a has become solitary in the land.¹
As good as bereaved is the mother of the man I fight
Or caught in the claws of a lion.
The man I kill will not be paid for
By money or by blood.
When the wind blows in the north and the sea rides high
And bespatters the shore with foam
'Tis no more violent than I when you see me in a rage
Devastating as a cloud of hail.
As for Quraysh, I will never make peace with them
Until they leave error for righteousness
And abandon al-Lat and al-'Uzzá
And all bow down to the One, The Eternal,
And testify that what the apostle said to them is true,
And faithfully fulfil the solemn oath with God.²

Sa'fwan met him and smote him with his sword, saying according to what Ya'qūb b. Utba told me:

Here's the edge of my sword for you!
When you lampoon a man like me you don't get a poem in return!

Muhammad b. Ibrāhīm b. al-Hārith al-Taymi told me that Thābit b. Qays b. al-Shammās leapt upon Sa'fwan when he smote Hassān and tied his hands to his neck and took him to the quarter of B. al-Hārith b. al-Khazraj. Abdullah b. Rawāḥa met him and asked what had happened, and he said: 'Do I surprise you? He smote Hassān with the sword and by Allah he must have killed him.' Abdullah asked if the apostle knew about what he had done, and when he said that he did not he told him that he must free the man. He did so. Then they came to the apostle and told him of the affair and he summoned Hassān and Sa'fwan. The latter said, 'He insulted and satirized me and rage so overcame me that I smote him.' The apostle said to Hassān, 'Do you look with an evil eye on my people because God has guided them to Islam?' He added, 'Be charitable about what has befallen you.' Hassān said, 'It is yours, O apostle' (743).

The same informant told me that the apostle gave him in compensation Br Ḥā, today the castle of B. Ḥudaylā in Medina. It was a property belonging to Abī Ṭalḥa b. Sahl which he had given as alms to the apostle who gave it to Hassān for his blow. He also gave him Sirīn a Copt slave-girl, and she bare him 'Abdu'l-Rahmān.

'A'isha used to say, 'Questions were asked about Ibu'l-Furay'a and they found that he was impotent; he never touched women. He was killed as a martyr after this.'

Hassān b. Thābit said, excusing himself for what he had said about 'A'isha:

Chaste, keeping to her house, above suspicion,
Never thinking of reviling innocent women;
A noble woman of the clan of Lu'ayy b. Ḥālib,
Seekers of honour whose glory passes not away.
Pure, God having purified her nature
And cleansed her from all evil and falsehood.
If I said what you allege that I said
Let not my hands perform their office.
How could I, with my lifelong affection and support
For the family of the apostle who lends splendour to all gatherings,
His rank so high above all others that
The highest leap would fall short of it?
What has been said will not hold
But is the word of one who would slander me (744).

A Muslim said about the flogging of Hassān and his companions for slandering 'A'isha (745):

Hassān, Hamna, and Miṣṭaḥ tasted what they deserved
For uttering unseemly slander;
They slandered with ill-founded accusations their prophet's wife;
They angered the Lord of the glorious throne and were chastised.
They injured God's apostle through her
And were made a public and lasting disgrace.
Lashes rained upon them like
Raindrops falling from the highest clouds.

The affair of al-Hudaybiya, a.H. 6. The willing homage and the peace between the apostle and Suhayl b. 'Amr

Then the apostle stayed in Medina during the months of Ramadān and Shawwāl and went out on the little pilgrimage in Dhul-Qa'da with no intention of making war (746). He called together the Arabs and neighbouring Bedouin to march with him, fearing that Quraysh would oppose him with arms or prevent him from visiting the temple, as they actually did. Many of the Arabs held back from him, and he went out with the emigrants and Ānsār and such of the Arabs as stuck to him. He took the ¹ Here in a bad sense. He is speaking of himself submerged in a sea of refugees.

² The language is reminiscent of the Quran. The point of the reference to Ṣafwān is not clear to me.
The Life of Muhammad

sacrificial victims with him and donned the pilgrim garb so that all would know that he did not intend war and that his purpose was to visit the temple and to venerate it.

Muhammad b. Maslam b. Shihab al-Zuhri from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from Miswar b. Makhrama and Marwan b. al-Hakam told me: The apostle went out in the year of al-Hudaybiya with peaceful intent meaning to visit the temple, and took with him seventy camels for sacrifice. There were seven hundred men so that each camel was on behalf of ten men. Jābir b. 'Abdullah, so I have heard, used to say, 'We, the men of al-Hudaybiya, were fourteen hundred.'

Al-Zuhri continued: When the apostle was in 'Usfān, Bishr b. Sufyān al-Ka'bi met him (747) and said: 'There are Quraysh who have heard of your coming and have come out with their milch-camels and have put on leopards' skins, and have encamped at Dhū Ṭuwa swearing that you will never enter Mecca in defiance of them. This man Khālid b. al-Walid is with their cavalry which they have sent in advance to Kurāʾul-Ghamīm.'

The apostle said: 'Alas, Quraysh, war has devoured them! What harm would they have suffered if they had left me and the rest of the Arabs to go our own ways? If they should kill me that is what they desire, and if God should give me the victory over them they would enter Islam in flocks. If they do not do that they will fight while they have the strength, so what are Quraysh thinking of? By Allah, I will not cease to fight for the mission with which God has entrusted me until He makes it victorious or I perish.' Then he said, 'Who will take us out by a way in which we shall not meet them?'

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that a man of Aslam volunteered to do so and he took them by a rugged, rocky track between passes which was very hard on the Muslims, and when they emerged from it on to the easy ground at the end of the wadi the apostle said to the men, 'Say, We ask God's forgiveness and we repent towards Him.' They did so and he said, 'That is the "putting away" that was enjoined on the children of Israel; but they did not say the words.'

The apostle ordered the force to turn to the right through the salty growth on the road which leads by the pass of al-Murar and when his camel knelt and the men said, 'The camel won't get up,' he said: 'It has not refused and such is not its nature, but the One who restrained the elephant from Mecca is keeping it back. Today whatever condition Quraysh make in which they ask me to show kindness to kindred I shall agree to.' Then he told the people to dismount. They objected that there was no water there by which they could halt, so he took an arrow from his quiver and gave it to one of his companions and he took it down into one of the waterholes and prodded the middle of it and the water rose until the men's camels were satisfied with drinking and lay down there.

One of the B. Aslam told me that the man who went into the hole with the apostle's arrow was Nājiya b. Jundub b. 'Umayr b. Ya'āmar b. Dārim b. 'Amr b. Wa'il b. Sahm b. Māzīn b. Sallāmān b. Aslam b. Afṣā b. Abū Hurāra who drove the apostle's camels to sacrifice (748).

A traditionist alleged to me that al-Bara' b. 'Azhī used to say that it was he who went down with the apostle's arrow, and God knows which it was.

The Aslam quoted verses from the lines which Nājiya made. We think that it was he who went down with the arrow. Aslam allege that a slave-girl of the Ansār came up with her bucket while Nājiya was in the well supplying the people with water and said:

O you down below, my bucket is here.
I can hear all our men who wish you good cheer
Praising the one who draws water here (749).

Nājiya said as he was in the hole getting the water:

The Yamani slave-girl knows
That I'm Nājiya down below getting water.
Many a wide bloody wound I've made
In the breasts of advancing foes.

In his tradition al-Zuhri said: When the apostle had rested Budayl b. Warqa' al-Khuṣa'ī came to him with some men of Khuṣa'ī and asked him what he had come for. He told them that he had not come for war but to go on pilgrimage and venerate the sacred precincts. Then he said to them what he had said to Bishr b. Sufyān. Then they returned to Quraysh and told them what they had heard; but they suspected them and spoke roughly to them, saying, 'He may have come not wanting war but by Allah he shall never come in here against our will, nor shall the Arabs ever say that we have allowed it.'

Khuṣa'ī were the apostle's confidants, both their Muslims and their polytheists. They kept him informed of everything that happened in Mecca.

Then Quraysh sent Mikraz b. Haṣ b. al-Akhyaf brother of B. 'Amr b. Lu'ayy to him. When he saw him approaching the apostle said, 'This is a treacherous fellow!' When he came up and spoke to him the apostle gave him the same reply as he had given Budayl and his companions, and he returned and told the Quraysh what the apostle had said.

1 This passage and 744, line 5, imply that leopard skins were actually worn. The language in Hamāda 82. 13 and Mufad. 640. 6 appears to be figurative. For 'milch-camels' some substitute 'women and children'.
2 A wadi about 8 miles from 'Usfān.
3 ‘Hijja’ is said to mean 'take away our sins'. Cf. Sūras 2. 55 and 7. 161.
4 Hand here may be a place-name, but the place of this name in Yāq. ii. 339 is much too far away from Mecca.
Then they sent to him al-Hulays b. 'Alqama or Ibn Zabbān, who was at that time chief of the black troops, being one of B. al-Hārith b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kīnānā. When he saw him the apostle said, 'This is one of the devout people, so send the sacrificial animals to meet him so that he can see them.' When he saw them going past him from the side of the wadi with their festive collars round their necks and how they had eaten their hair because they had been so long kept back from the place of sacrifice, he went back to Quraysh and did not come to the apostle, so greatly was he impressed by what he had seen. When he told them that, they said, 'Sit down! You are only a Bedouin, utterly ignorant.'

'Abdullah b. Ābu Bakr told me that this enraged al-Hulays, who said: 'You men of Quraysh, it was not for this that we made an alliance and agreement with you. Is a man who comes to do honour to God's house to be excluded from it? By him who holds my life in his hand, either you let Muhammad do what he has come to do or I shall take away the black troops to the last man.' They said, 'Be quiet, Hulays! until we obtain for ourselves acceptable terms.'

In his narrative al-Zuhri said: Then they sent 'Urwā b. Mas'ūd al-Thaqafi to the apostle and he said: 'You men of Quraysh, I have seen the harshness and rude words with which you have received those you sent to Muhammad when they returned to you. You know that you are the father and I am the son—for 'Urwā was the son of Subay'a d. 'Ābd Shams—heard of what befell you and I collected those of my people who obeyed me; then I came to you to help you.' They agreed and said that they did not suspect him. So he came to the apostle and sat before him and said: 'Muhammad, have you collected a mixed people together and then brought them to your own people to destroy them? Quraysh have come out with their milch-camels clad in leopard skins swearing that you shall never enter Mecca by force. By God I think I see you deserted by these people (here) tomorrow.' Now Ābu Bakr was sitting behind the apostle and he said, 'Suck al-Lat's nipples! Should we desert him?' He asked who had spoken, and when he heard it was Ibn Ābu Quḥāfa he said, 'By Allah, did I not owe you a favour I would pay you back for that, but now we are quits.' Then he began to take hold of the apostle's beard as he talked to him. Al-Mughira b. Shu'ba was standing by the apostle's head clad in mail and he began to hit his hand as he held the apostle's beard saying, 'Take your hand away from the apostle's face before you lose it.' 'Urwā said, 'Confound you, how rough and rude you are!' The apostle smiled and when 'Urwā asked who the man was he told him that it was his brother's son, al-Mughira b. Shu'ba and he said, 'O wretch, it was only yesterday that I washed your dirty parts!' (750).

The apostle told him what he had told the others, namely that he had not come out for war. He got up from the apostle's presence having seen how his companions treated him. Whenever he performed his ablutions they ran to get the water he had used; if he spat they ran to it; if a hair of his head fell they ran to pick it up. So he returned to Quraysh and said, 'I have been to Chosroes in his kingdom, and Caesar in his kingdom and the Negus in his kingdom, but never have I seen a king among a people like Muhammad among his companions. I have seen a people who will never abandon him for any reason, so form your own opinion.'

A traditionist told me that the apostle called Khirāsh b. Umayya al-Khuwāṭ and sent him to Quraysh in Mecca, mounting him on one of his camels called al-Thā'lab to tell their chiefs from him what he had come for. They hamstrung the apostle's camel and wanted to kill the man, but the black troops protected him and let him go his way so that he came back to the apostle.

One whom I do not suspect from 'Ikrima client of Ibn 'Abbās from the latter told me that Quraysh had sent forty or fifty men with orders to surround the apostle's camp and get hold of one of his companions for them, but they were caught and brought to the apostle, who forgave them and let them go their way. They had attacked the camp with stones and arrows. Then he called 'Umar to send him to Mecca with the same message, but 'Umar told him that he feared for his life with Quraysh, because there were none of B. 'Adī b. Ka'b in Mecca to protect him, and Quraysh knew of his enmity and his rough treatment of them. He recommended that a man more prized there than himself should be sent, namely 'Uthmān. The apostle summoned 'Uthmān and sent him to Ābū Sufyān and the chiefs of Quraysh to tell them that he had not come for war but merely to visit the house and to venerate its sanctity.

As 'Uthmān entered or was about to enter Mecca Abān b. Sa'd b. al-Āṣ met him and carried him in front of him. Then he gave him his protection until he could convey the apostle's message to them. Having heard what 'Uthmān had to say, they said: 'If you want to go round the temple, go round it.' He said that he could not do so until Muhammad did so, and Quraysh kept him a prisoner with them. The apostle and the Muslims were informed that 'Uthmān had been killed.

THE WILLING HOMAGE

'Abdullah b. Ābu Bakr told me that when the apostle heard that 'Uthmān had been killed he said that they would not leave until they fought the enemy, and he summoned the men to give their undertaking. The pledge of al-Riḍwān took place under a tree. Men used to say that the apostle took their pledge unto death, but rather their undertaking that they would not run away. Not one of the Muslims who were present failed to give his hand except al-Jadd b. Qays, brother of B. Salima. Jābir used to say: 'By Allah, I can almost see him now sticking to his camel's side

---

1. It is just possible that suhūr is the pl. of suhūr, a bitter salty herb with thorns (hâmīda). In that case it would support the rendering of Ḥamād on p. 741.

2. u.s.
crying as he tried to hide himself from the men.' Then the apostle heard that the news about 'Uthman was false (751).

THE ARMISTICE

Al-Zuhri said: Then Quraysh sent Suhayl b. 'Amr brother of B. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy to the apostle with instructions to make peace with him on condition that he went back this year, so that none of the Arabs could say that he made a forcible entry. When the apostle saw him coming he said, 'The people want to make peace seeing that they have sent this man.' After a long discussion peace was made and nothing remained but to write an agreement. 'Umar jumped up and went to 'Abû Bakr saying, 'Is he not God's apostle, and are we not Muslims, and are they not polytheists?' to which 'Abû Bakr agreed, and he went on: 'Then why should we agree to what is demeaning to our religion?' He replied, 'Stick to what he says, for I testify that he is God's apostle.' 'Umar said, 'And so do I.' Then he went to the apostle and put the same questions to which the apostle answered, 'I am God's slave and His apostle. I will not go against His commandment and He will not make me the loser.' 'Umar used to say, 'I have not ceased giving alms and fasting and praying and freeing slaves because of what I did that day out of fear for what I had said, when I hoped that (my plan) would be better.'

Then the apostle summoned 'Ali and told him to write 'In the name of Allah the Compassionate, the Merciful.' Suhayl said 'I do not recognize this; but write "In thy name, O Allah."' The apostle told him to write the latter and he did so. Then he said: 'Write "This is what Muhammad, the apostle of God has agreed with Suhayl b. 'Amr."' Suhayl said, 'If I witnessed that you were God's apostle I would not have fought you. Write your own name and the name of your father.' The apostle said: 'Write "This is what Muhammad b. 'Abdullah has agreed with Suhayl b. 'Amr: they have agreed to lay aside war for ten years during which men can be safe and refrain from hostilities on condition that anyone comes to Muhammad without the permission of his guardian he will return him to them; and if anyone of those with Muhammad comes to Quraysh they will not return him to him. We will not show enmity one to another and there shall be no secret reservation or bad faith. He who wishes to enter into a bond and agreement with Muhammad may do so and he who wishes to enter into a bond and agreement with Quraysh may do so."' Here Khuzâ'î leapt up and said, 'We are in a bond and agreement with Muhammad,' and B. Bakr leapt up and said the same with regard to Quraysh, adding 'You must retire from us this year and not enter Mecca against our will, and next year we will make way for you and you can enter it with your companions, and stay there three nights. You may carry a rider's weapons, the swords in their sheaths. You can bring in nothing more.'

While the apostle and Suhayl were writing the document, suddenly Abû Jandal b. Suhayl appeared walking in fetters, having escaped to the apostle. The apostle's companions had gone out without any doubt of occupying Mecca because of the vision which the apostle had seen, and when they saw the negotiations for peace and a withdrawal going on and what the apostle had taken on himself they felt depressed almost to the point of death. When Suhayl saw Abû Jandal he got up and hit him in the face and took hold of his collar, saying, 'Muhammad, the agreement between us was concluded before this man came to you.' He replied, 'You are right.' He began to pull him roughly by his collar and to drag him away to return him to Quraysh, while Abû Jandal shrieked at the top of his voice, 'Am I to be returned to the polytheists that they may entice me from my religion? Muslims?' and that increased the people's dejection. The apostle said, 'O Abû Jandal, be patient and control yourself, for God will provide relief and a means of escape for you and those of you who are helpless. We have made peace with them and we and they have invoked God in our agreement and we cannot deal falsely with them.' 'Umar jumped up and walked alongside Abû Jandal saying, 'Be patient for they are only polytheists; the blood of one of them is but the blood of a dog,' and he brought the hilt of his sword close up to him. 'Umar used to say, 'I hoped that he would take the sword and kill his father with it, but the man spared his father and so the matter ended.'

When the apostle had finished the document he summoned representatives of the Muslims and polytheists to witness to the peace, namely Abû Bakr, 'Umar, and 'Abdu'l-Rahmân b. 'Au', Abdullah b. Suhayl b. 'Amr, and Sa'd b. Abû Waqqas, Ma'mûd b. Maslama, Mikraz b. Hâfîz who was a polytheist at the time, and 'Ali who was the writer of the document.

The apostle was encamped in the profane country, and he used to pray in the sacred area. When the peace was concluded he slaughtered his victims and sat down and shaved his head. I have heard that it was Khirîsh b. Umayya b. al-Fadl al-Khuza'i who shaved him then. When the men saw what the apostle had done they leapt up and did the same.

'Abdullah b. Abû Najîh from Mughâidîh from Ibn 'Abbas told me, 'Some men shaved their heads on the day of al-Hudaybiya while others cut their hair.' The apostle said, 'May God have mercy on the shavers.' They said, 'The cutters, too, O apostle?' Three times they had to put this question until finally he added 'and the cutters'. When they asked him why he had repeatedly confined the invocation of God's mercy to the shavers he replied, 'Because they did not doubt.'

The same authorities told me that the apostle sacrificed in the year of al-Hudaybiya among his victims a camel belonging to Abû Jahl which had a silver nose-ring, thus enraging the polytheists.

Zuhri continued: The apostle then went on his way back and when he was half-way back the sûra al-Fath came down: 'We have given you a plain victory that God may forgive you your past sin and the sin which is to come and may complete his favour upon you and guide you on an upright path.' Then the account goes on about him and his companions until he comes to mention the oath of allegiance and He said: 'Those who swear allegiance to you really swear allegiance to God, the hand of God being above their hands; so he who breaks his oath breaks it to his own hurt; while he who is faithful to what he has covenanted with God, to him will He give a great reward.'

Then He mentioned the Bedouin who held back from him. Then He said when he urged them to take the field with him and they procrastinated, 'The Bedouin who were left behind will say to you: Our possessions and our families preoccupied us!' Then follows an account of them until the words 'Those who were left behind will say when you go out to capture spoil, Let us follow you, wishing to change what God has said. Say, You shall not follow us. Thus has God said beforehand.' Then follows an account of them and how it was explained to them that they must fight a people of great prowess.

Abdullah b. Abū Najīth from 'Ātā b. Abū Rabīḥ from Ibn 'Abbās said (That means) Persia. One whom I do not suspect from al-Zuhri told me that 'a people of great prowess' meant Ḥanīfah with the arch-hair.

Then He said: 'God was pleased with the believers when they swore allegiance to you under the tree and He knew what was in their hearts, and He sent down the Sakīna upon them and rewarded them with a recent victory and much spoil which they will take. God is mighty, wise. God has promised you much spoil which you will capture and has given you this in advance, and kept men's hands from you, that it may be a sign to the believers and that He may guide you on an upright path, and other (things) which you have not been able to get. God encompasses them, and God is almighty.'

Then He mentioned how He had kept him away from battle after the victory over them, meaning those He had kept from him. Then He said: 'He is he who has kept their hands from you and your hands from them in the vale of Mecca, after He had given you victory over them. God is a seer of what you do.' Then He said: 'They are those who disbelieved and debarred you from the sacred mosque and the offering from reaching its goal.' Then He said: 'And had it not been for the believing men and women whom you did not know lest you should tread them under foot and thus incur guilt for them unwittingly. Mā'arrā means 'a fine', i.e. lest you should suffer loss for them unwittingly and pay its bloodwit; as for real guilt he did not fear it on their account (753).

Then He said, 'When those who disbelieve had set in their hearts zealotry, the zealotry of paganism,' i.e. Suhayl b. 'Amr when he scorned to write 'In the name of Allah the Compassionate the Merciful' and that Muhammad is God's apostle. Then He said 'God sent down His sakīna upon His apostle and the believers and imposed on them the word of piety, for they were meet and worthy of it,' i.e. the declaration of God's unity, the witness that there is no God but Allah and that Muhammad is His slave and His apostle.

Then He said: 'God has fulfilled the vision to His apostle in truth. You shall enter the sacred mosque if God will, safely with heads shaved and hair cut short fearing not. For He knows what you do not know,' i.e. the vision which the apostle saw that he would enter Mecca safely without fear. He says 'with your heads shaved and hair cut short' along with him without fear, for He knows what you do not know of that, and more than that He has wrought a near victory, the peace of al-Hudaybiya.

No previous victory in Islam was greater than this. There was nothing but battle when men met; but when there was an armistice and war was abolished and men met in safety and consulted together none talked about Islam intelligently without entering it. In those two years double as many or more than double as many entered Islam as ever before (754).

THE CASE OF THOSE LEFT HELPLESS AFTER THE PEACE

When the apostle arrived in Medina Abū Başir 'Utba b. Asid b. Jāriya, one of those imprisoned in Mecca, came to him. Azhar b. Abū 'Auf b. 'Abd b. al-Jāriyah b. Zuhra and al-Akhnas b. Sharāq b. 'Amr b. Wābah al-Thaqāfī wrote to the apostle about him, and they sent a man of B. 'Amir b. Lu'ayy with a freed slave of theirs. When they came to the apostle with the letter he said, 'You know the undertaking we gave these people and it ill becomes us that treachery should enter our religion. God will bring relief and a way of escape to those helpless like you, so go back to your people.' He said, 'Would you return me to the polytheists who will seduce me from my religion?' He said, 'Go, for God will bring relief and a way of escape for you and the helpless ones with you.' So he went with them as far as Dhū'l-Hulayfah where he and the two men sat against a wall. Abū Başir said, 'Is your sword sharp, O brother of B. 'Amir?' When he said that it was said that he would like to look at it. 'Look at it if you want to,' he replied. Abū Başir unsheathed it and dealt him a blow that killed him. The freedman ran off to the apostle who was sitting in the mosque, and when the apostle saw him coming he said, 'This man has seen something frightful.' When he came up the apostle said, 'What's the matter, woe to you?' He said: 'Your man has killed my man,' and almost at once Abū Başir came up girt with the sword, and standing by the apostle he said, 'Your obligation is over and God has removed it from you. You duly handed me over to the men and I have protected myself in my religion lest I should be seduced therein or scoffed at.' The apostle said, 'Woe is his mother, he would have kindled a war had there been others with him.'

from the Hebrew shekinah, possibly through the medium of Syriac. A summary of what has been said about it with a bibliography is given by A. Jeffery, Foreign Vocabulary of the Qurān, 174.

1 About six or seven miles from Medina.
2 Or, 'The firebrand! Would that others had been with him!'
Then Abu Basīr went off until he halted at al-'Is in the region of Dhū'l-Marwān by the sea-shore on the road which Quraysh were accustomed to take to Syria. The Muslims who were confined in Mecca heard what the apostle had said of Abū Basīr so they went out to join him in al-'Is. About seventy men attached themselves to him, and they so harried Quraysh, killing everyone they could get hold of and cutting to pieces every caravan that passed them, that Quraysh wrote to the apostle begging him by the ties of kinship to take these men in, for they had no use for them; so the apostle took them in and they came to him in Medina (755).

When Suhayl heard that Abū Basīr had killed his 'Amrī guard he leant his back against the Ka'ba and swore that he would not remove it until this man's bloodwit was paid. Abū Sufyān b. Harb said, 'By God, this is sheer folly. It will not be paid.' Three times he said it.

Mauhab b. Riyāh Abū Unays, an ally of Zuhra, said (756):

A brief word from Suhayl reached me
And woke me from my sleep,
If you wish to reproach me
Then reproach me, for you are not far from me.
Would you threaten me when 'Abdu Manāf is round me
With Makhzūm? Alas, whom are you attacking?
If you put me to the test you will not find me
A weak support in grave misfortunes.
I can rival in birth the best of my people.
When the weak are ill-treated I protect them.
They defend the heights of Mecca without doubt
As far as the valleys and the wadi sides
With every blood mare and fiery horse
Grown thin from long fighting.
Ma'add know they have in al-Khayf'
A pavilion of glory exalted high.

'Abdullāh b. al-Zibara answered him:

Mauhab has become like a poor donkey
Braying in a village as he passes through it.
A man like you cannot attack Suhayl.
Vain is your effort. Whom are you attacking?
Shut up, you son of a blacksmith,
And stop talking nonsense in the land.
Don't mention the blame of Abū Yazid.
There's a great difference betweenoccans and puddles.

1 A place in Minā.
take from you, then compensate them from any booty that you secure. When this verse came down, ‘O you who believe when believing women come to you as emigrants,’ as far as the words ‘and hold not to the cords of disbelieving women’ it referred to ‘Umar’s divorcing his wife Qurayba d. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughira. Mu‘awiya b. Abū Sufyān married her afterwards while they were both polytheists in Mecca; and Umm Kultum the Khuzā‘īte woman d. Jarwal mother of Ubaydullah b. ‘Umar whom Abū Jahl b. Hudhayfa b. Ghānim a man of ‘Umar’s people married while they both were polytheists (758).

THE EXPEDITION TO KHAYBAR, A.H. 7

After his return from al-Hudaybiya the apostle stayed in Medina during Dhū‘l-Hijja and part of al-Muharram, the polytheists superintending the pilgrimage. Then he marched against Khaybar (759).

Muhammad b. Ibrāhīm b. al-Ḥārith al-Taymi from Abū‘l-Haytham b. Naṣr b. Duhr al-Aslami from his father who said that he heard the apostle as he journeyed say to ‘Amr b. al-Akwa’ who was the uncle of Sa‘lāma b. ‘Amr b. al-Akwa’ who was named Sīnā‘: ‘Dismount, Ibn al-Akwa’, and chant one of your camel-songs for us’, so he got down and recited this rough rhyme:

But for Allah we should not have been guided Nor given alms nor prayed.
If people treat us unjustly
And if they wish to seduce us we resist.
Send down Saklā‘ upon us
And make our feet firm when we meet our enemies.

The apostle said, ‘May God have mercy on you!’ ‘Umar said, ‘You have made his death inevitable, O apostle of God. Would that you had let us enjoy him longer.’ He was killed at Khaybar as a martyr. I have heard that his sword turned upon him as he was fighting and gave him such a grievous wound that he died of it. The Muslims were in doubt as to whether he died a martyr, saying that he had died in the service of religion. He was a warrior of the first rank. The apostle’s prohibition of the flesh of domestic donkeys and the apostle got up and forbade the people to do a number of things which he enumerated.

One whom I do not suspect told me from ‘Atā’ b. Abū Marwān al-Aslami from his father from Abū Mu‘āttil b. ‘Amr that when the apostle looked down on Khaybar he told his companions, among whom I was one, to stop. Then he said:

‘O God, Lord of the heavens and what they o’ershadow
And Lord of the lands and what they make to grow
And Lord of the devils and what into error they throw
And Lord of the winds and what they winnow,

We ask Thee for the good of this town and the good of its people and the good of what is in it, and we take refuge in Thee from its evil and the evil of its people and the evil that is in it. Forward in the name of Allah.’ He used to say that of every town he entered.

One whom I do not suspect told me from Anas b. Mālik: When the apostle raided a people a man waited until the morning. If he heard a call to prayer he went back; if he did not hear it he attacked. We came to Khaybar by night, and the apostle passed the night there; and when morning came he did not hear the call to prayer, so he rode and we rode with him, and I rode behind Abū Ta‘lī with my foot touching the apostle’s foot. We met the workers of Khaybar coming out in the morning with their spades and baskets. When they saw the apostle and the army they cried, ‘Muhammad with his force,’ and turned tail and fled. The apostle said, ‘Allah akbar! Khaybar is destroyed. When we arrive in a people’s square it is a bad morning for those who have been warned.’ Ḥarūn told us from Humayd from Anas similarly.

When the apostle marched from Medina to Khaybar he went by way of ‘Irā‘ and a mosque was built for him there; then by way of al-Salbā‘. Then he went forward with the army until he halted in a wadi called al-Rajj, halting between the men of Khaybar and Ghatafan so as to prevent the latter reinforcing Khaybar, for they were on their side against the apostle.

I have heard that when Ghatafan heard about the apostle’s attack on Khaybar they gathered together and marched out to help the Jews against him; but after a day’s journey, hearing a rumour about their property and families, they thought that they had been attacked during their absence, so they went back on their tracks and left the way to Khaybar open to the apostle. The apostle seized the property piece by piece and conquered the forts one by one as he came to them. The first to fall was the fort of Nā‘im; there Mahmūd b. Maslama was killed by a millstone which was thrown on him from it; then al-Qamīṣ the fort of B. Abū‘l-Ḥuqayq. The apostle took captives from them among whom was Ṣafiya d. Ḥuwayy b. Akhtab who had been the wife of ‘Ukāna b. al-Rab‘ b. Abū‘l-Ḥuqayq, and two cousins of hers. The apostle chose Ṣafiya for himself.

Dīhya b. Khalīfa al-Kalbi b. asked the apostle for Ṣafiya, and when he chose her for himself he gave her two cousins. The women of Khaybar were distributed among the Muslims. The Muslims ate the meat of the domestic donkeys and the apostle got up and forbade the people to do a number of things which he enumerated.

‘Abdullah b. Ṣamrā al-Fazārī told me from ‘Abdullah b. Abū Sāliṯ from his father: The apostle’s prohibition of the flesh of domestic donkeys reached us as the pots were boiling with it, so we turned them upside down.

1 This is the usual meaning of adhān, but probably here a more general term is indicated: ‘a call to get up and work’.
2 A mountain between Medina and Wadi‘l-Fur‘.
3 An evening’s journey from Khaybar.
759 Yazid b. Abū Ḥabib told me from Abū Marzūq client of Ṭūḥib from Ḥanash al-Ṣanʿānī: With Ruwayfiʿ b. Thabit al-ʿAnṣārī we attacked the Maghrib, and one of its towns called Jirba was conquered. A man arose as a preacher and said, 'Let me tell you what I heard the apostle say on the day of Khaybar. He got up among us and said: 'It is not lawful for a man who believes in Allah and the last day to mingle his seed with another man's (meaning to approach carnally a pregnant woman among the captives), nor is it lawful for him to take her until he has made sure that she is in a state of cleanliness; nor is it lawful for him to sell bootiy until it has been properly divided; nor is it lawful for him to ride an animal belonging to the bootiy of the Muslims with the intention of returning it to the pool when he has worn it out; nor is it lawful for him to wear a garment belonging to the bootiy of the Muslims with the intention of returning it to the pool when he has reduced it to rags.'"

The apostle said, 'Who will deal with this fellow?' Muhammad b. Maslama said that he would, for he was bound to take revenge on the man who had killed his brother the day before. The apostle told him to go and prayed Allah to help him. When they approached the other the one the other cut his sword like a man standing upright. Then Marḥab attacked Muhammad b. Maslama and struck him. He took the blow on his shield and the sword bit into it and remained fast. Muhammad then gave Marḥab a fatal wound.

After Marḥab's death his brother Yāsir came out with his challenge:

(Khaybar knows that I am Yāsir,
Fully armed, a doughty warrior.
As when lions advance at a rush
The enemy give way before my onslaught.)

Hishām b. ʿUrwa alleged that al-Zubayr b. al-ʿAwnām went out to fight Yāsir. His mother Ṣafīyya d. ʿAbduʿl-Muṭṭalib said, 'Will he kill my son, O apostle?' He replied, 'Nay, your son will kill him, if God will.' So al-Zubayr went out saying (T).

Khaybar knows that I am Zabbār,
Chief of a people no cowardly runaways,
The son of those who defend their glory, the son of princes.

1 The sacred territory of an idol or a sanctuary and so any place that a man is bound to protect from violation.
2 The obvious break in the sense is corrected in I.H.'s version. 'Lightning' (ʿaqiq) in I. 4 may mean 'a jewel'.
3 Said by Lane, 2031c, to be the Asclepias gigantea or great swallow-wort.
4 T.'s text (1576) is clearer here.

Abū Najīḥ told me from Makhūl that the apostle prohibited four things that day: carnal intercourse with pregnant women who were captured; eating the flesh of domestic donkeys; eating any carnivorous animal; and selling bootiy before it had been duly allotted.

Sallām b. Kūfrātī told me from 'Amr b. Dīnār from Jābir b. 'Abdullāh al-ʿAnṣārī (Jābir had not been present at Khaybar) that when the apostle forbade the flesh of donkeys he allowed them to eat horseflesh.

When the apostle had conquered some of their forts and got possession of some of their property he came to their two forts al-Wāṭīh and al-Sulālim, the last to be taken, and the apostle besieged them for some ten nights (760).

Abū D. Sahl b. ʿAbduʾl-Rahmān b. Sahl, brother of B. Ḥārītha, told me from Jābir b. 'Abdullāh: Marḥab the Jew came out from their fort carrying his weapons and saying:

Khaybar knows that I am Marḥab,
An experienced warrior armed from head to foot,

1 An island near Qābīs.
The Life of Muhammad

O Yāsir, let not all the unbelievers deceive you,
For all of them are like a slowly moving mirage.

When the two met al-Zubayr killed Yāsir.
Hishām b. 'Urwa told me that it was said to al-Zubayr, 'By God, you must have had a sharp sword that day,' to which he replied that it was not sharp, but he used it with great force.

Burayda b. Sufyān b. Farwā al-Aslāmī told me from his father Sufyān from Salāma b. 'Amr b. al-Akwa': The apostle sent Abū Bakr with his banner (762) against one of the forts of Khaybar. He fought but returned having suffered losses and not taken it. On the morning he sent 'Umar and the same thing happened. The apostle said, 'Tomorrow I will give the flag to a man who loves Allah and his apostle. Allah will conquer it by his means; he is no runaway.' So he called 'Alī who was suffering from ophthalmia at the time and spat in his eye, saying, 'Take this flag and go with it until God gives victory through you.' So Abū Bakr went off with it, gasping as he hurried, while we followed behind in his tracks until he stuck the flag in a pile of rocks under the fort. A Jew looked at him from the top of the fort and asked who he was, and when he told him he said, 'You have won, by what was revealed to Moses!' or words to that effect. He did not return until God had conquered by his hands.

'Abdullāh b. al-Ḥasan told me from one of his family from Abū Rāfī', freed slave of the apostle: We went with 'Alī when the apostle sent him with his flag and when he got near the fort the garrison came out and he fought them. A Jew struck him so that his shield fell from his hand, so 'Alī laid hold of a door by the fort and used it as a shield. He kept it in his hand as he fought until God gave victory, throwing it away when all was over. I can see myself with seven others trying to turn that door over, but we could not.

Burayda b. Sufyān b. Farwā al-Aslāmī told me from one of B. Salāma from Abū'l-Yāsir Ka'b b. 'Amr: We were with the apostle one evening at Khaybar when along came some sheep belonging to a Jew, making for their fort while we were besieging them. The apostle asked who would get this food for us and Abū'l-Yāsir volunteered to go. He said, 'I went out running like an ostrich, and when the apostle saw me coming back he said "O God, may we long enjoy him."
I had overthrown the flock as the first sheep entered the fort and I seized the two last and carried them off under my arms, bringing them back at a run as though I carried nothing until I cast them down before the apostle. They were duly killed and eaten.' Abū'l-Yāsir was the last of the apostle's companions to die. Whenever he told this story he used to weep, saying, 'They did enjoy me a long time; indeed I am the last of them.'

When the apostle had conquered al-Qamūs the fort of B. Abū'l-Huṣayq, Saffīya d. Ḥuṣayy b. Akhtāb was brought to him along with another woman.

1 Apparently the Jew takes the name 'Alī as an omen when he says 'aliutum.

The Rest of the Affair of Khaybar

Kīnānā b. al-Rābī', who had the custody of the treasure of B. al-Naḍīr, was brought to the apostle who asked him about it. He denied that he knew where it was. A Jew came (T. was brought) to the apostle and said that he had seen Kīnānā going round a certain ruin every morning early. When the apostle said to Kīnānā, 'Do you know that if we find you have it I shall kill you?' he said Yes. The apostle gave orders that the ruin was to be excavated and some of the treasure was found. When he asked him about the rest he refused to produce it, so the apostle gave orders to al-Zubayr b. al-'Awwām, 'Torture him until you extract what he has,' so he kindled a fire with flint and steel on his chest until he was nearly dead. Then the apostle delivered him to Muhammad b. Maslama and he struck off his head, in revenge for his brother Māḥmūd.

The apostle besieged the people of Khaybar in their two forts al-Wāṭīḥ and al-Sulālīm until when they could hold out no longer they asked him to let them go, and spare their lives, and he did so. Now the apostle had taken possession of all their property—al-Shaqq, Naṭā', and al-Katība and all their forts—except what appertained to these two.* When the people of Fadak heard of what had happened they sent to the apostle asking him to let them go and to spare their lives and they would leave him their property, and he did so. The one who acted as intermediary was Muhāyīṣa b. Mas'ūd, brother of B. Ḥāritha.1 When the people of Khaybar surrendered on these conditions they asked the apostle to employ them on the property with half share in the produce, saying, 'We know more about it than you and we are better farmers.' The apostle agreed to this arrangement on the condition that 'if we wish to expel you we will expel you.' He made a similar arrangement with the men of Fadak. So Khaybar became Bilāl who was bringing them led them past the Jews who were slain; and when the woman who was with Saffīya saw them she shrieked and slapped her face and poured dust on her head. When the apostle saw her he said, 'Take this she-devil away from me.' He gave orders that Saffīya was to be put behind him and threw his mantle over her, so that the Muslims knew that he had chosen her for himself. I have heard that the apostle said to Bilāl when he saw this Jewess behaving in that way, 'Had you no compassion, Bilāl, when you brought two women past their dead husbands?' Now Saffīya had seen in a dream when she was the wife of Kīnānā b. al-Rābī' b. Abū'l-Huṣayq that the moon would fall into her lap. When she told her husband he said, 'This simply means that you covet the king of the Hijaj, Muhammad.' He gave her such a blow in the face that he blacked her eye. When she was brought to the apostle the mark was still there, and when he asked the cause of it he told him this story.

1 Cf. Bal. 20 f.
the prey of the Muslims, while Fadak was the personal property of the apostle because they had not driven horses or camels against it.

When the apostle had rested Zaynab d. al-Ḥarīth, the wife of Sallām b. Mishkam prepared for him a roast lamb, having first inquired what joint he preferred. When she learned that it was the shoulder she put a lot of poison in it and poisoned the whole lamb. Then she brought it in and placed it before him. He took hold of the shoulder and chewed a morsel of it, but he did not swallow it. Bishr b. al-Barā' b. Ma'rūr who was with him took some of it as the apostle had done, but he swallowed it, while the apostle spat it out, saying, 'This bone tells me that it is poisoned.' Then he called for the woman and she confessed, and when he asked her what had induced her to do this she answered: 'You know what you have done to my people. I said to myself, If he is a king I shall case myself of him and if he is a prophet he will be informed (of what I have done). So the apostle let her off. Bishr died from what he had eaten.

Marwān b. 'Uthmān b. 'Abū Sa'id b. al-Mu'allā told me: The apostle had said in his illness of which he was to die when Umm Bishr d. al-Barā' came to visit him, 'O Umm Bishr, this is the time in which I feel a deadly pain from what I ate with your brother at Khaybar.' The Muslims considered that the apostle died as a martyr in addition to the prophetic office with which God had honoured him.

Having finished with Khaybar, the apostle went to Wādī'l-Qurā and besieged its people for some nights, then he left to return to Medina.

Thaur b. Zayd told me from Ṣālim, freed slave of 'Abdullah b. Mu'tār' from Abū Hurayra, who said: When we left Khaybar to go to Wādī'l-Qurā with the apostle we halted there in the evening as the sun was setting. The apostle had a slave which Rīfā'a b. Zayd al-Judhani, of the clan al-Ḍubaybī, had given him (763). He was laying down the apostle's saddle when suddenly a random arrow hit him and killed him. We congratulated him on paradise, but the apostle said, 'Certainly not. His cloak is even now placed before him. He took hold of the shoulder and chewed a morsel of the spoils of the Muslims.' One of his companions heard this and came to him saying, 'I took two sandal thongs.' He said, 'Two thongs of fire will be cut for you like them.'

One I do not suspect told me from 'Abdullah b. Mughaffal al-Muza'īn: 'I took a bag of lard from the booty of Khaybar and carried it off on my shoulder to my companions, when the man who had been put over the spoil met me and laid hold of the end of it, saying, 'Hie! This we must divide among the Muslims.' I said that I would not give him it and he began to try and pull the bag away from me. The apostle saw what was happening and laughed. Then he said to the officer in charge of the spoil 'Let him have it, confound you,' so he let go of it and I went off to my companions and we ate it.'

When the apostle married Ṣafiyya in Khaybar or on the way, she having been beautified and combed, and got in a fit state for the apostle by Umm Sulaym d. Mihhān mother of Anas b. Mālik, the apostle passed the night with her in a tent of his. Abū Ayyūb, Khalīd b. Zayd brother of B. al-Najjar passed the night girt with his sword, guarding the apostle and going round the tent until in the morning the apostle saw him there and asked him what he meant by his action. He replied, 'I was afraid for you with this woman for you have killed her father, her husband, and her people, and till recently she was in unbelief, so I was afraid for you on her account.' They allege that the apostle said 'O God, preserve Abū Ayyūb as he spent the night preserving me.'

Al-Zuhri told me from Sa'id b. al-Musayyab: When the apostle left Khaybar and was on the way he said towards the end of the night: 'Who will watch over us till the dawn so that we may sleep?' Bilāl volunteered to do so, so all lay down and slept. Bilāl got up and prayed as long as God willed that he should; then he propped himself against his camel, and there was the dawn as he was looking at it, and his eyes were heavy and he slept. The first thing to wake the others was the feel of the sun. The apostle was the first to wake up and he asked Bilāl what he had done to them. He said that the same thing had happened to him as had happened to the apostle, and he admitted that he was right. Then the apostle let himself be taken a short distance; then he made his camel kneel, and he and the men performed their ablutions. Then he ordered Bilāl to call to prayer, and the apostle led them in prayer. Having finished he went to them and said, 'If you forget your prayers, pray them when you remember them, for God has said, "Perform prayer for My remembrance."'

I have heard that the apostle gave Ibn Luqaym al-ʿAbsi the hens and domestic animals which were in Khaybar. The conquest took place in Ṣafar. Ibn Luqaym said:

Naṭā was stormed by the apostle’s squadron
Fully armed, powerful, and strong.
It was certain of humiliation when it was split up
With the men of Aslām and Ghīfār in its midst.
They attacked B. 'Amr b. Zur'a in the morning
And Shaqq's people met a day of gloom.
They trailed their cloaks in their plains
And left only hens cackling among the trees.
Every fort had a man of 'Abdu'l-Ashhal or B. al-Najjar
Busy with their horses,
And Emigrants who had displayed their badges
Above their helms, never thinking of flight.
I knew that Muhammad would conquer
And would stay there many Ṣafars.

1 Cf. Sūra 17. 66, i.e. captured it by force of arms.

2 W.'s reading 'They made the cocks run' may be right.

3 C. 868.
The Jews in the fighting that day
Opened their eyes in the dust (764). 1

Some Muslim women were with the apostle at Khaybar, and the apostle allowed them a small portion of the booty. He did not give them a definite share.

Sulaymān b. Sulḥaym told me from Umayya b. Abū l-Salt from a woman of B. Ghifār whom he named to me: She said, 'I came to the apostle with some women of B. Ghifār and we told the apostle, as he was going to Khaybar, that we wanted to go with him where he went, to tend the wounded and to help the Muslims as far as we could. He told us to go with God's blessing, and so we went with him. I was a young girl and the apostle took me on the back of his saddle. When the apostle dismounted for morning prayer and I got off the back of his saddle, I, some of my blood was on it. It was the first time that this had happened to me. I rushed to the camel in my shame. When the apostle saw my distress and the blood he guessed the reason and told me to cleanse myself; then to take water and put some salt in it, and then to wash the back of the saddle and go back to my mount.'

She added: When the apostle conquered Khaybar he gave us a small part of the booty. He took this necklace which you see on my neck and gave it to me and hung it round my neck with his own hand, and by God it will never leave me.' It was on her neck until she died when she gave instructions that it was to be buried with her. She never cleansed herself but she put salt in the purifying water, and gave instructions that it should be put in the water with which she was washed when she was dead.

Of those who found martyrdom at Khaybar according to what Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri said was Masūd b. Rabī'a, an ally of B. Zhurah from al-Qāura; and from the Anṣār of B. 'Amr b. 'Aaf, Aus b. Qatāda.

1 The glassy eyes of the dead are meant. The reading 'āmda 'ima l-anṣār with farra understood as 'fled' seems much inferior.
said, "We will not kill him until we send him to the Meccans and let them kill him among themselves in revenge for their men whom he has killed." They got up and shouted in Mecca, "Here's news for you! You have only to wait for this fellow Muhammad to be sent to you to be killed in your midst." I said, "Help me to collect my money in Mecca and to get in the money owed to me, for I want to go to Khaybar to get hold of the fugitives from Muhammad and his companions before the merchants get there." (767). They got up and collected my money for me quicker than I could have supposed possible. I went to my wife and asked her for the money which she had by her, telling her that I should probably go to Khaybar and seize the opportunity to buy before the merchants got there first. When 'Abbâs heard the news and heard about me he came and stood at my side as I was in one of the merchants' tents, asking about the news which I had brought. I asked him if he could keep a secret if I entrusted it to him. He said he could, and I said, "Then wait until I can meet you privately, for I am collecting my money as you see, so leave me (T. and he left me) until I have finished"; and so, when I had collected everything I had in Mecca and decided to leave, I met 'Abbâs and said, "Keep my story secret for three nights, then say what you will for I am afraid of being pursued." When he said that he would, I said, "I left your brother's son married to the daughter of their king, meaning Safiyya, and Khaybar has been conquered and all that is in it removed and become the property of Muhammad and his companions." He said, "What are you saying, Hajjâ?" I said, "Yes, by Allah, but keep my secret. I have become a Muslim and have come only to get my money fearing that I may be deprived of it. When three nights have passed publish the news as you will." When the third day came 'Abbâs put on a robe of his and scented himself and took his stick, and went to the Ka'ba and went round it. When the people saw him they said, "O Abûl-Fadl, this is indeed steadfastness in a great misfortune!" He answered, "By no means, by Allah by whom you swear, Muhammad has conquered Khaybar and was left married to the daughter of their king. He has seized all that they possess and it is now his property and the property of his companions." They asked, "Who brought you this news?" He said, "The man who brought you your news. He came in to you as a Muslim and has taken his money and gone off to join Muhammad and his companions and to be with him." They said "O men of Allah, the enemy of Allah has escaped. Had we known we would have dealt with him." Almost at once the true news reached them.1

Among the verses about the day of Khaybar are the following from Hassân b. Thabit:

How badly the Khaybaris fought
To preserve their crops and dates

They disliked the thought of death and so their preserve became a spoil
And they behaved like miserable cowards.
Would they flee from death?
The death of the starved is not seemly.

Hassân also said, excusing Ayman b. Umm Ayman b. 'Ubayd who had stayed behind from Khaybar (he was of B. 'Auf b. al-Khazraj. His mother Umm Ayman was a freed slave of the apostle, the mother of Usâma b. Zayd who was thus brother to Ayman by his mother):

At the time when Ayman's mother said to him
You are a coward and were not with the horsemen of Khaybar
Ayman was no coward, but his horse
Was sick from drinking fermented barley-water.
Had it not been for the state of his horse
He would have fought with them as a horseman with his right hand.
What stopped him was the behaviour of his horse
And what had happened to it seemed to him more serious (768).

Nâjiya b. Jundub al-Aslami said:
O servants of Allah, why do you prize
What is nothing but food and drink
When Paradise has amazing joy?

He also said:
I am Ibn Jundub to one who does not know me.
How many an adversary when I charged turned aside.
He perished in the feeding-place of vultures and jackals (769).

The account of the division of the spoil of Khaybar

When the spoil of Khaybar was divided, al-Shaqq and Nâţa fell to the Muslims while al-Katiba was divided into five sections: God's fifth; the prophet's share (T. fifth); the share of kindred, orphans, the poor (T. and T. 158 wayfarers); maintenance of the prophet's wives; and maintenance of the men who acted as intermediaries in the peace negotiations with the men of Fadak. To Muhayyisâ, who was one of these men, the apostle gave thirty loads of barley and thirty loads of dates. Khaybar was apportioned among the men of al-Hudaybiya without regard to whether they were present at Khaybar or not. Only Jâbir b. 'Abdullah b. 'Amr b. Harâm was absent and the apostle gave him the same share as the others. Its two wadis, al-Surayr and Khâs, formed the territory into which Khaybar was divided. Nâţa and al-Shaqq formed 18 shares of which Nâţa formed 5 and al-Shaqq 13. These two places were divided into 1,800 shares.
The number of the companions among whom Khaybar was divided was 1,800 with shares for horse and foot; 1,400 men and 200 horses; every horse got two shares and his rider one; every footman got one share. There was a chief over every allotment for every 100 men, i.e. 18 blocks of shares (770).

The chiefs were 'Ali; al-Zubayr b. al-'Awawm; Talha b. 'Ubaydullah; 'Umar; 'Abdull-Rahmân; 'Âsîm b. 'Adîy; Usayd b. 'Hudayr. Then the share of al-Hârîth b. al-Khazaraj; then the share in Nâ'im; then the share of B. Bayâda; B. 'Ubayd, B. Harâm b. Salîma, and 'Ubayd 'of the shares' (771); Sâ'îda, Ghîfîr and Aslam, al-Najâj, Hârîtha, and Aus.

The first lot in Nâ'im fell to al-Zubayr, namely al-Khau', and al-Surayr followed it; the second to B. Bayâda; the third to Usayd; the fourth to B. al-Hârîth; the fifth in Nâ'im to B. 'Aqîf b. al-Khazaraj and Muzayna and their partners. In it Mâhmid b. Maslama was killed. So much for Nâ'im.

Then they went down to al-Shaqq: the first lot fell to 'Âsîm b. 'Adîy brother of B. al-'Âjân and with it the apostle's share; then the shares of 'Abdull-Rahmân, Sâ'îda, al-Najâj, 'Ali, Talhâ, Ghîfîr and Aslam, 'Umar, Salâma b. 'Ubayd and B. Harâm, Hârîtha, 'Ubayd 'of the shares'; then the share of Aus which was the share of al-Lasîf to which Juhayna and the rest of the Arabs who were at Khaybar was joined; opposite it was the apostle's share which he got with 'Âsîm's share.1

Then the apostle distributed al-Katiba which is Wadi Khâß against his kindred and wives and to other men and women. He gave his daughter Fâtima 200 loads; 'Ali 100; Usâma b. Zayd 200 and 50 loads of dates; 'Âqîsh 200; Abû Bakr 100; 'Âqîl b. Abû Tâlib 140; B. Ja'far 90; Rabî'a b. al-Hârîth 100; Abâl-Salt himself; Abû Nabiqa 50; Rûkânâ b. 'Abdull Yâzîd 50; Qays b. Makhrama 30; his brother Abûl-Qâsim 40; the daughters of 'Ubaydâ b. al-Hârîth and the daughter of al-Husayn b. al-Hârîth 100; B. 'Ubayd b. 'Abdull Yâzîd 60; Ibn Aus b. Makhrama 30; 'Attâb b. Uthâtha and Ibn Ilyûs 50; Umm Rumaytha 40; Nu'aym b. Hind 30; Bûhayna d. al-Hârîth 30; 'Ujâyra b. 'Abdull Yâzîd 30; Umm Hakim d. al-Zubayr b. 'Abdull-Rahmân 40; B. Al-Qasim 40; al-Makkis; al-Zubayr 40; Umm Zayd 40; al-Lasîf 40; B. 'Ubayd b. Talhâ 40; Hamma d. Jâsh 30; Ummu'L-Zubayr 40; Dûbâ'a d. al-Zubayr 40; I. Abû Khunaysh 30; Umm Tâlib 40; Abû Başra 20; Numayla al-Kalbi 50; 'Abdullah b. Wâlih and his two daughters 90 of which 40 were for his two sons; Umm Ḥâbîb d. Jâsh 30; Malkû b. 'Abdull 30; and to his other wives 700 (772).

In the Name of Allah the Compassionate the Merciful. A memorandum of what Muhammad the apostle of Allah gave his wives from the wheat of Khaybar. He distributed to them 180 loads. He gave his daughter Fatîma 85, Usâma b. Zayd 40, al-Miqdâd b. al-Aswad 15, Umm Rumaytha 5. 'Uthmân b. Affân was witness and 'Abbâs wrote the document.

Sâlih b. Kaysân told me from Ibn Shihâb al-Zuhri from 'Ubaydullâh b. 'Abdull b. 'Uthba b. Mas'ûd: The only dispositions that the apostle made at his death were three: He bequeathed to the Rahâwîs land which produced a hundred loads in Khaybar, to the Dîrîs, the Sâbâ'îs, and the Ash'ârs the same. He also gave instructions that the mission of Usâma b. Zayd b. Hârîtha should be carried through2 and that two religions should not be allowed to remain in the peninsula of the Arabs.

The Affair of Fadak

When the apostle had finished with Khaybar, God struck terror to the hearts of the men of Fadak when they heard what the apostle had done to the men of Khaybar. They sent to him an offer of peace on condition that they should keep half of their produce. Their messengers came to him in Khaybar or on the road3 after he came to Medina, and he accepted their terms. Thus Fadak became his private property, because it had not been attacked by horse or camel.4

The Names of the Dârîyûn

They were B. al-Dâr b. Hâni b. Ḥâbîb b. Numâra b. Lakhm who had come to the apostle from Syria, namely, Tamîm b. Aus and Nu'aym his brother, Yâzîd b. Qays, and 'Arafâ b. Mâlik whom the apostle named 'Abdull-Rahmân (773), and his brother Murrân b. Mâlik, and Fâkhî b. Nu'mân, Jabâl b. Mâlik, and Abî Hind b. Barr and his brother al-Tâyyib whom the apostle named 'Abdullah.

According to what 'Abdullâh b. Abû Bakr told me the apostle used to send to Khaybar 'Abdullâh b. Rawâhîa to act as assessor between the Muslims and the Jews. When he made his assessment they would say, 'You have wronged us,' and he would say, 'If you wish it is yours and if you like it is ours,' and the Jews would say, 'On this (foundation) Heaven and earth stand.' But 'Abdullâh acted as assessor for one year only before he was false.1

Proper names with final waw written out instead of nunation are common in Nabataean and Palmyrene inscriptions, but are rarely met with in classical Arabic.

1 The reading of W. tanfil should be corrected to tanfiq with S. See Mûsâ b. 'Uqba, Nos. 13 and 14.
2 The reading of W. bil-T'id should be corrected to bil-tariq with MSS. and T.
3 Cf. Süra 7, 66 and supra, p. 764 of W.'s text.
4 This is a characteristically Jewish expression and if one compares the Arabic bihâddâ after fighting and Khaybar was part of what God gave to him as booty. The apostle divided it into five parts and distributed it among the Muslims, and after the fighting the population surrendered on condition that they should migrate. The apostle called them and said that if they wished he would let them have the property on condition that they worked it and the produce was equally divided between both parties and he would leave them there as long as God let them stay. They accepted the terms and used to work the property on those conditions. The apostle used to send 'Abdullah b. Rawâhâ and he would divide the produce and make a just assessment. When God took away His prophet, Abû Bakr continued the arrangement until his death, and so did 'Umar for the beginning of his amirate. Then he heard that the apostle had said in his last illness, 'Two religions shall not remain together in the peninsula of the Arabs' and he made inquiries until he got confirmation. Then he sent to the Jews saying, 'God has given permission for you to emigrate,' quoting the apostle's words. 'If anyone has an agreement with the apostle let him bring it to me and I will carry it out; he who has no such agreement let him get ready to emigrate.' Thus 'Umar expelled those who had no agreement with the apostle.

Nâfi' client of 'Abdullah b. 'Umar told me from 'Abdullah b. 'Umar: With al-Zubayr and al-Miqdâd b. al-Aswad I went out to our property in Khaybar to inspect it, and when we got there we separated to see to our individual affairs. In the night I was attacked as I was asleep on my bed, and my arms were dislocated at the elbows. In the morning I called my companions to my aid and when they came and asked me who had done this I had to say that I did not know. They reset my arms and then took me to 'Umar who said, 'This is the work of the Jews.' Then he got up and addressed those present saying that the apostle had arranged with the Jews of Khaybar that we could expel them if we wished; that they had attacked 'Abdullah b. 'Umar and dislocated his arms, as they had heard, in addition to their attack on the Anṣâr previously. There was no doubt that they were the authors of these outrages because there was no other enemy on the spot. Therefore if anyone had property in Khaybar he should go to it, for he was on the point of expelling the Jews. And he did expel them.

'Abdullah b. Abû Bakr told me from 'Abdullah b. Maknaf brother of B. Hârîtha: When 'Umar expelled the Jews from Khaybar he rode with the Muhâjirîn and Anṣâr and Jâbbâr b. Sakhr b. Unayya b. Khânsâ' brother of B. Salîma who was the assessor and accountant of the Medmans and Salîma took over the work. All went well and the Muslims found no fault in their behaviour until they attacked 'Abdullâh b. Sahl brother of B. Hârîtha and killed him in violation of their agreement with the apostle, and the apostle and the Muslims suspected them on that account.

Al-Zuhri and Bushayr b. Yasâr told me from Sahl b. Abû Hathâma: 'Abdullâh b. Sahl was killed in Khaybar. He had gone there with friends of his to take away the dates and was found in a pool with his neck broken, having been thrown there. So they took him and buried him and then came to the apostle and told him about the affair. His brother 'Abdul-Râhîm came to him accompanied by his two cousins Hûwayyiṣa and Muḥayyiṣa the sons of Mas'ûd. Now 'Abdul-Râhîm was the youngest of them and the avenger of blood and a prominent man among his people and when he spoke before his two cousins the apostle said, 'The eldest first, the eldest first!' (774) and he became silent. The two cousins then spoke and he spoke after them. They told the apostle of the killing of their relative and he said, 'Can you name the killer, then swear fifty oaths against him that we should deliver him up to you?' They said that they could not swear to what they did not know. He said, 'If they swear fifty oaths that they did not kill him and do not know the slayer, will they be free from the guilt of his blood?' They answered, 'We cannot accept the oaths of Jews. Their infidelity is so great that they would swear falsely.' The apostle paid the blood-wit of a hundred she-camels from his own property. Sahl said, 'By Allah, I shall not forget a young red camel who kicked me as I was leading her.'

Muhammad b. Idrâhîm b. al-Ḥârîth al-Taymi told me from 'Abdul-Râhîm b. Bujayd b. Qayyî, and these two divided Khaybar among its owners according to the original agreement of the lots. There it was long as God let them stay. They accepted the terms and used to work the property on those conditions. The apostle used to send 'Abdullâh b. Rawâhâ and he would divide the produce and make a just assessment. When God took away His prophet, Abû Bakr continued the arrangement until his death, and so did 'Umar for the beginning of his amirate. Then he heard that the apostle had said in his last illness, 'Two religions shall not remain together in the peninsula of the Arabs' and he made inquiries until he got confirmation. Then he sent to the Jews saying, 'God has given permission for you to emigrate,' quoting the apostle's words. 'If anyone has an agreement with the apostle let him bring it to me and I will carry it out; he who has no such agreement let him get ready to emigrate.' Thus 'Umar expelled those who had no agreement with the apostle.

Nâfi' client of 'Abdullah b. 'Umar told me from 'Abdullah b. 'Umar: With al-Zubayr and al-Miqdâd b. al-Aswad I went out to our property in Khaybar to inspect it, and when we got there we separated to see to our individual affairs. In the night I was attacked as I was asleep on my bed, and my arms were dislocated at the elbows. In the morning I called my companions to my aid and when they came and asked me who had done this I had to say that I did not know. They reset my arms and then took me to 'Umar who said, 'This is the work of the Jews.' Then he got up and addressed those present saying that the apostle had arranged with the Jews of Khaybar that we could expel them if we wished; that they had attacked 'Abdullah b. 'Umar and dislocated his arms, as they had heard, in addition to their attack on the Anṣâr previously. There was no doubt that they were the authors of these outrages because there was no other enemy on the spot. Therefore if anyone had property in Khaybar he should go to it, for he was on the point of expelling the Jews. And he did expel them.

'Abdullah b. Abû Bakr told me from 'Abdullah b. Maknaf brother of B. Hârîtha: When 'Umar expelled the Jews from Khaybar he rode with the Muhâjirîn and Anṣâr and Jâbbâr b. Sakhr b. Unayya b. Khânsâ' brother of B. Salîma who was the assessor and accountant of the Medmans and Yazîd b. Thâbit; and these two divided Khaybar among its owners according to the original agreement of the lots.

'Umar divided Wâdi'l-Qûra into shares: one each to 'Uthmân, 'Abdul-Râhîm, and Jâbbâr b. Sakhr; and the rest was divided between the Muslims and the Medmans. The Jews of Khaybar accepted the terms and worked their property in the way agreed upon.

I asked Ibn Shîhâb al-Zuhri, 'How was it that the apostle gave the Jews of Khaybar their palms when he gave them on a tax basis? Did he assign that to them until he was taken or did he give them for some other necessary reason?' He told me that the apostle took Khaybar by force, gāmat. al-ward with Preg Aakhir 2. 19 'on three things the world stands (qaim): on justice, truth, and peace' one can hardly doubt that 'Abdullâh b. Abû Bakr has preserved an accurate account of what took place.

1 Sahîh is the transmitter of the story. The avenger of blood was 'Abdul-Râhîm b. Sahl.
2 This incident is reported by al-Baladhùri from I. I. via al-Bakr in an abbreviated form. There is no significant difference.

1 Khâjar. I. H. (note 777) says that the word means 'share'. My colleague, Dr. R. B. Sergeant, Le Musul, i x v i, 1953, p. 130, writes of the Hadramaut: 'The main branch or channel leading the flood water from the wadi to the fields is called khâjar (pl. khâjûr), a word known to Ibn Hishâm, Sira, p. 780. It I. I. meant 'irrigation channel', as is very
THE RETURN OF THOSE WHO HAD MIGRATED TO A BySSINIA (778)

These are the names of the prophet's companions who stayed in Abyssinia until he sent 'Amr b. Umayya al-Damiri to the Negus to fetch them back in two boats and who ultimately rejoined him in Khaybar after al-Hudaybiya:

From B. Hashim: Ja'far b. Abū Tālib with his wife Asma' d. 'Umayyā, and his son 'Abdullah who was born to him in Abyssinia. Ja'far was killed at Mu'ta in Syria when acting as the apostle's amir. 1 man.

From B. Abū Shams: Khālid b. Sa'id b. al-Ās b. Umayyā with his wife Umayyā d. Khalaf b. Asad (779); his two children Sa'id and Ama begotten in Abyssinia (Khālid was killed at Marj al-Suffar in the caliphate of Abū Bakr); his brother 'Amr whose wife, Fātimah d. Saifwān b. Umayyā b. Muḥarrith al-Kinānī, died in Abyssinia ('Amr was killed at Ajnādāy in Syria during the caliphate of Abū Bakr). 5 men.

With reference to 'Amr b. Sa'id his father Sa'id b. al-Ās b. Umayyā Abū Uḥyāyā said:

O 'Amr, I wish that I knew about you whether
When you carry arms when your arms have grown strong
Will you leave your people's affairs in such disorder
As will disclose the rage they retain in their breasts?

With reference to 'Amr and Khālid, their brother Abān said when the former had become Muslims, and their father Sa'id had died in al-Zurayba in the region of Tāif:

Would that a dead man in Zurayba could see
What 'Amr and Khālid are falsely introducing into religion!

They obeyed the commands of women concerning us
And assisted the very enemies we were fighting.

Khālid answered him and said:

I do not insult my brother's honour since he is my brother
Though he does not refrain from evil words.

When affairs went ill with him he said,

'Would that a man dead in Zurayba would rise from the grave!'

Leave the dead in peace, for he has gone his way,
And deal with the man at hand who has more need of you.

And Mu'ayyib b. Abū Fātimah who became 'Umar's guardian of the public purse; he belonged to the family of Sa'id b. al-Ās; and Abū Mūsā al-Ash'ārī 'Abdullah b. Qays, an ally of the family of 'Utba b. Rabi'a b. Abū Shams. 4.

From B. 'Abdullāh-Dār: Jahm b. Qays b. Qays with his two sons 'Amr and Khuzayma. His wife Umm Hamala d. 'Abdullāh-Aswad (she died in Abyssinia) with her two children. 1.

From B. Sahm b. 'Amr: Maḥmūd b. al-Jāz, an ally of theirs from B. Zubayd. The apostle put him in charge of the fiftieths of the Muslims. 1.

From B. 'Aidy b. Ka'b: Ma'mar b. 'Abdullāh. 1.

From B. 'Amīr: Abū Ḥātīb b. 'Amr; Mālik b. Rabi'a with his wife 'Amra d. al-Saqīd b. Waqqān. 2.

The widows of those who had died in Abyssinia were also brought in the two boats.

The total number of the men whom the Negus sent in the two boats with 'Amr b. Umayya was 15.

Of those who migrated to Abyssinia and did not return until after Badr and the Negus did not send in the two boats to the apostle; and those who came afterwards and those who died in Abyssinia were:

From B. Umayyā b. 'Abdul Shams: Abū 'Ubaydullāh b. Ja'far, an ally from Asad of Khuzayma with his wife Umm Habība d. Abū Sufyān and his daughter Habība from whom Abū Sufyān's daughter got her kunya, her own name being Ramla. 'Ubaydullāh had migrated with the Muslims, but when he got to Abyssinia he turned Christian and died there as such having abandoned Islām. The apostle afterwards married his wife.

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr from 'Urwa told me about Ubaydullāh's turning Christian and said: When he passed by the apostle's companions he used to say, 'Our eyes are opened but yours veiled,' i.e.
We can see clearly but you are only trying to see: you can’t yet see clearly, the metaphor being taken from a puppy who tries to open its eyes and flutters them before he can do so, i.e. We have opened our eyes and we see, but you have not opened your eyes to see though you are trying to do so.

And Qays b. `Abdullah of B. Asad b. Khuzayma who was father of Umayya d. Qays who was with Umm Habība, and his wife Baraka d. Yasar, the freed slave of Abū Sufyān. They were the two foster-mothers of ‘Ubaydullah b. Jaḥsh and Umm Habība d. Abū Sufyān. They took them with them when they migrated to Abyssinia. 2 men.

From B. Asad b. ‘Abdu’l-‘Uzzā: Yazīd b. Zama'a who was killed in the caliphate of ‘Umar; and ‘Amr b. Umayya b. al-Hārith who died in Abyssinia. 2 men.

From B. Zuhra b. Khalīb: al-Muṭṭalib b. Azhar with his wife Ramda d. Abū ‘Auf b. Ḍubayraya who died in Abyssinia. She bare him there `AbdAllah b. al-Muṭṭalib. It was said that he was the first man in Islam to inherit his father’s property.

From B. Taym b. Murra: ‘Amr b. ‘Uthmān who was killed at Qādisīyya with Sa’d b. Abū Waqqās.

From B. Makhaṣīm b. Yaqqaza: Ḥabbār b. Sufyān b. ‘AbdAllah b.-Asad killed at Ajnādāyyn in Abū Bakr’s caliphate; and his brother ‘AbdAllah killed in the year of al-Yarmūk in ‘Umar’s caliphate. (There is doubt as to whether he was killed there or not); and Ḥishām b. Abū Ḥudhayfah.

From B. Jamah b. ‘Amr: Ḥattāb b. al-Hārith and his two sons Muḥammad and al-Hārith with their foster mother Fatimah d. al-Mujallal. Ḥattāb died in Abyssinia as a Muslim and his wife and his two sons came in one of the boats; and his brother Ḥaṭṭāb with his wife Fukayyaha d. Yasar. He died there as a Muslim and his wife Fukayyaha came in one of the boats; and Sufyān d. Ma’mar b. Ḥabīb and his two sons Junādā and Jābir with their mother Ḥāsana, and their half-brother by their mother Shurābīl b. Ḥasana. Sufyān and his two sons Junādā and Jābir died in the caliphate of ‘Umar. 6.

From B. Sahm b. ‘Amr: ‘AbdAllah b. al-Hārith who died in Abyssinia; and Qays b. Ḥudhālah; and Abū Qays b. al-Hārith who was killed at al-Yamāmah in the caliphate of Abū Bakr; and ‘AbdAllah b. Ḥudhālah who was the apostle’s envoy to Chosroes; and al-Hārith b. al-Hārith b. Qays; and Ma’mar b. al-Hārith; and Ḍibir b. al-Hārith and a son of his mother from B. Tamīm called Sa’īd b. ‘Amr who was killed at Ajnādāyyn in the caliphate of Abū Bakr; and Sa’īd b. al-Hārith who was killed in the year of al-Yarmūk in the caliphate of ‘Umar; and al-Sā’īb b. al-Hārith who was wounded at al-Tā’if with the apostle and killed in the battle of Fihl in the caliphate of ‘Umar—others say in the fight at Khaybar; and ‘Umayr b. Ri’āb who was killed at ‘Ayn al-Tamr with Khālid b. al-Walid when he came from al-Yamāmah in the caliphate of Abū Bakr. 11 men.

1 In Syria. Cf. Yāq. 853.
From B. Taym b. Murra: Rayṭa d. al-Ḥārith b. Jubayla who died on the journey and her two daughters ʿÂisha and Zaynab by al-Ḥārith born in Abyssinia. They all, together with their brother Mūsā b. al-Ḥārith, died on the journey from drinking foul water. Only her daughter Fāṭima, born there, survived to return.

From B. Sahm b. Ḥamr: Ramla d. Abū ʿOuf b. Ḍubayra.

From B. ʿAmr b. Luʿayy: Sūda d. Zama b. Qays; and Sahl d. Suhayl b. ʿAmr and his daughter al-Muṣṣalih; and ʿAmra d. al-SA'dī b. Waqqān; and Umm Kuhlūm d. Suhayl b. ʿAmr.

From distant Arab tribes: ʿAṣmāʾ d. ʿUmayya b. al-Nuʿmān; al-Khathṭāmiya; and Fāṭima d. ʿAlībān d. ʿUmayya b. Muharrīrīn al-Khānīyān; and Fukayha d. Yaṣār; and Barakā d. Yaṣār; and Hasana Umm Shurālib b. Hasana. These are the names of the children who were born to them in Abyssinia:

From B. ʿAbdu Shams: Muḥammad b. Abū Ḥudhayfa; and Saʿīd b. Khālid b. Saʿīd and his sister ʿAṣma.

From B. Taym: Mūsā b. al-Ḥārith b. Khālid and his sisters ʿÂisha and Fāṭima and Zaynab. 5 boys and 5 girls.

THE FULFILLED PILGRIMAGE,1 A.H. 7

The apostle returned from Khaybar to Medina he stayed there from the first Rabi' until Shawwal, sending out raiding parties and expeditions. Then in Dhuʾl-Qaʿda—the month in which the polytheists had prevented him from pilgrimage—he went out to make the 'fulfilled pilgrimage' (780) in place of the ʿumra from which they had excluded him.

Those Muslims who had been excluded with him went out in A.H. 7, and when the Meccans heard of it they got out of his way. Quraysh said among themselves, 'Muhammad and his companions are in destitution, want, and privation.'

A man I have no reason to suspect told me that Ibn ʿAbdullāh said: 'They gathered at the door of the assembly house to look at him and his companions, and when the apostle entered the mosque he threw the end of his cloak over his left shoulder leaving his right upper arm free. Then he said: "God have mercy on a man who shows them today that he is strong." Then he kissed2 the stone, and went out trotting3 as did his companions until when the temple concealed him from them and he had kissed3 the southern corner he walked to kiss4 the black stone. Then he trotted5 similarly three circuits and walked the rest.' Ibn ʿAbdullāh Baqr told me that when the apostle entered Mecca on that pilgrimage 'Abdullāh b. Rawāḥa was holding the halter of his camel and saying:

Get out of his way, you unbelievers, make way.4

Every good thing goes with His apostle.

O God, I know Your truth in accepting it.
We will fight you about its interpretation.
As we have fought you about its revelation
With strokes that will remove heads from shoulders
And make friend unmindful of friend (781).

Abūn b. ʿṢāliḥ and 'Abdullāh b. Abū Najīf from 'Atī b. Abū Rabāḥ and Mujāhid Abūl-Hajāj from Ibn ʿAbdullāh told me that the apostle married Maymūna d. al-Ḥārith in that journey of his when he was harām. Al-ʿAbbās b. Abūl-Muṭṭalib married her to him (782).4

The apostle remained three days in Mecca. Huwaytīb b. Abūl-ʿUzza b. Abū Qays b. Abū Wudd b. Naṣr b. Mālik b. Hīṣl with a few Quraysh came to him on the third day because Quraysh had entrusted him with the duty of sending the apostle out of Mecca. They said: 'Your time is up, so get out from us.' The apostle answered: 'How would it harm you if you were to let me stay and I gave a wedding feast among you and we prepared food and you came too?' They replied, 'We don't need your food, so get out.' So the apostle went out and left Abū Rāfī' his client in charge of Maymūna until he brought her to him in Sarīf.5 (T. 'The apostle ordered them to change the (normal) sacrificial animal and did so himself. Camel was hard to come by so he allowed them to offer oxen.) The apostle consummated his marriage with her there, and then went on to Medina in Dhuʾl-Hijja (783).

THE RAID ON MUʾTA IN A.H. 8

He remained there for the rest of Dhuʾl-Hijja, while the polytheists supervised the pilgrimage, and throughout al-Muḥarram and ʿṢāfi and the two

1 The ʿumra which can be performed at any time during the year, not the ḥajj which must include a visit to ʿArafa.
2 titallama means to embrace with outstretched arms; to stroke with the hand; and to kiss.
3 haraqa, says Burton, Pilgrimage (London, 1919, 167), is "very similar to the French pas gymnastique, or tarammul, that is to say, "moving the shoulders as if walking in sand."
4 This is a tradition which is a bone of contention among Muslim lawyers. Cf. J. Schacht, The Origins of Muhammadan Jurisprudence, Oxford, 1950, p. 153.
5 A place near al-Tanīm.
Rabi's. In Jumâda'I-’Ulâ he sent to Syria his force which met with disaster in Mu’ta.

Muhammad b. Ja’far b. al-Zubayr from ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr said: The apostle sent his expedition to Mu’ta in Jumâda’I-’Ulâ in the year 8 and put Zayd b. Hâritha in command; if Zayd were slain then Ja’far b. Abû Talib was to take command, and if he were killed then ‘Abdullah b. Rawâha.
The expedition got ready to the number of 3,000 and prepared to start.
When they were about to set off they bade farewell to the apostle’s chiefs and saluted them. When ‘Abdullah b. Rawâha took his leave of the chiefs he wept and when they asked him the reason he said, ‘By God, it is not that I love the world and am inordinately attached to you, but I heard the apostle read a verse from God’s book in which he mentioned hell: “There is not one of you but shall come to it; that is a determined decree of your Lord,”1 and I do not know how I can return after I have been to it.’ The Muslims said, ‘God be with you and protect you and bring you back to us safe and sound.’ ‘Abdullah said:

But I ask the Merciful’s pardon
And a wide open wound discharging blood,
Or a deadly lance-thrust from a zealous warrior
That will pierce the bowels and liver;
So that men will say when they pass my grave,
‘God guide him, fine raider that he was, he did well!’

Then, when the people were about to start, ‘Abdullah came to the apostle to bid him farewell and said:

May God confirm the good things He gave you
As he confirmed them to Moses with victory.2
I perceived goodness in you by a natural gift.
God knows that I can see deeply.
You are the apostle and he who is deprived of his gifts
And the sight of him has no real worth (784).

Then the people marched forth, the apostle accompanying them until he said farewell and returned. ‘Abdullah said:

May peace remain on the best companion and friend,
The man I said good-bye to amid the palms.

They went on their way as far as Ma’ân in Syria where they heard that Heraclius had come down to Ma’ab in the Balqa’ with 100,000 Greeks joined by 100,000 men from Lakhm and Judhân and al-Qayn and Bahir’ and Bali commanded by a man of Bali of Irâsha called Malik b. Zâfi’a.
When the Muslims heard this they spent two nights at Ma’ân pondering what to do. They were in favour of writing to the apostle to tell him of the enemy’s numbers; if he sent reinforcements well and good, otherwise they would await his orders. ‘Abdullah b. Rawâha encouraged the men saying, ‘Men, what you dislike is that which you have come out in search of, viz. martyrdom. We are not fighting the enemy with numbers, or strength or multitude, but we are confronting (T. fighting) them with this religion with which God has honoured us. So come on! Both prospects are good: victory or martyrdom.’ The men said, ‘By God, Ibn Rawâha is right.’ So they went forward and ‘Abdullah said concerning their holding back:

We urged on our horses from Ajâ’ and Far’;
Their bellies gorged with the grass they had eaten.
We gave them as shoes the smooth hard ground,
Its surface smooth as leather.
They stayed two nights at Ma’ân;
After their rest they were full of spirit.
We went forward, our horses given free rein,
The hot wind blowing in their nostrils.
I swear that we will come to Ma’ab
Though Arabs and Greeks be there.
We arranged their bridles and they came furiously,
Their dust arose in streamers
With an army whose helmets as their points appeared
Seemed to shine like stars.
The woman who enjoys life our spears divorced.
She can remarry or remain a widow (785).

Then the army went forward, and ‘Abdullah b. Abû Bakr told me that he was told that Zayd b. Arqam said: I was an orphan child of ‘Abdullah
b. Rawâha and he took me with him on this expedition riding on the back of his saddle, and as he journeyed by night I heard him reciting these verses of his:3

When you have brought me and carried my gear
A four nights’ journey from the swampy ground,
Then enjoy life and bear no blame
And may I never return to my people at home. (And when)
The Muslims have gone and left me
In Syria where I wish to be,
And a near relative of mine in God,
Though no blood relation, has brought you back,
There I shall not care for fruit that depends on rain
Or palms whose roots are watered by man.

I wept on hearing these words and he flicked me with his whip and said, 794 ‘Why worry, wretched fellow, if God grants me martyrdom and you return firmly in the saddle?’ Then in one of his rajaz poems he said:

O Zayd, Zayd of the swift lean camels,
Long is the night you have been led, so dismount.

The people went forward until when they were on the borders of the Balkā‘ the Greek and Arab forces of Heraclius met them in a village called Mashā‘īrf. When the enemy approached, the Muslims withdrew to a village called Mu‘ātā. There the forces met and the Muslims made their disposi­tions, putting over the right wing Qutba b. Qāṭāda of the B. ‘Udhra, and over the left wing an Anṣārī called ‘Ubayyā b. Mālik (786).

When fighting began Zayd b. Hāritha fought holding the apostle’s standard, until he died from loss of blood among the spears of the enemy. Then Ja‘far took it and fought with it until when the battle hemmed him in he jumped off his roan and hamstrung her and fought till he was killed. Ja‘far was the first man in Islam to hamstring his horse.

Yahyā b. ‘Abbād b. ‘Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from his father who said, ‘My foster-father, who was of the B. Murra b. ‘Auf, and was in the Mu‘ātā raid said, “I seem to see Ja‘far when he got off his sorrel and hamstrung her and then fought until he was killed as he said:

Welcome Paradise so near,
Sweet and cool to drink its cheer.
Greeks will soon have much to fear
Infidels, of descent unclear
When we meet their necks I’ll shear.”’ (787)

795 Yahyā b. ‘Abbād on the same authority told me that when Ja‘far was killed ‘Abdullāh b. Rawāḥa took the standard and advanced with it riding his horse. He had to put pressure on himself as he felt reluctant to go forward. Then he said:

I swear, my soul, you shall come to the battle;
You shall fight or be made to fight.
Though men shout and scream aloud,
Why should you spurn Paradise?
Long have you been at ease.
You are nothing but a drop in a worn-out skin!

He also said:

O soul, if you are not killed you will die.
This is the fate of death which you suffer.¹
You have been given what you hoped for.
If you do what those two did you will have been guided aright—meaning his two companions Zayd and Ja‘far. Then he dismounted and a cousin of his came up with a meat bone, saying, ‘Strengthen yourself with this, for you have met in these battles of yours difficult days.’ He took it and ate a little. Then he heard the sounds of confusion in the force and threw it away, saying, ‘And you are still living?’ He seized his sword and died fighting. Then Thābit b. Aqram took the standard. He was brother of B. al- ‘Ajā‘īn. He called on the Muslims to rally round one man, and when they wanted to rally to him he demurred and they rallied to Khaḍîd b. al-Walīd. When he took the standard he tried to keep the enemy off and to avoid an engagement.¹ Then he retreated and the enemy turned aside from him until he got away with the men.

According to what I have been told, when the army was smitten the apostle said: ‘Ja‘far took the standard and fought with it until he was killed as a martyr; then Ja‘far took it and fought until he was killed as a martyr.’ Then he was silent until the faces of the Anṣār fell and they thought that something disastrous had happened to ‘Abdullāh b. Rawāḥa. Then he said: ‘‘Abdullāh took it and fought by it until he was killed as a martyr. I saw in a vision that they were carried up to me in Paradise upon beds of gold. I saw ‘Abdullāh’s bed turning away from the beds of the other two, and when I asked why, I was told that they had gone on but he hesitated before he went forward.’

(T. ‘Abdullāh b. Ābū Bakr told me that when the news of Ja‘far’s death reached the apostle he said, ‘Ja‘far went by yesterday with a company of angels making for Bīšā in the Yaman. He had two wings whose fore­feathers were stained with blood.’)

‘Abdullāh b. Ābū Bakr from Umm ‘Īsā al-Khuza‘īya from Umm Ja‘far d. Muhammad b. Ja‘far b. Ābū Ṭālib from her grandmother Asmā’ d. ‘Umaysa said: When Ja‘far and his companions were killed, the apostle came to me when I had just tanned forty skins (788) and kneaded my dough and washed and oiled and cleaned my children. He asked me to bring him Ja‘far’s sons and when I did so he smelt them and his eyes filled with tears. I asked him whether he had heard bad news about Ja‘far and his companions, and he said that he had and that they had been killed that day. I got up and cried aloud and the women gathered to me. The apostle went out to his family saying, ‘Do not neglect Ja‘far’s family so as not to provide them with food, for they are occupied with the disaster that has happened to their head.’¹

‘Abdu’ll-Raḥmān b. al-Qāsim b. Muhammad told me from his father from ‘A‘isha the prophet’s wife who said: When news of Ja‘far’s death came we saw sorrow on the apostle’s face. A man went to him and said, ‘The women trouble us and disturb us.’ He told him to go back and quieten them. He went but came back again saying the same words.

¹ Some MSS. have wakhdhā bihim ‘took precautions for their safety’, a reading which is supported by 798. 10, and may well be right.
² A reference to the practice of sending cooked food to a bereaved family to provide a meal for the mourners and their visitors.
'A'isha here commented, 'Meddling often injures the meddler.' The apostle said, 'Go and tell them to be quiet, and if they refuse throw dust in their mouths.' 'A'isha added: 'I said to myself, God curse you, for you have neither spared yourself the indignity of a snub nor are you able to do what the apostle said. I knew he could not throw dust in their mouths.'

Qu'ṭa b. Qatāda al-'Udhri who was over the right wing had attacked Mālik b. Zāfīla (T. leader of the mixed Arabs) and killed him, and said:

I pierced Ibn Zāfīla b. al-Irāsh with a spear
Which went through him and then broke.
I gave his neck a blow
So that he bent like a bough of mimosa.
We led off the wives of his cousins
On the day of Raqūqayn as sheep (789).

A kāhinā of Hadas who heard about the advance of the apostle's army had said to her people who were a clan called B. Ghanīm:

I warn you of a proud people
Who are hostile in their gaze.
They lead their horses in single file
And shed turgid blood.

They took heed to her words and separated themselves from Lakhm. Afterwards Hadas remained a large and prosperous tribe. Those who took part in the war that day, the B. Tha'laba a clan of Hadas, remained insignificant. When Khalīd went off with the men he took the homeward road.

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr told me from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr that when they got near Medina the apostle and the Muslims met them and the boys came running while the apostle came with the people on his beast. He said, 'Take the boys and carry them and give me Ja'far's son.' They gave him 'Abdullah and he took him and carried him in front of him. The men began to throw dirt at the army, saying, 'You runaways, you fled in the way of God!' The apostle said, 'They are not runaways but come agains if God will.'

'Abdullah b. Abu Bakr told me from 'Amir b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from one of the family of al-Hārīth b. Hishām who were his maternal uncles, from Umm Salama the prophet's wife who said to the wife of Salama b. Hishām b. al-Āq b. al-Mughīra, 'Why is it that I do not see Salama at prayers with the apostle with the rest of the Muslims?' She replied, 'By God, he can't go out. Whenever he goes out the men call out 'Runaway! You ran away when in the path of God!' until he has taken to sitting in his house and not going out at all.'

Qays b. al-Musahhar al-Ya'murī composed the following verses in which he made excuses for what he and the other men did that day and shows how Khaḥīl took precautions for their safety and got away with them:

By God, I never cease to blame myself for stopping
When the horses were leaping forward with bolting eyes.
I stopped there neither asking help nor acting decisively
Nor protecting those for whom death was decreed.
However, I did but imitate Khalīd
And Khalīd has no equal in the army.
My heart was moved for Ja'far in Mu'ta
When an arrow was no good to an archer.
And he linked up their two wings to us
Muhājīrs not polytheists nor unarmed.

Thus Qays made clear in his verses the facts which people dispute, namely that the army kept their distance and were afraid of death, and established the fact that Khalīd and his men avoided battle (790).

Among the lamentations over the apostle's companions who died at Mu'ta are the lines of Ḥassān b. Thābit:

A miserable night I had in Yathrib,
Anxiety that robbed me of sleep when others slept soundly.
At the thought of a friend my tears ran fast.
(Three is oft the cause of weeping.
Nay, the loss of a friend is a calamity,
And how many a noble soul is afflicted and endures patiently.)
I saw the best of the believers follow one another to death,
Though some held back behind them.²
May God receive the slain at Mu'ta who went one after another.
Among them Ja'far now borne on wings,
And Zayd and 'Abdullāh when they too followed
When the cords of death were active
On the day they went on with the believers,
The fortunate radiant one leading them to death.
Bright as the full moon—of Ḥāshīm's sons,
Haughty against wrong, daringly bold,
He fought till he fell unpillowed
On the battlefield, a broken shaft in his body.
He has his reward with the martyrs,
Gardens and green spreading trees.
We saw in Ja'far a man loyal to Muhammad,
One who gave decisive orders.
May there ever be in Islam of Ḥāshīm's line
Pillars of strength and an endless source of pride;

¹ The readings vary: qa'ia jumping; na'ia lifting up their heads; qabi'a panting.
² This is best. The Dhulūn (xxi) 'for I had been kept back with those who were left behind' is better.
In Islam they are a mountain and the people round them
Are rocks piled up to a mount majestic and lofty.
Splendid leaders: of them Ja'far and his brother 'Ali
And of them Ahmad the chosen one.
And Hamza and al-'Abbas and 'Aqil
And the sap of the wood from which he was squeezed.¹
By them relief comes in every hard dusty fight
Whenever men are in a tight corner.
They are the friends of God Who sent down His wisdom to them
And among them is the purified bringer of the Book.²

Kāb b. Mālik said:

While the eyes of others slept my eye shed tears
Like the dripping of a faulty water-skin.
In the night when sorrows came upon me
When I was not sobbing² I turned restlessly on my couch.
Grief came repeatedly and I passed the night
As though I had to shepherd Ursa and Pisces.³
'Twas as though between my ribs and bowels
A burning piercing pain afflicted me,
Sorrowing for those who one after another
Were left lying that day in Muʿta.
God bless them, the heroes,
And may plenteous rains refresh their bones!
They forced themselves for God's sake
To ignore the fear of death and cowardly failure.
They went in front of the Muslims
Like stallion foals, clad in long mail
When they were led by Ja'far and his flag
In front of their leader, and what a fine leader.
Until the ranks were breached and Ja'far
Where the ranks were trapped lay prostrate.
The moon lost its radiance at his death,
The sun eclipsed and wellnigh dark.
A chief of high lineage from Hashim,
In lofty eminence and authority immovable,
A people by whom God protected His servants,
To them was sent down the revealed book.
They excelled other tribes in glory and honour
And their enlightened minds covered up the ignorance of others.
They would not embark on a vicious enterprise,
You could see their speaker deciding justly.

¹ In popular language: a chip of the old block.
² All this reads like Alide propaganda.
³ Or, reading abhamu 'yearning' or 'moaning'.
⁴ i.e. he watched the stars in their passage across the sky while others slept. A cliché.

The Life of Muhammad

Their faces welcomed, their hands gave freely
When days of famine would excuse parsimony.
God was pleased with their guidance of His creation,
And by their good fortune the apostolic prophet was victorious.

Hassan b. Thābit mourning Ja’far:

I wept, and the death of Ja’far the prophet’s friend
Was grievous to the whole world.
I was distressed, and when I heard of your death said,
Who is for fighting by the flag Hawk and its shadow
With swords drawn from scabbards
Striking and lances piercing again and again?
Now Ja’far, Fatima’s blessed son, is dead,
The best of all creatures, most heavy is his loss,
Noblest of all in origin, and most powerful
When wronged, most submissive to right
When it was indubitably true;
Most open-handed, least in unseemliness;
Most lavish in generosity and kindness,
Always excepting Muhammad,
Whom no living being can equal.

Mourning Zayd b. Ḥaritha and ‘Abdullah b. Rawāḥa he said:

O eye, be generous with the last drop of thy tears
And remember in thy ease those in their graves.
Remember Mu’ta and what happened there
When they went to their defeat,
When they returned leaving Zayd there.
Happy be the abode of the poor one, imprisoned (in the grave),¹
The friend of the best of all creatures,
The lord of men whose love fills their breasts.
Ahmad who has no equal,
My sorrow and my joy are for him.
Zayd’s position with us
Was not that of a man deceived.
Be generous with thy tears for the Khazrajite,²
He was a chief who gave freely there.
We have suffered enough by their death
And pass the night in joyless grief.

A Muslim poet who returned from Mu’ta said:

Enough cause for grief that I have returned while Ja’far
And Zayd and ‘Abdullah are in the dust of the grave!

¹ Or ‘That fair refuge of the poor and the captive’.
² i.e. ‘Abdullah b. Rawāḥa.
The Life of Muhammad

They met their end when they went their way
And I with the survivors am left to life's sorrows.
Three men were sent forward and advanced
To death's loathed pool of blood.

The names of those who died a martyr's death at Mu'ta:
Of Quraysh: of the clan of B. Hašāhim, Jā'far and Zayd.

The Causes that Led to the Occupation of Mecca, A.H. 8

After he had sent his force to Mu'ta the apostle stayed in Medina during the latter Jumādā' and Rajab. Then B. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kinānā attacked Khuza'a while they were at a well of theirs in the lower region of Mecca called al-Watīr. The cause of the quarrel was that a man of B. al-Ḫārami called Mālik b. 'Abbād—the Ḥārami being at that time allies of B. al-Aswad b. Razn—had gone out on a trading journey; and when he reached the middle of the Khuza'a country they attacked and killed him and took his possessions. So B. Bakr attacked a man of Khuza'a and killed him; and just before Islam Khuza'a attacked the sons of B. al-Aswad b. Razn al-Dīlī who were the most prominent chiefs of B. Kinānā—Salmā, Kullūm, and Ḥa'uyb—and killed them in 'Arafa at the boundary stones of the sacred area.

One of the B. al-Dīl told me that B. al-Aswad during the pagan era were paid double bloodwit because of their position among them, while they only got a single bloodwit.

While B. Bakr and Khuza'a were thus at enmity Islam intervened and occupied men's minds. When the peace of Ḥudaybiyya was concluded between the apostle and Quraysh one of the conditions—according to what al-Zuhri told me from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from al-Miswar b. Mahkrama and Mārwar b. al-Ḫākam and other traditionists—was that anyone who wanted to enter into a treaty relationship with either party could do so; the B. Bakr joined Quraysh and Khuza'a joined the apostle. When the armistice was established B. al-Dīl of B. Bakr took advantage of it against Khuza'a in their desire to revenge themselves on them for the sons of Aswad whom they had killed. So Naufāl b. Mu'āwiyah al-Dīlī, who was their leader at the time, went out with the B. al-Dīl, though all the B. Bakr did not follow him, and attacked Khuza'a by night while they were at al-Watīr their well, killing one of their men. Both parties fell back and continued the fight. Quraysh helped B. Bakr with weapons and some of them fought with them secretly under cover of the night until they drove Khuza'a into the sacred area. When they reached it the B. Bakr said, 'O Naufāl, we are in the sacred area. Remember your God, remember your God!' He replied in blasphemous words that he had no god that day. 'Take your revenge, ye sons of Bakr. By my life, if you used to steal in the sacred area, won't you take vengeance in it?' Now on the night they attacked them in al-Watīr they killed a man called Munabbih who had gone out with one of his tribesmen called Tamīm b. Asad. Munabbih had a weak heart and he told Tamīm to escape for he was as good as dead whether they killed him or let him go, for his heart had given out. So Tamīm made off and escaped and Munabbih was overtaken and killed. When Khuza'a entered Mecca they took refuge in the house of Būdayl b. Warqa' and the house of a freed slave of theirs called Rāfī'.

Tamīm in excusing himself for running away from Munabbih said:

When I saw the B. Nufathā had advanced
Covering every plain and hill,
Rock and upland, no one else in sight,
Leading their swift wide-nostrilled horses
And I remembered the old blood feud between us,
A legacy of years gone by;
And I smelt the odour of death coming from them
And feared the stroke of a sharp sword
And knew that they would leave him they smote
Meat for mother lions and carrion for crows,
I set my feet firmly not fearing stumbling
And threw my garments on the bare ground.
I ran—no wild ass strong, lean-flanked, ran as I ran.
She may blame me, but had she been there
Her disapproval would have been urine wetting her.
Men well know that I did not leave Munabbih willingly.
Ask my companions (if you do not believe me) (792).

Al-Ḵāzār b. Luṭ al-Dīlī describing the fight between Kinānā and Khuza'a said:

Have not the most distant Ahbāsh1 heard
That we repulsed B. Ka'b in impotent disgrace?2
We made them keep to the dwelling of the slave Rāfī'.
And they were confined helpless with Būdayl
In the house of a low person who accepts humiliation.
After we had slashed our vengeance on them with the sword.
We held them there for many a day

1 Possibly the Abyssinians are meant.
2 'with arrows snapped off near the feathered end'.
The Life of Muhammad

Until from every pass we charged down on them. We slaughtered them like goats, and were like lions racing to get our teeth in them. They had wronged us and behaved as enemies, and were the first to shed blood at the sacred boundary. When they pursued them with their vanguard in the wadi’s bend they were like young ostriches in full flight. 1

Budayl b. ‘Abdu Manāt b. Salama b. ‘Amr b. al-Ajabb who was called Budayl b. Umm ‘Asram answered him thus:

May those people lose one another who boast. Since we left them no chief to call them to assembly save Nāfil. Was it for fear of a people you scorn? That you went past al-Watīr fearful, never to return? Every day we give to others to pay blood-wit for those they have killed. While we take no help in paying our bloodwit. We came to your home in al-‘alā‘a, 2 our swords silenced all complaints. From Bayḍ and ‘Itwād to the slopes of Raḍwā. We held off the attacks of horsemen. On the day of al-Ghamīm 3 ‘Ubays ran away. We terrified him with a doughty leader. Was it because the mother of one of you defecated in her house in her trepidation? While you were leaping about that we met no opposition? By God’s house you lie, you did not fight. But we left you in utter confusion (793).

When Quraysh and B. Bakr had combined against Khuzā‘a and killed some of them, thereby breaking their covenanted word with the apostle in violating Khuzā‘a who were in treaty with him, ‘Amr b. Sālim al-Khuza‘i of the clan of B. Ka‘b went to the apostle in Medina. (This led to the conquest of Mecca.) He stood by him as he was sitting among the men in the mosque and said:

O Lord, I come to remind Muhammad Of the old alliance between our fathers. You are sons for whom we provided the mother. Then we made peace 4 and have not changed our minds. 5

1 Fathir is a place in Najd as A.Dh. says; but unless the action referred to occurred before they reached the haram it is hard to see what the combatants were doing. As ḥammār means the contingent that leads the pursuit of a fleeing enemy it is to be preferred here to ṣītha‘ir.
2 A well belonging to B. Kina‘a. The second hemistich is a reference to the proverb ‘The sword comes before recrimination’.
3 Places belonging to Kina‘a.
4 Between Mecca and Medina.
5 S. insists on this meaning for ḥamān, despite the last verse, on the ground that Khuzā‘a had not yet become Muslims. The poem is a later invention and the natural translation ‘Then we became Muslims’ is to be preferred.

The apostle said, ‘May you be helped O ‘Amr b. Sālim!’ Then as a cloud appeared in the sky he said, ‘This cloud will provide help for the B. Ka‘b.’

Then Budayl b. Warqa‘ came with a number of Khuzā‘a to the apostle in Medina and told him of their misfortune and how Quraysh had helped B. Bakr against them. Having done so they returned to Mecca. The apostle said, ‘I think you will see Abū Sufyān coming to strengthen the agreement and to ask for more time.’ When Budayl and his companions had got as far as ‘Usfān 4 they met Abū Sufyān who had been sent by Quraysh to strengthen the agreement with the apostle and to ask for an extension, for they were afraid of the consequences of what they had done. Abū Sufyān asked Budayl whence he had come because he suspected him of having visited the apostle. He replied that he had come along the shore and the bottom of this valley with the Khuzā‘a, and denied that he had been to Muhammad. When Budayl had gone off to Mecca Abū Sufyān said, ‘If Budayl came to Medina he will have given his camels dates to eat there,’ so he went to where the camels had knelt and split up their dung and looked at the stones. ‘By God, I swear Budayl has come from Muhammad,’ he said.

Having arrived at Medina he went in to his daughter Umm Habība, and as he went to sit on the apostle’s carpet she folded it up so that he could not sit on it. ‘My dear daughter,’ he said, ‘I hardly know if you think that the carpet is too good for me or that I am too good for the carpet!’ She replied: ‘It is the apostle’s carpet and you are an unclean polytheist. I do not want you to sit on the apostle’s carpet.’ ‘By God,’ he said, ‘since you left me you have gone to the bad.’ Then he went to the apostle, who would not speak to him; then he went to Abū Bakr and asked him to speak to the apostle for him; he refused to do so. Then he went to ‘Umar who said, ‘Should I intercede for you with the apostle? If I had only an ant I would fight you with it.’ Then he went in to see ‘Ali with whom was Fātima the apostle’s

1 Or, reading taharrada, ‘enraged’. 2 A place on the heights above Mecca.
3 Or perhaps muṣṭa‘a here means ‘You shall be helped’.
4 Two days’ journey on the road from Mecca to Medina.
daughter who had with her 'Ali's little son Hasan crawling in front of her. He appealed to 'Ali on the ground of their close relationship to intercede with the apostle so that he would not have to return disappointed; but he answered that if the apostle had determined on a thing it was useless for anyone to talk to him about it; so he turned to Fātima and said, 'O daughter of Muhammad, will you let your little son here act as a protector between men so that he may become lord of the Arabs for ever?' She replied that her little boy was not old enough to undertake such a task and in any case none could give protection against God's apostle. He then asked for 'Ali's advice in the desperate situation. He said, 'I do not see anything that can really help you, but you are the chief of B. Kināna, so get up and grant protection between men and then go back home.' When he asked if he thought that that would do any good he replied that he did not, but that he could see nothing else. Therupon Abū Sufyān got up in the mosque and said, 'O men, I grant protection between men.' He then mounted his camel and rode off to Quraysh who asked for his news. He said that Muhammad would not speak to him, that he got no good from Abū Quḥṣa's son, and that he found 'Umar an implacable enemy (795). He had found 'Ali the most helpful and he had done what he recommended, though he did not know whether it would do any good. He told them what he had done and when they asked whether Muhammad had endorsed his words, he had to admit that he had not. They complained that 'Ali had made a fool of him and that his pronouncement was valueless, and he said that he could find nothing else to do or say.

The apostle ordered preparations to be made for a foray and Abū Bakr came in to see his daughter 'A'isha as she was moving some of the apostle's equipment. He asked if the apostle had ordered her to get things ready, and she said that he had, and that her father had better get ready also. She told him that she did not know where the troops were going. Later the apostle informed the men that he was going to Mecca and ordered them to make careful preparations. He said, 'O God, take eyes and ears from Quraysh so that we may take them by surprise in their land,' and the men got themselves ready.

Hassān b. Thābit, inciting the men and mentioning the killing of the men of Khuzā'ā, said:

\begin{quote}
It pained me though I did not see in Mecca's valley
The men of Banū Ka'b with their heads cut off
By men who had not drawn their swords
And the many dead who were left unburied.\footnote{i.e. reports from travellers and others who have seen the Muslims assembling.}
Would that I knew if my help with its biting satire\footnote{He means that Quraysh were really responsible for the death of these men in the sacred territory. 'This is implied in the v.l. in the Divān which has qatāl bi-haqqin.}
Would injure Suḥayl b. 'Amr, and Saifān.\footnote{Hassān was no fighter. He relied on his tongue to hurt the enemy.}
\end{quote}

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr and another of our traditionists said that when the apostle decided to go to Mecca Ḥātib b. Abū Balta'a wrote a letter to Quraysh telling them that the apostle intended to come at them. He gave it to a woman whom Muhammad b. Ja'far alleged was from Muzayna while my other informant said she was Sāra, a freed woman of one of the B. 'Abdūl-Muṭṭalib. He paid her some money to carry it to Quraysh. She put the letter on her head and then plaited her locks over it and went off. The apostle received news from heaven of Ḥātib's action and sent 'Ali and al-Zubayr b. al-'Awwām with instructions to go after her. They overtook her in al-Khulayqa of B. Abū Ḥamad. They made her dismount and searched her baggage but found nothing. 'Ali swore that the apostle could not be mistaken nor could they, and that if she did not produce the letter they would strip her. When she saw that he was in earnest she told him to turn aside, and then she let down her locks and drew out the letter and gave it to him and he took it to the apostle. The apostle summoned Ḥātib and asked him what induced him to act thus. He replied that he believed in God and His apostle and had never ceased to do so, but that he was not a man of standing among Quraysh and he had a son and a family there and that he had to deal prudently with them for their sakes. 'Umar wanted to cut off his head as a hypocrite but the apostle said, 'How do you know, 'Umar; perhaps God looked favourably on those who were at Badr and said, "Do as you please, for I have forgiven you."' Then God sent down concerning Ḥātib: 'O you who believe, choose not My enemies and yours as friends so as to show them kindness' as far as the words 'You have a good example in Abraham and those with him when they said to their people: We are quit of you and what you worship beside God; we renounce you and between us and you enmity and hatred will ever endure until you believe in God alone.'

Muhammad b. Muslim b. Shihāb al-Zubī from 'Ubaydullah b. 'Abdul-lah b. 'Utbā b. Mas'ūd b. 'Abdul-bah b. 'Abbas told me: Then the apostle went on his journey and put over Medina Abū Ruḥm Kuṭḥām b. Ḥusayn b. 'Utbā b. Khalaf al-Ghiṣīrī. He went out on the 10th of Ramadan and he and the army fasted until when he reached al-Kudayd between 'Uṣfān and Amaj he broke his fast. He went on until he came to Marr al-Zahrān with 10,000 Muslims; Sulaym numbered 700 and some say 1,000; and Muzayna 1,000; and in every tribe there was a considerable number and Islam. The Muhājirs and Helpers went as one man; not one stayed behind.
When the apostle had reached Marr al-Zahrān Quraysh were completely ignorant of the fact and did not even know what he was doing. On those nights Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb and Ḥakīm b. Ḥizām and Budayl b. Warqā' went out searching for news by eye or ear when al-ʿAbbas had met the apostle in the way (797).

Abū Sufyān b. al-Ḥārith b. ʿAbdullāh b. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughira had met the apostle also in Nīqūl-ʿUqāb between Mecca and Medina and tried to get in to him. Umm Salama spoke to him about them, calling them his cousin and his brother-in-law. He replied: 'I have no use for them. As for my cousin he has wounded my pride; and as for my aunt’s son and my brother-in-law he spoke insulting of me in Mecca.' When this was conveyed to them Abū Sufyān who had his little son with him said, 'By God, he must let me in or I will take this little boy of mine and we will wander through the land until we die of hunger and thirst.' When he heard this the apostle felt sorry for them and let them come in and they accepted Islam. Abū Sufyān recited the following verses about his Islam in which he excused himself for what had gone before:

By thy life when I carried a banner
To give al-Lat's cavalry the victory over Muhammad
I was like one going astray in the darkness of the night,
But now I am led on the right track.
I could not guide myself, and who with God overcame me
Was he whom I had driven away with all my might;
I used to do all I could to keep men from Muhammad
And I was called a relative of his, though I did not claim the relation.
They are what they are. He who does not hold with them
Though he be a man of sense is blamed and given the lie.
I wanted to be on good terms with them (Muslims)
But I could not join them while I was not guided.
Say to Thaqqīf I do not want to fight them;
Say, too, 'Threaten somebody else!'
I was not in the army that attacked ʿAmir,
I had no part with hand or tongue.
'Twas tribes that came from a distant land,
Strangers from Sahām and Sūrād (798).

They allege that when he recited his words 'He who with God overcame me was he whom I had driven away with all my might' the apostle punished him in the chest and said, 'You did indeed!'

When the apostle camped at Marr al-Zahrān ʿAbdullāh b. Ḥarās b. Ḥairān, it was a night before he came and ask for protection that will be the end of Quraysh for ever.' I sat upon the apostle's white mule and went out on it until I came to the arak trees, thinking that I might find some woodcutters or milkers or someone who could go to Mecca and tell them where the apostle was so that they could come out and ask for safety before he entered the town by assault. As I was going along with this intent suddenly I heard the sound of Abū Sufyān (Ṭ. and Ḥakīm b. Ḥazām) and Budayl talking together. Abū Sufyān was saying, 'I have never seen such fires and such a camp before.' Budayl was saying, 'These, by God, are (the fires of) Khuzā'a which war has kindled.' Abū Sufyān was saying, 'Khuzā'a are too poor and few to have fires and camps like these.' I recognized his voice and called to him and he recognized my voice. I told him that the apostle was here with his army and expressed concern for him and for Quraysh: 'If he takes you he will behead you; so ride on the back of this mule so that I can take you to him and ask for you his protection.' So he rode behind me and his two companions returned. Whenever we passed a Muslim fire we were challenged, and when they saw the apostle’s mule with me riding it they said it was the prophet’s uncle riding his mule until I passed by ʿUmar’s fire. He challenged me and got up and came to me, and when he saw Abū Sufyān on the back of the beast he cried: 'Abū Sufyān, the enemy of God! Thanks be to God who has delivered you up without agreement or word.' Then he ran towards the apostle and I made the mule gallop, and the mule won by the distance a slow beast will outrun a slow man. I dismounted and went in to the apostle and ʿUmar came in saying the same words and adding, 'Let me take off his head.' I told the apostle that I had promised him my protection; then I sat by him and took hold of his head and said, 'By God, none shall talk confidentially to him this night without my being present'; and when ʿUmar continued to remonstrate I said, 'Gently, ʿUmar! If he had been one of the B. ʿAdiy b. Ka'b you would not have said this; but you know that he is one of the B. ʿAbdul Manāf.' He replied, 'Gently, ʿAbdullāh! for by God your Islam the day you accepted it was dearer to me than the Islam of al-Khattāb would have been had he become a Muslim. One thing I surely know now is that your Islam was dearer to the apostle than my father's would have been.' The apostle told me to take him away to my quarters and bring him back in the morning. He stayed the night with me and I took him in to see the apostle early in the morning and when he saw him he said, 'Isn't it time that you should recognize that there is no God but Allah?' He answered, 'You are dearer to me than father and mother. How great is your clemency, honour, and kindness!' By God, I thought that had there been another God with God he would have continued to help me.' He said: 'Woe to you, Abū Sufyān, isn't it time that you recognize that I am God’s apostle?' He answered, 'As to that I still have some doubt.' I said to him, 'Submit and testify that there is no God but Allah and that Muhammad is the apostle of God before you lose your head,' so he did so. I pointed out to the apostle that Abū Sufyān was a man who liked to have some cause for pride and asked him to do something for him. He said, 'He who enters Abū Sufyān's house is safe, and he who locks his door is safe, and he who enters the mosque is safe.' When he went off to go back the apostle told me to detain him in the narrow part of the wadi where the mountain projected\(^1\) so that God's armies would pass by and he would see them; so I went and detained him where the prophet had ordered.

The squadrons passed him with their standards, and he asked who they were. When I said Sulaym he would say, 'What have I to do with Sulaym?'
and so with Muzayna until all had passed, he asking the same question and making the same response to the reply. Finally the apostle passed with his greenish-black squadron (799) in which were Muhājirīn and Anṣār whose eyes alone were visible because of their armour. He said, 'Good heavens, 'Abbās, who are these?' and when I told him he said that none could withstand them. 'By God, O Abū Fadl, the authority of your brother's son has become great.' I told him that it was due to his prophetic office, and he said that in that case he had nothing to say against it.

I told him to hurry to his people. When he came to them he cried at the top of his voice: 'O Quraysh, this is Muhammad who has come to you with a force you cannot resist. He who enters Abū Sufyān's house is safe,' Hind d. 'Utba went up to him, and seizing his moustaches cried, 'Kill this fat greasy bladder of lard! What a rotten protector of the people!' He said, 'Woe to you, don't let this woman deceive you, for you cannot resist what has come. He who enters Abū Sufyān's house will be safe.' 'God slay you,' they said, 'what good will your house be to us?'\(^2\) He added, 'And he who shuts his door upon himself will be safe and he who enters the temple will be safe.' Thereupon the people dispersed to their houses and the mosque.

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that when the apostle came to Dhū Ṭuwā he halted on his beast turbaned with a piece of red Yamanī cloth and that he lowered his head in submission to God, when he saw how God had honoured him with victory, so that his beard almost touched the middle of the saddle.

Yahyā b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr from his father from his grandmother Asmā' d. Abū Bakr said: When the apostle stopped in Dhū Ṭuwā Abū Qihāfa said to a daughter of his, one of his youngest children, 'Take me up to Abū Qubays,' for his sight had almost gone. When they got there she asked her what she could see and she told him 'a mass of black.' 'Those are the horses,' he said. Then she told him that she could see a man running up and down in front of them and he said that that was the adjutant, meaning the man who carries and transmits the orders to the cavalry. Then she said, 'By God, the black mass has spread.' He said, 'In that case the cavalry have been released, so bring me quickly to my house.'
She took him down and the cavalry encountered him before he could get to his house. The girl had a silver necklace and a man who met her tore it from her neck. When the apostle came in and entered the mosque Abū Bakr came leading his father. On seeing him the apostle said, 'Why did you not leave the old man in his house so that I could come to him there?'
Abū Bakr replied that it was more fitting that he should come to him than vice versa. He made him sit before him and stroked his chest and asked him to accept Islam and he did so. When Abū Bakr brought his father in his head was as white as edelweiss, and the apostle told them to dye it.
Then Abū Bakr got up and taking his sister's hand said, 'I ask in the name of God and Islam for my sister's necklace' and none answered him, and he said, 'Sister, regard your necklace as taken by God and look to Him to requisite you for there is not much honesty among people nowadays.'

'Abdullāh b. Abū Najīh told me that the apostle divided his force at Dhū Ṭuwā ordering al-Zubayr b. al-'Awām to go in with some of the men from Kūdā. Al-Zubayr commanded the left wing; Sa'd b. Ubađa ordered to go in with some of the men from Kūdā'.

Some traditionists allege that when Sa'd started off he said,

Today is a day of war,
Sanctuary is no more,

... and one of the muhājirīn (800) heard him and told the apostle that it was to be feared that he would resort to violence. The apostle ordered 'Āli to go after him and take the flag from him and enter with it himself.

'Abdullāh b. Abū Najīh in his story told me that the apostle ordered 817 Khālid to enter from al-Lit, the lower part of Mecca, with some men. Khālīd was in command of the right wing with Aslam, Sulaym, Ghifilr, Muzayna, Juhaayna, and other Arab tribes. Abū Ubaydā b. al-Jarrāḥ advanced with the troops pouring into Mecca in front of the apostle who entered from Ashākhīr\(^1\) until he halted above Mecca and his tent was pitched there.

'Abdullāh b. Abū Najīh and 'Abdullāh b. Abū Bakr told me that Sa'fān
b. Umayyā and 'Ikrima b. Abū Jahl and Suhayl b. 'Amr had collected some men in al-Khandama\(^2\) to fight. Ḥimas b. Qays b. Khālid brother of B.
Bakr was sharpening his sword before the apostle entered Mecca, and his wife asked him why he was doing so. When he told her it was for Muhammad and his companions she said that she did not think that it would do them any harm. He answered her that he hoped to give her one of them as a slave and said:

I have no excuse if today they advance...
Here is my weapon, a long-bladed lance,
A two-edged sword in their faces will dance!

Then he went to al-Khandama with Sa'fān, Suhayl, and 'Ikrima and when the Muslims under Khālid arrived a skirmish followed in which

\(^1\) Yāqūt knows nothing of this place, but it is mentioned frequently by al-'Azraqī, Mecca, 1552, II. 232 ff. as a pass near Mecca.
\(^2\) Not mentioned by Yāqūt. Aṣr. i. 146 says it is a peak on Abū Qubays.
Kurz b. Jābir, one of the B. Muḥārib b. Fīhr, and Khunays b. Khālid b. Rabī‘a b. Asram, an ally of B. Munṣiḥīd, who were in Khālid’s cavalry, were killed. They had taken a road of their own apart from Khālid and were killed together. Khunays was killed first and Kurz put him between his feet and fought in his defence until he was slain, saying meanwhile:

Safra‘ of the B. Fīhr knows
That I fight today in defence of Abū Ṣakhr.

Khunays was surnamed Abū Ṣakhr (801).
Salama b. al-Mayyā‘, one of Khālid’s horsemen, was killed, and the polytheists lost about 12 or 13 men; then they took to flight. Himās ran off and went into his house and told his wife to bolt the door. When she asked what had become of his former words he said:

If you had witnessed the battle of Khandama
When Safwān and ‘Ikrima fled
And Abū Yazīd was standing like a pillar1
And the Muslims met them with their swords
Which cut through arms and skulls,
Only confused cries being heard
Behind us their cries and groans,
You would not have uttered the least word of blame (802)

The apostle had instructed his commanders when they entered Mecca only to fight those who resisted them, except a small number who were to be killed even if they were found beneath the curtains of the Ka‘ba. Among them was ‘Abdullāh b. Sa‘d, brother of the B. ‘Amīr b. Lu‘ayy. The reason he ordered him to be killed was that he had been a Muslim and used to write down revelation; then he apostatized and returned to Quraysh and fled to ‘Uthmān b. ‘Affān whose foster-brother he was. The latter hid him until he brought him to the apostle after the situation in Mecca was tranquil, and asked that he might be granted immunity. They allege that the apostle remained silent for a long time till finally he said yes. When ‘Uthmān had left he said to his companions who were sitting around him, ‘I kept silent so that one of you might get up and strike off his head!’ One of the Ḥašār said, ‘Then why didn’t you give me a sign, O apostle of God?’ He answered that a prophet does not kill by pointing (803).

Another was ‘Abdullāh b. Ḥaṭāl of the B. Taym b. Ghalīb. He had become a Muslim and the apostle sent him to collect the poor tax in company with one of the Ḥašār. He had with him a freed slave who served him. (He was a Muslim.) When they halted he ordered the latter to kill a goat for him and prepare some food, and went to sleep. When he woke up the man had done nothing, so he attacked and killed him and apostatized. He had two singing-girls Fartānā and her friend who used to sing satirical songs about the apostle, so he ordered that they should be killed with him.

Another was al-Huwāyrīth b. Nuqayd b. Wahb b. ‘Abd b. Qusayy, one of those who used to insult him in Mecca (804).

Another was Miqyās b. Ḥubābā because he had killed an Ḥašār who had killed his brother accidentally, and returned to Quraysh as a polytheist. And Sāra, freed slave of one of the B. ‘Abdullāh-Murtaḍīb; and ‘Ikrima b. Abū Jahl. Sāra had insulted him in Mecca. As for ‘Ikrima, he fled to the Yaman. His wife Umm Ḥākin d. al-Ḥārīth b. Ḥishām became a Muslim and asked immunity for him and the apostle gave it. She went to the Yaman in search of him and brought him to the apostle and he accepted Islam. (Ṭ. ‘Ikrima used to relate, according to what they say, that what T. 1640 turned him to Islam when he had gone to the Yaman was that he had determined to cross the sea to Abyssinia and when he found a ship the master said, ‘O servant of God, you cannot travel in my ship until you acknowledge that God is one and disavow any rival to Him, for I fear that if you do not do so we should perish.’ When I asked if none but such persons was allowed to travel in his ship he replied, ‘Yes, and he must be sincere.’ So I thought: Why should I leave Muhammad when this is what he has brought us? Truly our God on the sea is our God on the dry land. Thereupon I recognized Islam and it entered into my heart.) ‘Abdullāh b. Ḥaṭāl was killed by Sa‘īd b. Ḥurayth al-Makhzūmī and Abū Barza al-Aṣlāmī acting together. Miqyās was killed by Numayla b. ‘Abdullāh, one 820 of his own people. Miqyās’s sister said of his killing:

By my life, Numayla shamed his people
And distressed the winter guests when he slew Miqyās.
Whoever has seen a man like Miqyās
Who provided food for young mothers in hard times.

As for Ibn Ḥaṭāl’s two singing-girls, one was killed and the other ran away until the apostle, asked for immunity, gave it her. Similarly Sāra, who lived until in the time of ‘Umar a mounted soldier trod her down in the valley of Mecca and killed her. Al-Huwāyrīth was killed by ‘Ali.
Sa‘īd b. Abū Hind from Abū Murra, freed slave of ‘Aqīl b. Abū Ṭālib, told me that Umm Ḥākin d. Abū Ṭālib said: When the apostle halted in the upper part of Mecca two of my brothers-in-law from B. Makhzūmī fled to me. (She was the wife of Ḥubayra b. Abū Wahb al-Makhzūmī.) ‘Ali came in swearing that he would kill them, so I bolted the door of my house on them and went to the apostle and found him washing in a large bowl in which was the remains of dough while his daughter Fāṭima was screening him with his garment. When he had washed he took his garment and wrapped himself in it and prayed eight bendings of the morning prayer.

1 W. Ḥubābā. On p. 728 he writes ʾiḥbābā which may well be right in spite of C. which follows the Qāmūs.
Then he came forward and welcomed me and asked me why I had come. When I told him about the two men and 'Ali he said: 'We give protection to whomsoever you give protection and we give safety to those you protect. He must not kill them' (805).

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr from 'Ubaydullah b. 'Abdullah b. Abū Thaur from Saifya d. Shayba told me that the apostle after arriving in Mecca when the populace had settled down went to the temple and encompassed it seven times on his camel touching the black stone with a stick which he had in his hand. This done he summoned 'Uthmān b. Ṭalḥa and took the key of the Ka'ba from him, and when the door was opened for him he went in. There he found a dove made of wood. He broke it in his hands and threw it away. Then he stood by the door of the Ka'ba while the men in the mosque gathered to him.1

Azm. i. 79

1 I. from 'Abdullah b. 'Abū Bakr from 'Ali b. 'Abdullah b. 'Abbās: The apostle entered Mecca on the day of the conquest and it contained 360 idols which Iblīs2 had strengthened with lead. The apostle was standing by them with a stick in his hand, saying, 'The truth has come and falsehood has passed away; verily falsehood is sure to pass away' (Sūra 7. 82). Then he pointed at them with his stick and they collapsed on their backs one after the other.

When the apostle prayed the noon prayer on the day of the conquest he ordered that all the idols which were round the Ka'ba should be collected and burned with fire and broken up. Faḍlā b. al-Mulawwī h al-Laythī said commemorating the day of the conquest:

Had you seen Muhammad and his troops
The day the idols were smashed when he entered,
You would have seen God's light become manifest
And darkness covering the face of idolatry.

Azm. i. 107

I. from Ḥakīm b. 'Abbās b. Ḥanif and other traditionists: Quraysh had put pictures in the Ka'ba including two of Jesus son of Mary and Mary (on both of whom be peace). I. Shīhāb said: Asma' d. Saqr said that a woman of Ghassān joined in the pilgrimage of the Arabs and when she saw the picture of Mary in the Ka'ba she said, 'My father and my mother be your ransom! You are surely an Arab woman!' The apostle ordered that the pictures should be erased except those of Jesus and Mary.3

A traditionist4 told me that the apostle stood at the door of the Ka'ba and said: 'There is no God but Allah alone; He has no associate. He has made good His promise and helped His servant. He has put to flight the confederates alone. Every claim of privilege or blood or property are abolished by me except the custody of the temple and the watering of the pilgrims. The unintentionally slain in a quasi-intentional way by club or whip,5 for him the bloodwit is most severe: a hundred camels, forty of them to be pregnant. O Quraysh, God has taken from you the haughtiness of paganism and its veneration of ancestors. Man springs from Adam and Adam sprang from dust.' Then he read to them this verse: O men, we created you from male and female and made you into peoples and tribes that you may know one another: of a truth the most noble of you in God's sight is the most pious to the end of the passage.6 Then he added, 'O Quraysh, what do you think that I am about to do with you?' They replied, 'Good. You are a noble brother, son of a noble brother.' He said, 'Go your way for you are the freed ones.'7

{T. Thus the apostle let them go though God had given him power over Their lives and they were his spoil. For this reason the Meccans were called 'the freed ones'. Then the populace gathered together in Mecca to do homage to the apostle in Islam. As I have heard, he sat (waiting) for them on al-Ṣafā while 'Umar remained below him imposing conditions on the people who paid homage to the apostle promising to hear and obey God and His apostle to the best of their ability. This applied to the men; when they had finished he dealt with the women. Among the Quraysh women who came was Hind d. 'Utba who came veiled and disguised because of what she had done especially in regard to Ḥāmza, for she was afraid that the apostle would punish her. According to what I heard, when they approached him he asked if they gave their word not to associate anything with God, and Hind said, 'By God, you lay on us something that you have not laid on the men and we will carry it out.' He said, 'And you shall not steal.' She said, 'By God, I used to take a little of Abū Sufyān's money and I do not know whether that is lawful for me or not.' Abū Sufyān who was present when she said this told her that so far as the past was concerned it was lawful. The apostle said, 'Then you are Hind d. 'Utba?' and she said 'I am; forgive me what is past and God will forgive you.' He said, 'And do not commit adultery.' She answered, 'Does a free woman commit adultery, O apostle of God?' He said, 'And you shall not kill your children.' She said, 'I brought them up when they were little and you killed them on the day of Badr when they were grown up, so you are the one to know about them!' 'Umar laughed immoderately at her reply. He said, 'You shall not invent slanderous tales.' She said, 'By God, slander is disgraceful, but it is sometimes better to ignore it.' He said, 'You shall not disobey me in carrying out orders to do good.' She said, 'We should not have sat all this time if we wanted to disobey you in such orders.' The apostle said to 'Umar, 'Accept their troth,' and he asked God's forgiveness for them while 'Umar accepted their homage on his behalf. The apostle never used to take the women's hands; he did not touch a woman nor did

---

1 Other explanations given for the word istakaffa are 'fixed their gaze on' and 'surrounded'.
2 A parallel tradition on the authority of I. 'Abbās via al-Zuhrī simply says that the idols were strengthened by lead.
3 Apparently I.H. has cut out what I.I. wrote and adopted the later tradition that all the pictures were obliterated. A more detailed account of these pictures will be found in Azr. 104-6.
4 T. here names the informants as 'Umar b. Mus'ab al-Wālī from Qatāda al-Sadās.
5 Sūra 49. 13.

---

Especially inherited authority.
2 i.e. manslaughter.
one touch him except one whom God had made lawful to him or was one of his "harin. Ibn Ishq from Abhân b. Sâlih said that the women's homage according to what some traditionists had told him was in this wise: a vessel containing water was put in front of the apostle and when he laid the conditions upon them and they accepted them he plunged his hand into the vessel and then withdrew it and the women did the same. Then after that he would impose conditions on them and when they accepted them he said, 'Go, I have accepted your homage,' and added nothing further. 1

Then the apostle sat in the mosque and 'Ali came to him with the key of the Ka'ba in his hand asking him to grant his family the right of guarding the temple as well as the watering of the pilgrims, but the apostle called for 'Uthmân b. Ţalhâ and said, 'Here is your key; today is a day of good faith' (805).

822 Sa'id b. Abû Sa'id al-Maqburî from one of his tribesmen said: We had with us a brave man called Ahmar Ba'asan. 2 When he slept he snored so loudly that everyone knew where he was. When he spent the night with his clan he slept apart. If the clan was attacked at night they would call his name and he would leap up like a lion and nothing could withstand him. It happened that a party of raiders from Hudhayl came, making for the people at their water; and when they drew near Ibn al-Athwa' al-Hudhali told them not to hurry him until he had looked round; for if Ahmar was among the group there was no way to get at them. He snored so loudly that one could tell where he was. So he listened and when he heard his snoring he walked up to him and thrust his sword into his breast pressing on it so that he killed him. Then they rushed upon the party who cried 'Ahmar!' But they had no Ahmar.

On the morrow of the conquest of Mecca Ibn al-Athwa' came into Mecca to look round and find out what the situation was. Now he was still a polytheist, and Khuza'a saw and recognized him, and they surrounded him as he was at the side of one of the walls of Mecca, saying, 'Are you the man who killed Ahmar?' 'Yes', he said, 'and what about it?' Thereupon Khirâsh b. Umayya advanced on him with drawn sword saying, 'Get away from the man.' We supposed that he wanted to get the people away from him; but when we drew away he ran at him and thrust his sword in his belly. By God, I can almost see him now with his entrails flowing forth from his belly and his eyes two mere slits in his head while he said, 'Have you done it, you men of Khuza'a?' until he collapsed and fell. The apostle said, 'Stop this killing, Khuza'a; there has been too much killing even if there were profit in it. I will pay the bloodwit for the man you have killed.'

'Abdu'l-Rahmân b. Ḥarmâla al-Aslami from Sa'id b. al-Musayyib told me that when the apostle heard what Khirâsh had done he said, 'Khirâsh is too prone to kill,' thereby rebuking him.

1 S. here points out that this is a mistake on the part of I.H. and that the man was 'Amr b. Sa'id b. al-'Aš b. Umayya; that the mistake is due either to I.H. or to al-Bakkâ'; and that the true tradition is given by Yunus.

823 Sa'id b. Abû Sa'id al-Maqburî from Abû Shurayf said: When 'Amr b. al-Zubayr came to Mecca to fight his brother 'Abdullah I came to him and said, 'Listen! When we were with the apostle the day after the conquest of Mecca, Khuza'a attacked a man of Hudhayl and killed him, he being a polytheist. The apostle arose and addressed us, saying, 'God made Mecca holy the day He created heaven and earth, and it is the holy of holies until the resurrection day. It is not lawful for anyone who believes in God and the last day to shed blood therein, nor to cut down trees therein. It was not lawful to anyone before me and it will not be lawful to anyone after me. Indeed, it is not lawful for me except at this time because of (God's) anger against its people. Now it has regained its former holiness. Let those here now tell those that are not here. If anyone should say, 'The apostle killed men in Mecca, say God permitted His apostle to do so but He does not permit you. Refrain from killing, you men of Khuza'a, for there has been too much killing even if there were profit in it. Since you have killed a man I will pay his bloodwit. If anyone is killed after my sojourn here his people have a choice: they can have his killer's life or the blood-money.' Then the apostle paid the bloodwit for the man whom Khuza'a had slain. 'Amr replied, 'Be off with you, old man! We know more about its sanctity than you. It does not protect the shedder of blood, nor the man who casts off his allegiance nor him who withholds tax.' Abû Shurayf answered, 'I was there and you were not. The apostle ordered us who were present to tell those who were absent. I have told you and the responsibility now rests with you' (807).

824 Muhammad b. Ja'far from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr told me that Šafwân b. 'Umayya went out to Judda to take ship to the Yaman. 'Umayya b. Wahb told the prophet that Šafwân, who was a chief among his people, had fled from him to cast himself into the sea, and asked him to grant him immunity. The prophet agreed to do so, and 'Umayya asked him for a sign to prove it, and he gave him the turban with which he had entered Mecca. 'Umayya took it and overtook Šafwân just as he was about to embark. He begged him not to commit suicide and produced the token of his safety. Šafwân told him to be off and not to speak to him. He replied, 'My parents be your ransom! He is the most virtuous, most pious, most clement, and best of men, your very cousin. His honour is your honour.' He replied, 'I go in fear of my life because of him.' He answered, 'He is too clement and too honourable to kill you.' So he went back with him to the apostle and told him that 'Umayr had said that he had promised him immunity. He said that that was true. Šafwân asked for two months in which to make up his mind, and he gave him four months (808).

Al-Zuhri told me that Um'm Hakîm d. al-Hârîth b. Hishâm and Fâkîta d. al-Walî (who was married to Šafwân, while Um'm Hakîm's husband was 'Ikrima b. Abū Jahl) had become Muslims. The latter asked immunity for her husband and the apostle granted it and she joined him in the Yaman and brought him back. When 'Ikrima and Sařwān became Muslims the apostle confirmed their first marriages.

Sa'd b. Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Hassān b. Thābit told me that Hassān directed a single verse and no more at I. al-Zibā’rā who was in Najrān at the time:

Do not be without a man, hatred of whom Has made you live in Najrān in utmost misery!

827 When this reached I. al-Zibā’rā he went to the apostle and accepted Islam. Then he said:

O apostle of God, my tongue is repairing The mischief I did when a perishing (sinner) When I followed Satan in going astray, (He who turns aside with him must perish.) My flesh and my bones believe in my Lord. My heart bears witness that you are the warner. I will drive the clan of Lu’ayy from you there, All of them being deceived.

When he became a Muslim he said also:

Cares and anxieties withheld sleep from me And night pitch black was agitated above me Because I heard that Ahmad had blamed me; I passed the night like a man with fever. O best of those, a swift light-footed Straight-running camel ever carried, Forgive me for what I said and did When I went wandering in error, What time Šahm gave me most misleading orders, And Makhzūm did the same; When I supported evil courses Led by those who erred, whose way was ill omened. Today my heart believes in the prophet Muhammad. He who misses this is a loser. Enmity has passed, its ties are ended; Kinship and reason call us together. Forgive my mistakes—my parents be thy ransom, For you are compassionate having found mercy. Upon you is the sign of God’s knowledge, A light most bright and a seal imprinted.

This line is an imitation of I. 41 in the Mu’llahqa of Amr b. Kulthūm:

ha’anna suyyafān mimmā wammamum makkarīqan b’aydī lā’ībindī.

Some lexicographers favour a rendering ‘knotted rags’. In either case the meaning is that they regarded the swords as mere toys.

The Muslims who were present at the conquest of Mecca numbered 10,000: of B. Sulaymān 700 (some say 1,000); of B. Ghiftār 400; of Aslām 400; of Muẓayna 1,003; and the rest of them were from Quraysh and the Anā’ar and their allies and parties of Arabs from Tamīm and Qays and Ṭāism.
Among the poems about the conquest is the following from Ḥassān b. Thābit:

From al-Dhaṭṭā‘ and al-Jīwān to ‘Adhārā
Traces have disappeared, their camping-ground is empty.
The camps of B. al-Ḥashās are a desert
Obliterated by wind and rain.

There used always to be a friend there;
Its pastures held choice camels and sheep.
But leave that! Who will rid me of the night vision
Which keeps me from sleep when night's first hours have gone,
Of Shaṭṭā' who fills me with longing
So that my heart cannot be cured of it?
She is like the wine of Bayt Ra's
Mixed with honey and water.

All draughts that could be mentioned
Cannot be compared with that wine.
We blame it for what we do amiss
If we are quarrelsome or insulting to others.
When we drink it we are as kings and lions,
Nothing can keep us from the fray.
May we lose our horses if you do not see them
Raising the dust-clouds, their rendezvous Kada'!
They tug at the reins turning their necks to one side,
The thirsty lances couched above their shoulders.
As our horses raced along,
The women flapped their veils in their faces.

If you don't oppose us we shall celebrate the 'Umra,
The conquest will be completed and the covering removed.
But if you do, expect a fight on the day
When God helps those He pleases.
Gabriel, God's messenger, is with us and
The holy spirit has no equal.
God said, 'I have sent a man
Whom speaks the truth if you will profit by experience.

These places are in Syria; the latter was the camp of al-Barith b. Abu Shamr the Ghassanid whom Ḥassān used to visit.

1 i.e. Quraysh who were descended from ‘Adnān.
2 i.e. however many verses he composes from his inexhaustible stock the well of poesy will not be fouled by bad and ineffectual lines.
Were it true may my hand never lift a whip!
I merely said, Woe is the mother of the heroes
Who were slain in unhappy unlucky days!
Those not their equal in blood killed them
And great was my weeping and dismay.
You would break the covenant if you slandered
"Abd b. 'Abdullah and the daughter of Mawd.
Dhu’ayb and Kuthmā and Salmā went successively to death,
So if my eye does not weep let me grieve.
There is no clan like Salmā and his brothers;
Are kings the same as slaves?
I have not broken with custom or shed blood.
Consider, who you know the truth, and act!

Budayl b. 'Abdu Manāf b. Umm A'sārah answered him:

Anas wept Ra'ān, how loud was his cry.
He should have wept for 'Adiy unavenged and destroyed.
You wept, Abū 'Abs, because they were blood relations
That you might have an excuse if none started a war.
Noble warriors killed them on the day of Khandama,1 Nufayl and Ma'bad among them if you inquire.
If your tears flow for them you will not be blamed
And if the eye does not weep then be sad (812).

Bujayr b. Zuhayr b. Abū Sulmā said concerning the day of the conquest:

Muzayna and the Banū Khufāfi that day
Expelled the people of al-Haballaq1 from every ravine.
We smote them with our sharp swords
The day the good prophet entered Mecca.
We came on them with seven hundred from Sulaym
And a full thousand from Banū ‘Uthmān.
We smote them with cut and thrust
And shot them with our feathered shafts.
You could hear among the ranks their whisper
As if the notched end were split from its binding.4
We went with lances straight levelled

1 A mountain in Mecca.
2 I cannot understand this verse. If ‘the people of al-‘Haballaq’ were, as S. says, the tribes of Muzayna and Qays, B. Khufāf being a clan of Sulaym, then we have the extraordinary statement that Muzayna expelled their own tribesmen. We can take ‘every ravine’ as the subject of the sentence, as C. does, and take naufū in the sense of ‘sent out’, but then we must take Muzayna as an accusative and read Banū ‘Uthmān; but that gives little help. What one would expect is some reference to the Meccans, but they were not expelled from the town.
3 Lit. ‘rode’. For mustafahum some MSS. have ummustafahum ‘their flanks’.
4 After long hesitation I have adopted this rendering; but it might be that the poet is thinking of the arrows of the opposing forces passing one another in the air.

The apostle sent out troops in the district round Mecca inviting men to God: he did not order them to fight. Among those he sent was Khalid b. al-Walid whom he ordered to go to the lower part of the flat country as a missionary; he did not send him to fight. He subdued the B. Jadhîma and killed some of them (814).1

Hakim b. Hakim b. 'Abbâd b. Hunayf from Abū Ja‘far Muhammad b. 'Ali said: When he took possession of Mecca the apostle sent Khalid forth as a missionary. He did not send him to fight. He had with him the Arab tribes of Sulaym b. Manṣūr and Mudlij b. Murra, and they subdued B. Jadhîma b. 'Amir b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kināna. When the people saw him they grasped their weapons, and Khalid said, ‘Lay down your arms, for everybody has accepted Islam.’

A traditionist of B. Jadhîma who was one of our companions told me: ‘When Khalid ordered us to lay down our arms one of our men called Jabādam said, ‘Woe to you, B. Jadhîma! This is Khalid. If you lay down your arms you will be bound, and after you have been bound you will be beheaded. By God, I’ll never lay down my arms.’ Some of his people laid hold of him saying ‘Do you want to shed our blood? Everyone else has accepted Islam and laid down their arms; war is over and everybody is safe.’ They persisted to the point of taking away his arms, and they themselves laid down their arms at Khalid’s word.’

Hakim b. Hakim from Abū Ja‘far Muhammad b. 'Ali told me: As soon as they had laid down their arms Khalid ordered their hands to be tied behind their backs and put them to the sword, killing a number of them. When the news reached the apostle he raised his hand to heaven and said, ‘O God, I am innocent before Thee of what Khalid has done’ (815).

Hakim on the same authority told me that the apostle summoned 'Ali and told him to go to these people and look into the affair, and abolish the practices of the pagan era. So 'Ali went to them with the money the apostle had sent and paid the bloodwit and made good their monetary loss even for a dog's bowl. When all blood and property had been paid for he still had some money over. He asked if any compensation was still due and when they said it was not he gave them the rest of the money on behalf of the apostle in case claims of which neither he nor they knew at the time should arise. Then he returned and reported to the apostle what he had done and he commended him. Then the apostle arose and faced the Qibla and raised his arms so that his armpits could be seen and said: 'O God, I am innocent before Thee of what Khalid has done.' This he said three times.

Some who would excuse Khalid said that he said: 'I did not fight until 'Abdullah b. Hudhafa al-Salami ordered me to do so and he said, 'The apostle has ordered you to fight them because they keep back from Islam'... (816).

Jadhâm had said to them when they laid down their arms and he saw what Khalid was doing with the B. Jadhima: 'O B. Jadhima, the battle is lost. I gave you full warning of the disaster into which you have fallen.' I have heard that Khalid and Abdur-Rahman b. 'Auf had words about this. The latter said to him, 'You have done a pagan act in Islam,' to which he replied that he had only avenged 'Abdul-'Rahman's father. He answered that he was a liar because he himself had killed his father's slayer; but Khalid had taken vengeance for his uncle al-Fakih b. al-Mughira so that there was bad feeling between them. Hearing of this the apostle said, 'Gently, Khalid, leave my companions alone, for by God if you had a mountain of gold and spent it for God's sake you would not approach the merit of my companions.'

836 Now al-Fakih b. al-Mughira b. 'Abdullah b. 'Umar b. Makhzûm, and 'Auf b. 'Abd b. 'Abdul-'Rahman b. 'Affan b. Abu'l-'A's b. Umaiyya b. 'Abdu Shams had gone out trading to the Yaman. 'Affan took his son 'Uthmân and 'Auf took his son 'Abdul-'Rahman. When they returned they carried the money of a man of B. Jadhima b. 'Amir, who had died in the Yaman, to his heirs. One of their men called Khalid b. Hishâm claimed it and met them in the Jadhima territory before they could get to the dead man's family. They refused to give it up. A fight for the possession of the money took place during which 'Auf and al-Fakih were killed, 'Affan and his son escaping. They seized the property of al-Fakih and 'Auf and took it away and 'Abdul-'Rahman killed Khalid b. Hishâm the slayer of his father. Quraysh meditated an attack on B. Jadhima, but they declared that the assault had not been planned by them and that they did not know of it until afterwards. They offered to pay compensation for blood and property and Quraysh agreed, and so war was avoided.

One of the B. Jadhima said, though some say it was a woman called Salmâ:

Had not one tribe said to another, Be Muslims,
Sulaym, that day, would have met a strong opponent.

1 Lit. 'Ubud.
small thing to ask and I led him to them. As he stood by them he said, 'Fare you well, Ḥubaysha, though life is at an end.'

Tell me when I sought and found you in Ḥalya
Or came on you in al-Khawānīq,
Was I not a lover worthy to be given what he asked,
Who undertook journeys by night and noonday?
I did no wrong when I said when our people were together,
Reward me with love before some misfortune befalls!
Reward me with love before distance divides
And the chief goes off with a dear one thus parted.
For I was never disloyal to our secret troth
And my eye never looked admiringly at another.
When the tribe's troubles distracted me from love
Even then the attraction of love was there (818).

The same authority told me that she said: 'May your life be prolonged seven and ten continuous years and eight thereafter.' Then I took him away and he was beheaded.

Abū Firās b. Abū Sunbula al-Aslami from some of their shaykhs from one who was present said: She went to him when he was beheaded and bent over him and kept on kissing him until she died at his side.

One of the B. Jadhima said:

God require Mudlij for the evil they did us
Wherever they go or rest.
They took our goods and divided them;
The spears came at us not once nor twice.
Were it not for the religion of Muhammad's people
Their cavalry would have fled and been driven off.
What hindered them from helping a squadron
Like a swarm of locusts loose and scattered abroad?
If they repent or return to their (right) way
We will not repay them for what the squadron lost. 2

Wahb of the B. Layth answered him:
We called 'Āmir to Islam and the truth.
It is not our fault if 'Āmir turned their backs.
What happened to 'Āmir, confound them, is not our fault
Because their minds were foolish and went astray.

One of the B. Jadhima said:

Congratulate B. Ka'b on the coming of Khalid and his companions
The morn when the squadrons came on us.
Ibn Khuwaylid showed no desire for revenge.

1 Reading with C. ḫasyāl.
2 Or, reading the passive with W., 'for the squadron having been led astray'.

KHĀLID'S JOURNEY TO DESTROY AL-'UZZĀ

Then the apostle sent Khalid to al-'Uzza which was in Nakhla. It was a temple which this tribe of Quraysh and Kinana and all Mūḍar used to venerate. Its guardians and wardens were B. Shaybān of B. Sulaym, allies of B. Ḥāshim. When the Sulami guardian heard of Khalid's coming he hung his sword on her, climbed the mountain on which she stood, and said:

O 'Uzza, make an annihilating attack on Khalid,
Throw aside your veil and gird up your train.
O 'Uzza, if you do not kill this man Khalid
Then bear a swift punishment or become a Christian. 2

When Khalid arrived he destroyed her and returned to the apostle.

1 I prefer this reading to W.'s shibīl, 'cubs'.
2 For bu' see Lane, 270c; thum can stand both for crime and punishment. Tanawarih really means 'become a Muslim', because the speaker at that date saw no difference between the two religions.
Ibn Shihab al-Zuhri from 'Ubaydullah b. 'Abdullah b. 'Utba b. Mas'ud said: The apostle stayed in Mecca after he had occupied it for fifteen nights, shortening prayers. The occupation of Mecca took place on the 20th Ramadan a.H. 8.

THE BATTLE OF HUNAYN, A.H. 8

When Hawazin heard how God had given the apostle possession of Mecca, Malik b. 'Auf al-Nasr commanded them together. There assembled to him also all Thaqif and all Nasr and Jusham; and Sa'd b. Bakr, and a few men from B. Hilal. There were no others present from Qays b. 'Aylain. Ka'b and Kilab of Hawazin kept away and no one of any importance from them was present. Among the B. Jusham was Durayd b. al-Simma, a very old man whose sole remaining use was his valuable advice and his knowledge of war, for he was an experienced leader. Thaqif had two leaders: Qarib b. al-Aswad b. Mas'ud b. Mu'attib commanded the Ablay, and Dhul-Khair Subay b. al-Harith b. Malik and his brother Ahamar commanded the B. Malik. The general direction of affairs lay with Malik b. 'Auf al-Nasri. When he decided to attack the apostle he placed with the men their cattle, wives, and children. When he halted at Aftas the men assembled to him, among them Durayd b. al-Simma in a sort of howdah in which he was carried. As soon as he arrived he inquired what wadi they were in and when he was told that it was Aftas he said that it was a fine place for cavalry. 'Not a hill with jagged rocks, nor a plain full of dust; but why do I hear the groaning of camels and the braying of asses, and the crying of children and the bleating of sheep?' They told him that Malik had brought them with the men, and he immediately inquired for him and said, 'O Malik, you have become the chief of your people and this is a day which will be followed by great events.' He then inquired about the cattle and the women and children, and Malik explained that his purpose in bringing them and putting them behind the men was to make them fight to the death in their defence. He made a sound indicative of dismay and said: 'You sheep-tender, do you suppose that anything will turn back a man that runs away? If all goes well nothing will help you but sword and lance; if it goes ill you will be disgraced with your family and property.' Then he asked what had happened to Ka'b and Kilab; and when he heard that they were not there he said, 'Bravery and force are not here; were it a day of lofty deeds Ka'b and Kilab would not have stayed away. I wish that you had done what they have done. What clans have you got?' They told him 'Amr b. 'Amir and 'Auf b. 'Amir and he said, 'Those two sprigs of 'Amir can do nothing either way. You've done no good, Malik, by sending forward the main body, the main body of Hawazin, to meet the cavalry. Send them up to the high and inaccessible part of their land and meet the apostates on horseback. If all goes well those behind can join you, and if the battle goes against you you will have saved your families and stock.' Malik answered, 'I won't do it. You are an old dotard. You will either obey me, O Hawazin, or I will lean on my sword until it comes out from my back.' He could not bear Durayd's having any credit in the matter. Hawazin said that they would obey him and Durayd said, 'This is a day which I did not witness (as a warrior) and did not altogether miss.'

Would that I were young again!
I would ride forward gently
Leading long-haired steeds
Like young antelopes (819).

(To Durayd) Malik was the chief of the B. Jusham and their leader and greatest man, but old age had overtaken him so that he was feeble. His full name was Durayd b. al-Simma b. Bakr b. 'Aqlama b. Judala b. Ghaziya b. Jusham b. Mu'awiya b. Bakr b. Hawazin. Then Malik said to the men, 'As soon as you see them, break your scabbards and attack them as one man.')

Umayya b. 'Abdullah b. 'Amr b. 'Uthman informed me that he was told that Malik sent out spies who came back with their joints dislocated. When he asked what on earth had happened to them they said, 'We saw white men on piebald horses and immediately we suffered as you see.' And, by God, even that did not turn him back from the course he intended.

When the prophet heard about them he sent 'Abdullah b. AbulHadrad al-Aslami to them and ordered him to go among them and stay with them until he learned all about them, and then bring him back the news. 'Abdullah went and stayed with them until he learned that they had decided to fight the apostle and the dispositions of Hawazin, and then came back to tell the apostle. (To the apostle called for 'Umar and told him what Ibn AbulHadrad had said. 'Umar said that he was a liar. He replied, 'You may call me a liar, 'Umar, but for a long time you denied the truth.' 'Umar said, 'Do you not hear what he says, O apostle?' and the apostle answered, 'You were in error and God guided you, 'Umar.')

When the apostle decided to go out against Hawazin he was told that Safwan b. Umayya had some armour and weapons, so he sent to him though he was at that time a polytheist, saying, 'Lend us these weapons of yours so that we may fight our enemy tomorrow.' Safwan asked, 'Are you demanding them by force, Muhammad?' He said, 'No, they are a loan and a trust until we return them to you.' He said that in that case there was no objection and he gave him a hundred coats of mail with sufficient arms to go with them. They allege that the apostle asked for transport to carry them and he provided it.

Then the apostle marched with 2,000 Meccans and 10,000 of his companions who had gone out with him when he conquered Mecca, 12,000 in

1 The language is the oracular style of 'aj•
2 Lit. 'said Tch'k'; other authorities say it means snapping the fingers.
all. The apostle left in charge of Mecca 'Attāb b. Asid b. Abū 'l-İş b. Umayya b. 'Abdū Shams to look after the men who had stayed behind. Then he went forward to meet Hawāzin.

'Abbās b. Mirdās al-Sulamī said:

This year the ghouls of their people has smitten Rilī
In the midst of their tents, for the ghouls have many forms.
Alas for the mother of Kilāb when the cavalry of Ibn Haudha
And Ināsī came on them unopposed.
Deny not your kindred, strengthen the bonds with your protégés,
Your cousins are Sa'd and Dhu Minān.
You will not return them though it is a flagrant disgrace (not to do so),
As long as milk is in the captured camels.
It is a disgrace by whose shame Hadānī has been covered
And Dhu Shaughar and Silwān follow with it.
It is no better than what Hadhāf roasted
When he said, 'All roasted wild ass is inedible.'

Hawāzin are a good tribe save that they have a Yamānī disease:
If they are not treacherous they are deceitful.
They have a brother—had they been true to their covenant
And had we reduced them by war they would have been kindly.
Take to Hawāzin one and all
A plain message of advice from me.
I think God's apostle will attack you in the morning
With an army extending over all the plain;
Among them your brother Sulaym who will not let you go.
And the Muslims, God's servants, Ghassān.
On his right are the Banū Asad
And the redoubtable Banū 'Abs and Dhuṣuyīn.
The earth almost quaked in fear,
And in the van are Aus and 'Uthmān.

Aus and 'Uthmān are two tribes of Muzayna (820).

Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhrī from Sinān b. Abū Sinān al-Dā'ali from Abū Wāqid al-Laythī told me that al-Hārith b. Mālik said: We went forth with the apostle to Ḥunayn fresh from paganism. The heathen Quraysh and other Arabs had a great green tree called Dhuṭu Anवāt to which they used to come every year and hang their weapons on it and sacrifice beside it and devote themselves to it for a day. As we were going with the apostle we saw a great lote tree and we called out to the apostle from the sides of the way, 'Make us a tree to hang things on such as they have.' He said, 'Allah akbar! By Him who holds my life in His hand, You have said what Moses' people said to him: "'Make us a god even as they have gods." He said, "You are an ignorant people. You would follow the customs of those who were before you.'"

'Ašīm b. 'Umar b. Qatādā from 'Abdūl-Rahmān b. Jābir from his father Jābir b. 'Abdullah told me: When we approached Wādi Ḥunayn we came down through a wadi wide and sloping. We were descending gradually in the morning twilight. The enemy had got there before us and had hidden themselves in its bypaths and side tracks and narrow places. They had collected and were fully prepared, and by God we were terrified when, as we were coming down, the squadrons attacked us as one man. The people broke and fled none heeding the other. The apostle withdrew to the right and said, 'Where are you going, men? Come to me. I am God's apostle. I am Muhammad the son of 'Abdullah.' And not for nothing did the camels bump one into the other. The men ran away except that a 845 number of Muhājirūn and Ansār and men of his family remained with the apostle. Of the Muhājirūn who stood firm were Abū Bakr and 'Umar; of his family 'Alī and al-'Abbās and Abū Śufyān b. al-Hārith and his son; and al-Fādil b. 'Abbās, and Rabī'a b. al-Hārith and Usāma b. Zayd and Ayman b. Umī Ayman b. 'Ubayd who was killed that day (821).

There was a man of Hawāzin on a red camel carrying a black banner at the end of a long spear leading Hawāzin. When he overtook a man he thrust him with his spear. When people moved out of his reach he lifted his spear to those behind him and they went after them.

When the men fled and the rude fellows from Mecca who were with the apostle saw the flight some of them spoke in such a way as to disclose their enmity. Abū Sufyān b. Harb said, 'Their flight will not stop before they get to the sea!' He had his divining arrows with him in his quiver. Jabāla b. al-Hanbaši cried (822) (he together with his brother Šafwān b. Umayya was a polytheist during the respite which the apostle had given him): 'Surely sorcery is vain today.' Šafwān said, 'Shut up! God smash your mouth!' I would rather be ruled by a man of Quraysh than a man of Hawāzin (823).

Shayba b. 'Uthmān b. Abū Taḥa, brother of B. 'Abdūl-Dār, said: I said, Today I will get my revenge on Muhammad (for his father had been killed at Uḥud). Today I will kill Muhammad. I went round him to kill him and something happened to stay my purpose so that I could not do it and I knew that he was protected from me.

One of the Meccans told me that when the apostle left Mecca for Ḥunayn and saw the great number of God's armies that were with him he said, 'We shall not be worsted today for want of numbers.' Some people allege that a man of B. Bakr said this.

Al-Zuhrī from Kathīr b. al-'Abbās from his father told me: I was with the apostle holding the ring of the bridle which I had put between the jaws

1 A tribe of Sulaym. Hawāzin and Sulaym were brother tribes.
2 A tribe of Qays of the clan of B. Naṣr; or from B. Jushām b. Bakr. According to A. Dh. they were a tribe of Hawāzin.
4 Hadānī is a mountain in Najd. Dhu Shaughar and Silwān are wādis.
5 A paraphrase of the somewhat coarse original.
of his white mule. I was a big man with a powerful voice. The apostle was saying when he saw the army in confusion, 'Where are you going, men?' And not one of them paid heed, and he said, 'O 'Abbās cry loudly, "O Anṣār, O comrades of the acacia tree'' and they answered 'Here we are'; and a man would try to turn his beast and could not do it; and he would take his mail and throw it on its neck, and take his sword and shield and get off his mount and let it go its way and make for the voice until he came to the apostle. Finally a hundred were gathered by him and they went forward and fought. At first the cry was 'To me, Anṣār!' and finally 'To me, Khazraj'! They were steadfast in the fight and the apostle standing in his stirrups looked down at the mêlée as they were saying and fighting, 'Now the oven is hot."

'Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda from 'Abdul-Rahmān from his father Jābir b. 'Abdullah said, 'While that man with the Hawāzīn standard on his camel was doing as he did Ali and one of the Anṣār turned aside making for him, Ali came on him from behind and hamstrung his camel and it fell upon its rump; and the Anṣār leapt upon him and struck him a blow which sent his foot flying with half his shank and he fell from his saddle. The men went on fighting and, by God, when those who had run away returned they found only prisoners handcuffed with the apostle.

The apostle turned to Abū Sufyān who was one of those who stood firm with the apostle that day and was an excellent Muslim when he accepted the faith, as he was holding on to the back of the saddle of his mule and asked who was it. He replied, 'I am your mother's son, O apostle of God.'

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that the apostle turned and saw Umm Sulaym d. Milbān who was with her husband Abū Taḥfa. She was wearing a striped girdle and was pregnant with her son 'Abdullah b. Abū Taḥfa. She had her husband's camel with her and was afraid that it would be too much for her, so she brought its head near to her and put her hand in the nose ring of hair along with the nose rein. After telling the apostle who she was in response to his question she said, 'Kill those who run away from you as you kill those who fight you, for they are worthy of death!' The apostle said, 'Rather God will save (me the need), O Umm Sulaym!' She had a knife with her and Abū Taḥfa asked why, and she said, 'I took the knife so that if a polytheist came near me I could rip him up with it.' He said, 'Do you hear what Umm Sulaym al-Rumayṣa' says, O apostle?'

When he set out for Hunayn the apostle had joined B. Sulaym to al-Daḥṣaq b. Sufyān al-Kilābi so that they went along with him. And when the men fled Malik b. 'Auf said, addressing his horse:

Forward, Muhāj! They are fine horsemen.
Do not think that the enemy have gone (824).

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that he was told from Abū Qatāda al-Anṣārī; and one of our companions whom I have no reason to suspect told me from Nāfi', client of B. Ghīfār Abū Muhammad from Abū Qatāda, that the latter said: On the day of Hunayn I saw two men fighting, a Muslim and a polytheist. A friend of the latter was making to help him against the Muslim, so I went up to him and struck off his hand, and he throttled me with the other; and by God he did not let me go until I smelt the reek of blood (825). He had all but killed me and had not loss of blood weakened him he would have done so. But he fell and I struck and killed him, and was too occupied with the fighting to pay any more attention to him. One of the Meccans passed by and stripped him, and when the fighting was over and we had finished with the enemy the apostle said that anyone who had killed a foe could have his spoil. I told the apostle that I had killed a man who was worth stripping and had been too occupied with fighting at the time and that I did not know who had spoiled him. One of the Meccans admitted that I had spoken the truth and that the spoil was in his possession. 'So pay him to his satisfaction on my behalf from his spoil.' Abū Bakr said, 'No, by Allah, he shall not “give him satisfaction” from it. Are you going to make one of God's lions who fought for His religion go shares with you in his prey? Return the spoil of the man he killed to him!' The apostle confirmed Abū Bakr's words, so I took the spoil from him and sold it and bought with the money a small palm-grove. It is the first property I ever held.

One I do not suspect told me from Abū Salama from Ishāq b. 'Abdullah b. Abū Taḥfa from Anas b. Malik: Abū Taḥfa alone took the spoil of twenty men.

---

1 Wastā, a play on the name 'Awāṣ.
2 He was actually his cousin. Mother here stands for grandmother.
3 The name of his horse.
My father Ishāq b. Yasār told me that he was told from Jubayr b. Muṭ'in: Before the people fled and men were fighting one another I saw the like of a black garment coming from heaven until it fell between us and the enemy. I looked, and lo black ants everywhere filled the wadi. I had no doubt that they were the angels. Then the enemy fled.

When God put to flight the polytheists of Hunayn and gave his apostle power over them a Muslim woman said:

Allah's cavalry have beaten Al-Lat's cavalry
And Allah best deserves to hold fast (826).

When Hawāzin were put to flight the killing of Thaqīf among the B. Mālik was severe and seventy of them were killed beneath their flag, among whom were Uthmān b. 'Abdullāh b. Rabī'ā b. al-Hārith b. Hābib. Their flag was with Dhu'l-Khīmār. When he was killed Uthmān b. 'Abdullāh took it and fought by it until he was killed.

'Amir b. Wahb b. al-Aswād told me that when news of his death reached the apostle he said, 'God curse him! He used to hate Quraysh.'

Yaqīb b. 'Utba b. al-Mughīra b. al-Akhnas told me that a young uncircumcised Christian slave was killed with Uthmān, and while one of the Ansārīs was plundering the slain of Thaqīf he stripped the slave to plunder him and found that he was uncircumcised. He called out at the top of his voice, 'Look, you Arabs, God knows that Thaqīf are uncircumcised.' Mughīra b. Shu'ba took hold of his hand, for he was afraid that this report would go out from them among the Arabs, and told him not to say that, for the man concerned was only a Christian slave. Then he began to uncover the slain and showed that they were circumcised.

The flag of the Aḥlāf was with Qārīb b. al-Aswād, and when the men were routed he leant it against a tree, and he and his cousins and his people fled. Only two men of the Aḥlāf were killed and one of the B. Ghiyāra called Wahb and another of B. Kubbā called al-Julā. When the apostle heard of the killing of al-Julā he said, 'The chief of the young men of Thaqīf except Ibn Hunayda has been killed today, meaning by him al-Hārith b. Uways.'

'Abbās b. Mīrđās al-Sulami, mentioning Qārīb b. al-Aswād and his flight from his father's sons, and Dhu'l-Khīmār and his shutting up his people to death, said:

Who will tell Ghaylān and Urwa from me
(I think one who knows will come to him).
I send to tell you something
Which is different from what you say which will go round
That Muhammad is a man, an apostle to my Lord
Who errs not, neither does he sin.
We have found him a prophet like Moses,
Any who would rival him in goodness must fail.

Evil was the state of the B. Qasīṭ in Wajj
When each one's affairs were decreed.
They lost the day (and every people has a ruler
And fortunes change).
We came on them like lions of the thickets,
The armies of God came openly.
We came at the main body of B. Qasīṭ
Almost flying at them in our rage.
Had they stayed I swear we would have come at them
With armies and they would not have got away.
We were as lions of Liya2 there until we destroyed them
And al-Nūṣūrīs3 were forced to surrender.
There was a day before that day at Hunayn which is past
And blood then flowed freely.
In former days there was no battle like this;
Men of long memories have never heard of such.
We slew B. Huṣayn in the dust by their flags
While the cavalry turned away.
Dhu'l-Khīmār was not the chief of a people
Who possessed intelligence to blame or disapprove.
He led them on the road to death
As everyone could see.
Those who escaped were choked with terror,
A multitude of them were slain.
The languid man could not help in such a case
Nor he who was too shy and hesitant to attack.
He destroyed them and he perished himself.
They had given him the leadership and the leaders fled.
Banū 'Auf's horses went at a fair pace
Fed on fresh grass and barley.
But for Qārīb and his father's sons
The fields and castles would have been divided,
But they attained prominence
By the lucky advice they were given.
They obeyed Qārīb and they had good fortune
And good sense that brought them glory.
If they are guided to Islam they will be found
Leaders of men while time lasts.
If they do not accept it they call
For God's war in which they will have no helper.
As war destroyed the B. Sa'd
And fate the clan of B. Ghaziyya.
The B. Mu'āwiya b. Bakr

1 Qasī is a name of Thaqīf and Wajj is a wadi in al-Ṭūf.
2 A place near al-Ṭūf.
3 The family of Mālik b. 'Auf al-Naṣrī.
The Life of Muhammad

We said, 'Be Muslims; we are your brethren, For our breasts are free from enmity.'

When the people came to us they seemed Blind to hatred after peace had come (827).

When the polytheists were routed they came to al-Ta'if. Malik b. 'Auf was with them and others were encamped in Autāš. Some of them made for Nakhla, but only the B. Ghiyara of Thaqīf. The apostle's cavalry followed those who took the road to Nakhla, but not those who went to the passes.

Rabī'ā b. Rufay' b. Uhābān b. Tha'laba b. Rabī'ā b. Yarbū' b. Sarmāl b. 'Auf b. Imrū'ul-Qays who was called after his mother Ibn Dughunna more often (828) overtook Durayd b. al-iginalma and took hold of his camel's halter, thinking that he was a woman because he was in his howdah. And lo, it was a man; he made the camel kneel and it was a very old man— Durayd b. al-iginalma. The young man did not know him and Durayd asked him what he wanted and what was his name. He told him and said that he wanted to kill him, and struck him with his sword to no effect. Durayd said, 'What a poor weapon your mother has given you! Take this sword of mine that is behind the saddle in the howdah and strike me with that above the spine and below the head, for that is the way I used to strike men. Then when you come to your mother tell her that you have killed Durayd b. al-iginalma, for many's the day I have protected your women.'

The B. Sulaym allege that Rabī'ā said, 'When I smote him he fell and exposed himself, and 10 his crotch and the inside of his thighs were like paper from riding horses bareback. When Rabī'ā returned to his mother he told her that he had killed him and she said, 'By God, he set free three mothers and grandmothers of yours.'

'Amra d. Durayd said of Rabī'ā's killing him:

I' faith I did not fear the army of fate On Durayd's account in the valley of Sumayra. God repay the B. Sulaym for him And may ingratitude rend them for what they have done. May He give us the blood of their best men to drink When we lead an army against them, Many a calamity did you avert from them When they were at the point of death. Many a noble woman of theirs did you free And others you loosed from bonds. Many a man of Sulaym named you noble As he died when you had answered his call. Our reward from them is ingratitude and grief

1 Maw. 68 quotes two lines of verse attributed to Durayd which may have been in the Mughāzī. Cf. Ḥumāya, 377.
One of our companions told us that the apostle that day passed by a woman whom Khālid b. al-Walid had killed while men had gathered round her. When he heard what had happened he sent word to Khālid and forbade him to kill child, or woman, or hired slave.

One of B. Sa‘d b. Bakr told me that the apostle said that day, 'If you get hold of Bījād, a man of B. Sa‘d b. Bakr, don’t let him escape you,' for he had done great wrong. When the Muslims took him they led him away with his family and with him (T. his sister) al-Shaymā‘ d. al-Ḥārith (T. b. Abdullah) b. Abdu‘l-‘Uzza‘, foster-sister of the apostle. They treated her roughly as they brought her along and she told the Muslims that she was the foster-sister of the apostle, but they did not believe her until they had brought her to the apostle.

Yazīd b. ‘Ubayd al-Sa‘dī told me that when she was brought to the apostle she claimed to be his foster-sister, and when he asked for proof she said, 'The bite you gave me in my back when I carried you at my hip.' The apostle acknowledged the proof and stretched out his robe for her to sit on and be kept in ward there.

The names of those martyred at Ḫunayn were:

From Quraysh of B. Ḥāshim: Ayman b. ‘Ubayd.

The captives of Ḫunayn were brought to the apostle with their property.

Mas‘ūd b. ‘Amr al-Ghifīrī (T. al-Qārī) was over the spoils and the apostle ordered that the captives and the animals should be brought to al-Ji‘rāna and be kept in ward there.

Buqayr b. Zuhayr b. Abū Sulmā said about Ḫunayn:

But for God and His servant you would have turned back
When fear overwhelmed every coward
On the slope the day our opponents met us
While the horses galloped at full stretch
Some running clutching their garments
Others knocked sideways by hooves and chests.
God honoured us and made our religion victorious
And glorified us in the worship of the Compassionate.
God destroyed them and dispersed them all
And humiliated them in the worship of Satan (833).

1 Or with some authorities, 'heart (janān).
The Life of Muhammad

I tell you I saw him charging in clouds of dust
Crushing the heads of the polytheists;
Now throttling with bare hands,
Now splitting their skulls with his sharp sword.¹
The B. Sulaym hastened before him
With continual cuts and thrusts at the enemy.
They walked beneath his banner there
Like lions with a haunt they mean to defend.
They did not hope for consideration of kinship
But obedience to their Lord and your love.
These were our doings for which we are renowned.
And our Helper is your Lord.

He said also:

If you saw, O Umm Farwa, our horses
Some led riderless and lame!
The battle had reduced their fitness,
Blood gushed from deep wounds.
Many a woman whom our prowess protected
From the hardship of war so that she² had no fear, said,
There are none like those who came to make an agreement
Which forged an inseparable link with Muhammad.
A deputation among them Abū Qaṭan, Ḥuzāba
And Abū'l-Ghuwayth and Wāsi' and al-Miqna'
And he who led the hundred which brought
The nine hundred to a complete thousand.
Banū 'Auf and the clan of Mukhāshīn collected six hundred
And four hundred were brought from Khufāf
There when the prophet was helped by our thousand
He handed us a fluttering standard.
We conquered with his flag and his commission bequeathed³
A glorious life and authority that will not cease.
The day that we formed the prophet's flank
In the vale of Mecca when spears were quivering 'twas
Our answer to him who called us to our Lord in truth:
We went helmeted and unmailed alike,
With long mail whose mesh David chose
When he weaved iron, and Tubba' too.
By Ḥunayn's two wells we had a train
Which slew the hypocrites—an immovable army.
By us the prophet gained victory; we are the people who

¹ C. adds here:
Smiting the heads of the warriors with it
If you had seen as I saw his prowess you would have been satisfied.
² Or 'her people' (airbūdah).
³ The choice of words brings out the double meaning of 'tying' and making an agreement.
Had we a choice we would have followed our own kin,
But God's religion is the religion of Muhammad.
We are satisfied with it; it contains guidance and laws.
By it he set our affairs right after we had erred
And none can avert the decree of God.

He also said:

The last link with Umm Mu'ammal is broken,
She has changed her mind contrary to her promise;
She had sworn by God she would not break the link,
But she did not keep her word or fulfil her oath.
She is of Banî Khufaf who summer in the vale of al-'Aqîq
And occupy Wajra and 'Urf in the deserts.
Though Umm Mu'ammal follows the unbelievers
She has made me love her more despite her distance from me.
Someone will tell her that we refuse to do so
And seek only our Lord in alliance;
And that we are on the side of the guide, the prophet Muhammad,
And number a thousand which (number) no (other) tribe reached.
With strong warriors of Sulaym
Who obey his orders to the letter,
Khuwaf and Dhakhwân and 'Auf whom you would think
Were black stallions walking among the she-camels
As though our reddish-white mail and helmets
Clothed long-eared lions which meet one another in their lairs.
By us God's religion is undeniably strong.
We added a like number to the clan that was with him.
When we came to Mecca, our banner
Was like an eagle soaring to dart on its prey
(Riding) on horses which gazed upwards.
You would think when they gallop in their bits there is a sound of jinn among them,
The day we trod down the unbelievers
And found no deviation or turning from the apostle's order.
In a battle mid which the people heard only
Our exhortations to fight and the smashing of skulls
By swords that sent heads flying from their base
And severed the necks of warriors at a blow.
Often have we left the slain cut to pieces

1 A wadi in the Hijaz.
2 The reading here should be bayda 'helmets', not bida 'swords' as in C. The word is left unpainted in W. The poet is comparing the chain flaps depending from the helmets to the long ears of lions.

He also said:

And a widow crying Alas! over her husband.
'Tis God not man we seek to please;
To Him belongs the seen and the unseen.

What ails thine eye painful and sleepless,
Its lash feeling like a piece of chaff?
Sorrow brings sleeplessness to the eye
And tears now cover it, now flow down
Like a string of pearls with the stringer
The thread breaks and they are scattered.
How far off is the home of her you long for,
Al-Sammân and al-Hafar stand in the way!
Talk no more of the days of youth.
Youth is gone and scant white locks have come,
And remember the fighting of Sulaym in their settlements;
And Sulaym have something to boast about:
They are the people who helped God
And followed the apostle's religion while men's affairs were confused.
They do not plant young palms in their midst
And cows do not low in their winter quarters.
But steeds like eagles are kept near them
Surrounded by multitudes of camels.
Khuwaf and 'Auf were summoned on their flanks
And the clan of Dhakhwân armed and keen to fight.
They smote the armies of the polytheists openly
In Mecca's vale, and killed them quickly,
Until we departed, and their dead
Were like uprooted palms in the open valley.
On Hunayn's day our stand strengthened religion
And with God that is stored up.
Then we risked death in the gloom
As the black scattered dust cleared away from the horses
Under the banner with al-Dâhîhâ leading us
As a lion walks when he enters his thicket
In a narrow place where war pressed hard.
Sun and moon were almost blotted out by it.
We devoted our lances to God in Autâs,
We helped whom we would and we became victorious
Until certain people returned to their dwellings, who But for us and God would not have returned.
You will see no tribe great or small
But we have left our mark upon them.

1 Bevan queried this hemistich. Reckendorff, Ar. Syntax, 173 reads kalkalaha and renders: 'in einer Enge wo der Kampf seine Brust hin und her zerrt'; and refers to Nöldeke, Z. Gramm. 75 and Fleischer, l. 184 f.
He also said:

O rider with whom there hastens
A strong, sturdy, firm footed she-camel,
If you come to the prophet say to him as you should
When the assembly is quiet,
'O best that ever rode a camel
Or walked the earth, if souls are weighed,
We were faithful to our covenant with you
When the cavalry were driven off by warriors and wounded
When there flowed from all the sides of Buhtha
A multitude which shook the mountain paths
Until we came on the people of Mecca with a squadron
Glittering with steel, led by a proud chief
Composed of Sulaym's sturdiest men
Capped in strong iron mesh with iron top
Blooding their shafts when they dashed into battle.
You would think them glowering lions.
They engaged the squadron wearing their badges,
Sword and spear in hand.
At Hunayn we were a thousand strong
By which the apostle was reinforced.
They defended the believers in the vanguard.
The sun was reflected a thousand times from their steel.
We went forward, God guarding us,
And God does not lose those He guards.
We made a stand in Manāqib,
Which pleased God, what a fine stand it was!
On the day of Auţās we fought so fiercely
That the enemy had enough and cried Stop!
Hawāzīn appealed to the brotherhood between us—
The breast that supplied them with milk, is dry—
Until we left them like wild asses
Which wild beasts have continually preyed upon (835).

He also said:

We helped God's apostle, angry on his account,
With a thousand warriors apart from unarmed men,
We carried his flag on the end of our lances,
His helper protecting it in deadly combat.
We dyed it with blood, for that was its colour,
The day of Hunayn when Safwān thrust with his spear.
We were his right wing in Islam,
We had charge of the flag and displayed it.

---

1 A clan of Sulaym.
2 On the Mecca-Tā’if road.
And its rider lying beside a broken lance.
Hawāzin had recovered their herds from us
And it pleased them that we should be disappointed and deprived (of them).

Yaqṣāz b. ʿUṣayya al-Sulami said concerning Ḥunayn (Thaqif had killed Kīnān b. al-Ḥakam b. Khālid b. al-Shārīd, so he killed Mihjān and a nephew of his, both of Thaqif):

We brought our horses without overdriving them
To Jurash from the people of Zayyān and al-Farn,
Killing the young lions and making for the temples
Built before our day and not yet destroyed.
If you boast of the killing of Ibn al-Shārīd
I have left many widows in Wajj.2
I killed the two of them avenging Ibn al-Shārīd
Whom your promise of protection deceived and he blameless.
Our spears slew the men of Thaqif
And our swords inflicted grievous wounds.

He also said:
Tell the men with you who have wives,
Never trust a woman
After what a woman said to her neighbour,
‘Had the raiders not returned I should have been in the house.’3
When she saw a man whom the fierce heat of a torrid land
Had left with blackened face and fleshless bones.
You could see his leanness at the end of the night
As he was clad in his mail for a raid.
I am always in the saddle of a thick short-haired mare,
My garment touching my belt;⁴
One day in quest of booty,
Another, fighting along with the Ansār.
How much fertile land have I travelled,
How much rough uneven ground at gentle pace
That I might change her state of poverty,
And she did not want me to return, the baggage! (837)

Mālik b. ʿAuḍ excusing his flight said:
Slit-eared camels straying from the track
Prevented sleep for even an hour.
Ask Hawāzin do I not injure their enemy

1 In the Yaman.
2 A place in al-Ṭīf.
3 i.e. at the disposal of callers.
4 As the horse rushed forward sword and belt and garments would face the same direction. The husband is speaking at this point.

Recall their march against the enemy when they assembled
When the flags fluttered over Mālik.
None was above Mālik on the day of Ḥunayn3
When the crown glittered on his head
Until they met courage when courage led them
Wearing their helmets, mail, and shields.
They smote the men till they saw none
Round the prophet and until dust hid him.
Then Gabriel was sent down from heaven to help them
And we were routed and captured.
If any other but Gabriel had fought us
Our noble swords would have protected us.
ʿUmar al-_FARĪQ escaped me when they were put to flight
With a thrust that soaked his saddle in blood.⁴
A woman of B. Jusham lamenting two of her brothers who were slain at Ḥunayn said:

O eyes, be generous with your tears
For Mālik and al-‘Alā’; be not niggardly.
They were the slayers of Abū ‘Amir
Who held a sword with streaky marks.
They left him a bleeding lump'
Staggering, feebly unsupported.

Abū Thawāb Zayd b. Suḥr, one of B. Sa’d b. Bakr, said:
Have you not heard that Quraysh conquered Ḥawazin (Misfortunes have their causes).
There was a time, Quraysh, when if we were angry
Red blood flowed because of our rage.
There was a time, Quraysh, when if we were angry
It seemed as though snuff were in our nostrils.
And now Quraysh drive us
Like camels urged on by peasants.
I am not in a position to refuse humiliation
Nor am I disposed to give in to them (838).

‘Abdullāh b. Wahb, one of B. Tamīm of the clan of Usayyid, answered him:
By God’s command we smote those we met
In accordance with the best command.
When we met, O Hawāzin,
We were saturating heads with fresh blood.
When you and B. Qasīy assembled
We crushed opposition like beaten leaves.
Some of your chiefs we slew
And we turned to kill both fugitive and standfast.
Al-Multāth lay with outstretched hands,
His dying breath sounding like a gasping young camel.
If Qays ‘Aylān be angry
My snuff has always subdued them.

Khādij b. al-‘Auja’al-Nāṣr said:
When we drew near to the waters of Ḥunayn
We saw repellant black and white shapes
In a dense well-armed throng; if they had thrown them At the peaks of ‘Uzwā they would have become flat.
If my people’s chiefs had obeyed me
We should not then have met the thick cloud

1 Cf. 856. 4.
2 I conjecture mutakāshif for mutakashif which gives a poor sense. On p. 870. 7 the MSS. vacillate between kathīf and kashīf, and again the former is the better reading. However, some such meaning as ‘looming’ might be ascribed to mutakashif. C. says it means ṣabīr.
The Life of Muhammad

Till you turn to Islam, humbly seeking refuge.
We will fight not caring whom we meet
Whether we destroy ancient holdings or newly gotten gains.
How many tribes assembled against us
Their finest stock and allies!
They came at us thinking they had no equal
And we cut off their noses and ears
With our fine polished Indian swords,
Driving them violently before us
To the command of God and Islam,
Until religion is established, just and straight, and Al-Lat and al-'Uzza and Wudd are forgotten
And we plunder them of their necklaces and earrings.
For they had become established and confident,\(^1\)
And he who cannot protect himself must suffer disgrace.

Kināna b. 'Abdu Yalil b. 'Amr b. 'Umayr answered him:
He who covets us wishing to fight us (let him come).
We are in a well-known home which we never leave.
Our fathers were here long since
And we hold its wells and vineyards.
'Amr b. 'Amir put us to the test aforetime\(^2\)
And the wise and intelligent told them about it.
They know if they speak the truth that we Bring down the high looks of the proud.\(^3\)
We force the strong to become meek
And the wrongdoer to become known to the discerning.
We wear light mail the legacy of one who burned men* Gleaning like stars in the sky.
'Ve drive them from us with sharp swords,
When they are drawn from the scabbard we do not sheathe them.

Shaddād b. 'Ārid al-Jushamī said about the apostle's expedition to al-Ṭā'īf:
Don't help al-Lāt for God is about to destroy her.
How can one who cannot help herself be helped?
She that was burned in black smoke and caught fire.
None fighting before her stones, is an outcast.\(^5\)
When the apostle descends on your land
None of her people will be left when he leaves.

\(^1\) The meaning of this hemistich may be: 'And then they professed (Islam) and had peace'.
\(^2\) This is a hit at the Ansār through their common descent.
\(^3\) Twist into position the head turned aside in disdain.
\(^4\) i.e. 'Amr b. 'Amir.
\(^5\) Lit. 'not one for whom bloodwit must be paid'.

1. The apostle journeyed by Nakhlatu'l-Yamāniya, and Qarn, and al-Malayh and Buhratu'l-Ruğā of Liya.\(^1\) A mosque was built there and he 872 prayed in it.

'Amr b. Shu'ayb told me that when he came there that day he allowed retaliation for homicide, and that was the first time such a thing happened in Islam. A man of B. Layth had killed a man of Hudhayl and he killed him in retaliation. When he was in Liya the apostle ordered that the fort of Malik b. Auf should be destroyed. Then he went on a road called al-Ḍayqa.\(^2\) As he was passing along it he asked its name. When he was told that it was 'the strait' he said, 'No, it is the easy.'\(^3\) Then he went by Nakhb till he halted under a lote tree called al-Ṣādira near the property of a man of Thaqīf. The apostle sent word to him, 'Either come out or we will destroy your wall.'\(^4\) He refused to come out so the apostle ordered his wall to be destroyed.

He went on until he halted near al-Ṭā'īf and pitched his camp there. Some of his companions were killed by arrows there because the camp had come too close to the wall of al-Ṭā'īf and the arrows were reaching them. The Muslims could not get through their wall for they had fastened the gate. When these men were killed by arrows he (T. withdrew and) pitched his camp near where his mosque stands today. He besieged them for some twenty days (839).

He had two of his wives with him: Umm Salama d. Abū Umayya (T. and another with her). He struck two tents for them and prayed between the tents. Then he stayed there. When Thaqīf surrendered 'Amr b. Umayya b. Wahh b. Mu'attib b. Malik built a mosque over the place where he prayed. There was a pillar in the mosque. Some allege that the sun never rises over it any day but a creaking noise\(^5\) is heard from it. The apostle besieged them and fought them bitterly and the two sides exchanged arrows (840), until when the day of storming came at the wall of al-Ṭā'īf a 873 number of his companions went under a testudo and advanced up to the wall to breach it. Thaqīf let loose on them scraps of hot iron so they came out from under it and Thaqīf shot them with arrows and killed some of them. The apostle ordered that the vineyards of Thaqīf should be cut down and the men fell upon them cutting them down.

Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarib and al-Mughira b. Shu'ha went up to al-Ṭā'īf and called to Thaqīf to grant them safety so that they could speak to them. When they agreed they called on the women of Quraysh and B. Kināna to come out to them for they were afraid that they would be captured, but they refused to come. They were Āmina d. Abū Sufyān who was married to 'Urwa b. Mas'ūd by whom she gave birth to Dā'ūd b. 'Urwa (844); and \(^1\) These are places in the area of Ṭā'īf.

\(^2\) As we should say 'a tight corner' and therefore an insuspicious name which has to be altered.
\(^3\) al-Yussī.
\(^4\) ḥā'īf means a wall and also the garden which it surrounds.
\(^5\) naqūf. I. al-Āthir, Nihāya, sub voce, explains this word from the creaking of a camel's litter and the noise given out by a roof when the wood moves (expands in the heat?).
al-Firāsīya d. Suwayd b. 'Amr b. Tha‘laba whose son was 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Qārib; and al-Fuqaymiya Umayma d. the intercalator Umayya b. Qal‘. When they refused to come out Ibn al-Aswad b. Mas‘īd said to the two men, ‘Let me tell you of something better than that which you have come about. You know where the property of B. Aswad is.’ (The apostle was between it and al-Tā‘if in a valley called al-‘Aqiq.) ‘There is no property in al-Tā‘if more laborious to water, harder to cultivate, and more difficult to maintain than this property of B. Aswad. If Muhammad cuts down its trees it will never be cultivated again, so speak to him and let him take it for himself or leave it to God and kinsmen, for there is a well-known relationship between us.’ They allege that the apostle left it to them.

I have heard that the apostle said to Abu Bakr while he was besieging al-Tā‘if, ‘I saw (in a dream) that I was given a bowl of butter and a cock pecked at it and spilt it.’ Abu Bakr said, ‘I don’t think that you will attain your desire from them today.’ The apostle said that he did not think so either.

Then Khawwayla d. Hakim b. Umayya b. Hāritha b. al-Auqās al-Sulamīya, wife of ‘Uthmān b. Maz‘ūn, asked the apostle to give her the jewellery of Bādiya d. Ghaylān b. Salama, or the jewellery of al-Fāri‘a d. ‘Aqil if God gave him victory over al-Tā‘if, for they were the best bejewelled women of Thaqif. I have been told that the apostle said to her, ‘And if Thaqif is not permitted to me, O Khawwayla?’ She left him and went and told ‘Umar, who came and asked the apostle if he had really said that. On hearing that he had, he asked if he should give the order to break camp, and receiving his permission he did so.

When the army moved off Sa‘id b. ‘Ubayd b. Asīd b. Abū ‘Amr b. ‘Allāj called out, ‘The tribe is holding out.’ ‘Umayya b. Ḥisn said, ‘Yes, nobly and gloriously.’ One of the Muslims said to him, ‘God smite you, ‘Uwayyna! Do you praise the polytheists for holding out against the apostle when you have come to help him?’ ‘I did not come to fight Thaqif with you,’ he answered, ‘but I wanted Muhammad to get possession of al-Tā‘if so that I might get a girl from Thaqif whom I might tread on and be proud of her. I have heard that the apostle said to her, ‘I have been told that the apostle said to her, ‘And if Thaqif is not permitted to me, O Khawwayla?’ She left him and went and told ‘Umar, who came and asked the apostle if he had really said that. On hearing that he had, he asked if he should give the order to break camp, and receiving his permission he did so.

During his session there some of the slaves besieged in al-Tā‘if came to him and accepted Islam and he freed them. One whom I do not suspect from Abdullah b. Mukaddam from men of Thaqif said that when al-Tā‘if surrendered some of them talked about these slaves, but the apostle refused to do anything saying that they were God’s free men. One of those who spoke about them was al-Hārith b. Khalda (842).

Now Thaqif had seized the family of Marwān b. Qays al-Dausi, he having become a Muslim and helped the apostle against Thaqif. Thaqif allege—and Thaqif is the ancestor on whom the tribe’s claim to be of Qays is based—that the apostle said to Marwān b. Qays, ‘Seize in revenge for your family the first man of Qays that you meet.’ He met Ubayy b. Mālik al-Qushayrī and took him until they should return his family to him. Al-Dahhāk b. Sufyān al-Kilābī took the matter in hand and spoke to Thaqif until they let Marwān’s family go, and he freed Ubayy. Al-Dahhāk in reference to what passed between him and Ubayy said:

Will you forget my kindness, O Ubayy b. Mālik, The day the apostle looked away from you? Marwān b. Qays led you by his rope Submissive as a well-trained beast. Some of Thaqif behaved badly to you, (If anyone comes to them asking for trouble get it!) Yet they were your relatives and their minds turned to you When you were almost in despair (843).

These are the names of the Muslims who were martyred at al-Tā‘if:

(Al-Tā‘if) was a sequel to the battle of Hunayn And Aṣṣās and al-Abraq when Hawāzin gathered their force in their folly And were dispersed like scattered birds. The (men of al-Tā‘if) could not hold a single place against us Except their wall and the bottom of the trench. We showed ourselves that they might come forth, But they shut themselves in behind a barred gate. Our unmailed men returned to a strong surging force Fully armed glittering with death-dealing weapons; Compact, dark green, (if one threw them at Hadān it would become as though it had not been created)
With the gait of lions walking on thorns, as though we were horses. Now separated now coming together as they are led, in long armour which whenever it is donned is like a shimmering pool ruffled by the wind; well-woven armour which reaches to our sandals, woven by David and the family of Muḥarrīq. 3

DIVISION OF THE SPOIL OF HĀWĀZĪN AND GIFTS TO GAIN MEN’S HEARTS

When he left al-Ṭā’īf the apostle went by way of Dāhānā until he stopped at al-Jīrānā with his men, having a large number of Hāwāzīn captives. One of his companions on the day he left Thaqīf asked him to curse them but he said, ‘O God, guide Thaqīf and bring them (to Islam).’

Then a delegation from Hāwāzīn came to him in al-Jīrānā where he held 6,000 women and children, and sheep and camels innumerable which had been captured from them. ‘Āmr b. Shu‘ayb from his father from his grandfather ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Abbās said that the delegation from Hāwāzīn came to the apostle after they had accepted Islam, saying that the disaster which had befallen them was well known and asking him to have pity on them for God’s sake. One of the Hāwāzīn of the clan B. Sa’d b. Bakr (T. it was they who had provided the fostermother for the apostle) called Zuhayr Abū Ṣurad said: ‘O Apostle of God, in the enclosures are your paternal and maternal aunts and the women who suckled you who used to look after you. Had we acted as fosterparents for al-Hārīth b. Abū Shimr or al-Nu’mān b. al-Mundhir and then got into the position in which you hold us we could hope for his kindness and favour, and you are the best of trustworthy men’ (845).

(T. Then he said:

Have pity on us, apostle of God, generously,
For you are the man from whom we hope and expect pity.
Have pity on a people whom fate has frustrated,
Their well-being shattered by time’s misfortunes.)

The apostle said, ‘Which are dearest to you? Your sons and your wives or your cattle?’ They replied, ‘Do you give us the choice between our cattle and our honour? Nay, give us back our wives and our sons, for that is what we most desire.’ He said, ‘So far as concerns what I and the B. ‘Abdullāh-Muṭṭalib have they are yours. When I have prayed the noon prayers they did as he had ordered them, and he said what he had promised to say. Then the Muhājirīn said that what was theirs was the apostle’s, and the Ṣa`ādīs said the same. But al-Aqra’ b. Ḥābīs said, ‘So far as I and B. Tamīm are concerned, No.’ ‘Uyaynā b. Ḥiṣān said No on behalf of himself and B. Fazārā and so did ‘Abbās b. Mūrūd for himself and B. Sulaym; but B. Sulaym said, ‘Not so; what is ours is the apostle’s.’ ‘Abbās said to B. Sulaym, ‘You have put me to shame.’ Then the apostle said, ‘He who holds to his right to these captives shall have six camels for every man from the first booty (T. we) take.’ Then the women and children were returned to their men.

Abū Wājīz b. ‘Uyaynā and B. Tamīm with al-Aqra’ b. Ḥābīs said that the apostle gave ‘Alī a girl called Rayātī b. Ḥilāl b. Ḥayyān b. ‘Umayr b. Ḥilāl b. ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Umar to the apostle after they had accepted Islam, saying that the disaster which had befallen them was well known and asking him to have pity on them. ‘Uyaynā b. Ḥiṣān said Rayātī was a young girl who could not conceive and her husband would not care and her milk was not rich. She let her go for the six camels when Zuhayr said this. They allege that when ‘Uyaynā met al-Aqra’ b. Ḥābīs he complained to him about the matter and he said: By God, you didn’t take her as a virgin in her prime nor even a plump middle age.’

The apostle asked the Hāwāzīn deputation about Mālik b. ‘Auf and they said that he was in al-Ṭā’īf with Thaqīf. The apostle told them to tell Mālik that if he came to him as a Muslim he would return his family and property to him and give him a hundred camels. On hearing this Mālik came out from al-Ṭā’īf. He had been afraid that Thaqīf would get to know what the apostle had said and imprison him, so he ordered that his camel should be got ready for him and that a horse should be brought to him in al-Ṭā’īf. He came out by night, mounted his horse, and rode hard until he got to the place where his camel was tethered, and rode off to join the apostle, overtaking him in al-Jīrānā or Mecca. He gave him back his family and property and gave him a hundred camels. He became an excellent Muslim and at the time he said:

1 Or ‘hounds’.
2 Following C. qudur which the commentators say means ‘horses that put the hind-leg where the foreleg has trod’. W. has juddar ‘camels’ or ‘wild goats’. It may be that camels are meant.
3 i.e. ‘Amr b. Ḥiṣān, King of Jīrānā.
The apostle put him in command of those of his people who had accepted Islam, and those tribes (T. round al-‘Ja‘if) were Thumâla, Salima, and Fahm. He began to fight Thaqif with them: none of their flocks could come out but he raided them until they were in sore straits. Abû Mihjân b. Hâbib b. ‘Amr b. ‘Umayr al-Thaqafi said:

Enemies have always dreaded our neighbourhood.
And now the Banû Salima raid us!
Mâlik brought them on us
Breaking his covenant and solemn word.
They attacked us in our settlements
And we have always been men who take revenge.

880 When the apostle had returned the captives of Ḥunjâyn to their people he rode away and the men followed him, saying, ‘O apostle, divide our spoil of camels and herds among us’ until they forced him back against a tree and his mantle was torn from him and he cried, ‘Give me back my mantle, men, for by God if you had (T. I had) as many sheep as the trees of Tihâma I would distribute them among you; you have not found me niggardly or cowardly or false.’ Then he went to his camel and took a hair from its hump and held it aloft in his fingers, saying, ‘Men, I have nothing but a fifth of your booty even to this hair, and the fifth I will return to you; so give back the needle and the thread; for dishonesty will be a shame and a flame and utter ignominy to a man on the resurrection day.’ One of the Ansâr came with a ball of camel hair, saying, ‘O apostle, I took this ball to make a pad for a sore camel of mine.’ He answered, ‘As for my share in that you can keep it!’ ‘If it has come to that,’ he said, ‘I do not want it, and he threw it away (846).

The apostle gave gifts to those whose hearts were to be won over, notably the chiefs of the army, to win them and through them their people. He gave to the following 100 camels: Abû Sufyân b. Hârb; his son Mu‘awiya; Ḥakím b. Hîzâm; al-Hârith b. al-Hârith b. Kalâda brother of B. ‘Abdu‘l-Dâr (847); al-Hârith b. Hîshâm; Suhayl b. ‘Amr; Huwâytyb b. ‘Abdu‘l-Uzza b. Abû Qays; al-‘Alâ’ b. Jâriya al-Thaqafi an ally of B. Zuhra; ‘Uyayna b. Ḥiṣn b. Ḥudhayfa b. Badr; al-Aqra‘ b. Ḥâbis al-Tamîmi; Mâlik b. ‘Auf al-Naṣrî; and Ṣafwân b. Umayya.

He gave ‘Abbas b. Mirdâs some camels and he was dissatisfied with them and blamed the apostle in the following verses:

It was spoil that I gained
When I charged on my horse in the plain
And kept the people awake lest they should sleep
And when they slept kept watch.
My spoil and that of ‘Ubayd my horse
Is shared by ‘Uyayna and al-Aqra‘.
Though I protected my people in the battle,
Myself unprotected I was given nothing
But a few small camels
To the number of their four legs!
Yet neither Ḥâbis nor Ḥiṣn!
Surpass my father in the assembly,
And I am not inferior to either of them.
And he whom you demean today will not be exalted (849).

The apostle said, ‘Get him away and cut off his tongue from me,’ so they gave him (camels) until he was satisfied, this being what the apostle meant by his order (850).

Muhammad b. Ibrâhim b. al-Hârith b. Iyâmil told me that a companion said to the apostle: ‘You have given ‘Uyayna and al-Aqra‘ a hundred camels each and left out Ju‘ayl b. Surâqâ al-Ḍamîrî.’ He answered, ‘By Him in whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, Ju‘ayl is better than the whole world full of men like those two, but I have treated them generously so that they may become Muslims, and I have entrusted Ju‘ayl to his Islam.’

Abû ‘Ubayda b. Muhammad b. ‘Amâr b. ‘Uyayna from Miqsur Abû‘l-Qasîm, freed slave of ‘Abdullah b. al-Hârith b. Naufal, told me: I went in company with ‘Aflâd b. Kâlib al-Laythî to ‘Abdullah b. ‘Amîr b. al-‘As as he was going round the temple with his sandals in his hand, and we asked him whether he was with the apostle when the Tamîmite spoke to him on the day of Ḥunjâyn. He said that he was and that a man of Tamîm called Dhû‘l-Khuwaisira came and stood by the apostle as he was making gifts to the men and said, ‘Muhammad, I’ve seen what you have done today.’ ‘Well, and what do you think?’ he answered. He said, ‘I don’t think you have done just.’ The prophet was angry and said, ‘If justice is not to be

1 They were the fathers of the two men mentioned in line 4.
2 I. H. L. notes in which Surâ 36. 69 is quoted rests on the absurd statement of an anonymous traditionist that Muhammad was so ignorant of verse that he could not recognize rhyme when he heard it, a poor compliment to the greatest Arab of all time. Here, for want of a better place, I cite I. H. L. from al-Zuhri via Yûnis (Surâ 36. 69): ‘We have not taught him verse. That does not belit him.’ The meaning is ‘What We have taught him is not verse. It is not fit that he should bring verse from Us.’ The apostle only uttered verse which had been spoken by others before him.’ Abhâdûn–al-Nahwîyin al-Baqîyîn, by al-Sirâfî, ed. F. Krenkow, Beyrut, 1930, pp. 72 f.
found with me then where will you find it? 'Umar asked to be allowed to kill him, but he said, 'Let him alone, for he will have a following that will go so deeply into religion that they will come out of it as an arrow comes out of the target; you look at the head and there is nothing on it; you look at the butt end and there is nothing on it; then at the nock and there is nothing on it. It went through before flesh and blood could adhere to it.'

Muhammad b. 'Ali b. al-Ḥusayn, Abū Ja'far, told me a similar story and named the man Dhu'l-Khuwayṣira. 'Abdullah b. Abū Najīḥ told me the same from his father (851).

(T. 'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that one of the apostle's companions who was at Hunayn with him said, 'I was riding my camel by the side of the apostle, wearing a rough sandal, when my camel jostled his and the toe of my sandal hit the apostle's shank and hurt him. He hit my foot with his whip, saying, "You hurt me. Get behind!" so I went behind him. The next morning the apostle was looking for me and I thought it was because I had hurt his leg, so I came expecting (punishment); but he said, "You hurt my leg yesterday and I struck your foot with my whip. Now I have summoned you to compensate you for it," and he gave me eighty she-camels for the one blow he struck me."

'Āсим b. 'Umar b. Qatāḍa from Maḥmūd b. Labid from Abū Sa‘īd al-Khudri told me: When the apostle had distributed these gifts among Quraysh and the Bedouin tribes, and the Anṣār got nothing, this tribe of Anṣār took the matter to heart and talked a great deal about it, until one of them said, 'By God, the apostle has met his own people.' Sa‘īd b. 'Ubāda went to the apostle and told him what had happened. He asked, 'Where do you stand in this matter, Sa‘īd?' He said, 'I stand with my people.' 'Then gather your people in this enclosure,' he said. He did so, and when some of the Muhājīrs came, he let them come, while others he sent back. When he had got them altogether he went and told the apostle, and he came to them, and after praising and thanking God he addressed them thus: 'O men of Anṣār, what is this I hear of you? Do you think ill of me in your hearts? Did I not come to you when you were erring and God guided you; poor and God made you rich; enemies and God softened your hearts?' They answered; 'Yes indeed, God and His apostle are most kind and generous.' He continued: 'Why don't you answer me, O Anṣār?' They said, 'How shall we answer you? Kindness and generosity belong to God and His apostle.' He said, 'Had you so wished you could have said—and you would have spoken the truth and have been believed—You came to us discredited and we believed you; deserted and we helped you; a fugitive and we took you in; poor and we comforted you. Are you disturbed in mind because of the good things of this life by which I win over a people that they may become Muslims while I entrust you to your Islam? Are you not satisfied that men should take away flocks and herds while you take back with you the apostle of God? By Him in whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, but for the migration I should be one of the Anṣār myself. If all men went one way and the Anṣār another I should take the way of the Anṣār. God have mercy on the Anṣār, their sons and their sons' sons.' The people wept until the tears ran down their beards as they said: 'We are satisfied with the apostle of God as our lot and portion'. Then the apostle went off and they dispersed.

THE APOSTLE MAKES THE LESSER PILGRIMAGE FROM AL-JI'RĀNA

Then the apostle left al-Ji’rāna to make the lesser pilgrimage. He gave orders that the rest of the spoil should be kept back in Majanna near Marrūl-Zahrān. Having completed the pilgrimage he returned to Medina. He left 'Aṭṭāb b. Asid in charge of Mecca. He also left behind with him Mu‘ādh b. Jabal to instruct the people in religion and to teach them the Qurān. He himself was followed by the rest of the spoil (852).

The apostle's pilgrimage was in Dhu'l-Qa‘da, and he arrived in Medina towards the end of that month or in Dhu'l-Hijja (853).

The people made the pilgrimage that year in the way the (pagan) Arabs used to do. 'Aṭṭāb made the pilgrimage with the Muslims that year, A.H. 8. The people of al-Ṭā’if continued in their polytheism and obstinacy in their city from the time the apostle left in Dhu’l-Qa‘da of the year 8 until Ramadān of the following year.

THE AFFAIR OF KA‘B B. ZUHAYR AFTER THE DEPARTURE FROM AL-ṬĀ’IF

When the apostle arrived (at Medina) after his departure from al-Ṭā’iif Bujayr b. Zuḥayr b. Abū Sulmā wrote to his brother Ka‘b telling him that the apostle had killed some of the men in Mecca who had satirized and insulted him and that the Quraysh poets who were left—Ibn al-Zibā’r and Hubayra b. Abū Wahb—had fled in all directions. 'If you have any use for your life then come quickly to the apostle, for he does not kill anyone who comes to him in repentance. If you do not do that, then get to some safe place.' Ka‘b had said:

Give Bujayr a message from me:
Do you accept what I said, confound you?
Tell us plainly if you don't accept what I say
For what reason other than that has he led you
To a religion I cannot find his fathers ever held
And you cannot find that your father followed?

1 Some MSS. have here a gloss in which I.H. takes up the narrative of I.I. which he broke off when he cut out the passage from Tabari that contains what I.I. wrote.

2 Had he not been joined by the Muhājīrs from Mecca who had remained faithful to him, he would have severed his connexion with Quraysh altogether and joined the community of Medina.

3 Similarly Māsīb b. 'Uqba, No. 10.
I

A large species of tick.

Z

Le, the middle joint of the foreleg.

3

i.e. she is a camel for riding, not for milking.

over with white-foamed torrents fed by showers gushing from a cloud of morn.

Oh, what a rare mistress were she, if only she were true to her promise and would hearken to good advice!

But hers is a love in whose blood are mingled paining and lying and 890 faithlessness and inconstancy.

She is not stable in her affection—even as ghouls change the hue of their garments—

And she does not hold to her plighted word otherwise than as sieves hold water.

The promises of 'Urqūb were a parable of her, and his promises were naught but vanity.

I hope and expect that women will ever be ready to keep their word;

but never, methinks, are they ready.

Let not the wishes she inspired and the promises she made beguile thee: these wishes and dreams are a delusion.

In the evening Su'ād came to a land whither none is brought save by camels that are excellent and noble and fleet.

To bring him there, he wants a stout she-camel which, though fatigued, loses not her wonted speed and pace;

One that largely bedews the bone behind her ear when she sweats, one that sets herself to cross a trackless unknown wilderness;

Scanning the high grounds with eyes keen as those of a solitary white oryx, when stony levels and sand-hills are kindled (by the sun);

Big in the neck, fleshy in the hock, surpassing in her make the other daughters of the sire;

Thick-necked, full-cheeked, robust, male-like, her flanks wide, her front (tall) as a milestone;

Whose tortoise-shell skin is not pierced at last even by a lean (hungry)

tick on the outside of her back;

A hardy beast whose brother is her sire by a noble dam, and her sire's brother is her dam's brother; a long-necked one and nimble.

The qurādī crawls over her: then her smooth breast and flanks cause

it to slip off.

Onager-like is she; her side slabbed with firm flesh, her elbow-joint far removed from the ribs;

Thick-necked, full-cheeked, robust, male-like, her flanks wide, her

front (tall) as a milestone;

Whose tortoise-shell skin is not pierced at last even by a lean (hungry)

tick on the outside of her back;

A hardy beast whose brother is her sire by a noble dam, and her sire's brother is her dam's brother; a long-necked one and nimble.

The qurādī crawls over her: then her smooth breast and flanks cause

it to slip off.

Onager-like is she; her side slabbed with firm flesh, her elbow-joint far removed from the ribs;

Her nose aquiline; in her generous ears are signs of breeding plain for the expert to see, and in her cheeks smoothness.

Her muzzle juts out from her eyes and throat, as though it were a pick-axe.

She lets a taillike a leafless palm-Branch with small tufts of hair hang down over a sharp-edged (unrounded) udder from which its teats do not take away (milk) little by little.1

1 A large species of tick.

2 i.e. the middle joint of the foreleg.

3 i.e. she is a camel for riding, not for milking.
The Life of Muhammad

Though she be not trying, she races along on light slender feet that skim the ground as they fall, 891

With tawny hock-tendons—feet that leave the gravel scattered and are not shod so that they should be kept safe from the blackness of the heaped stones,
The swift movement of her forelegs, when she sweats and the mirage enfolds the hills—
On a day when the chameleon basks in some high spot until its exposed part is baked as in fire,
And, the grey cicalas having begun to hop on the gravel, the camel-driver bids his companions take the siesta—

Resembles the beating of hand on hand by a bereaved grey-haired woman who rises to lament and is answered by those who have lost many a child,
One waiting shrilly, her arms weak, who had no understanding when news was brought of the death of her firstborn son:
She tears her breast with her hands, while her tunic is rent in pieces from her collar-bones.
The fools walk on both sides of my camel, saying, 'Verily, O grandson of Abū Sulmā, thou art as good as slain'! And every friend of whom I was hopeful said, 'I will not help thee out: I am too busy to mind thee.'
I said, 'Let me go my way, may ye have no father! for whatever the Merciful hath decreed shall be done.
Every son of woman, long though his safety be, one day is borne upon a gibbous bier.'

I was told that the Messenger of Allah threatened me (with death), but with the Messenger of Allah I have hope of finding pardon.
Gently mayst thou be guided by Him who gave thee the gift of the Koran, wherein are warnings and a plan setting-out (of the matter). Do not punish me, when I have not sinned, on account of what is said by the informers, even should the (false) sayings about me be many. Ay, I stand in such a place that if an elephant stood there, seeing (what I see) and hearing what I hear,
The sides of his neck would be shaken with terror—if there be no forgiveness from the Messenger of Allah.
I did not cease to cross the desert, plunging betimes into the darkness when the mantle of Night is fallen,
Till I laid my right hand, not to withdraw it, in the hand of the avenger whose word is the word of truth.
For indeed he is more feared by me when I speak to him—and they told me I should be asked of my lineage—

Than a lion of the jungle, one whose lair is amidst dense thickets in the lowland of 'Aththar;

1 Referring to his journey to the Prophet, who had already given the order for his death.

He goes in the morning to feed two cubs, whose victual is human flesh rolled in the dust and torn to pieces; 892
When he springs on his adversary, 'tis against his law that he should leave the adversary ere he is broken;
From him the assos of the broad dale flee in affright, and men do not walk in his wadi,
Albeit ever in his wadi is a trusty sire, his armour and hardworn raiment smeared with blood—ready to be devoured.
Truly the Messenger is a light whence illumination is sought—a drawn Indian sword, one of the swords of Allah,
Amongst a band of Kuraish, whose spokesman said when they professed Islam in the valley of Mecca, 'Depart ye!' They departed, but no weaklings were they or shieldless in battle or without weapons and courage;
They march like splendid camels and defend themselves with blows when the short black men take to flight; 1
Warriors with noses high and straight, clad for the fray in mail-coats of David's weaving, 2
Bright, ample, with pierced rings strung together like the rings of the gaf'a. 3
They are not exultant if their spears overtake an enemy or apt to despair if they be themselves overtaken.
The spear-thrust falls not but on their throats: for them there is no shrinking from the ponds of death (856). 4

'Aśim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda said: When Ka'b said, 'When the short black men take to flight,' he meant us, the Anšār, because of the way one of us had treated him. He singled out the Muhājīrīn among the apostle's companions for praise. This excited the Anšār's anger against him. After he had become a Muslim he spoke in praise of the Anšār and mentioned their trials with the apostle and their position among the Yaman tribes:

He who loves a glorious life
Let him ever be with the horsemen of the righteous Anšār,
Who transmit glorious deeds from father to son.
The best men are they, sons of the best men
Who launch with their arms spears
Like long Indian swords,
Who peer forward unweariedly
With eyes red as burning coals.

1 Probably a hit at the people of Medina, some of whom had urged Muhammad to show the poet no mercy.
2 David is described in the Qurān (xii. 80) as a maker of coats of mail.
3 Name of a plant.
4 i.e. places where draughts of death are drunk. By the courtesy of the Cambridge University Press I take this translation from Translations of Eastern Poetry and Prose by my old friend R. A. Nicholson.
THE RAID ON TABUK, A.H. 9

The apostle stayed in Medina from Dhul-Hijja to Rajab, and then gave orders to prepare to raid the Byzantines. The following account is based on what al-Zuhri and Yazid b. Rūmān and 'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr and 'Aṣīm b. 'Umar b. Qatāda and other authorities told me; some supplied additional information which others lacked.

The apostle ordered his companions to prepare to raid the Byzantines at a time when men were hard pressed; the heat was oppressive and there was a drought; fruit was ripe (T. and shade was eagerly sought) and the men wanted to stay in the shade with their fruit and disliked travelling at that season. Now the apostle nearly always referred allusively to the destination of a raid and announced that he was making for a place other than that which he actually intended. This was the sole exception, for he said plainly that he was making for the Byzantines because the journey was long, the season difficult, and the enemy in great strength, so that the men could make suitable preparations. He ordered them to get ready and told them that he was making for the Byzantines. (T. Some men got ready in spite of their dislike for the journey in itself to say nothing of their respect for the reputation of the Byzantines.)

One day when he was making his arrangements the apostle said to Jadd b. Qays of B. Salima, 'Would you like to fight the B. Aṣfār, Jadd?' He replied, 'Will you allow me to stay behind and not tempt me, for everyone knows that I am strongly addicted to women and I am afraid that if I see the Byzantine women I shall not be able to control myself.' The apostle gave him permission to remain behind and turned away from him. It was about him that the verse came down, 'There are some who say Give me leave (to stay behind) and do not tempt me. Surely they have fallen into temptation already and hell encompasses the unbelievers,' i.e. it was not that he feared temptation from the Byzantine women: the temptation he had fallen into was greater in that he hung back from the apostle and sought to please himself rather than the apostle. God said, 'Verily hell is behind him.'

The disaffected said one to another, 'Don't go forth in the heat,' disliking strenuous war, doubting the truth, and creating misgivings about the apostle. So God sent down concerning them: 'And they said, Go not forth in the heat. Say: The fire of hell is hotter did they but understand. Let them laugh a little and let them weep much as a reward for what they were earning' (858).

The apostle went forward energetically with his preparations and ordered the men to get ready with all speed. He urged the men of means to help in providing money and mounts for God's work (T. and persuaded them). The wealthy men provided mounts and stored up a reward with God. 'Uthmān b. 'Affān spent a larger sum than any had ever done (859).

Then seven Muslims known as The Weepers, Anṣār, and others from B. 'Amr b. 'Auf came to the apostle and asked him to provide them with mounts for they were without means. Their names were: Sālim b. 'Umayr; 'Uiba b. Zayd, brother of B. Hāritha; Abū Laylā 'Abdūl-Rahmān b. Ka'b, brother of B. Mázin b. al-Najjār; 'Amr b. 'Humān b. al-Jamāh, brother of B. Salima; 'Abdullah b. al-Mughaffal al Muzānī (or b. 'Amr); Harmāy b. 'Abdullah, brother of B. Wāqīf; and 'Irba'id b. Sāriya al-Fazārī. He said that he had no mount to give them and they turned back, their eyes flowing with tears for grief that they had not the wherewithal to meet the expense of the raid.

I have heard that Ibn Yāmin b. 'Umayy b. Ka'b al-Nadrī met Abū Laylā and 'Abdulah b. Mughaffal as they were weeping, and when he asked what they were crying for they told him that they had applied to the apostle for a mount, but that he had none to give them and they had nothing. Thereupon he gave them a watering camel, and they saddled it and he provided them with some dates and so they went off with the apostle.

Some Bedouins came to apologize for not going, but God would not accept their excuse. I have been told that they were from B. Ghifar. (T. One of them was Khuṣāf b. 'Imām b. Rahdī.)

When the apostle's road was clear he determined to set off. Now there was a number of Muslims who were slow to make up their minds so that they lagged behind without any doubt or misgivings. They were Ka'b b. Mālik b. Abū Ka'b, brother of B. Salima; Murārā b. al-Rahī, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf; Hilāl b. 'Umayya, brother of B. Wāqīf; Abū

---

1 Sūra 9. 49.
2 Sūra 14. 19.
Khaythama, brother of B. Sâlim b. 'Auf; they were loyal men whose Islam was above suspicion.

When the apostle had set out he pitched his camp by Thaniyyatu'l-Wâda'." (860).\footnote{A pass overlooking Medina.}

\'Abdullah b. Ubayy (T. b. Salâl) pitched his camp separately below him in the direction of Dhubâb (T. a mountain in al-Jabâ\'a\'na below Thaniyyatu'l-Wâda'). It is alleged that it was not the smaller camp. When the apostle went on, 'Abdullah b. Ubayy separated from him and stayed behind with the hypocrites and doubters. (T. 'Abdullah was brother of B. 'Auf b. al-Khazzraj, and 'Abdullah b. Nabitâl was brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf; and Ri\'â' b. Zayd b. al-Tâbît was brother of B. Qaynuqâ'). These were the principal men among the hypocrites and wished ill to Islam and its people. Concerning them God sent down: 'They sought rebellion aforetime and upset things for you.'\footnote{Sûra 9. 48.}

The apostle left 'Ali behind to look after his family, and ordered him to stay with them. The hypocrites spoke evil of him, saying that he had been left behind because he was a burden to the apostle and he wanted to get rid of him. On hearing this 'Ali seized his weapons and caught up with the apostle when he was halting in al-Jurf and repeated to him what the hypocrites were saying. He replied: 'They lie. I left you behind because of what I had left behind, so go back and represent me in my family and yours. Are you not content, 'Ali, to stand to me as Aaron stood to Moses, except that there will be no prophet after me?' So 'Ali returned to Medina and the apostle went on his way. Muhammad b. Ţalâ' h. Yazid b. Rukâna from Ibrahim b. Sa'd b. Abû Waqqâs from his father Sa'd b. 'Abdullah b. Ubayy (T. brother of B. Sâlim) returned to his family on a hot day some days after the apostle had set out. He found two wives of his in huts in his garden. Each had sprinkled her hut and cooled it with water and got ready food for him. When he arrived he stood at the door of the hut and looked at his wives and what they had done for him and said: 'The apostle is out in the sun and the wind and the heat and Abû Khaythama is in a cool shade, food prepared for him, resting in his property with a fair woman. This is not just. By God, I will not enter either of your huts, but join the apostle; so get ready some food for me.' They did so and he went to his camel and saddled it and went out in search of the apostle until he overtook him in Tabûk. 'Umayr b. Wahb al-Jumâhî had overtaken Abû Khaythama on the road as he came to find the apostle, and they joined forces. When they approached Tabûk Abû Khaythama said to 'Umayr, 'I have done wrong. You can stay behind me if you like until I come to the apostle,' and he did so. When he approached the apostle as he was stopping in Tabûk, the army called attention to a man riding on the way and the apostle said it would be Abû Khaythama, and so it was. Having dismounted he came and saluted the apostle, who said, 'Woe to you, Abû Khaythama!' Then he told the apostle what had happened, and he spoke him well and blessed him (861).

When the apostle passed al-Hijr\footnote{Often called Mâdâ'in Śâlîh. Doughty's account of this place in Arabia Deserta, passim, is still the most interesting.} he stopped, and the men got water from its well. When they went the apostle said, 'Do not drink any of its water nor use it for ablutions. If you have used any of it for dough, then feed it to the camels and eat none of it. Let none of you go out at night alone but take a companion.' The men did as they were told except two of them of B. Sâ'ida: one went out to relieve himself and the other to look for a camel of his. The first was half choked on his way\footnote{The lexicologists say that khundagûs is a disease which attacks men and horses (and sometimes birds) in the throat.} and the second was carried away by a wind which cast him on the two mountains of Tayyyî. The apostle was told of this and reminded the men that he had forbidden them to go out alone. Then he prayed for the man who was choked on the way and he recovered; the other man was brought to the apostle in Medina by a man of Tayyyî. This story comes from 'Abdullah b. Abû Bakr from 'Abbâs b. Sa'âl b. Sa'd b. Sâ'îdî. 'Abdullah told me that 'Abbâs had told him who they were, but confidentially, so he refused to name them to me (862).

In the morning when the men had no water they complained to the apostle, so he prayed, and God sent a cloud, and so much rain fell that they were satisfied and carried away all the water they needed.

\'Asim b. 'Umar b. Qatâdah from Ma\'mûd b. Labîd from men of B. 'Abdu'l-Ashhal told me that he said to Ma\'mûd, 'Do the men know the hypocrites among them?' He replied that a man would know that hypocrisy existed in his brother, his father, his uncle, and his family, yet they would cover up each other. Then Ma\'mûd said: Some of my tribesmen told me of a man whose hypocrisy was notorious. He used to go wherever the apostle went and when the affair at al-Hijr happened and the apostle prayed as he did and God sent a cloud which brought a heavy rain they said, 'We went to him saying “Woe to you! Have you anything more to say after this?” He said, "It is a passing cloud!”’

During the course of the journey the apostle's camel strayed and his companions went in search of it. The apostle had with him a man called \'Umâra b. Ḥazm who had been at al-\'Aqabâ and Bâdîr, uncle of B. 'Amr b. Ḥazm. He had in his company Zayd al-\'Uṣayt al-Qaynuqâ'î who was a hypocrite (863). Zayd said while he was in \'Umâra's camp and \'Umâra was with the apostle, 'Does Muhammad allege that he is a prophet and can tell you news from heaven when he doesn't know where his camel is?' The apostle said while \'Umâra was with him: 'A man has said: Now Muhammad tells you that he is a prophet and alleges that he tells you of heavenly things and yet doesn't know where his camel is. By God, I know only what God has told me and God has shown me where it is. It is in this wadi in such-and-such a glen. A tree has caught it by its halter; so go and bring it to me.' They went and brought it. 'Umāra returned to his camp and said: 'By God, the apostle has just told us a wonderful thing about something someone has said which God has told him of.' Then he repeated the words. One of his company who had not been present with the apostle exclaimed, 'Why, Zayd said this before you came.' 'Umāra advanced on Zayd pricking him in the neck and saying, 'To me, you servants of God! I had a misfortune in my company and knew nothing of it. Get out, you enemy of God, and do not associate with me.' Some people allege that Zayd subsequently repented; others say that he was suspected of evil until the day of his death.

Then the apostle continued his journey and men began to drop behind. When the apostle was told that So-and-so had dropped behind he said, 'Let him be; for if there is any good in him God will join him to you; if not God has rid you of him.' Finally it was reported that Abū Dharr had dropped behind and his camel had delayed him. The apostle said the same words. Abū Dharr waited on his camel and when it walked slowly with him he took his gear and loaded it on his back and went off walking in the track of the apostle. The apostle stopped at one of his halting-places when a man called his attention to someone walking on the way alone. The apostle said that he hoped it was Abū Dharr, and when the people had looked carefully they said that it was he. The apostle said, 'God have mercy on Abū Dharr. He walks alone and he will die alone and be raised alone.'

Burayda b. Sufyān al-Aslami from Muhammad b. Ka'b al-Qurashi from 'Abdullah b. Mas'u'd told me that when 'Uthmān exiled Abū Dharr to al-Rabadha' and his appointed time came there was none with him but his wife and his slave. He instructed them to wash him and wind him in his shroud and lay him on the surface of the road and to tell the first caravan that passed who he was and ask them to help in burying him. When they died they did this. 'Abdullah b. Mas'u'd came up with a number of men from Iraq on pilgrimage when suddenly they saw the bier on the top of the road: the camels had almost trodden on it. The slave got up and said, 'This is Abū Dharr the apostle's companion. Help us to bury him.' 'Abdullah b. Mas'u'd broke out into loud weeping saying, 'The apostle was right. You walked alone, and you died alone, and you will be raised alone.' Then he and his companions alighted and buried him and he told them his story and what the apostle had said on the road to Tabūk.

A band of hypocrites, among them Wādī'ā b. Thābit, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, and a man of Ashja' an ally of B. Salīma called Mukhashshin b. Humayyir (864) were pointing at (T. going with) the apostle as he was journeying to Tabūk saying one to another, 'Do you think that fighting the Byzantines is like a war between Arabs? By God we (T. I) seem to see you bound with ropes tomorrow so as to cause alarm and dismay to the believers. Mukhashshin said, 'I would rather that every one of us were sentenced to a hundred lashes than that a verse should come down about us concerning what you have said.'

The apostle—so I have heard—told 'Ammār b. Yāṣir to join the men, for they had uttered lies, and ask them what they had said. If they refused to answer, tell them that they said so-and-so. 'Ammār did as he was ordered and they came to the apostle making excuses. Wādī'ā said as the apostle had halted on his camel, and as he spoke he laid hold of its girth, 'We were merely chatting and joking, O apostle.' Then God sent down, 'If you ask them they will say, We were merely chatting and joking.'

Mukhashshin b. Humayyir said, 'O apostle, my name and my father's name disgrace me.' The man who was pardoned in this verse was Mukhashshin and he was named 'Abdu'l-Ḥamān. He asked God to kill him as a martyr with none to know the place of his death. He was killed on the day of al-Yamāma and no trace of him was found.

When the apostle reached Tabūk Yuhanna b. Ru'ba governor of Ayla came and made a treaty with him and paid him the poll tax. The people of Jarba' and Adhrūh also came and paid the poll tax. The apostle wrote for them a document which they still have. He wrote to Yuhanna b. Ru'ba thus: 'In the name of God the Compassionate and Merciful. This is a guarantee from God and Muhammad the prophet, the apostle of God, to Yuhanna b. Ru'ba and the people of Ayla, for their ships and their caravans by land and sea. They and all that are with them, men of Syria, and the Yemen, and seamen, all have the protection of God and the protection of Muhammad the prophet. Should any one of them break the treaty by introducing some new factor then his wealth shall not save him; it is the fair prize of him who takes it. It is not permitted that they shall be restrained from going down to their wells or using their roads by land or sea.'

Then the apostle summoned Khālid b. al-Walīd and sent him to Ukaydir at Dūma. Ukaydir b. 'Abdu'l-Malik was a man of Kinda who was ruler of Dūma; he was a Christian. The apostle told Khālid that he would find him hunting wild cows. Khālid went off until he came within sight of his fort. It was a summer night with a brighter moon and Ukaydir was on the roof with his wife. The cows were rubbing their horns against the gate of the fort all the night. His wife asked him if he had ever known anything of the kind in the past, and urged him to go after them. He called for his horse, and when it was saddled he rode off with a number of his family, among them a brother called Ḥassān. As they were riding the apostle's cavalry fell in with them and seized him and killed his brother. Ukaydir was wearing a gown of brocade covered with gold. Khālid stripped him of this and sent it to the apostle before he brought him to the apostle.

'Āṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda from Anas b. Mālik said: I saw Ukaydir's gown when it was brought to the apostle. The Muslims were feeling it

1 Sūra 9. 66.
2 Mukhashshin implies harshness and rudeness, and Humayyir means a little donkey.
and admiring it, and the apostle said, 'Do you admire this? By Him in whose hand is my life the napkins of Sa'd b. Mu'adh in Paradise are better than this.'

Then Khalid brought Uwaydir to the apostle who spared his life and made peace with him on condition that he paid the poll tax. Then he released him and he returned to his town. A man of Tayy called Buwayr b. Buwayr remembering the words of the apostle to Khalid, 'You will find him hunting wild cows,' said that what the cows did that night in bringing him out of his fort was to confirm what the apostle had said:

Blessed is He who drove out the cows.
I see God guiding every leader.
Those who turn aside from yonder Tabuk, (let them) For we have been ordered to fight.

The apostle stayed in Tabuk some ten nights, not more. Then he returned to Medina.

On the way there was water issuing from a rock—enough to water two or three riders. It was in a wadi called al-Mushaquq. The apostle ordered anyone who should get there before him not to take water from it until he came. A number of the disaffected got there first and drew water from it. When the apostle arrived he halted and saw no water there. He asked who had got there first and was told their names. He exclaimed, 'Did I not forbid you to take water from it until I came?' Then he cursed them and called down God’s vengeance on them. Then he alighted and placed his hand under the rock, and water began to flow into his hand as God willed. Then he sprinkled the rock with the water and rubbed it with his hand and prayed as God willed him to pray. Then water burst forth, as one who heard it said, with a sound like thunder. The men drank and satisfied their need from it, and the apostle said, 'If you live, or those of you who live, will hear of this wadi that it is more fertile than its neighbours.'

Muhammad b. Ibrāhīm b. al-Hārith al-Taymī told me that 'Abdullah b. Mas'ūd used to say: I got up in the middle of the night when I was with the apostle in the raid on Tabuk when I saw a light near the camp. I went after it to look at it and lo it was the apostle with Abū Bakr and 'Umar; and 'Abdullah Dhu'l-Bijādayn had just died and they had dug a grave for him. The apostle was in the grave and Abū Bakr and 'Umar were letting him down to him as he was saying, 'Bring your brother near to me,' so they let him down and as he arranged him for his niche he said, 'O God, I am pleased with him; be Thou pleased with him!' Abdullah b. Mas'ūd used to say, 'Would that I had been the man in the grave' (865).

Ibn Shihāb as-Zuhārī reported from Ibn Ukhayma al-Laythī from Ibn Akhi 'Abī Ruhm al-Ghīfārī that he heard Abū Ruhm Kulthūm b. al-Husayn, who was one of the companions who did homage to the apostle beneath the tree, say: When I made the raid on Tabuk with the apostle I journeyed the night with him. While we were at al-Akhḍar near the

The apostle cast a heavy sleep on us and I began to wake up when my camel had come near the apostle’s camel. I was afraid that if it came too near his foot would be hurt in the stirrup. I began to move my camel away from him until sleep overcame me on the way. Then during the night my camel jostled against his while his foot was in the stirrup and I was wakened by his voice saying, 'Look out.' I asked his pardon and he told me to carry on. The apostle began to ask me about those who had dropped out from B. Ghīfār and I told him. He asked me about the people with long straggling red beards and I told him that they had dropped out. Then he asked about the men with short curly hair and I confessed that I did not know that they were of us. 'But yes,' he said, 'they are those who own camels in Shabakatu Shadakh.' Then I remembered that they were among B. Ghīfār, but I did not remember them until I recalled that they were a clan of Aslam who were allies of ours. When I told him this he said, 'What prevented one of these when he fell out from mounting a zealot man in the way of God on one of his camels? The most painful thing to me is that muḥājirūn from Quraysh and the Anṣār and Ghīfār and Aslam should stay behind.'

The Opposition Mosque

The apostle went on until he stopped in Dhū Āwān a town an hour’s daylight journey from Medina. The owners of the mosque of opposition had come to the apostle as he was preparing for Tabuk, saying, 'We have built a mosque for the sick and needy and for nights of bad weather, and we should like you to come to us and pray for us there.' He said that he was on the point of travelling, and was preoccupied, or words to that effect, and that when he came back if God willed he would come to them and pray for them.

When he stopped in Dhū Āwān news of the mosque came to him, and he summoned Mālik b. al-Dukhshum, brother of B. Sālim b. 'Auf, and Ma'n b. 'Adiy (or his brother 'Āṣim) brother of B. al-'Ajān, and turned to them to go to the mosque of those evil men and destroy and burn it. They went quickly to B. Sālim b. 'Auf who were Mālik's clan, and Mālik said to Ma'n, 'Wait for me until I can bring fire from my people.' So he went in and took a palm-branch and lighted it, and then the two of them ran into the mosque where its people were and burned and destroyed it and the people ran away from it. A portion of the Quran came down concerning them: 'Those who chose a mosque in opposition and unbelief and to cause division among believers' to the end of the passage.

The twelve men who built it were: Khidrām b. Khālid of B. 'Ubayd b. Zayd, one of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf; his house opened on to the schismatic mosque; Tha'lab b. Hāfīb of B. Umayya b. Zayd; Mu'attib b. Qushayr; Abū Ḥabība b. al-Az'ār, both of B. Ḍubay'a b. Zayd; 'Abbād b. Ḥunayf, 1 Sūrā 9. 108.
brother of Sahil of B. 'Ar b. 'Auf; Järmiya b. 'Amir and his two sons Mujammi and Zayd; Nabdil b. al-Hārith; Bahżaj; and Bijbāh b. 'Uthmān, all of B. Ḩubayy; and Wadi'a b. Thābit of B. Umayya b. Zayd, the clan of Abū Lubāba b. Ābdūl-Mundhir.

The apostle's mosques between Tabūk and Medina are well known and named. They are the mosques in Tabūk; Thaniyatū Miḏrān; Dhuṭil-Zirāḥ; al-Akhdār; Dhuṭil-Khitmi; Alā; beside al-Batrā at the end of Kawākib; Shiqq, Shiqq Tarā; Dhuṭil-Jifa; Sadr Haudā; al-Hijr; al-Ṣa'id; the wadi known today as Wadi'il-Qurā; al-Ruqa of Shiqqa, the Shiqqa of B. 'Udhra; Dhuṭil-Marwa; Fayfā'; and Dhu Khushub.

THE THREE MEN WHO ABSTAINED FROM THE RAID ON TABŪK

When the apostle came to Medina he found that some disaffected persons had stayed behind. Among them were three Muslims who had not held back through doubt or disaffection, namely Ka'b b. Mālik, Murāra b. al-Rabī, and Hīlāl b. Umayya. The apostle told his companions not to speak to these three. The disaffected who had stayed behind came and made excuses with oaths and he forgave them, but neither God nor His apostle accepted their excuse. The Muslims withdrew from these three and would not speak to them (T. until God sent down His word concerning them). Muhammad b. Muslim b. Shihāb al-Zuhārī from 'Ābdūl-Rahmān b. 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. Mālik said that his father, whom he used to lead about when his sight failed, said: I heard my father Ka'b telling his story of how he held back from the apostle in his raid on Tabūk, and the story of his two companions:

I had never held back from any raid the apostle had undertaken except the battle of Badr, and that was an engagement which none was blamed either by God or His apostle for missing because the apostle had gone out only to find the Quraysh caravan when God brought him and his enemies together without previous intent. I was present with the apostle at al-'Aqaba when we pledged our faith in Islam, and I should not prefer to have been at Badr rather than there even if the battle of Badr is more famous. The fact was that when I stayed behind in the raid on Tabūk I had never been stronger and wealthier. Never before had I possessed two camels. Seldom did the apostle intend a raid but he pretended that he had another objective except on this occasion. He raided it in violent heat and faced a long journey and a powerful enemy and told men what they had to do so that they might make adequate provision, and he told them the direction he intended to take. The Muslims who followed him were many and he did not enrol them in a book. (He meant by that a register; he did not enrol them in a written register). The few who wanted to absent themselves thought that they could conceal it from him as long as no revelation came down from God about it. The apostle made that raid when the fruits were ripe and shade was desirable so that men were averse from it. The apostle made his preparations and the Muslims likewise, and I would go to get ready with them and come back not having done what was necessary, saying to myself, 'I can do that when I want to,' and I continued procrastinating until the men had acted with energy and in the morning they and the apostle had gone while I had made no preparation. I thought that I could get ready a day or two later and then join them. Day after day passed and I had done nothing until the raiders had gone far ahead and still I thought of going and overtaking and I wish that I had done so but I did not. After the apostle had gone when I went about among the men it pained me to see only those who were accused of disaffection or a man whom God had excused because of his helpless women. The apostle did not remember me until he reached Tabūk when he asked, as he was sitting among the men, what had become of me. One of the B. Salimā said that my fine clothes and conceit of my appearance kept me at home. Mu'ādh b. Jabal said that that was an evil thing to say and that they knew nothing but good of me. But the apostle was silent.

When I heard that the apostle was on his way back from Tabūk I was smitten with remorse and began to think of a lie I could tell to escape from his anger and get some of my people to support me in it; but when I heard that he was near at hand falsehood left me and I knew that I could only escape by telling the truth, so I determined to do so. In the morning the apostle entered Medina and went into the mosque and after performing two rak'as he sat down to await the men. Those who had stayed behind came and began to make excuses with oaths—there were about eighty of them—and the apostle accepted their public declarations and oaths and asked the divine forgiveness for them, referring their secret thoughts to God. Last of all I came and saluted him and he smiled as one who is angry. He told me to come near, and when I sat before him he asked me what had kept me back, and had I not bought my mount. I said, 'O apostle of God, were I sitting with anyone else in the world I would count on escaping his anger by an excuse, for I am astute in argument. But I know that if I tell you a lie today you will accept it and that God will soon excite your anger against me; and yet if I tell you the truth which will make you angry with me, I have hopes that God will reward me for it in the end. Indeed, I have no excuse. I was never stronger and richer than when I stayed behind.' The apostle said, 'So far as that goes you have told the truth, but get up until God decides about you.' So I got up and some of B. Salīma rose in annoyance and followed me, saying, 'We have never known you do wrong before, and you were unable to excuse yourself to the apostle as the others who stayed behind did. It would have sufficed if the apostle had asked pardon for your sin.' They kept at me until I wanted to go back to the apostle and give the lie to myself. Then I asked them if any others were in the same case and they said that there were two men who had said what I had said, and they got the same answer. They were Murāra b. al-Rabī' al-'Amīr of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, and Hilāl b. Abū 'Umayya al-Wāqīfī, two honest men of exemplary character. When they mentioned them I was silent. The apostle forbade anyone to speak to us three out of those who had stayed behind, so men avoided us and showed an altered demeanour, until I hated myself and the whole world as never before. We endured this for fifty nights. As for my two companions in misfortune they were humiliated and stayed in their houses, but I was younger and harder, so I used to go out and attend prayers with the Muslims, and go round the markets while no one spoke to me; and I would go to the apostle and salute him while he sat after prayers, asking myself if his lips had moved in returning the salutation or not; then I would pray near him and steal a look at him. When I performed my prayer he looked at me, and when I turned towards him he turned away from me. When I had endured much from the harshness of the Muslims I walked off and climbed over the wall of Abī Qatāda's orchard. He was my cousin and the dearest of men to me. I saluted him and by God he did not return my salām so I said, 'O Abī Qatāda, I adjure you by God, do you not know that I love God and His apostle?'; but he answered me not a word. Again I adjured him and he was silent; again, and he said, 'God and His apostle know best.' At that my eyes swam with tears and I jumped up and climbed over the wall.

In the morning I walked in the market and there was one of the Nabaṭī traders from Syria who came to sell food in Medina asking for me. When he asked for me the people pointed me out to him, and he came and gave me a letter from the king of Ghassān which he had written on a piece of silk which read as follows: 'We hear that your master has treated you badly. God has not put you in a house of humiliation and loss, so come to us and we will provide for you.' When I read it I thought that this too was part of the ordeal. My situation was such that a polytheist hoped to win me over; so I took the letter to the oven and burned it.

Thus we went on until forty of the fifty nights had passed and then the apostle's messenger came to me and told me that the apostle ordered that I should separate myself from my wife. I asked whether this meant that I was to divorce her, but he said No, I was to separate myself and not approach her. My two companions received similar orders. I told my wife to rejoin her family until such time as God should give a decision in the matter. The wife of Hilāl came to the apostle and told him that he was an old man, lost without a servant, was there any objection to her serving him? He said there was not provided that he did not approach her. She told the apostle that he never made a movement towards her and that his weeping was so prolonged that she feared that he would lose his sight. One of my family suggested that I should ask for similar permission from the apostle, but I declined to do so because I did not know what he would say in reply since I was a young man. Ten more nights passed until fifty nights since the apostle had forbidden men to speak to us were complete.

I prayed the morning prayer on the top of one of our houses on the morn of the fiftieth night in the way that God had prescribed. 'The world, spacious as it is, closed in on us and my soul was deep distressed.' I had set up a tent on the top of a crag and I used to stay there when suddenly I heard the voice of a crier coming over the top of the crag shouting at the heard of the voice 'Good news, Ka'b b. Mālik!' I fell down prostrate, knowing that relief had come at last.

The apostle announced God's forgiveness when he prayed the dawn prayer and men went out to tell us the good news. They went to my two fellows with the news and a man galloped off to me on a horse, and a runner from Asālim ran until he came over the mountain, and the voice was quicker than the horse. When the man whom I had heard shouting the good news came, I tore off my clothes and gave them to him as a reward for good tidings, and by God at the time I had no others and had 'to borrow more and put them on. Then I set off towards the apostle and men met me and told me the good news and congratulated me on God's having forgiven me. I went into the mosque and there was the apostle surrounded by men. 'Ubaydullāh got up and greeted me and congratulated me, but no other mufārīj did so. (Ka'b never forgot this action of 'Ubaydullāh.)

When I saluted the apostle he said as his face shone with joy, 'This is the best day of your life. Good news to you!' I said, 'From you or from God?' 'From God, of course,' he said. When he told good news his face used to be like the moon, and we used to recognize it. When I sat before him I told him that as an act of penitence I would give away my property as alms to God and His apostle. He told me to keep some of it for that would be better for me. I told him that I would keep my share in Khaybar booty, and I said, 'God has saved me through truthfulness, and part of my repentance towards God is that I will not speak anything but the truth so long as I live; and by God I do not know any man whom God has favoured in speaking the truth since I told the apostle that more graciously than He favoured me. From the day I told the apostle that to the present day I never even purposed a lie, and I hope that God will preserve me for the time that remains.'

God sent down: 'God has forgiven the prophet and the emigrants and the helpers who followed him in the hour of difficulty after the hearts of a party of them had almost swerved; then He forgave them. He is kind and merciful to them and to the three who were left behind' as far as the words 'And be with the truthful.'

Ka'b said: 'God never showed me a greater favour after He had guided me to Islam than when I told the apostle the truth that day so that I did not lie and perish like those who lied; for God said about those who lied to him when He sent down the revelation 'They will swear to you by God when you return to them that you may turn from them. Do turn from them for they are unclean and their resting place is hell, in reward for what they have earned. They swear to you that you may be satisfied with them, and if you are satisfied with them God is not satisfied with an evil people.’”

We three were kept back from the affair of those from whom the apostle accepted an apology when they swore an oath to him and he asked forgiveness for them. And the apostle postponed our affair until God gave His judgement, and about that God said, ‘And to the three who were left behind.’

When God used the word khulifū it had nothing to do with our holding back from the raid, but to his holding us back and postponing our affair from those who swore to him and made excuses which he accepted.

THE ENVOYS OF THAQIF ACCEPT ISLAM, A.H. 9

The apostle returned from Tabuk in Ramadan and in that month the deputation of Thaqif came to him.

When the apostle came away from them Urwa b. Mas‘ūd al-Thaqif followed him until he caught up with him before he got to Medina, and accepted Islam. He asked that he might go back to his people as a Muslim, but the apostle said—so his people say—’They will kill you,’ for the apostle knew the proud spirit of opposition that was in them. Urwa said that he was dearer to them than their firstborn.

He was a man who was loved and obeyed and he went out calling his people to Islam and hoping that they would not oppose him because of his position among them. When he went up to an upper room and showed himself to them after he had invited them to Islam and shown his religion to them they shot arrows at him from all directions, and one hit him and killed him. The B. Mālik allege that one of their men killed him; his name was Aus b. ‘Auf, brother of B. Sālim b. Mālik. The Aḥlāf allege that one of their men from B. ‘Attāb b. Mālik called Wahb b. ‘Abd al-Jalil b. Jāhir killed him. It was said to Urwa, ‘What do you think about your death?’ He said, ‘It is a gift which God has honoured me with and a martyrdom which God has led me to. I am like the martyrs who were killed with the apostle before he went away from you; so bury me with them.’ They did bury him with them and they allege that the apostle said about him, ‘Among his people he is like the hero of Sūrān among his people.’

Thaqif delayed some months after the killing of Urwa. Then they took counsel among themselves and decided that they could not fight the Arabs all around them, who had paid homage and accepted Islam.

Ya‘qūb b. ‘Utba b. al-Mughīrā b. al-Akhnas told me that ‘Amr b. Umayya, brother of B. ‘Ilāj, was not on speaking terms with ‘Abdu Yālīl b. ‘Amr and there was bad feeling between them. ‘Amr was a most crafty man and he walked to ‘Abdu Yālīl and entered his dwelling and sent word to him to come out to him. ‘Abdu Yālīl expressed great surprise that ‘Amr who was so careful of his life should come to him, so he came out, and when he saw him he welcomed him. ‘Amr said to him: ‘We are in an impasse. You have seen how the affair of this man has progressed. All the Arabs have accepted Islam and you lack the power to fight them, so look to your case.’ Thereupon Thaqif took counsel and said one to another, ‘Don’t you see that your herds are not safe; none of you can go out without being cut off.’ So after conferring together they decided to send a man to the apostle as they had sent Urwa. They spoke to ‘Abdu Yālīl, who was a contemporary of Urwa, and laid the plan before him, but he refused to act, fearing that on his return he would be treated as Urwa was. He said that he would not go unless they sent some men with him. They decided to send two men from al-Aḥlāf and three from B. Mālik, six in all. They sent with ‘Abdu Yālīl, al-Hakam b. ‘Amr b. Wahb b. Mu‘attib, and Shurahbīl b. Ghaylān b. Salīma b. Mu‘attib; and from B. Mālik, ‘Uthmān b. Abū I-‘Āṣ b. Bishr b. ‘Abdu Duhmān, brother of B. Yasār, and Aus b. ‘Auf, brother of B. Sālim b. ‘Auf, and Numayr b. Kharāsha b. Rabī‘a, brother of B. al-Hārith. ‘Abdu Yālīl went with them as leader in charge of the affair. He took them with him only out of fear of meeting the same fate as Urwa and in order that each man on his return could secure the attention of his clan.

When they approached Medina and halted at Qānat they met there al-Mughīrā b. Shu‘ba whose turn it was to pasture the camels of the apostle’s companions, for the companions took this duty in turn. When he saw them he left the camels with the Thaqifs and jumped up to run to give the apostle the good news of their coming. Abū Bakr met him before he could get to the apostle and he told him that riders of Thaqif had come to make their submission and accept Islam on the apostle’s conditions provided that they could get a document guaranteeing their people and their land and animals. Abū Bakr implored al-Mughīrā to let him be the first to tell the apostle the news and he agreed, so Abū Bakr went in and told the apostle while al-Mughīrā rejoined his companions and brought the camels back. He taught them how to salute the apostle, for they were used to the salutation of paganism. When they came to the apostle he pitched a tent for them near his mosque, so they allege. Khālid b. Sa‘īd b. al-‘Āṣ acted as intermediary between them and the apostle until they got their document; it was he who actually wrote it. They would not eat the food which came to them from the apostle until Khālid ate some and until they had accepted Islam and had got their document.

Among the things they asked the apostle was that they should be allowed to retain their idol, Al-Lāt undestroyed for three years. The apostle refused, and they continued to ask him for a year or two, and he refused; finally they asked for a month after their return home; but he refused to agree to any set time. All that they wanted as they were trying to show was to be safe from their fanatics and women and children by leaving her, and they did not want to frighten their people by destroying her until they had accepted Islam. The apostle refused this, but he sent Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb and al-Mughīra b. Shu‘ba to destroy her. They had also asked that he would excuse them from prayer and that they should not have to break their idols with their own hands. The apostle said: ‘We excuse you from breaking your idols with your own hands, but as for prayer there is no good in a religion which has no prayers.’ They said that they would perform them though it was demeaning.
The Life of Muhammad

When they had accepted Islam and the apostle had given them their document he appointed ‘Uthmān b. Abū-l-‘As over them although he was the youngest of them. This was because he was the most zealous in studying Islam and learning the Quran. Abū Bakr had told the apostle this.

1. There is no doubt about this because the rhyming word of the last clause may be an explanatory gloss from I. I.

2. I.H. here has bidh`i-l-hadam, but the true reading given above is in T. 1692. 1. There is no doubt about this because the rhyming word of the last clause may be an explanatory gloss from I. I.
the disaffected who held back from him in the raid on Tabuk, and about what they said (revelations) in which God uncovered the secret thoughts of people who were dissembling. We know the names of some of them, of others we do not. He said: 'A discharge from God and His apostle towards those polytheists with whom you made a treaty,' i.e. those polytheists with whom you made a general agreement. 'So travel through the land for four months and know that you cannot escape God and that God will put the unbelievers to shame. And a proclamation from God and His apostle to men on the day of the greater pilgrimage that God and His apostle are free from obligation to the polytheists, i.e. after this pilgrimage. 'So if you repent it will be better for you; and if you turn back know that you cannot escape God. Inform those who disbelieve, about a painful punishment except those polytheists with whom you have made a treaty,' i.e. the special treaty for a specified term, 'since they have not come short in anything in regard to you and have not helped anyone against you. So fulfil your treaty with them to their allotted time. God loves the pious. And when the sacred months are passed,' He means the four which he fixed as their time, 'then kill the polytheists wherever you find them, and seize them and besiege them and lie in wait for them in every ambush. But if they repent and perform prayer and pay the poor-tax, then let them go their way. God is forgiving, merciful. If one of the polytheists, i.e. one of those whom I have ordered you to kill, asks your protection, give it him so that he may hear the word of God; then convey him to his place of safety. That is because they are a people who do not know."

Then He said: 'How can there be for the polytheists' with whom you had a general agreement that they should not put you in fear and that you would not put them in fear neither in the holy places nor in the holy months 'a treaty with God and His apostle except for those with whom you made a treaty at the sacred mosque?' They were the tribes of B. Bakr who had entered into an agreement with Quraysh on the day of al-Hudaybiya up to the time agreed between the apostle and Quraysh. It was only this clan of Quraysh who had broken it. They were al-Dil of B. Bakr b. Wā'il who had entered into the agreement of Quraysh. So he was ordered to fulfil the agreement with those of B. Bakr who had not broken it, up to their allotted time. 'So long as they are true to you be true to them. God loves the pious.'

Then He said: 'And how, if when they have the upper hand of you,' i.e. the polytheists who have no agreement up to a time under the general agreement with the polytheists 'they regard not pact or compact in regard to you' (86q).

'Vey they satisfy you with their lips while their hearts refuse. Most of them are wrongdoers. They have sold the revelations of God for a low price and debarred (men) from His way. Evil is that which they are wont to do. They observe neither pact nor compact with a believer. Those are the transgressors,' i.e. they have transgressed against you. 'But if they repent and perform prayer and pay the poor tax, then they are your brothers in religion. We make clear the revelations for a people who have knowledge.'

Hakim b. Hakim b. 'Abbad b. Hunayf from Abū Ja'far Murabba b. 'Ali told me that when the discharge came down to the apostle after he had sent Abū Bakr to superintend the ḥajj, someone expressed the wish that he would send news of it to Abū Bakr. He said, 'None shall transmit it from me but a man of my own house.' Then he summoned 'Ali and said: 'Take this section from the beginning of 'The Discharge' and proclaim it to the people on the day of sacrifice when they assemble at Minā. No unbeliever shall enter Paradise, and no polytheist shall make pilgrimage after this year, and no naked person shall circumambulate the temple. He who has an agreement with the apostle has it for his appointed time (only). 'Ali went forth on the apostle's slit-eared camel and overtook Abū Bakr on the way. When Abū Bakr saw him he asked whether he had come to give orders or to convey them. He said 'to convey them.' They went on together and Abū Bakr superintended the ḥajj, the Arabs in that year doing as they had done in the heathen period. When the day of sacrifice came 'Ali arose and proclaimed what the apostle had ordered him to say, and he gave the men a period of four months from the date of the proclamation to return to their place of safety or their country; afterwards there was to be no treaty or compact except for one with whom the apostle had an agreement for a period, and he could have it for that period. After that year no polytheist went on pilgrimage or circumambulated the temple naked. Then the two of them returned to the apostle. This was the Discharge in regard to the polytheists who had a general agreement, and those who had a respite for the specified time.

Then the apostle gave orders to fight the polytheists who had broken the special agreement as well as those who had a general agreement after the four months which had been given them as a fixed time, save that if any one of them showed hostility he should be killed for it. And He said, 'Will you not fight a people who broke their oaths and thought to drive out the apostle and attacked you first? Do you fear them when God is more worthy to be feared if you are believers? Fight them! God will punish them by your hands, and put them to shame and give you the victory over them and will heal the breasts of a believing people, and He will remove the anger of their hearts and God will relent,' i.e. after that 'towards whom He will, for God is knowing, wise.' 'Or do you think that you will be left (idle) when God does not yet know those of you who bestir yourselves and choose none for friend but God and His apostle and the believers? God is informed about what you do' (870).

Then He mentioned the words of Quraysh, 'We are the people of the sanctuary, the waterers of the pilgrims, and the tenders of this temple and none is superior to us,' and He said: 'He only shall tend God's sanctuaries who believes in God and the last day,' i.e. your tending was not thus. Only those who tend God's sanctuaries means tend them as they ought to be tended 'who believes in God and the last day and performs prayer and pays the poor tax and fears only God,' i.e. those are its tenders, 'perhaps those may be the rightly guided.' 'Perhaps' coming from God means a fact. Then he said: 'Would you make the watering of the pilgrims and the tending of the sacred mosque equal to one who believes in God and the last day and fights in the way of God? They are not equal with God.'

Then comes the story of their enemy until he arrives at the mention of Hunayn and what happened there and their turning back from their enemy and how God sent down help after they had abandoned one another. Then He said (v. 28): 'The polytheists are nothing but unclean, so let them not approach the sacred mosque after this year of theirs, and if you fear poverty' that was because the people said 'the markets will be cut off from us, trade will be destroyed, and we shall lose the good things we used to enjoy,' and God said, 'If you fear poverty God will enrich you from His bounty,' i.e. in some other way, 'if He will. He is knowing, wise. Fight those who do not believe in God and the last day and forbid not that which God and His apostle have forbidden and follow not the religion of truth from among those who have been given the scripture until they pay, the poll tax out of hand being humbled,' i.e. as a compensation for what you fear to lose by the closing of the markets. God gave them compensation for what He cut off from them in their former polytheism by what He gave them by way of poll tax from the people of scripture.

Then He mentioned the two peoples of scripture with their evil and their lies against Him until the words 'Many of the rabbis and monks devour men's wealth wickedly and turn men from the way of God. Those who hoard up gold and silver and do not spend it in the way of God, announce to them a painful punishment.'

Then He mentioned the fixing of the sacred months and the innovations of the Arabs in the matter. Nasi' means making profane months which God has declared holy and vice versa. 'The number of the months with God is twelve in the book of God on the day He created heaven and earth. Four of them are sacred; that is the standing religion, so wrong not yourselves therein,' i.e. do not make the sacred profane or the profane sacred as the polytheists did. 'Postponement (of a sacred month) which they used to practise 'is excess of infidelity whereby those who disbelieve are misled; they allow it one year and forbid it another year that they may make up the number of the months which God has made sacred so that they allow that which God has forbidden, the evil of their deeds seeming good to them. But God does not guide a disbelieving people.'

Then He mentioned Tabuk and how the Muslims were weighed down by it and exaggerated the difficulty of attacking the Byzantines when the apostle called them to fight them; and the disaffection of some, then how the apostle upbraided them for their behaviour in Islam. God said, 'O you who believe, what was the matter with you that when it was said to you, Go forth in the way of God you were weighed down to the earth' then as far as His words 'He will punish you with a painful punishment and choose a people other than you' to the words 'if you do not help him still God helped him when those who disbelieve drove him out the second of two when the twain were in the cave.'

Then He said to His prophet, mentioning the disaffected: 'Had it been a near adventure and a short journey they would have followed you, but the long distance weighed upon them. And they will swear by God, Had we been able we would have set forth with you. They destroy themselves, God knowing that they are liars,' i.e. that they were able. 'May God forgive you. Why did you give them leave (to stay behind) before those who told the truth were plain to you and you knew the liars?' as far as the words 'Had they gone forth with you they would have contributed naught but trouble and have hurried about among you seeking to cause sedition among you there being among you some who would have listened to them' (871).

Among the men of high standing who asked his permission (to stay behind) according to my information were 'Abdullah b. Ubayy b. Sallil and al-Jadd b. Qays. They were nobles among their people and God kept them back because He knew that if they went forth with him they would cause disorder in his army, for in the army were men who loved them and would obey them in anything they asked because of their high standing among them. God said: 'And among them are some who would have listened to them, and God knows about the evil-doers. In the past they sought to cause sedition, 'i.e. before they asked your permission, 'and overturned your affairs,' i.e. to draw away your companions from you and to frustrate your affair 'until the truth came and God's command became manifest though they were averse'. Of them is he who said, Give me permission (to stay behind) and tempt me not. Have they not fallen into temptation already? 'The one who said that according to what we were told was al-Jadd b. Qays, brother of B. Salima, when the apostle called him to war with the Byzantines. Then the account goes on to the words 'If they were to find a refuge or caverns or a place to enter they would have turned to it with all speed. And of them is he who defamed you in the matter of alms. If they are given some they are content; but if they are not given some they are enraged,' i.e. their whole aim, their satisfaction, and their anger, are concerned with their worldly life.

Then He explained and specified to whom alms should be given: 'Alms are only for the poor and needy and the collectors of it and for those whose hearts are to be won, and to free captives and debtors, and for the way of God and for the wayfarer as an ordinance from God and God is knowing, wise.'

Then He mentioned their duplicity and their vexing the apostle and said: 'And of them are those who vex the prophet and say, He is an ear. Say: an ear of good for you, who believes in God and is faithful to the believers and a mercy for those of you who believe. There is a painful punishment for those who vex God's apostle.' According to my information the man who said those words was Nahtal b. al-Jārīth, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf, and this verse came down about him because he used to say 'Muhammad is only an ear. If anyone tells him a thing he believes it.' God said, 'Say: An ear of good to you,' i.e. he hears good and believes it.

Then He said, 'They swear by God to you to please you, but God and His apostle have more right that they should please Him if they are believers.' Then He said, 'If you ask them they will say We were but talking and jesting. Say: Do you scoff at God and His signs and His apostle?' as far as the words 'If We pardon a party of you We will punish a party.' The one who said these words was Wad'ā' b. Thābit, brother of B. Umayya b. Zayd of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf. The one who was pardoned, according to my information, was Mukhashshin b. Humayyir al-Asḥā'ī, an ally of B. Salima, because he disapproved of what he heard them saying.

The description of them continues to the words, 'O prophet, fight the unbelievers and disaffected, and deal roughly with them. Their abode is hell, an evil resting-place. They swear by God that they did not say it but they did say the word of unbelief and disbelief after their Islam and planned what they could not attain. They sought revenge only because God and His apostle had enriched them from His bounty' to the words 'no friend and no helper.' The one who said those words was al-Jūlah b. Suwayd b. Šāmit, and a man of his family called 'Umayr b. Sa'd reported 'Aimin Thabit, Raḍada b. 'Auf and the brother of B. Umayya b. Khufūf b. Ayyāma' and never pray for anyone of them who dies is sent down: Believe in God and His apostle.' Thabit, according to my information, was Mukhashshin b. Humayyir al-Asḥā'ī, an ally of B. Salima, because he disapproved of what he heard them saying.

Then He said, 'And of them is he who made a covenant with God: If He gives us of His bounty we will give alms and become of the righteous.' The ones who made a covenant with God were Tha'labā b. Ḥāṭib and Mu'attib b. Qushayr, both of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf.

Then He said, 'Those who defame such of the believers as give freely in alms and such as can only give their efforts and scoff at them, God will scoff at them and they will have a painful punishment.' The believers who freely gave alms were 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. 'Auf and 'Aṣim b. Adiy, brother of B. Ajlān, because the apostle incited and urged men to almsgiving. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān arose and gave 4,000 dirhams, and 'Aṣim arose and gave 100 loads of dates, and they defamed and said, 'This is nothing but ostentation.' The man who gave in alms all he could was Abū 'Aqlī, brother of B. Unayf, who bought a measure of dates and cast it all into the alms. They laughed at him saying, 'God can do without Abū 'Aqlī's paltry measure.'

Then He mentioned what they said one to another when the apostle ordered war and the expedition to Tabūk in great heat and sterile conditions. 'They said, Go not forth in the heat. Say: The fire of hell is much hotter did you but understand. But let them laugh a little and weep much' as far as the words 'and let not their wealth and children astonish you.'

Al-Zuhri from 'Ubaydullāh b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Utbā from B. 'Abbās said: I heard 'Umar saying, 'When 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy died the apostle was called to pray over him; and when he went and stood by him about to pray I changed my position so as to confront him and said 'Are you going to pray over God's enemy 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy, the man who said so-and-so on such-and-such occasions?' The apostle smiled when I had made a long story and said, "Get behind me, 'Umar. I have been given the choice and I have chosen. It was said to me, 'Ask pardon for them or ask it not. If you ask pardon for them seventy times God will not pardon them.' Did I know that if I added to the seventy he would be forgiven I would add thereto." Then he prayed over him and walked with him till he stood over his grave until he was disposed of. I was astonished at myself and my boldness when God and His apostle know best. It was not long before these two verses came down "And never pray for any one of them who dies and do not stand by his grave for they disbelieved in God and His apostle and died as evil-doers." Afterwards the apostle never prayed over a disaffected person until the day of his death.'

Then He said: 'And when a sūrah is sent down: Believe in God and strive along with His apostle, men of wealth among them asked your permission (to stay behind). Ibn Ubayy was one of them and God upbraided him for it, then He said: But the apostle and those who believe with him strive with their wealth and their lives; for them are the good things; they are the successful. God has prepared for them gardens beneath which rivers flow wherein they shall abide for ever; that is the great triumph. And the excuse-offering Bedouin came to ask leave and those who disbelieved God and His apostle stayed at home' to the end of the account. The men with excuses so I have heard were a number of B. Ghifār among whom was Khuṭa)b b. Aymā' b. Rāḥaḍa; He goes on with the story of these to the words 'nor to those who when they came to you to mount them you said I cannot find a beast on which to mount you, turned back, their eyes flowing with tears for grief that they could not find the wherewithal to spend.' Those were the weepers.

Then He said: 'The way (of blame) is only against those who asked leave, they being rich. They wanted to be with the women. God sealed their hearts and they do not know.' The khāwālif were the women. Then He mentioned their oath and their excuse to the Muslims and said, 'Turn away from them' to His words 'And if you are satisfied with them God will not be satisfied with an evil people.'

Then He mentioned the Bedouin and the disaffected among them and how they waited for (the discomfiture of) the apostle and the believers: 'And of the Bedouin there is he who regards what is spent,' i.e. of the alms or expenses in the way of God 'as a tax and awaits evil fortune for you. The evil fortune will be theirs and God is hearing, knowing.'
Then He mentioned the sincere and faithful Bedouin among them and said: "And of the Bedouin there is he who believes in God and the last day and regards what he spends and the prayers of the apostle as acceptable offerings with God. It is an acceptable offering for them."

Then He mentioned the first emigrants and helpers and their merit and the goodly reward which God promised them. Then He joined with them their later followers in goodness and He said, 'God is pleased with them and they are pleased with Him.' Then He said: 'And of the Bedouin round you there are the disaffected and of the people of Medina there are those who are stubborn in disaffection,' i.e. persist in it and refuse to be otherwise; 'we shall punish them twice.' The punishment with which God threatened them twice according to my information is their grief over their position in Islam and their inward rage at not getting a (heavenly) reward; then their punishment in the grave when they get there; then the great punishment to which they will be brought, the punishment of hell eternally. Then He said: 'And there are others who acknowledged their faults. They mixed a good deed with another that was bad; perhaps God will relent towards them, for He is forgiving, merciful.'

Then He said, 'Take alms from their wealth wherewith to purify and cleanse them' to the end of the passage. Then He said: 'And there are others who are postponed to God's decree; either He will punish them or relent towards them.' They are the three who were left in abeyance and the apostle postponed their case until their forgiveness came from God.

Then He said, 'And as for those who chose a mosque out of opposition' to the end of the passage. Then He said: 'And there are others who are postponed to God's decree; either He will punish them or relent towards them.' They are the three who were left in abeyance and the apostle postponed their case until their forgiveness came from God.

In the time of the prophet and afterwards Bari'a was called al-Muba'thira because it laid bare the secret thoughts of men. Tabuk was the last raid that the apostle made.

THE POETRY OF Hassān ENUMERATING THE BATTLES

Hassān b. Thabit, enumerating the battles and campaigns in which the Ansār fought in company with the apostle, said: (872)

Am I not the best of Ma'add in family and tribe? If all of them be reckoned and counted?
A people all of whom witnessed Badr with the apostle
Neither falling short nor deserting.
They gave him their fealty, not one betrayed it,
And there was no deceit in their pledged word.
On the day when in the glen of Uhud

---

1 Cf. Suras 82. 4 and 100. 9.
2 S. explains that Hassān who was not of Ma'add means men in general and says 'Ma'add' because of their great number.

---

Well-aimed blows blazing like a hot fire met them
And the day of Dhū Qarad when dust rose above them as they rode
They did not flinch nor fear.
At Dhū'l-'Ushayrā they overrode them with the apostle
Armed with sword and spear.
At Waddān they drove out its people
Galloping along till hill and mountain stopped us.
And the night when they sought their enemy for God's sake
(And God will reward them for what they did).
And the raid on Najd, where with the apostle
They gained much spoil and booty.
And the night in Hunayn when they fought with him
He gave them a second taste of combat.
And the raid of al-Qāf when we scattered the enemy
As camels are scattered before their drinking-place.
They were the people who paid him homage
To the point of war—they succoured him and left him not.
In the raid on Mecca they were on guard among his troops
Neither light-minded nor hasty.
At Khaybar they were in his squadron
Each man walking like a hero facing death
With swords quivering in their right hands
Sometimes bent through striking, sometimes straight.
The day the apostle went to Tabūk seeking God's reward
They were his first standard-bearers.
They had the conduct of war if it seemed good to them
Until advance or retreat seemed the best.
Those are the people, the prophet's Ansār,
And they are my people—to them I belong when my descent is searched.
They died honourably, faith unbroken,
And when they were killed it was for God's sake (873).

Hassān also said:

We were kings of men before Muhammad
And when Islam came we had the superiority.
God the only God honoured us with Bygone days that have no parallel
In our help to God and His apostle and His religion,
And God has given us a name which has no equal.
Those people of mine are the best of all people.
Whatever is counted good my people are worthy of it.
They surpass all their predecessors in generosity
And the way to their generosity is never barred.
When men come to their assemblies they do not behave unseemly,
Nor are they mean when asked for a gift.
They are inimitable in war and peace.
To fight them is death; to make peace ease.
Their sojourner's house is high and inaccessible.
While staying with us he enjoys respect and hospitality.
If one of them assumes a debt he pays it
Without defaulting or running into debt.
He who speaks speaks the truth,
Their clemency is constant, their judgement just.
He whom the Muslims trusted while he lived
And he whom the angels washed of his impurity were of us (874).

Hassän also said:
These are my people if you ask,
Generous when a guest arrives.
Large are the cooking-pots for the gamesters
Wherein they cook the fat-humped camels.
They give the sojourner a life of plenty
And protect their friend when he is wronged.
They were kings in their lands,
They call for the sword when injustice is flagrant, 3
They were kings over men—never by others
Have they been ruled even for a short time.
Tell4 about 'Ad and its peoples:
Of Thamûd and the survivors of Iram,
Of Yathrib where they had built forts among the palms
And cattle were housed there,
Watering camels which the Jews trained Saying, Off with you, and Come!" They had what they wanted of wine and pleasure,
An easy life free of care.
We came to them with our equipment
On our white war-loving camels;
Beside them we led war-horses
Covered with thick leather.
When we halted on the sides of Sirâr 5
And made fast the saddles with twisted ropes.
They were scared by the speed of the horses
And the sudden attack from the rear.
They fled swiftly in terror
As we came on them like lions of the jungle

1 Sa'd b. Mu'adh according to A.Dh.
2 The word generally rendered 'apostles'. The story of Hanzala has been given above, p. 377.
3 Another reading is 'they display anger'.
4 Or, 'They told', &c.
5 A mountain at Medina.
In deciding their attitude to Islam the Arabs were only waiting to see what happened to this clan of Quraysh and the apostle. For Quraysh were the leaders and guides of men, the people of the sacred temple, and the pure stock of Ishmael son of Abraham; and the leading Arabs did not contest this. It was Quraysh who had declared war on the apostle and opposed him; and when Mecca was occupied and Quraysh became subject to him and he subdued it to Islam, and the Arabs knew that they could not fight the apostle or display enmity towards him they entered into God's religion 'in batches' as God said, coming to him from all directions. God said to His prophet: 'When God's help came and the victory, and you saw men entering into God's religion in batches, then glorify God with praise and ask His pardon for He is most forgiving,' i.e. praise God for His having made your religion victorious, and ask His pardon, for He is most forgiving.

THE COMING OF THE DEPUTATION OF BANÚ TAMÍM

And in the deputation of B. Tamīm were Nu'aym b. Yazīd and Qays b. al-Ḥarih and Qays b. 'Aṣim brother of B. Sa'd with a great deputation from B. Tamīm (878). With them was 'Uyayna b. Ḥiṣn b. Ḥudhayfā b. Badr al-Fazārī.

Al-Aqra' and 'Uyayna had been with the apostle at the occupation of Mecca and Ḥunayn and al-Tālīf, and when the deputation came they were among them. When the deputation entered the mosque they called out to the apostle who was behind in his private apartments, 'Come out to us, Muhammad!' This loud call annoyed the apostle and he came out to them, and they said, 'Muhammad, we have come to compete with you in boasting, so give permission to our poet and our orator.' The apostle did so, and 'Uṯair b. Hājib got up and said:

Praise belongs to God for His favour to us and He is worthy to be praised, who has made us kings and given us great wealth wherewith we are generous, and has made us the strongest people of the east and the greatest in number, and the best equipped, so who among mankind is our equal? Are we not the princes of men and their superiors? He who would compete with us let him enumerate what we have enumerated. If we wished we could say more, but we are too modest to say much of what He has given us and are well known for that. I say this that you may bring forward the like and anything better.' Then he sat down. The apostle said to Thabit

b. Qays b. al-Shammās, brother of B. al-Ḥarih b. al-Khazzāj, 'Get up and answer the man's speech'; so Thabit got up and said:

Praise belongs to God Who created heaven and earth and established His rule therein, and His knowledge includes His throne; nothing exists but by His bounty. By His power He made us kings and chose the best of His creation as an apostle, and honoured him with lineage, made him truthful in speech, and favoured him with reputation, and sent down to him His book and entrusted him with it above (all) that He had created. He was God's choice from the worlds. Then He summoned men to believe in him, and the emigrants from his people and his kinsmen believed in God's apostle; the most noble men in reputation, the highest in dignity, and the best in deeds. The first of creatures to answer and respond to God when the apostle called them were ourselves. We are God's helpers and the assistants of His apostle, and will fight men until they believe in God; and he who believes in God and His apostle has protected his life and property from us; and he who disbelieves we will fight in God unceasingly and killing him will be a small matter to us. These are my words and I ask God's pardon for myself and the believers both men and women. Peace upon you.'

Thabit then said, 'Give permission to our poet to speak' and he did so, and al-Zibriqān got up and said:

We are the nobles, no tribe can equal us.
From us kings are born and in our midst churches are built.
How many tribes have we plundered,
For excellence in glory is to be sought after.
In time of dearth we feed our meat to the hungry
When no rain cloud can be seen.
You can see chiefs coming to us from every land,
And we feed them lavishly.
We slaughter fat-humped young camels as a matter of course
We slaughter fat-humped young camels as a matter of course;
Guests when they come are satisfied with food.
You will see whenever we challenge a tribe's superiority
They yield and abandon leadership;
He who challenges us we know the result:
His people withdraw and the news is noised abroad.
We forbid others but none forbid us.
Thus we are justly exalted in pride (879).
The Life of Muhammad

Aided in its beloved task by an eloquent and ready tongue,
For they are the best of all creatures
In matters grave and gay (880).

When Ħassān had ended al-Aqra' said: 'By my father, this man has a ready helper. His orator and his poet are better than ours and their voices are sweeter than ours.' In the end they accepted Islam and the apostle gave them valuable gifts.

They had left 'Amr b. al-Ahtam behind with their camels, he being the youngest of them. Qays b. 'Asim, who hated 'Amr, said, 'O apostle of God, there is one of our men with the camels, a mere youngster,' and he spoke disparagingly of him. But the apostle gave him the same as he gave the others. When 'Amr heard that Qays had said that, he satirized him thus:

You exposed yourself to contempt when you defamed me to the apostle.
You were a liar and spoke not the truth.
(T. You may hate us, for Roman is your origin
But Rome does not hold hatred for the Arabs.)
We ruled you with a wide authority, but your authority
Is that of one sitting on his behind and showing his teeth? (881)

Concerning them the Quran came down: 'Those who call you from behind the private apartments most of them have no sense.'

THE STORY OF ĀMIR B. AL-ṬUFAYL AND ARBAD B. QAYS

Among the deputation from B. 'Amir was 'Amir b. al-Ṭufayl and Arbad b. Qays b. Ja'far, and Jabbār b. Salma b. Mālik b. Ja'far. These three were the chiefs and leaders of the tribe.

'Amir, the enemy of God, came to the apostle intending to kill him treacherously. His people had urged him to accept Islam because others had done so, but he said: 'I have sworn that I will not stop until the Arabs follow me. Am I to follow in the steps of this fellow from Quraysh?' Then he said to Arbad: 'When we get to the man I will distract his attention from you, and when I do that smite him with your sword.' When they got to the apostle 'Amir said, 'Muhammad, come apart with me.' He replied, 'No, I will not until you believe in God alone.' He repeated the request and went on talking to him expecting that Arbad would do as he had told him but he remained inactive. He again repeated his request and got the same answer. When the apostle refused he said, 'By God I will fill the land against you with horses and men.' When they went away the apostle said, 'O God, rid me of 'Amir b. al-Tufayl.' On their way back 'Amir said to Arbad, 'Confound you, Arbad, why didn't you do what I ordered? By God there is no man on the face of the earth whom I fear more than you, but by God I shall never fear you after today.' He answered, 'Don't be hasty with me. Whenever I tried to get at him as you ordered, you got in the way so that I could see only you. Was I to smite you with the sword?'

'T. 'Amir b. al-Tufayl said:
The apostle sent word about what you know and it was as though we were making a planned raid on the squadrons
And our worn-out horses had brought us to Medina
And we had killed the Anšār in its midst.)

As they were on their way back God sent a bubonic plague in 'Amir's neck, and God killed him in the house of a woman of B. Salūl. He began to say, 'O Banū 'Amir, A boil like the boil of a young camel in the house of a woman of Banū Salūl!' (882)

When they had buried him his companions returned to the B. 'Amir country to winter and the people asked Arbad what had happened. 'Nothing, by God,' he said; 'he asked us to worship something. I wish he were here now and I would kill him with an arrow.' A day or two after saying this he went out with his camel behind him and God sent on him and his camel a thunderbolt which consumed them. Arbad was brother of Labid b. Rabi'a by the same mother (883).

Labid said, weeping Arbad:
The fates spare none,
Neither anxious father nor son.
I feared a violent death for Arbad
But I did not fear the blow of Pisces and Leo.
O eye, why do you not weep for Arbad
Since we and the women rise in sorrow?
If men blustered he took no notice,
If they were moderate in judgement he showed moderation.
Sweet, astute, withal in his sweetness bitter,
Gentle in bowels and liver.
O eye, why do you not weep for Arbad
When the winter winds strip the leaves from the trees
And make pregnant camels milkless

1 These words are proverbial; see Freytag, Prov. ii. 172.
634 The Life of Muhammad

Or the two stars of the polar region and the Great Bear Everlasting, their destruction unthinkable.¹

Labid also said:

Announce to the noble the death of noble Arbad,
Announce the death of the chief, the kind-hearted,
Giving away his wealth that he might gain praise,
Camels like wild untamed cows,
Abundant in virtues if they were reckoned,
Who filled the platter again and again.

\text{The more he is threatened the nearer he comes.}

The more he is threatened the nearer he comes.

You have left us no paltry inheritance,
And wealth newly acquired and sons,
Youths like hawks, young men, and beardless boys.

Labid also said:

You will never exhaust the good deeds of Arbad, so weep for him continually.

Say, He was the protecting warrior when armoured was donned.
He kept wrong-doers from us when we met insolent enemies.
The Lord of creation took him away since He saw there was no longer stay on earth.
He died painlessly without hurt and he is sorely missed.

Labid also said:

Every bitter opponent whose way seemed harmful reminds me of Arbad.
If they were fair, then he was nobly fair: if they were unfair so was he.
He guided the people carefully when their guide went astray in the desert (885).

Labid also said:

I went walking after (the death of) Salmā b. Malik
And Abū Qays and "Urwa like a camel whose hump is cut off.²
When it sees the shadow of a raven it shooes it away
Anxious for the rest of its spine and sinews (886).

THE COMING OF DĪMĀM B. THA'LĀBA AS A DEPUTY FROM BANū SĀ'D B. BAKR

The B. Sa'd b. Bakr sent one of their men called Dīmām b. Tha'lāba to the apostle. Muhammad b. al-Walid b. Nuwayfi' from Kurayb client of ¹ In Brockelmann's edn. the poem (xviii) has 31 verses. The text in Chālid, p. 17, is in better sequence.

² By its starving owners in their hunger.

'Abdullah b. 'Abbās from Ibn 'Abbās told me: When the B. Sa'd sent Dīmām to the apostle he came and made his camel kneel at the door of the mosque, hobbled it, and went into the mosque where the apostle was sitting with his companions. Now Dīmām was a thickset hairy man with two forelocks. He came forward until he stood over the apostle and said, 'Which of you is the son of 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib?' The apostle said that he was. 'Are you Muhammad?' he asked. When he said that he was he said, 'O son of 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib, I am going to ask you a hard question, so don't take it amiss.' The apostle told him to ask what he liked and he would not take it amiss and he said, 'I adjure you by God your God and the God of those before you and the God of those who will come after you, has God sent you to us as an apostle?' 'Yes, by God He has,' he replied. He then adjured him to answer the questions. 'Has He ordered you to order us to serve Him alone and not to associate anything with Him and to discard those rival deities which our fathers used to worship along with Him; and to pray these five prayers; then the ordinances of Islam one by one, alms, fasting, pilgrimage, and all the laws of Islam?' At the end he said: 'I testify that there is no God but Allah and I testify that Muhammad is the apostle of God, and I will carry out these ordinances, and I will avoid what you have forbidden me to do; I will neither add to, nor diminish from them.' Then he went back to his camel. The apostle said, 'If this man with the two forelocks is sincere he will go to Paradise.'

The man went to his camel, freed it from its hobble, and went off to his people, and when they gathered to him the first thing he said was, 'How evil are al-Lat and al-Uzza! Heaven above Dimām,' they said, 'beare of leprosy and elephantiasis and madness!' He said: 'Woe to you, they can neither hurt nor heal. God has sent an apostle and sent down to him a book, so seek deliverance thereby from your present state; as for me, I bear witness that there is no God but the one God who is without associate, and that Muhammad is His slave and apostle. I have brought you what He has commanded you to do and what He has ordered you not to do.' And by God before the night was over there was not a man or woman in the tribe who had not become a Muslim. 'Abdullah b. 'Abbās said: We have never heard of a representative of a tribe finer than Dīmām b. Tha'lāba.

THE COMING OF AL-JĀRŪD IN THE DEPUTATION FROM 'ABDU'L-QAYS

Al-?urlūd b. 'Amr b. Ḥanash, brother of 'Abdu'l-Qays, came to the apostle (887).

One of whom I have no suspicion told me from al-Hasan that when he came to the apostle he spoke to him, and the apostle explained Islam to him and invited him to enter it with kindly words. He replied: 'Muhammad,
I owe a debt. If I leave my religion for yours will you guarantee my debt? The apostle said, ‘Yes, I guarantee that what God has guided you is better than that’, so he and his companions accepted Islam. Then he asked the apostle for some mounts, but he told him that he had none available. Al-Jarūḍ pointed out that there were some stray beasts lying between Medina and his country and could he not ride away on them? He replied, ‘No, beware of them, for that would lead to hell fire.’

Al-Jarūḍ went off to his own tribe, a good Muslim, firm in his religion until his death, having lived to the time of the Apostasy. And when some of his people who had become Muslims returned to their former religion with al-Ghārūr b. al-Mundhir b. al-Nu’mān b. al-Mundhir, al-Jarūḍ got up and spoke and confessed his faith and called them to Islam. He pronounced the shahāda and declared that he would regard anyone who refused to do likewise as an infidel (888).

The apostle had sent al-‘Ālā’ b. al-Ḥaḍramī to al-Mundhir b. Sāwā al-‘Abdī before the conquest of Mecca, and he became a good Muslim. He died after the apostle but before the apostasy of the people of al-Bahrayn. Al-‘Ālā’ was with him as governor for the apostle over al-Bahrayn.

THE DEPUTATION FROM BANŪ HĀNĪFA WITH WHOM WAS MUSAYLIMA

The deputation of B. Hanifa came to the apostle bringing with them Musaylima b. Habib al-Hanafi, the arch liar (889). They lodged in the house of d. al-Ḥārith, a woman of the Ansār of B. al-Najīr. One of the scholars of Medina told me that B. Ḥanifa brought him to the apostle hiding him in garments. The apostle was sitting among his companions having a palm-branch with some leaves on its upper end. When he came to the apostle as they were covering him with garments he spoke to him and asked him (for a gift). The apostle answered: ‘If you were to ask me for this palm branch (T. which I hold) I would not give it to you.’

A shaykh of B. Ḥanifa from the people of al-Yamāma told me that the incident happened otherwise. He alleged that the deputation came to the apostle having left Musaylima behind with the camels and the baggage. When they had accepted Islam they remembered where he was, and told the apostle that they had left a companion of theirs to guard their stuff. The apostle ordered that he should be given the same as the rest, saying, ‘His position is no worse than yours,’ i.e. in minding the property of his companions. That is what the apostle meant.

Then they left the apostle and brought him what he had given him. When they reached al-Yamāma the enemy of God apostatized, gave himself out as a prophet, and played the liar. He said, ‘I am a partner with him in the affair,’ and then he said to the deputation who had been with him, ‘Did he not say to you when you mentioned me to him “His position is no worse than yours”? What can that mean but that he knows that I am a partner with him in the affair?’ Then he began to utter rhymes in saj and speak in imitation of the style of the Quran: ‘God has been gracious to the pregnant woman; He has brought forth from her a living being that can move; from her very midst.’ He permitted them to drink wine and fornicate, and let them dispense with prayer, yet he was acknowledging the apostle as a prophet, and Ḥanifa agreed with him on that. But God knows what the truth was.

ZAYDU’L-KHAYL COMES WITH THE DEPUTATION FROM TAYYI’

The deputation of Tayyi’ containing Zaydu’l-Khayl who was their chief came to the apostle, and after some conversation he explained Islam to them and they became good Muslims. A man of Tayyi’ whom I have no reason to suspect told me that the apostle said, ‘No Arab has ever been spoken of in the highest terms but when I have met him I have found that he falls below what was said of him except Zaydu’l-Khayl, and he exceeds all that has been said about him.’ Then the apostle named him Zaydu’l-Khayl and allotted to him Fayd and some lands with it and gave him a deed accordingly.

As Zayd went back to his tribe the apostle said that he hoped he would escape the Medina fever. The apostle did not call it Hummāt or Umm Maldam; my informant could not say what. When he reached one of the watering-places of Najd called Farda the fever overcame him and he died. When he felt his end coming he said:

Are my people to travel eastwards tomorrow
While I’m to be left in a house in Farda in Najd?
How often if I were sick would women visit me
If not worn out by the journey at least tired.

When he was dead his wife got the deeds which the apostle had given him and burnt them in the fire.

‘ADĪY B. HĀTĪM

I have been told that ‘Adīy b. Ḥātīm used to say, ‘No Arab disliked the apostle when he first heard of him more than I. Now I was a chief of noble birth, a Christian, and I used to travel about among my people to collect a quarter of their stock. I was my own master in religious matters and was a king among my people and treated as such. When I heard of the apostle I disliked him and said to an Arab servant of mine who was looking after my camels, “Prepare some of my well-trained, well-fed camels, and keep them near me, and when you hear of Muhammad’s army coming into this country bring me word.” One morning he came to me and said, “Whatsoever you are going to do when Muhammad’s cavalry comes upon you, do it now, for I have seen flags and I learn that they are the troops of Muhammad.” I ordered him to bring my camels and I put my family and children on them and decided to join my fellow Christians in Syria. I went as far as al-Jaushiya (890) and I left one of Hätim’s daughters in the settlement. When I reached Syria I stopped there.

In my absence the apostle’s cavalry came and among the captives they took was Hätim’s daughter, and she was brought to the apostle among the captives of Tayyi’. The apostle had heard of my flight to Syria. Hätim’s daughter was put in the enclosure by the door of the mosque in which the captives were imprisoned and the apostle passed by her. She got up to meet him, for she was a courteous woman, and said, ‘O apostle of God, my father is dead and the man who should act for me has gone. If you spare me God will spare you.’ He asked her who her man was and when she told him it was ‘Adiy b. Hätim he exclaimed, ‘The man who runs away from God and His apostle.’ Then he went on and left her. Exactly the same thing happened the next day, and on the following day she was in despair. Then a man behind him motioned to her to get up and speak to him. She said the same words as before and he replied, ‘I have done so, but do not hurry away until you find one of your people whom you can trust who can take you to your country, then let me know.’ I asked the name of the man who had beckoned to me to speak and was told that it was ‘Ali. I stayed until some riders came from Bali or Qud’a. All I wanted was to go to my brother in Syria. I went to the apostle and told him that some trustworthy man of reputation from my people had come for me. The apostle gave me clothing and put me on a camel and gave me money and I went away with them until I came to Syria.

‘Adiy said: ‘I was sitting among my people when I saw a howdah making for us and I said ‘It is Hätim’s daughter’ and so it was, and when she got to me she reved me, saying, ‘You evil rascal, you carried away your family and children and abandoned your father’s daughter.’ I said, ‘Do not say anything that is bad, little sister, for by God I have no excuse. I did do what you say.’ Then she alighted and stayed with me; and as she was a discreet woman I asked her what she thought of this man and she said, ‘I think that you should join him quickly, for if the man is a prophet then those who get to him first will be preferred; and if he is a king you will not be shamed in the glory of al-Yaman, you being the man you are.’

I said that this was a sound judgement so I went to the apostle when he was in his mosque in Medina and saluted him and told him my name and he got up to take me to his house. As we were making for it there met him an old feeble woman who asked him to stop and he stopped for a long time while she told him of her needs. I said to myself ‘This is no king.’ Then he took me into his house and took hold of a leather cushion stuffed with palm leaves and threw it to me saying, ‘Sit on that.’ I said, ‘No, you sit on it,’ and he said ‘No, you!’ So I sat on it and he sat on the ground. I said to myself, ‘This is not the way a king behaves.’ Then he said, ‘Now ‘Adiy, are you not half a Christian?’ When I said that I was he said, ‘Don’t you go among your people collecting a quarter of their stock?’ When I admitted that he said: ‘But that is not permitted to you in your religion.’ ‘Quite true,’ I said, and I knew that he was a prophet sent by God knowing what is not generally known. Then he said, ‘It may well be that the poverty you see prevents you from joining this religion but, by God, wealth will soon flow so copiously among them that there will not be the people to take it. But perhaps it is that you see how many are their enemies and how few they are? But, by God, you will hear of a woman coming on her camel from Qadisiya to visit this temple unafraid. But perhaps it is that you see that others have the power and sovereignty, but by God you will soon hear that the white castles of Babylon have been opened to them.’ Then I became a Muslim.’

‘Adiy used to say that the two things happened and the third remained to be fulfilled. I saw the white castles of Babylon laid open and I saw women coming from Qadisiya on camels unafraid to make the pilgrimage to this temple; and, by God, the third will come to pass: wealth will flow until there will not be the people to take it.

THE COMING OF FARWA B. MUSAYK AL-MURADí

Farwa b. Musayk al-Muradí came to the apostle, separating himself from the kings of Kinda. Shortly before Islam there had been a battle between Murad and Hamdan in which the former suffered a severe defeat, losing many men in the engagement called al-Radm (T. al-Razm). The leader of Hamdan was al-Ajda’ b. Malik (891).

Farwa said about the battle:

They passed by Lufá’t with sunken eyes
Tugging at the reins as they turned to one side.
If we conquer we were conquerors of old
And if we are conquered we were not often conquered.
Cowardice is not our habit,
But our fate and the fortune of others (caused our defeat).
Thus fate’s wheel turns.

1 Ruhásí is defined as a man midway between a Christian and a šâhib which latter, as we have seen, means a man who changes his religion. Thus ‘Adiy would seem to be, like so many of the Arabs at this time, a convert but not a practising Christian in the full sense.
2 The words imply the Ka’ba at Mecca and the next paragraph makes this certain. As the conversation is said to have taken place in Medina the authenticity of the tradition is suspect, unless haddá means no more than ‘yon’.
3 In Muradí territory.
I. This throws light on Robertson Smith's theory of a primitive matriarchy in ancient Arabia.

AL-ASH'ATH B. QAYS COMES WITH THE DEPUTATION OF KINDA

Al-Ash'ath b. Qays came to the apostle with the deputation of Kinda. Al-Zuhri told me that he came with eighty riders from Kinda and they went in to the apostle in the mosque. They had combed their locks and blackened their eyes with kohl, and they wore striped robes bordered with silk. The apostle asked them if they had accepted Islam and when they said that they had he asked why this silk was round their necks. So they tore it off and threw it away.

Then al-Ash'ath said, 'We are the sons of the eater of bitter herbs and so are you.' The apostle smiled and said that to al-' Abbas b. 'Abdul-Mu'llalib and Rabi' a b. al-I;Iarith that ancestry was attributed. These two men were merchants and when they went about among the Arabs and were asked who they were they would say that they were sons of the eater of bitter herbs, taking pride in that because Kinda were kings. Then he said to them, 'Nay, we are the sons of al-NaQ.r b. Kinana: we do not follow our mother's line and disown our father.'

Al-Ash'ath said, 'Have you finished (T. Do you know), O men of Kinda? By God if I hear a man saying that (T. after today) I will give him eighty strokes' (896).

The Life of Muhammad

He wished to meet me on a horse on which I sat as a lion
Wearing a loose coat of mail glittering like a pool
On hard ground which makes the water clear.
Mail that turns back the lances with bent points
With broken shafts flying apart.
If had you met me you would have met a lion with flowing mane.
You would meet a ravening beast
With mighty paws and lofty shoulders
Matching his adversary whom he overthrows if he makes for him:
Seizes him, picks him up, throws him down and kills him;
Dashes out his brains and shatters him;
Tears him in pieces and devours him,
Admitting none a share in the prey his teeth and claws hold fast (894).

'Amr stayed with his people the B. Zubayd while Farwa b. Musayk was over them. When the apostle died 'Amr revolted, and said:

We have found Farwa's rule the worst of rules,
An ass sniffing at a female ass.
If you were to look at Abu 'Umayr
You would think he was a caul with its filthy discharge (895).

AL-ASH'ATH B. QAYS COMES WITH THE DEPUTATION OF KINDA

Al-Ash'ath b. Qays came to the apostle with the deputation of Kinda. Al-Zuhri told me that he came with eighty riders from Kinda and they went in to the apostle in the mosque. They had combed their locks and blackened their eyes with kohl, and they wore striped robes bordered with silk. The apostle asked them if they had accepted Islam and when they said that they had he asked why this silk was round their necks. So they tore it off and threw it away.

Then al-Ash'ath said, 'We are the sons of the eater of bitter herbs and so are you.' The apostle smiled and said that to al-' Abbas b. 'Abdul-Mu'llalib and Rabi' a b. al-Harith that ancestry was attributed. These two men were merchants and when they went about among the Arabs and were asked who they were they would say that they were sons of the eater of bitter herbs, taking pride in that because Kinda were kings. Then he said to them, 'Nay, we are the sons of al-NaQ.r b. Kinana: we do not follow our mother's line and disown our father.'

Al-Ash'ath said, 'Have you finished (T. Do you know), O men of Kinda? By God if I hear a man saying that (T. after today) I will give him eighty strokes' (896).

This throws light on Robertson Smith's theory of a primitive matriarchy in ancient Arabia.
The Coming of Surad b. Abdullah al-Azdi

Surad came to the apostle and became a good Muslim with the deputation from al-Azd. The apostle put him in command of those of his people who had accepted Islam and ordered him to fight the neighbouring polytheists from the tribes of the Yaman with them. Surad went away to carry out the apostle's orders and stopped at Jurash, which at that time was a closed town containing some of the tribes of the Yaman. Khath'am had taken refuge with them and entered it when they heard of the approach of the Muslims. The latter besieged them for about a month, but they could not force an entry. Surad withdrew as far as one of their mountains (now) called Shakar, and the inhabitants of Jurash, thinking that he had fled from them, went out in pursuit of him, and when they overtook him he turned on them and killed a large number of them.

Now the people of Jurash had sent two of their men to the apostle in Medina to look about them and see what was happening, and while they were with the apostle after the afternoon prayer he asked where Shakar was. The two men got up and told him that there was a mountain in their country called Kashar by the people of Jurash, to which he replied that it was not Kashar but Shakar. 'Then what is the news of it?' they asked. 'Victims offered to God are being killed there now,' he said. The two men went and sat with Abū Bakr or it may have been 'Uthmān and he said, 'Woe to you! the apostle has just announced to you the death of your people, so get up and ask him to pray to God to spare your people.' They did so, and he did so pray. They left the apostle and returned to their people and found that they had been smitten on the day that Surad attacked them on the very day and at the very hour in which the apostle said these words.

The deputation of Jurash came to the apostle and accepted Islam and he gave them a special reserve round their town with definite marks for horses, riding camels, and ploughing oxen. The cattle of any (other) man who pastured it could be seized with impunity. One of the Azd in reference to that raid said: (Khath'am used to assail Azd in pagan times and attack them in the sacred month):

What a successful raid we had! Mules, and horses and asses.

Until we came to Himyar with its forts

Where Khath'am had been given full warning.

If I could satisfy the rancour I feel

I should not care whether they were Muslims or heathen.

The Deputation of the Kings of Himyar

On his return from Tabūk a messenger brought a letter from the kings of Himyar with their acceptance of Islam: al-Ḥārith b. 'Abdu Kulāl, and

1 The old word himd, meaning a sacred area, has lost its force here.

2 Bal. 71 adds 'and to Sharh b. 'Abdu Kulāl and omits all words after 'Hamdān' as far as 'polytheists'.

3 I.e. the part he chooses as his before the property is divided.
alms tax is not lawful to Muhammad or his household; it is alms to be given to the poor Muslims and the wayfarer. Malik has brought the news and kept secret what is confidential, and I order you to treat him well. I have sent to you some of the best of my people, religious and learned men, and I order you to treat them well, for they must be respected. Peace upon you and the mercy and blessings of God.

THE APOSTLE’S INSTRUCTIONS TO MU’ĀDH WHEN HE SENT HIM TO THE YAMAN

‘Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me that he was told that when the apostle sent Mu’ādh he gave him instructions and orders and then said: Deal gently and not harshly; announce good news and do not repel people. You are going to one of the people with scripture who will ask you about the key of heaven. Say to them it is the witness that there is no God but Allah, Who has no partner. Mu’ādh went off to the Yaman and did as he was ordered and a woman came to him and said, ‘O companion of God’s apostle, what rights has a husband over his wife?’ He said, ‘Woe to you, a woman can never fulfil her husband’s rights, so do your utmost to fulfil his claims as best you can.’ She said, ‘By God, if you are the companion of God’s apostle you must know what rights a husband has over his wife!’ He said, ‘If you were to go back and find him with his nostrils running with pus and blood and sucked until you got rid of them you would not have fulfilled your obligation.’

958 FARWA B. ‘AMR AL-JUDAMI BECOMES A MUSLIM

Farwa b. ‘Amr b. al-Nāfira al-Judhami of the clan of Nufāthā sent to the apostle that he had accepted Islam, and gave him a white mule. Farwa was governor for the Byzantines of the Arabs lying near the Byzantine border based on Ma‘ān and the surrounding land of Syria. When the news reached the Byzantines they went after him, imprisoned him. In his imprisonment he said:

Sulaymān came to my companions by night
When the Romans were between the door and the water troughs.
The spectre shrank away sad at what it saw,
And I thought to sleep but it had made me weep.
Paint not thine eye with kohl, Salmā, after I am dead
And do not approach for intercourse.
You know, Abū Kubayshe, that among the great ones
My tongue is not silent.

1 A difficult expression. Perhaps ‘they are people of importance’, or even ‘they will be watched’, i.e. to see how they fare.
2 Shuwayl offers no comment.

The Life of Muhammad

If I perish you will miss your brother
And if I live you will recognize my rank,
For I possess the noblest qualities a man can have:
Generosity, bravery, and eloquence.

When the Byzantines determined to crucify him by a pool in Palestine called ‘Afrā’ he said:

Has Salmā heard that her husband
Is by the water of ‘Afrā raised on a riding camel,
A camel whose mother no stallion e’er mounted,
Its branches shorn with sickles?

Al-Zuhri alleged that when they brought him to crucify him he said:

Tell the chiefs of the Muslims that I
Surrender to my Lord my body and my bones.

Then they beheaded him and hung him up by that water. May God have mercy on him!

THE BANŪ‘L-HĀRITH ACCEPT ISLAM

Then the apostle sent Khālid b. al-Walid in the month of Rabi‘u‘l-‘akhir or Jumāda‘l-Ulā in the year 10 to the B. al-Hārith b. Ka‘b in Najrān, and ordered him to invite them to Islam three days before he attacked them. If they accepted then he was to accept it from them; and if they declined he was to fight them. So Khālid set out and came to them, and sent out riders in all directions inviting the people to Islam, saying, ‘If you accept Islam you will be safe,’ so the men accepted Islam as they were invited. Khālid stayed with them teaching them Islam and the book of God and the sunna of His prophet, for that was what the apostle of God had ordered him to do if they accepted Islam and did not fight.

Then Khālid wrote to the apostle: In the name of God the compassionate, the merciful. To Muhammad the prophet the apostle of God. From Khālid b. al-Walid. Peace be upon you, O apostle of God, and God’s mercy and blessings. I praise God the only God unto you. You sent me to the B. al-Hārith b. Ka‘b and ordered me when I came to them not to fight them for three days and to invite them to Islam; and if they accepted it to stay with them, and to accept it from them and teach them the institutions of Islam, the book of God, and the sunna of His prophet.

1 The following line makes the point clear.
2 After these words T. has ‘And stay with them and teach them the book of God and the sunna of the prophet and the institutions of Islam’. It looks as if these words had fallen out of I.H.’s recension (unless he deliberately excised them) and that he wrote in the clause beginning ‘for that’ which T. omits. Clearly one of them is redundant, and the passage in T. reads more smoothly. The words ‘to stay with them’ in Khālid’s letter are given by C., not by W.
The Life of Muhammad

And if they did not surrender I was to fight them. I duly came to them and invited them to Islam three days as the apostle ordered me, and I sent riders among them with your message. They have surrendered and have not fought and I am staying among them instructing them in the apostle's positive and negative commands and teaching them the institutions of Islam and the prophet's sunna until the apostle writes to me. Peace upon you &c.

The apostle wrote to him with the same preamble as before, saying: 'I have received your letter which came with your messenger telling me that the B. al-Hārith surrendered before you fought them and responded to your invitation to Islam and pronounced the shahādā, and that God had guided them with His guidance. So promise them good and warn them and come. And let their deputation come with you. Peace upon you &c.

So Khiilid came to the apostle with the deputation of B. al-Hārith, among whom were Qays b. al-Husayn Dhū'l-Ghusṣa, and Yazid b. 'Abdūl-Madān, and Yazid b. al-Muḥājirīn, and 'Abdullah b. Qurād al-Ziyādī, and Shaddād b. 'Abdullah al-Qanānī, and 'Amr b. 'Abdullah al-Dībābī.

When they came to the apostle he asked who these people who looked like Indians were, and was told that they were the B. al-Hārith b. Ka'b. When they came to the apostle they said, 'We testify that you are the apostle of God and that there is no God but Allah.' But he said, 'And I testify that there is no God but Allah and that I am the apostle of Allah.' Then he said, 'You are the people who when they were driven away pushed forward,' and they remained silent, and none of them answered him. He repeated the words three times without getting an answer, and the fourth time Yazid b. Abdu'l-Madān said, 'Yes, we are,' and said it four times. The apostle said, 'If Khiilid had not written to me that you had accepted Islam and had not fought I would throw your heads beneath your feet.' Yazid answered, 'We do not praise you and we do not praise Khiilid.' Then whom do you praise?' he asked. He said: 'We praise God who guided us by you.' 'You are right,' he said, and asked them how they used to conquer those they fought in the pagan period. They said that they never conquered anyone. 'Nay, but you did conquer those who fought you,' he said. They replied, 'We used to conquer those we fought because we were united and had no dissentients, and never began an injustice.' He said, 'You are right,' and he appointed Qays b. al-Husayn as their leader.

The deputation returned to their people towards the end of Shawwāl or at the beginning of Dhū'l-Qa'da, and some four months after their return the apostle died.

Now the apostle had sent to them after their deputation had returned 'Amr b. Hazm to instruct them in religion and to teach them the sunna and the institutions of Islam and to collect their alms; and he wrote a letter in which he gave him his orders and injunctions as follows: In the name of God the Compassionate, the Merciful. This is a clear announcement from God and His apostle. O you who believe, be faithful to your agreements.1 The instructions of Muhammad the prophet of God to 'Amr b. Hazm when he sent him to the Yaman. He orders him to observe piety to God in all his doings for God is with those who are pious and who do well; and he commanded him to behave with truth as God commanded him; and that he should give people the good news and command them to follow it and to teach men the Quran and instruct them in it and to forbid men to do wrong so that none but the pure should touch the Quran and should instruct men in their privileges and obligations and be lenient to them when they behave aright and severe on injustice, for God hates injustice and has forbidden it. 'The curse of God is on the evildoers.'2 Give men the good news of paradise and the way to earn it, and warn them of hell and the way to earn it, and make friends with men so that they may be instructed in religion, and teach men the rites of the hajj, its customs and its obligation and what God has ordered about it: the greater hajj is the greater hajj and the lesser hajj is the 'umra; and prohibit men from praying in one small garment unless it be a garment whose ends are double over their shoulders, and forbid men from squatting in one garment which exposes their person to the air, and forbid them to twist the hair of the head (T. if it is long) on the back of the neck;3 and if there is a quarrel between men forbid them to appeal to tribes and families, and let their appeal be to God; they who do not appeal to God but to tribes and families let them be smitten with the sword until their appeal is made to God; and command men to perform the ablutions, their faces, and their hands to the elbows and their feet to the ankles, and let them wipe their heads as God has ordered; and command prayer at the proper time with bowing, prostration, and humble reverence; prayer at 962 daybreak, at noon when the sun declines, in the afternoon when the sun is descending, at even when the night approaches not delaying it until the stars appear in the sky; later at the beginning of the night; order them to run to the mosques when they are summoned, and to wash when they go to them, and order them to take from the booty God's fifth and what alms are enjoined on the Muslims from land—a tithe of what the fountains water (T. the ba'al waters)4 and the sky waters, and a twentieth of what the bucket waters; and for every ten camels two sheep; and for every twenty camels four sheep; for every forty cows one cow; for every thirty cows a bull or cow calf; for every forty sheep at grass one sheep; this is what God has enjoined on the believers in the matter of alms. He who adds thereto it is a merit to him. A Jew or a Christian who becomes a sincere Muslim

---

1 Sūra 5.1.
2 Sūra 16.128.
3 Sūra 5.1.
4 i.e. to wear a pigtail.
5 Here undoubtedly T. and Bal. 70 retain the original text. For the original sense of Baal's land see W. Robertson Smith, Religion of the Semites, pp. 95 f. Probably it means land watered by underground streams.
of his own accord and obeys the religion of Islam is a believer with the same rights and the same obligations. If one of them holds fast to his religion he is not to be turned (T. seduced) from it. Every adult, male or female, bond or free, must pay a golden dinar or its equivalent in clothes. He who performs this has the guarantee of God and His apostle; he who withholds it is the enemy of God and His apostle and all believers.

THE COMING OF RIFA'A B. ZAYD AL-JUDHAMI

Rifā'a b. Zayd al-Judhāmī of the clan of al-Dubayy came to the apostle during the armistice of al-Hudaybiya before Khaybar. He gave the apostle a slave and he became a good Muslim. The apostle gave him a letter to his people in which he wrote:

'To Rifā'a b. Zayd whom I have sent to his people and those who have joined them to invite them to God and His apostle. Whosoever comes forward is of the party of God and His apostle, and whosoever turns back has two months' grace.

When Rifā'a came to his people they responded and accepted Islam; then they went to al-Ḥarra, the Ḥarra of al-Rajālā', and stopped there (897).

THE LIARS MUSAYLIMA AL-HANAFI AND AL-ASWAD AL-'ANSI

Now the two arch-liars Musaylima b. Ḥabib and al-Aswad b. Ka'b al-'Ansī had spoken during the apostle's lifetime, the first in al-Yamāmah among the B. Ḥanīfa, and the second in San'a'. Yazid b. 'Abdullah b. Qusayt told me from 'Aṣā' b. Yasār, or his brother Sulaymān, from Abū Sa'id al-Khudri, saying: 'I heard the apostle as he was addressing the people from his pulpit say "I saw the night of al-qadr and then I was made to forget it; and I saw on my arms two bracelets of gold which I disliked so I blew on them and they flew away. I interpreted it to mean these two liars, the man of al-Yamāmah and the man of al-Ṭayyār."'

One whom I do not suspect on the authority of Abū Hurayra said: 'I heard the apostle say: The hour will not come until thirty antichrists come forth, each of them claiming to be a prophet.'

THE SENDING OUT OF COLLECTORS OF THE POOR-TAX

The apostle sent out his officials and representatives to every district subject to Islam to collect the poor-tax. He sent al-Muhājir b. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughīra to Ṣan'a', and al-'Ansī came out against him while he was there. Ziyād b. Labīd, brother of B. Bayāḍa al-Anṣārī, he sent to Ḥadramaut. 'Adīy b. ʿAlītim he sent to Ṭayyī and B. Asad; Mālik b. Nuwayra (898), to B. Ḥanẓala. The poor-tax of B. Sa'd he divided between two men: Zibriqān b. Badr and Qays b. ʿĀṣim each to be in charge of a section; al-ʿĀlī b. al-Ḥaḍramī to al-Bahrāyin, and ʿAli b. Abū Taḥlib to the people of Najrān, to collect the poor-tax and to superintend the collection of the poll-tax.

MUSAYLIMA'S LETTER AND THE APOSTLE'S ANSWER

Musaylima had written to the apostle: 'From Musaylima the apostle of God to Muhammad the apostle of God. Peace upon you. I have been made partner with you in authority. To us belongs half the land and to Quraysh half, but Quraysh are a hostile people.' Two messengers brought this letter.

A shaykh of Ashja' told me on the authority of Salama b. Nu'aym b. Mas'ūd al-Aswad from his father Nu'aym: I heard the apostle saying to them when he read his letter 'What do you say about it?' They said that they said the same as Musaylima. He replied, 'By God, were it not that heralds are not to be killed I would behead the pair of you!' Then he wrote to Musaylima: 'From Muhammad the apostle of God to Musaylima the liar. Peace be upon him who follows the guidance. The earth is God's. He lets whom He will of His creatures inherit it and the result is to the pious.' This was at the end of the year 10.

THE FAREWELL PILGRIMAGE

In the beginning of Dhū'l-Qa'da the apostle prepared to make the pilgrimage and ordered the men to get ready.

'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. al-Qāsim from his father al-Qāsim b. Muhammad from 'A'isha the prophet's wife told me that the apostle went on pilgrimage on the 25th Dhū'l-Qa'da (899).

Neither he nor the men spoke of anything but the pilgrimage, until when he was in Sarif and had brought the victims with him as also some dignitaries had done, he ordered the people to remove their pilgrim garments except those who brought victims. That day my menses were upon me and he came in to me as I was weeping and asked me what ailed me, guessing correctly what was the matter. I told him he was right and said I wished to God that I had not come out with him on the journey this year. He said (T. Don't do that) 'Don't say that, for you can do all that the pilgrims do except go round the temple.' The apostle entered Mecca and everyone who had no sacrificial victim, and his wives, took off the pilgrim garment. When the day of sacrifice came I was sent a lot of beef and it was put in my house. When I asked what it was they said that the apostle had sacrificed cows on behalf of his wives. When the night that the pebbles

1 I have omitted the introductory formula.
2 Cf. Sūra 7. 125.
were thrown duly came the apostle sent me along with my brother 'Abdu'l-Rahmān and let me perform the 'umra from al-Tan‘im in place of the 'umra which I had missed.

Nāfi‘, client of 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar from 'Abdullāh, from Ḥafṣa d. 'Umar, said that when the apostle ordered his wives to remove the pilgrim garments they asked him what prevented him from doing the same and he said: 'I have sent on my victims and have matted my hair, but I shall not be free of the ḥajj until I slaughter my victims.'

'Abdullāh b. Abū Najīh told me that the apostle had sent 'Āli to Najrān and met him in Mecca when he was still in a state of ḥajj. He went in to Fāṭima the apostle's daughter and found her dressed in her ordinary clothes. When he asked why, she told him that the apostle had ordered his wives to do. Then he went to the apostle and reported the result of his journey and he told him to go and circumambulate the temple and remove the pilgrim garb as the others had done. He said that he wanted to slaughter a victim as the apostle did. The apostle again told him to remove the pilgrim garb. He replied: 'I said when I put on the pilgrim garb, "O God, I will invoke thy name over a victim as your prophet and your slave and your apostle Muhammad does."

When he asked him if he had a victim he said that he had not, and the apostle gave him a share in his, so he retained the pilgrim garb with the apostle until both of them had completed the pilgrimage and the apostle slaughtered the victim on behalf of them both.

Yahyā b. 'Abdullāh b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Abū 'Amra from Yazīd b. Ṭalḥa b. Yazīd b. Rukkāna told me that when 'Āli came from the Yaman to meet the apostle in Mecca he hurried to him and left in charge of his army one of his companions who went and covered every man in the force with clothes from the linen 'Āli had. When the army approached he went out to meet them and found them dressed in the clothes. When he asked what on earth had happened the man said that he had dressed the men so that they might appear seemly when they mingled with the people. He told him to take off the clothes before they came to the apostle and they did so and put them back among the spoil. The army showed resentment at their treatment.

'Abdullāh b. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Ma‘mar b. Ḥazm from Sulaymān b. Muhammad b. Ka‘b b. 'Ujira from his aunt Zaynāb d. Ka‘b who was married to Abū Sa‘īd al-Khudrī, on the authority of the latter told me that when the men complained of 'Āli the apostle arose to address them and he heard him say: 'Do not blame 'Āli, for he is too scrupulous in the things of God, or in the way of God, to be blamed.'

Then the apostle continued his pilgrimage and showed the men the rites and taught them the customs of their ḥajj. He made a speech in which he made things clear. He praised and glorified God, then he said: 'O men, listen to my words. I do not know whether I shall ever meet you in this place again after this year. Your blood and your property are sacrosanct until you meet your Lord, as this day and this month are holy. You will surely meet your Lord and He will ask you of your works. I have told you. He who has a pledge let him return it to him who entrusted him with it; all usury is abolished, but you have your capital. Wrong not and you shall not be wronged. God has decreed that there is to be no usury and the usury of 'Abbās b. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib is abolished, all of it. All blood shed in the pagan period is to be left unavenged. The first claim on blood I abolish is that of b. Rabī‘a b. al-Ḥārith b. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib (who was fostered among the B. Layth and whom Hudhayl killed). It is the first blood shed in the pagan period which I deal with. Satan despairs of ever being worshipping in your land, but if he can be obeyed in anything short of worship he will be pleased in matters you may be disposed to think of little account, so beware of him in your religion. "Postponement of a sacred month is only an excess of disbelief whereby those who disbelieve are misled; they allow it one year and forbid it another year that they may make up the number of the months which God has hallowed, so that they permit what God has forbidden, and forbid what God has allowed.""

Time has completed its cycle and is as it was on the day that God created the heavens and the earth. 'The number of months with God is twelve; four of them are sacred, three consecutive and the Rajab of Mūḍar, which is between Jumāda and Shā'bān. You have rights over your wives and they have rights over you. You have the right that they should not defile your bed and that they should not behave with open unseemliness. If they do, God allows you to put them in separate rooms and to beat them but not with severity. If they refrain from these things they have the right to their food and clothing with kindness. Lay injunctions on women kindly, for they are prisoners with you having no control of their persons. You have taken them only as a trust from God, and you have the enjoyment of their persons by the way of God, or in the way of God, to be blamed.'

Know that every Muslim is a Muslim's brother, and that the Muslims are brethren. It is only lawful to take from a brother what he gives you willingly, so wrong not yourselves. O God, have I not told you?

1 Sūnā 9. 37.
2 A Ddh. explains that it was so called because Mūḍar used to treat it as sacred while other Arabs did not. (I suspect that in Brönner's edition, p. 449, tāḥumadūn is a mistake for tahārumadūn.)
3 K'umandatt ḫlu‘. This is a difficult phrase. It is probably to be understood in the sense of Sūra 8. 47 and more particularly 33. 72 where the Quranic commentators differ widely. See Lane, 1024.
The Life of Muhammad

I was told that the men said 'O God, yes,' and the apostle said 'O God, bear witness.'

Yahyā b. 'Abbad b. 'Abdullah b. al-Zubayr from his father told me that the man who used to act as crier for the apostle when he was on 'Arafa was Rabi'a b. Umayya b. Khalaf. The apostle said to him, 'Say: O men, the apostle of God says, Do you know what month this is?' and they would say the holy month. Then he said, 'Say to them: God has hallowed your blood and your property until you meet your Lord like the sanctity of this month. Do you know what country this is?' And they said 'The holy land' and he said the same as before. Do you know what day this is? and they said the day of the great hajj, and he said the same again.

Layth b. Abū Salaym from Shahr b. Haushab al-Ash'ārī from 'Amr b. Khārīja told me: 'Attāb b. Usayd sent me to the apostle on a matter while the apostle was standing on 'Arafa. I came to him and stood beneath his camel and its foam was falling on my head. I heard him say: 'God has assigned to everyone his due. The child belongs to the bed and the adulterer must be stoned. He who claims as father him who is not his father, or a client a master who is not his master, on him rests the curse of God, the angels, and men everywhere. God will not receive from him compensatory atonement, however great.'

'Abdullah b. Abū Najīh told me that when the apostle stood on 'Arafa he said, 'This station goes with the mountain that is above it and all 'Arafa is a station.' When he stood on Quzā on the morning of al-Muzdalīfah he said, 'This is the station and all al-Muzdalīfah is a station.' Then when he had slaughtered in the slaughtering place in Minā he said, 'This is the slaughtering place and all Minā is a slaughtering place.' The apostle completed the hajj and showed men the rites, and taught them what God had prescribed as to their hajj, the station, the throwing of stones, the circumambulation of the temple, and what He had permitted and forbidden. It was the pilgrimage of completion and the pilgrimage of farewell because the apostle did not go on pilgrimage after that.

THE SENDING OF USĀMA B. ZAYD TO PALESTINE

Then the apostle returned and stopped in Medina for the rest of Dhu'l-Hijjah, Muḥarram, and Safar. He ordered the people to make an expedition to Syria and put over them Usāmah b. Zayd b. Hāritha, his freed slave. He ordered him to lead his cavalry into the territory of the Ḍalā' and al-Dārūm in the land of Palestine. The men got ready and all the first emigrants went with Usāmah (900).

MESSengers sent to the various kingdoms

T. 1560

(T. As to I.I. according to what I. Hamīd alleged and told us saying that Salāma had it from him, he said: The apostle had sent out some of his companions in different directions to the kings of the Arabs and the non-Arabs inviting them to Islam in the period between al-Ḥudaybiya and his death.)

Yāsīd b. Abū Ḫabīb al-Ḥamīrī told me that I found a document in which was a memorandum (T. the names) of those the apostle sent to the countries and kings of the Arabs and non-Arabs and what he said to his companions when he sent them. I sent it to Muhammad b. Shihāb al-Zuhri (T. with a trusty countryman of his) and he recognized it. It contained the statement that the apostle went out to his companions and said: 'God has sent me as a mercy to all men, so take a message from me, God have mercy on you. Do not hang back from me as the disciples hung back from Jesus son of Mary. They asked how they had hung back and he said, 'He called them to a task similar to that to which I have called you. Those who had to go a short journey were pleased and accepted; those who had a long journey before them were displeased and refused to go, and Jesus complained of them to God. (T. From that very night) every one of them was able to speak the language of the people to whom he was sent.' (T. Jesus said 'This is a thing which God has determined that you should do, so go'.)

Those whom Jesus son of Mary sent, both disciples and those who came after them, in the land were: Peter the disciple and Paul with him, (Paul belonged to the followers and was not a disciple) to Rome; Andrew and Matthew to the land of the cannibals; Thomas to the land of Babel which is in the land of the east; Philip to Carthage which is Africa; John to Ephesus the city of the young men of the cave; James to Jerusalem which is Aelia the city of the sanctuary; Bartholomew to Arabia which is the land of the Hijāz; Simon to the land of the Berbers; Judah who was not one of the disciples was put in the place of Judas.

(T. Then the apostle divided his companions and sent Salāt b. 'Amr b. T. 1561 'Abdu Shams b. 'Abdu Wudd, brother of B. 'Aмир b. Lu'ay, to Haushab b. 'Ali ruler of al-Yamāmā; al-'Alā' b. al-Hadṛmi to al-Mundhir b. Sāwā, brother of B. 'Abdu'l-Qays, ruler of al-Bahrāyin; 'Amr b. al-'Āṣ to Jayfar b. Jalundā and 'Abbad his brother the Asdī rulers of 'Umān; Ḥattīb b. Abū Balta'a to the Muqauqis ruler of Alexandria. He handed over to him the apostle's letter and the Muqauqis gave to the apostle four slave girls, one of whom was Mary mother of Ibrāhīm the apostle's son; Dīya b. Khalīfa al-Kalbī al-Khazrajī he sent to Caesar, who was Heraclius king of Rome. When he came to him with the apostle's letter he looked at it and then put it between his thighs and his ribs.)

(T. Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri from 'Ubaydullāh b. 'Abdullah b. 'Utba b. T. 1561
Mas'ūd from 'Abdullah b. 'Abbas from Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb told me, saying, 'We were a merchant people and the war between us and the apostle had shut us in until our goods were stalled. When there was an armistice between us we felt sure that we should be safe. So I went out with a number of Quraysh merchants to Syria making for Gaza. We got there when Heraclius had conquered the Persians who were in his territory and driven them out and recaptured from them his great cross which they had plundered. When he had thus got the better of them and heard that his cross had been recovered he came out from hims, which was his headquarters, walking on foot in thanks to God for what He had restored to him, so that he could pray in the holy city. Carpets were spread for him and aromatic herbs were thrown on them. When he came to Aelia and had finished praying there with his patricians and the Roman nobles he became sorrowful, turning his eyes to heaven; and his patricians said, "You have become very sorrowful this morning, O king." He said, "Yes, in a vision of the night I saw the kingdom of a circumcised man victorious." They said that they did not know a people who circumcised themselves except the Jews and they were under his sovereignty. They recommended him to send orders to everyone of authority in his dominions to behead every Jew and thus rid himself of his anxiety. And by God as they were trying to induce him to do this, lo the messenger of the governor of Buṣrā came in leading a man while the princes were exchanging news, and said, "This man, O king, is from the Arabs, people of sheep and camels. He speaks of something wonderful that has happened in his country, so ask him about it." Accordingly the king asked his interpreter to inquire what had happened and the man said, "A man appeared among us alleging that he was a prophet. Some followed and believed him; others opposed him. Fights between them occurred in many places, and I left them thus." When he had given his news the king told them to strip him; they did so, and lo he was circumcised. Heraclius said, "This, by God, is the vision I saw; not what you say. Give him his clothes. Be off with you." Then he summoned his chief of police and told him to turn Syria upside down until he brought him a man of the people of that man, meaning the prophet. We were in Gaza when the chief of police came down upon us asking if we were of the people of this man in the Ḥijāz; and learning that we were he told us to come to the king, and when we came to him he asked if we were of the clan of this man and which was the nearest of kin to him. I said that I was, and by God I have never seen a man whom I consider more shrewd than that uncircumcised man, meaning Heraclius. He told me to approach and sat me in front of him with my companions behind me. Then he said, "I will interrogate him, and if he lies confute him." But, by God, if I were to lie they could not confute me. But I am a man of high birth too honourable to lie and I knew that it was only too easy for them, if I lied to him, to remember it against me and to repeat it in my name, so I did not lie to him. He said, "Tell me about this man who has appeared among you making these claims." I began to belittle him and to speak disparagingly of his affair and to say, "Don't let him cause you anxiety; his importance is less than you have heard," but he took no heed. Then he said, "Tell me what I ask you about him." I told him to ask what he liked and he asked about his lineage among us. I told him it was pure; our best lineage. Then he asked if any of his house had made the same claims which he was copying. When I said No he asked if he possessed any sovereignty among us which we had robbed him of and had he made this claim so that we might return it to him? Again I said No. Then he asked about the character of his followers. I told him that they were the weak and poor and young slaves and young women; not one of the elders and nobles of his people followed him. Then he asked whether those who followed him loved him and stuck to him or despised him and left him, and I told him that none of his followers had left him. Then he asked about the war between us and him. I said that its fortunes varied. Then he asked if he was treacherous. This was the only question of his which I found fault with. I said No, and that while we had an armistice with him we did not fear treachery; but he paid no attention to what I said. Then he summed up and said: "I asked you about his lineage and you alleged that it was pure and of your best and God chooses only a man of the noblest lineage as a prophet. Then I asked if any man of his family made similar claims and you said No. Then I asked if he had been robbed of dominion and made this claim to recover it, and you said No. Then I asked you about his followers and you said that they were the weak and poor and young slaves and women, and such have been the followers of the prophets in all ages. Then I asked if his followers had left him and you said None. Thus is the sweetness of faith: it does not enter the heart and depart. Then I asked if he was treacherous and you said No; and truly if you have told me the truth about him he will conquer me on the ground that is beneath my feet, and I wish that I were with him that I might wash his feet. Go about your business." So I got up rubbing my hands together and saying that the affair of Ibn Abū Kabsha had become great in the same of the kings of the Greeks dreaded him in their sovereignty in Syria. The apostle's letter with Dhiyā b. Khalfā al-Kalbī came to him saying, "If you accept Islam you will be safe; if you accept Islam God will give you a double reward; if you turn back the sin of the husbandmen' will be upon you," i.e. the burden of it.

From al-Zuhri from 'Ubaydullāh from 'Abdullāh b. Utba from Ibn 'Abbas, who said: Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb told me practically the same story.

Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri told me that he met a Christian bishop in the time of 'Abdullāh b. Marwān who told him that he knew about the affair of the apostle and Heraclius and understood it. When the apostle's letter by Dhiyā came to him he took it and put it between his thighs and his

---

1 The cross was recovered from the Persians by Heraclius in A.D. 628.

1 This appears to be an allusion to Matt. xxi. 33 f. rils. Then he wrote to a man in Rome who used to read in Hebrew what they read telling him about his affair and describing his circumstances and telling him about what had come from him. The man in Rome replied that he is the prophet whom we expect: there is no doubt about it, so follow him and believe in him. So Heraclius ordered the Roman generals to assemble in a room and commanded that the doors should be fastened.
Then he looked down on them from an upper chamber (for he was afraid of them) and said: 'O Romans, I have brought you together for a good purpose. This man has written me a letter summoning me to his religion.
By God, he is truly the prophet whom we expect and find in our books, so come and let us follow him and believe in him that it may be well with us in this world and the next.' As one man they uttered cries of disgust and ran to the doors to get out, but found them bolted. He ordered that they should be brought back to him, fearing for his life, and said: 'I spoke these words that I might see the firmness of your religion in face of what has happened, and I am delighted with what I have seen of your behaviour.'
They fell down in obeisance and he ordered that the doors should be opened and they went off.

A traditionist said that Heraclius said to Dihya b. Khalifa when he brought the apostle's letter: 'Alas, I know that your master is a prophet sent (by God) and that it is he whom we expect and find in our book, but I go in fear of my life from the Romans; but for that I would follow him.
Go to Dagha'tir the bishop and tell him about your master, for he is greater among the Romans than I, and his word counts for more than mine. See what he says to you.' So Dihya went and told him about what he had brought from the apostle and of his invitation to Heraclius.
Dagha'tir said: 'Your master is a prophet who has been sent; we know him by his description, and we find him mentioned by name in our scriptures.' Then he went and discarded his black clothes and put on white garments and took his staff and went out to the Romans who were in church and said: 'O Romans, a letter has come to us from Aham in which he calls us to God and I bear witness that there is no God but Allah and that Aham is his slave and apostle.' They leapt upon him with one accord and beat him until he was dead. When Dihya returned to Heraclius and told him the news he said: 'I told you that we feared death at their hands and Dagha'tir was greater among them and his word counted for more than mine.'

From Khalid b. Yasir from one of the first people of Syria: When Heraclius wanted to go from Syria to Constantinople when he heard about the apostle he gathered the Romans together and said: 'I am laying before you some matters which I want to carry out. You know that this man is a prophet who has been sent; we find him in our book; we know him by his description, so come and let us follow him that it may be well with us in this world and the next.' They said, 'Are we to be under the hands of the Arabs when we are a people with a greater kingdom, a larger population, and a finer country?' He said, 'Come and I will pay him the dollars every year and avert his onslaught and get rest from war by the money I pay him.' They replied, 'Are we to pay the low and insignificant Arabs a tax when we are more numerous, with greater sovereignty and a stronger country? By God, we will never do it.' He said, 'Then come and let me make peace with him on condition that I give him the land of Syria while he leaves me the land of Sha'm.' Syria with them meant Palestine, Jordan, Damascus, Hims, and what is below the Pass of the land of Syria,1 while what was beyond the Pass meant Sha'm. They said,
'Are we to give him the land of Syria, when you know that it is the navel of Sha'm? By God, we will never do it.' At this refusal he said, 'You will see that you will be conquered when you protect yourselves against him in your province.' Then he got on his mule and rode off until he looked down on the Pass facing Sha'm and said, 'Farewell for the last time, O land of Syria.' Then he rode off rapidly to Constantinople.

The apostle sent Shujjy b. Wahh, brother of B Absay Khuzayma, to

(T. via Salama: The apostle sent 'Amr b. Umayya al-Damri to the Negus about Ja'far b. Abi 'Abid and his companions and sent a letter with him... From Muhammad the apostle of God to the Negus al-Asham king of Abyssinia, Peace. I praise Allah unto you the King, the Holy, the Peace, the Faithful, the Watcher,2 and I bear witness that Jesus son of Mary is the spirit of God and His word which He cast to Mary the Virgin, the good, the pure, so that she conceived Jesus. God created him from His spirit and His breathing as He created Adam by His hand and His breathing. I call you to God the Unique without partner and to His obedience, and to follow me and believe in me. As for this I give the Negus and his followers, and I am the apostle of God. I have sent you a letter in which I mention the matter of Jesus and by Allah there is no God who has guided me to Islam. I have received your letter in which you mention the matter of Jesus and by the Lord of heaven and earth he is not one scrap more than what you say. We know that with which you were sent to us and we have entertained your nephew and his companions. I testify that you are God's apostle, true and confirming (those before you). I have given my fealty to you and to your nephew and I have surrendered myself through him to the Lord of the 1 These are precisely the boundaries of Sha'm in the early days of the Arab conquest.

2 An extract from Surah 59. 23

[Image 0x0 to 795x616]
The Life of Muhammad

worlds. I have sent to you my son Arhā. I have control only over myself and if you wish me to come to you, O apostle of God, I will do so. I bear witness that what you say is true.

I was told that the Negus sent his son with sixty Abyssinians by boat, and when they were in the middle of the sea the boat foundered and they all perished. 1

T. 1572

(Ṭ. via Salama. From 'Abdallāh b. Abū Bakr from al-Zuhri from Abū Salama from 'Abdullāh b. 'A'īr from 'Abdullāh b. Hudhrāfah brought the apostle's letter to Chosroes and when he had read it he tore it up. When the apostle heard that he had torn his letter up he said, 'His kingdom will be torn in pieces.')

(T. via Ya'āqūb b. Abū Ḥabīb. Then Chosroes wrote to Bādhān, who was governor of the Yaman, 'Send two stout fellows to this man in the Hijaz and tell them to bring him to me.' So Bādhān sent his steward Bābawayh who was a skilled scribe and a Persian called Kharkhasrah to carry a letter to the apostle ordering him to go with them to Chosroes. He told Bābawayh to go to this man's country and speak to him and then come back and report. When they got as far as al-Ta'īf if they found some men of Quraysh in (wadi) Nakhb and inquired about him. They told them that he was in Medina. They rejoiced at meeting these men, saying, 'This is good news, for Chosroes king of kings is moved against the man and you will be rid of him.'

The two men came to the apostle and Bābawayh told him that Shāhānshāh king of kings Chosroes had written to the governor Bādhān ordering him to send men to bring him to him and that they had been sent to take him away. If he obeyed, Bādhān would write to the king of kings on his behalf and keep him from him; but if he refused to come he knew what sort of man he was: he would destroy his people and lay waste his country. They had come in to the apostle's presence with shaven beards and long moustaches, so that he could not bear to look at them. He advanced on them and said, 'Who ordered you to do this?' To which they replied, 'Our Lord' meaning Chosroes. The apostle answered, 'But my Lord has ordered me to let my beard grow long and to cut my moustache.' Then he told them to come back in the morning.

News came from heaven to the apostle to the effect that God had given Shirrawayh power over his father Chosroes and he had killed him on a certain night of a certain month at a certain hour. Thereupon he summoned them and told them. They said: 'Do you know what you are saying? We can take revenge on you. What is easier? Shall we write this as from you and tell the king of it?' He said, 'Yes, tell him that from me and tell him that my religion and my sovereignty will reach limits which the kings of Chosroes never attained. Say to him, "If you submit I will give you what you already hold and appoint you king over your people in the Yaman."' Then he gave Kharkhasrah a girdle containing gold and silver which one of the kings had given him.

They left him and came to Bādhān and reported. He exclaimed, 'This is not the speech of a king. In my opinion he is a prophet as he says. We will see what happens. If what he said is true then he is a prophet who has been sent by God; if it is not, we must consider the matter further.' Hardly had he finished speaking when there came a letter from Shirrawayh saying that he had killed Chosroes because he had angered the Iranians by killing their nobles and keeping them on the frontiers. He must see that his men pledged their obedience to the new king. He must see that the man about whom Chosroes had written, but not provoke him to war until further instructions came.

When Bādhān received this letter he said, 'Without doubt this man is an apostle,' and he became a Muslim as did the Persians with him in the T. 1575 Yaman.

The men of Himyar used to call Kharkhasrah 'Dhūl-Mi'jaza' because of the girdle which the apostle gave him, because 'girdle' in the Himyarite tongue is mi'jaza. To this day his sons keep the nickname. Bābawayh said to Bādhān, 'I never spoke to a man for whom I felt more respectful awe.' Bādhān inquired, 'Did he have any police with him?' He answered No.

A SUMMARY OF THE APOSTLE'S FIGHTS

The apostle took part personally in twenty-seven (Ṭ. six) raids:

- Waddān which was the raid of al-Abwā'
- Buwāt in the direction of Radwā
- 'Ushayra in the valley of Yanbu'
- The first fight at Badr in pursuit of Kurz b. Jābir.
- The great battle of Badr in which God slew the chiefs of Quraysh (Ṭ. and their nobles and captured many).
- Banū Sulaym until he reached al-Kudr.
- Al-Sawiq in pursuit of Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarb (Ṭ. until he reached Qarqara al-Kudr).
- Ghaṭafān (Ṭ. towards Najd), which is the raid of Dhū Amarr.
- Bahrān, a mine in the Hijāz (Ṭ. above al-Furu').
- Uhad
- Ḥamrā'īl-Asad
- Banū Ṣafā'ī
- Dāhūl-Riqā' of Nakhl.
- The last battle of Badr.
- Dūmatu'l-Jandal.

1 It will be seen that there is no jumād for this tradition. I.H. has dealt with it in his summary to this section. I have omitted T. 1574. 4-1575. 5 because it is unintelligible without the preceding story from Ya'āqūb b. Abū Ḥabīb which evidently ran parallel with what I.H. had said.

2 mālik.
The Life of Muhammad

A SUMMARY OF THE EXPEDITIONS AND RAIDING PARTIES

These were thirty-eight (Tr. thirty-five) in number (T. between the time of his coming to Medina and his death). 'Ubayda b. al-Harith was sent to the lower part (T. to the tribes) of Thaniyatu'l-Mara (T. which is a well in the Hijaz); Hamza b. 'Abdul-Mut'talib to the coast in the direction of al-'Is. (Some people date Hamza's raid before that of Ubayda); Sa'd b. Abü Waqqa to al-Kharrar (T. in the Hijaz); 'Abdullah b. Jahsh to Nakha; Zayd b. Haritha to al-Quraisy (T. a well in Najd); Muhammad b. Maslama's attack on Ka'b b. al-Ashraf; Marthad b. Abū Marthad al-Ghanawi to al-Rai; al-Mundhir b. 'Amr to Bīr Ma'īna; Abū 'Ubayda b. al-Jarrāh to Dhul-Qaṣṣa on the Iraq road; 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb to Turba in the B. 'Amir country; Ali b. Abū Tālib to the Yaman; Ghālib b. 'Abdullah al-Kalbī, the Kalb of Layth, to al-Kadid where he smote B. al-Mulawwah.

GHALIB'S RAID ON THE B. AL-MULAWWAH

Yā'qūb b. 'Utbah b. al-Mughira b. al-Akhnas from Muslim b. 'Abdul-ha b. Khubayb al-Juḥan from al-Mundhir from Jundab b. Makīth al-Juḥan told me that the latter said: The apostle sent Ghalib b. 'Abdullah al-Kalbī, Kalb of B. 'Auf b. Layth, on a night raid in which I took part. He ordered him to make a cavalry raid on B. al-Mulawwah who were in al-Kadid. We went out and when we reached Qudayd we fell in with al-Harith b. Malik b. al-Barṣā b. al-Laythī and seized him. He said that he had come to be a Muslim and was going to the apostle. We told him that if he was a Muslim it would not hurt him to be tied up for a night, and if he were not we should make sure of him; so we bound him tightly and left him in charge of a young negro and told him to cut off his head if he tried to attack him.

We went on until we came to (T. the valley of) al-Kadid at sunset. We were in the wadi and my companions sent me on to scout for them. So I left them and went on until I came to a hill overlooking the enemy's camp. I went up to the top and looked down at the camp; and by God as I was lying on the hill out came a man from his tent and said to his wife, 'I see something black on the hill which I didn't see at the beginning of the day. Look and see if any of your gear is missing; perhaps the dogs have dragged off something.' She went to look and told him that nothing was missing. He then told her to fetch him his bow and a couple of arrows and he shot me in the side. I pulled out the arrow and laid it aside and kept my place (T. did not move). Then he shot me again in my shoulder. Again I pulled it out and kept my place. He said to his wife, 'If this had been a scout of some party he would have moved, for both my arrows hit him; in the morning go and get them. Don't let the dogs gnaw them.' Then he went inside his tent.

We gave them time until they quietened down and went to sleep (T. until their cattle returned in the evening and they milked them and lay down quietly, and a third of the night passed) and towards dawn we attacked them and killed some and drove off the cattle. They cried out to one another for aid, and a multitude that we could not resist came at us (T. omits and has 'and we went on quickly until we passed by al-Harith') and we went on with the cattle and passed Ibn al-Barsā and his companion and carried them along with us. The enemy were hard on our heels and only the Wadi Qudayd was between us, when God sent a flood in the wadi from whence He pleased; for there were no clouds that we could see and 975 no rain. It brought such water that none could resist it and none could pass over. And there they stood looking at us as we drove off their cattle. Not one of them could cross to us as we hurried off with them until we got away; they could not pursue us, and we brought them to the apostle.

A man of Aslam on the authority of another of them told me that the war-cry of the apostle's companions that night was Slay! Slay! A rājīz of the Muslims who was driving the cattle rhymed:

Abū'l-Qāsim refused to let you graze
On luscious herbs which you amaze
With yellow tops the colour of maize (901). I will now continue the summary of the night raids and raiding parties:1

1 From C. The whole passage in T. 1598 f. differs in phraseology though not in content from I.H. who has apparently edited the text freely.
THE RAID OF ZAYD B. ŠA'IRA AGAINST JUḌHĀM

One whom I can trust told me from some men of Juḍhām who knew about the affair that Rifa'a b. Zayd al-Juḍhām when he came to his people with the apostle's letter inviting them to Islam and they accepted it, was soon followed by Dihya b. Khalīfa al-Kalbī who came from Caesar, king of the Greeks, whom the apostle had sent having with him some merchandise of his. When he reached one of their wadis called Shanār, al-Hunayd b. 'Uṣ and his son 'Uṣ of Duwaylā a clan of Juḍhām attacked Dihya and seized everything he had with him. News of this reached some of al-Dubaybī of the kin of Rifa'a b. Zayd who had become Muslims and they went after al-Hunayd and his son; al-Nu'mān b. Abū Jī'āl of B. al-Dubaybī was among them. They fell in with them and a skirmish took place. On that day Qurra b. Ashqar al-Ḍīfarī of the clan al-Dulay' proclaimed his origin and said, 'I am the son of Lubnā,' and shot al-Nu'mān b. Abū Jī'āl with an arrow, hitting him in the knee, saying, 'Take that! I am the son of Lubnā.' Lubnā was his mother. Now Hassān b. Millā al-Dubaybī had been a friend of Dihya before that and he had taught him the first sūra of the Quran (902). They recovered what Hunayd and his son had taken and restored it to Dihya, and Dihya went off and told the apostle what had happened and asked him to let him kill al-Hunayd and his son. The apostle sent Zayd b. Ša'ira against them and that was what provoked the raid of Zayd on Juḍhām. He sent a force with him. Ghaṭafān of Juḍhām and Wā'il and they of Salāmān and Sa'd b. Hudhaym set off when Rifa'a b. Zayd came to them with the apostle's letter and halted in the lava belt of al-Bajā, while Rifa'a was in Kur'a Ḳabhā, knowing nothing, with some of the B. al-Dubaybī while the rest of B. Dubaybī were in Wādi Mādān in the region of the lava belt where it flows to the east. Zayd's force came up from the direction of al-Aulāj and attacked al-Maǧīṣ from the Ḳarra. They rounded up the cattle and men they found and killed al-Hunayd and his son and two men of B. al-Abnāf (903), and one of B. al-Khaṣib. When B. al-Dubaybī and the force in Fayyā'ā Madān heard of this some of them went off, among those who rode with them being Hassān b. Millā on a horse belonging to Suwayd b. Zayd called al-'Ajāja, and Unayf b. Millā on a horse of Millā's called Rīḥāl, and Abū Zayd b. 'Amr on a horse called Shāarihī. They went on until they came near the army when Abū Zayd and Hassān said to Unayf b. Millā, 'Leave us and go, for we are afraid of your tongue.' (Ṭ. So he withdrew) and stopped near them. Hardly had they left him when his horse began to paw the ground and rear and he said (to it), 'I am more interested in the two men than you in the two horses.' He let her go until he overtook them and they said to him, 'Seeing that you have behaved thus, spare us your tongue and don't bring us bad luck today.' They agreed among themselves that only Hassān should speak. Now they had a word which they used in the pagan period which they learned one from another: if one wanted to smite with his sword he said Būrī or Thūrī. When they came near the army the men came running to and Hassān said to them, 'We are Muslims.' The first man to meet them was on a black horse ('Ṭ. with lance outstretched, the man who displayed it had as it was fixed it on the withers of his horse as he cried, 'Forward, outstrip them!') and he advanced driving them. Unayf said 'Būrī,' but Hassān said 'Gently.' When they stopped by Zayd b. Ša'ira Hassān said, 'We are Muslims.' Zayd said, 'Then recite the first sūra.' When he did so Zayd ordered that it should be proclaimed through the army that God had declared their land sacrosanct except as regards those who had broken their covenant.

Hassān's sister, the wife of Abū Wabr b. ‘Adīy b. Umayyā b. al-Dubaybī, was among the prisoners and Zayd told him to take her and she escaped him by the waist. Ummu-'Ṭīrī of Duwaylā said, 'Are you taking your daughters and leaving your mothers?' One of B. al-Khaṣib said, 'She is (of) B. al-Dubaybī and their tongue utters spells all the day long.' Some of the army heard this and told Zayd and he gave orders that the hands of Hassān's sister should be loosed from his waist and told her to sit with the daughters of her uncle until God should decide what should be done with them. So they went back. He forbade the army to go down into the valley whence they had come and they passed the night with their people. They sought their night draught of milk from a herd belonging to Suwayd b. Zayd and when they had drunk it they rode off to Rifa'a b. Zayd. Among those who went were Abū Zayd b. 'Amr; Abū Shammās b. 'Amr; Suwayd b. Zayd; Ba'ja and Bardha and ‘Abd al-Hāfaż, sons of Zayd; Mukharriha b. ‘Adīy; Unayf b. Millā; and Hassān b. Millā, until in the morning they came up with Rifa'a in Kur'a Ḳabhā behind the Ḳarra by a well there of Ḳarra Laylā. Hassān said to him, 'Here you sit milking goats while the women of Juḍhām (Ṭ. are dragged as) prisoners. The letter which you brought has deceived them.' Rifa'a called for his camel, and as he began to saddle it he said: 'Are you alive or do you call the living?' When morning came they and he with Umayyā b. Da‘āfara, the brother of the slain Khaṣibī, departed early from behind the Ḳarra; they journeyed for three nights to Medina and when they entered it and came to the mosque a man looked at them and told them not to make their camels kneel lest their legs should be cut off. So they dismounted, leaving them standing. When they entered the mosque and the apostle saw them he beckoned to them to advance; and as Rifa'a began to speak a man said, 'Apostle, these put a rope to her two legs and to two camels and driving them until they rent her in two). Then they brought Umm Qirfa’s daughter and Mas’ada’s daughter to the apostle. The daughter of Umm Qirfa belonged to Salama b. ‘Amr b. al-Akwa’ who had taken her. She held a position of honour among her people, and the Arabs used to say, ‘Had you been more powerful than Umm Qirfa you could have done no more.’ Salama asked the apostle to let him have her and he gave her to him and he presented her to his uncle Hāzān b. Abū Wabh and she bore him ‘Abdūl-Raḥmān b. Mālik.�

Qays b. al-Musājhar said about the killing of Mas’ada:

I tried as his mother’s son would to get revenge for Ward.
As long as I live I will avenge Ward.
When I saw him I attacked him on my steed,
That doughty warrior of the family of Badr.
I impaled him on my lance of Qa‘dābi make
Which seemed to flash like a fire in an open space.

‘Abru:llāh b. Rawāḥa’s RaId to KiIl Al-Yusayr

‘Abdūl-Raḥmān b. Rawāḥa raided Khaybar twice; on one occasion he killed al-Yusayr b. Rizām (995). Now al-Yusayr (‘I’. the Jew) was in Khaybar collecting Gaṭafān to attack the apostle. The latter sent ‘Abdūl-Raḥmān b. Rawāḥa with a number of his companions, among whom were ‘Abdūl-Raḥmān b. Unays, an ally of B. Salīma. When they came to him they spoke to him (‘I’. and made him promises) and treated him well, saying that if he would come to the apostle he would give him an appointment and honour him. They kept on at him until he went with them with a number of Jews. ‘Abdūl-Raḥmān b. Unays mounted him on his beast (‘I’. and he rode behind him) until when he was in al-Qarqara, about six miles from Khaybar, al-Yusayr changed his mind about going to the apostle. ‘Abdūl-Raḥmān b. Rawāḥa had a number of his companions and one of his companions was killed; he himself was carried wounded from the field.

1 A.Dh. in Brünne’s text has jibs with the explanation ‘rascal’.

1 i.e. abstain from sexual intercourse. The Semites, like other ancient peoples, tabooed intercourse during war. Cf. i Sam. 21. 5, 6 and Robertson Smith, Religion of the Semites, 454 et passim.

The Life of Muhammad

men are sorcerers,’ and repeated the accusation twice. Rifa‘a said, ‘God be gracious to him who treats us well today.’ Then he handed the apostle the letter which he had written to him, saying, ‘Take it, O apostle; it was written long since but its violation is recent.’ The apostle told a young man to read it openly, and when he had done so he asked what had happened, and they told him. Three times he said, ‘What am I to do about the slain?’ Rifa‘a answered, ‘You know best, O apostle. We do not regard as wrong what you think is right or the converse.’ Abū Zayd b. ‘Amr said, ‘Give us back those who are alive and those who are dead I disregard.’ The apostle said that Abū Zayd was right and told ‘Ali to ride with them. ‘Ali objected that Zayd would not obey him, whereupon the apostle mounted him on a beast belonging to Thalaba b. ‘Amr and they went off, when lo a messenger from Zayd b. ‘Arīthā came on a camel of Abū Wabr called al-Shamīr. They made him dismount and he asked ‘Ali how he stood. He said that they knew their property and they took it. They went on and fell in with the army in Fayf‘ul-Fahlatayn and took their property which they held even to the smallest pad from a woman’s saddle. When they had finished their task Abū Jī‘l said:

There’s many a woman who scolds unkindly,
Who but for us would be feeding her captor’s fire
Pushed about with her two daughters among the captives
With no hope of an easy release.
Had she been entrusted to Us and Aus
Circumstances would have prevented her release.
Had she seen our camels in Misr
She would have dreaded a repetition of the journey.
We came to the waters of Yathrib in anger
(After four nights, search for water is painful)
With every hardened warrior like a wolf
Dour on the saddle of his swift camel.
May every force in Yathrib be a ransom
For Abū Sulaymān when they meet breast to breast
The day you see the experienced warrior humbled,
His head turning as he flees away (994).

Zayd b. ‘Arīthā also raided al-Ṭāfār in the region of Nakhl on the road to Iraq.

Zayd b. ‘Arīthā’s RaId on B. Fazāra and the Death of Umm Qirfa

Zayd also raided Wādīl-Qurā, where he met B. Fazāra and some of his companions were killed; he himself was carried wounded from the field.
perceived his intention as he was preparing to draw his sword, so he rushed at him and struck him with his sword cutting off his leg. Al-Yusayr hit him with a stick of shubat wood which he had in his hand and wounded his head (T. and God killed Yusayr). All the apostle's companions fell upon their Jewish companions and killed them except one man who escaped on his feet (T. his beast). When 'Abdullah b. Unays came to the apostle he spat on his wound and it did not suppurate or cause him pain.

On the second occasion 'Abdullah b. 'Atik raided Khaybar and killed Rāfi' b. Abū'l-Huqayq.

'ABDULLAH B. UNAYS'S RAID TO KILL KHALID B. SUFYĀN B. NUBAYH

The apostle sent him against Khalid, who was in Nakbla or 'Urana collecting men to attack the apostle, and he killed him.

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr told me that 'Abdullah b. Unays said: The apostle called me and said that he had heard that Ibn Sufyān b. Nubayh al-Hudhali was collecting a force to attack him, and that he was in Nakbla or 'Urana and that I was to go and kill him. I asked him to describe him so that I might know him, and he said, 'If you see him you will remind you of Satan. A sure sign is that when you see him you will feel a shudder.' I went out girding on my sword until I came on him with a number of women in a howdah seeking a halting-place for them. It was the time for afternoon prayer, and when I saw him I felt a shuddering as the apostle had said. I advanced towards him fearing that something would prevent my praying, so I prayed as I walked towards him bowing my head. When I came to him he asked who I was and I answered, 'An Arab who has heard of you and your gathering a force against this fellow and has come to you.' He said, 'Yes, I am doing so.' I walked a short distance with him and when my chance came I struck him with my sword and killed him, and went off leaving his women bending over him. When I came to the apostle he saw me and said, 'The aim is accomplished.' I said, 'I have killed him, O Apostle,' and he said, 'You are right.'

Then he took me into his house and gave me a stick telling me to keep it by me. When I went out with it the people asked me what I was doing with a stick. I told them that the apostle had given it to me and told me to keep it, and they said, 'Why don't you go back to the apostle and ask him why?' So I did so, and he said, 'It is a sign between you and me on the resurrection day. There are few men who will be carrying sticks then.' So 'Abdullah b. Unays fastened it to his sword and it remained with him until his death, when he ordered that it should be put in his winding sheet and it was buried with him (906).

To return to the expeditions: The raid of Zayd b. Hāritha and Ja'far b. Abū Ṭalib and 'Abdullah b. Rawāḥa to Mu'ta in Syria in which all were killed; and the raid of Ka'b b. 'Umayr al-Ghīfārī to Dhātu Aṭlāḥ in Syria in which he and all his companions were killed; and the raid of 'Uyayna b. Ḥisn on B. al-'Anbar of B. Tamīm.

THE RAID OF 'UYAYNA B. ḤISN ON B. AL-'ANBAR OF B. TAMĪM

The apostle sent him to raid them, and he killed some and captured others. 'Aṣim b. 'Umar b. Qatāda told me that 'Aisha said to the apostle that she must free a slave of the sons of Isma'il, and he said, 'The captives of B. al-'Anbar are coming now. We will give you one whom you can set free.' When they were brought to the apostle a deputation from B. Tamīm rode with them until they reached the apostle. Among them were Rabi'ā' b. Rufay'; Sabara b. 'Amr; al-Qa'qā' b. Mā'bad; Wārah b. Muhriz; Qays b. 'Aṣim; Mālik b. 'Amr; al-Ara'a b. Ḥābis; and Fīrās b. Ḥābis. They spoke to the apostle on their behalf and he liberated some and accepted ransom for others.

Among the B. al-'Anbar who were killed that day were 'Abdullah and two brothers of his, sons of Wābah; Shaddād b. Fīrās; and Ḥazala b. Dārīm. Among the women who were captured were Ṵāṣmā' d. Mālik; Ka's d. Arīy; Najwa d. Nahd; Jumay'a d. Qays; and 'Amra d. Ṭa'ār. Salmā d. 'Attāb said about that day:

'Adīy b. Jundab had a serious fall
From which it was hard to rise.
Enemies surrounded them on every side
And their glory and prosperity disappeared (907).

GHĀLĪB B. ABDULLAH'S RAID ON THE LAND OF B. MURRA

The raid of Ghālib b. 'Abdullāh al-Kalbī, the Kalb of Layth, was on the country of B. Murra in which he slew Mirdās b. Nahīk, an ally of theirs from al-Ḥurqa of Juḥayna. Usāmah b. Zayd and a man of the Ānṣār killed him (908). Usāmah b. Zayd said: 'When I and a man of the Ānṣār overtook him and attacked him with our weapons he pronounced the ṣahāda, but we did not stay our hands and killed him. When we came to the apostle we told him what had happened and he said, 'Who will absolve you, Usāmah, from ignoring the confession of faith?' I told him that the man had pronounced the words merely to escape death; but he repeated his question and continued to do so until I wished that I had not been a Muslim heretofore and had only become one that day and that I had not killed the man. I asked him to forgive me and promised that I would never kill a man who pronounced the ṣahāda. He said, 'You will say it after me,' Usāmah?" and I said that I would.'

1 i.e. after the prophet's death.
The Life of Muhammad

'Amr b. al-'Aś raids Dhātu'l-Salāsīl

The raid of 'Amr on Dhātu'l-Salāsīl in the country of (T. Bali and the raid on) B. 'Udhra. The apostle sent him to convocate the Arabs to war on Syria. The mother of al-'Aś b. Wā'il was a woman of Bali, so the apostle sent him to them to claim their help. When 'Amr came to water in the country of Judhám called al-Salsal (T. Salāsīl), from which the raid took its name, he took alarm and sent to the apostle for reinforcements. The apostle sent him Abū 'Ubayda b. al-Jarrāḥ with the first Muhājirs among whom were Abū Bakr and 'Umar. He told Abū 'Ubayda when he sent him not to quarrel. Now when he reached 'Amr the latter said, 'You have come only to reinforce me.' 'No,' said Abū 'Ubayda, 'but I have my sphere of command and you have yours'; for he was a man of easy gentle disposition on whom the affairs of this world sat lightly. So when 'Amr insisted that he had come to reinforce him he said, 'The apostle told us not to quarrel, and though you disobey me I will obey you,' to which he replied, 'I am your superior officer and you are here only to reinforce me.' 'Have it your own way,' said he, and 'Amr took the lead in the prayers.

An informant who had it from Rāfi' b. Abū Rāfi' al-Ţā'ī who was Rāfi' b. 'Umayra told me that the latter said: I was a Christian called Sarjis, the surest and best guide in the sandy desert. During the pagan period I used to bury water which I had put in ostrich shells in various places in the desert and then raid men's camels. When I had got them into the sand I was safely in possession of them and none dare follow me thither. Then I would go to the places where I had concealed the water and drink it. When I became a Muslim I went on the raid on which the apostle sent 'Amr b. al-'Aś to Dhātu'l-Salāsīl, and I made up my mind to choose a companion, and selected Abū Bakr with whom I rode. He wore a Fadak cloak and whenever he halted he spread it out, and put it on when we rode. Then he fastened it on him with a packing-needle. That was the reason why the people of Najd when they apostatized said, 'Are we to accept as ruler the man with the cloak?' When we approached Medina on our return I told Abū Bakr that I had joined him so that God might profit me by him, and I asked for his advice and instruction. He told me that he would have given this even if I had not asked, and told me to proclaim the unity of God and not to associate anything with Him; to perform prayer; to pay the poor-tax; to fast in Ramadan; to go on pilgrimage; to wash after impurity; and never to assume authority over two Muslims. I told him that I hoped that I should never associate anyone with God; that I would never abandon prayer if God so willed; that if I had the means I would always pay the poor-tax; that I would never neglect Ramadan; that I would go on pilgrimage if I were able; and would wash after impurity; but as to leadership I observed that only those who exercised it were held in honour with the apostle and the people, so why should he exclude me from it? He answered, 'You asked me for the best advice that I could give you, and I will tell you. God sent Muhammad with this religion and he strove for it until men accepted it voluntarily or by force. Once they had entered it they were God's protégés and neighbours under His protection. Beware that you do not betray God's trust in regard to His neighbours so that He pursue you relentlessly on behalf of His protégé. For if one of you were wronged in this way his muscles would swell with anger if the sheep or camels of his protégé had been seized, and God is more angry on behalf of those under His protection.' Thereupon we parted.

When the apostle died and Abū Bakr was set over men I went to him and reminded him that he had forbidden me to assume authority over two Muslims. He said that he still forbade me to do so, and when I asked him what had induced him to assume authority over every one he said that he had no alternative; he was afraid that Muhammad's community would split up.

Yazid b. Abū Ḥabīb told me that he was informed on the authority of 'Auf b. Malik al-Asḥa'ī that he said: I was in the raid on which the apostle sent 'Amr b. al-'Aś to Dhātu'l-Salāsīl, in company with Abū Bakr and 'Umar. I passed by some people who were butchering a camel they had slaughtered. They could not dismember it, while I was a skilled butcher; so I asked them if they would give me a share if I divided it between them, and when they agreed I took a couple of knives and cut it up on the spot. I took my share and carried it to my companions and we cooked and ate it. Abū Bakr and 'Umar asked me where I had got the meat, and when I told them they said that I had done wrong in giving it to them to eat, and they got up and forced themselves to expurgitate what they had swallowed. When the army returned from that expedition I was the first to come to the apostle as he was at prayer in his house. When I saluted him he asked if I were 'Auf b. Malik the butcher of that camel, and he would say nothing more.

The Life of Muhammad

The raid of Ibn Abū Ḥadrād on the valley of Idām and the killing of 'Amir b. al-Aḍbāţ al-Asḥa'ī

Yazid b. 'Abdullah b. Qusayt from al-Qūqa' b. 'Abdullah b. Abū Ḥadrād from his father said: The apostle sent us to Idām with a number of Muslims among whom were Abū Qaṭāda al-Ḥārith b. Rib'iy; and Muḥallīm b. Ḥathāma b. Qays. We set forth until when we were in the valley of Idām (T. this was before the conquest of Mecca) 'Amir b. al-Aḍbāţ al-Asḥa'ī passed by us on a camel of his with a meagre supply of provisions and a skin of laban. As he passed us he saluted us as a Muslim and we held off from him. But Muḥallīm b. Ḥathāma attacked and killed him on account of a quarrel they had had, and took his camel and provisions. When we came to the apostle and told him the news there came down concerning us: 'O you who believe, when you go forth in the way of God act circumspectly and do not say to one who salutes you, "You are no believer," coveting the gain of this world,' &c. (909).'

Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr told me that he heard Ziyād b. Dummār b. Sa'd al-Sulami relating from 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr from his father from his grandfather who were both present at Ḥunayn with the apostle: 'The apostle prayed the noon prayer with us, then he sought the shelter of a tree and sat beneath it in Ḥunayn, Al-Aqra' b. Ḥābīs and 'Uyayna b. Ḥišr b. Hudhayfah b. Badr went up to him quarrelling about 'Amīr b. al-Qabāt al-Ashjā'ī, 'Uyayna, who was at that time chief of Ghatafān, demanding vengeance for the blood of 'Amīr and al-Aqra' protecting Muḥallīm b. Jaththāma because of his position among Khindīf. The quarrel went on a long time in the apostle's presence and as we listened we heard 'Uyayna say, 'O apostle, I won't let him off until I make my women taste the burning grief he made my women taste'; while the apostle said, 'No, but you will accept fifty camels as blood-money on this journey and fifty on our return.' He went on refusing the offer when up got a man of B. Layth called Mukaythur, a short compact fellow (910), and said, 'O apostle, the only thing to which I can compare this man who has been slain in the beginning of Islam is sheep who come with their leaders shot and the ones behind run away. Let the law of blood stand today and accept bloodwit later.' The apostle lifted up his hand and said, 'No, you must take fifty camels as blood-money on this expedition and fifty more when we return,' and they accepted them. Then they said, 'Where is this fellow of yours that the apostle may ask God's pardon for him?' Thereupon a tall thin man wearing a garment which he had taken off got up and sat in front of the apostle. He admitted that he was Muḥallīm b. Jaththāma and the apostle said three times, 'O God, pardon not Muḥallīm b. Jaththāma.' He got up wiping away his tears with the end of his garment. As for us, we still hoped that the apostle asked for the divine forgiveness for him, but what we saw him do was what has just been said.

One whom I have no reason to suspect told me from al-Ḥasan al-Baṣrī that the apostle said when he sat before him, 'You gave him security in God and then you killed him!' Then he said the words which have been quoted, and by God Muḥallīm died within a week, and the earth I swear rejected him. They buried him again, but the earth rejected him, and yet a third time the same thing happened. Worn out, his people made for two heights (forming a narrow gap) and laid him out between them and then rolled rocks on him until they had covered him. When the apostle heard about this he said, 'The earth has covered worse than he, but God wants to give you a warning of what you must not do by what He has shown you.'

Ṣalīm Abī'l-Naḍr told us that he was informed that 'Uyayna b. Ḥišr and Qays were addressed privately by al-Aqra' thus: 'You men of Qays, you have opposed the apostle about a man slain when he wanted to make peace between people. Are you sure that the apostle will not curse you so that God will also be angry with you? I swear that unless you submit him to the apostle and let him do with him as he pleases I will bring fifty men of the B. Tamīm who will all call God to witness that your friend who was slain was an unbeliever who never prayed at all and thus cause his blood to be disregarded.' When they heard that they agreed to take the bloodwit (911).

THE RAID OF IBN ABŪ ḤADRĀD AL-AL-SALAMI ON AL-GHABA TO KILL RIFA'A B. QAYS AL-JUSHAMI

One whom I have no reason to suspect told me from Ibn Ḥadrād as follows: I had married a woman of my tribe and promised her two hundred dirhams as a dowry. I came to the apostle and asked him to help me in the matter and when I told him the amount that I had promised he said, 'Good gracious, if you could get dirhams from the bottom of a valley you could not have offered more! I haven't the money to help you.' I waited for some days when a man of B. Jusham b. Mu'āwiyah called Rifa'a b. Qays or Qays b. Rifa'a came with a numerous clan of B. Jusham and encamped with them in al-Ghaba intending to gather Qays to fight the apostle, he being a man of high reputation among Jusham. The apostle summoned me and two other Muslims and told us to go to this man (Ṭ. and bring him to him or) bring news of him, and sent us an old thin she-camel. One of us mounted her, but she was so weak that she could not get up until men pushed her up from behind, and even then she hardly managed to do so. Then he said, 'Make the best of her and ride her in turn.'

We set forth taking our arrows and swords until we arrived near the settlement in the evening as the sun was setting. I hid at one end and ordered my companions to hide at the other end of the camp and told them that when they heard me cry 'Allah akbar' as I ran to the camp they were to do the same and run with me. There we were waiting to take the enemy by surprise or to get something from them until much of the night had passed. Now they had a shepherd who had gone out with the animals and was so late in returning that they became alarmed on his behalf. Their chief this Rifa'a b. Qays got up and took his sword and hung it round his neck, saying that he would go on the track of the shepherd, for some harm must have befallen him; whereupon some of his company begged him not to go alone for they would protect him, but he insisted on going alone. As he went he passed by me, and when he came in range I shot him in the heart with an arrow, and he died without uttering a word. I leapt upon him and cut off his head and ran in the direction of the camp shouting 'Allah akbar' and my two companions did likewise, and by God, shouting 1 i.e. not to be wiped out by the blood of his slayer or tribesmen or to be paid for.
out to one another they all fled at once with their wives and children and such of their property as they could lay hands on easily. We drove off a large number of camels and sheep and brought them to the apostle and I took Rifi'a's head to the apostle, who gave me thirteen of the camels to help me with the woman's dowry, and I consummated my marriage.

'ABD U'R-RAHMÄN B. 'AUF'S RAID ON DÜMATU'L-JANDAL

One whom I have no reason to suspect told me from 'Atîb b. Abû Ribāh that he said that he heard a man of Başra ask 'Abdullâh b. 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭâb about wearing the turban flying loosely behind one. He said that he would give them information on the point. 'I was', he said, 'the tenth of the apostle's companions in his mosque, namely Abû Bakr, 'Umar, 'Uthmân, 'All, 'Abd U'l-Rahmân b. 'Auf, Ibn Mas'ūd, Mu'âdh b. Jabal, Hudhayfâ b. al-Yamân, Abû Sa'id al-Khadrî, and myself. Suddenly one of the Anṣâr came and saluted the apostle and sat down and asked the apostle who was the most excellent of the believers. "The best in character," he replied. "And who is the wisest?" "The one who most often remembers death and makes the best preparation for it before it comes to him. Such men are the wise." The man remained silent, and the apostle said to us, "O Muhâjjirs, there are five things which may befall you and I pray God that you may escape them: moral decay never openly shows itself among a people but they suffer from pestilence and disease such as their fathers have never known; they do not use light weights and measures but they are smitten by famine and the injustice of rulers; they do not hold back the poor-tax from their herds but rain is withheld, for but for the beasts there would be no rain sent; they do not break the covenant with God and His apostle but an enemy is given power over them and takes much of their possessions; and their imams do not give judgement about God's book and behave arrogantly in regard to what God has sent down but God brings upon them the calamity they have engendered."

Then he ordered 'Abd U'l-Rahmân b. 'Auf to make his preparations for the expedition. In the morning he wore a black turban of cotton. The apostle told him to approach and unwound it and then rewound it leaving four fingers or so loose behind him, saying, "Turban yourself thus, Ibn 'Auf, for thus it is better and neater." Then he ordered Bilâl to give him the standard and he did so. Then he gave praise to God and prayed for himself. He then said, "Take it, Ibn 'Auf; fight everyone in the way of God and kill those who disbelieve in God. Do not be deceitful with the spoil; do not be treacherous, nor mutilate, nor kill children. This is God's ordinance and the practice of his prophet among you." Thereupon 'Abd U'l-Rahmân took the standard" (912).

1 W. natahayyârî 'become perplexed'.
2 a'raj. perhaps means 'more in keeping with accepted practice'.
3 sûra.
I put some rocks at the entrance as a screen and told my companion to keep quiet until the pursuit should die down, for they would search for us that night and the following day until the evening. While we were in the cave up came 'Uthmān b. Mālik b. 'Ubaydullah al-Taymi cutting grass for a horse of his. He kept coming nearer until he was at the very entrance of the cave. I told my friend who he was and that he would give us way to the Meccans, and I went out and stabbed him under the breast with the dagger. He shrieked so loud that the Meccans heard him and came towards him. I went back to the cave and told my friend to stay where he was. The Meccans hastened in the direction of the sound and found him at the last gasp. They asked him who had stabbed him and he told them that it was I, and died. 'They did not get to know where we were and said, 'By God, we knew 'Amr was up to no good.' They were so occupied with the dead man whom they carried off that they could not look for us, and we stayed a couple of days in the cave until the pursuit died down. Then we went to al-Tan'im, and lo, Khubayb's cross. My friend asked if we should take him down from the cross, for there he was. I told him to leave the matter to me and to get away from me for guards were posted round it. If he was afraid of anything he must go to his camel and tell the apostle what had happened. I ran up to Khubayb's cross, freed him from it, and carried him on my back. Hardly had I taken forty steps when they became aware of me and I threw him down and I cannot forget the thud when he dropped. They ran after me and I took the way to al-Šafā' and when they wearied of the pursuit they went back and my friend rode to the prophet and told him our news. I continued on foot until I looked down on the valley of Dajnān. I went into a cave there taking my bow and arrows, and while I was there came a one-eyed man of B. al-Dil driving a sheep of his. When he asked who I was I told him that I was one of B. Bakr. He said that he was also, adding of B. al-Dil clan. Then he lay down beside me and lifting up his voice began to sing:

I won't be a Muslim as long as I live,
Nor heed to their religion give.

I said (to myself), 'You will soon know!' and as soon as the badu was asleep and snoring I got up and killed him in a more horrible way than any man has been killed. I put the end of my bow in his sound eye, then I bore down on it until I forced it out at the back of his neck. Then I came out like a beast of prey and took the highroad like an eagle hastening until I came out at a village which, (said the narrator), he described; then to Rakiba and al-Naqi where suddenly there appeared two Meccans whom Quraysh had sent to spy on the apostle. I recognized them and called on them to surrender, and when they refused I shot one and killed him, and the other surrendered. I bound him and took him to the apostle.

Ibn Ishāq from Sulaymān b. Wardān from his father from 'Amr b.

1 See W. 641 supra.

Umaya: 'When I got to Medina I passed some shaykhs of the Anṣār and when they exclaimed at me some young men heard my name and ran to tell the apostle. Now I had bound my prisoner's thumb with my bow-string, and when the apostle looked at him he laughed so that one could see his back teeth. He asked my news and when I told him what had happened he blessed me') (914).

SALIM B. 'UMAYR'S EXPEDITION TO KILL ABŪ 'AFĀK

Abū 'Afāk was one of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf of the B. 'Ubayda clan. He showed his disaffection when the apostle killed al-Hārith b. Suwayd b. Šāmit and said:

Long have I lived but never have I seen
An assembly or collection of people
More faithful to their undertaking
And their allies when called upon
Then the sons of Qayla2 when they assembled,
Men who overthrew mountains and never submitted.
A rider who came to them split them in two (saying)
'Permitted', 'Forbidden'3 of all sorts of things.
Had you believed in glory or kingship
You would have followed Tubba'.

The apostle said, 'Who will deal with this rascal for me?' whereupon Salim b. Umayr, brother of B. 'Amr b. 'Auf of the 'weepers', went forth and killed him. Umāma b. Muzayriya said concerning that:

You gave the lie to God's religion and the man Ahmad!
By him who was your father, evil is the son he produced!
A hanif gave you a thrust in the night saying
'Take that Abū 'Afāk in spite of your age!' Though I knew whether it was man or jinn Who slew you in the dead of night (I would say naught).

'UMAYR B. 'ADIY'S JOURNEY TO KILL 'ASMA' D. MARWĀN

She was of B. Umayya b. Zayd. When Abū 'Afāk had been killed she displayed disaffection. 'Abdullāh b. al-Hārith b. al-Fudayl from his father said that she was married to a man of B. Khaṭṭām called Yazīd b. Zayd. Blaming Islam and its followers she said:

I despise B. Mālik and al-Nabīt
And 'Auf and B. al-Khaṭṭām.

1 I.H.'s account will be found in the section devoted to his additions.
2 Qayla was the putative ancestress of Aus and Khaṭṭām.
3 A gibe at the language of the Qurān.
4 i.e. You resisted Tubba' who, after all, was a king in fact and a man of great reputation, so why believe in Muhammad's claims?
5 Welbehalten, p. 91, proposed an emendation of the text which hardly seems necessary. This line is not in W.
You obey a stranger who is none of yours,
One not of Murād or Madhijī.¹
Do you expect good from him after the killing of your chiefs
Like a hungry man waiting for a cook's broth?
Is there no man of pride who would attack him by surprise
And cut off the hopes of those who expect aught from him?

Hassān b. Thābit answered her:

Banū Wā'il and B. Wāqīf and Khaṭma
Are inferior to B. al-Khazraj,
When she called for folly woe to her in her weeping,
For death is coming.
She stirred up a man of glorious origin,
Noble in his going out and his coming in.
Before midnight he dyed her in her blood
And incurred no guilt thereby.

When the apostle heard what she had said he said, 'Who will rid me of Marwān's daughter?' 'Umayr b. 'Adiy al-Khaṭmi who was with him heard him, and that very night he went to her house and killed her. In the morning he came to the apostle and told him what he had done and he said, 'You have helped God and His apostle, O 'Umayr!' When he asked if he would have to bear any evil consequences the apostle said, 'Two goats won't butt their heads about her,' so 'Umayr went back to his people.

Now there was a great commotion among B. Khaṭma that day about the affair of Bint Marwān. She had five sons, and when 'Umayr went to them from the apostle he said, 'I have killed Bint Marwān, O sons of Khaṭma. Withstand me if you can; don't keep me waiting.' That was the first day that Islam became powerful among B. Khaṭma; before that those who were Muslims concealed the fact. The first of them to accept Islam was Thabit. The day after Bint Marwān's daughter 'Umayr b. 'Adiy al-Khalmi who was with him heard of the theft, and that same night he went to her house and killed her. In the morning he came to the apostle and told him what he had done and he said, 'Enough, Muhammad; if you kill me you kill one whose blood must be paid for; if you want a ransom, ask what you like.'

Matters remained thus so long as God willed and then the apostle said that Thumāma was to be released. When they let him go he went as far as al-Baqi', where he purified himself and then returned and paid homage to the prophet in Islam. When evening came they brought him food as usual, but he would take only a little of it and only a small quantity of the camel's milk. The Muslims were astonished at this; but when the apostle heard of it he said, 'Why are you astonished? At a man who at the beginning of the day ate with an unbeliever's stomach and at the end of the day with a Muslim's? An unbeliever eats with seven stomachs: the believer only two.'

When Waqqās b. Mujazzīz al-Mudlijī was killed on the day of Dhū Qarad, 'Alqama b. Mujazzīz asked the apostle to send him on the track of the people so that he might take vengeance on them. 'Abdu'l-'Azīz b. Muhammad from Muhammad b. 'Amr b. 'Alqama from 'Umar b. al-Ḥakam b. Thaubān from Ābū Sa'īd al-Khudrī said: The apostle sent 'Alqama b. Mujazzīz, I being with the force, and when we were on the way he summoned a part of the force and appointed 'Abdullāh b. Ḥudhāfā al-Sahmī their leader. He was one of the apostle's companions—a factious fellow, and when they were on the way he kindled a fire and said to the men: 'Have I not claim on your obedience so that if I order you to do something you must do it?' and when they agreed he said, 'Then by virtue of my claim on your obedience I order you to leap into this fire.' Some of them began to gird up their loins so that he thought that they would leap into the fire, and then he said, 'Sit down, I was only laughing at you!' When the apostle was told of this after they had returned he said, 'If anyone orders you to do something which you ought not to do, do not obey him.'

Muhammad b. Ṭalḥa said that 'Alqama and his companions returned without fighting.

THE CAPTURE OF THUMĀMA B. ATHĀL AL-ḤANAFĪ

I heard on the authority of Abū Sa'īd al-Maṣbūri from Abū Hurayra that the latter said: The apostle's cavalry went out and captured a man of B. Ḥanāfī not knowing who he was until they brought him to the apostle who told them that he was Thumāma b. Athāl al-Ḥanāfī and that they must treat him honourably in his captivity. The apostle went back to his house and told them to send what food they had to him, and ordered that his milch-camel should be taken to him night and morning; but this failed to satisfy Thumāma. The apostle went to him and urged him to accept Islam. He said, 'Enough, Muhammad; if you kill me you kill one whose blood must be paid for; if you want a ransom, ask what you like.'

Matters remained thus so long as God willed and then the apostle said that Thumāma was to be released. When they let him go he went as far as al-Baqi', where he purified himself and then returned and paid homage to the prophet in Islam. When evening came they brought him food as usual, but he would take only a little of it and only a small quantity of the camel's milk. The Muslims were astonished at this; but when the apostle heard of it he said, 'Why are you astonished? At a man who at the beginning of the day ate with an unbeliever's stomach and at the end of the day with a Muslim's? An unbeliever eats with seven stomachs: the believer only two.'

When Waqqās b. Mujazzīz al-Mudlijī was killed on the day of Dhū Qarad, 'Alqama b. Mujazzīz asked the apostle to send him on the track of the people so that he might take vengeance on them. 'Abdu'l-'Azīz b. Muhammad from Muhammad b. 'Amr b. 'Alqama from 'Umar b. al-Ḥakam b. Thaubān from Ābū Sa'īd al-Khudrī said: The apostle sent 'Alqama b. Mujazzīz, I being with the force, and when we were on the way he summoned a part of the force and appointed 'Abdullāh b. Ḥudhāfā al-Sahmī their leader. He was one of the apostle's companions—a factious fellow, and when they were on the way he kindled a fire and said to the men: 'Have I not claim on your obedience so that if I order you to do something you must do it?' and when they agreed he said, 'Then by virtue of my claim on your obedience I order you to leap into this fire.' Some of them began to gird up their loins so that he thought that they would leap into the fire, and then he said, 'Sit down, I was only laughing at you!' When the apostle was told of this after they had returned he said, 'If anyone orders you to do something which you ought not to do, do not obey him.'

Muhammad b. Ṭalḥa said that 'Alqama and his companions returned without fighting.

KURZ B. JĀBIR'S EXPEDITION TO KILL THE BAJILĪS WHO HAD KILLED YASĀR

A traditionist told me from one who had told him from Muhammad b. Ṭalḥa from 'Uthmān b. 'Abdu'l-Raḥmān that in the raid of Ṭūhrib and B. Tha'lāba the apostle had captured a slave called Yāsār, and he put him in charge of his milch-camels to shepherd them in the neighbourhood of al-Jamāh. Some men of Qays of Kubba of Bajil came to the apostle suffering from an epidemic and enlarged spleens, and the apostle told them that if they went to the milch-camels and drank their milk and urine they... would recover, so off they went. When they recovered their health and their bellies contracted to their normal size they fell upon the apostle’s shepherd Yasir and killed him and stuck thorns in his eyes and drove away his camels. The apostle sent Kurz b. Jäbir in pursuit and he overtook them and brought them to the apostle as he returned from the raid of Dhul Qarnad. He cut off their hands and feet and gouged out their eyes.

'ALI’S RAID ON THE YAMAN

‘Ali raided the Yaman twice (916).

USAMA B. ZAYD’S MISSION TO PALESTINE

The apostle sent Usama to Syria and commanded him to take the cavalry into the borders of the Balqut and al-Darum in the land of Palestine. So the men got ready and all the first emigrants went with Usama (917).

THE BEGINNING OF THE APOSTLE’S ILLNESS

While matters were thus the apostle began to suffer from the illness by which God took him to what honour and compassion He intended which God took him to what honour and compassion He intended.

‘Abdullah b. ‘Umar from ‘Ubayd b. Jubayr, a freedman of al-Hakam b. Abü-l-'Ash, from ‘Abdullah b. ‘Amr b. al-'Ash from Abü Muwayhiba, a freedman of the apostle, said: In the middle of the night the apostle sent for me and told me that he was ordered to pray for the dead in this cemetery and that I was to go with him. I went; and when he stood among them he said, ‘Peace upon you, O people of the graves! Happy are you that you are so much better off than men here. Dissensions have come like waves of darkness one after the other, the last being worse than the first.’ Then he turned to me and said, ‘I have been given the choice between the keys of the treasury of this world and long life here followed by Paradise, and meeting my Lord and Paradise (at once).’ I urged him to choose the former, but he said that he had chosen the latter. Then he prayed for the dead there and went away. Then it was that the illness through which God took him began.

Ya'qub b. ‘Utba from Muhammad b. Muslim al-Zuhri from ‘Ubaydullah b. ‘Abdullah b. ‘Utba b. Mas'ud from ‘A’isha, the prophet’s wife, said: The apostle returned from the cemetery suffering from a severe headache and I was saying, ‘O my head!’ He said, ‘Nay, ‘A’isha, O my head!’ Then he said, ‘Would it distress you if you were to die before me so that I might wrap you in your shroud and pray over you and bury you?’ I said, ‘Methinks I see you if you had done that returning to my house and spending a bridal night therein with one of your wives.’ The apostle smiled and then his pain overcame him as he was going the round of his wives, until he was overpowered in the house of Maymuna. He called his wives and asked their permission to be nursed in my house, and they agreed (918).

THE APOSTLE’S ILLNESS IN THE HOUSE OF ‘A’ISHA.

The apostle went out walking between two men of his family, one of whom was al-Fadl b. al-'Abbâs. His head was bound in a cloth and his feet were dragging as he came to my house. ‘Ubaydullah told this tradition to ‘Abdullah b. al-'Abbâs who told him that the other man was ‘Ali (T. but that ‘A’isha could not bring herself to speak well of him though she was able to do so).

Then the apostle’s illness worsened and he suffered much pain. He said, ‘Pour seven skins of water from different wells over me so that I may go out to the men and instruct them.’ We made him sit down in a tub belonging to Hafsa d. ‘Umar and we poured water over him until he cried, ‘Enough, enough!’

Al-Zuhri said that Ayyûb b. Bashir told him that the apostle went out with his head bound up and sat in the pulpit. The first thing he uttered was a prayer over the men of Uhud asking God’s forgiveness for them and praying for them a long time; then he said, ‘God has given one of his servants the choice between this world and that which is with God and he has chosen the latter.’ Abû Bakr perceived that he meant himself and he wept, saying, ‘Nay, we and our children will be your ransom.’ He replied, ‘Gently, Abû Bakr,’ adding, ‘See to these doors that open on to the mosque and shut them except one from Abû Bakr’s house, for I know no one who is a better friend to me than he’ (919).

‘Abdul-Rahmân b. ‘Abdullah told me from one of the family of Sa'd b. al-Mu'allâ that the apostle said in his speech that day, ‘If I were able to choose a friend on earth I would choose Abû Bakr, but comradeahd and brotherhood in the faith remain until God unites us in His presence.’

Muhammad b. Jâfar b. al-Zubayr told me from ‘Urwa b. al-Zubayr and other learned men that the apostle found the people tardy in joining the expedition of Usama b. Zayd while he was suffering, so he went out with his head bound up until he sat in the pulpit. Now people had criticized the leadership of Usama, saying, ‘He has put a young man in command of the best of the emigrants and the helpers.’ After praising God as is His due he said, ‘O men, dispatch Usama’s force, for though you criticize his leadership as you criticized the leadership of his father before him, he is just as worthy of the command as his father was.’ Then he came down and the people hurried on with their preparations. The apostle’s pain became severe and Usāma and his army went out as far as al-Jurf, about a stage from Medina, and encamped there and men gathered to him. When the apostle became seriously ill Usāma and his men stayed there to see what God would decide about the apostle.

Zuhri said that ‘Abdullah b. Ka‘b b. Mālik told him that the apostle said on the day that he asked God’s forgiveness for the men of Uḥud, ‘O Muhājirs, behave kindly to the Anṣār, for other men increase but they in the nature of things cannot grow more numerous. They were my constant comfort and support. So treat their good men well and forgive those of them who are remiss.’ Then he came down and entered his house and his pain increased until he was exhausted. Then some of his wives gathered to him, Umm Salama and Maymūna and some of the wives of the Muslims, among them Asmā‘. ‘Umayr while his uncle ‘Abbās was with him, and they agreed to force him to take medicine. ‘Abbās said, ‘Let me force him,’ but they did it. When he recovered he asked who had treated him thus. When they told him it was his uncle he said, ‘This is a medicine which women have brought from that country,’ and he pointed in the direction of Abyssinia. When he asked why they had done that his uncle said, ‘We were afraid that you would get pleurisy;' he replied, ‘That is a disease which God would not afflict me with. Let no one stop in the house until they have been forced to take this medicine, except my uncle.’

Maymūna was forced to take it although she was fasting because of the apostle’s oath, as a punishment for what they had done to him.

Al-Zuhri said that Anas b. Mālik told him that on the Monday (T. the day) on which God took His apostle he went out to the people as they were praying the morning prayer. The curtain was lifted and the door opened and out came the apostle and stood at ‘A‘isha’s door. The Muslims were almost subdued from their prayers for joy at seeing him, and he motioned to them (T. with his hand) that they should continue their prayers. The apostle smiled and motioned to ‘Umar to get up and lead the prayers, so he did so, and when he shouted Allah Akbar the apostle heard his voice, for he had a powerful voice, and he asked where Abū Bakr was, saying twice over, ‘God and the Muslims forbid that.’ So I was sent to Abū Bakr and he came after ‘Umar had finished that prayer and presided. ‘Umar asked me what on earth I had done, saying, ‘When you told me to take the prayers I thought that the apostle had given you orders to that effect; but for that I would not have done so.’ I replied that he had not ordered me to do so, but when I could not see Abū Bakr I thought that he was most worthy of those present to preside at prayers.

Al-Zuhri said that Anas b. Mālik told him that on the Monday (T. the day) on which God took His apostle he went out to the people as they were praying the morning prayer. The curtain was lifted and the door opened and out came the apostle and stood at ‘A‘isha’s door. The Muslims were almost subdued from their prayers for joy at seeing him, and he motioned to them (T. with his hand) that they should continue their prayers. The apostle smiled and motioned to ‘Umar to get up and lead the prayers, so he did so, and when he shouted Allah Akbar the apostle heard his voice, for he had a powerful voice, and he asked where Abū Bakr was, saying twice over, ‘God and the Muslims forbid that.’ So I was sent to Abū Bakr and he came after ‘Umar had finished that prayer and presided. ‘Umar asked me what on earth I had done, saying, ‘When you told me to take the prayers I thought that the apostle had given you orders to that effect; but for that I would not have done so.’ I replied that he had not ordered me to do so, but when I could not see Abū Bakr I thought that he was most worthy of those present to preside at prayers.

Cf. Sūrā 4. 71.

"You are like Joseph’s companions; tell him to preside at prayers." My only reason for saying what I did was that I wanted Abū Bakr to be spared this task, because I knew that people would never like a man who occupied the apostle’s place, and would blame him for every misfortune that occurred, and I wanted Abū Bakr to be spared this.'

Ibn Shihāb said, ‘Abdullah b. Abū Bakr b. ‘Abdu‘l-Raḥmān b. al-Ḥārith b. Hisāhm told me from his father from ‘Abdullah b. Zamā‘a b. al-Aswad b. al-Muṭjālib b. Asad that when the apostle was seriously ill and I with a number of Muslims was with him Bilāl called him to prayer, and he told us to order someone to preside at prayers. So I went out and there was ‘Umar with the people, but Abū Bakr was not there. I told ‘Umar to get up and lead the prayers, so he did so, and when he shouted Allah Akbar the apostle heard his voice, for he had a powerful voice, and he asked where Abū Bakr was, saying twice over, ‘God and the Muslims forbid that.’ So I was sent to Abū Bakr and he came after ‘Umar had finished that prayer and presided. ‘Umar asked me what on earth I had done, saying, ‘When you told me to take the prayers I thought that the apostle had given you orders to that effect; but for that I would not have done so.’ I replied that he had not ordered me to do so, but when I could not see Abū Bakr I thought that he was most worthy of those present to preside at prayers.

Al-Zuhri said that Anas b. Mālik told him that on the Monday (T. the day) on which God took His apostle he went out to the people as they were praying the morning prayer. The curtain was lifted and the door opened and out came the apostle and stood at ‘A‘isha’s door. The Muslims were almost subdued from their prayers for joy at seeing him, and he motioned to them (T. with his hand) that they should continue their prayers. The apostle smiled and motioned to ‘Umar to get up and lead the prayers, so he did so, and when he shouted Allah Akbar the apostle heard his voice, for he had a powerful voice, and he asked where Abū Bakr was, saying twice over, ‘God and the Muslims forbid that.’ So I was sent to Abū Bakr and he came after ‘Umar had finished that prayer and presided. ‘Umar asked me what on earth I had done, saying, ‘When you told me to take the prayers I thought that the apostle had given you orders to that effect; but for that I would not have done so.’ I replied that he had not ordered me to do so, but when I could not see Abū Bakr I thought that he was most worthy of those present to preside at prayers.

Al-Zuhri said that Anas b. Mālik told him that on the Monday (T. the day) on which God took His apostle he went out to the people as they were praying the morning prayer. The curtain was lifted and the door opened and out came the apostle and stood at ‘A‘isha’s door. The Muslims were almost subdued from their prayers for joy at seeing him, and he motioned to them (T. with his hand) that they should continue their prayers. The apostle smiled and motioned to ‘Umar to get up and lead the prayers, so he did so, and when he shouted Allah Akbar the apostle heard his voice, for he had a powerful voice, and he asked where Abū Bakr was, saying twice over, ‘God and the Muslims forbid that.’ So I was sent to Abū Bakr and he came after ‘Umar had finished that prayer and presided. ‘Umar asked me what on earth I had done, saying, ‘When you told me to take the prayers I thought that the apostle had given you orders to that effect; but for that I would not have done so.’ I replied that he had not ordered me to do so, but when I could not see Abū Bakr I thought that he was most worthy of those present to preside at prayers.

Abū Bakr b. ‘Abdullah b. Abū Mulayka told me that when the Monday came the apostle went out to morning prayer with his head wrapped up while Abū Bakr was leading the prayers. When the apostle went out the people’s attention wavered, and Abū Bakr knew that the people would not behave thus unless the apostle had come, so he withdrew from his place; but the apostle pushed him in the back, saying, 'Lead the men in prayer,' and the apostle sat at his side praying in a sitting posture on the right of Abū Bakr. When he had ended prayer he turned to the men and spoke to them with a loud voice which could be heard outside the mosque: 'O men, the fire is kindled, and rebellions come like the darkness of the night. By God, you can lay nothing to my charge. I allow only what the Quran allows and forbid only what the Quran forbids.'

Abū Bakr appointed ‘Umar to succeed him; the prophet made no appointment.

When he had ended these words Abū Bakr said to him: 'O prophet of God, I see that this morning you enjoy the favour and goodness of God as we desire; today is the day of Bint Khārīja. May I go to her?' The apostle agreed and went indoors and Abū Bakr went to his wife in al-Sunḥ. Al-Zuhri said, and ‘Abdullah b. Ka‘b b. Malik from ‘Abdullah b. ‘Abbās told me: That day ‘Ali went out from the apostle and the men asked him how the apostle was and he replied that thanks be to God he had recovered. ‘Abbās took him by the hand and said: ‘Ali, three nights hence you will be a slave. I swear by God that I recognized death in the apostle’s face as I used to recognize it in the faces of the sons of ‘Abdu’l-Muttalib. So let us go to the apostle; if authority is to be with us, we shall know it, and if it is to be with others we will request him to join the people to treat us well.' ‘Ali answered: ‘By God, I will not. If it is withheld from us none after him will give it to us.' The apostle died with the heat of noon that day.

Ya‘qūb b. Usayd b. al-Zuhri said, ‘Urwa from ‘A‘isha: The apostle came back to me from the mosque that day and lay in my bosom. A man of Abū Bakr’s family came in to me with a toothpick in his hand and the apostle looked at it in such a way that I knew he wanted it, and when I asked him if he wanted me to give it him he said Yes; so I took it and chewed it for him to soften it and gave it to him. He rubbed his teeth with it more energetically than I had ever seen him rub before; then he laid it down. I found him heavy in my bosom and as I looked into his face, lo his eyes were fixed and he was saying, ‘Nay, the most Exalted Companion is of paradise.' I said, ‘You were given the choice and you have chosen, by Him Who sent you with the truth!’ And so the apostle was taken.

Yahyā b. ‘Abbās b. ‘AbdAllah b. al-Zubayr from his father told me that he heard ‘A‘isha say: The apostle died in my bosom during my turn: I had wronged none in regard to him. It was due to my ignorance and extreme youth that the apostle died in my arms. Then I laid his head on a pillow and got up beating my breast and slapping my face along with the other women.

Al-Zuhri said, and Sa‘id b. al-Musayyib from Abū Hurayra told me: When the apostle was dead ‘Umar got up and said: ‘Some of the disaffected will allege that the apostle is dead, but by God he is not dead: he has gone to his Lord as Moses b. ‘Imrān went and was hidden from his people for forty days, returning to them after it was said that he had died. By God, the apostle will return as Moses returned and will cut off the hands and feet of men who allege that the apostle is dead.' When Abū Bakr heard what was happening he came to the door of the mosque as ‘Umar was speaking to the people. He paid no attention but went in to ‘A‘isha’s house to the apostle, who was lying covered by a mantle of Yamani cloth. He went and uncovered his face and kissed him, saying, ‘You are dearer than my father and mother. You have tasted the death which God had decreed: a second death will never overtake you.' Then he replaced the mantle on the apostle’s face and went out. ‘Umar was still speaking and he said, ‘Gently, ‘Umar, be quiet.' But ‘Umar refused and went on talking, and when Abū Bakr saw that he would not be silent he went forward to the people when they heard his words, came to him and left ‘Umar. Giving thanks and praise to God he said: ‘O men, if anyone worships Muhammad, Muhammad is dead: if anyone worships God, God is alive, immortal.' Then he recited this verse: ‘Muhammad is nothing but an apostle. Apostles have passed away before him. Can it be that if he were to die or be killed you would turn back on your heels? He who turns back does no harm to God and God will reward the grateful.' By God, it was as though the people did not know that this verse (T. concerning the apostle) had come down until Abū Bakr recited it that day. The people took it from him and it was (constantly) in their mouths. ‘Umar said, ‘By God, when I heard Abū Bakr recite these words I was dumbfounded so that my legs would not bear me and I fell to the ground knowing that the apostle was indeed dead.'

THE MEETING IN THE HALL OF B. SĀ‘IDA

When the apostle was taken this clan of the Ansār gathered round Sa‘id b. ‘Ubāda in the hall of B. Sā‘ida, and ‘Ali and al-Zubayr b. al-Awwām and ‘Abdullāh b. Usayd b. Ḥudayr b. ‘Abdu’l-Ashīl. Then someone came to Abū Bakr and ‘Umar telling them that this clan of the Ansār had gathered round Sa‘id in the hall of B. Sā‘ida. ‘If you want to have command of the people, then take it before their action becomes serious.' Now the apostle was still in his house, the burial arrangements not having been completed, and his family had locked the door of the house. ‘Umar said, ‘I said to Abū Bakr, Let us go to these our brothers of the Ansār to see what they are doing.'

In connexion with these events ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Abbās told me from Ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri from ‘Ubaydullāh b. ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Uthmān b. Mas‘ūd from ‘Abdullāh b. ‘Abbās who said, I was waiting for ‘Abdu’l-Rahmān b. ‘Auf in his station in Minā while he was with ‘Umar in the last pilgrimage which ‘Umar performed. When he returned he found me waiting, for I was teaching him to read the Quran. ‘Abdu’l-Rahmān said to me:

1 Sūrā 3. 138.
'I wish you could have seen a man who came to the commander of the faithful and said, "O commander of the faithful, would you like a man who said, By God, if 'Umar were dead I would hail So-and-so. Fealty given to Abū Bakr was a hasty mistake and was ratified."' 'Umar was angry and said, 'God willing, I shall get up among the men tonight and warn them against those who want to usurp power over them.' I said, 'Don't do it, commander of the faithful, for the festival brings together the riff-raff and the lowest of the people; they are the ones who will be in the majority in your proximity (T. your assembly) when you stand among the people. And I am afraid lest you should get up and say something which they will repeat everywhere, not understanding what you say or interpreting it aright; so wait until you come to Medina, for it is the home of the sunna and you can confer privately with the lawyers and the nobles of the people. (T. you will come to the home of the hijra and the sunna and you can confer privately with the apostle's companions both muhājrīn and anšār.) You can say what you will and the lawyers (T. they) will understand what you say and interpret it properly.' 'Umar replied, 'By God, if He will I will do so as soon as I get to Medina.'

We came to Medina at the end of Dhūl-Ḥijja and on the Friday I returned quickly when the sun had set and found Sa'īd b. Zayd b. 'Amr b. Nufayl sitting by the support of the pulpit and I sat opposite him knee to knee. Immediately 'Umar came out and when I saw him coming I said to Sa'īd, 'He will say something tonight on this pulpit which he has never said since he was made caliph.' Sa'īd was annoyed and asked, 'What do you suppose that he is going to say that he has never said before?' 'Umar sat in the pulpit, and when the muezzins were silent he praised God as was fitting and said: 'I am about to say to you today something which God has willed that I should say and I do not know whether perhaps it is my last utterance. He who understands and heeds it let him take it with him whithersoever he goes; and as for him who fears that he will not heed it, he may not deny that I said it. God sent Muhammad and sent down the scripture to him. Part of what he sent down was the passage on stoning; we read it, we were taught it, and we heeded it. The apostle stoned (adlātikīr) and we stoned them after him. I fear that in time to come men will say that they find no mention of stoning in God's book and thereby go astray by neglecting an ordinance which God has sent down. Verily stoning in the book of God is a penalty laid on married men and women who commit adultery, if proof stands or pregnancy is clear or confession is made. Then we read in what we read from God's book: "Do not desire to have ancestors other than your own for it is infidelity so to do."'²

1 The difference between the two reports of what I. I. said is interesting. Ziyākh makes the lawyers and the shaikhs the ultimate authority while T. has nothing to say about them and regards the prophet's companions as the real authorities. If the tradition is genuine T.'s version must be authentic because there can hardly have been lawyers in 'Umar's day. However, it is possible that at that time fiqh did not bear its later meaning.

2 This citation, which on the face of it has nothing to do with adultery, shows that the

Did not the apostle say, 'Do not praise me extravagantly as Jesus son of Mary was praised and say The servant and the apostle of God'? I have heard that someone said, 'If 'Umar were dead I would hail So-and-so.' Don't let a man deceive himself by saying that the acceptance of Abū Bakr was an unpremeditated affair which was ratified. Admittedly it was that, but God averted the evil of it. There is none among you to whom people would devote themselves as they did to Abū Bakr. He who accepts a man as ruler without consulting the Muslims, such acceptance has no validity for either of them: they are in danger of being killed. What happened was that when God took away His apostle the Anṣār opposed us and gathered with their chiefs in the hall of B. Sā'īdā; and 'Ali and al-Zubayr and their companions withdrew from us; while the Muhājrīn gathered to Abū Bakr.

I told Abū Bakr that we should go to our brothers the Anṣār, so we went off to go to them when two honest fellows met us and told us of the conclusion the people had come to. They asked us where we were going, and when we told them they said that there was no need for us to approach them and we must make our own decision. I said, 'By God, we will go to them,' and we found them in the hall of B. Sā'īdā. In the middle of them was a man wrapped up. In answer to my inquiries they said that he was Sa'īd b. 'Ubdā and that he was ill. When we sat down their speaker pronounced the shahādā and praised God as was fitting and then continued: 'We are God's Helpers and the squadron of Islam. You, O Muhājrīn, are a family of ours and a company of your people have come to settle.' ('Umar) said, 'And lo, they were trying to cut us off from our origin and wrest authority from us.' When he had finished I wanted to dya of which it is the beginning was well known in I. I.'s time. It continues: 'If an adult man or woman commit adultery stone them without exception as a punishment from God. God is mighty and wise.' See Nöldeke-Schum, Geth. d. Qurānim, i. 245, where the authorities are given. If it was part of the Qurān it is difficult to see where it stood originally. Muslim authorities suggest Sūra 33, but the rhyme forbid this; and Sūra 24, but there the punishment is scourging. Most commentators hold that the verse is one of those that was afterwards abrogated, while others say that it was accidentally lost owing to a domestic animal eating the part of the page on which the revelation was written. Cf. Zamakhshārī on Sūra 33, and others. This tradition which is carried back to 'Āthār is condemned as the invention of sectarians. There is a real problem which can hardly be satisfactorily solved: on the one hand, the Qurān teaches that adulterers must be scourged; on the other hand, this excruciating early-tradition—much older than the later canonical collections of hadīths—that they must be stoned is evidently the authority which lies behind the penalty prescribed by Muslim lawbooks to this day. See the authorities quoted op. cit., p. 251.

Since the words šaykhah and abuttah occur nowhere in the Qurān and since the first part of the verse appears in slightly different form as a saying of Muhammad in Muslim's Sālik (Jāmāt 27), the probability is that it never formed part of the Qurān. However, if the traditional form of 'Umar's speech as given by I. I. (and by T.) on another authority is authentic, it remains to be explained why 'Umar, who was a most truthful man, should have stated publicly in the strongest possible terms that the verse was to be read in the Qurān.

1 falla. I have translated this 'hasty mistake' on p. 684. The exact meaning is somewhat elusive.

2 The crucial word gilda indicating that 'Umar was the speaker is missing from W. T. 182a makes the passage perfectly clear. 'He said When I saw that they wanted to cut us off from (yakákhtūli) our origin and wrest authority from us and I had prepared,' etc. The speak, for I had prepared a speech in my mind which pleased me much. I wanted to produce it before Abū Bakr and I was trying to soften a certain asperity of his; but Abū Bakr said, 'Gently, 'Umar!' I did not like to anger him and so he spoke. He was a man with more knowledge and dignity than I, and by God he did not omit a single word which I had thought of and he uttered it in his inimitable way better than I could have done. He said: 'All the good that you have said about yourselves is deserved. But the Arabs will recognize authority only in this clan of Quraysh, they being the best of the Arabs in blood and country. I offer you one of these two men: accept which you please.' Thus saying he took hold of my hand and that of Abū Ubayda b. al-Jarrāh who was sitting between us. Nothing he said displeased me more than that. By God, I would rather have come forward and have had my head struck off—if that were no sin—than rule over a people of whom Abū Bakr was one.

One of the Anṣār said: 'I am the rubbing post and the fruitful propped-up palm. Let us have one ruler and you another, O Quraysh.' Altercation waxed hotter and voices were raised until when a complete breach was to be feared I said, 'Stretch out your hand, Abū Bakr.' He did so and I paid him homage; the Muhājirin followed and then the Anṣār. (In doing so) we jumped on Sa'd b. 'Ubadah and someone said that we had killed him. I said, 'God kill him.'

Al-Zuhri said that 'Urwa b. al-Zubayr told him that one of the two men whom they met on the way to the hall was 'Uwaym b. Sā'īda and the other was Ma'n b. Adiy, brother of B. al-'Ajlan. Concerning 'Uwaym we have heard that when the apostle was asked who were those of whom God said 'In it are men who love to purify themselves and God loves those who purify themselves;' the apostle said that the best man of them was 'Uwaym b. Sā'īda. As to Ma'n, we have heard that when men wept over the apostle's death and said that they wished that they had died before him because they feared that they would split up into factions, he said that he did not want to die before him so that he could bear witness to his truth when he was dead as he had done when he was alive. Ma'n was killed on the day of al-Yamāma as a martyr in the caliphate of Abū Bakr, the day of Musaylima the arch-liar.

Al-Zuhri told me on the authority of Anas b. Malik: On the morrow of Abū Bakr's acceptance in the hall he sat in the pulpit and 'Umar got up and spoke before him, and after praising God as was meet he said, 'O men, yesterday I said something (T. based on my own opinion and) which I do not find in God's book nor was it something which the apostle entrusted to me; but I thought that the apostle would order our affairs (T. until) he was the last of us (alive). God has left His book with you, passage is of great importance in that it shows how the Emigrants were then the dominating party and henceforth the Anṣār would have to take a subordinate place.

1. i.e. a man who can cure people's ills and is held in high esteem because of his great experience.

that by which He guided His apostle, and if you hold fast to that God will guide you as He guided him. God has placed your affairs in the hands of the best one among you, the companion of the apostle, 'the second of the two when they were in the cave', so arise and swear fealty to him. Thereupon the people swore fealty to Abū Bakr as a body after the pledge in the hall.

Abū Bakr said after praising God: 'I have been given authority over you but I am not the best of you. If I do well, help me, and if I do ill, then put me right. Truth consists in loyalty and falsehood in treachery. The weak among you shall be strong in my eyes until I secure his right if God will; and the strong among you shall be weak in my eyes until I wrest the right from him. If a people refrain from fighting in the way of God, God will smite them with disgrace. Wickedness is never widespread in a people but God brings calamity upon them all. Obey me as long as I obey God and His apostle, and if I disobey them you owe me no obedience. Arise to prayer. God have mercy on you.'

Husayn b. Abdullah told me from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbās who said: 'When 'Umar was caliph I was walking with him while he was intent on business of his. We were alone and he had a whip in his hand, and as he talked to himself he swished the side of his legs with his whip. As he turned to me he asked me if I knew what induced him to speak as he did when the apostle died. I said that only he could know that, and he went on: "It was because I used to read 'thus we have made you a middle people so that you will let me take part' or some such apodosis. We were then the party and henceforth the Anṣār would have to take a subordinate place.

4. Sūra 2. 137.
5. i.e. that you will let me take part' or some such apodosis.
Apostle's body with his hand the while he said, 'Dearer than my father and my mother, how sweet you are alive and dead!' The apostle's body did not present the appearance of an ordinary corpse.

Yahya b. 'Abbad b. 'Abdullah al-Zubayr from his father 'Abbad from Aisha: When they wanted to wash the apostle dispute arose. They did not know whether they were to strip him of his clothes as they stripped their dead or to wash him with his clothes on. As they disputed God cast a deep sleep upon them so that every man's chin was sunk on his chest. Then a voice came from the direction of the house, none knowing who it was: 'Wash the apostle with his clothes on.' So they got up and went to the apostle and washed him with his shirt on, pouring water on the shirt, and rubbing him with the shirt between him and them (T. Aisha used to say, 'Had I known at the beginning of my affair what I knew at the end of it none but his wives would have washed him').

Ja'far b. Muhammad b. 'Ali b. al-Hasayn from his father from his grandfather 'Ali b. al-Hasayn, and al-Zuhri from 'Ali b. al-Hasayn, said that when the apostle had been washed he was wrapped in three garments, two of Sulur make and a striped mantle wrapped the one over the other.

Hasayn b. 'Abdullah told me from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbás: Now Abū 'Ubayda b. al-Jarrah used to open the ground as the Meccans dig, and Abū Ṭalha Zayd b. Sahl used to dig graves for the Medinans and to make a niche in them and when they wanted to bury the apostle al-'Abbás called two men and told one to go to Abū 'Ubayda and the other to Abū Ṭalha saying, 'O God, choose for (Ṭ. thy) the apostle.' The one sent to Abū Ṭalha found his man and brought him and he dug the grave with the niche for the apostle.

When the preparations for burial had been completed on the Tuesday he was laid upon his bed in his house. The Muslims had disputed over the place of burial. Some were in favour of burying him in his mosque, while others wanted to bury him with his companions. Abū Bakr said, 'I heard the apostle say, 'No prophet dies but he is buried where he died'; so the bed on which he died was taken up and they made a grave beneath it. Then the people came to visit the apostle praying over him by companies: first came the men, then the women, then the children (Ṭ. then the slaves). No man acted as imám in the prayers over the apostle. The apostle was buried in the middle of the night of the Wednesday.

'Abdullah b. Abū Bakr told me from his wife Fāṭima d. (Ṭ. Muhammad b.) 'Umar from 'Amra d. 'Abdu'l-Rahmān b. Sa'd b. Zurara that Aisha said: We knew nothing about the burial of the apostle until we heard the sound of the pickaxes in the middle of the Wednesday night. Ibn Ishaq said: Fāṭima told me this tradition.

Those who descended into the grave were 'Ali and al-Faṣl and Qutham

---

1 There are two towns of this name, one in the Yaman and the other in al-Yamama in B. Tamim territory.

2 All Muslim graves contain this niche or recess.

---

The Life of Muhammad

Tell the poor that plenty has left them
With the prophet who departed from them this morning.
Who was it who has a saddle and a camel for me,
My family's sustenance when rain fails?
Or with whom can we argue without anxiety
When the tongue runs away with a man?
The Life of Muhammad

He was the light and the brilliance we followed. He was sight and hearing second only to God. The day they laid him in the grave And cast the earth upon him Would that God had not left one of us And neither man nor woman had survived him! The Banûl-Najîr were utterly abased, But it was a thing decreed by God. The booty was divided to the exclusion of all the people And they scattered it openly and uselessly among themselves."

1026 Ḥassān also said:

I swear that no man is more careful than I In swearing an oath true and without falsehood. By God, no woman has conceived and given birth To one like the apostle the prophet and guide of his people; Nor has God created among his creatures One more faithful to his sojourner or his promise Than he who was the source of our light, Blessed in his deeds, just, and upright. Your wives stripped the tents in mourning And did not strike the pegs behind the curtains. Like nuns they put on garments of hair Certain of misery after happiness. O best of men, I was as it were in a river Without which I have become lonely in my thirst (921).

1 Apparently 'the people' are the Ānār and 'they' are the Quraysh. The connexion of this line with the preceding is obscure. This and the following poem come via I.I.

IBN HISHĀM'S NOTES

10. What I have just written about the prophet's genealogy back to Adam and about Idris and others I was told by Ziyâd b. 'Abdullah al-Bakkā'i on the authority of Muhammad b. Ishāq.

11. Some say Midâq. Jurhum was the son of Qabtân from whom all the people of the Yaman are descended, the son of 'Abîr b. Shâlikh b. Arfakhshadh b. Sâm b. Nûh.

12. The Arabs say Hājar and Ajar, changing the ā into a as in the verb harrâqa and arâqa 'to pour out'. Hājar was an Egyptian. 'Abdullah b. Wahb from 'Abdullah b. Lahî'a on the authority of 'Umar client of Ghufra told me that the apostle said: 'Show piety in dealing with the protected peoples, those of the settled lands, the black, the crinkly haired, for they have a noble ancestor and marriage ties (with us)'. The said 'Umar explained that by ancestry the prophet referred to the fact that the prophet Ismāʾil's mother came from them, and the marriage tie was contracted when the apostle took one of them as concubine.

Ibn Lahî'a said: Ismāʾil's mother Hûgâr, the mother of the Arabs,1 came from a town in Egypt facing Fâramâb; and 'Ibrâhîm's mother Mârâa, the prophet's concubine whom the Muqauqis gave him, came from Hafân2 in the province of Anṣînâ.

13. All the Arabs are descended from Ismāʾil and Qâbṭân. Some of the people of the Yaman claim that Qâbṭân was a son of Ismāʾil and so according to them Ismāʾil is the father of all the Arabs.

1 The text (both W. and C.) has 'came from Umm al-‘Arâb', but I have followed the reading of W.'s MS. D. Yâq. i. 356, who agrees with W. and C., adds: 'Others say Umm al-‘Arâb'; and it is said that she came from a town called Yâq near Umm Dunayh.'

2 Said to be the ancient Pelusium.

3 In the Sa'īd on the east bank of the Nile.
'Akk dwelt in the Yaman because he took a wife among the Ash'arites and lived with them and adopted their language. The Ash'arites are descended from Ash'ar b. Nabi b. Udad b. Zayd b. Humaysa b. 'Amr b. 'Abd b. Yashjub b. Zayd b. Ka'b b. Sab'a b. Yashjub b. Ya'ruba b. Qahtân. Others say Ash'ar is Naft b. Udad; or that Ash'ar was the son of Mālik who was Madhīb b. Udad b. Zayd b. Humaysa'; or Ash'ar is the son of Saba' b. Yashjub.

Abū Muḥirīṣ Khaṭaf al-Ajlāmar and Abū 'Ubayda quoted to me the following verse of 'Abbās b. Mīrādūs who belonged to B. Sulaymūn b. Mānsūr b. 'Ikrīma b. Khāṣafa b. Qays b. 'Aylān b. Mūdar b. Nizār b. Maʿād b. 'Adnān in which he boasted of his descent from 'Akk:

And 'Akk b. Adnān who made a mock of 1 Ghassān
Until they were driven out completely.

Ghassān is the name of the water got from the dam at Mārib2 in the Yaman which was drunk by the descendants of Māzin b. al-Asd b. al-Ghawth and they were named after it. Others say that Ghassān is the name of water at al-Mushallāl near al-Juḥafa,3 and those who drink of it and take their name from it are the tribes descended from Māzin b. al-Asd b. al-Ghawth b. Nābī b. Mālik b. Zayd b. Ka'b b. Saba' b. Yashjub b. Ya'ruba b. Qahtân. Among the verses of Ḥassān b. Thābit al-Anṣārī—the Anṣār being the tribes of Aus and Khazraj, the two sons and grandchildren of Hāritha b. Thalāba b. 'Amr b. 'Āmir b. Hāritha b. Imru'ul-Qays b. Thalāba b. Māzin b. al-Asd b. al-Ghawth—is this:

If you ask about us we are a noble people.
Al-Asd is our forefather and Ghassān our water.

The Yamanites and some of the 'Akk who live in Khurāsān report their descent from 'Akk b. Adnān b. 'Abdallāh b. al-Asd b. al-Ghawth. Others say 'Udthān in the place of Adnān.

15. The Yamanites say Qudā'a was the son of Mālik b. Ḥijyar. 'Amr b. Murra al-Juḥānī—Juḥayna b. Zayd b. Layth b. Sūd b. Aslam b. al-Hāf b. Qudā'a—said:

Sons of the noble renowned shaykh we are,
Qudā'a son of Mālik son of Ḥijyar.
Our descent is famous and undisputed,
It is engraved on stone beneath the pulpit.*

16. The name is also written Qanaṣ.

1 A reading taqqallūbā got the name of yields a better sense.
2 Or Ma'rib here and hereunder.
3 Mushallāl is a mountain near Medina. Al-Juḥafa lies on the Medina–Mecca road.
4 The second hemistich is missing in W.'s edition and the first is taken as a chapter-heading. Yāqūt describes Juḥafa as the ruin of an old city that once was of considerable size possessing a pulpit.

How 'Āmr b. 'Āmir Left the Yaman and the Story of the Dam of Mārib

The cause of 'Āmr's migration from the Yaman as it was told me by Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī is as follows: 'Āmr saw a rat burrowing in the dam at Mārib where they used to hold back the water and then direct it where it was most needed. He perceived that the dam could not last and he determined to leave the Yaman. He proposed to deceive his people in this wise. He ordered his youngest son to get up and hit him in retaliation for his rough treatment; and when he did so 'Āmr said publicly that he would not go on living in a land where the youngest son could slap his father's face. He offered his goods for sale and the principal men of the Yaman took advantage, as they thought, of his rage, and bought his property, and he went off with his sons and grandchildren. The Azdites said that they would not remain if 'Āmr left the country so they sold their property and went with him. They travelled until they came to the land of the Azd tribe which they penetrated, desiring to find settlements. 'Ākk took up arms against them, but the fighting was indecisive. It was of this that 'Abbās b. Mīrādūs composed the verse on p. 6. After this they moved on and went their several ways in the lands. The family of Jafna b. 'Amr b. 'Āmir settled in Syria; Aus and Khazraj in Yathrib; Khuzā'īn in Mārib;4 'Āzd al-Sa'arat in Al-Sa'arat and 'Āzd 'Umanī in 'Umanā.

Then God sent a torrent against the dam and destroyed it. Concerning this event God revealed to his prophet Muhammad: 'Saba'ā in their dwelling-place had a sign: two gardens one to the right and another to the left; (they were commanded) Eat from what your Lord has furnished and be grateful to Him. It is a goodly land and a forgiving Lord. But they turned away and We sent against them the torrent of al-'Ārim.5 This latter word means 'dams'; its singular is 'arima according to what Abū 'Ubayda told me.

Herein is a moral for him who looks for it.
The dams (that were breached) destroyed Mārib, (Ḥijyar had built them of marble for them.
When the floods rose high they stood fast,
When their water was sent out in channels
It watered the crops and the vines)
Then they became wanderers unable
To give drink to their tender babes.6

1 Marr, called Marr al-Zahārān (and Marr Zahāran), is a day's journey from Mecca.
2 Said to be a mountain overlooking 'Arafa. See further Yāqūt, Mu'jam.
3 Sūtā 34. 14.

From Saba' who dwelt in Mârib when
They built dams against its torrent.

This verse occurs in a poem of his, but it is also attributed to Al-Nâbigâgh al-Jâ'dî whose name was Qays b. 'Abdullah, one of B. Ja'dâ b. Ka'b b. Rabî'a b. 'Amir b. Sa'sa'a b. Mu'Dwiya b. Bakr b. Hawazin. But this is a long story which I am compelled to cut short for the reasons I have already given.1

169 (Before that a soothsayer Shâfî' b. Kulyab b. al-Sadafi had come to Tubba' and lived with him and when he wished to bid him farewell Tubba' asked him whether he had anything of importance to communicate, and in the customary rhymes of say he told him in reply to the question whether any king would fight with Tubba', 'No, but the king of Ghassân had a son whose kingdom would be surpassed by a man of great piety, helped by the Almighty, described in the psalms; his people would be favoured by revelation, he would dispel darkness by light, Ahmad the prophet. How blessed his people when he comes, one of the sons of Lu'ayy of B. Qusayy!' Tubba' sent for a copy of the psalms, examined them, and found the description of the prophet.

Îbn Isâq gleaned and assembled the following traditions from what Sa'd b. Jubayr told him from I. Abâs and some learned Yamanis tradi-tors: A Lâkhmid king was in Yaman in the territory of the Tubba's of Himyar called Rabî'a b. Nasr. Before him there had reigned in the Yaman Tubba' I, Zayd b. Sahîh.2 With him came Shamîr Yurîsh b. Yasir Yûn'im b. 'Amr Dhû'l-Adhâr his cousin and Shamîr Yurîsh who raiâd China and built Samarqand and disconfîted al-Hîra.3 He it was who said:

I am Shamîr Abû Karîb al-Yamâni.
I imported horses from Yaman and Syria
That I might send the slaves who rebelled against us
In 'Athm and Yam beyond China.4
We rule in their land by a just law
That no creature can transgress.)

19. amîd means 'doubt' in the Himyârî tongue. Abû 'Amr said it meant 'false'.

20. According to Khalâf al-'A'mar his name was al-Nû'mân b. al-Mundhir b. al-Mundhir.

1 As I. H. has obviously cut out much of what I. I. had written and so the following extract from Tabârî's version of I. I. is left in the air, I have included it here.

2 Here follows his genealogy which is given by I. I. when he deals with Abû Karîb.

3 A poor pun.

4 Yâm is in the Yaman. The name 'Athm is unknown and the reading is not certain.
These words occur in one of his odes. The rajaz poet says:

And they were made as blades of corn that have been devour'd.

An explanation of the idiom employed here is to be found in works on grammar.

The words Ilaf Quraysh mean 'their assembling the party to go to Syria for trade'. They had two expeditions; one in winter and one in summer. Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī told me that the Arabs use the first and fourth forms of 'alaf in the same sense and he quoted to me the words of Dhu‘l-Rumma:

Of the sand-dwellers are the tawny-backed white-bellied (gazelles)
In whose colouring the rays of the sun become clearly seen.

[This man was Sa‘īd b. Aus b. Thābit. Cf. Yāq. 4, p. 235.]
Maṭrūd b. Ka‘b al-Khuzā‘ī said:

Who are generous when the stars fail to bring rain
And who set out upon their accustomed way.

I shall mention this and other verses of his later on if God will. Ilaf is also used of a man who has a thousand camels, cattle, or sheep, or other possessions. In one of his odes al-Kumayt b. Zayd, one of B. Asd b. Khuzayma b. Mudriq b. Iyās b. Muṣṭar b. Nizār b. Ma‘add, said:

In a year of which the owner of a thousand camels says
This makes the man who longs for milk walk on foot.

Ilaf is also used when a people become a thousand in number. In one of his odes al-Kumayt b. Zayd said:

The family of Muzayyiyū‘a on the morn they met
The Banū Sa‘īd b. Dabba were a thousand strong.

Ilaf also means the joining of one thing to another so that it adheres and sticks to it. It also means to complete the thousand.

33. The expression liyyūsū‘i‘ means 'make to coincide' and muwāṣṣa‘a means 'agreement'. The Arabs say rubūtu’ka 'alā ḥāda‘i-l-amr, meaning 'I agree with you in that'. Ilaf in poetry means 'coincidence', i.e. the repetition of the same rhyming word with the same form, as in the lines of al-'Ajāj whose full name was 'Abdullah b. Ru‘ba, one of the B. Sa‘d b. Zayd Ma‘ānī b. Tamīm b. Murr b. Udd b. Tābīkha b. Iyās b. Muṣṭar b. Nizār.

In the current of the water-wheel set free (mursal)
The stream rises in the stream set free (mursal).

34. The first of the sacred months is al-Muḥarram.
35. i.e. he defeated in it.
36. 'Qif is a document, cf. Sūra 38. 15 'Bring us our written fate quickly'. [This comment is omitted in C, but it certainly belongs to the text because A.Dh. in his commentary explicitly refers to it.]
38. Abū 'Ubayda the grammarian quoted to me the verses of Dirār b. al-Khaṭṭāb al-Fihri:

Thaqīf fled to their Lāt temple
Returning frustrated utterly hopeless.
Cf. Sūra 3. 122.

39. Al-Wāqīḍī added:

If you are going to abandon them and our place of prayer, then something (we do not understand) seemeth best to Thee.

This is as far as the genuine text goes.
40. This is as far as the genuine text goes. Tāmāṣīm means 'barbarians'.
41. The words 'not the conqueror' do not come from I.I.
42. Ābābul means 'flocks'; so far as we know the Arabs do not use the noun in the singular. As to al-sijjīl Yūnūs the grammarian and Abū 'Ubayda told me that among the Arabs it means strong and hard. Ru‘ba b. al-'Ajāj said:

They were smitten as the owners of the elephant were smitten.
Stones of sijjīl fell upon them
And birds, Ābābul, sported with them.

These words occur in one of his rajaz poems. Some commentators say that sijjīl is really two Persian words which the Arabs have made into one, namely sanj and jill; sanj means stone and jill means clay, and so a pebble made of stone and clay. Āsīf means leaves (or shoots) of herbage which have not been cut; its singular is āsāfa. Abū 'Ubayda told me it is also called āsāfa and āṣa‘a. He quoted to me the lines of 'Aqama b. 'Abāda, one of B. Rabī‘a b. Mālik b. Zayd Ma‘ānī b. Tamīm:

It waters torrents whose herbage droops.
The bed of the stream is raised by the rush of water.
The Life of Muhammad

698

As Noah's son said 'I will climb
A lofty mountain to escape the waters.'
God smote him in his body as he smote
In defence of His holy Temple
The armies leading the elephant until
He turned them to dust haughty as they were.
May you be preserved as the temple was when
The leader of the foreign polytheists brought his elephant!

'A'ubayda told me that when Sayf b. Dhū Yazan entered his presence he bowed his head and the king said: 'Does this fool come in to me by a high door and then bow his head?' When Sayf was told of this he said: 'I did this only because of my anxiety, for everything presses on me!'

Khallād b. Qurra al-Sadusī quoted to me the last of these verses as coming from an ode of A'shā of B. Qays b. Tha'labā, but other authorities on poetry deny that he wrote it.

Others say Umayya b. Abū-l-Šalt.

These lines which Ibn Iṣḥāq reported are genuine except the last verse which belongs to al-Nabigha al-Ja'dī whose name was Ḥibbān b. 'Abbūlah b. Qays, one of B. Ja'da b. Ka'b b. Rabī'ā'ah b. 'Abbārī Ṣa'ṣa'ā'ah b. Mu'māwiya b. Bakr b. Hawāzīn.

53. These lines which Ibn Iṣḥāq quoted are genuine except the last verse which belongs to al-Nabigha al-Ja'dī whose name was Ḥibbān b. 'Abbūlah b. Qays, one of B. Ja'da b. Ka'b b. Rabī'ā'ah b. 'Abbārī Ṣa'ṣa'ā'ah b. Mu'māwiya b. Bakr b. Hawāzīn.

54. Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī quoted to me the verse 'The day that the barbarians, &c.' as from al-Mufaddal al-Djabī.

This is what Saṭīḥ meant when he said that Iram b. Dhū Yazan would come against them from Aden and not leave one of them in the Yaman; and it is what Shiqq meant by his words:

'A young man neither remiss nor base
Coming against them from Dhū Yazan's house.'

55. When Wahriz died, Chosroes appointed his son al-Marzūbān ruler of the Yaman. When Marzūbān died, Chosroes appointed his son al-Taynujān ruler over the Yaman, and when he died he appointed his son, afterwards deposing him and appointing Bādhān. This man continued in office until God sent Muhammad the prophet.

I was told on the authority of al-Zuhri that he said that Chosroes wrote to Bādhān the following letter:

'I have been told that a man of the Quraysh has come forth in Mecca asserting that he is a prophet. Go to him and invite him to withdraw.
If he withdraws, well and good, if not, send his head to me.'

Bādhān sent Chosroes' letter to the apostle of God, who replied, 'God has promised me that Chosroes will be killed on such-and-such a date.' Now when Bādhān got this letter he waited to see what would happen, saying that if he were a prophet, what he said would come to pass. God killed Chosroes on the day which the prophet had named. He was killed by his son Shīrawiyah.

Khālid b. Ḥiqq al-Shaybānī said:

And Chosroes, when his sons cut him in pieces
With swords as the butcher cuts up joints,
The fates were hatching an evil day for him.
It came, for every child must come to the birth.

Al-Zuhri said: When the news reached Bādhān, he sent word to the apostle of God that he and the Persians with him accepted Islam. His messengers said to the apostle of God, 'To whom do we belong?' He replied, 'You are of us and related to us, the people of the house.'

I have been told that al-Zuhri said, It was then the apostle of God said, 'Salman is of us, the people of the house.'

This is what Saṭīḥ meant when he said: 'A pure prophet to whom revelation will come from on high', and what Shiqq meant when he said: (his kingdom) would be ended by an apostle who would bring truth and justice from a people of religion and virtue. Dominion shall rest among his people until the Day of Separation.

Dhimār should be spelt Dhamār according to what Yūnus told me.

57. THE STORY OF THE KING OF AL-HADR

Khallād b. Qurra b. Khālid al-Sadusī on the authority of Jannād, or of one of the learned genealogists in al-Kūfah, told me that al-Nu'mān b. al-Mundhir was descended from Sāṭīḥūn king of al-Hadr, a great fortress built like a town on the bank of the Euphrates. It is he to whom 'Adīy b. Zayd refers in his lines:

When the master of al-Hadr built it
When the Tigris and Khabūr were brought to it?
He constructed it of marble and plastered it with gypsum,
Birds nested in its roof.
Yet the fates did not respect it.
Its lordship departed, its gate is forsaken.

1 Or, 'May God smite him', &c.
2 Nevertheless the reader will find it on p. 205 of Geyer's edition of al-'A'shā's Diwān cited above.
3 Probably an error for Baynūjan. See Nöldeke's footnote (d), Tab. 958.
4 On p. 6 bayn for min here.
5 According to Nöldeke, Gesch. d. Perser u. Araber, p. 33, al-Hadr was in ruins by 363 and so Shābūr (II) cannot have been its destroyer. The point is made by the Cairo editors of Ibn Hishām.
6 i.e. the income arising from the land they watered.
This verse occurs in one of his odes, but it is also attributed to Khalaf al-Ahmār; others say to Hammād the reciter.

Now Chosroes Sābūr Dḥūl-Aktāţi had attacked Sātīrūn, king of al-Ḥadhr, and besieged the town for two years. One day the latter's daughter, looking down from the castle, had seen Sābūr in his silk brocade with his golden crown inset with topazes, rubies, and pearls on his head, a fine figure of a man, and she sent secretly to ask if he would marry her if she opened the gate to him. He agreed to do so. Night came and Sātīrūn became drunk, for he never went to bed sober. She took the keys of the castle from beneath his head and sent them with one of her freedmen who opened the gate and Sābūr came in and killed Sātīrūn and gave al-Ḥadhr to the soldiery and destroyed it. He took away the girl and married her.

At night as she was sleeping upon her bed she began to toss about restless and could not sleep, so he called for a lamp and the bed was searched and a myrtle leaf was found in it. Sābūr asked if that was the cause of her waking, and when she said that it was, he asked how her father had brought her up. She answered that he had given her a bed of brocade, clothed her in silk, fed her on marrow, and given her wine to drink. 'If this is the way you reward your father you will soon betray me,' he said, and ordered that her hair should be tied to a horse's tail; the horse galloped away with her until she was killed. Here are some lines of Aʿshā of B. Quys b. Thaʿlabā:

Have you thought of al-Ḥadhr when its people prospered,
But does prosperity ever endure?
For two years Shahbūr kept his armies there
Smiting it with axes.
When he prayed to his Lord
He turned to him and took no vengeance.²

Here are some lines of 'Adiy b. Zayd on the subject:

Fate descended on al-Ḥadhr from above,
A grievous disaster.
A spoilt darling did not protect her father
When her watchman gave up hope because of her treachery³
When she made his evening cup of unmixed wine
(For wine destroys the mind of the drinker).
She betrayed her people for a night of love,
Thinking that the prince would marry her.

---

² He of the shoulders.
³ A poor sense. Evidently Abū Dharr was not satisfied as he adds to his gloss the phrase which refers difficulties to the divine omniscience.
⁴ This line has given much trouble to commentators. The first word can be read as rabīʿa, meaning 'watcher', and would then refer to the girl, looking down from the wall. Līkhabībod, the reading adopted above, is taken from the variant given by the Cairo editors in place of the līkhabībod of their and W's text. Maʿṣûdi, Mafāṣīṣ-Dhahab, iv. 86, has līkhabībīd. However, līkaynayt 'to her own destruction' is the reading first given by Abū Dharr and 'to her own destruction' yields a good sense.

69. I shall have more to say about this later on, God willing.

70. Allies of the sons of Abū Ṭalib especially. Sulaym was b. Manṣūr b. ‘Ikrima b. Ḥasafa b. Qays b. ‘Ayln.

71. These two verses were composed by Abū Khirāsh al-Hudhalī whose name was Khuwaylid b. Murra, and are taken from a longer poem. Guardians means those in charge of the affairs of the Ka‘ba. Cf. the lines of Ru‘ba b. al-‘Ajāj in one of his rajza poems which I shall say more about later on God willing:

Nay, by the lord of the birds who rest safely
In the victims’ enclosure and the overseer’s house.

72. Al-Kumayt b. Zayd, one of B. Asad b. Khuzayma b. Mudrika, said, in one of his odes:

Trībes swore they would not flee
Turning their backs on Manāt.

The apostle of God sent Abū Sulaym b. Ḥarb—others say ‘Aly b. Abū Ṭalib—with orders to destroy it.

73. The name is also spelt Dhū‘l-Khuluṣa. A certain Arab said:

If you, Dhū‘l-Khuluṣa, were the avenger of blood
As I, and your father had been slain,
You would not forbid the killing of enemies!

His father had been killed and he wanted to take vengeance; but first he went to Dhū‘l-Khalaṣa to get an oracle from the arrows. When the arrow forbidding him to proceed came out he spoke the verses quoted above. Some attribute them to Imru’l-Qays b. ‘Ujur al-Kindi. The apostle of God dispatched Jarir b. ‘Abdullah al-Bajali to destroy the idol.

74. I was told by a traditionist that the apostle of God sent ‘Ali b. Abū Ṭalib to destroy it, and he found there two swords called al-Rasqūb and al-Mikhīdham. When he brought them to the apostle of God he gave them back to him. They are in fact the two swords which ‘Ali had.

75. I have given an account of it in the preceding pages.

76. The second half of the verse was uttered by a man of B. Sa‘d. It is said that al-Mustauqirī b. Rabī‘a b. Ka‘b b. Sa‘d lived 330 years. He, who lived longer than any man of Mudar, said:

I am weary of life and its length.
I have lived for hundreds of years.

Ibn Hishām’s Notes

A century was followed by two more.
From countless months I have added to my years.
What remains is as what went before.
Days pass and nights follow them.

However, some people ascribe these verses to Zuhayr b. Janāb al-Kalbi.1

77. This is really a verse of al-Aswad b. Ya‘far al-Nahshali, Nahshali being the son of Dārum b. Malik b. Hanṣala b. Malik b. Zayd Manāt b. Tamīm. Abū Muḥrīz Khalaf al-Ahmār quoted the verse to me in the form:

The people of al-Khawānaq and al-Sadīr and Bāriq
And the temple Dhul-Shurufat of Sīnād.2

78. It is said that anything that she gives birth to after that belongs to their sons and not their daughters.

79. All this information according to the Bedouin is wrong, except so far as concerns the Ḥāmi; there Ibn Ishāq is right. Among the Arabs the Bahāra is the she-camel whose ear is slit and who is not ridden, whose hair is not shorn and whose milk is only drunk by the guest or given in alms, or left to their gods. The Sā’iba is a she-camel which a man vows that he will set free if he recovers from his sickness or if he gains an object which he seeks; and when he has freed a she-camel or a camel for one of their gods, then it runs free and pastures, no profit being made from it. The Wāṣila means a ewe whose mother has twins at every birth. Its owner gives the ewes to his gods and keeps the males for himself. If her mother gives birth to a male lamb with her, they say Waṣadat (she has joined) her brother, and her brother is freed with her, no profit being made from him. I was given this information by Yūnus b. Ḥabīb the grammarian and others, each contributing his part thereto.

80. The poet says:

Round the Wāṣila in Shurayf is a three-year-old camel,
And those whose backs are taboo and those who are set free.3

Tamīm b. Ubayy b. Muqbil, one of B. ‘Amr b. Sa‘a‘a, said:

Therein is the rumbling of the young onager stallion
Like the rumbling of the Diyāfī camel in the midst of the Bāhjaras.

This verse belongs to one of his odes and the plural of Bahāra is Bahā‘ir and Buhur. The plural of Wāṣila is Wasīlāt and Wawil. The plural of multitude of Sā‘iba is Sawā‘ib and Suyyūb, and the plural of multitude of Ḥāmi is Ḥāwāmī.

81. And the Khuzā‘a say we are the sons of Amr b. Rabī‘a b. Ḥāritha b. ‘Amr b. Ḥāritha b. Imru’l-Qays b. Ṭha‘labā b. Mazīn b. al-Asd b. al-Ghauth; and Khindif is their mother, according to what Abū ‘Ubayda and other learned traditionists told me. Others say Khuzā‘a are the sons of...

---

1 These verses (with unimportant variants) are in K. al-Mu‘āmmar, ed. Goldziher, Leiden, 1899, No. X and p. 7.
2 One's confidence in Ibn Hishām is not strengthened by this quotation. However, it is to be noted that he does not claim that this notorious forger's version is to be preferred.
3 These lines contain all three terms.
The Life of Muhammad

Hāritha b. 'Amr b. 'Āmir. They were called Khuzā'ī because they separated from the ancestors of 'Amr b. 'Āmir when they left the Yaman on their way to Syria. They settled in Marr al-Ẓabārān and dwelt there. 'Aun b. Ayyūb al-Ansārī, one of B. 'Amr b. Sawād b. Ghanī b. Ka'b b. Salama of al-Khazraj in Muslim times, said:

When we dropped down to the vale of Marr
Khuzā'ī separated from us with troops of horsemen.
They protected every valley of Thāmām
And they were protected by their firm lances and sharp swords.

Abū'l-Muṭṭahhar Isrnā'īl b. Rāhi al-Ansārī, one of B. Hāritha b. al-Ḥārīth b. al-Khazraj b. 'Amr b. Mālik b. al-Aus, said:

When we dropped down to the vale of Mecca, Khuzā'ī
Found the home of the tyrant agreeable.
They settled in hordes and sent their horses far afield
Over every tribe between hill and lowland.
They drove Jurhum from the vale of Mecca and Wrapped themselves in Khuzā'ī's power and glory.

These verses occur in one of his odes. God willing, I shall refer to the expulsion of Jurhum later on.

82. Others say the name should be spelt al-Haun.

83. The mother of al-Naḍr and Mālik and Milkān was Barra d. Murr. The mother of 'Abdu Manāt was Hāla d. Suwayd b. al-Ghith kīf b. Aṣz Sahnā'ī. Sahnā'ī was 'Abdullāh b. Ka'b b. 'Abdullāh b. Mālik b. Nāsir b. al-Aṣd b. al-Ghauth. They were called Shānā'ī because of the hatred between them. Shānā'ī means hatred.

Al-Naḍr is Quraysh, one born of his line is a Qurayshite, but those outside his line are not. Jāriḥ b. 'Aṭīyya, one of B. Kulaib b. Yarbu' b. Ḥanṣāla b. Mālik b. Zayd Manāt b. Tamīm, in an eulogy of Ḥishām b. 'Abdullāh-Mālik b. Marwān, said:

The mother who bore Quraysh
Is of no mean lineage nor sterile,
No sire is nobler than your ancestor,
No maternal uncle nobler than Tamīm.

He meant Barra d. Murr sister of Tamīm b. Murr, the mother of al-Naḍr.

It is said that Fīh b. Mālik is Quraysh, and the line of Quraysh is in his descendants alone. The name Quraysh is derived from taqarrush, meaning merchandise and profit. Ru'ba b. al-ʿAjījāt said:

Fat meat and pure milk
Make them despise poor wheat
And the fallings of the doom-palm. 3

Shughūsh means 'wheat'; and khaṭāl means the knobs of anklets and 1

1 Takḥazaza'ī, to separate or remain behind; in this case both meanings apply.

2 This place is an easy day's journey from Mecca in the direction of Medina.

3 The rendering given above is based on Abū Dīnār's commentary. He rightly abandons Ibn Hīshām's opinion in favour of the view of al-Waqāshī which suits the context better.

Ibn Hīshām's Notes

braceslets and the like: and gurāštī means trade and profit. The poet means that fat and milk used to make them independent of this. Māḥū means pure milk.

Abū Jīlda al-Yashkurī, Yashkur being Ibn Bakr b. Wā'il, said:

Brethren have slandered us!
In our early days and of late.

84. Al-Saṭṭ too was a son of al-Naḍr according to Abū 'Amr al-Madāni; the mother of all three was d. Sa'd b. Zārīb al-Adwānī. 'Adwān was the son of 'Amr b. Qays b. A'yān. Kuthayyir b. 'Abd al-Rahmān, namely Kuthayyir of 'Azza one of B. Mulayh b. 'Amr of Khuzā'ī, said:

Is not my father al-Saṭṭ or are not my brethren
The best known to the nobles of the Banū al-Naḍr?
You can see the same Yamanī warp in us and them,
The same Ḧadramī sandals of peculiar design.
If you are not of the Banū Naḍr then leave
The green arāk trees at the ends of the valleys.

Of those who are related to al-Saṭṭ b. al-Naḍr of Khuzā'ī are B. Mulayh b. 'Amr the tribe of Kuthayyir of 'Azza.

85. He was not the eldest son of Muğdā.

When I was angry the sons of Jandala
In my defence threw stones which were like rocks. 2

87. A third son was Qays whose mother was Salmā d. Ka'b b. 'Amr al-Khuza'ī. She was the mother of the two sons just mentioned.

88. Some say that al-Ḥārīth was a son of Lu'ayy. They are the Jusham b. al-Ḥārīth among Hizzān of Rabī'ā. Jāriḥ said:

Sons of Jushām, you belong not to Hizzān. Relate Yourselves to the nobles of Lu'ayy b. Ḥaṭib. Give not your daughters to the tribe of Daur Nor to Shūkāyā; 3 they are bad dwellings for strange women.

Also Sa'd. They are the Bunāna who belong to Shaybān b. Tha'laba b. 'Ukāba b. Ṣa'b b. 'Ali b. Bakr b. Wā'il of Rabī'ā. Bunāna was a nurse from B. al-Qaym b. Jāṣr b. Shay'ullāh (or Say'ullāh) b. al-Āṣd b. Wābara b. Tha'laba b. Hulwān b. 'Imrān b. al-Ḥāf b. Qur'ā'ā. Some say d. of al-Namir b. Qāṣīs of Rabī'ā; others say d. of Jarm b. Rabbān b. Hulwān b. 'Imrān b. 1 qarrashā. Like all words of this kind, which originally meant some form of physical violence, the original meaning is 'to crush the bones'. The name Quraysh is probably taken from the dugong. Cf. Kulaib, &c.

2 There is a play on the word jandala, large stone. For the idiom see Lammens, L'Arabie occidentale, 173 n. 2.

3 Two clans of the 'AnaZ8j see Cairo edition, p. 100.
al-Jāzirah. Also Khuzayma. They are the 'A'idha among Shaybān. Tha'laba. 'A'idha was a Yamanite woman, the mother of B. 'Abid b. Khuzayma b. Lu'ayy. The mother of all the sons of Lu'ayy except 'Amir was Māwiya d. Ka'b b. al-Qayn b. Jasr. 'Amir's mother was Makhshiyya d. Shaybān b. Muḥāri b. Führ. Others say Layālā d. Shaybān b. Muḥāri b. Führ.

89. I have heard that one of his sons came to the apostle of God, claiming descent from Sāma. The apostle said 'The poet?' and one of his companions said: 'I think, apostle of God, you mean the saying

Many a cup hast thou spilt, O b. Lu'ayy,
For fear of death which otherwise would not have been spilt.'

He answered, 'Yes.'

90. This is what Abū 'Ubayda quoted to me from the poem.

91. Abū 'Ubayda recited these verses to me as from 'Amir b. al-Khaṣṣafī, i.e. Khasafā b. Qays b. Aylān, adding a line

His spear bereaved women of their sons.

He also told me that Hāshim said to 'Amir: 'Compose a good verse about me and I will pay you for it.' Thereupon 'Amir composed the first verse which did not please Hāshim; he added the second which likewise failed to please him, and so with the third; but when he added the fourth, 'As he slew the guilty and the innocent', he was satisfied and rewarded him.

This is what al-Kumayt b. Zayd meant when he said:

Hāshim of Murra who destroyed kings
Whether they had wronged him or not.

This verse occurs in one of his odes. 'Amir's words 'Day of al-Habā'at' have not Abū 'Ubayda's authority.

92. Zuhayyr was one of B. Muzayyin b. Udd b. Ṣābi b. al-Ya's b. Muḍjar. Others say he was the son of Abū Sulmā of Ghaṭafān, or an ally of Ghaṭafān.

93. Bāriq are B. 'Adī b. Ḥāriḥa b. 'Amr b. 'Āmir b. Ḥāriḥa b. Imru'ul-Qays b. Tha'laba b. Māzin b. al-Asd b. al-Ghauth who are among Shāḥinâ. Al-Kumayt b. Zayd in one of his odes said:

And Shānū'a came out against us with
A crowd of hornless rams they thought were horned.
We did not say to Bāriq, 'You have done wrong,,'
Nor did we say, 'Give us satisfaction.'

They got the name Bāriq because they went about in quest of herbage.²

² Indicating that some of 1.1.'s quotation has been cut out? For the full poem see Mufadd, No. 89, where the last line is explained.

Barq means lightning which indicates rain; where rain falls there is pasture.

The Children of 'Abdullāh Muṭṭalib b. Ḥāshim

'Abdullāh-Muṭṭalib had ten sons and six daughters: al-'Abbās, Ḥaṁza, 'Abdullāh, Abū Ṭālib (whose name was 'Abdu Manāf), al-Zubayr, al-Hāriḥ, Ḥajl, al-Muqawwim, Dirār, and Abū Lahab (whose name was 'Abdu'l-Uzza), Ṣafīya, Umm Ḥākīm al-Bayyādā, ʿĀṭika, Ṣumaymā, Arwa, and Barra.

The mother of Ḥamza, al-Muqawwim, and Ḥajl (who was nicknamed al-Ghaydāq because of his great liberality and his wealth) and Ṣafīya, was Ḥāla d. Wuhayb b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Zuhra b. Kīlāb b. Murra b. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy.

The mother of 'Abdullāh, Abū Ṭālib, al-Zubayr, and all the girls other than Ṣafīya was Fāṭima d. 'Amr b. 'Āṣid b. Idris b. Makkūm b. Yaqṣā b. Murra b. Ka'b b. Lu'ayy b. Ḥaḍīf b. Führ b. Mālik b. al-Naṣr. Her mother was Ṣāḥira d. 'Abd b. Imrān of the same line. Ṣāḥira's mother was Takhmur d. 'Abd b. Quṣayy b. Kīlāb b. Murra, etc.

The mother of Abū Lahab was Lubnā d. Ḥājir b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. ʾAbdullāh b. Ḥābīb b. Ṣuḥayla b. Sa'ād b. Ṣa'ād b. Ḥābīb. May the blessing of God, His peace, His mercy, and His grace be upon him and his family. His mother was Āmina d. Wahb b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Zuhra b. Ḥabīb b. Murra b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Ḥabīb b. Murra b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Ḥabīb b. Murra b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Ḥabīb b. Murra b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Ḥabīb b. Murra b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Ḥabīb b. Murra b. ʾAbdū Manāf b. Ḥabīb b. Murra.

I shall mention this ode later if God will. [See p. 112 W.]

108. The meaning of fajār is 'gift', as in the lines of Abū Khirāsh al-Hudhaliː

Jamil b. Ma'āmar has starved my guests
By killing a generous man to whom widows resort.¹

109. This speech and the preceding one from a tradition of 'Ali about the digging of Zamzam are saj and not poetry in my opinion.

110. A poet has said:

God send rain to the wells whose site I know, Jurāb and Makkūm and Badhdhar and al-Ghamr.

111. He was the father of Abū Jahm b. Ḥudhayfa.

112. He means 'Abdūl-Muṭṭalib. I shall mention this ode later if God will.

113. ʾA'idh was b. Ḥimrān b. Makkūzūm.

114. Another reading is 'man or beast'. [This is T.'s reading.] Inserted in this story is a rajāz poem which no authority on poetry regards as genuine.

115. Marāḏī' are mentioned in the sūra of Moses, 'We made foster-mothers unlawful for him'. [The point is that the line rhymes 'children at the breast' whereas we should expect 'foster-mothers'. Therefore either we must suppose that dhowāt is to be mentally supplied or we must take the word literally: where there are babes at the breast there must needs be women to suckle them.]

116. Some say Ḥillāl b. Ṣādīrā.

117. The mother of 'Abdūl-Muṭṭalib was Salmā, d. Ṣād b. Makkūzūm. This is how the apostle with them.

118. I have never met any authority on poetry who knows these verses, but since they are quoted on the authority of Muhammad b. Sa'id b. al-Musayyib I have included them here.

119. Al-Musayyib was the son of Ḥāzīn b. Ṣād b. Makkūzūm.

120. 'My mother was a pure pearl of my forefathers' come from a source other than I.I.

121. 'A'idh b. Ḥimrān b. Makkūzūm.

122. Līḥb belong to Azd Shanū'a.

123. It was like the mark of a cupping-glass.

124. When the apostle was 14 or 15 years old according to what Abū 'Ubayda the grammarian told me on the authority of Abū 'Amr b. al-'Alī a sacrilegious

¹ For 'ajāfā the reading in aḥdār al-Hudhaliyin is fajā'ā, 'was pained at the state of'. For the full text of the lament see note 837.
The cause of it was that 'Urwa al-Rahhāl b. 'Utba b. Ja'far b. Kilāb b. Rabī‘a b. 'Amir b. Sa‘āda b. Mu‘āwiya b. Bakr b. Hawāzin had given safe conduct to a caravan of al-Nu‘mān b. al-Mundhir. Al-Barrāḏ b. Qays, one of B. Ḟamra b. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kināna, said to him, 'Did you give it safe conduct against Kināna?' to which he replied, 'Yes, and against everybody else.' So 'Urwa al-Rahhāl went out with the caravan and al-Barrāḏ also went out with the object of taking him off his guard. When he was in Tayman ḍhī Tilāl in the high ground 'Urwa failed to post a guard and al-Barrāḏ leapt upon him and killed him in the sacred month: that is why the war was called sacrilegious. Al-Barrāḏ composed the following lines about it:

Many a calamity which has disquieted men before me
Have I met with determination, O Banū Bakr.¹
I destroyed thereby the houses of the Banū Kilāb
And I reduced the clients to their proper place.
I lifted my hand against him in ḍhī Tilāl
And he fell dizzily like a hewn down tree.

Labīd b. Rabī‘a b. Mālik b. Ja‘far b. Kilāb said:
Tell the Banū Kilāb and 'Amir if you meet them
Great events have those who can deal with them.²
Tell the Banū Numayr if you meet them
And the uncles of the slain, Banū Hilāl,
That the traveller al-Rahhāl is dead
Lying by Tayman ḍhī Tilāl.

A messenger came to Quraysh saying that al-Barrāḏ had killed 'Urwa while they were in 'Ukāẓ in the sacred month, and they rode off without the knowledge of Hawāzin. When the latter heard of it they pursued them and overtook them before they reached the sacred territory, and they fought till nightfall. When they entered the sacred territory Hawāzin gave up the fight. Sporadic encounters took place on the following days, but the people had no commander-in-chief, each tribe being commanded by its head. The apostle was present at some of these encounters, his uncles having taken him with them. He used to say that he picked up the arrows which the enemy had shot and gave them to his uncles to shoot.

125. The story of the struggle is too long to be mentioned here. I cannot allow it to interrupt the prophet's biography.

¹ The line occurs in a different form in al-'Iqd al-Farādī. Cf. Yaq. iii. 379 and Agh. xix. 75.
² The text, metre, and translation in Brockelmann's edition (p. 57 Arabic and p. 61 German) are at fault here. There is a play on the word māsūli rendered 'clients' in the first poem; here it means 'masters'. Māsulī is one of those elusive terms whose meaning can be determined only by the context. Originally it meant a relative pure and simple without differentiating between a tribesman by birth or by sworn alliance. Already in the poetry of the Sūra the māsulī is lower than the ṣamīm or ṣarīḥ, the pure-blooded tribesman. Cf. 528. 15 hilṣaḥa naqūṣ mūṣilīn. In the Quran māsūlī means 'lord' and also 'helper'. After the Arab conquests the word meant 'client', 'freed slave'.
³ On the site of 'Ukāẓ cf. the excellent article with map by Ḥamād al-Jasir in the Majalla of the Arab Academy of Damascus, 1951, iii. 377 f., where I.I. is cited from Shīfa‘ull-ghārdām bi-akhbār l-baladī l-horām as saying that it lay between Nahāla and Ṭalīf.

127. The apostle gave her as a dowry twenty she-camels. She was the first woman that the apostle married, and he took no other wife during her lifetime. May God be pleased with her!

128. His sons came in the order: al-Qāsim, al-Ṭayyib, and al-Ṭahir; and his daughters in the order: Ruqayya, Zaynab, Umm Kullāthum, and Fātimah. [Commentators point out that these are not names but epithets applied to the one son 'Abdullāh.]

129. Ibrāhīm's mother was Māriya the Copt. 'Abdullāh b. Wahhāb from I. Lahi‘a told me that Māriya was the prophet's concubine. The Muqaqūṣ presented her to him from Ḥāfn in the province of Anṣānā.

130. Quraysh cut his hand off. They allege that the people who stole the treasure deposited it with Duwayk. [One can see from I.I.'s words in T. how I.H. abbreviated his author's account.]

131. 'A‘īd b. 'Imrān b. Makkāmūn.

132. According to another account, 'we are not going astray'.

133. Another reading is 'our pudenda were not covered'. The Ka‘ba at the time of the apostle was 18 cubits high. It was covered with white Egyptian cloth, later with Yamanī stuff. The first to cover it with brocade was al-Ḥajājī b. Ya‘ṣūf.

134. Abū 'Ubayda the grammarian told me that B. 'Amīr b. Sa‘āda b. Mu‘āwiya b. Bakr b. Hawāzin entered into this with them, and he quoted to me the lines of 'Amr b. Mādikārīb:

O 'Abbās, if our horses had been in good fettle
In Tathlīth you would not have vied with the Huns in my absence.

Tathlīth is a place in their country and shiyār means fat and well formed. By Huns he means B. 'Amīr b. Sa‘āda; and by 'Abbās he means 'Abbās b. Mirdās al-Sulānī who had raided B. Zubayd in Tathlīth. He quoted to me the verse of Laqīt b. Zurārā al-Dārimī about the battle of Jabalā:

Speed, O my horse, the Banū 'Abs are a great people! among the Huns because B. 'Abs were allies of B. 'Amīr b. Sa‘āda at the battle of Jabalā. This battle was between B. Ḥanṣāla b. Mālik b. Zayd Manāt b. Tamīm and B. 'Amīr b. Sa‘āda. The victory went to B. 'Amīr, and Laqīt was killed, and Ḥājīb b. Zurārā b. 'Uds was taken prisoner. 'Amr b. 'Amr b. 'Uds b. Zayd b. 'Abdullāh b. Dārim b. Mālik b. Ḥanṣāla b. Ṭalīf, and Zayd said to al-Faraḍīq in reference to him:

'Tis as though you had not seen Laqīt and Ḥājīb
And 'Amr b. 'Amr when they cried, Help, O Dārim!

Then they met at the battle of ḍhī Najāb when Ḥanṣāla had the better of
The Life of Muhammad

B. 'Āmir and Ḥassān b. Muʿāwiya al-Kindi was slain. He was known as Ibn Kabsha. Yazid b. al-Ṣaʿa'q al-Kilâbi was taken prisoner and al-Ṭufayl b. Mâlik b. Jaʿfar b. Kâlib the father of 'Āmir b. al-Ṭufayl fled. About him al-Farazdaq said:

Of them was Ṭufayl b. Mâlik who delivered
On his horse Qurzul a man swift to flee.
We smeared the head of Ibn Khawwaylid,
Adding to the owls that haunt a man’s grave.¹

To this Jarîr replied:

We dyed the crown of Ibn Kabsha.
When the cavalry met he encountered a man who shattered his skull.²

The story of the battles of Jabala and Dhû Najab is too long to be dealt with here for the reasons given when the Sacrilegious War was discussed.

135. RAHAQ means rebellion and folly, as in the line of Ruʾba b. al-ʾAjâj:

When fever makes the vicious camel mad. [Cf. Divān xli. 4.]

This verse occurs in one of his rajaz poems. RAHAQ also means seeking a thing until you get near it whether you take it or not. The same poet, describing wild asses, says:

Their tails flick and they shudder when they fear they will be overtaken.
The word is also used as a māṣdar. ‘I have borne (raḥītu) a crime or hardship which you have laid upon me as a heavy burden.’ It is used in the Quran in the same sense: ‘We feared that he would press hard upon them in rebellion and unbelief’ (18. 79); also, ‘Do not treat me harshly for what I have done’ (18. 72).

136. Al-Ghayṭa was of B. Murra b. ’Abdu Manât b. Kâlnâ, brothers of Muddîq b. Murra. She was the mother of the Ghayṭîl whom Abû Ţâlib mentions in his lines:

Foolish are the minds of the people who exchanged us
For the Banû Khalaf and the Ghayṭîl.

Ghayṭîl is the name given to her sons among B. Sahm b. ’Amr b. Huṣâyṣ.

137. This is saj, not poetry.

138. Another version is ‘A man will cry in eloquent language, saying, There is no God but Allah.’

An authority on poetry recited to me the following lines:

I was amazed at the jinn and their dumbfounding,
As they saddled their beasts with their cloths,
Making for Mecca, seeking guidance.
Believing jinn are not like impure jinn.

¹ A reference to the ancient belief that owls came forth from the skulls of the slain and remained by their graves. The text in Naq. 386. 3 is superior.
² This is the meaning given to muffâq by A. Dh. (cf. Naq. 855. 4). The rendering given by Weil is rightly rejected by the Arabic commentators, though the alteration of ẓammâ ‘meeting’ to dajtaj ‘clamour’ seems to be due to someone who gave the more usual meaning of ‘loud-voiced’ or ‘eloquent’ to mišqâ.

139. ʾYastaftilzun means ‘they asked for help’. It also means ‘they arbitrated’ as in the verse of the Quran, ‘0 our Lord judge between us and our people rightly, thou being the best of judges’ (7. 87).

Noble sons of Qayla! None who mingled with them
Found fault with their company;
Generous, heroes, rejoicing in hospitality,
Following the traditions of their fathers as a duty.

141. ’Uraydâ means trembling from cold, and shuddering fits; if accompanied by sweating it is the sweat of fever.

142. There is a story about ’Uthmân which I cannot repeat for reasons given above. [See Suhaylî.]

143. These verses really belong to an ode of Umayya b. Abûʾl-Šâlîn, except for the first two, the fifth, and the last verse. The second half of the first verse does not come under I.I.

145. Another reading is: ‘Piety preserves, not pride.’ The words ‘facing the Kaʾba’ are from a traditionist.

146. The first two verses of this poem are attributed to Umayya b. Abû ʾal-Šâlîn and the last verse occurs in one of his odes. The words ‘vain idols’ have not I.I.’s authority.

147. The Arabs say tabannûth and tabannûf meaning the Hurûfite religion, substituting f for th, just as they say jadath and jadaf meaning a grave. Ruʾba b. al-ʾAjâj said:

If my stones were with the other gravestones (ajdâf), meaning ajdâth.

This verse belongs to a rajaz poem of his, and the verse of Abû ʾal-Šâlîn to an ode by him which I will mention, please God, in the proper place. Abû ’Ubayda told me that the Arabs say fumma instead of thumma.

148. Qâq here means a hollow pearl. One in whom I have confidence told me that Gabriel came to the apostle and said, ‘Give Khadjia greetings from her Lord.’ The apostle said, ‘O Khadjia, Gabriel proclaims peace to you from your Lord.’ She replied, ‘God is peace, from Him comes peace, and peace be upon Gabriel.’

149. Sqaj means ‘to be quiet’. Umayya b. Abûʾl-Šâlîn the Ṣuhāfîte (Divān xviii) said:

When he came by night my friend was asleep
And the night was quiet in blackest gloom.
You can say of the eye when its glance is fixed it is sajia. Jarir said:

They shot you as they went with quiet eyes
Slaying you from between the howdah curtains.

'A'il means 'poor'.

Abū Khirāsh al-Hudhalī said:

The destitute went to his house in winter
A poor man clad in two garments finding his way by the barking of the dogs.¹

The plural is 'āla and 'aayal. 'A'il also means one who has a large family and one who is afraid; and in the Quran 'That is more likely that you will not be unjust' (4. 3).

Abū Tālib said:

In a just balance he gives full weight of barley.
He is in himself an unerring witness. (See further 175. 17.)

'A'il also means a tiresome, wearisome thing; you can say, 'this thing has exhausted me' 'ālani, i.e. oppressed and wearied me.

al-Farazdaq said:

You see the most prominent chiefs of Quraysh
Whenever a great misfortune occurs.

150. Some add 'and Tālib'.

of slaves among whom was Zayd, then a young man. His aunt, who by that time was the apostle's wife, came to see him and he invited her to choose anyone of the young slaves she liked. She chose Zayd and took him away with her. When the apostle saw him he asked her to give him to him. She did so and he freed him and adopted him as his son. This was before revelation came to him.

His father Ḥāritā was exceeding sorrowful at his loss and mourned him in the following verse:

I wept over Zayd, not knowing what had happened—
Whether I could hope to see him again or whether he was dead.
By God I do not know, often though I ask,
Whether he lies dead on hill or plain.
Would that I knew if thou wouldst ever return!
All that I ask of the world is that thou return to me.
Sunrise reminds me of him; the sunset brings his memory before me.²
When the winds blow they stir up thoughts of him.

¹ The word mustenbih means the man who at night imitates the barking of dogs so that if an encampment is near the dogs will take up his challenge and he can find his way to food and warmth from the direction their barking gives him. The two ragged garments are the gown and the waistband, the indispensable minimum.

Ibn Hishām's Notes

Long will I grieve and fear for him!
I shall use the best camels in scouring the land
Nor weary of searching though the camels tire,
So long as I live till death comes to me.
For all must die, though hope deceives men.

Then he came to him while he was with the apostle, who told Zayd that he could stay with him or if he preferred go away with his father. He replied that he would certainly stay with him, and he remained with the apostle until God made him His prophet, when he believed in him, prayed with him, and became a Muslim. When God revealed 'name them after their fathers' (Sūra 33. 5) he said, 'I am Zayd b. Ḥāritā.'

152. Abū Bakr's name was 'Abdullah. He was called 'Atiq because of his fine handsome face.

153. The words 'at his invitation' are not from 1.1. 'akhama 'hold back' means talabūth 'delay', as in the line of Ru'ba b. al-'Ajāf:
Waththāb took her away and delayed not (akhama).

154. This latter was of B. Tamīm; others say of Khuzā'a.

155. Al-Quṣa was their nickname; it is said of them

Those who challenged the Quṣa at shooting played them fair.

They were a tribe of archers.

156. 'Anz b. Wa'il was the brother of Bakr of Rabī'a b. Nīzār.

157. The reason he was called al-Nahhān was because the apostle said,
'I heard his singing in Paradise.' His nāhīm means his voice.

158. He had been born a slave among al-Asd; he was a black and Abū Bakr bought him from them.

159. Or Ḥumaynā.

160. His name was Mīshām b. Uthba b. Rabī'a . . . b. Lu'āyy.

161. Bāhila brought him and sold him to al-Khaṭṭāb b. Nufayl who adopted him; but when God revealed, 'Call them after their fathers' names,' he said,
'I am Wāqi'd b. 'Abdullah,' according to what Abū 'Ammār al-Madani said.

162. 'Ammār was an 'Anṣ from Madhūj.

163. Namir was the son of Qaṣīt b. Ḥirb b. Afṣā b. Jādila b. Asad b. Rabī'a
b. Nīzār; some say of Afṣā b. Du'mī b. Jādila. It is said that Ṣuḥayb was the freedman of 'Abdullah b. Judān b. 'Amm b. Ka'b b. Sa'd b. Ṭaym. It is also said that he was a Greek. One of those who maintain that he was from al-Namir b. Qaṣīt said that he was a prisoner in Byzantine territory and was bought from them. There is a tradition of the prophet which runs: 'Ṣuḥayb is the first of the Greeks' (sc. to accept Islam).

164. Šada' means 'distinguish between truth and falsehood'. Abū Dhu'ayb al-Hudhayfa whose name was Khuwaylid b. Khālid, describing wild asses and their mates, said:

It was as though they were a bundle of gaming arrows
And a shuffler thereof dealing out the arrows and proclaiming what he produced.
i.e. distinguishing the arrows and making their shares clear. [The allusion is to the game of maysir which was popular among the ancient Arabs. See Mufalad. 863. 17.]
Ru'ba al-'Ajaj said:

You are the clement and the avenging prince
Declaring the truth and driving away the wrongdoer.

165. Abū Sufyān's name was Šāhhr.
167. I have left out two verses in which he violently insulted him.
168. A variant reading is 'his root is in copious water'.
169. 'Arnā means 'obstinate opponent' as in the line of Ru'ba b. al-'Ajaj:

We were smiting the head of the obstinate ('umrad).
170. basara means 'he had an angry expression' as in the words of al-'Ajaj:

Firm in jaw, angry in visage, a biter, describing a forbidding face.
171. The singular of 'idin is 'ida. You say 'addauhu, meaning 'they divided it' as in the line of Ru'ba

The religion of God is not divided.
172. This is as much of the ode as seems to me to be genuine; many competent authorities on verse deny the authenticity of most of it.
173. He was called al-Akhnas because he withdrew (khanara) with the people at the battle of Badr. Of course his name was Ubayy; he came from B. 'Ilāj b. Abū Salma b. 'Auf b. 'Uqba.
174. The words 'allied themselves with treacherous people against us' refer to B. Bakr b. 'Abdu Manāt b. Kīnān. These are the Arabs whom Abū Ťalīb mentions in his verse above. [See p. 127, n. 4.]
175. I. I. relates Abū Qays here to B. Wāqif, whereas in the story of the elephant he is related to Khaṭma. The reason is that the Arabs often relate a man to the brother of his grandfather if he happens to be better known.
176. The line 'is as water poured at random', and the verse 'if you buy spears', &c., and 'men's Lord has chosen a religion' and 'his cavalry was in the plains' were quoted to me by Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī and others. As to his words 'Know you not what happened in the war of Dāḥis?' Abū 'Ubayda told me that Dāḥis was a horse belonging to Qays b. Zuhayr b. Jadhlma b. Rawāḥa b. Rabi'a b. al-Ḥarīth b. Māzin b. Qutay'a b. 'Abd b. Baghīd b. Rayth b. Ghaṭafān which he raced against a mare of Hūdhayfa b. Badr b. 'Amr b. Zayd b. Ju'ayya b. Laudhān b. Tha'laba b. Adī b. Fazāra b. Dhubayn b. Baghīd b. Rayth b. Ghaṭafān called al-Ghābrā. Hūdhayfa hid some of his men in ambush and ordered them to hit Dāḥis in the face if they saw him taking the lead. This is precisely what happened, and so Ghābrā came in first. When the rider of Dāḥis came in he told Qays what had happened, and his brother Mālik b. Zuhayr got up and slapped al-Ghābrā in the face, whereupon Ḥamal b. Badr got up and slapped Mālik's face. Afterwards Abū'U-l-Junaydīb 'Abd-al-'Absi fell in with 'Auf b. Hūdhayfa and killed him; then a man of the B. Fazāra met Mālik and killed him, and Ḥamal, Hūdhayfa's brother, said:

We have killed Mālik in revenge for 'Auf.
If you try to get more than your due from us you will be sorry.

Al-Rabi' b. Ziyād al-'Absī said:

After Mālik b. Zuhayr has been killed,
Can women hope for carnal delights?

Thus war broke out between 'Abs and Fazāra, and Hūdhayfa b. Badr and his brother Ḥamal were killed. Qays b. Zuhayr was grieved and composed an elegy on him:

How many a knight who is no knight is called (to war)
But at al-Habā'a there was a true knight.
So weep for Hūdhayfa; you will not mourn his like Until tribes not yet born shall have perished.
He also said:

The young man Ḥamal b. Badr did wrong,
And injustice is an evil food.

1 i.e. War will break out and then sexual relations will be taboo.
Al-Ḥarīth b. Zuhayr the brother of Qays said:

I left at al-Ḥabīb without pride
Hūdhayfa's body 'mid the broken spears.

Some say that Qays raced the horses Dāhīs and al-Ghabrā', while Hūdhayfa raced al-Khaṭṭār and al-Ḥanfā'; but the first account is the sounder. I cannot go into the story further because it interrupts the apostle's biography.

As to the words 'war of Ḥāṭib' the reference is to Ḥāṭib b. al-Ḥarīth b. Qays b. Haysha b. al-Ḥarīth b. Umayya b. Mu‘āwiya b. Malik b. 'Auf b. 'Amr b. 'Auf Malik b. al-Aus who had killed a Jew under the protection of al-Khazraj. So Yazīd b. al-Ḥarīth b. Qays b. Malik b. Aḥmar b. Ḥarīthā b. Tha‘labā b. Kā‘b b. al-Khazraj b. al-Ḥarīth b. al-Khazraj known as Ibn Fushum from his mother Fushum, a woman of al-Qayn b. Jāsr, went out by night with a number of B. Ḥarīth b. al-Khazraj and killed Ḥāṭib. Thus war broke out between al-Aus and al-Khazraj and was waged bitterly until victory went to al-Khazraj. Suwayd b. Ṣa‘īd b. Khālid b. 'Atiyya b. Ḥār b. Ḥābīb b. 'Amr b. Malik b. al-Aus was killed by al-Mujadhdhir b. Dhiyād al-Balāwā whose name was 'Abdullah, an ally of B. 'Auf b. al-Khazraj. Al-Mujadhdhir went out with the apostle to the battle of Uhud and al-Ḥarīth b. Suwayd went out with him. Al-Ḥarīth took al-Mujadhdhir off his guard and killed him in revenge for his father. (I shall mention the story in its proper place if God will.) I cannot go into the details of the war which followed for the reasons which have been given already.

177. A learned traditionist told me that the worst treatment that the apostle met from Quraysh was one day when he went out and everyone that met him, free or slave, called him a liar and insulted him. He returned to his house and wrapped himself up because of the violence of the shock. Then God revealed to him, 'O thou that art enwrapped, Rise and warn' (Sūra 74).

178. Others put 'Alqama and Kalada in reverse order.

179. He it is who according to my information said, 'I will send down something like what God has sent down'.

180. bakhī‘un nafsak means 'committing suicide' according to what Abū 'Ubayda told me. Dhū‘l-Rumma said:

O thou that destroyest thyself
In longing for that which fate has taken from thee.

The plural is bakhī‘un and bakha‘a. The Arabs say 'I have impressed (bakhā‘a) my advice upon him', i.e. I have laboured so to do.

181. Sa‘īd means 'the ground'; pl. yu‘ud. Dhū‘l-Rumma, describing a little gazelle, said:

In the morning it leapt gayly over the ground
As though wine coursed through the very bones of its head.

Sa‘īd also means 'the way', as you find in the tradition 'Beware of sitting by the wayside' meaning the road. The word jurus means 'barren land', pl. ajrās. You can say sana jurus, 'a barren year', and sinuma ajrās, i.e. years in which no rain falls, and drought, desolation, and hardship result. The same poet describing camels wrote:

Their bellies contain naught but disease and barrenness. They are nothing but inflated bones.

182. Raqīm is the book in which their story was inscribed (ruqima), pl. ruqum. Al-‘Ajaj said:

The place of the inscribed volume (muraqqam).

183. Sha‘āt means 'exaggeration and going beyond what is right'. A’shā of B. Qays b. Tha‘labā said:

They will not cease, nothing will halt the wicked
But a thrust in which the oil and the wick perish.

[i.e. a deadly wound. Dīdān, ed. R. Geyer, xlviii. 1, t., beginning hal not la as here].

184. Tāzāwara means 'to incline' from zar. Imru‘ul-Qays b. Ḥujr said:

I am a chief; if I return a king
'Twill be in such a way as to make the guide appear to be going astray.

Abū’l-Zaḥf al-Kulaybī describing a district said:

The coarse salt herbage is not what we want.
To do without water for five days makes the camels thin.

Taqridhum dhātā l-ishmālī means passing them and leaving them on the left. Dhū‘l-Rumma said:

To howdahs which passed by the sand-dunes of Mushrif
To the left while on their right are the horsemen.

[A.Dh. says that favārī means sandhills.]

Fajwa means 'space', pl. fiwā, as the poet says:

You clothed your people with shame and debasement
Until they became outlaws and forsokk the space where their dwelling was.

185. Waṣid means 'a door'. 'Ubayd b. Wabh al-‘Absī said:

In a desert land its door wide open to me
In which my merits are not unknown.

Waṣid also means 'courtyard'. Plurals waṣīd, waṣūd, waṣūdan, and usūd and usūdan.

186. His name was Alexander. He built Alexandria and it was named after him.

187. Yanbū‘ means 'water which bursts forth from the earth'. The plural is yanbū‘. Ibn Harma, whose name was Ibrahim b. ‘Ali al-Fihri, said:

If you shed a tear in every dwelling
Their source would dry, but your tears would be a spring (yanbū‘).
Diwan

Hilal Rabl’a.
Shura)bil said:
‘you may pasture
Asad, said, ‘I will bring you a Shammas more handsome than he,’ and he Al-’Ajjaj (Sura
dabir. QabU is both transitive and intransitive it would be possible to translate b.
-the
6. III). The plural is like Qabfl midi ‘Abid
so called because it comes forward and Ma~’un
b.
oj al-A’shd (not means ‘those sitting together’ and $a':tia’a,
2,
same again,
‘Uthman
also occurs in a proverb:
A traditionist told me that his son added, ‘May God reward him well ’ ~nother ~eading i~ ~ibra.n
b. Dharr and Dahir b. Thaur.
he says, means $akhr quoted to me the
and when it is ‘Amir ‘Uthman, means ‘the meeting place in which people gather together and of
was in charge of them according to the infonnation
-dare-devils.
who was called Mu’attib b, said: ‘A ruined
ffi’isted
b. Aimata
and so he was called Shanunas
Tabbat
b. Khaula was from the Yarnan.
al-Na<;ir Sa’d
al-I:Iarith.
of the Banil Qays:
Al-‘~
tabitil,
Wa’il
Banu
b.
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
,
203. fit means 'neck', as in the verse of 'A'shā of B. Qays:

The day that Qutayla showed us a lovely neck
Which necklaces adorned

Plural humazāt. Humaza is one who insults a man publicly. He shuts his eyes upon him and winks at him. Ḥassān b. Thābit said:

I bit into you with a rhyme that burnt like fire
And you grovelled in humiliation.\(^1\)

Plural humazāt. Humaza is one who insults a man secretly. Ru'bā b. al-Hajjāj said:

In the shadow of him who oppresses, despises, and slanders me.

Another reading is 'And do not be the firestick' [the equivalent of our poker]. Diwan xxx, C. 6. As the poet says:

I stirred up my fire for him and he saw the blaze.
Unless I had stirred it he would have missed the way.

204. The words 'his religion we loathe and hate' are not from I.I.

205. Humaza is one who insults a man publicly. He shuts his eyes upon him and winks at him. Ḥassān b. Thābit said:

Not of a man who uttered a lying speech.

206. Affāk means 'liar'. Cf. 'Lo, it is of their lying that they say God has begotten. Verily they tell a lie' (Sūra 37. 151). Ru'bā said:

Not of a man who uttered a lying speech.

207. The hāṣub of Gehenna is everything that is kindled in it. Abū Dhu'ayb al-Hudhali whose name was Kuwaylid b. Khālid said:

Quench, do not kindle, and do not feed the flame
Of war lest its horrors hasten on you.

Another reading is 'And do not be the firestick' [the equivalent of our poker]. Diwan xxx, C. 6. As the poet says:

I stirred up my fire for him and he saw the blaze.
Unless I had stirred it he would have missed the way.

208. Muhl means molten bronze or lead or any other metal, according to what Abū 'Ubayda told me. We were told that al-Iṣāṣ b. Abū'l-Ḥasan b. Mas'ūd was put in charge of the treasury of Kūfah by 'Umar. One day he ordered silver to be melted down, and it began to change its colour, so he ordered everyone who was near the door to come

\(^1\) 'This constant screaming and squealing of the draw-wheels was a characteristic feature of the otherwise silent oasis, rather irritating at first to the new-comer.' Douglas Carruthers, Abraham Adventure, London. 1935, p. 91.

\(^2\) The circle of ideas is magical. It will be found that all words of cursing, slandering, and backbiting originally indicate some sort of physical injury and the sense is still apparent here. By I.H.'s time it was neglected and all but forgotten. The proper reading must be fakhādāla not . . . tu as in C. The text in Diwan lii. 6 differs widely and is useless for comparison.

722

In The Life of Muhammad

212. A traditionist told me that the apostle said to Abū Ṭālib, O uncle, 'God my Lord has given worms power over the Quraysh document. They have left every name of God in it and destroyed the injustice, boycott, and malice. He said, 'Did your Lord tell you of this?' and when he said that He had, he was amazed because none had come to see him. Immediately he went and told Quraysh what Muhammad had said and enjoined them to look to their document. 'If it is as is my nephew says, then end your boycott and your course of action; if he is lying I hand him over to you.' The people were satisfied with this offer and bound themselves accordingly. On inspection they found that the apostle was right; but this but increased their malice. Thereupon a number of Quraysh took steps, which have just been recorded, to destroy the boycott.

213. The word 'both' (in v. 2) is not from I.I. As to the words 'you protected God's apostle from them' the point is this: When the apostle departed from al-Ṭafif having failed to convert its people, he went to Ḥiḍr'. Then he sent to al-A'khas b. Shahrīq to ask his protection. He replied that he was a halfī,\(^2\) and as such could not grant protection. The apostle then appealed to Suhayl b. 'Amr, who replied that B. 'Amir did not give protection against B. Ka'b. Finally he sent to al-Mu'ātim b. 'Ady, who agreed. Thereupon he armed himself and his household and went out to the mosque. Then he invited the apostle to enter. He did so and walked round the temple and

\(^2\) The text has al-mutūna, which means 'the sides of the back'. This seems to yield a poor sense and I have adopted the reading suggested to me by Professor Affifi: al-manūna.
prayed there. Then he went to his house. That is what Hassān is referring to. [This is an abbreviation of I.I.’s account in T. 1203.]

214. Hishām was one of Suḥām or Sukhām.

215. Or ḥiṣā.

216. AL-‘A’SHĀ OF THE BÂNŪ QAYS B. THA’LABA

Khalīd b. Qurra b. Khālid al-Sadūsī and other Shaykhs of Bakr b. Wā’il from scholars told me that al-‘A’shā of B. Qays b. Tha’labah b. ‘Ukāba b. Ṣa’d b. ‘Ali b. Bakr b. Wā’il went to the apostle desiring to accept Islam and composed the following poem in praise of the apostle:

Did your sore eyes not close the night
You lay sleepless as though a snake had bitten you?
’Twas not for desire of women, for before this
You had forgotten the society of Mahdad.
But I see that Time the deceiver
Destroys again what my hands have repaired.
Youth, maturity, and wealth I’ve lost.
In God’s name, how this Time does change!
Ever since I was young have I sought wealth
In all four stages of man’s growth.
I made full use of the swift tawny camels
Racing across the land between al-Nujayr and Sārkhad.
If you ask about me (and many an importunate Asks about ‘A’shā) whither he has gone
O you who ask me whither they are going,
I tell you they have a meeting with the people of Medina.
She urges forward her swift hindlegs,
Folding back her forelegs but not as though hobbled.
In the noonday’s savage heat she’s frisky
When you’d think the chameleon would sink his head.
I swore I would not spare her fatigue
Or footsoreness till we met Muhammad.
When she kneels at the door of Hāshim’s son
She may rest and partake of his bounty.
A prophet who sees what you cannot see,
Whose reputation has reached the lowlands and the hills.
His gifts and presents are not intermittent:
If he gives today it does not stop him giving tomorrow.
I adjure thee, did you not hear the counsel of Muhammad
The prophet of God when he counselled and witnessed!
If you do not travel with provision of piety
And after death meet one who has taken such provision
You will regret that you are not like him

---

Ibn Hishām’s Notes

With preparation such as he has made.
Beware of the bodies of animals—touch them not,
Bleed them not with an iron arrow.
Do not venerate standing stones
Nor worship idols, but worship God.
Come not near a free woman—she is unlawful to you.
Marry or remain celibate.
Wrong not your kinsman
Nor the prisoner in bonds.
Glorify God night and morning.
Praise God and not Satan.
Mock not the poor man in his need,
Nor think that wealth can make a man immortal.

When he was near Mecca or actually in it one of the heathen Quraysh met him and he told him that he was making for the apostle of God to adopt Islam. He said to him, ‘O Abū Baṣīr, he prohibits fornication!’ Al-‘A’shā replied, ‘But that’s something I’ve no desire for.’ ‘Ah, but he forbids wine!’ ‘Now that’s something that I still take pleasure in. I will go away and drink long and deeply for a year and then return and accept Islam.’ So he went away and died in the year, so that he did not return to the apostle.

217. Some say Irāsha.

218. Yulḏidāna ilayhī means ‘incline to’ and iḥad is ‘inclining away from the truth’. Ru’ba b. al-‘Ajjāj said:

> When every heretic (mulḥīd) followed al-Ḍāḥhāk.

Al-Ḍāḥhāk the Khurjījīte.

219. The owner of Malḥūb was ‘Auf b. al-Ahwās b. Ja’far b. Kīlāb who died in Malḥūb. When he says ‘at al-Ridā’ is the house of another great man’ he means Shurayh b. al-Ahwās who died in al-Ridā’. By Kauthar he means kathīr, for the former is derived from the latter. Al-Kumayt b. Zayd said in praise of Hishām b. ‘Abdullāh-Malik b. Marwān:

> You are kathīr, O Ibn Marwān, good;
And your father, the son of noble women, was great (kauthār).

Umayya b. Abū ‘Ā’idh al-Hudhdhal describing a wild ass said:

> He protects his females when they run
And bray in clouds of dust as though covered with a cloth.

By kauthār he means a cloud of dust which he likens to horsecloths because of its denseness.

220. i.e. Ja’far b. ‘Amr b. Umayya al-Ḍamrī.

221. The following description of the apostle comes from ‘Umar, freedman of Ghufra from Ibrahim b. Muhammad b. ‘Ali b. Abū Ṭālib. ‘Ali used to

---

1 See Gedichte von Abū Baṣīr Maɪmīn b. Qays al-‘A’shā . . . , ed. Rudolf Geyer (Gibb Memorial Series), London, 1928, pp. 101 f. I have transposed verses 7 and 8 in the text of the Ṣira, as the order of the Dīwān is obviously right. The text will repay collation.

2 This creature is said to face the sun throughout its daily course, and so at noon it would (and should) peer up at the sky.
say when he described the apostle: 'He was neither too tall nor unduly short but of normal height; his hair was not too curly nor lank, but definitely curly; his face was not fat nor rounded; it was white tinged with red; his eyes were black, fringed with long lashes; he was firmly knit and broad shouldered; the hair on his body was fine, thick on hands and feet. When he walked he picked his feet up smartly as though he were going down hill, when he turned he turned his whole body; between his shoulders was the seal of prophecy, he being the seal of the prophets. He was the most generous of men, the boldest, most veracious, most faithful to his undertaking; the gentlest, with easy manners, the noblest in social intercourse. Those who saw him for the first time were overcome with awe; those who knew him well loved him. Neither before nor after him have I seen his like. God bless and preserve him!'

223. I have omitted a verse which is obscene.

224. Abū 'Ubayda told me that the woman who stood up in defence of Dirār was Umm Jamil; and since others say it was Umm Ghaylān, it may well be that both played their part with the other women who were there. When 'Umar came to power Umm Jamil came to him, for she thought that he was his brother and when her genealogy had been given he knew her story and said to her, 'I am not his brother except in Islam. He is now on active service. I know how much he owes you.' So he made her a gift as though she were a traveller. The narrator says: I. H. said, Dirār had met 'Umar at the battle of Badr when he began to beat him with the flat of his sword saying, 'Be off with you, I. al-Khaṭṭāb, I will not kill you!' 'Umar remembered this in his favour after he had become a Muslim. [This is a passage which W. relegated to his critical notes, but C. prints it without comment. The expression 'The narrator (rawi) said' is unique in the Sīra and therefore to be suspected; on the other hand, the story rings true.]

225. 'Abīd b. al-Abras said:

News came to me from Tamīm that they Were indignant and wrathful at the slain of 'Amir.

See Diwān of Abīd, ed. Sir Charles Lyall, 1913, p. 16. Considerable uncertainty about the word dhā'irū prevails. [Commentators, ancient and modern, differ. The reading of the Diwān and T. tāqādhābāb seems preferable to C.'s ta'aṣṣābā.] W. has ta'aṣābāb, 'found it hard to bear'.

226. Rabī'a b. 'Abbād is the correct form.

227. Al-Nābiha said:

As though you were a camel of the Banū Uqaysh
With an old skin rattling behind your legs
(to scare it into movement).

229. Afrā' was d. 'Ubayd b. Tha'laba b. Ghanm b. Mālik b. al-Najjār.

230. Others say 'Amīr b. al-Azraq.

231. 'Amir was Ibn Sawād. He had no son called Ghanm.

232. Dhakwān was an emigrant and a helper.

233. They were called Qawāqil because whenever anyone asked for their protection they used to say as they handed him an arrow, 'Walk where you like in Yathrib with it.' Qawāqila means a way of walking.

234. Tayyihān can be spelt Tayyān like mayyit and mayt.

235. Zafar's name was Ka'b b. al-Hāriz b. al-Khazraj b. 'Amr b. Mālik b. al-Aus.

236. The two verses beginning 'were it not' and the last line were quoted to me by a man of the Anṣār or a man of Khuzā'a.

237. 'Aun b. Ayyūb al-Anṣārī said:

To us belongs the man who was the first to pray
Facing the Raḥmān's Ka'ba between the sacred sites.

meaning al-Barā' b. Ma'rūr.

238. Hadm can be read hadam, meaning sanctity; i.e. what is sacred to you is sacred to me and your 'blood' is my blood.

239. He was Ghanm b. 'Auf, brother of Sālim b. 'Auf b. 'Amr b. 'Auf.

240. Though some say the last name should be b. Khunays.

241. The learned number among them Abū'l-Haytham b. al-Tayyāhān, but they do not include Riffā'ī.

Ka'b b. Mālik mentions them in the poem which Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī quoted to me:

Tell Ubayy that his opinion was false.
He died on the morning of the gully and death is inevitable.
May God refuse what your soul desires.
He sees and hears as He watches the affairs of men.
Tell Abū Sufyān that there appeared to us
A shining light of God's guidance in Ahmad.
Don't be too eager in gathering what you want.
Both al-Barā' and Ibn 'Amr refused,
As did also As'ad and Rāfī'ī.
Sa'd al-Sā'īdī refused and Mundhir
Would cut off your nose if you attempted it.

1 i.e. where fealty was sworn; u.s.
2 Or, 'when they followed one after the other'. This is one of the forger's favourite words.
Ibn Rabi' if you got his word
Would not surrender him. Let none hope for that.
Likewise Ibn Rawaha would not give him up to you.
He would rather drink deadly poison than perjure himself
In loyalty to him. And al-Qauqili b. Sāmit
Is far from doing what you propose.
Abū Haytham also was faithful,
Bound by his word.
You cannot hope to get Ibn I:Jugayr's help.
Why don't you abandon your foolish error?
Sad the brother of 'Amr b. 'Auf
Is utterly opposed to your suggestion.
These are stars which will bring you ill fortune
When they rise in the darkness of the night.

Thus Ka'b mentions Abū'l-Haytham among them, but he passes over Rifā'a.

243. The name is also written I. Uzayb.

244. The man who took pity on him was Abīl-Bakhtari b. Hisham.

244a. For kānāt barīyyan some say kāna baq;īqan.

245. The genealogy of Ghaziyya should be Ghaziyya b. 'Amr b. 'Atiyya b. Khansa'ī.

246. His ancestor Ghanm b. Ṣālim was the brother of Salīm b. 'Amr b. Ṣālim.

256. His ancestor Ghanm b. 'Auf was the brother of Sālim b. 'Auf b. 'Amr b. 'Auf.

257. al-Ḥubālā was Sālim b. Ghanm b. Ṣālim. [See S. in loc.]

259. al-Mundhir was the son of Amr b. Khanash.

260. This verse really comes from an ode of Abū Du'ād al-Īyādī. The word ḥub means 'painful distress'. Some manuscripts add 'in another context "need" is the meaning; the word also means "sin".'

261. The word gull means 'one', as in the line of Labid b. Rabī'a:

The fate of every freeborn man is one
However many they be.

(Diwān, Chālīdi, 19.)

262. Others say Ḥumayra.

263. The words 'anywhere but to Yathrib' and 'when friendship is lacking' are not from I.I. By idh he means ṣidhā 'when' as in the word of Allah (Surā 34. 30) 'idh the sinners are stationed before their Lord'. Abū Najm al-Ījli said:

Then may God reward him for us when He awards
The gardens of Eden in highest heaven.

264. One I can trust told me that the apostle said when he was in Medina: 'Who will bring me 'Ayyash and Hishām?' Al-Walīd b. al-Walīd b. al-Mughira volunteered to do so and came to Mecca secretly. He met a woman carrying some food and asked her where she was going. She said that she was going to two prisoners, and he followed her so that he could learn where they were. He found that they were in a house which had no roof, and when night fell he climbed the wall; then he took a stone and put it under their fetters and cut them through with a stroke of his sword. For this reason his sword was called 'the stone-cutter'. Then he mounted them on his camel and led them away. He stumbled and cut his toe and said:

You are naught but a toe that bled.
This has happened to you in the way of Allah.

Then he took them to the apostle in Medina. [W. ascribes this passage to I.I. himself.]

266. It was mentioned to me that Abū 'Uthmān al-Nahdī said that he had heard that when Šuhayb wanted to emigrate the unbelieving Quraysh said, 'You came to us a penniless beggar and have acquired wealth among us, and then you think that you can go off with your money. By God, that shall not be!' However, Šuhayb was so eager to be off that he made his money over to them, and when the apostle heard of it he exclaimed twice: 'Šuhayb has made a profit!'
267. Or Ḥuṣayn.

268. Sālim was the former slave of Thubayta d. Ya'ār b. Zayd b. 'Ubayd b. Zayd b. Mālik b. 'Auf b. 'Āmr b. 'Auf b. Mālik b. al-Aus. When she freed him he was attached to Abū Ḥudhayfah, who adopted him. Others call him Sālim, freedman of Abū Ḥudhayfah; and it is said that Thubayta was the wife of the latter and that she freed him and so he got the name of Abū Ḥudhayfah's freedman.

269. Manān means 'death'; raybu'l-manān means its dread and its occurrence as in the line of Abū Dhu'ayb al-Hudhali:

Are you distressed at the thought of death and its occurrence?
Fate does not excuse those who fear.

270. A learned traditionist told me that al-Ḥasan b. Abū'l-Ḥasan al-Bāṣrī said that when they came to the cave at night Abū Bakr went in and searched it to see if it harboured wild beasts or snakes, guarding the apostle with his own life.

271. I have heard more than one learned traditionist say 'She of the two girdles', the explanation being that when she wanted to fasten on the bag she tore her girdle into two, using one piece as a rope and the other as her girdle.

272. Umm Ma'bad belonged to B. Ka'b of Khuzā'a. The words 'who rested in the two tents' and 'they came with good intent and went off at nightfall' do not come from I.I. [However, T. (1240-1) who often ignores I.I.'s verses quotes these lines with a few variations as does I.S. 156. 17.]

274. 'Abdu'l-Raḥmān was I. al-Ḥārith b. Mālik b. Ju'shum.

275. Others say Liṭīt, as in the line of Ma'qīl b. Khwayyīlī al-Ḥudhali:

A stranger from the people of Liṭīt drawing milk
For a clan between Athla and Niḥām.

276. Or Mījāj.

277. Or al-ʿAḍwayn.

278. Or al-ʿAbābīb or al-ʿIthyāna which means al-ʿAbābīb.

279. Or al-Qāḥa.

280. Or al-Ghāʾir.

281. This is no rajāz but bald prose. [Few will be found to dispute this statement!]

282. I asked more than one authority on poetry about this rajāz and all they would say was that they had heard that 'Ali composed it, but it was not known whether he had or not.

283. The mufrah is one burdened with debt and a large family as the poet says:

If you never return what has been left in your care
And take charge of more property the trust-money will make you a pauper.

284. Another version is 'in beneficent loyalty'. Yūṭigh means 'to destroy' or 'ruin'.

285. Ja'far at that time was absent in Abyssinia.

286. I have heard more than one learned person say that Abū Dharr was Jundub b. Junādā.

287. Some say 'Uwaymir was the son of ʿAmīr or of Zayd.

288. I. Jurayj mentioned that 'Atā said to him: 'I heard 'Ubayd b. 'Umayr al-Laythī say: The prophet and his companions had conferred about a clapper for summoning to prayer and while 'Umar was intending to buy two pieces of wood for the clapper he heard in his sleep a voice saying, 'Don't make a clapper but call to prayer'. So he went to the apostle to tell him of what he had seen and the prophet himself had actually had a revelation of it. 'Umar had hardly got back to his house when Bilāl was calling. When he told the apostle of this he said, 'Revelation got before you!''

289. His full name was Abū Qays ʿIrīma b. Abū Anas b. ʿIrīma b. Mālik b. 'Adiy b. ʿAmīr b. Ghanm b. 'Adiy b. al-Najīr.

290. There is a variant farfūdhāmu for farfūqhumu.

291. The line beginning 'Go where you will' and the following verse are the work of Umrūn al-Ṭaghibī who was Ṣuraym b. Maʾshar:1

292. Or Luṣayt.

293. Or I. ʿAṣyf.

294. Or ʿAzār b. ʿAẓār.

295. Alīm means 'painful'. Describing camels Dhū'l-Rumma said:

We urge on the tall camels
While the painful heat of noon smites them in the face. [Diesīn lxxvi. 16.]

296. al-Mujadhdhar had killed Suwayd b. Sāmit in one of the engagements between Aus and Khazraj, and at Uḥd al-Ḥārith sought to take al-Mujadhdhar unawares to kill him in revenge for his father. It was only this man that he killed. I have heard more than one learned traditionist say this. The proof that he did not kill Qays b. Zayd is that I.I. does not mention him among those that died at Uḥd.

297. Muʾaṭṭib b. Qusayr and Thaʾlaba and al-Ḥārith, the two sons of Ḥāḍib of B. Umayya b. Zayd, were at Badr and were not hypocrites, according

1 Hirschfeld included this poem in Hassān's Diesīn. Cf. No. xix and H.'s note on p. 41.
The Life of Muhammad

to what a trustworthy traditionist told me. I.I. himself includes Tha'laba and al-Harith among the B. Umayya who were at Badr.

298. i.e. 'Amr b. Malik b. al-Aus.

299. 'Aura means 'open to the enemy and abandoned'; plural 'aurat. Al-Nabigha al-Dhubyani said:

When you meet them you don't find a house exposed to attack.
The guest is not forbidden and nothing is neglected.

'Aura also means a man's wife and also the pudenda.

301. Ladin means 'a blow with the clenched fist'. Tamim b. Ubayy b. Muqbil said:

The heart pounded beneath its arteries
Like the thump of a stone which a boy throws into soft ground.

302. Sā'ida b. Ju'ayya al-HudhalI said:

They said, We saw people standing round him.
There was no doubt that a man had been killed there.

303. 'Amih means 'bewildered'. The Arabs say a man is 'amih and 'amih.

Rū'ba b. al-'Ajāj describing a country said:

The blindest guidance is from the ignorant in perplexity.

304. Šayyib means rain from ša'ba, yatmub, like šayyib from sāda, yasādū and mayyit from mātā, yamātū. Plural šay'ib. 'Alqama b. 'Abada, one of B. Rabī'a b. Malik b. Zayd Manāt b. Tamim, said:

When the clouds poured down on them
They were like birds creeping about in terror of the thunder.

305. Andaḍ means 'the like things'; singular nidd. Labid b. Rabī'a said:

Praise God who has no rival.
In His hands is good: what He wills He does.

Ibn Hishām's Notes

306. Jahra means 'so that we can see clearly with nothing to conceal Him from us'. Abū'il-Akhzar al-Ḥumāni, named Qutayba, said:

Making plainly visible the midst of the waters which was covered with sand.

Here yaqhara means 'bringing the water to light and clearing away from it the sand and other matter which was hiding it'.

307. Mann is something which fell on their trees in the early morning and they used to gather it; it is sweet like honey. They both ate and drank of it.

al-ʾAshā of B. Qays b. Tha'labā said:

If they were given manna and quails to eat on the ground
A man would never see good food among them!

Salwā are birds, singular salwat; another name for them is sumānā. Honey, too, is called salād. Khālid b. Zuhayr al-HudhalI said:

He swore to them, By God it's true,
You're sweeter than honey fresh from the comb.

Ḥiṣa means 'Remove our sins from us'.

308. The tradition appears in a slightly different form with hinta for hint and sha'irā for sha'ir.

309. Fām is wheat. Umayya b. Abīl-Salt al-Thaqafi said:

On large dishes like cisterns there were
Pieces like silver among the pure wheat.

Wadhil means pieces of silver and fūm is flour; singular fūmā.

310. Ila amānīya means 'except reciting' because the ummi is one who can recite but cannot write. He says that they do not know how to write but they can read a book. I.H. said on the authority of Abū 'Ubayda and Yūnus that they interpreted what God says to refer to the Arabs. Abū 'Ubayda told me about that. Yūnus b. Ḥabīb the grammarian and Abū 'Ubayda told me that the Arabs say tamānā in the sense of 'he recited' and in the Quran we find 'We never sent an apostle or a prophet before thee but when he recited Satan cast (something) into his recitations' (Sūra 22. 51). [As the sequel shows, this could mean: 'when he desired something Satan cast something into his desire.'] Abū 'Ubayda the grammarian quoted to me:

He recited God's book at the beginning of the night
And at the end of it death claimed him.

and also:

He recited God's book at night alone
As David recited the psalms at his ease.

The singular of amānī is ummiyya; amānī can also mean a man's desire for wealth and other things. [There is no real distinction between reading and reciting. Right down to the Middle Ages it was a matter of surprise if a man was able to read a text without forming the words with his lips and so reciting it.]
The Life of Muhammad

311. Safaha means ‘pour out’. The Arabs say ‘he shed his blood’ and ‘he poured out wine’. The poet says:

Whenever a guest comes into our land
We shed the blood of the victims in the dusty earth.

By hāl is meant clay mingled with sand which the Arabs call sahla. The word occurs in a hadith: when Pharaoh said ‘I believe that there is no God but He in whom the children of Israel believe’ Gabriel took some river mud and slime and threw it in his face. Hāl is like ham'a.

312. Bā'a bi-qhadabin means ‘they admitted it and bore it’. A'shā of B. Qays b. Tha'labā said:

I will befriend you until you do the same again
Like the cry of the woman in travail whom the midwife helps.

[This line has been quoted on W. 199, q.v.]

313. Shat'um means ‘shoots’, singular shaf'atu. The Arabs say qad aḥta'a al-zar'u, ‘the seed has sprouted’ when it has put forth its shoots. Azara means ‘strengthened’. That which preceded it is like mothers. [Because he has explained ‘shoots’ by frākh which could mean ‘chicks’.] Imru'ul-Qays b. Ḫujr al-Kindi said:

On a slope whose herbage equalled the lote trees
The track of conquering and defeated armies.

Ḥumayd b. Mālik b. al-Arqat one of B. Rab'at b. Mālik said:

Seed produce and clover whose herbage is matted and strong.

Saq without hamza is plural of sag, the stem of a plant.

314. Sawā'n means the middle (of the path), as in the lines of Ḥassān b. Thābit:

Alas for the prophet's helpers and family
After he was concealed in the middle of the grave!

315. Shatra means ‘towards’. 'Amr b. Aḥmar al-Bahlī (Bahlī was the son of Ya' ṣūr b. Sa'd b. Qays b. 'Aylān) describing his camel, said:

She takes us towards Jarm' tucking her tail between her legs,
Her tail nearly reaches her girth.

Qays b. Khuwaylid al-Hudhali, also describing his camel, said:

The sluggish (v.i. untrained) camel has an all-pervading disease
One looks at her with a tired eye.

Na'ūs is his camel; she had a disease and he looked at her with a tired eye.
The word occurs in Sūra 67. 4.

316. Rabbānīyūn are the learned, the lawyers, and the chiefs. The singular is rabba. A poet said:

Were I living as a monk in a cell
Her voice would have enticed me forth and the most learned of them too!

1 Lane, 52 b, c, indicates that 'engirdled' is a possible meaning.

Ibn Hishām's Notes

Qūs means a monk's cell; aftanāni is the dialect of Tamīm, fatanāni being the dialect of Qays. Jarir said:

There's no union when Hind departs. Had she stayed
She would have entertained me and the cassocked one within his cell.

i.e. the monk's cell. Rabbānī is derived from rabb which means 'master'. In God's book you find 'He gave his master wine to drink' (12. 41), where rabb means 'master'.

317. Abū Qays b. al-Aslat said:

I was pained at the loss of a doughty defender.
A permanent grief afflicted me.
Though you killed him, a sharp sword has bitten into 'Amr's head.

The story of Bu’āth is too long to go into here for the reasons which I have given above. Samīn is the same as masnūn from sannahu, 'he sharpened it'.

318. The āndā of the night are the hours, the singular being inwān. Al-Mutanakhkhil al-Hudhali whose name was Mālik b. Uwaymir said bewailing the loss of his son Uthayla:

Sweet and bitter was his nature like the shuffling of gaming arrows.
At any hour the night demanded he stood ready shod.

Labid b. Rabi’a describing a wild ass said:

Throughout the day he is as excited as though he were a misguided fellow
Whom a boon-companion had given wine among the wine sellers.

According to what Yūnus told me you can say inan with alif maqūra. [S. points out that inan is used in the Qur'an.]

319. Ţamasā means to rub off and make level so that eye, nose, mouth, and everything that made up the face is no more to be seen; similarly 'We blotted out their eyes' (Sūra 54. 37), the effaced of eye with no gap between his eyelids; and you can say 'I erased the writing and the mark' so that nothing can be seen of it. Al-Akhtal whose name was al-Ghauth b. Hubayra b. al-Ṣalt al-Taghibī, describing a camel he had tried hardly, said:

We gave her the hard task of going to every distant well whose mark was obliterated
Where you can see the chameleons writhing in the heat. (Akhtal 7. 5.)

Ṣawa'a in the singular is swa'a, which means a mark to indicate a road or a waterhole. He says that it was rubbed off and made level with the ground so that there was nothing showing above the soil.

320. al-jib among the Arabs means whatever is worshipped other than God. Tāghūt means everything that leads away from the truth; plural jibūt and muqādāt. I was told that Abū Najīh said that jib means sorcery and tāghūt Satan.

321. This paragraph is what I.I. said: what follows continues the preceding hadith.
736  \textit{The Life of Muhammad}

322. \textit{Ayyāna} means 'when', as in the line of Qays b. al-Ḥudādiya al-Khuza‘ī:

With a secret that we shared I came
To ask her when he who was away would return.

\textit{Mursalā} means 'end' and the plural is \textit{mursāin}. Al-Kumayt b. Zayd al-Asadī said:

And those who found the door which others missed
The haven of the principles of Islam. (\textit{Agh.} xv. 123. 26.)

The \textit{mursā} of a ship is where it comes to rest. \textit{Hafṣy} ‘anāhā comes in a sentence in which the order is inverted. He says: 'They will ask you about it as though you would favour them,' i.e. tell them what you will not tell anyone else. \textit{Al-hafṣy} means 'the kind, the considerate', and in God's book 'Verily He is gracious to me' (19. 48). The plural is \textit{aḥfyā}’. A’shā of B. Qays b. Tha’labā said:

If you ask about me, many a one asks about A’shā,
Where has he gone? Good friends that they are.

\textit{Hafṣy} also means \textit{al-mustafīfī}, the one who exceeds all bounds in asking questions.

323. \textit{Yudāhāna} means they imitate their speech, the speech of the infidels. If you say something and someone says the same thing he copies (\textit{yu’dāhi}) you.

324. \textit{Zahir} means ‘help’. The Arabs say \textit{tazāharī ‘alayhi}, i.e. they helped one another against him. The poet said:

\begin{quote}
O namesake of the prophet, you were a support to religion
And a help to the imam.
\end{quote}

The plural is \textit{zuḥārā}’.

325. \textit{al-samad} means one on whom one depends and in whom one takes refuge. Hind d. Ma‘bad b. Naḍla mourning ‘Amr b. Mas‘ūd and Khalīd b. Naḍla her two uncles the Asadītes (they were killed by al-Nu‘mān b. al-Mundhir al-Lakhmi and he built the two standing stones which are in Kūfā over them) said:

One came early to tell me of the death of the two best of Asad, ‘Amr b. Mas‘ūd and the dependable chief (\textit{al-samad}).

\begin{quote}
[The meaning of this word is most obscure and commentators on the Qurān differ widely. The Ghāriyān were two standing stones which were smeared with the blood of the victims sacrificed there. See W. R. Smith, \textit{RS.} 157, 201, 210 and the literature cited there. For the present-day survival of the rite see Freya Stark, \textit{A Winter in Arabia.} London, 1940, 153.]
\end{quote}

326. Others say Kurz.

327. I have heard that the chiefs of Najrāh used to inherit books from their predecessors. Whenever one chief died and authority passed to his successor he would seal those books with the seals that were before his time and not break them. The chief, contemporary with the prophet, went out walking and stumbled and his son said: ‘May so-and-so stumble’, meaning the prophet, and his father said to him, ‘Don’t say that, for he is a prophet and his name is in the deposits’, meaning the books. As soon as he was dead his son ran and broke the seals and found in the books the mention of the prophet, so he became a good Muslim and went on pilgrimage. It was he who said:

\begin{quote}
To you she runs with loosened girth,
Her foal 'tis clear soon comes to birth.
The Christians' faith she scorns its worth.
\end{quote}

\textit{Wadīn} means a camel’s girth. Hishām b. ‘Urwa said that the ‘Irāqīs added the second line; but Abū ‘Ubayda quoted it in its place.

328. \textit{Kaffalāhā} means 'he took her to himself'.

329. \textit{Aqlāmahum} means their arrows by which they cast 1 of God' or
\begin{quote}
I cried out and it withdrew as a blind man does.
\end{quote}

Plural \textit{kumh}. \textit{Harrajitu} means 'I cried out at the lion and threatened it'.

330. Abū ‘Ubayda said \textit{nabtahil} means 'let us invoke a curse'. A’shā of B. Qays b. ‘Amr said:

\begin{quote}
Don't sit down when you have kindled the fire of war
Praying for protection from its evil when it comes and cursing loudly.
\end{quote}

[C. reads 'we', &c., but the context (see \textit{Diwan} vi. 52) shows that W. is right.] He means 'We will invoke a curse'. The Arabs say God \textit{bāhala} someone, i.e. 'May he curse him'; and 'on him be the \textit{bāhla} of God' or \textit{buhla}, i.e. the curse. \textit{Tabtahilu} also means to be earnest in prayer. [It would seem more natural to adopt this meaning here in spite of I.I.]

331. There is a variant reading \textit{mālun} for \textit{nakhlun}.

333. \textit{Muzāḥam} is the name of a fort.

334. The second verse has not I.I.’s authority.

335. By his \textit{taq} he means his \textit{tāq} (might).

336. \textit{Shāma} and \textit{Tafī} are two mountains in Mecca.

337. He left Sa’d b. ‘Ubāda in charge of Medina.

338. This was the first of his raids.

340. Most authorities on poetry deny that this ode is from Abū Bakr.
341. I have omitted one verse. Most authorities on poetry deny that I. Zibārā was the author of this ode.
342. Most authorities on poetry deny that Sa'd wrote this verse.
343. Most authorities deny that Abū Jahl was the author.
345. He put Abū Salama 'Abdu'l-Asad in charge of Medina.
346. Some traditionists say that this took place after Ḥamza was sent.
347. He left Zayd b. Hāritha in charge of Medina.
348. His name was ʿAbdullāh b. ʿAbdūr or according to others Mālik b. ʿAbdūr, one of al-Ṣaḍīf. Ṣaḍīf's name was ʿAmr b. Mālik, one of al-Sakūn b. Ashrās b. Kinda or Kindi.
349. It was the first booty taken by the Muslims, and ʿAmr b. al-Hādrānī was the first man that the Muslims killed, while ʿUthmān b. ʿAbdullāh and al-Ḥakam b. Kaysān were their first prisoners.
351. Or Ḥāshim.
352. Furāfīr elsewhere means 'a determined man', but here a 'sword'. 'Ayhab means 'without intelligence', and it can be applied to a buck or the male ostrich. Al-Khalīl said that it means a man too weak to exact vengeance. [Lexicographers vacillate between 'ayhab and ghayhab. Most of this useful note is lacking in W.]
353. On Monday 8th and left 'Amar (or ʿAbdullāh) b. Umm Makṭūm brother of B. 'Amar b. Luʿayy to preside over prayers. Later he sent back Abū Lubāh from al-Rauḥā to take command in Medina.
354. It was white.
355. The Anṣār's flag was with Sa'd b. Muʿādh.
357. The word Zabya is not from I.I.
358. Said to be Abū Bakr.
359. The old man's name was Sufyān al-Ḍamrī.
360. The last two lines come from more than one rādūl.
361. Al-Ḥanẓaliyya was the mother of Abū Jahl; her name was Ṣamā' d. Mukharrība, one of B. Nahshāl b. Dārīm b. Mālik b. Ḥanẓāla b. Mālik b. Zayd Maṭāt b. Tamīm.
362. Getting it ready.

Ibn Hishām's Notes

354. 'Aṣb is the lungs together with the parts above the navel adjoining the windpipe; what is below the navel is called ʿaqūb, as in the prophet's saying related to me by Abū 'Ubayda: I saw 'Amr b. Luḥayy dragging his guts (ʿaqūb) in hell fire.
355. According to some Sawwād. Sawwād of the Anṣār was another man.
356. Another reading is mustanṣīl.
357. Others read laʿuljimannahu, 'I will strike his jaw with my sword'.
358. 'Aṣb is not from I.I. It means a camel whose milk is drawn with difficulty.
359. Abīl-Bakhtari was al-ʿAṣ b. Hishām b. al-Ṭlarith b. Asad.
360. 'Abdullāh b. 'Uthmān b. Mazīn in charge of Medina. 361. He put Abu Salama 'Abdu'l-Asad in charge of Medina. 362. Some traditionists say that this took place after Ḥamza was sent.
363. He left Zayd b. Ḥāritha in charge of Medina.
364. His name was ʿAbdullāh b. Ḥāfṣ al-Anwār. 365. Others read aṣb, 'Abdullāh b. 'Uthmān b. Mazīn in charge of Medina. 366. Some traditionists say that this took place after Ḥamza was sent.
367. He left Zayd b. Ḥāritha in charge of Medina.

The Life of Muhammad

369. He put Abū Salama 'Abdu'l-Asad in charge of Medina.
370. It was the first booty taken by the Muslims, and 'Amr b. al-Hādrānī was the first man that the Muslims killed, while 'Uthmān b. 'Abdullāh and al-Ḥakam b. Kaysān were their first prisoners.
371. The verses come from 'Abdullāh b. Jaṭhsh.
372. ʿAmr b. Luʿayy to preside over prayers. Later he sent back Abū Lubāh from al-Rauḥā to take command in Medina.
373. The last two lines come from more than one rādūl.
374. Al-Ḥanẓaliyya was the mother of Abū Jahl; her name was Ṣamā' d. Mukharrība, one of B. Nahshāl b. Dārīm b. Mālik b. Ḥanẓāla b. Mālik b. Zayd Maṭāt b. Tamīm.
375. Getting it ready.
The Life of Muhammad

379. Said to have been 'Adiy b. Abū'l-Zaghbā'.
380. al-mala' means the nobles and chiefs.
381. The name of this place is not mentioned by I.I.
382. It is said that 'Ali killed him. Al-Zuhri and other traditionists told me so.
383. Hamit means a zigg.
384. Abū 'Azīz was the standard-bearer of the polytheists at Badr after al-NAdr, and when his brother Mus'ab said these words to Abū'l-Yasar who had captured him he said, 'Brother, is this the sort of advice you give about me?' Mus'ab answered, 'He is now my brother in your place.' His mother asked what was the most that was paid to redeem a Qurashi, and when she was told that it was 4,000 dirhams she sent the money and redeemed him.
385. Abū Sufyān's name was al-Mughīra.
386. Here is an example of faulty rhyming known as ḥiqā which is often found in their verse. We call it ḫīdā'. I have omitted some better known lines that occur in I.I.'s narrative.
387. Some authorities on poetry deny that these lines are Ibn Dukhshum's.
388. I shall mention the tradition about that stand later, God willing.
389. Some authorities on poetry deny the authenticity of these lines.
390. 'Amr's mother was d. Abū 'Amr and the sister of Abū Mu'ayt b. Abū 'Amr.
391. 'Ali had captured him.
392. Khirāsh b. al-Šimma, one of B. Ḥarūm, had captured him.
393. It was Abū Khaythama.
394. Another reading is 'a shirt of fire'.
395. Abū Sufyān's sworn friend who is referred to here was 'Uqba b. 'Abdul-Ḥarīth b. al-Ḥadrāmī. As for Ṭāmūr b. al-Ḥadrāmī, he was slain at Badr.
396. I.I. has named the man in his account as Nāfī' b. 'Abdu'l-Qays.
397. Abū 'Ubayda told me that when Abū'l-'Āṣ came from Syria with the property of the polytheists he was asked if he would like to become a Muslim and take the property because it belonged to polytheists. He answered: 'It would be a bad beginning to my Islam if I were to betray my trust.' 'Abdul-Wārith b. Sa'id al-Tammārī from Dā'ūd b. Abū Hind from 'Amīr al-Sha'bī told me the same thing as Abū 'Ubayda about Abū'l-'Āṣ.

Ibn Hishām's Notes

399. The ransom of the polytheists was fixed at 4,000 dirhams per man, though some got off with 1,000. Those who had nothing the apostle released freely.
400. Rifi'a b. Rāfi', one of B. Zurayq, captured him.
401. Nakasa means 'returned'. Aus b. Ḥajar, one of B. Usayd b. 'Amr b. Tamīm, said:
   You turned on your heels the day you came
   Leading away the spoils of a large army.
   [In W.'s text this line reads:
   You turned on your heels then you came (on)
   Hoping for the spoils &c.]
402. Abū Zayd al-ʾĀṣārī quoted to me the line 'When he came to them noble of race'.
404. THE NAMES OF THE HORSES OF THE MUSLIMS AT BADR
   A learned person told me that at Badr the Muslims had the following horses:
   al-Sabāl belonging to Marthad ... al-Ghanawi; Bā'zaja belonging to al-Miqda? b. 'Amr b. Bahrānī (others say its name was Sabha); al-Ya'sūb belonging to al-Zubayr b. al-ʾAmīr. The polytheists had one hundred horses.
405. Muhd' means whistling and ṭaqdiya means clapping.
   'Antara b. 'Amr b. Shaddād al-ʾAbī said:
   Many an equal have I left on the ground
   His blood whistling in his throat like a camel's breath, meaning the sound of the blood rushing out of the wound like whistling.
   Al-Ṭiriimāh b. Ḥakām al-Ṭa'iy said:
   When it is frightened it stamps its feet and stands listening
   In a safe distant refuge of the two mountains of Ibna Shāmām.
   He is speaking of the mountain goat which when frightened stamps on the rock with its feet, and then stands still and listens. Its stamping on the rock makes a noise like clapping. Musdām means a safe refuge. Ibna Shāmām are two mountains. [No. 47, line 28, in Krenkow's edition.]
406. Ankāl means fetters, singular nikl. Ru'ba b. al-ʾAjāj said:
   My fetters will keep you from wanting any other fetters.
407. Tuhkhaswafa is an alteration of the word that I.I. wrote which I have not recorded. [A.Dh. writes: 'the word (takhwaswafa) is written ta, kha, waw, with fapha. It is said that takhwaswafa was written originally and that I.I. corrected it because it is the wrong way to speak of God.' This seems probable because elsewhere in this section I.I. ventures to put words into the mouth of God when explaining the meaning of this sûra. W. reads yarakhwaswafa (or the corresponding passive); C.'s reading seems preferable.]
Jana'bī līsalm means 'they inclined to peace'. Al-ja'mah is 'declining'. Labīd b. Rabī'ā said:

The binding of the polisher over his hands
Stooping to find the rust on the arrow-heads.

He means the polisher who bends over his work. Nūqāb means 'rust' on a sword; yajtalāt means polishing a sword. Salm also means 'peace', and in the book of God 'Be not weak and call to peace when you have the upper hand'.

It is also read as ṣalm with the same meaning. Zuhayr b. Abū Sulmā said:

You said if we can possibly attain peace
By money and good words we will make peace. 1

I was told that al-Ḥasan b. Abū'1-Ḥasan al-Basri said that 'and if they incline to salm meant Islam; and in the book of God 'O you who believe enter into ṣalm all of you' can be read as 'into salm' which is Islam. 2

Umayya b. Abū-Ṣalt said:

They did not come back to salm when God's apostles
Warned them, and they were not supporters of it.

The Arabs call a long bucket a salm. Ṭarafa b. al-'Abd, one of B. Qays b. Tha'laba, describing a she-camel of his, said:

Her two forelegs are splayed as though
She was borne down by the weight of two buckets.

There is a variant reading dālīj. 3

411. Anasa was an Abyssinian and Abū Kabsha a Persian.

412. Kannāz b. Ḥusayn.

413. Abū Ḥudhayfā's name was Mihsham; and Sālim a freed slave of Thubayy d. Ya'ār b. Zayd b. 'Ubayd b. Zayd b. Malik b. 'Auf b. 'Amr b. 'Auf b. Malik b. Aus. She set him free and he was attached to Abū Ḥudhayfā, who adopted him as a son. It is said that Thubayy d. Ya'ār was the wife of Abū Ḥudhayfā and she freed Sālim. Others say he was Abū Ḥudhayfā's freedman.

414. Mīdāj.

415. Abū Makhshī was a Ṭā'īy, his name being Suwayd b. Makhshī.

1 Lyall, Ten Ancient Arabic Poems, Calcutta, 1824, p. 58, 1. 9.
2 Op. cit., p. 35, l. 21, shows that this is the true reading. The dālīj is the man who carries two large buckets from well to cistern: behind his body to avoid wetting his clothes. In this attitude his arms remind the poet of the widespread legs of his camel.

416. Abū Balta'a's name was 'Amr, a Lakhmite; his freedman Sa'd was a Kalbīte.

418. Al-Qāra is their nickname as in the line:

Those who compete in archery with the Qāra will have been fair to them.

They were great bowmen.

419. He was called Dhū'l-Šimālāyyn because he was ambidextrous; his name was 'Umayr.

420. Khabbāb belonged to B. Tamīm and has descendants in Kufa; others say that he belonged to Khuzā'a.

421. His real name was 'Abdullah; he was nicknamed 'Atiq because he was so handsome.

422. He too was born a slave among the Asd. He was a black whom Abū Bakr bought from them.

423. Al-Namr was the son of Qāṣīt b. Hīnī b. Afṣā b. Jādīla b. Asad b. Rabi'a b. Nizār; others say Afṣā b. Du'mī b. Jādīla b. Asad b. Rabi'a b. Nizār. It is said that Ṣuhayb was the freedman of 'Abdullah b. Ju'dān b. 'Amr b. Ka'b b. Sa'd b. Taym and that he was a Rūmī. Those who say that he belonged to al-Namr maintain that he was merely a prisoner among the Byzantines and that he was bought from them (i.e. ransomed). However, there is a tradition that the prophet said 'Ṣuhayb is the first-fruits of Byzantium'.

424. Shammas's name was 'Uthman; he was called Shammas for the reason that a Shammas came to Mecca in pagan times, a man so handsome as to excite general admiration. 'Uthba b. Rabī'ā, who was the maternal uncle of Shammas, said, 'I will bring you a Shammas who is more handsome than he', and he brought his nephew 'Uthmān b. 'Uthmān. Thus he was called Shammas according to what Ibn Shihāb and others told me. [This is a repetition of what I.H. has already said on W., p. 212.]

425. The latter was an 'Ansī of Madībīj.

426. Miḥja' was from 'Akk b. 'Adnān.

427. Abū Khaila was of B. Ḥijl b. Ḥujaym b. Ṣā'b b. 'Alī b. Bakr b. Wā'il.

429. Sa'd b. Khaila came from the Yanam.

431. Or Za'warā.
432. Aslam was the son of Haris b. 'Adiy.

433. Others say 'Atik b. al-Tayyahan.

434. 'Abdullah b. Sahl was the brother of B. Za'ur. Others say he belonged to Ghassan.

435. Zafar was b. al-Khazraj b. 'Amr b. Malik b. al-Aus.

436. 'Ubayd was called Muqarrin because he bound four prisoners together at Badr. It was he who captured 'Aqil b. Abu Talib.

437. Others say his name was Mas'ûd b. 'Abdu Sa'd.

438. 'Umayr b. Ma'bad is correct.

439. The latter was his mother's name.

440. He sent them back from al-Rauha'. 'Abdul was b. 'Amr b. 'Ubayd b. Umayya, and Abu Lubaba's name was Bashir.

441. He was b. Thabit b. al-Nu'man b. Umayya b. Imru'ul-Qays b. Tha'lab'a.

442. He was Abu Dayyeh's brother, and it is said that his name was Abu Ha'bâ. It is said that it was Imru'ul-Qays who was called al-Burak b. Tha'lab'a.

443. Others say Thabit was b. 'Amr b. Tha'lab'a.

446. 'Arafja was b. Ka'b b. al-Na'bâhût b. Ka'b b. Harritha b. Ghanm.

447. Tamûm was the freedman of Sa'd b. Khaythama.

448. Others say Julas, but I regard that as wrong.

449. Others say Qays was b. Abasa b. Umayya.

450. Fushum was his mother, wife of al-Qayn b. Jasr.

453. Zayd was b. al-Murayy.

454. Sâlim b. Ghanm b. 'Auf got the name of Hublâ from his big belly.

455. Others say 'Amr b. Salama. He was of Bally of Quca'a.

456. Ma'bad was b. 'Ubâda b. Qasghar b. al-MuqADDAM; and it is said that 'Ubâda was b. Qays b. al-Qudm.

457. 'Amir b. al-'Ukayr; others say 'Asim b. al-'Ukayr.

458. This is Ghanma b. 'Auf, brother of Sâlim b. 'Auf b. 'Amr b. 'Auf b. al-Khazaraj, and Ghanm b. Sâlim preceded him according to I.I.

459. Another form of the name is Qurayis.

460. His full name was Malik b. al-Dukhsham b. Malik b. al-Dukhsham b. Mar'dakha.

461. It is said that 'Amr b. Iyâs was the brother of Rabî and Waraqa.

462. She was their mother, their father being 'Amr b. 'Umâra.

463. Others say Qasr b. Tamûm b. Irâsha and Qismil b. Fârân. al-Mujadhdhar's name was 'Abdullah.

464. Others say Bah'hath b. Tha'lab'a.

465. 'Utba b. Bahz from B. Sulaym.

467. It is said that al-Mundhir was b. 'Amr b. Khanbash.

468. Malik b. Mas'ûd was b. al-Badiy according to some learned authorities.

469. It is said that Ka'b was b. Jammâz and was from Ghubshân.

470. Damra and Ziyâd were the sons of Bishr.

471. In all the above cases it was al-Jâmûh b. Zayd b. Ijarân except for the grandfather of al-Simma b. 'Amr, who was al-Jâmûh b. Harâm. 'Umayr b. al-Hârith b. Labda b. Tha'lab'a (is the name of the twelfth on the list).

472. It is said that Jabbâr was b. 'Sakhir b. Umayya b. Khunâs.

473. Others say Buldhuma or Bulduma.

474. Others say Sawâd was b. Rizn b. Zayd b. Tha'lab'a.

476. Sawâd had no son with the name Ghanm.

477. 'Antara was from B. Sulaym b. Ma'nsûr, then of B. Dhakwân.

478. Aus was b. 'Abbâd b. 'Adiy b. Ka'b b. 'Amr b. Udayy b. Sa'd. I.I. relates Mu'adh b. Jabal to B. Sawâd because he lived with them; he was not of their stock.

479. 'Amir is said to be the son of al-Azaq.

480. Others say Qays b. Hîshn.

481. His name should be spelt Busr.

482. Or Wadfa.

483. Or Rukhaya.

484. Others say 'Ulayfa.

485. Others say 'Usayr or 'Ushayra.
The Life of Muhammad

486. Haritha b. al-Nu'man was the son of Naf' b. Zayd.
487. Or 'Abid.
488. She was d. 'Ubayd b. Hisham b. 'Abd al-Malik b. Ghanm b. Malik b. al-Najjar. It is said that Rifa'a was b. al-Harith b. Sawad.
489. Or Nu'ayman.
490. Abu'l-Harirah was the freedman of al-Harith b. Rifa'a.
492. They are the B. Maghala. 'Abd b. 'Abdu'l-Manaf b. 'Amr b. Malik b. Khani'a b. Khuzayma. Others say that they are of B. Zuraiq. Maghala was the mother of 'Adiy b. 'Amr b. Malik b. al-Najjar and the B. 'Adiy trace their descent from her.
493. Abu Shajakh was Ubayy b. Thabit, brother of Hassan b. Thabit.
494. Others say Sawwad.
495. Others say Abul-'Awar was al-Harith b. Zalim.
498. Brother of Sa'd b. Abu Waqqas according to I.H.
499. Zayd b. Haritha killed him; others say Hamza, 'Ali, and Zayd killed him between them.
500. 'Ammar b. Yasar killed 'Amir and al-Nu'man b. 'Aṣr killed al-Harith. He was an ally of al-Aus.
501. Salm, freedman of Abu Hudhayfa, killed 'Umayr.
503. Hamza and 'Ali shared in the killing of him.
504. Thabit b. al-Jidh, brother of Haram, killed him; others say Hanza, 'Ali, and Thabit did.
505. 'Ammar b. Yasar killed him.
507. Abu'l-Bakhtari was al-'Āṣ b. Hasim.

Ibn Hisham's Notes

508. Others say at Athf; it is said that his name was al-Naqur b. al-Harith b. 'Alqama b. Kalada b. 'Abdu Manaf.
509. Bilal killed Zayd, who was an ally of B. 'Abdu'l-Dar from B. Mazin. Others say that al-Miqdad killed him.
510. 'Ali, or according to others 'Abdu'l-Rahman b. 'Afu, killed him.
511. He was one of B. 'Amr b. Tamim, a stout warrior whom 'Ammar b. Yasar killed.
512. Abu Dujana killed him.
513. Kharija b. Zayd killed him, though others say 'Ali did. Harama was of Aas.
514. 'Ali killed him.
515. Hamza killed him.
516. 'Ali, or according to others 'Ammar, killed him.
517. Sa'd b. al-Rabi' killed him.
518. Ma'in b. 'Adiy, an ally of B. Ubayd, killed him.
519. 'Ali killed him.
520. Al-Sa'ib b. Abul-Sa'ib was a partner of the apostle; and there is a tradition that the prophet said that he was an excellent partner who was never ill tempered or obstinate. According to our information he became an excellent Muslim, but God knows the truth. Ibn Shihab al-Zuhri mentioned from 'Ubaydullah b. 'Utba that al-Sa'ib b. Abu'l-Sa'ib b. 'Abd b. 'Abdullah b. 'Umar b. Makzum was one of the Quraysh who swore fealty to the apostle, and on the day of al-Jirana he gave him his share of the booty of Husayn. Someone other than Ibn Ishaq said that al-Zubayr b. al-'Awwam killed him. (This explanation of yushari is in accordance with the Lisan under sharra.)
521. Others say Hajiz. 'Ali killed Hajib.
522. Al-Nu'man b. Malik killed him in single combat.
523. Ya'zid b. Ruqaysah killed 'Amr and Abu Burda killed Jabir.
524. 'Ali killed him.
525. Eraemza killed him with the help of Sa'd b. Abu Waqqas.
526. 'Ali, or al-Nu'man b. Malik, or Abu Dujana killed him.
527. Abu'l-Yasar killed him.
528. Others say it was Mu'adh b. 'Afra' and Kharija b. Zayd and Khubayb b. Isaf jointly.
529. 'Ali killed him, or according to others al-Husayn b. al-Harith and 'Uthman b. Mag'ūn together.
530. Others say Ukkasha b. Muyan did so.
From B. al-Muṭṭalib: 'Aqīl b. 'Amr, an ally, and his brother Tamīm, and his son.
From B. Naufal: Nabhān, one of their freedmen.
From B. Asad b. 'Abdull-'Uzzā: 'Abdullāh b. Ḥumayd b. Zuhayr b. al-'lixirī. One of them.
From B. 'Abdull-Dār: 'Aqīl, an ally of theirs from the Yaman.
From B. Taym b. Murra: Musāfīr b. Ḥyād b. Ṣahhr b. Ḥimayd b. Ka'b b. Sa'd b. Taym; and Jābir b. al-Zubayr, an ally. One of them.
From B. al-'Irārī: b. Yūnaiyām; 'Amr b. Ubayy b. al-Sā'īb; and al-'Abbas b. Ruhm b. 'Abdullāh an ally; and an ally of theirs whose name escapes me; and two freedmen of Umayyā b. Khalif, one of them Niṣāţ, and Abū Ṛafī a slave of Umayyā b. Khalif. Six.
From B. Sahm: Aslām freedman of Nubāyī b. al-Hājajī. One of them.
From B. Ḥāmīr b. Lu'ayyā: Ḥabīb b. Jābir; and al-Sā'īb b. Mālik.
From B. al-Ḥārīth b. Fīrhr: Šāfī; and Shaffī, two allies of theirs from the Yaman.

537. Most authorities on poetry refuse to accept it and its counterblast as authentic.

538. We have changed two words in I.I.'s version of this ode, namely, "boastful" at the end of line 20 and "kindly" at the beginning of line 23, because he casts aspersions on the prophet in them.

The following verses which I.I. attributes to ʿAlī b. Abū Ṭalīb are not recognized by any authority on poetry, nor is the counterblast. We have included them only because they mention that ʿAmr b. 'Abdullāh b. Judān was killed at Badr, although I.I. does not mention him among the slain as these verses do.

539. Others say the author was al-ʿAṣhā b. Zurāra b. al-Nabībāsh one of the B. Usayd b. 'Amr b. Tamīm an ally of B. Naufal b. 'Abdu Manāf.

540. We have omitted three verses of Ḥassān's poem because they are obscene.

541. We have left out one verse which is obscene.

542. Some say that 'Abdullāh b. al-Ḥārīth al-Ṣahmī was the composer.

543. The fifth verse comes from Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī.
544. Abu Zayd al-Ansari quoted to me the verse about Abu Jahl.

545. The last line is not from I.I.

546. Some authorities on poetry deny that these verses are 'Ubayda's.

547. When 'Ubayda's foot was smitten he said, 'By God, if Abū Ṭalib had lived to see this day he would know that I have a better right than he to say:

You lie, by God's house,
Abū Ṭalib shall not be maltreated,
Before we have used our swords and bows in his defence.
We will not betray him until we die around him,
And be unmindful of our children and wives.'

These two verses are in the ode of Abū Ṭalib which we have already quoted (p. 174).

548. Some authorities on poetry deny that Dirār was the author of these lines.

549. Some authorities on poetry deny Háriθ's authorship of these lines, and the second line is not from I.I.

550. Abū 'Ubayda, the grammarian, quoted to me the last line, saying that (Shaddād) had become a Muslim and then apostatized, thus:

The apostle tells us that we shall live again.

But what sort of life have corpses and wreaths?

551. We have omitted two verses in which he spoke disparagingly of the apostle's companions. Another learned authority on poetry recited to me the penultimate verse and also the line beginning 'givers of hundreds' and the following line.

552. This ode has been handed down in a confused state which cannot be considered satisfactory. Abū Muḥriṣ Khalaf al-Aḥmar and another person recited it to me, one quoting what the other left out.

553. He was a polytheist.

554. (which are the most authentic of the poetry about the men of Badr).

555. Abū Muḥriṣ Khalaf al-Aḥmar recited to me the line, 'We left the way and they overtook us as swift as the tides of the sea', thus. The line, 'no lion from his lair', is not from I.I.

556. I have dropped the ode of Abū Usāma rhyming in L because it only mentions Badr in the first and second verses, in order to keep the narrative within bounds.

557. Some authorities on poetry deny that Hind was the author.

558. Some authorities on poetry deny that Hind wrote this.

1 I.H., then sets out the whole poem. The only difference of any significance is that line 3 reads 'In a death like theirs the Gemini fell'.

559. The last line was cited to me by some authorities on poetry.

560. One tradition of this poetry separates the line, 'no lion of the jungle', &c., from the two preceding verses.

561. Most authorities on poetry deny that Hind said this.

562. It is said (though only God knows the truth) that when the apostle heard this poetry he said, 'If I had heard this before he was killed I would have spared him.'

563. He put in charge of Medina Sibā' b. 'Urfuta al-Ghifari or Ibn Umm Maktūm.

564. He put Bashir b. 'Abdu'l-Mundhir who was Abū Lubaba in charge of Medina.

565. It was called the raid of al-Sawiq because most of the provisions which the raiders threw away was sawiq, i.e. parched corn, and the Muslims seized a great deal of it. This is what Abū 'Ubayda told me.

566. He put 'Uthmān b. 'Affān in charge of Medina.

567. He put I. Umm Maktūm in charge of Medina.

568. 'Abdullāh b. Ja'far b. al-Miswar b. Makhrama from Abū 'Aun said, 'The affair of the B. Qaynuqa' arose thus: An Arab woman brought some goods and sold them in the market of the B. Qaynuqa'. She sat down by a goldsmith, and the people tried to get her to uncover her face but she refused.

The goldsmith took hold of the end of her skirt and fastened it to her back so when she got up she was immodestly exposed, and they laughed at her.

She uttered a loud cry and one of the Muslims leapt upon the goldsmith and killed him. He was a Jew, and the Jews fell upon the Muslim and killed him, whereupon the Muslim's family called on the Muslims for help against the Jews. The Muslims were enraged, and bad feeling sprang up between the two parties.'

569. This was called dhātu'l-fudāl.

570. He besieged them for fifteen nights and put Bashir b. 'Abdu'l-Mundhir in charge of Medina.

571. Furāt belonged to B. Ijl, an ally of B. Sahm.

572. Abū Sufyān b. al-Hārith b. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib wrote a counterblast which we shall mention together with the verses of Ḥannān in their proper place, God willing. [See p. 449.]

573. The words tubba' and usarru binukhtīhim do not come from I.I.

574. Most authorities on poetry deny Ḥannān's authorship. The first two words are not from I.I.

575. Her name was Maymūna d. 'Abdullāh. Most authorities on poetry deny that she wrote these verses and that Ka'b composed the counterblast to them.
576. Another version is: 'Will you give me your wives as a pledge?' He answered: 'How can we give our wives to you as a pledge when you are the most amorous, highly scented man in Medina?' He retorted, 'Then will you give your sons as a pledge?'

577. These verses occur in an ode of his on the battle with B. Na'dir which I shall mention in its proper place, God willing. [See p. 441.]

578. I shall mention the killing of Sallām in its proper place, God willing. The word 'deadly' does not come from I.I.

580. Abū 'Ubayda told me on the authority of Abū 'Amr, the Medinan, when the apostle got the better of the B. Qurayya he seized about four hundred men from the Jews who had been allies of Aṣ against Khazraj, and ordered that they should be beheaded. Accordingly Khazraj began to cut off their heads with great satisfaction. The apostle saw that the faces of Khazraj showed their pleasure, but there was no such indication on the part of Aṣ, and he suspected that that was because of the alliance that had existed between them and the B. Qurayya. When there were only twelve of them left he gave them over to Aṣ, assigning one Jew to every two of Aṣ, saying, 'Let so-and-so strike him and so-and-so finish him off.' One of those who was so handed over to them was Ka'b b. Yaḥūdhā, who was an important man among them. He gave him to Muḥayyīṣa and Abū Burda b. Niyr (it was Abū Burda to whom the apostle had given permission to sacrifice a young goat on the feast of Aḍḥā). He said, 'Let Muḥayyīṣa strike him and Abū Burda finish him off.' So Muḥayyīṣa fetched him a blow, which did not cut in properly, and Abū Burda dispatched him and gave him the finishing stroke. Ḫuwyayyīṣa, who was still an unbeliever, said to his brother, Muḥayyīṣa, 'Did you kill Ka'b b. Yaḥūdhā?', and when he said he did, he said, 'By God, much of the flesh on your belly comes from his wealth; you are a miserable fellow, Muḥayyīṣa.' He replied, 'If the one who ordered me to kill him had ordered me to kill you, I would have done so.' He was amazed at this remark and went away astounded. They say that he used to wake up in the night astonished at his brother's words, until in the morning he said, 'By God, this is indeed a religion.' Then he came to the prophet and accepted Islam. Muḥayyīṣa then spoke the lines which we have written above.

581. Others say Ruqaṭa.

582. A traditionist told me that the apostle said: 'I saw some cows of mine being slaughtered; they are those of my companions who will be killed. As to the dent which I saw in my sword, that is one of my family who will be killed.'

583. He put I. Umm Maktūm in charge of the public prayers.

584. For kulīb some say kīlāb. [A small hook or peg on the hilt of the sword is meant.]

585. The apostle allowed Ṣamūra b. Jundub al-Fazarī and Raḍī' b. Khadīj brother of B. Ḥāritha to go to battle, although they were but fifteen years of age and he had sent them back at first. But he was told that Raḍī' was a good archer so he let him go, and after having given him permission he was told that Samura could throw Raḍī' in wrestling so he let him go too. The following he turned back: Uṣāma b. Zayd; 'Abdullah b. Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb; Zayd b. Thābit, one of B. Mālik b. al-Najār; al-Barā' b. Azīz, one of B. Ḥāritha; Amr b. ʿAzīm, one of B. Mālik b. al-Najār; Usayd b. Zūhāy, one of B. Ḥāritha. He let them fight at the Trench when they were fifteen years of age.

586. The companions' war-cry that day was 'Kill, Kill!'

587. More than one traditionist has told me that Al-Zubayr b. al-'Awwām said, 'I was annoyed when I asked the apostle for the sword and he refused me and gave it to Abū ǆūjāna. I thought, 'I am the son of Saṭīya, his aunt, and belong to Quraṣh, and I went and asked him for it before this man, yet he gave it to him and left me. By God, I will see what he is doing.' So I followed him. The man drew out his red turban and wrapped his head in it. The Ṭuṣār said, 'Abū ǆūjāna has donned the turban of death.' This is what they used to say when he put it on. As he went forth he was saying,

Among the palms of that mountain side,
In solemn words my comrade cried,
Behind the ranks I'll never bide,
With God's own sword their ranks divide.'

There is a reading kuṭul for ḥayyāl.

589. A kind of bird inclining to black in colour.

590. I have heard that ʿAbū Saʿd was always being punished for drinking wine until he was struck off the pension list. 'Umar used to say: 'I knew that God would not leave the alayer of Ḥamza unpunished.'

591. Maṣlama b. ʿAlqama al-Māzīnī told me: When the fighting was fierce on the day of Uhud the apostle sat under the flag of the Aṣār and sent a message to 'Ali to tell him to bring the flag forward, which he did, saying, 'I am Abū'l-ʿQūṣām' or 'Abū'l-Fuṣām' according to I. H. Abū Saʿd b. Abū Ṭalḥa, who was in charge of the standard of the polytheists, called to him, 'Would you like to meet my challenge, Abū'l-ʿQūṣām?' When 'Ali accepted the challenge they fought between the ranks and exchanged two blows until 'Ali smote him and laid him on the ground. Then he left him without dispatching him. When his companions asked why he did not finish him off he said: 'He exposed his person to me (as a sign of abject surrender) and the tie of kindred made me pity him and I knew that God would certainly kill him.'

It is said that Abū Saʿd went out between the ranks and cried, 'I will break in pieces anyone who fights me,' and none went out against him. Then he cried: 'O you companions of Muḥammad, you allege that your dead are in paradise and our dead are in hell. By al-Lāt you lie. If you knew that was true one of you would come out to me. So ‘Ali went forth and after exchanging a couple of blows ‘Ali smote him and killed him.

592. Some say that he heard a cry for help. You find this expression in the hadith: ‘The best man is he who takes hold of his horse’s bridle: whenever he hears a cry of fear he flies towards it.’ Al-Ṭirimmiḥ b. Ḥakīm al-Ṭā‘īy (Ṭirimmiḥ means ‘a tall man’) said:

I am of the family of Mālik, glorious champions
Whenever the timorous cry for help.

593. Ḥāsān b. Thābit, according to Ibn Ḥishām, answered him thus:

You mention the proud stallions of Hāshim’s line
And there you lie but not speak the truth.
Are you pleased that you killed Hamza
The noble one whom you yourself call noble?
Did they not kill ‘Amr and ‘Uthba
And his son and Shayba and al-Hajjāj and Ibn Habīb
The day that al-‘Aṣ challenged ‘Ali who frightened him
With a blow of his sword dripping with blood?

594. The words ‘or jackals’ do not come from I.I. [This is an interesting note from I.H., because it indicates that he knows that the text of the poem has been tampered with. In this case we are able to recover the true text from Tab. 1414 which reads: ‘hyaenas and jackals would have cruunched his bones’, with farfarat for qarrarat. The alteration consists of one dot; but one would have expected that I.H., knowing the true text, would have followed it.]

595. al-Ḥārith answered Abū Sufyān thus because he suspected that he was hinting at him when he said ‘my horse remained but a stone’s throw off, for he had fled on the day of Badr.

596. The one who cried aloud was the spirit of the hill, i.e. Satan.

597. The last verse is ascribed to Abū Khirāḥ al-Hudhaṭi. Khalaf al-‘Aḥmar quoted it to me as his with the reading ‘her hands’, meaning his wife’s, with no connexion with Uḥud. The verses are also ascribed to Ma‘qil b. Kuwyaylīd al-Hudhaṭi.

598. Rubayḥ b. ‘Abdul-Lāh-Raḥmān b. Abū Sa‘d al-Khudrī from his father from Abū Sa‘d al-Khudrī said that ‘Uthba b. Abū Waqqās pelted the apostle that day and broke his right lower incisor and wounded his lower lip, and that ‘Abdullāh b. Shihāb al-Zuhrī wounded him in the forehead, and that Ibn Qamī’a wounded his cheekbone. Two rings from his helmet were forced into his cheek, and the apostle fell in a hole which Abū ‘Amr had made so that the Muslims might fall into it unawares. ‘Ali took hold of the apostle’s hand and Ṭalḥa b. ‘Ubaydullāh lifted him until he stood upright. Mālik b. Sinān, the father of Abū Sa‘d al-Khudrī, sucked the blood from the apostle’s face. Then he swallowed it. The apostle said, ‘He whose blood mingles with mine will not be touched by the fire of hell.’ ‘Abdul-Lāh Azīz b. Muhammad al-Darāwardi said that the prophet said, ‘He who wishes to see a martyr walking on the face of the earth, let him look at Ṭalḥa b. ‘Ubaydullāh.

‘Abdul-Lāh Azīz from Ishāq b. Yahyā b. Ṭalḥa from ‘Isa b. ‘Alī, Ṭalḥa from ‘Abū Bakr said that Abū ‘Ubayda b. al-Jarrāḥ pulled out one of the rings from the apostle’s face and his front tooth fell out. He pulled out another ring and the other incisor fell out. So Abū ‘Ubayda was short of his two front teeth.

599. We have omitted two obscene verses.

600. ‘Ummār’s mother, Nusayba d. of Ka‘b al-Māziniya, fought on the day of Uḥud.

Sa‘d b. Abū Zayd al-Anṣārī said that Umm Sa‘d d. of Sa‘d b. al-Rabī‘ used to say: ‘I went in to see Ṣa‘d Umāra and said, “O aunt, tell me your story,” and she answered: “I went out at the beginning of the day to see what the men were doing, carrying a skin with water in it, and I came up to the apostle who was with his companions while the battle was in their favour. When the Muslims were defeated, I betook myself to the apostle and stood up joining in the fight and protecting him with my sword and shooting with my bow until I suffered many wounds.” ’ Umān Sa‘d said, ‘I saw on her shoulder a deep gash and asked who was responsible for it. She said, “Ibn Qamī’a, God curse him! When the men fell back from the apostle he came forward saying ‘Lead me to Muhammad; let me not survive if he does.’ Mu‘āsh b. ‘Umar and I and some men who held their ground with the apostle blocked his path. It was he who gave me this wound, but I struck him several times for that. However, the enemy of God was wearing two coats of mail’.”

601. A learned traditionist told me that ‘Abdul-Lāh-Raḥmān b. ‘Auf was injured in the mouth and his teeth were broken and he had twenty wounds or more, one of them in his foot so that he became lame.

602. The sha’rā‘ is a fly that stings.

603. Tada‘da‘a means ‘he began to roll off his horse’.

604. Usra means ‘tribe’.

605. Khālid b. al-Walīd was commanding the cavalry.

606. I heard on the authority of ‘Ikrima from I. ‘Abbās that the apostle did not reach the step cut in the glen. ‘Umar, the client of Ghufrān, said that the prophet prayed the noon prayer on the day of Uḥud sitting, because of the wounds he had suffered; and the Muslims prayed sitting behind him.

607. A traditionist in whom I have confidence told me that al-Ḥārith killed al-Mujahdhdhr but did not kill Qays. An indication of the reason that he killed al-Mujahdhdhr was because he had killed his father Suwayd in one of the skirmishes between Asūs and Khazraj. We have mentioned that in an earlier passage of this book. While the apostle was with a number of his companions, suddenly al-Ḥārith appeared from one of the gardens of Medina wearing two blood-stained garments. The apostle ordered 'Uthmān to cut his head off. Others say it was one of the Ansār who did so.

608. We have omitted three obscene verses.

610. This is only one of the verses he composed; others also he wrote rhyming in d and dh which I have omitted because of their obscenity. [Tī. gives them. I commend I.H.'s reticence.]

611. I. Qamī'a's name was 'Abdullah.

612. Abū Bakr al-Zubayrī told me that a man went into Abū Bakr while Sā'd's little daughter was in his arms and he was kissing her. The man said to him, 'Who is this?' and he replied it is the daughter of a better man than I, Sā'd b. al-Rabī', who was one of the chiefs on the day of al-'Aqaba who was present at Badr and found martyrdom at Uhud.'

613. When the apostle stood over Ḥāmza's body he said, 'I have never been so hurt before. Never have I been more angry.' Then he said: 'Gabriel came to me and told me that Ḥāmza was written among the people of the seven heavens; 'Ḥāmza b. 'Abdu'l-Muṭṭalib, the lion of God and the lion of his apostle.' The apostle and Ḥāmza and Abū Sa'id al-Shārībād were foster-brothers whom a freedwoman of Abū Lahab had fostered.

614. On that day he forbade lamentation. Abū 'Ubaydā told me that when the apostle heard their weeping he said: 'God have mercy on the Ansār; for it has long been their custom to provide consolation. Tell the women to go away.' (I read 'atamāt with C. for W. 'alimtu or 'alimta.)

615. Jalāl may mean little or much; here it means 'little', as in the verse of Imru'u'l-Qays:

Now that the Banū Asad have killed their chief Everything else is of no account.

and in the verse of al-Jāṭīth b. Wa'la al-Jarmī it means 'much':
If I pardon I shall pardon a great crime.
If I punish I shall weaken my own bone.

616. The apostle's sword used to be called Dhū'l-Faqār. A traditionist told me that I. Abū Najīb said: 'Someone called out on the day of Uhud:
There is no sword but Dhū'l-Faqār
And no hero but 'Ali.'

A traditionist also told me that the apostle said to 'Ali: 'The polytheists will not inflict another defeat like this on us before God gives us the victory.'

617. He put I. Umm Maktūm in charge of Medina.

618. Abū 'Ubaydā told us that when Abū Sufyān went away on the day of Uhud he wanted to go back to Medina to exterminate the rest of the prophet's companions. Ṣafwān b. Umāyah said to them: 'Do not do it, for the enemy are infuriated and we fear that they may fight as they did not fight before; so return,' and they did return. When the prophet who was in Ḥamrā'u'l-Asad heard that they had decided to return he said: 'Stones have been marked for them.' Had they been pelted with them that morning they would have been like yesterday that is past.'

Abū 'Ubaydā said: 'On that journey of his before he returned to Medina, the apostle seized Mu'āwiya b. al-Mughāra, who was the grandfather of 'Abdu'l-Malīk b. Marwān, the father of his mother 'A'isha, and Abū 'Azza al-Jumāhī. The apostle had taken him prisoner at Badr and then released him. He asked the apostle to forgive him, but he said: 'You shall not stroke your cheeks in Mecca after this and say 'I have deceived Muhammad twice.' Strike off his head, Zubayr,' and he did so.'

I have heard that Sā'id b. al-Musayyab said that the apostle said to him: 'The believer should not be bitten twice by the same snake. Cut off his head, O 'Āṣim b. 'Thābit', and he did so.

It is said Zayd b. Ḥāritha and 'Amrār b. Yāsir killed Mu'āwiya b. al-Mughāra after Ḥamrā'u'l-Asad. He had taken refuge with 'Uthmān b. Affān, who asked the apostle to give him sanctuary, and he did so on the condition that if he were found after three days he should be killed. He stayed there more than three days and hid himself. The prophet sent the two of them and said, 'You will find him in such-and-such a place.' They found him there and killed him.

619. Tubawwtā'i means 'you chose positions and sites for them.' Al-Kumayt b. Zayd said:

Would that I before him
Had chosen a place to sleep in.

620. A traditionist from al-Asd said: 'The two parties said 'We do not wish that we had not thought as we did because God took us in hand.'

621. Musawwamān means 'plainly marked'. We have heard that al-Ḥasan b. Abū'l-Ḥasan al-Bāṣrī said: 'They had marked the tails and forelocks of their horses with white wool.' As for Ibn Iṣḥāq he said: Their distinguishing mark on the day of Bāṣr was white turbans, which I have recorded in the story of Bāṣr. Simā means 'distinguishing mark'. In the book of God you read: 'Their mark is on their faces (it is) the result of prostration' (48. 29), i.e. their distinguishing mark. 'And stones of clay massed, marked' (3. 12) and 'trees on which you send beasts to pasture' (16. 10). The Arabs say sawwama and asama when a man pastures his horses and camels. Al-Kumayt said:

He was a gentle shepherd and we lost him.
The loss of the pastor is the loss of the pastured.
The word mustah means 'gently leading, kind to the flock'.

642. Yabbitahum means 'afflict them to the utmost and prevent them from attaining their desires'. Dhul'Rumma said:

While I forget past sorrow I shall not forget our perplexity,
Poised between pleasure and frustration.
The word also means 'that he may throw them on their faces'.

623. Ribbiyun, singular ribbi, and al-ribab is applied to the sons of 'Abdu Manat b. Udd b. Tabilka b. Ilyas and to Dabba because they gathered together and made alliances; by this they mean multitudes. Singular of ribab is ribba and ribaba which mean large numbers of sticks and arrows and such-like and they compare them to them. Umayya b. Abul-Salt said:

Round their leaders are swarms, myriads,
Clad in nailed armour.
Ribaba also means the cloth in which arrows are wrapped. Sanawwar means armour, and duvar are the nails in coats of mail. God says: 'We carried him on a thing of planks and nails' (54. 13). Abul-Akhar al-Himani of Tamim said:

Nails on the ends of a straightened shaft.

624. Hass means rooting out. You can say hasastu something when you exterminate it by the sword or such-like. Jarir said:

The swords exterminated them as when
A flame rose high among felled trees.
And Ru'ba b. al-'Ajjaj said in a rajaz poem:

When we complained of a year that blasted (by cold)
Devouring the dry after the green.

625. al-Sakan was I. Rafi b. Imru'ul-Qays, or al-Sakn.

626. Others say Atik b. al-Tayyahan.

627. Qays was b. Zayd b. Dibay'a and Malik was b. Ama b. Dibay'a.

628. Abul Hayya was b. 'Amr b. Thabit.

629. And, it is said, Suwaybiq b. al-Hasib b. Hadi b. Haysha.

630. 'Amr b. Qays was b. Zayd b. Sawad.

631. Aus was the brother of Hassan b. Thabit.

632. Anas b. al-Nadr was the uncle of Anas b. Malik, the apostle's servant.

633. Abul Sa'id's name was Sinan, or as others say Sa'd.
We have an unconquerable band led by a prophet
Who has brought the truth, is clement, and acclaimed as true.
Can it be that the mixed tribes of Fihr have not heard
Of the maiming of bodies and the splitting of skulls?

647. Some authorities on poetry deny that 'Amr said this.

648. This poem is the best that has been written on the subject. Hassan composed it at night and summoned his people, saying: 'I am afraid that death may overtake me before the morning and it may not be recited in my name.'

Abu 'Ubayda quoted to me the verse of al-Hajjaj b. 'Ilat al-Sulami in praise of 'Ali in which he mentioned his killing 'Ala b. Abi 'Ala b. 'Abdu'l-'Uzza, the standard-bearer of the polytheists, on the day of Uhud:

By God, what a fine protector of women is Fatiha's son
Whose paternal and maternal uncles were noble!
You quickly dealt him a deadly thrust
Which left 'Ala with his forehead cleaving to the dust;
You attacked them like a hero and made them retreat
At the mountain foot, where they fell one after another.

649. Most authorities on poetry deny Hassan's authorship. The verses 'Who in the winter', 'Who leapt to their bridles', and 'By one who suffered time's misfortunes' are not from I.F.

650. Abu Zayd quoted to me the verse 'How we behave' and the next verse and the third verse from it and the beginning of the fourth and the words 'We grow up and our fathers perish' and the next verse and the third verse from it.

651. Abu Zayd quoted me the poem from the words 'Advancing and encouraging us' to the end.

652. Abu Zayd recited it to me as from Ka'b b. Malik.

653. Abu Zayd quoted me the words 'you have not won' and 'of Him who grants the best favours'.

654. Some authorities on poetry deny Dirar's authorship.

655. An authority on poetry told me that 'Ali did not utter these words, and I have never met anyone who recognized them as 'Ali's. They were spoken by an unknown Muslim. The phrase 'as night' has not I.I.'s authority.

656. The words 'all of us' and 'they would have a morning draught' have not I.I.'s authority.

657. An authority on poetry quoted to me her words 'In sorrow and tears,' &c.

658. An authority on poetry quoted to me her line 'Some from whom I sought vengeance,' &c. Some authorities deny that Hind uttered it, and only God knows the truth.
The Life of Muhammad

Sināf means 'girth'. Wajīf means 'throbbing of the heart and the liver', i.e. the beat. Qays b. Al-Khaṭām al-Zafārī said:

'Though they brought what they know,
Our livers palpitate behind them.'

673. 'Amr b. Buhtha was of Ghaṭafān. The words 'in a distant place' are not from I.f.

674. Some of our traditionists tell me that some anonymous Muslim recited the verses. I have never met anyone who knew them as 'Ali's.

675. Or 'Abdullah b. Rawaḥa.

676. B. Sulaym. 'Amr al-Madani said: After B. Naṣār the apostle attacked B. al-Muṣṭāfī. I shall relate their story in the place in which I. I. related it.

677. He put B. Dharr al-Ghifārī in charge of Medina, or according to others 'Uthmān b. 'Affān. It was called Dhatūl-Riqā' because they patched their flags there. Others say because there was a tree of that name there. [Cf. W. R. Smith, Religion of the Semites, 185.]

678. 'Abdu'l-Warith b. Sa'id al-Tannūrī, surnamed Abū 'Ubayda, told us from Yūnus b. 'Abayd from al-Ḥasan b. Abū'l-Ḥasan from Jābir b. Abūl-Durāzh, concerning the prayer of fear: the apostle prayed two bows with one section, then he ended with the invocation of peace, while the other section were facing the enemy. Then they came and he prayed two other bows with them, ending with the invocation of peace.

679. 'Abdu'l-Wārīth b. Sa'id al-Tannūrī from Ayyūb from Abū'l-Zubayr from Jābir: The apostle ranged us in two ranks and bowed with us all. Then the apostle prostrated himself and the front rank prostrated. When they raised their heads those next to them prostrated themselves. Then the front rank went back and the rear rank advanced until they occupied their place. Then the prophet bowed with them all; then he prostrated and those next him did likewise. When they raised their heads those behind prostrated themselves. The prophet bowed with them all and each one of them prostrated twice.

680. 'Abdu'l-Wārīth b. Sa'id al-Tannūrī from Ayyūb from Nāfi' from Ibn 'Umar said: The imam stands and one section stands with him while another section are near the enemy. The imam bows and prostrates with them. Then they withdraw and become those nearest the enemy. The others advance and the imam performs one bow and one prostration with them. Then each section prays with one bow. They have one bow with the imam and one by themselves.

681. Līna are of different kinds. Palms neither fruitful nor bearing good dates according to what Abū 'Ubayda told me. [This explanation, which is also that of S. ii. 177, who says that the prophet did not cut down palms that bore edible dates, should be compared with the lexicons which state that the ajwa, the best kind of date, grows on the līna. See Lane, 1969a.]

The saddle-frames above it looked like a bird's nest
On the thick-trunked palm as its sides oscillated.

682. Aujaftum means 'You drove them fast and wearied them in running Tamīm b. Ubayy b. Muqbil, one of B. 'Amir b. Ṣa'īda, said:
Protectors with swords newly polished
From riders when they urged their steeds at a gallop,
i.e. 'running'.

Abū Zayd al-Ṭā'ī whose name was Ḥarmala b. al-Mundhir said:
Their girths tightened like Indian lances
Because of the length of the run (waqif) through land bare of pasture.
764. Abú Zayd quoted it to me as from Ka‘b b. Malik.

766. Liwâdh means ‘concealing something in flight’. Ḥassan b. Thâbit said:
    Quraysh fled from us to hide themselves
    So that they stood not firm, their minds unstable.
This is a verse which we have mentioned in the poetry about Badr (p. 626).

767. He put I. Umm Maktu‘m in charge of Medina.

768. A traditionist whom I trust told me that Mu‘attib was not one of the disaffected; his argument was that he was at Badr.

769. Or ‘Amr b. ‘Abî b. Abu Qays [apparently a later attempt to remove the heathen name of Wudd].

770. It is said that Salûm the Persian advised the apostle to make it. A traditionist told me that on this day the Muhâjirîns claimed that Salûm belonged to them, while the Ansâr said that he was their man; but the apostle said, ‘Salûm belongs to us, the people of the house.’

771. Most authorities on poetry doubt ‘Ali’s authorship.

772. Fur‘ul is a young hyaena. At the battles of the Trench and B. Quraysh the cry of the apostle’s companions was Ḥâ Mi‘m [the letters prefixed to sūras 40, 41, 43, 45, and 46] ‘They will not be held!’

773. It is said that the man who shot Sa‘d was Khâfîjâ b. ‘Âshîm b. Hibbân.

774. Mârîjî is a kind of Yaman cloth.

775. He left I. Umm Maktu‘m in charge of Medina.

776. Others say Annî.

777. God sent down concerning Abû Lubâba according to what Sufyân b. ‘Uyayna from Ismâ‘îl b. Abû Khâlid from ‘Abdullâh b. Abû Qatâda said, ‘O ye who believe, do not betray God and the apostle and be false to your engagements while you know what you are doing (8. 27).

778. He remained tied to a stump for six nights. His wife used to come to him at every time of prayer and untie him for prayer. Then he would return and tie himself to the stump according to what a traditionist told me, and the verse which came down about his repentance is the word of God: ‘And others who confess their sins have mingled good actions with bad; it may be that God will forgive them: God is forgiving, merciful’ (q. 103).

779. A traditionist whom I trust told me that ‘Ali cried as they were besieging B. Quraysh, ‘O squadron of the Faith’; and he and al-Zubayr b. al-‘Awwâm advanced and he said, ‘Either I will taste what Hamza tasted or I will conquer their fort.’ They said, ‘O Muhammad, we will submit to the judgement of Sa‘d b. Mu‘âdh.’

780. fuq̲a‘hîya means a kind of brocade.

781. This was the woman who threw the millstone on Khallâd b. Suwayd and killed him.

782. Qabla is the receiving of the bucket of the camel drawing water. Zuhayr b. Abu Sulma said concerning qabla:
    Whenever his hands get hold of the bottom of the bucket
    He sings as he stands pouring out the water.

Another reading is waqâbîla wâtalâqqa, meaning ‘the receiver of the bucket takes hold of it’. The nādiḥ is the camel that draws the water to irrigate. Cf. Sharh Dâ‘în Zuhayr, Cairo, 1944, p. 40. [Here I.H. is explaining the variant qabla for fâlta.]

783. Aquâr means ‘sides’, singular qâr. Qutr, plural aquâr, has the same meaning. Al-Farazdaq said:
    What wealth did God open to them
    As the horses rolled on their sides
[i.e. to get to their feet]. Aquâr and aquâr are variant readings.

784. Sulaykum means ‘they injured you with talk, burned and distressed you’. The Beduin say ‘an eloquent (salâq) speaker and khasîb mislq and mîsâq.’ A’shâ of B. Qays b. Thâlabâ said:
    Among them is glory, tolerance, and nobility,
    Among them is the sharp eloquent orator.

785. Qadâ nabhûhu means ‘died’; nabh means ‘breath’, according to what Abû ‘Ubaydâ told me; its plural is mûdîb. Dhûl-Rumma said:
    The night that the Hârîthis fled
    After Haubar died (qadâ nabhûhu) in the cavalry charge.

Haubar was one of B. al-Hârith b. Ka‘b. He means Yazid b. Haubar. Nabh also means ‘vow’. Jarîr b. al-Khâtîfî said:
    In Tîkhfâ we fought the kings, and our cavalry
    Went on the night of Bîstâm to fulfil their vow.

He means the vow they had sworn to kill him and they did kill him. Bîstâm was Bîstâm b. Qays b. Mas‘ûd al-Shaybânî, who was Ibn Dhul-Jâdîl. Abû ‘Ubaydâ told me that he was the knight of Rabî‘a b. Nizâr. Tîkhfâ is a place on the Basra road. Nabh also means ‘wagers’, i.e. ‘bets’. Al-Farazdaq said:
    When Kalb bet against people which of us
    Is more generous and liberal?
Another meaning is 'weeping'. Nabh also means 'necessity and need'. You can say 'They have nothing I want.' Malik b. Buwayra al-Yarbū'ī said:

They have nothing I want except that I
Seek the red-eyed camels of Shudun that you want.

Nabīr b. Tausi'a, one of B. Taymu'l-Lāt b. Tha'laba b. Ša'b b. 'Ali b. Bakr b. Wā'il, who were clients of B. Ḥanifa, said:

A long gallop saved Yūsuf al-Thaqafī
After the standard had fallen.
Had they overtaken him they would have fulfilled their need of him.
There is a protector for every (victim) missed.

Nabh also means 'a gentle rapid gait'.

716. Suhaým slave of B. al-Hashās who are of B. Asad b. Khuzayma said:

The chiefs¹ lay dead on the ground
And Tamūr's women hastened to the forts.

Šuyāfi also means 'horns'. Al-Nabigha al-Ja'di said:

(Death smote the) chiefs of my tribe so that I was alone
Like the horn of a bull whose other horn is broken off.

Abū Duwwād al-Iyādī said:

The blackness of their horns scared us.
Their feet as it were sprinkled with pitch and tar.

Šuyāfi also means the weaver's implement according to what Abū 'Ubayda told me, and he quoted me the line of Durayd b. al-Šimma al-Jushamī, Jusham b. Mu'āwiya b. Bakr b. Hawāzin:

I looked at him as the spears² went through him
As the šuyāfī go through the outstretched web.

Šuyāfi also means the protuberances on the feet of cocks like little horns. It also means 'roots'. He told me that the Arabs say, 'May God cut off his šayā, i.e. his root'.

717. The metaphorical meaning of this tradition is (explained in) the words of 'Aisha: 'The apostle said, 'The grave has a hold on people; if anyone were to escape from it it would be Sa'd b. Mu'ād.'

718. She was Kubaysha d. Rāfī' b. Mu'āwiya b. 'Ubayd b. Tha'laba b. 'Abdu'l-Abjar, who was Khudra b. 'Auf b. al-Ḥarih b. al-Khasrāj.

719. You can say sahmu ṣhāribin and sahmu ṣharbin with or without ẓāfā. It is not known whence the arrow comes or who shot it.

720. He was 'Uthmān b. Umayya b. Munabbīh b. 'Ubayd b. al-Sabbāq.

721. I have heard from al-Zuhri that they gave³ the apostle 10,000 dirhams for his body.

---

² W.'s waḥ-řī makes no sense and violates the metre. It is one of his very few mistakes.

³ Perhaps the sense here is merely 'they offered to give'.

---

722. A trustworthy person told me that he was told on the authority of al-Zuhri that that day 'Ali killed Amr b. 'Abdu Wudd and his son Ṣah.' Others say 'Amr b. 'Abd. [Presumably the name of the heathen deity has been dropped.]

723. One whom I can trust told me from 'Abdu'l-Malik b. Yahyā b. 'Abbād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr: When Ka'b said, 'Quaraysh came to contend with their Lord', &c., the apostle said: 'God thanks you, Ka'b, for saying that.'

724. Abū Zayd quoted to me verses 8 and 20; and v. 11 with the variant 'as though to the top of Quda al-Mashriq'.

725. The verses 'We kept every fine... courser' and the following verse and the third and fourth and the verse 'Haughty as an angry lion' and the following verse are from Abū Zayd.

726. Some authorities on poetry deny his authorship. The words 'Amr to dismount' are not from I.I.

727. Some authorities on poetry deny Ḥassān's authorship.

728. These verses are credited to Rabī'a b. Umayya al-Dillī, whose last verse runs:

You brought the Khazrajī to his knees
And so I saw my desire on him.

The verses are also credited to Abū Usāma al-Jushami.

729. Or his leg.

730. Another reading is yahutu, 'annuls'.

731. He left I. Umm Maktūm in charge of Medina.

732. More than one traditionist asserted that Waqqās b. Muḥriz al-Mudlijī was also killed that day.

733. Sa'd's horse was Lāhiq; Miqdād's was Ba'zaja or Sabba; 'Ukāsha's was Dhū'l-Limma; Abū Qatāda's was Ḥazwa; 'Abbād's was Lammā; Usayd's was Masnūn; and Abū 'Ayyāsh's was Julwa.

734. He left I. Umm Maktūm in charge of Medina.

735. When Ḥassān said this Sa'd b. Zayd was enraged against him and swore that he would never speak to him again. He said: 'He has actually attributed my horses and my horsemen to al-Miqdād!' Ḥassān excused himself, saying, 'That was not my intention, I swear. But al-Miqdād's name suited the rhyme'. Ḥassān composed other verses to placate Sa'd:

If you seek the stoutest warrior
Or an able man, go to Sa'd,
Sa'd b. Zayd the dauntless.

But Sa'd would not accept the apology and it availed him naught.

736. Abū Zayd quoted me the line 'We feed the guest'.

---

1 The poet is speaking of mountain goats.

2 Perhaps the sense here is merely 'they offered to give'.

3 Perhaps the sense here is merely 'they offered to give'.

---

Ibn Hisám's Notes

722. A trustworthy person told me that he was told on the authority of al-Zuhri that that day 'Ali killed Amr b. 'Abdu Wudd and his son Ṣah. Others say 'Amr b. 'Abd. [Presumably the name of the heathen deity has been dropped.]

723. One whom I can trust told me from 'Abdu'l-Malik b. Yahyā b. 'Abbād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Zubayr: When Ka'b said, 'Quaraysh came to contend with their Lord', &c., the apostle said: 'God thanks you, Ka'b, for saying that.'

724. Abū Zayd quoted to me verses 8 and 20; and v. 11 with the variant 'as though to the top of Quda al-Mashriq'.

725. The verses 'We kept every fine... courser' and the following verse and the third and fourth and the verse 'Haughty as an angry lion' and the following verse are from Abū Zayd.

726. Some authorities on poetry deny his authorship. The words 'Amr to dismount' are not from I.I.

727. Some authorities on poetry deny Ḥassān's authorship.

728. These verses are credited to Rabī'a b. Umayya al-Dillī, whose last verse runs:

You brought the Khazrajī to his knees
And so I saw my desire on him.

The verses are also credited to Abū Usāma al-Jushami.

729. Or his leg.

730. Another reading is yahutu, 'annuls'.

731. He left I. Umm Maktūm in charge of Medina.

732. More than one traditionist asserted that Waqqās b. Muḥriz al-Mudlijī was also killed that day.

733. Sa'd's horse was Lāhiq; Miqdād's was Ba'zaja or Sabba; 'Ukāsha's was Dhū'l-Limma; Abū Qatāda's was Ḥazwa; 'Abbād's was Lammā; Usayd's was Masnūn; and Abū 'Ayyāsh's was Julwa.

734. He left I. Umm Maktūm in charge of Medina.

735. When Ḥassān said this Sa'd b. Zayd was enraged against him and swore that he would never speak to him again. He said: 'He has actually attributed my horses and my horsemen to al-Miqdād!' Ḥassān excused himself, saying, 'That was not my intention, I swear. But al-Miqdād's name suited the rhyme'. Ḥassān composed other verses to placate Sa'd:

If you seek the stoutest warrior
Or an able man, go to Sa'd,
Sa'd b. Zayd the dauntless.

But Sa'd would not accept the apology and it availed him naught.

736. Abū Zayd quoted me the line 'We feed the guest'.

---

1 The poet is speaking of mountain goats.

2 W.'s waḥ-řī makes no sense and violates the metre. It is one of his very few mistakes.

3 Perhaps the sense here is merely 'they offered to give'.

738. The war-cry of the Muslims on the day of B. Muṣṭafāq was ‘O victorious one, slay, slay!’

739. It is said that when the apostle departed from the raid with Juwayriya and was at Dhi‘āl-l-Jaysh he entrusted her to one of the Āṣār and went forward to Medina. Her father al-Ḥāritī came bringing his daughter’s ransom. When he was in al-‘Aqiq he looked at the camels he had brought as her ransom and admired two of them greatly, so he hid them in one of the passes of al-‘Aqiq. Then he came to the prophet and told him that he had brought his daughter’s ransom. He said: ‘Where are the two camels which you have hidden in al-‘Aqiq in such-and-such a pass?’ Al-Ḥāritī exclaimed: ‘I bear witness that there is no God but Allah and that you, Muhammad, are the apostle of Allah; for none could have known of this but God.’ He and his two sons who were with him and some of his men accepted Islam and he sent for the two camels and brought them and handed all of them over to the prophet. His daughter was handed over to him and became an excellent Muslim. The apostle asked her father to let him marry her and when he agreed he gave her 400 dirhams as dowry.

740. She was 'Umm Rūmān, Zaynab b. 'Abdu Duḥmān, one of B. Ḍharr b. Ghanām b. Mālik b. Kinānā.

741. Others say it was 'Abdullāh b. Ubayy and his companions. The one who had the greater share therein was 'Abdullāh, as I.I. has shown above. [Presumably I.H.'s note ends at this point.]

742. In the tradition kitārahu and khubrahu occur, but the Quran has kībrahu with kāsr. ‘Let not those who possess dignity among you.’ ya'lla means ‘be remiss’, as in the line of Imru’ul-Qays al-Kindī:

Many a troublesome opponent have I repelled for love of you,
One who advised and reproved me without ceasing (mu’llāl)
(Mu’all. v. 41). It is said that the Quranic words mean ‘Let not those who possess dignity take an oath’, which according to what we have heard is what al-Ḥassān Abū-l-Ḥassān al-Baṣrī said. And in God’s book ‘Those who forswear their wives’ (yu’llina) is from alīya and alīya means an oath. Ḥassān b. Thābit said:

I swear that no man is more careful than I
In swearing an oath true and free from falsehood.

I shall mention this verse in its context later (v.i., W. p. 1026, 1. 2). The meaning of an yu’tā in this case is an lā yu’tā; and in God’s book we read: ‘God makes it plain to you an tadillū, meaning an lā tadillū; He holds back the sky lest (an) it should fall on the earth, meaning an lā.’ I. Mufarrigh al-Ḥimyart said:

May I never frighten the camels at dawn.
May I not be called Yazīd
If, fearing death, I make my shame public
While the fates watch me lest I should turn aside.

i.e. lā ahīda.

743. Another version is ‘... after God has guided you to Islam’.

744. The verse ‘a noble woman’ and the one after, and ‘His rank’ are on the authority of Abū Zayd. Abū ‘Ubaydā told me that a woman praised Ḥassān’s presence, saying:

Chaste, keeping to her house, above suspicion,
Never thinking of reviling innocent women;
and ‘A’isha said, ‘But her father did!’

745. Ḥassān and his two companions.

746. He put Numayla b. ‘Abdullāh in charge of Medina.

747. Others say Busr.

748. Afṣā b. Ḥaritha.

749. For yahmadānaka some say yamdāhānaka.

750. In saying this ‘Urwa meant that al-Mughīra before he became a Muslim had killed thirteen men of B. Mālik of Thaqīf. The two clans of Thaqīf fought, the B. Mālik the family of the slain, and the allies the family of al-Mughīra, and ‘Urwa paid the bloodwit for the thirteen men and that settled the affair.

751. Wālī’ from Ismā’īl b. Abū Khālid from al-Sha’bī mentioned that the first one to pledge the apostle was Abū Sinān al-Asadī. One whom I trust and his two companions.

752. Mu’kāf means ‘bound’. Aṣhā of B. Qays b. Tha‘labā said:

‘Twas as though the thread kept the beads from scattering
On either side of Umm Ghazāl’s graceful neck.

753. I have heard that Muṣṭahīd said, ‘This passage came down concerning al-Walīd b. al-Walīd b. al-Mughīra and Salama b. Hīshām and Ayyāsh b. Abū Rabī‘a and Abū Jandal b. Suhayl and others like them.’

754. The proof of al-Zuhrī’s assertion that the apostle went to al-Hudaybiya with 1,400 men is in the words of Jābir b. ‘Abdullah: ‘Then in the year of the conquest of Mecca two years afterwards the apostle marched with 10,000.’

755. Abū Baṣīr was of Thaqīf.

756. Abū Unays was an Ash‘arī.

757. The singular of ‘isam is ‘isma which means a cord or rope. al-’Ashā b. Qays said:

To Imru’ul-Qays we make long journeys
And we take ropes from every tribe. (Disān. iv. 20.)

758. Abū ‘Ubaydā told us that some who were with the apostle when he came to Medina said to him, ‘Did you not say that you would enter Mecca safely?’
The Life of Muhammad

He answered, ‘Certainly, but did I say that it would be this year?’ They said
No, and he went on: ‘It is in accordance with what Gabriel said to me.’

759. He put Numayla b. 'Abdullah in charge of Medina and gave the standard to 'Ali. It was white.

760. The war-cry of the companions at Khaybar was ‘O victorious one, slay slay!’

761. Abū Zayd quoted the lines thus:
Khaybar knows that I am Ka'b
And that when war breaks out
I advance against terrors, bold and dour.
I carry a sharp sword that glitters like lightning
In the hand of a warrior sans reproach.
We will crush you till the strong is humbled.

Marhab was from Ḥimyar.

762. It was white.

763. Judhām is the brother of Lakhm.

764. Farrat means ‘the eyelids were uncovered from the eyes as an animal’s (lips) are uncovered when one looks at its teeth’. He means ‘they uncovered the eyelids from the covers of the eyesight’ meaning the Anṣār. (But the Jews must be referred to here.]

an ally of B. Asad and the son of their sister.

766. Al-Aswād the shepherd was one of the people of Khaybar.

767. Another reading is ‘the spoil of Muhammad’, &c.

768. Abū Zayd quoted these verses to me from Ka'b b. Mālik and he quoted:
What stopped him was the behaviour of his horse.
But for that he would not have been remiss.

769. A rhapsodist quoted to me his words ‘when I charged’ and ‘perished in the feeding place’.
Ka'b b. Mālik said, according to Ibn Hishām on the authority of Abū Zayd:

We came down to Khaybar and its drinking places
With every strong warrior whose veins showed in his hand.¹
Brave in dangers, no weaklings.
Bold against the enemy in every battle,
Generous with food every winter,
Smitten with the blade of an Indian sword.
They think death praiseworthy if they get the martyrdom
They hope for from God and victory through Ahmad.
They protect and defend Muhammad’s protégé.
They fight for him with hand and tongue.

Ibn Hishām’s Notes

770. On the day of Khaybar the apostle decided which were Arab horses and which were of mixed blood.

771. He was called ‘Ubayd al-Sihām’ because he bought the shares. He was ‘Ubayd b. Aus, one of B. Ḥāritha b. al-Ḥārith b. al-Khazraj b. ‘Amr b. Mālik
b. Aus.

772. (Loads refer to) wheat, barley, dates, and datestones, &c. He distributed them according to their needs. [This useful explanatory note from I.H. is not in W.’s text and there is no mention of the reading in his critical notes in vol. iii. C. notes that it is missing in W. but does not state what manuscripts contain it. Datestones were pounded up and used for camel food.] The need of B. ‘Abdullāh-Mutta’līb was greater and so he gave them more.

773. Some say ‘Azza b. Mālik and his brother Murrān or Mawrān b. Mālik.
[This latter divergence obviously shows that the tradition rested on manuscripts which could not be read with certainty.]

774. According to Mālik b. Anas he said Kabbir Kabbir! [There is no difference in the meaning.]

775. Or Aslam.

776. Some say ‘to Qatāda’.

777. The word khāṭar means ‘share’. You can say akhtar li falān khaṭaran, someone gave me a share.’

778. Sufyān b. Uyayna from al-Ajlāh from al-Sha’bī said that Ja’far b.
Abū Īṭāb came to the apostle the day he conquered Khaybar. The apostle kissed his forehead and taking hold of Iman said: ‘I don’t know which gives me the greater pleasure—the conquest of Khaybar or the arrival of Ja’far.’

779. Others say her name was Humayna.

780. He put ‘Uwayf b. al-Adbāṣ al-Dili in charge of Medina. This is also called the ‘Pilgrimage of Retaliation’ because they prevented him from pilgrimage in Dhū’l-Qa’dā in the holy month in A.H. 6; and the apostle retaliated and entered Mecca in the very month in which they had shut him out, in A.H. 7. We have heard that I. ‘Abbās said: ‘God revealed concerning that, “And forbidden things are subject to retaliation” ’ (2. 190).

781. The words ‘We will fight you about its interpretation’ to the end of the verses were spoken by ‘Amrnār b. Yāṣir about another battle. The proof of that is that I. Rawāḥa referred only to the polytheists. They did not believe in the revelation and only those who did would fight for an interpretation of it. [S. says the occasion was the battle of Siffin, and this certainly gives point to the verses which are to be found in the K. Siffin.]
782. She had entrusted her sister Umm al- Faḍl with her affairs; she, being married to al-Abbās, confided the matter to him, and he married her to the apostle in Mecca and gave her as dowry on the apostle’s behalf 400 dirhams.

783. God sent down to him—so Abū ‘Ubayda told me—‘God has fulfilled the vision in reality to His apostle, “You shall enter the sacred mosque if God will in safety with heads shaved and (hair) shorn, not fearing”’. He knows what you do not know, and He has wrought besides that a victory near by’ (48.27), i.e. Khaybar.

784. Some authorities on poetry quoted the verses to me thus:

You are the apostle and he who is deprived of his gifts
And the sight of him has no real worth.
May God confirm the good things He gave you
Among the apostles, and the victory as they were helped.
I perceived goodness in you by a natural gift,
An intuition which is contrary to what they think of you, meaning the polytheists.

785. Another reading is:

We urged on our horses from the thickets of Qurḥ.

[This is the reading of T. 1212, r. 9 and Yāq. iv. 53, r. 22, who says that Qurḥ is in the Wāḍā‘-i-Qurḥ. I. I.'s reading is given in Yāq. iv. 571.] The words ‘We arranged their bridles’ are not from I. I.

786. Others say 'Ubāda b. Mālik.

787. A traditionist whom I trust told me that Ja‘far took the flag in his right hand and it was cut off; then he held it in his left hand and that was cut off; then he held it to his breast with his arms until he was slain. He was 33 years old. For that God rewarded him with a pair of wings in Paradise with which he flew whither he would. It is said that a Greek gave him a blow which cut him asunder.

788. Another reading is 40 skins (mant‘a).

789. The words I. al-İrash are not from I. I. The third verse is from Khallād b. Qurra; others say Mālik b. Rāfīla.

790. Al-Zuhri according to our information said that the Muslims made Khālid their chief and God helped them, and he was in charge of them until he came back to the prophet.

792. The poem is ascribed to Ḥabib b. ‘Abdullah al-A‘lam al-Hudhali, and the verse ‘I remembered the ancient blood-feud’ is from Abū ‘Ubayda, also the words ‘wide-nostrilled’ and ‘strong, lean-flanked’, &c.

793. The words ‘except Nāfīl’ and ‘to the slopes of Rādwā’ are not from I. I. Concerning him Ḥassān b. Thābit said:

God curse the tribe we left deprived of their best men
With none but Nāqib to call them together.
O Naufal, testicles of a donkey who died last night.
When have you ever been successful, you enemy of baggage!

[The last insult means ‘you never equip yourself for a foray’, or, perhaps, ‘you thief!’]

794. Another reading is ‘Help us, God guide you, with strong aid’; and ‘We provided the mother and you are the son’.

795. Another reading is ‘the worst enemy’.

796. By the words ‘By men who had not drawn their swords’ he means Quraysh, and by ‘the son of Umm Muhālid’ he means ‘Ikrima b. Abū Jahl’.

797. He met him in al-Juḥfa migrating with his family; before that he had lived in Mecca in charge of the watering with the goodwill of the apostle, according to what al-Zuhri told me.

798. Another reading is ‘And one whom I had driven out led me to the truth’.

799. It was called greenish-black because of the large amount of steel in it. Al-Ḥārith b. Ḥilizza al-Yashkuri said:

Then Ḥujr, I mean Ibn Umm Qatām,
With his greenish-black horsemen meaning the squadron; and Ḥassān b. Thābit said:
When he saw Badr’s valley walls
Swarming with the blackmailed squadrons of Khazraj
in his poem on Badr [v.s. 525].

800. Said to be ‘Umar.

801. He was of Khuzā‘a.

802. An authority on poetry quoted me his saying ‘like a pillar which is credited to al-Ri‘ash al-Hudhali. On the day of Mecca, Ḥunayn, and al-Ṭa‘if the battle-cry of the muḥājirs was ‘O Banū ‘Abdu ‘l-Rahan’; of the Khazraj, ‘O Banū ‘Abdullah’; of the Aus, ‘O Banū ‘Ubaydullah’.

803. Afterwards he became a Muslim and ‘Umar gave him a governorship and so did ‘Uthmān after him.

804. Al-‘Abbās had put Fāṭima and Umm Kūlthūm, the two daughters of the apostle, on a camel to take them from Mecca to Medina and al-Ḥuwayrith goaded the beast so that it threw them to the ground.

805. They were al-Ḥārith b. Ḥishām and Zuhayr b. Abū Umayya b. al-Mughirah.

1 W. leaves this sentence under I. I.’s name.
806. Sufyān b. Uwayna mentioned that the apostle said to 'Ali, 'I give you only that which you have lost; not that which you will cause others to lose.'

A traditionist told me that the apostle entered the temple on the day of the occupation, and saw the figures of angels and other beings and a picture of Abraham with divining arrows in his hand. 'God slay them,' he said, 'they have pictured our shaykh as a man divining with arrows. What has Abraham to do with such things?' "Abraham was not a Jew nor a Christian, but he was a hamīf, a Muslim, and was not a polytheist" (3. 60). Then he gave orders that all those pictures should be erased. [Azraqi, Mecca, 1352, 104 ult., records a tradition that the picture of Jesus and Mary was retained by the prophet.]

He also told me that the apostle and Bilāl entered the Ka'ba, and when the former came out Bilāl remained behind. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar went in to him and asked him where the apostle had prayed, but he did not ask how many times. When Ibn 'Umar went into the temple he walked straight forward until there was a space of about three cubits between the wall and the door behind him; then he would pray, making for the place which Bilāl had told him of.

He also said that when the apostle entered the Ka'ba in the year of the conquest in company with Bilāl he ordered him to call the people to prayer. Now Abū Sufyān b. Ḥarib and 'Atṭāb b. Asīd and al-Ḥārith b. Hishām were sitting in the courtyard of the Ka'ba. 'Atṭāb b. Asīd said, 'God has honoured Asīd in not letting him hear this, for it would have enraged him.' Al-Ḥārith said, 'If I knew that he was right I would follow him.' Abū Sufyān said, 'I say nothing. If I were to speak the very stones would tell him of it.' Thereupon the prophet came out to them and said, 'I know what you said, and repeated their words. Al-Ḥārith and 'Atṭāb said, 'We bear witness that you are the apostle of God. There was none with us who could have known this so that we could say that it was he who told you.'

807. I heard that the first man for whom the apostle paid the bloodwit was Junaydīb b. Al-Akwe'. The B. Ka'b killed him and the apostle paid a hundred she-camels for him.

I heard from Yahyā b. Sa'id that when the prophet entered Mecca he stood on al-Ṣa'āfā praying to God. The Ansār were all round him and were saying among themselves, 'Do you think that now that God has given him power over his land and his town that he will remain in it?' When he had ended his prayers he asked them what they had been saying. At first they would not say, but finally they told him and he said: 'God forbid! The place where I live will be your place, and the place where I die will be yours.'

A traditionist in whom I have confidence with a chain going back to Ibn Shihāb al-Zubrī from 'Ubaydullāh b. 'Abdullāh from Ibn 'Abbās said:

The apostle entered Mecca on the day of conquest riding his camel, and went round the Ka'ba on it. All round the temple were images set in lead, and the apostle was pointing at them with a stick in his hand, saying, 'Truth has come and falsehood has passed away; falsehood is bound to pass away' (17. 82). If he pointed at the image's face it fell backwards; if he pointed at its back it fell on its face, until there was not one of them standing. Tamīm b. Asad al-Khuza'i said concerning that:

In the idols there is an instructive lesson
To one who hopes for reward or punishment.

Ibn Hishām's Notes

He told me that Faḍlā b. 'Umayr b. al-Mulawwah al-Laythi wanted to kill the prophet as he was going round the temple in the year of the conquest. When he drew near, the apostle asked him what he was muttering. He replied that he was only mentioning the name of God. The prophet laughed and said, 'Ask God's forgiveness,' and he put his hand on his chest and his heart became at rest. Faḍlā used to say, 'As soon as he took his hand from my chest none of God's creatures was dearer to me than he; so I went back to my people. I passed by a woman with whom I used to have converse, and when she asked me to join her I refused.' He used to say,

She said, Come and talk! and I said,
God and Islam make it unlawful.
If you had seen Muhammad and his victorious entry
The day the idols were smashed
You would have seen God's religion shining plainly
And darkness covering the face of idolatry.

808. A traditionist of Quraysh told me that Sāfīn said to 'Umar, 'Confound you, get away and do not speak to me, for you are a liar,' because of what he himself had done. We have mentioned the latter in the end of the account of the battle of Badr.

809. Some authorities on poetry deny his authorship of this poem.

810. Another version is 'And kinship's cords were severed from you.'

811. Hassān said this on the day of the occupation. For 'ayba some recite 'alba. Al-Zuhri is reported to have said: 'When the apostle saw the women flapping their veils at the horses he looked at Abū Bakr with a smile.'

812. This is part of a longer ode of his.

813. 'Abbās b. Mirdās al-Sulami said:

With us on the day Muhammad entered Mecca
Were a thousand marked men—the valleys flowed with them.
They had helped the apostle and been present at his battles,
Their mark on the day of battle being to the fore.
In a strait place their feet were firm.
They split the enemies' heads like colocynthons.
Their hooves had traversed Najd beforehand
Till at last black Hijāz became subject to them.
God gave him the mastery of it.
The judgment of the sword and victorious fortune subdued it to us.
One old in authority, proud in mien,
Seeking the bounds of glory, exceeding generous.

ABBĀS B. MIRDĀS BECOMES A MUSLIM

According to what an authority on poetry told me the father of 'Abbās had an idol which he used to worship. It was a stone called Dāmāri. One day

1 i.e. with a distinguishing turban or emblem; or the word might mean 'released'
'let go'.
Mirdās said to his son, 'Worship Dāmārī, for it can both help and hurt you.' When 'Abbās was by Dāmārī he heard a voice saying from within it:

Say to all the tribes of Sulaym,
Dāmārī is dead and the people of the mosque do live.
He of Quraysh who has inherited prophecy and guidance
After the Son of Mary is the rightly guided one.
Dāmārī is dead though once he was worshipped
Before scripture came to the prophet Muhammad.

At that 'Abbās burned Dāmārī and joining the prophet became a Muslim.

Ja'ḍa b. 'Abdullah al-Khuza'āt on the day Mecca was entered said:

O Ka'b b. 'Amr, hear a claim that is true
Of death decreed for him on the day of battle,
Decreed for him from everywhere,
That he should die by night weaponless.
We are they whose horses closed up Ghazāl,
And Fajju and Tila!:l we closed up.
We brandished our spears behind the Muslims
In a great army supported by our horses.

Bujayd b. 'Imran al-Khuza'āt said:

God created the clouds to help us,
Heaps of low-lying clouds one above another.
Our migration is in our country where we have
A book which comes from the best of dictators and writers.
For our sakes Mecca's sanctuary was profaned
That we might get revenge with our sharp swords.

814. 'Abbas b. Mirdās said concerning this:

Since you have made Khalīd chief of the army
And promoted him he has become chief indeed
In an army guided by God whose commander you are
By which we smite the wicked with every right.

These two verses belong to an ode of his about the battle of Hunayn which I shall mention later, God willing. [See p. 583.]

815. A traditionist who had it from Ibrāhīm b. Ja'far al-Mahmūdī told me that the apostle said: 'In a dream I swallowed a morsel of dates mixed with butter and enjoyed the taste of it; but some of it stuck in my gullet when I was trying to swallow it and 'Ali thrust in his hand and pulled it out.' Abu Bakr said: 'This is one of the parties you sent out. You will hear tidings which you will like and dislike, and you will send 'Ali to put matters right.' He told me that one of the men escaped and came to the apostle to tell him the news. The apostle asked if anyone opposed Khalīd, and he replied that a fair man of medium height had done so but Khalīd drove him away. Another man tall and of clumsy figure argued with him until the dispute pass and when he asked his men what they could see they said that they saw a force who lay their lances between the ears of their long-flanked steeds. He said that they were B. Sulaym and they had nothing to fear from them. When they came near they took the road at the bottom of the wadi. Next came men with no distinguishing mark carrying their lances at the side. He said that there was nothing to fear: they were Aus and Khazraj. When they came to the bottom of the pass they took the same road as B. Sulaym. Then they said that they saw a horseman long of thigh carrying his lance on his shoulder, his head wrapped in a red cloth. ‘That is al-Zubayr b. al-Awwâm,’ he said, ‘I swear by al-Lat that he will fight you, so stand firm.’ When al-Zubayr came to the foot of the pass he saw them and made for them and kept thrusting at them until he drove them from it.

1 Lit. 'from his earth and his sky'. Cf. Werner Caskell, Das Schicksal in der altarabischen Poesie, Leipzig, 1926, 16 f.

831. An authority on poetry whom I do not suspect told me that Abu ’Amir al-Ash’ārī met ten polytheists, all brothers, on the day of Awtās. One of them attacked and Abu ’Amir fell upon him calling him to Islam, saying, ‘O God, testify against him,’ and he killed him. They began to attack him one by one until he killed nine of them and then he began to fight the tenth calling on God as before. The man cried, ‘O God, do not testify against me,’ and Abu ’Amir let him go and he escaped and afterwards became a good Muslim. When the apostle saw him he said, ‘This is the survivor of Abu ’Amir’s onslaught.’ Two brothers shot Abu ’Amir, al-’Alā and Abu ‘Urayḍ and the homage of Bunayn of B. Jusham b. Ma’mar I; Iunayn: Mu’awiya; Abu was Maymuna d. He said that there was nothing to fear: they were Aus and Khazraj. When they came to the bottom of the pass they took the same road as B. Sulaym. Then they said that they saw a horseman long of thigh carrying his lance on his shoulder, his head wrapped in a red cloth. ‘That is al-Zubayr b. al-Awwâm,’ he said, ‘I swear by al-Lat that he will fight you, so stand firm.’ When al-Zubayr came to the foot of the pass he saw them and made for them and kept thrusting at them until he drove them from it.

832. God sent down concerning the day of Ḥunayn: ‘God gave you victory in many places and on the day of Ḥunayn when you exulted in your multitude’ to the words ‘That is the reward of the unbelievers’ (g. 25).

833. One of the rhapsodists said about it:

The killing of al-‘Alā and Aufā was a calamity, They could not be touched while life was in them. They were the ones who killed Abu ’Amir Who was a sharp sword with wavy marks. They left him on the battlefield As though wrapped in a crimson robe. You have not seen their like among men, Less likely to stumble or better shots.

834. The words ‘covered with dust’ are not from 1.1.

835. Khalaf al-’Aḥmar quoted to me the words ‘And cried Stop!’

836. An authority on poetry recited to me ‘we were his right wing’, &c., but he knew nothing of the verse beginning ‘we carried his banner’. After the line ‘We had charge of the flag’ he recited the line ‘We dyed it with blood’.

837. Abu Ḥayyat told me that Zuhayr b. al-’Ajwa al-Hudhali was taken prisoner at Ḥunayn and handcuffed. Jamil b. Ma’mar al-Jurnah saw him and said, ‘Are you the man who has been acting offensively against us?’, and he struck off his head. Abū Khirāsh, who was his nephew, said in lamenting him:

Jamil b. Ma’mar has half-starved my guests
By killing a generous man to whom widows resorted.
The belt of his sword was long, no short one when he brandished it.
And the cord was loose upon him.
So generous he would almost give away his girdle
When the cold north winds were fierce.
To his tent the poor man went in winter
And the poor night traveller in his worn-out rags
Who goes half-frozen when the night winds blow
Driving him to seek refuge.
What ails the people of the camp that they did not separate
When the eloquent chief had gone?
I swear if you had met him when he was not bound
Hyaenas would have visited you at the mountain foot.
If you had faced him when you met him
And fought him if you are a fighter
Jamil would have met the most ignominious end;
But a man whose hands are bound cannot defend himself.
We were not as we used to be at home, O Umm Thabit,
But chains were round our necks.
The young man like the old man does naught but what is right,
And the women blamers have nothing to say.
Sincere brethren have become as though
One had poured on them the dust of the grave.
But don’t think that I have forgotten the nights in Mecca
When we could not be held back from what we took in hand,
When men were men and the country was famous
And doors were not shut in our faces.

838. It is said that his name was Abū Thawāb Thawāb b. Khalaf al-’Aḥmar quoted me the words ‘Red blood flowed because of our rage’ and the last verse as not from 1.1.

839. Some say 17 days.

840. The apostle shot at them with catapults. One I can trust told me that the apostle was the first to use a catapult in Islam when he fired at the men of Ta’if.

841. It is said that the mother of Dā’ūd was Maymūna d. Abū Sufyān who was married to Abū Murra b. ‘Urwā b. Mas’ūd, and she bore to him Dā’ūd.

1 A frequent cliché for a tall man.

2 S. misses the point here.
Jubab.

Taliq b. Sufyan; and some of the spoil b. Buhtha b. Sulaym.

b. 'Auf b. also.

UQud Yunus al-Naqwi
Ghiinim.

Muqar I1anala: b. Haudha his brother.

clan of the sub-division B.

as governor in Mecca his allowance was a dirham a day. He got up of B.

al-Jarith
Manur: <Abbas
Judhayfa
b. 'Abdu'l-'Uzza and Hisham b. 'Amr b.

b. 'Amir b.

b. Nufatha b. 'Adiy b. ai-Oil.

Sa'awa Yamar Talia;

'Amir 'Ulath'
with his sword
Jarb;

Abu <Amir al-Jarith
thus:

'Asad:
b. Lu'ayy:
insolently gathered their adherents.

b. Asid.

Kab:

Uhayna
b. Mirdas came to the apostle who
Babis
Iarrnala a on the day of
b. 'Amir b. Kalada, and it may be that his name was al-

An1ar, Judhun
his brother; Hisham b. al-Walid b.

b. Mirdas came to the apostle who
Babis
arrnala a on the day of
b. 'Amir b. Kalada, and it may be that his name was al-

An1ar, Judhun
his brother; Hisham b. al-Walid b.

I

b. Nufatha b. 'Adiy b. ai-Oil.

Sa'awa Yamar Talia;

'Amir 'Ulath'
with his sword
Jarb;

Abu <Amir al-Jarith
thus:

'Asad:
b. Lu'ayy:
insolently gathered their adherents.

b. Asid.

Kab:

Uhayna
b. Mirdas came to the apostle who
Babis
Iarrnala a on the day of
b. 'Amir b. Kalada, and it may be that his name was al-

An1ar, Judhun
his brother; Hisham b. al-Walid b.

b. Mirdas came to the apostle who
Babis
arrnala a on the day of
b. 'Amir b. Kalada, and it may be that his name was al-

An1ar, Judhun
his brother; Hisham b. al-Walid b.
and addressed the people in these words: ‘God make hungry the liver of a man who is hungry on a dirham a day! The apostle has allowed me a dirham every day and I have no need of any one.’

853. The apostle arrived in Medina on 24th Dhū’l-Qa’dā according to what ‘Amr al-Madani alleged.

854. Another version is Al-Ma’mūr (the one under orders). The words ‘Tell me plainly’ are not from Ibn Iṣḥāq. An authority on poetry quoted me the lines thus:

Who will give Bujayr a message from me:
Do you accept what I said at the mountain foot?
You have drunk with al-Ma’mūn a full cup
And he has added a second draught of the same.
You have gone against true guidance and followed him.
Woe to you, to what has he led you?
To a religion your parents knew naught of
And your brother has naught to do with.
If you don’t accept what I say I shall not grieve
Nor say if you stumble God help you!

He sent this to Bujayr, and when he received it he did not like to hide it from the apostle so he recited it to him. When he heard the words ‘Al-Ma’mūn has given you a full cup’ he said, ‘That is true and he is the liar! I am al-Ma’mūn’; and when he heard the words ‘A religion your parents knew naught of’ he said, ‘Certainly, his father and mother did not follow it.’

855. Or al-Ma’mūr.

856. Ka’b composed this ode after he came to the apostle at Medina. His verses ‘The qurāḍ crawls over her’ and ‘Onagerlike is she’ and ‘She lets a tail’ and ‘When he springs on his adversary’ and ‘Albeit ever in his wadi’ are not on the authority of I. I.

857. It is said that the apostle said to him when he recited to him ‘Su’āḍ is gone’, ‘Why didn’t you speak well of the Anṣār, for they deserve such mention?’ So Ka’b spoke these words in an ode of his. I was told that ‘Ali b. Zayd b. Judān said that Ka’b recited ‘Su’āḍ has gone’ to the apostle in the mosque.

858. A trustworthy person told me on the authority of Muhammad b. Ṭalḥa b. ‘Abdul’-Rahmān from Iṣḥāq b. Ibrāhīm b. ‘Abdullāh b. Ḥāritha from his father from his grandfather: The apostle heard that the hypocrites were assembling in the house of Suwaylim the Jew (his house was by Jāsām) keeping men back from the apostle in the raid on Tabūk. So the prophet sent Ṭalḥa b. ‘Ubaydullāh with a number of his friends to them with orders to burn Suwaylim’s house down on them. Ṭalḥa did so, and al-Dahhāk b. Khalfān threw himself from the top of the house and broke his leg, and his friends rushed out and escaped. Al-Dahhāk said concerning that:

By God’s temple Muhammad’s fire
Almost burnt Dahhāk and Ibn ‘Ubayriq.

I had gone to the top of Suwaylim’s house
And I crawled away on one whole leg and my elbow.
My salaams to you, I’ll never do the like again
I’m afraid. He whom fire surrounds is burned.

859. A trustworthy person told me that ‘Uthmān spent on the raiding force a thousand dinars. The apostle said, ‘O God, be pleased with ‘Uthmān for I am pleased with him.’

861. Abū Khaythama (his name was Mālik b. Qays) said:

When I saw men hypocritical in religion
I undertook that which is more chaste and nobler.
And I pledged my fealty to Muhammad.
And did no sin or wrong.
I left the dyed one in the hut
Where dates had ripened and camels were full of milk.
When the hypocrite doubted my soul
Flowed gently to the religion following wherever it led.

862. I have heard that al-Zuhri said: When the apostle passed by al-Hijr he covered his face with his cloak and urged his camel on saying, ‘Do not go among the houses of those who sinned unless you are riding fast for fear that you may meet with the fate that befell them.’

863. Others say I. Luṣayb. [T. also has this reading, so that an early scribe is probably at fault.]

864. Some say Makhshīy.

865. He was called Dhū’l-Bijādāyn because when he broke away to Islam his people tried to stop him and so persecuted him that they left him with only one garment upon him. (The bijād is a coarse rough wrapper.) He fled from them to the apostle, and when he came near he rent his bijād into two parts, girding his middle with one and wrapping himself in the other. Then he came to the apostle and was called ‘He of the two garments’. Bijād also means a cloak of black hair, as in the words of Iμrū’l-Qays:

And when at first its misty shroud bore down on Abān’s top
He stood like an ancient man in a grey-streaked mantle wrapped.

866. Or ‘than their eyesight’.

867. Bi-faṭrīnā is the same as bi-faṭrīnā.

868. Latubkayanna is not from I. I. [This is a most interesting note. Obviously I. I. is querying only the one word, and in T. we have ala’bkiyan which must be right. The doggerel is in the familiar ‘I’m the king of the castle’ mould which seems to have been frequently used by women when uttering taunts. The translation is no worse than the original.]
Ibn Hishām's Notes

785 brotherhood Mu’āwiya took what he left as his heir. Al-Farazdaq said to Mu’āwiya:

Your father and my uncle, O Mu’āwiya, left an inheritance
So that his next of kin might inherit it.

But how come you to devour the estate of al-Ḥutāt
When the sold estate of Ḥarb was melting in your hand?

879. Another version is:

From us kings are born and we take the fourth and
From every land submissively, so we are obeyed.

One of the B. Ṭānim recited it to me, but most authorities on poetry deny al-Zibriqān’s authorship.

880. Abū Zayd quoted the verse thus:

Everyone whose heart is devout
Approves of it and the thing they have begun.

An authority on poetry among B. Ṭānim told me that when al-Zibriqān came with the deputation to the apostle he got up and said:

We have come to you that men may know our superiority
Whenever they gather at the fairs
That we are the foremost in every field
And that none in al-Ḥijāz are like Darīm.
That we put champions to flight in their arrogance
And smite the heads of the proud and powerful.
Ours is the fourth part in every raid
In Najd or in foreign lands.

Then ʿAssān got up and answered him saying:

Is glory aught but ancient lordship and generosity
The dignity of kings and the bearing of great burdens?
We helped and sheltered the prophet Muhammad
Whether Ma’add liked it or not
In a unique tribe whose root and wealth
Is in Jābiyyatul-Jaulān among the foreigners.
We helped him when he dwelt among us
Against every wrongful aggressor.
We put our sons and daughters before him
And we were pleased to forgo the spoils for his sake.'
We smote men with our sharp swords
Until they flocked to his religion
And we begat the greatest of Quraysh. 1
We begat the prophet of good of Hashim’s line.
Do not boast, O Bani Dārim, for your boast
Will turn to shame when noble deeds are mentioned.
Curse you, would you boast against us
When you are our servants, half wet-nurses and half slaves?
If you’ve come to save your lives and property
Lest they be divided as booty,
Then give not God an equal and embrace Islam
And do not dress like foreigners.

881. There is another verse which we have omitted because it is obscene.
882. Another version is ‘O boil like the boils of a camel and death in the house of a Salōtī woman!’

883. Zayd b. Aslam from ’Ata‘ b. Yasār from I. ‘Abbās said: God sent down concerning ’Amir and Arbad: ‘God knows what every female carries, what the wombs keep small and what grows larger’ as far as the words ‘and they have no friend against Him.’ He said, ‘The mu‘aqibāt are those who “by God’s order” protect Muhammad.’ Then He mentioned Arbad and how God killed him and said ‘And He sends thunderbolts and He smites whom He will’ as far as the words ‘powerful in device’ (13. 9–14).

884. His verse ‘Who spoiled the spoiler’ is on the authority of Ābu ’Ubayda and his verse ‘Liberal when times were bad’ has not I. I.’s authority.
885. The last verse has not I. I.’s authority. [It is to be found in Die Geschichte des Labīd, ed. C. Brockelmann, Leiden, 1891, p. 2, with some variants.]
886. These two verses are part of a larger poem of his [ed. Chālīdī, pp. 15 f.]
887. al-Jarūd b. Bishr b. al-Mu‘allā was in the deputation. He was a Christian.
888. Another report is that he said, ‘I am done with him who does not pronounce the shahādā.’
889. Musaylima b. Thumāma surnamed Ābu Thumāma.
890. Or al-Haushiya [in Najd].
891. Mālik b. Ḥarīm al-Hamdanī was the leader on that day.

892. The first verse and the words ‘If we conquer’ are from someone other than I. I. [It is not cited by T., a fact which might perhaps indicate that it was added by an interpolator.]
893. Ābu ’Ubayda quoted me the line thus: ‘Hoping for its welfare and the praise of it.’

1 Through the prophet’s great-grandmother. v.s.

894. Ābu ’Ubayda recited the verse to me thus:
I gave you an order on the day of Dhū Ṣā‘ī.
I ordered you to fear God, to come to Him and accept His promise,
But you were like a little donkey
Whose lust beguiled him away.

He did not know the rest of the poem. [Five more verses are given by T. (1733 f.).]
895. The word bithafri is on Ābu ’Ubayda’s authority.

896. Al-Asb’āth was a son of ‘the eater of bitter herbs’ on his mother’s side. The eaters were al-Ḥarīth b. ’Āmr b. Ḥujr b. Ṣumā’iyya b. Ḥarīth b. Mu‘āwiyya b. Thaur b. Murattī b. Mu‘āwiyya b. Kindi or Kinda. He was given this name because ‘Āmr b. al-Ḥabūlā al-Ghassānī raided them when al-Ḥarīth was away and plundered and took captives. Among the latter was Umm Unās d. ’Ā’īf b. Muhāllam al-Shaybānī, wife of al-Ḥarīth b. ’Āmr. On the way she said to ’Āmr: ‘Methinks I see a black man with blubber lips like those of a camel eating bitter herbs who has seized thy neck,’ meaning al-Ḥarīth. So he was called ‘the eater of bitter herbs’. Murdr are plants. Then al-Ḥarīth followed him with B. Bakr b. Wā’il, overtook him and killed him and delivered his wife, and what he had seized. Al-Ḥarīth b. Ḥilīzā al-Yashkūrī said to ’Āmr b. al-Mundhir who was ‘Āmr b. Ḥind al-Lakhmī:
We forced you, lord of Ghassān, to pay for (killing) Mundhir
While the blood that was shed could not be measured;
because al-Ḥarīth al-‘laj al-Ghassānī had killed his father al-Mundhir.
The verse occurs in an ode of his. This story is too long for me to relate as I have avoided proximity. Some say the eater of bitter herbs was Ḥujr b. ’Āmr b. Mu‘āwiyya who is the subject of this story, and got the name because he and his companions ate this herb on this raid.

897. THE COMING OF THE DEPUTATION OF HAMDĀN

According to what a trustworthy authority told me from ’Āmr b. ’Abdullah b. Udhayna al-‘Abdī from Abū Ishaq al-Sab‘āyī a deputation from Hamdān among whom were Mālik b. Namat, and Abū Thaur Dhū l-Qa‘abār, and Mālik b. Ayfa’, and Ǧumām b. Mālik al-Salmānī, and ’Amra b. Mālik al-Ḫārīfī came and met the apostle on his return from Tabūk, wearing robes of Yaman cloth, and turbans of Aden, with wooden saddles on Mahris and Afḥāf camels. Mālik b. Namat and another man were the ṭaraj singing of the people, one of them saying:

Hamdān has the best of princes and of subjects;
It has no equal in the universe.
High is its position, and from it come
Warriors and chiefs with godly wealth therein.

1 A.Dh. is wrong in saying that this word (dīlā) means ‘what kings take from their subjects.’ See Lane.
While the other responded:

Camels haltered with ropes of palm
Pass through land knowing water’s balm.
The dust of summer does no harm.

This Malik stood before the apostle and said, ‘O apostle of God, the choicest of Haradän’s settled and nomad folk have come to you on fine swift camels, linked by the cords of Islam. No blame so far as God is concerned attaches to them from the district of Khairif and Yâm and Shâkîr the camel and horse folk. They have answered the apostle’s call and have withdrawn from the goddesses and sacrificial stones. Their word will not be broken while stands Mount La‘la’ and while the young hart runs on Sâla’.’

The apostle wrote a letter for them: ‘To the district of Khairif and the people of the high country and the sand hills with their envoy Dhu’l-Mish‘âr Malik b. Namât and those of his people who are Muslims. Theirs is the high ground and the low ground so long as they perform prayer and pay alms; they may eat its fodder and pasture on its herbage. For this they have God’s promise and the guarantee of His apostle and their witnesses are the emigrants and the helpers.’

Malik b. Namât said concerning this:

I remembered the apostle in the darkness of the night
When we were above Râhrahân and Sâdad
While the camels tired with sunken eyes
Carried their riders on a far-stretching road.
Strong, long-striding camels
Carried us along like well-fed ostriches.
I swear by the Lord of the camels that run to Minâ
Returning with riders from a lofty height
That the apostle of God is held true among us,
An apostle who comes with guidance from the Lord of the throne.
No camel has ever carried one more fierce
Against his enemies than Muhammad,
Nor more generous to one who comes asking for kindness,
Nor more effective with the edge of his sharp sword.

900. The apostle had sent some of his companions as messengers carrying letters to the kings inviting them to Islam. One in whom I have confidence on the authority of Abû Bakr al-Hudhâli told me: ‘It reached me that the apostle went out one day after his ’umra from which he had been excluded on the day of al-Hudaybiya and said ‘God has sent me as a mercy to all men, so do not hang back from me as the disciples hung back from Jesus son of Mary.’ They asked how they had hung back and he said: ‘He called them to that to which I have called you. Those who were sent on a near mission were satisfied and content; those who were sent on a distant mission showed their displeasure and took it as a burden, and Jesus complained of that to God. Every one of them the next morning became able to speak the language of the people to whom they were sent.’

901. Another version is ‘the colour of gold’.

902. Some say the names were Quarra b. Ashfar al-Difîrî and Ḥâyân b. Milla.

903. Or al-‘Aţnaf.

904. The words ‘with no hope of an easy release’ and ‘circumstances . . . her release’ are not from I.I.

905. Or b. Râzîm.

906. ‘Abdullah b. Unays said about that:
I left Ibn Thaur like a young camel
Surrounded by mourning women cutting their shirts into strips.
When the women were behind me and behind him
I fetched him a stroke with a sharp Indian sword
Which could bite into the heads of armoured men
As a flame burns up the tinder.
I said to him as the sword bit into his head:
I am Ibn Unays, no mean horseman;
I am the son of one who never removed his cooking-pot.
No niggard he—wide was the space before his door.
I said to him, ‘Take that with the blow of a noble man
Who turns to the religion of the prophet Muhammad.’
Whenever the prophet gave thought to an unbeliever
I got to him first with tongue and hand.

907. About that al-Farazdaq said:
Ibn Hâbis in the presence of the apostle took the high place
Of one who is resolved on gaining glory.

1 As will be seen in the text T. arranges the list of the messengers in a different order.
Why I.I. should have disturbed I.I.’s account and put it in his own name is obscure.
As has been explained in a footnote to W. 972, the expression id takhtallfu ‘alayya may mean ‘do not differ in your response to me’.
The Life of Muhammad

For him (Muhammad) released the prisoners in his ropes
Whose necks were encircled by halters.
He spared the mothers who feared for their sons
The high price of ransom or the division of the captives into shares.

These verses are in one of his odes. 'Adiy b. Jundub was of B. al-'Anbar. Al-'Anbar was b. 'Amr b. Tamim.

908. According to Abū 'Ubayda the name was al-Ḫuraqa.

909. Abū 'Amr b. al-‘Ala read this passage with a slight orthographical addition.

910. Mukaytil.

911. Muhallim in all this story is not on I.I.'s authority. He was Muhallim b. Jaththama b. Qays al-Laythi. Mulajjam, according to what Ziyād told us from I.I.

912. And he set forth for Dāmatu'l-Jandal.

913. The Sending of 'Amr b. Umayya al-Ḍāmrī to Kill Abū Ṣufyān b. Ḥarb and What He Did on the Way

Among the missions and expeditions which the apostle sent out which Ibn Iṣāq does not record is the mission of 'Amr b. Umayya al-Ḍāmrī, whom the apostle sent to Mecca—according to what a trustworthy traditionist told me—after the killing of Khubayb b. Adiy and his companions, so that they should circumambulate the temple and pray and then came away making for Medina. We passed by some guards who were watching the corpse of Khubayb b. Adiy when one of them said, 'By God, I have never seen before tonight anything more like the gait of 'Amr b. Umayya; were it not that he is in Medina I should have said that it was he.' When he came in face of the gallows he ran to it and took it and carried it away, and the two of them hurried off, while they (the guards) came behind him, until he came to a hollow in the cliff at the ravine of Ya'jaj where he threw the gallows into the hollow and God hid him from them while they could do nothing. I said to my companion, 'Escape! Escape! until you get to your camel and mount it while I occupy the men so that they cannot hinder you,' for the Anṣār could hardly walk.

I went on until I came out at Dajnān; then I betook me to a mountain and entered a cave. While I was there suddenly an old man of B. al-Dīl, a one-eyed man, came in with a young sheep and asked who I was. I told him I was of B. Bakr and he said he was too. I said 'Welcome,' and as he stretched himself out he lifted up his voice and said:

I won't be a Muslim as long as I live
Nor heed to their religion give.

I said to myself 'You will soon know!' I gave him time until when he was asleep I took my bow and inserted the end of it in his sound eye and bore down upon it until it reached the bone. Then I hurried off until I came to al-ʿArj, then Rakuba until I dropped down to al-Naqf where there were two polytheists of Quraysh who had been sent as spies to Medina. I called on them to surrender but they refused, so I shot one and killed him and the other surrendered. I bound him tightly and took him to Medina.

914. Zayd b. Haritha's Expedition to Madyan

This is recorded by 'Abdullah b. Hasan b. Hasan from his mother Fātima d. al-Husayn b. 'Ali. Zayd was accompanied by Dumayr, a client of 'Ali's, and a brother of his. They took several captives from the people of Mina' which is on the shore, a mixed lot among them. They were sold as slaves and families were separated. The apostle arrived as they were weeping and inquired the reason. When he was told he said, 'Sell them only in lots', meaning the mothers with the children.

915. I have heard that when he went on the little pilgrimage he uttered the cry 'Labbayka' in the vale of Mecca. He was the first to enter Mecca with the cry. Quraysh seized him and exclaimed at his audacity. They were about to strike off his head when one of them said, 'Let him alone, for you have need of al-Yamāma for your food' so they let him go his way.

---

1 This statement implies that the MS. which I.H. had contained no account of these happenings, but the extract from Tab. 1437 f. which I have restored to the text gives a graphic description on the authority of I.I. S. also points out that I.H. is in error in saying that I.I. does not report the story.

---

1 A mountain near Mecca.
2 A place on the Mecca road. The name is also given to a wadi in the Hijaz.
3 A pass between the two fortams.
4 In Muṣayna country about two nights' journey from Medina.
Concerning this al-Ḥanafi said:

It was our man who said publicly in Mecca in the sacred months 'labbayka' despite Abū Sufyān.

I was told that when he became a Muslim he said to the apostle: 'Your face used to be the most hateful to me, but now it is the most beloved.' He spoke similarly about (his) religion and country. Then he went on the little pilgrimage, and when he came to Mecca they said, 'Have you changed your religion, Thumāma? 'No,' he said, 'but I follow the best religion, the religion of Muhammad; and by God not a grain of corn will reach you from al-Yamāma until the apostle gives permission.' He went back to al-Yamāma and prevented them from sending anything to Mecca. Then the people wrote to the apostle: 'You order that ties of kinship should be observed, yet you sever those with us; you have killed the fathers with the sword and the children with hunger.' So the apostle wrote to him to let the carriage of food go on.

916. Abū 'Amr al-Madani said: The apostle sent 'Ali to the Yaman and sent Khalīd b. al-Walid with another force and ordered that when the forces met 'Ali was to be in supreme command. I. I. mentioned the sending of Khalīd in his account, but he did not reckon it among the missions and expeditions so that the number of them in his account ought to be 39.

917. This is the last mission which the apostle dispatched.

THE APOSTLE'S WIVES

They were nine: 'Ā'isha d. Abū Bakr; Ḥafṣa d. 'Umar; Umm Ḥabibah d. Abū Sufyān; Umm Salama d. Abū Umayyah b. al-Mughīra; Sauda d. Zama'a b. Qays; Zaynab d. Jahsh b. Rī'ab; Maymūna d. al-Ḥārith b. Ḥażn; Juwayriya d. al-Ḥārith b. Abū Dirār; and Ṣafīyah d. Ḥuyay b. Akhtab according to what more than one traditionist has told me.

He married thirteen women: Khadija d. Khuraylid, his first wife whom her father Khunaylīd b. Asad, or according to others her brother 'Amr, married to him. The apostle gave her as dowry twenty she-camels. She bare all the apostle's children except Ibrahim. She had been previously married to a cousin of hers called 'Abdullah. It is said that the apostle bought her from al-Mughīra and ordered him to guard her. When the apostle reached Medina he married her to him and the apostle gave her four hundred dirhams. She had been previously married to Zayd b. Ḥāritha, the freed slave of the apostle, and it was about her that God sent down: 'So when Zayd had done as he wished in divorcing her We married her to you.'

He married Umm Salama d. Abū Umayyah b. al-Mughīra al-Makhzūmiyya. Her name was Hind. Her son Salama b. Abū Salama married her to him and the apostle gave her a bed stuffed with palm-leaves, a bowl, a dish, and a handmill. She had been married to Abū Salama b. 'Abdul-Asad whose name was 'Abdullah. She had borne him Salama, 'Umar, Zaynab, and Ruqayya.

He married Ḥafṣa d. 'Umar with her father's consent and the apostle gave her four hundred dirhams. She had been married to Khunays b. Ḥudhayfah al-Sa'diyya.

He married Umm Ḥabibah whose name was Ramla d. Abū Sufyān. Khalid b. Sa'īd b. al-Ās married her to him when they were both in Abyssinia and the Negus gave her on behalf of the apostle four hundred dinars. It was he who arranged the marriage for the apostle. She had been married to 'Ubaydullāh b. Ḥaḍhafa al-Asadi.

He married Juwayriya d. al-Ḥārith b. Abū Dirār al-Khuṣaiyya who was among the captives of B. Muṣṭaliq of Khuzā'ā. She had fallen to the lot of 'Abdallāh b. Sharmās al-Anṣāri and he wrote a contract of redemption which she brought to the apostle asking his help. He asked her if she would like something better than that, and when she asked what that could be he said, 'Shall I rid you of the contract and marry you myself?' She said Yes, and so he married her. This tradition was given us by Ziyād b. 'Abdullāh b. al-Bakā'ī from Muhammad b. Iṣāqī from Muhammad b. Ja'far b. al-Zubayr from 'Urwa from 'Ā'isha.

It is said that when the apostle came back from the raid on B. al-Muṣṭaliq with Juwayriya and was in the midst of the army he gave Juwayriya to one of the Anṣāri and ordered him to guard her. When the apostle reached Medina her father al-Ḥārith came to him with his daughter's ransom. When he was in al-'Aqīq he had looked at the camels which he had brought for the ransom and admired two of them greatly, so he hid them in one of the passes of al-'Aqīq. Then he came to the prophet saying, 'Here is my daughter's ransom.' The apostle said: 'But where are the two camels which you hid in al-'Aqīq in such-and-such a pass?' Al-Ḥārith said, 'I testify that there is no God but Allah and that you are the apostle of God, for by God none could have known of that but God most High'; so he became a Muslim, as did two of his sons who were with him and some of his people. He sent and fetched the two camels and handed them over to the prophet and his daughter Juwayriya was given back to him. She became an excellent Muslim. The apostle asked her father to let him marry her and he agreed and the apostle gave her four hundred dirhams. She had been previously married to a cousin of hers called 'Abdullah. It is said that the apostle bought her from Thābit b. Qays, freed her, married her, and gave her four hundred dirhams.

He married Ṣafīyah d. Ḥuyay b. Akhtab whom he had captured at Khaybar

---

1 Sūra 33: 37.
2 This comment refers to what I. I. reported on W., p. 729.
The Life of Muhammad

19. Another tradition is 'except Abū Bakr's door'.

940. Abū 'Ubayda and other traditionists told me that when the apostle was dead most of the Meccans meditated withdrawing from Islam and made up their minds to do so. 'Abdāb b. Asid4 went in such fear of them that he hid himself. Then Suhayl b. 'Amir arose and after giving thanks to God mentioned the death of the apostle and said, 'That will increase Islam in force.

Notes

1 Presumably because she was a Jewess and would eat only kosher meat.
2 Sura 33: 49.
3 The genealogies which have already been given are omitted.
4 He was governor of Mecca when the prophet died.
He led to the Compassionate those who imitated him,
Delivering from the terror of shame and guiding aright,
Their imam guiding them to the truth with vigour.
A truthful teacher, to obey him was felicity,
Pardoning their lapses, accepting their excuses.
And if they did well God is most generous in recompense.
If misfortune befell too heavy for them to bear
From him came the easing of their difficulty.
He was anxious that they should go on the right path.
He sympathized with them one and all 1
In his kindness he smoothed their path.
But while they enjoyed that light
Suddenly death's arrow hit its mark
And sent the praised one back to God
While the very angels wept and praised him. 2
The holy land became desolate
At the loss of the revelation it once knew:
Deserts uninhabited save the grave in which our lost one descended Whom Balâ‘ and Gharqad 3 and his mosque mourn.
In those places desolate, now he is gone,
Are places of prayer devoted to him,
And at the great stoning place there dwellings and open spaces,
Encampment, and birthplace are desolate.
O eye, weep the apostle of God copiously,
May I never find you with your tears dried!
Why do you not weep the kindly one
Whose bounteous robe covered all men?
Be generous with your tears and cries
At the loss of him whose equal will ne'er be found.
Those gone by never lost one like Muhammad
And one like him will not be mourned till Resurrection Day
More gentle and faithful to obligation after obligation;
More prone to give without thought of any return;
More lavish with wealth newly gained and inherited.
When a generous man would grudge giving what had long been his.
More noble in reputation when claims are examined;
More noble in princely Meccan ancestry; 4
More inaccessible in height and established in eminence
Founded on enduring supports,
Firmer in root and branch and wood
Which rain nourished making it full of life.

1 Or 'not preferring one to another'.
2 Another reading is 'the unseen angels' (jinn) and yahyadh. But perhaps jafn should be read here for haqq. 'The eyes of the angels', etc.
3 Balâ‘ lay between the mosque and the market of Medina, while Gharqad was its cemetery. A.Dh. renders 'plane and box-tree'.
4 Lit. 'valley ancestry'. The valley-dwellers of Quraysh were regarded as the aristocracy.

Ibn Hishâm's Notes:
A glorious Lord brought him up as a boy
And he became perfect in most virtuous deeds.
To his knowledge the Muslims resorted;
No knowledge was withheld and no opinion was gainsaid.
I say, and none can find fault with me
But one lost to all sense,
I shall never cease to praise him.
It may be for so doing I shall be for ever in Paradise
With the chosen one for whose support in that I hope
And to attain to that day I devote all my efforts.

Hassân also said:
What ails thine eye that it cannot sleep
As though its ducts were painted with the kohl of one suffering from ophthalmia
In grief for the guided one who lies dead?
O best man that ever walked the earth, leave us not!
Alas, would that my face might protect thee from the dust,
That I had been buried before thee in Baqi‘ul-Gharqad!
Dearer than father and mother is he whose death I saw
On that Monday—the truly guided prophet.
When he died I lost my wits distracted,
Would that I had ne'er been born!
Am I to go on living in Medina without you?
Would that I had been given snake poison to drink;
Or that God's decree would reach us soon,
Tonight or at least tomorrow;
That our hour might come and we might meet the good,
The pure in nature, the man of noble descent!
O blessed firstborn of Amina
Whom that chaste one bore on the happiest of days!
He shed a light on all creatures,
He who is guided to the blessed light is rightly guided.
O Lord, unite us with our prophet in a garden
That turns away the eyes of the envious,
In the garden of Paradise. Inscribe it for us,
O Lord of Majesty, Loftiness, and Power.
By God as long as I live I shall not hear of the dead
But I shall weep for the prophet Muhammad.
Alas for the prophet's Helpers and kin
After he has been hidden in the midst of the grave.
The land became too strait for the Ansâr,
Their faces were black as antimony.
We gave him his ancestors, 5 his grave is with us,
His overflowing goodness to us is undeniable.
God honoured and guided us his Helpers by him
In every hour that he was present.

5 By way of the mother of 'Abdu'l-Muttalib, Salmâ b. 'Amr b. Labid b. Hallâs of B. Najjâr.
God and those who surround His throne and good men
Bless the blessed Ahmad.¹

922. The last half of the first verse has not I.I.'s authority.

¹ It is worth noting that the verse

The Christians and Jews of Yathrib rejoiced
When he was laid in his grave included in I.I.'s Diwan (cxxxii) without comment is not to be found in any MS. of I.I., not in C. or W. or Suhayl's text. It may well be condemned as a later addition. W. (iii, pp. liv–lv) held that I.I.'s text of Ijassan's poems was superior to the Diwan which has been published several times since his day but never with the care it deserves. W.'s judgement still stands.

ADDENDA

p. 28, n. 1. I have discussed the significance of this story in the The Islamic Quarterly, 1954, pp. 9 f.

p. 30, l. 13. For the text of Sabean inscriptions recently discovered in Su'aidi Arabia see G. Ryckmans in Musilin, lxi, 1955, pp. 267–317; and for an historical commentary on the same ib., pp. 319–42. Professor Sidney Smith, 'Events in Arabia in the 6th century a.d.', in B.S.O.A.S., 1954, pp. 425–68, has discussed all that Greek, Syriac, Sabean, and Arabic authorities report. So far as the Arabic writers are concerned, his verdict is that their account 'is not incompatible with the known facts'.

p. 65, n. 3. 'The Meccan editor of al-Azraqi (ii. 176 and 179) throws no light on the confusion.

p. 88, l. 14. I have adopted the reading of C. against W. in spite of the introduction to the verse.

p. 106, l. 13 from end. The last three verses are reminiscent of the Qur'an, as are the lines beginning 'I submit myself' on p. 102, l. 28.

p. 189, pen. Perhaps what 'Umar said was '(The birds) must be ostriches' (na'ama), and the prophet immediately punned on the word by saying an'ama.

p. 181. I have shown in Al-Andalus, xviii, 1953, pp. 323–36, that the Masjid al-Aqṣā was not at Jerusalem but at al-Jirāna, a place within the sacred area of Mecca.

p. 191, l. 11. For 'protection' read 'neighbourliness'.

p. 226, l. 6 from end. Dhū Kashr is correct. See Yāqūt, iv. 276 ult. W. has Dhū Kashd.

p. 233, l. 16 and 18. The host has only a limited control over his ally (halif), who is his equal, but the sojourner (jād) is his dependant and he is responsible for his acts because he has authority over him. Cf. p. 723.

p. 238, l. 11. Azraqi, ii. 118, who says that Ibn 'Abbās was frequently seen to visit Širmā as he repeated this poem, apparently knew no more than seven lines corresponding roughly to 1–3 and 6–9 in I.I.'s version and to No. XIX in Hirschfeld's edition of the Divān of Ḥassān b. Thābit. I.H. in his note No. 291 says that lines 12 and 13 were not composed by Širmā but by a certain Taghhibite called Šūraym b. Ma'shar. He accepts lines 4–5 and 10–12 without comment. Azraqi's version is complete in itself. It falls into the pattern of Anṣārī propaganda; it shows how the Medinans welcomed Muhammad when Quraysh (Hirschfeld's 'Mecca' violates the scansion) spurned him, and how they devoted their lives and their wealth to his service. Thus the history of this poem illustrates what has been said on pp. xxvi f. about Anṣārī propaganda and about poems fathered on Ḥassān.

p. 384, l. 7 from end. W. has 'Abdullah b. Dāyf. Authorities differ.
INDEX OF PROPER NAMES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page Numbers</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Abān b. Sa‘īd</td>
<td>503, 526</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. ‘Umar b. Sa‘īd</td>
<td>215</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abūrahīma</td>
<td>20–30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abū Ṣa‘īd, al (L)</td>
<td>591</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abūwā, al (L)</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abūyān, al (L)</td>
<td>6, 98, 302</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>‘Ahdhirūḥ (L)</td>
<td>607</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Afāk, abu (P)</td>
<td>675</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥlaṯwārd, W.</td>
<td>404</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥbābūsh, 171</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥmad, abu b. Jāsh (P)</td>
<td>215–16, 230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥdā’a b. Mālik (P)</td>
<td>639, 784</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥkādar, al (L)</td>
<td>608</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥnas, al, b. Ṣaḥrīq</td>
<td>142, 158, 164</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥtāl, al (P)</td>
<td>715</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥkām b. al-‘Awn al-Khuzā‘ (L)</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥmād (L)</td>
<td>8, 226, 245</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥmān d. Abū Sulaymān</td>
<td>389</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— d. Wāḥib, 68–73</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥnas b. ‘Abbās al-Sulamān (P)</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. Rāfī‘, 197</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. Zūrāymin (P)</td>
<td>559</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>‘Aqra‘ b. ‘Ābās al-Sulamān (P)</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥrād, al (L)</td>
<td>188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥrād b. Qays</td>
<td>631–4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥrīq (L)</td>
<td>379</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥrūd d. ‘Abdul-Muttalib (P)</td>
<td>76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥrūyāt, 18, 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥṣād, B. (T)</td>
<td>568</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. ‘Ubayyadh, 94, 263, 463</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A‘ṣṣād b. Zu‘rārā‘, 190, 200, 205, 346</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥshā, al, b. Qays b. Thalā‘ba (P)</td>
<td>34, 39, 44, 683, 700, 710, 720, 722, 724, 733, 734, 736, 737, 765, 769</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥshā, al, B. Zu‘rārā‘, al-Tamimā (P)</td>
<td>424</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥṣām b. Abjar</td>
<td>657</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥṣāth, al, b. Qays</td>
<td>641, 787</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aḥṣād b. ‘Ubayyadh</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aṣīn, M.</td>
<td>xx</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aṣma‘ d. Mawwān (P)</td>
<td>675–6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— d. ‘Umayyadh, 680</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aṣwād, al, b. ‘Abdu Yaghūth, 181, 187</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— B. (T), 590</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. Kūr‘b al-‘Anfī, 648</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. al-Muṭrālib, 119, 165, 187, 311</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— b. Yā‘qūb, 203</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aṭṭār, b. al-Muṣawwar (P)</td>
<td>589</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aṭṭār, al (L)</td>
<td>577</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aṭṭār, al (T)</td>
<td>38, 39, 197, 230, 262, 343, 463, 483, 499, 508</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>— Allah (T), 230</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1 I am grateful to Dr. J. M. B. Jones and Miss Avril Barnett for help in the compiling of the Indexes.
Index of Proper Names

Index of Proper Names
ISNÁD INDEX

Abū b. Sulāb, 531, 553.

Al'ājah, al, (II).

Am'ād b. 'Abd b. Bakr, 99, 244, 225, 548.

— d. Shāqī, 552.

— d. 'Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb, xlii, xlv, 158, 287, 323, 592, 659, 672, 678, 763 (II).

— d. 'Utba, 655.

— d. Zarnā, 681.

— al-Zubayr, 379, 383.

— d. 'Abdul-Malik b. 'Abdullāh, 177.

— Rashīd, 53.

— Ubayyūdāllāh, 103.

— d. 'Abdul-Rahmān, 466.

— d. 'Abdul-Rahmān, 596.

— d. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar, 771 (IH).

— d. 'Abdul-Rahmān b. 'Abdul-Rahmān, 466.

— d. 'Abdul-Rahmān b. 'Abdul-Rahmān, 681.

— d. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar, 771 (IH).

— Jājrāsh, 517.

— Mūsā b. 'Abdul-Hādīd, 441, 267, 317.

— d. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar, 771 (IH).

— Jājrāsh, 517.

— Mūsā b. 'Abdul-Hādīd, 441, 267, 317.

— d. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar, 771 (IH).

— Jājrāsh, 517.

— Mūsā b. 'Abdul-Hādīd, 441, 267, 317.

— d. 'Abdullāh b. 'Umar, 771 (IH).

— Jājrāsh, 517.